Artists Invited To Enter Contest

Entries must be submitted by July 16 to Saunders Publishing Company, 612 S. Dal Paso, Hobbs, N.M. They will be displayed July 17 through July 31 in United Bank of Lea County, 200 E. Broadway in Hobbs.

A duplication of the winning entry will be printed on the cover of the 1986-87 Tri-County Directory. There will also be a cover story about the artist.

THERE'S SOMETHING MISSING IN THIS PICTURE...Plains Independent School District recently had the old building, that sat in front of the school on Brownfield Highway, torn down and the lot cleared, in an effort to improve the appearance of school grounds. The old building, belonging to the school, will be long remembered for the number of different businesses it has housed through the years.

THE PLAINS PRIDE PRESENTS two and one half year old Becky Linee Wilmeth and six-month-old April Tulane Wilmeth, daughters of Jet and Gay Wilmeth of Tokio. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Mack Wilmeth of Brownfield; and Mrs. Johnnie Rundell of Farwell. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. T.M. James of Brownfield.

Two Committee Members Will Be Decided Monday

Election of two Farmers Home Administration County Committee members will take place Monday, June 30, County Supervisor Ross James has announced.

"This is a somewhat historic occasion," James said. "It is the first time that FmHA county committee members have been elected. Until now, they have been appointed by the agency. The 1985 farm bill calls for two elected and one appointed member on the committee."

Farmers who live in Yoakum County, are of legal voting age and derive the principale part of their income from farming are eligible to vote.

Nominees for the Yoakum County FmHA County Committee are Ray E. Bearden and R.M. (Bob) Jones.

"This time, we will elect two committee members," James said. "One will serve for one year and the other will serve two years. In the future, all three members will serve three year terms on a staggered basis, with one position to be filled each year."

Voting ballots are available from the FmHA county office at 605 9th Street, Plains. Marked ballots must be mailed or dropped off at the FmHA office by June 30.

Low Cost Meal Suggestions Shared By Home Economist

Protein foods add important nutrients to our diets. So even if you're trying to save money, you'll want to keep these foods in your diet, says Mary Dale Williams, Yoakum County Extension Agent.

But there are some things you can do to plan low-cost protein main dishes:

Use more low-cost protein foods, such as dry beans, eggs, peanut butter, turkey and chicken. Hamburger and liver are good buys in red meats.*

Shop the sales for red meats. If you find a good buy in a large roast, you can cut it up and use it in different ways for more than one meal.*

Include meat combined with other foods so it goes further. Spaghetti and meat sauce, beef stew, chicken and dumplings and tuna casserole are some ways to stretch your meat.*

Use less tender cuts of meat, including blade steak, chuck and arm roast. Make them tender by moist, slow cooking or using marinade.*

Figure the cost per serving of meat to save money. As a general rule, meat with no bones has four servings per pound. Meat with some bones has two to three servings per pound. Meat with lots of bones has only one serving per pound.*

Serve eggs as a main dish. Two eggs provide the same amount of protein as an average serving of meat.*

FAN EFFICIENCY is a measure of the number of cubic feet of air moved per minute (cfm) per watt input and fans vary in ventilation efficiency from 10 to 20 cfm. In general a larger fan is more efficient than a smaller one. The larger blades will move more air per minute per unit of input power. For any two fans with the same diameter the one with the smaller motor is usually the more efficient.

Plains Independent School District

From The Superintendent's Desk

DEAN ANDREWS

This week I thought I might mention some important historical dates in American education. Although there are probably more dates than you care to remember, I think you may find the facts themselves interesting.

1635 — Bostin Latin School, the first high school in the American colonies, was established. Students — all male — paid tuition to attend.

1636 — The General Court of Massachusetts Bay Colony appropriated 600 pounds sterling to establish the first college in the English speaking colonies. Two years later, John Harvard gave the college his library, much of his property, and his name.

1642 — Massachusetts Legislature passed a law requiring that all children be educated in reading, the catechism, and in "some honest, lawful calling, labor or employment." (sic) The law did not require that schools be established to provide the required education. In practice boys were more likely to be educated than girls.

1647 — Massachusetts Legislature required each community of 50 householders to employ a teacher of reading and writing. Towns of 100 householders were required to establish a Latin (high) school. The Puritan legislators named this law the "Old Deluder Satan Act".

1749 — Benjamin Franklin established the Academy of Philadelphia. The Academy, which later became the University of Pennsylvania, stressed "useful learning". Pupils studied subjects not generally recognized as part of a classical education, including mathematics, science (with emphasis on scientific experimentation), and "mechanical arts". The Academy, like all secondary schools of the time, was available only to those who could pay tuition.

1779 — Thomas Jefferson, governor of Virginia, proposed a statewide system of free public schools. The legislature defeated his proposal.

1786 — The land ordinance establishing the Northwest Territories (the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and the eastern part of Minnesota), set aside land in each 6-square-mile township to be sold, with the money supporting public schools.

1787 — The Northwest Ordinance restated the Founding Fathers' emphasis on education, by declaring that "schools and the means of education shall be forever encouraged" in the new western territories.

1795 — Hinton James walked 25 miles across the state of North Carolina to become the first student at the University of North Carolina, the first state university to open its doors. The University of Georgia was chartered earlier (1785) but opened later (1801).

1817 — The American School for the Deaf, founded by former minister and Yankees trader Thomas Gallaudet, opened in Hartford Connecticut.

1821 — The English Classical School, a free, publicly supported high school, opened in Boston. Emma Willard founded Troy Female Seminary in New York, the nation's first women's school for higher education. Her goal was to demonstrate that women students could learn subjects like philosophy and mathematics.

1826 — The city of Boston proposed offering free high schooling for 130 girls. When several hundred girls applied for the positions, the proposal was dropped.

1827 — Massachusetts became the first state to enact a High School Act. This law required every town with a population of 500 or more to establish a high school or to employ a teacher qualified to teach high school. Within two years, nearly every state had passed a similar law. New Hampshire established town school committees, the nation's first school boards. The legislature later required the committees to "know when the roof leaked, (and) how much winter firewood was stacked...to circulate among the householders to encourage and enforce attendance, and to present a detailed report of all these activities at the annual town meeting."

1833 — Oberlin College in Ohio became the first coeducational University. It was followed by Syracuse University (1859), Antioch College (1853), and the University of Iowa (1856).

With the introduction of coeducational colleges, I will end this weeks list of important happenings in education. Next week I will continue this list starting with 1836, the year of the Battle of the Alamo and Texas Independence. Much has been written about the 150 years of Texas history. We will see what was taking place in education in our nation during these years.
