Plains High School's Math- of third place Springlake-Earth. Science Team captured the sweepstakes trophy in the small schools division of the Andrews UIL Practice Meet Jan. 31. The achievement is a repeat of their 1986 performance. Students participating were Jody Harris, Brian Baldwin, Bertha Gonzales, Jesse Flores, Shane McMinn, Brad McWhirter, Micah Stowe, Chuck Wilson, Phillip Cowart, Chad Guetersloh, Nieves Garcia and Lance Morrow. Competing in the calculator contests, Garcia placed third and Morrow tenth in the freshman division; Guetersloh first and Cowart eleventh, sophomore division and McMinn first, Stowe second, junior division. The team won first place with 758 points over Shallowater's 631.

McMinn scored the overall meet high with 270; Stowe was second with 261.

In number sense competition, Garcia was third, Morrow sixth, freshman division; Guetersloh first, sophomore division; and McMinn first, Flores fourth, junior division. The team finished second with Shallowater claiming the top win. McMinn was overall high scorer with 224.

Mathematics competition found Morrow sixth in the freshman division. Guetersloh, fourth, sophomore division and McMinn second, junior division.

Jody Harris was seventh in science competition.

Winning the sweepstakes trophy for the overall meet, Plains scored 155 more points than runner-up Shallowater and 217 points in front

Commissioners'

Court

Yoakum County Commissioners Court met in special session Monday with Johnnie Fitzgerald, Judge Pro Tem, presiding. Other commissioners, John Avara, R.W. Thurston and Jim Barron also attended. Serena Elmore, deputy county clerk, served as ex-officio clerk in the absence of Ruby Bruton.

Extension Agents Mary Dale Williams and David Kight presented a copy of their long range plans for extension work in Yoakum County. Current members of the Historical Commission were reappointed for the 1987-88 term.

Vennum Fitzgerald, representing Plains EMS, met with the Court to present two bids for three two-way radios. Bid of $1800 from A & B Electronics Inc. was accepted.

The court approved a motion

Coaches are Larry Devitt, calculator; Richie Cullins, number sense and Mackey McWhirter, science. The coaches express appreciation for the hard work and diligent effort of the entire team.

Next competition for the team is Saturday when Plains hosts their first practice UIL meet.

Seed Growers Clinic Slated

If you want to learn more about how to plant, grow and harvest plants for range and wildlife plantings, you may want to attend a clinic on the subject in February, says an SCS representative.

The clinic will be held for potential seed growers at the Soil Conservation Service Plant Materials Center near Knox City. Since the center can only accomodate about 30 people comfortably, more than one session will be conducted if needed.

Subjects to be discussed include seedbed preparation; planting equipment; fertilizer needs; weed control; irrigation; and harvesting, drying, cleaning, testing and labeling seed.

The first 30 people to call for a reservation can attend a session starting at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 18. The next 30 people to call may attend a second session starting at the same time on Feb. 19. The clinics should end about 3:30 p.m.

SCS specialists experienced in planting, growing, harvesting and cleaning seed will be on the program and will demonstrate actual equipment used at Knox City.

A registration fee of $3 will be charged for attendees to handle coffee and refreshments. Lunch will be on your own. If you wish to attend, call the center before Feb. 13. The number is (817) 658-3922.

ABWA Chapter Meets Feb. 16

Texas Plains Charter Chapter of American Business Women's Association will meet Monday, Feb. 16 at 7 p.m. in the home of Carolyn Culwell. Special guest will be Randy Brantley, jeweler and custom designer, of Brownfield.

Any interested businesswomen are invited.

Mildred Wenzel and Pat Corbin with 3 years of income tax preparation experience are now open for your business as Conservation Reserve Sign-Up Set For Feb. 9-27

'Faimers' who want to bid to enter their highly erodible cropland into USDA's 10-year Conservation Reserve Program may do so during the program's fourth sign-up period from Feb. 9 through 27.

USDA has also announced a onetime, one-year "bonus" for the 1987 crop to be paid in the form of an increased annual payment. The bonus will be equal to $2.00 times the farm program payment yield for corn times the number of acres of corn base designated for enrollment in the Reserve.

The bonus will be payable in the form of generic commodity certificates when a 1987 CRP contract is accepted.

During the sign-up period, producers will be given the option to enter into a CRP contract beginning with either the 1987 or 1988 crop year.

Under provisions of a recent amendment to the legislation authorizing CRP, alfalfa and other multi-year grasses and legumes in rotation during the years 1981-85, as approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, will be considered to be "agricultural commodities" for the purpose of determining eligibility of land to be placed in CRP.

Annual payments for 10 years will compensate farmers for retiring highly erodible land from crop production. The amount of the payment is determined by the accepted bid per acre and the number of accepted acres.

Participants will also receive costshare assistance for establishing grass, tree or wildlife plants on the acreage placed in the reserve. Hunting is allowed on the land but no crops can be harvested while it is in the reserve.

For information about the reserve, contact any local office of the USDA Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, or the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

All SCS programs and services are offered on a nondiscriminatory basis, without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, marital status or handicap.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Garza and Mrs. Rita Diaz. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Santana Flores of Brownfield and Mr. and Mrs. John Flores of Mason.

Advertising

A business man or woman wakes up in the morning after sleeping on an advertised mattress, washes with an advertised soap, shaves with an advertised razor, puts on advertised clothes, eats breakfast at an advertised restaurant, glances at his advertised watch, rides to work in an advertised car, writes with an advertised pen, drinks an advertised soft drink, but yet this same business person hesitates to advertise, saying that advertising does not pay.

Finally...when his unadvertised business goes under, he will advertise it for sale.

Plains Independent School District

We live in a very critical society. Perhaps one of the most important characteristics of our democratic society is that it is self-criticizing and self-correcting.

Yet we know that every human being responds to praise. If someone tells us, "That is nice work," while we are at our job, we glow a bit and work harder at the next task we have to accomplish. Psychologists call this positive reinforcement. Generally, however, we don't consider psychology; we simply remember that it is very pleasant to have someone say, "That is a job well done."

Unfortunately, many of us do not remember this simple fact in our relationships with children. As parents, we criticize our children more frequently than we praise them and wonder why they usually do not respond as we think they should. Naturally, if we are honest, we are not able to praise everything our children do. We need to remember that they are learning and learners make mistakes --sometimes serious ones. But it is essential that at those times when they deserve praise, they receive it.

Often when a child brings home a report card with average or better marks, he or she is told, "That is pretty good," or "You could do better." Those statements indicate a very qualified kind of praise and the child is quick to recognize it.

A more effective approach should be used by parents if they want their children to do as well or better next time. Positive statements like, "Your reading has come up. This kind of report pleases me very much," or "I like the way you're working in math to keep your good scores up," will almost guarantee that the child will do his or her best during the next few days. After all, nearly every child seeks his parents approval.

There are other ways to say, "Good for you." Here are a few of them that you might try: "That's quite an improvement -- good job," "You really outdid yourself this time," "You're on the right track now," or "My, how impressive." Also parents should be sure that their children understand which actions are being praised.

To build feelings of confidence in children, we must find positive ways to praise them when they accomplish things in a sociably acceptable manner. "I like the way you are working," is much more positive, for example, than "Well, it is better than the last time."

As children grow toward adulthood, they must learn those human characteristics that receive approval in our society. Certainly, one of those desirable characteristics is to accomplish our assigned tasks in a complete and personally satisfying manner. The best way for a child to grasp this knowledge is by using a litte reinforcement in the form of praise.

Heart Association Warns About Second Hand Smoke

The American Heart Association issues a new warning to all Texans: exposure to second-hand smoke may be hazardous to your health.

The Heart Association's warning matches similar findings released by the U.S. Surgeon General late last year. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, M.D. presented scientific evidence on the harm to nonsmokers of breathing exhaled smoke or the smoke coming from the tip of a burning cigarette.

The Heart Association says pregnant women should not smoke, and parents who smoke should avoid exposing their children to the harniful effects of involuntary smoking.

"The evidence of smoking on health has been air-tight for years," says Addison A. Taylor, M.D., president of the Heart Association in Texas. "But recent evidence strongly points to a connection between second-hand smoke and increased risk of heart disease." This is the first time the Heart Association has commented on the risk of cigarette smoke in the air around non-smokers.

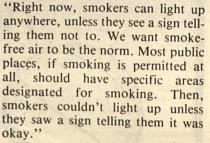

"The Surgeon General's report is the most comprehensive collection of scientific evidence on the hazards of passive smoke," says Taylor. "The implications are alarming. The health of non-smokers must be protected. The most logical way is to restrict smoking in public places."

The most recent Texas Poll shows an overwhelming majority of the public agrees with the Heart Association position. Legislation to limit smoking in public places was favored by 77 percent of Texans surveyed in November. Asked if employers should be required to establish policies to accommodate non-smoking workers, 67 percent of Texans said yes. Support on both questions cuts across lines on education, age, occupation, ethnic background, income, political party and region.

A statewide coalition of the American Heart Association, the American Cancer Society, the American Lung Association, and others is working to pass a bill to be introduced in the Texas Legislature this month. The Texas Smoke-Free Indoor Act would prohibit smoking in public places, except where a sign is posted permitting smoking.

"We want to change the status quo in this state," says Taylor.

We Do

"Smokers jeopardize their own health," according to Taylor, "but they also create a health hazard for non-smokers who breathe secondhand smoke. We need to restrict smoking in our school's, government offices, shopping malls, offices and other public places."

For information on how to support the effort for a stronger smokefree indoor air law, contact your local office of the American Heart Association listed in the white pages of the phone book.
