

U.S. to unveil arms control plan

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan announced today the United States will unveil a new arms control proposal in Geneva Friday that he said will build on the recent Soviet proposal and emphasize reductions in "destabilizing" nuclear arms systems.

"I would characterize our arms control position as deep cuts, no first-strike advantage, defensive research ... and no cheating," Reagan said in a televised statement at the White House.

He also announced that he has asked the Soviet Union to extend the current session of the Geneva arms control talks, scheduled to adjourn Friday, for an extra week to hear details of the American proposal.

Reagan said he has sent a letter on the subject to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and has also communicated with American allies, who had been urging an American counter-proposal to the Soviet plan unveiled in early October which called for a 50 percent cut in nuclear arsenals of both superpowers.

Just before making his announcement in the White House press room, the president met with four Soviet interviewers and told them he would accept some of the figures the Soviets had proposed in their plan for a 50 percent reduction in nuclear missiles and warheads.

He told the journalists from Moscow that his reply to the Soviet proposal will be laid out at the arms negotiating table in Geneva on Friday.

Immediately thereafter, Reagan told U.S. reporters that the latest Soviet offer "unfortunately fell considerably short" in certain areas. But, he said, there were also positive "seeds" for an agreement and he had built on them with the new U.S. offer.

Significantly, he called both sides' proposals "milestones" in the quest for reductions of nuclear weapons. "I believe progress is indeed possible if the Soviet leadership is willing to match our own commitment to a better relationship," Reagan said.

Reagan said his proposal was "designed to enhance the prospect for achieving real reductions in nuclear arms, enhancing stability and addressing the legitimate concerns of the United States and our allies as well as the Soviet Union."

He promised a "real give and take" with the Soviets.

He said he wouldn't disclose details of the proposal now because "history shows progress is most surely made through confidential negotiations."

But he said "it is serious, it is detailed" and addresses all three areas being discussed in Geneva — strategic offensive arms, intermediate range weapons and defensive systems, such as his "Star Wars" proposal.

Of the Soviet proposal, Reagan said it was carefully measured by U.S. analysts against the need for "deep, equitable and verifiable reductions and against the criteria for effective arms control agreements."

"Measured against these criteria," he said, "the Soviet counterproposal fell significantly short." But he also said the Soviet proposal contains "seeds which we wish to nurture."

He said the U.S. proposal "builds on these positive elements" in the Soviet initiative and focuses on reductions in the most destabilizing systems. This was a reference to the huge land-based Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles which Washington fears could give Moscow a first-strike capability.

Meantime, administration officials disclosed that Secretary of State George Shultz plans to confer with Soviet officials when he goes to Moscow next week about setting up a second U.S.-Soviet summit meeting. The idea would be to make the forthcoming Nov. 19-20 summit in Geneva "the start of a dialogue" between Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, an official said, speaking on the condition of anonymity.

Another official said, "It's a pretty good bet" the Soviets will agree to extend the Geneva talks.

Hance claims no knowledge of fundraiser

By FRANK BASS
University Daily News Reporter

Invitations to a fundraiser for Kent Hance's gubernatorial campaign which pictured Hance as both a University of Texas and Texas Tech football player were not viewed by Hance until after they had been sent out, Hance said Thursday.

Hance, who is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said the two-sided invitations did not imply that he is ambivalent about the outcome of Saturday's game between Tech and Texas.

"I have never yelled for anybody but Tech," Hance said, adding that on Wednesday, he urged the Tech football team to defeat Texas.

Hance said that he was not responsible for arranging the fundraiser. He said 20 of his supporters, 10 of whom are Tech graduates and 10 of whom are Texas graduates, set up the fundraiser and sent out the invitations.

The invitations were described on alternate sides as being either "the perfect Red Raider victory party" or "the perfect Longhorn victory party."

Invitations to the $25-per-plate dinner also pictured Hance dressed in a Tech football uniform on one side and in a Texas football uniform on the other side.

Hance's press secretary, Byron Nelson, said Thursday the sole reason that a "Paid for by Kent Hance for Governor Committee" line was placed on the invitations was because of state campaign laws.

Nelson said under state campaign laws, any political advertisement for a candidate must give the name of the person or group sponsoring the candidate.

Persons invited to the fund-raiser also were given the number of Hance's Austin campaign headquarters to call for further details.

Nelson added that due to a heavy campaign schedule, Hance is unable to personally approve every fundraiser that is given for him.

"There are hundreds of these things," Nelson said. "This is one of many events that go on and sometimes he doesn't see these until they go out."

Hance said an extensive campaign schedule has prevented him from being able to control every aspect of fundraising. He also said he had not seen the invitation until one was mailed to his wife.

said that the fundraiser was not intended to be a victory party for either Tech or Texas.

"It's not a victory party for who wins the game, it's a victory party for Kent Hance," said Mark Shniderson, a member of Hance's Tech steering committee.

"He'll be sitting on the Tech side and he'll be cheering for Tech," Shniderson said.

Hance, a native of Dimmitt, attended Tech as an undergraduate and taught business law at Tech from 1968 to 1973.

He attended the University of Texas Law School before being elected to the Texas Senate as a representative from Lubbock.

In 1978, Hance was elected to the U.S. Congress and represented Lubbock's 19th District until 1984.

In 1984, Hance made an unsuccessful bid for the Democratic Party's U.S. Senate nomination. Hance lost to former State Sen. Lloyd Doggett, who was defeated in the general election by Republican Phil Gramm.

Hance changed his political affiliation to the Republican Party in early 1985. Gramm, a former Democrat, is credited with having been instrumental in Hance's switch.

Hostages won't be set free unless prisoners released

By The Associated Press

BAALBEK, Lebanon — The leader of a radical Shiite Moslem group says there's no hope of five Americans and four Frenchmen kidnapped in Lebanon being released until Kuwait frees 17 extremists convicted of bombings.

"I wish the demands of the kidnapers could be met and all the Americans freed," said Hussein Musawi, leader of the pro-Iranian Islamic Amal, a splinter group of the main Amal movement.

But he said that Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, the group of Shiite fundamentalists believed to hold the U.S. and French hostages, "will not release them until the 17 people held prisoner in Kuwait are freed."

Release of the 17, most of them Americans, has been Islamic Jihad's demand since it began kidnappings in January 1984.

Refusals to release the men, including the bombing of the U.S. and French embassies in December 1983, Islamic Jihad claimed on Oct. 4 that it killed a sixth American hostage.

U.S. diplomat William Buckley III was in revenge for Israel's air strike against Palestinian guerrillas in Tunisia. But Buckley's body has not been found, and American officials have said they cannot confirm the claim.

Musawi said in an interview Wednesday that he was not involved in the kidnappings or in Islamic Jihad. But his group shares some of the strident anti-American philosophy of the shadowy extremists and has similar links with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary Iran.

"I'm against the kidnapping of innocent people," he said in his heavily guarded home in Baalbek, an ancient Roman town in the Syrian-controlled Bekaa Valley of east Lebanon.

"But for these guys Reagan and (French President Francois) Mitterrand, I'm for kidnapping them and putting them on trial."

The American hostages are:

- Peter Kilburn, 60, of San Francisco, Calif., librarian at the American University of Beirut, missing since Dec. 3, 1984.
• The Rev. Lawrence Jenco, 50, a Roman Catholic priest of Joliet, Ill., kidnapped last Jan. 8.

- Terry Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, a native of Lorain, Ohio, kidnapped in west Beirut on March 16.

- David Jacobsen, 54, of Huntington Beach, Calif., director of the American University Hospital in Beirut, abducted May 28.

- Thomas Sutherland, 54, of Fort Collins, Colo., Scottish-born dean of agriculture at the American University, on leave from Colorado State University. He was kidnapped June 9.

Congressional talks fail on balanced-budget plan

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congressional negotiations on a Senate-passed balanced-budget plan collapsed Thursday night, leaving in doubt when the House and Senate could take final action on necessary legislation to restore the government's borrowing authority.

"I think we have come to the conclusion to amicably agree to disagree," said Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and chairman of the negotiations on the Senate plan to force a balanced budget by 1991.

"I'm sorry that the conference failed to agree," said Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, R-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who led the House bargainers.

The talks fell apart at the end of a day during which congressional leaders traded partisan insults over who was stalling the talks.

While the wrangling continued, Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., chairman of the Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security, announced that he was asking the General Accounting Office — Congress' investigative arm — to look into the Treasury Department's handling of Social Security funds.

Jones said in a written statement that he wanted auditors to see "whether Social Security trust assets, held a long-term invested securities, have been cashed in by Treasury on more than one occasion to pay benefits, so that the funds normally used to pay benefits could be used to keep the government going despite the debt limit."

With the failure of the talks, the issue moves to the House floor on Friday where Democrats and Republicans will offer separate balanced-budget packages.

Congress is facing a Friday deadline for passing legislation raising the national debt limit from the current $1.824 trillion to more than $2 trillion.

Treasury Department officials have warned that if the debt limit, which allows the government to borrow to pay its bills, is not increased by then, they will have to redeem billions of dollars held by the Social Security trust fund and other trust funds to keep the government solvent.

Administration officials also have indicated that if the current money problems continue, they may begin temporarily halting spending for some programs.

But wrangling over the budget plan the Senate attached to the debt limit legislation has stalled action.

"Our view is the House ought to act ... (and) stop playing games over there," said Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan. "They've been holding the bill hostage."

Dole may think he is being "politically cute and smart," but "24 hours of (partisan) happiness on his side isn't what he's supposed to be looking for as a leader of this Congress," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass.

TTU: Then & Now

Students' cost of campus living has increased tenfold throughout Tech's history

By CARLA R. MCKEOWN
University Daily News Reporter

Like the thickness of the Texas Tech Catalogs this information is found in, the cost of student living has steadily increased since the first students attended Tech in 1925.

In the Bulletin of the Texas Technological College: First Annual Catalog Number 1925-1926 the approximate costs of attending school back then are listed.

According to the first catalog, "The Texas Technological College, being a state institution, has no tuition fees. The enrollment and other incidental fees, we believe, are very moderate, and are due and payable in advance." The catalog lists the registration and incidental fees as $8, the library fees as $1 and the medical fee as $1.75 per semester.

In addition, a non-compulsory student activity fee was $5 a year and a non-compulsory artists' course was $2.50 a year. Laboratory fees were charged for all courses which included laboratory work.

Room and board in off-campus boarding houses for a man attending Tech was estimated at $250 per year in 1925. The catalog also estimated $40 for fees other than laboratory fees, $25 for books and $25 for laundry. For women students the catalog said to add $25-50 to the men's costs.

Private lessons in the music department required additional fees in 1925. Two voice lessons a week cost $30 per semester. Former Tech music prosanitarium facilities, free ambulance service, free X-rays, free minor surgical operations and free examinations and treatment for eye, nose and throat problems.

fessor Margaret Huff offered two piano lessons a week and one class lesson in theory for $30 per semester.

After the 43rd Legislature passed a law requiring each state supported educational institution in Texas to collect tuition fees from all students, the 1933-34 catalog reflected the change.

The tuition fees were $25 per semester. Each semester students also had to pay a $7.50 deposit to cover broken equipment in laboratory courses, library fines and other charges for injury, loss or destruction of state property.

FRIDAY

In today's UD

There will be parties, rallies, and other activities next week to try to get Texas Techsians into the Homecoming spirit. A New Year's party, movies, and a fashion show based on the theme "Everyday's a Holiday" are just some of the festivities in store for Homecoming week. For more information on planned activities, read Jan Dille's preview in News, page 4.

Weather

Today's forecast calls for cloudy skies and cooler weather. Highs will range in the mid-50s. Winds will be from the northeast at 5-10 mph. There is a 40 percent chance of rain.

Homecoming events to spotlight holiday theme

By JAN DILLEY
University Daily News Reporter

With the theme "Everyday's a Holiday," this year's Homecoming will be a week of mini-celebrations, each in observance of a special date on the calendar.

To mark the "4th of July," the film "The Great Gatsby" will be screened at 8 p.m. Nov. 4 in the Allen Theatre. Admission will be $1.50 with Tech I.D.

"The World's Largest Study Break" is scheduled for 9 p.m. Nov. 5 in the student recreation center. A pep rally, games and "lots and lots of pizza" will end the week's "Mardis Gras Day."

A courtyard concert featuring jazz group "No Compromise" will be presented on "New Year's Eve" at noon Nov. 6 in the UC Courtyard. That night, the films "An Affair to Remember" and "North by Northwest" will be shown at 7 p.m. also in the courtyard.

The 24 candidates for Homecoming Queen will model styles from Hemphill Wells department store during the "Queen's Fashion Show" at 8 p.m. in the UC Ballroom. Admission will be 50 cents to help cover some of the expenses of Homecoming, said Cindy Barela, student association external vice president.

Immediately following the fashion show, the Residence Hall Association (RHA) will sponsor a "New Year's Eve Party" in the UC ballroom.

Streamers and other festive decorations will be used to set the mood for the party which will climax at midnight. "It'll be just like any other New Year's Eve party," said Kyle Colvett, RHA director of programming. "We'll have Guy Lombardo music, a dance and possibly ginger ale instead of champagne."

For "Valentine's Day," students may cast their vote for Homecoming Queen all day Nov. 7 at polling booths located in the UC, the mass communications building, business administration building, home economics building and Holden Hall.

Members of the RHA will begin judging lawn decorating entries of the various residence halls at 4:30 p.m.

In observance of Tech's 60th anniversary, Nov. 8 will be "Happy Birthday Tech Day." Students and faculty are encouraged to wear the school colors all day to boost spirit for the Homecoming celebration.

Professional skateboarders Victor Starr and Russ Howe from California will give three shows between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. in front of the UC. Both have been skateboarding for more than a decade.

A sculpture of former Texas Governor Preston Smith will be unveiled at 5 p.m. near the double-T bench south of the administration building. Sculpted by Tech alumnus Glenna Goodacre, the bronze was commissioned by a statewide committee to recognize Smith's contributions to higher education.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will perform the unveiling as a tribute to Smith who graduated from Tech in 1934.

As the defending Southwest Conference champions, the Tech men's basketball team will play in an intrasquad scrimmage at 5 p.m. in the Lubbock High School gym. The scrimmage will be free and is open to the public.

Sponsored by the Student Organizations Services' spirit coordinating committee, the annual Homecoming pep rally and bonfire will begin at 8 p.m. at the Southwest Conference Circle. Cheerleaders, the Goin' Band, the Raiderettes, Saddle Tramps and the Pom pon squad will be present to boost spirit for the following day's game against Texas Christian University.

Also during the pep rally, the names of the five finalists for Homecoming Queen will be announced.

For the final "Everyday's a Holiday" theme day, the Tech Letterman's Association will have a breakfast at 7 a.m. Nov. 9 in the Letterman's Lounge. Doughnuts and coffee will be available to the public at a Student Association table in the UC.

The Ex-Students' Association will sponsor its 4th annual "Red Raider Road Race" at 9 a.m. T-shirts and certificates will be given to all participants who take part in the 5K and 10K runs.

Floats, classic cars and music by the Goin' Band will highlight the annual Homecoming parade starting at 9:30 a.m. at the northeast corner of the Civic Center parking lot.

Former Texas Gov. Preston Smith will be the grand marshal for the parade which is expected to attract some 100 entries from Tech organizations, civic clubs and campus departments.

Pre-game activities will include announcement of the parade winners, and are scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. in Jones Stadium. The highlight of the week, the Tech v. TCU football game will kick off at 2 p.m.

Tech student living costs rise steadily over years

In 1934-35 school year, students moved into the Tech's first two residence halls. The cost was $202.50 per semester.

By 1935, Huff's piano lessons had increased in price to $36 a semester. Voice lessons also had increased to $54, and the medical fee was up to $4 per semester.

Tuition was still $25 in 1945, but the a $5 student union fee and a $3 charge for each change in the student's schedule.

Tuition was set by the Texas Legislature in 1972 at $4 per semester hour for students of Texas colleges and universities. In the same year, student services fees were $52 a year, the University Center fee was $10 a year, and the building use fee $70 a year.

Books in 1972 were estimated to cost the average student $115 per year. That year dormitory prices listed were from $400 per semester to live in Gordon, Sneed, Doak, Horn and Knapp to $515 per semester for a room in Chitwood, Weymouth and Coleman halls.

Tuition for in-state students in the 1985-86 school year, 52 years after the first tuition requirement was approved by the state Legislature, is $12 per semester hour. A student taking an average class load of 15 hours in 1985 pays about seven times the amount of tuition students paid in 1933.

A student enrolled in 15 semester hours pays the following: building use fee, $180 a year; student services fees, $102 a year; Medical service fee, $40 a year and the University Center fee, $30 a year.

In 1985, residence hall prices range from $2,256 per year for Doak and Gordon halls to $2,722 for Chitwood, Weymouth and Coleman halls. The cost of living on campus has multiplied about 10 times in the past 60 years.

breakage deposit was $12.50 and a dormitory room cost $376 a semester.

Books and incidentals were estimated at $40 a year in 1945, and Huff raised her price for piano lessons to $45 a semester.

Tuition remained at $25 per semester in 1955, but other costs continued rising. The student activity fee climbed to $23 a year and room and board in the dormitories was $523.40 per year.

In 1955, students also had to pay a $10 student union fee and a $7 general property deposit.

Tuition had doubled by 1957. The 1957-58 Tech catalog included a supplement informing the students that tuition was $50 per semester.

In 1965, each student was charged a $17 student services fee per semester,

Rundgren, Oingo Boingo record innovative hits

A Cappella — Todd Rundgren

Todd Rundgren's music has always been for the music lover who enjoys sitting in a quiet place and soaking in this virtuoso's accomplishments. His latest achievement, A Cappella, does not detract from this.

Every sound on the album is Rundgren's own voice processed through an Emulator II synthesizer, which is a highly technical instrument that enables him to assign his voice to a certain note on the keyboard. These sounds are then processed through the Emulator where Rundgren's talents allow him to experiment with different voice patterns he has programmed into the Emulator.

Rundgren recorded A Cappella in his home-based 24-track recording studio where he used the Emulator to carry out all of his own synthesized "oompah's" and chorus sounds.

Rundgren chooses to depart from the bass and chorus lines, which are so frequently encountered throughout the album. "Honest Work" depends solely on his voice to convey his attitudes about the lack of honest work. The essence of an 18th century European folk tune is heard in "Honest Work" as well.

Rundgren invites the voice of an aged man in "LockJaw" to growl, "Mother's hide all the children who lie/ LockJaw's with a rusty nail/ He's gonna nail your mouth open wide." Fused with scare tactics like this is a haunting male chorus warning us that "LockJaw is comin'."

Rundgren's elderly character ends the piece with a twist, telling us, "Well, I got to confess/ It's a fib/ I made it up myself/ It's pretty funny."

To fathom the eminent electronic talents that Rundgren has displayed in this studio work, the attendance of his performance at the Lindsey Theater on Sunday is a necessity.

Rundgren will be performing all of the compositions from A Cappella with the assistance of eleven chorus members. A synthesizer will be the only instrument used during his performance.

Dead Man's Party — Oingo Boingo
Oingo Boingo have been a cult classic in Los Angeles for almost a decade. It wasn't until they released their first album, Only a Lad, in 1981 when Oingo Boingo started catching attention outside of Los Angeles.

Since then the band has enjoyed commercial and critical success from two other albums and have made appearances in "Forbidden Zone" and "Urgh! A Music War." They have also contributed work on the "Weird Science" and "Fast Times at Ridgemont High" soundtracks.

Dead Man's Party should do nothing to slow this band down. It's full of the quirkiness and camp so prevalent in earlier works and it surely will disappoint no one familiar with the band.

Danny Elfman, after an unsuccessful solo album, is back with the band offering his wired vocals and keeping every song interesting. Elfman is the backbone the group, singing, writing and co-producing Dead Man's Party.

The band has kept its irrelevance intact with songs like the title track and "No One Lives Forever." On the latter Elfman offers "You think you got it rough/ What about your darling doggy?/ Ten short years/ And he's getting old and groggy" and "And when it's all said and done/ Better that you had some fun/ Instead of hiding in your shell/ Why make your life a living hell?"

Other worthy tunes are "Just Another Day," "Same Man I Was Before" Each song is fast-paced, some to the point of chaos.

But it's a sound that's distinctly Oingo Boingo. Dead Man's Party is not a landmark album for the band. It's just more of the same old campy stuff. In other words, Oingo Boingo fans should miss it. Either should anyone after something a little different.

Pictures For Pleasure — Charlie Sexton

Charlie Sexton's debut album comes after several years of success in Austin playing with "Little Charlie and the Eager Beaver Band." Perhaps the band's success can be measured by their opening for the Clash concert in Amarillo. This lead to Sexton and Clash guitarist Mick Jones becoming fast friends.

All at the tender age of 17.

Of course, an impressive past doesn't always foretell a promising future. Can Sexton stand on his own?

Pictures For Pleasure is proof that he can. It's a touch unrefined at points, but less so than most debut albums of this kind. Sexton has a somewhat affected early David Bowie-sounding voice that penetrates most of the nine-song album. It's effective and compliments his style and lyrics.

Lyrical, Pictures For Pleasure volleys from intriguingly bitter to mildly romantic. "Impressed," a likely candidate for a single, opens the album and stands as one of its best cuts. Its simple but appealing background drum beat keeps the song flowing through Sexton's lead vocals. "I am not impressed/ A bunch of losers/ A lot of fools/ A list of victims/ Not all that cool/ And we've got nothing in this world/ To live up to."

That's pretty heavy stuff from a musician Sexton's age. But that's part of Sexton's appeal. Apparently he has chosen not to tow too heavily on the commercial line either with snappy lyrics or with musical hooks.

At the same time, Pictures For Pleasure isn't exactly obscure. It offers a solid rock sound with an occasional 50s flavor. In the first verse of "Hold Me," Sexton's voice takes on a decidedly Elvis sound both vocally and sentimentally.

There are several other worthy songs on this album ("Beat's So Lonely," "Attractions," and "Tell Me") making it an interesting debut for a performer who, well, has a promising future.

SWC THUMBNAI LS

By BRAD WALKER
University Daily Sports Reporter

There are two pieces of good news for Southwest Conference teams this week. The first is that last Saturday marked the highest-scoring single day of SWC football ever, as the eight SWC teams in action combined to average 64.5 points per game. The second is that the Baylor Bears are idle Saturday.

Everyone must take care of this week's business first, however. Here are the matchups:

Ark. (6-1, 3-1) at Rice (3-4, 2-2) (2 p.m.)

Watson Brown's Owls re-entered the real world last weekend via a 43-28 shellacking by Texas A&M. Rice had won three of its last four games.

Arkansas also is the real world — just ask the Houston Cougars. The Hogs drove the ball at will against the Coogs in rolling up a 57-27 win while cruising for 508 yards total offense.

The Hogs defense leads the SWC, allowing 268 yards per game; only 90.7 on the ground.

Passing is the Owls' only hope of moving the ball versus Arkansas, but the Owls will be hard pressed to throw without the services of injured QB Mark Comalander. Freshman Quentin Roper has filled in adequately, however, and teamed with Antonio Brinkley to revive a once non-existent running game.

SMU (4-2, 3-1) at A&M (5-2, 3-1) (6:45 p.m. ESPN-TV)

This meeting pits the league's two top offenses. A&M leads the SWC with 434.1 yards a game, with SMU just two yards away.

Toney and Roger Vick combined are averaging more than 185 yards of tandem offense (rushing plus receiving) a game. Toney, with 84.5 rushing yards a game, is a distant second behind Dupard, who runs for 132.3 steps a game.

Hou. (1-6, 0-4) at TCU (3-4, 0-4) (2 p.m.)

The best two-out-of-three between cellar dwellers TCU, Houston, and Texas Tech begins Saturday when the Cougars and Frogs butt heads at Amon Carter Stadium in Fort Worth. The Toads planned a good opponent for Homecoming, but would have been better off having the festivities at the North Texas State game.

TCU ranks eighth in the conference in both total offense and defense, scores the least amount of points and allows the most. Understandable coming from a team starting nine freshman on defense.

Houston resembles something more of a football team, despite a 57-27 whipping by Arkansas last week. The Coogs passed for 388 yards in the contest, and averages 176 yards by air each week. Tight end Carl Hilton leads the Houston receivers 26 receptions on the year, good for second in the SWC. Hilton leads all conference receivers with five touchdowns.

Raiders hope to salvage season with Texas win

By KENT BEST
University Daily Associate Sports Editor

Only two weeks have passed since the Rice Owls knocked the wind out of Texas Tech's October with a 29-27 scalping, and the Red Raiders are relieved the month is finally history.

Tech began October with a 3-1 season record and had only one Southwest Conference loss. But after three games during the Halloween month, the Raiders are sitting at a scary 3-4, 0-4 in the SWC. Talk about Halloweens; Tech had a whole month of them.

Now, however, it's November and Tech is eager for a happier thirty days. Unfortunately, November means more than Thanksgiving. It also means Texas.

The Raiders and the Longhorns (4-2, 2-1) will square off for the 35th time Saturday at Memorial Stadium in Austin at 12:04 p.m. The odd starting time is compliments of Raycom-TV, which decided Monday to televise the game (KCB-D-TV channel 11 will carry the game locally).

Tech is hitting the road for the first time since Sept. 28 when the Raiders lost 31-0 to Baylor, also on regional television. Tech plays three of its last four games away from home.

Texas, on the other hand, will be playing its first home game since an embarrassing shellacking of Rice, 44-16. Since the Longhorns have lost to Oklahoma (7-14) and SMU (14-44), they have beaten Arkansas (15-13).

Tech coach Jerry Moore knows the Raiders are happy to have the Raiders Mallery's Texas counterpart, kicker Jeff Ward, has produced the lion's share of the Longhorns' scoring in 1985. And it was Ward who nailed a 35-yard field goal with three seconds left in the game to lift Texas to a 13-10 win over Tech last season.

"Ward's pretty good," Mallery said. "A couple of weeks ago he hit five field goals against Arkansas. I'd love to do something like that," he said. "It's gonna be a hard game, I just like to be the one kicking the winning field goal."

Tech has had its share of tough games this year with losses to Texas A&M and Rice by a combined total of three points. Moore called the Rice loss "the most disappointing loss since I've been at Tech."

Tech senior halfback Ansel Cole, the Raiders third-leading rusher with 186 yards, will be facing the Longhorns for the final time of his collegiate career. Cole thinks the Raiders' problems are behind them.

"This is gonna be a turning point for us," Cole said. "We had a week off and that helped everybody a whole lot. We know we can go 7-4 this year," he said. "We've just got to beat Texas and everything else will fall in place."

One area of the Tech football team that has not had many problems is the Raiders' pass defense. After leading the nation in that category a year ago, the secondary has returned to the top again, allowing just 104 yards per contest.

Tech middle linebacker Brad Hastings also has been a bright spot for the Raiders. The 6-3, 235-pound Hastings is the SWC's top tackler this year with 113 stops — a 16.1 per game average. Longhorn linebacker Ty Allert is fourth in the SWC with 62 tackles — a 12.4 average.

Like the Raiders, Texas has been inconsistent offensively, but the 'Horns nevertheless are averaging 352 yards per game in total offense. Tech, meanwhile, is averaging only 288 yards per outing, while giving up an average of 335.9 to its opponents.

TECH

Talented freshman who has produced many big plays this season...one of the nation's top receivers, averaging 30.7 yards on seven returns...leads team in pass receptions with 10...averaging 20.8 yards a catch.

Former walk-on who has come on strong in senior year...earned starting quarterback position...has held it since...returned an interception 34 yards for a touchdown...led team in tackles with 51 and has recorded three pass breakups.

TEXAS

Considered one of the most consistent kickers in the country...helped 'Horns win the season with two field goals in final two minutes...set UT record for FGs in a game with two against Arkansas in Fayetteville.

LB—A show-in for post-season All-SWC honors...leads 'Horns with 72 tackles this year...has been solo...had 10 stops in 44-14 loss to SMU last week...team leader in tackles with seven...also has recorded seven quarterback pressures.

Half Nelson

Texas Tech linebacker Brad Hastings (44) and defensive tackle Artis Jackson put the clamps on Texas' Kevin Nelson in last year's Tech-UT game at Jones Stadium, which the 'Horns won 13-10 on a pair of late Jeff Ward field goals. Hastings leads the SWC in total tackles with 113.
