

Bush shows sense, pragmatism in debate furor

Tom Wicker
Columnist

Roger Ailes, media consultant to George Bush, calls it "baloney" that a series of Bush-Dukakis debates would be good for the country.

Voters would watch only one or two of them, he told a recent interviewer, and besides, "I don't think you learn anything about the issues" from presidential debates.

Good for Ailes, for cutting through all the cant and hype about "an educational experience," a "civic lesson" or "Lincoln-Douglas all over again."

Modern televised presidential debates, in fact, have been full of demagoguery, misinformation and exaggeration, with "victory" being claimed for such trivial reasons as Gerald Ford's misunderstanding of a question on Poland or Ronald Reagan's amiable jokes about his own age.

But the intellectual deficiencies of presidential debates (they are, after all, campaign appearances, not seminars on the issues) is not why Ailes' pupil, Vice President Bush, wants fewer debates — two — than does Michael Dukakis — four — and why Bush may be willing to risk not debating at all.

In his interview with Charlie Rose on CBS News' "Nightwatch," Ailes gave one good reason, which Bush himself indirectly confirmed.

After calling Dukakis "the dirtiest campaigner in America ... all elbows and knees," Ailes conceded that the governor also "is supposed to be the best debater in America ... a guy who never admits he's done anything wrong..."

Bush, in his new self-deprecating mode, later agreed that Dukakis is "probably a better debater ... my wife, Barbara, when I practice debating, she falls asleep."

If the Bush campaign is not just "lowering expectations" and really believes that Dukakis is a better debater, that would be reason enough to want as few debates as possible.

But an even better reason is that an eight-year vice president is a better-known public figure nationally than any state governor.

Why, therefore, give a less-familiar opponent an equal platform before a large television audience?

Having done that was one of the prime reasons Richard Nixon lost the presidency to John Kennedy in 1960.

Four years later, Lyndon B. Johnson shrewdly refused to give Barry Goldwater equal status on the debating platform with the president of the United States.

This point alone justifies Bush politically in refusing the Sept. 14 debate to which Dukakis and both party chairmen had agreed; better to keep the Democratic nominee off that equalizing platform and away from that national audience as long as possible, while Bush tries to establish a commanding lead.

A presidential debate, moreover, is a high-noon shootout in full view of the nation. One mistake, or an opponent's clever debating point ("Are you better off than you were four years ago?") may mean the election. So Bush doesn't want a late debate either, especially if he considers Dukakis the better debater. He wants time to recover from a mistake or from having been judged a debate loser. (By whom? With no official scorer, may the best spin doctors win.)

Bush's "take it or leave it" stance suggests that he might be angling for no debates while insisting that he's willing.

Ever since the vice president rejected debate arrangements worked out by the party chairmen, it has appeared possible that he judges it not in his best interest to debate.

In 1968, similarly, Richard Nixon refused to debate Hubert Humphrey — to deny a free TV audience to an opponent who was strapped for funds and to avoid the possibility of a damaging error.

As Bush does now, Nixon frequently protested his willingness to debate — but only, in his case, if some how the third-party candidate, George Wallace, could be excluded.

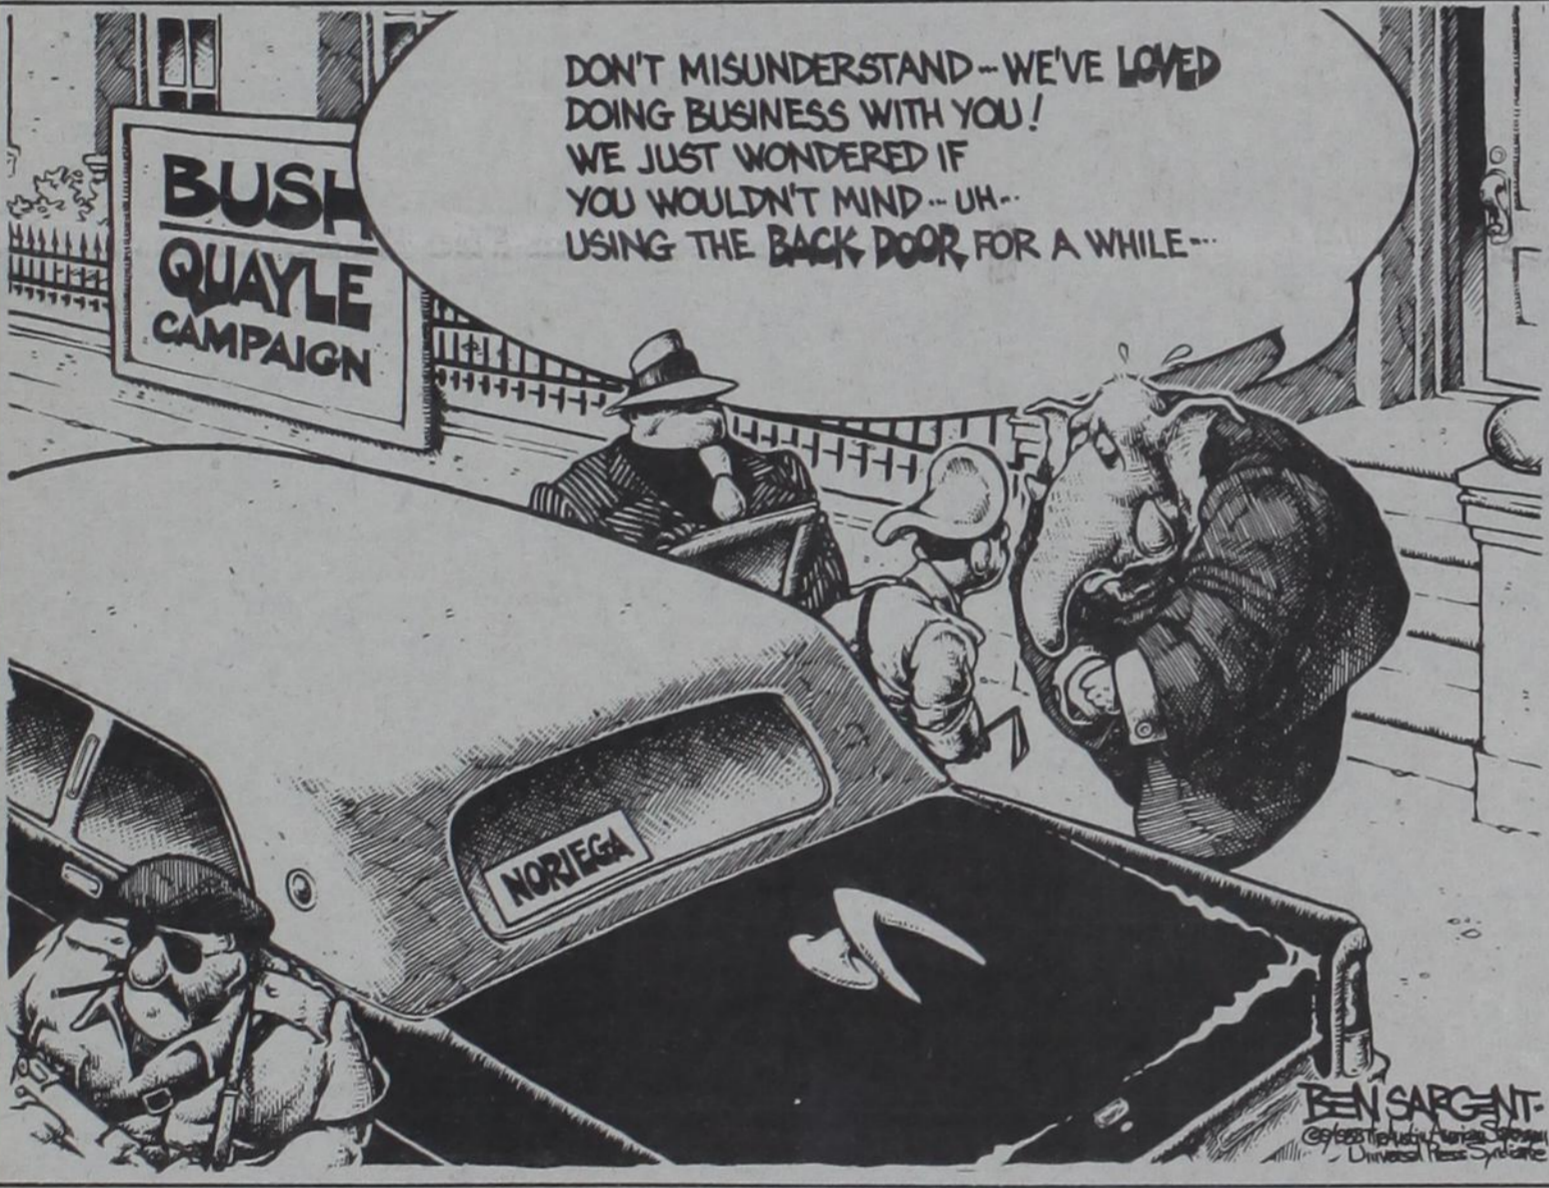

Humphrey called him "Richard the Chickenhearted," but Nixon stood his ground and narrowly won the election.

If Dukakis rejects the self-serving Bush proposal for two debates, he might be blamed for a debateless campaign.

But even if Bush takes the heat instead, it's far from clear that the risks of not debating are greater than those the debates pose.

Either way, folks, it's not cosmic — it's just politics.

Wicker is a syndicated columnist for the New York Times News Service.

Bush proud; Dukakis in favor of some weapons

By The Associated Press

George Bush said Wednesday that American flags have sold more briskly since Republicans "began restoring pride" in the country in 1981. Michael Dukakis stressed support for some weapons and muted earlier opposition to others as he sought to blunt attacks on his defense credentials. Bush also touted smaller than expected trade deficit figures and Dukakis accused the Republicans of opposing "every single effort" to reform the Pentagon, while their managers fleshed out details on the campaign debates that are expected to be pivotal in the close race for the White House.

The two contenders for the White House square off a week from Sunday in Winston-Salem, N.C., in their first debate of the campaign.

Bush said, "I've been looking forward to it."

But Dukakis went to Annapolis, Md., which was to have hosted a debate Wednesday night, and taunted the vice president for his refusal to make it a date. "If George Bush isn't ready today after 7½ years as vice president of this country, how can we expect him to be ready on Jan. 20, 1989?" the Democrat said.

Public opinion polls in recent days have shown Bush holding a single-digit lead, and Democratic aides said privately they didn't look for much change in the 10 days before the debates begin.

The vice president said some polls were good and others weren't. "They cancel out. I think we're just about where we've been but I'm just (going to) keep plugging away."

And he did, wooing Hispanic and Asian voters in a tour of California, the biggest prize with 47 electoral votes. The vice president said joblessness among Hispanics has fallen almost twice as fast under President Reagan as when the Democrats were in the White House.

"We're on the optimistic side; we're on the American side; we know we can do the job," he told one audience. He said there was "new pride in America" demonstrated by the performance of a flag-making company in New Jersey.

"Well, since we began restoring pride in the United States of America, business has been booming," he said, without naming the company.

Reagan added a few well-aimed barbs at the Democrats during the day, when he said the opposition was to blame for "economic and foreign policy nightmares."

"The truth is that when you take a walk down our opposition's memory lane, it starts to look like 'Nightmare on Elm Street,'" the president said on a campaign trip to Missouri.

The Massachusetts governor, portrayed by Bush as weak on defense matters, said in a speech at Georgetown University in Washington that he would use force "when it's necessary to protect our territory, our citizens or our vital interests, to meet our treaty commitments and to deter or to respond to terrorist attacks."

Dukakis listed the Stealth bomber, the Trident II sea-based missile, the advanced cruise missile, the Advanced Tactical Fighter, a new attack submarine and a new anti-tank weapon as systems he favors. He criticized the MX missile, which Bush favors, as a "smoke and mirrors" proposal.

Crime Spotlight

Tech police report burglary on campus

The Texas Tech Department of Police Services reported on Aug. 29 the burglary of the weight room at Jones Stadium, during which electronic equipment was stolen.

Police said a Panasonic VCR, a JVC television set and a television cart were stolen. The burglary occurred between 6:30 p.m. Aug. 29 and 2:30 p.m. Aug. 30, according to police.

No signs of forced entry were detected, police said. The Tech athletic department was able to provide police with serial numbers to the equipment, according to reports. Police said this burglary reinforces the need for valuable property to be properly recorded and identified.

Participation in Operation Identification allows the police department to recover and return property with greater ease, according to police. Identification also acts as a deterrent against theft, because property that has been marked is much more difficult to "fence," police said.

Lubbock Crime Line Inc. is offering a $300 reward for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the person or persons responsible for the burglary of the athletic department weight room. Anyone with information regarding the burglary is encouraged to contact Crime Line Inc. at 741-1000.

Confessed hijacker says he did not head scheme

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, West Germany — Confessed hijacker Mohammed Ali Hamadi denied Wednesday that he headed the 1985 TWA hijacking that claimed the life of a U.S. Navy diver and kept 39 Americans captive for 17 days.

Hamadi on Wednesday also accused witnesses of giving false testimony after some said he gloated over the killing of an American passenger.

"The testimony very often deviates far from the truth," Hamadi told the court. "I was not the leader of the commando."

Flight engineer Benjamin Zimmermann said on Tuesday that Hamadi pointed with pride to blood stains of murdered U.S. Navy diver Robert Stethem on the airplane fuselage.

Hamadi also said someone else ordered the hijacking. But when asked by Chief Judge Hainer Mueckenberger, he refused to name the man he said ordered it.

He said the man spoke English well and boarded the plane with Shiite Moslem Amal militiamen in Beirut after Stethem was slain.

TWA Flight 847 pilot John Testrake this week identified Hamadi as the hijacker who shot Stethem to death. Hamadi has admitted taking part in the hijacking but has denied killing Stethem.

The flight from Athens to Rome was hijacked June 14, 1985 and first diverted to Beirut.

First American experts see Soviet nuclear blast

By The Associated Press

SEMIPALATINSK, U.S.S.R. — The land heaved and windows broke more than two miles away Wednesday when the Soviet Union detonated an underground nuclear bomb for the first American experts to witness a Soviet nuclear blast.

The Americans stood in a chilly wind on the barren test site at the Forward Command Post Semipalatinsk Polygon about 1,700 miles southeast of Moscow in the republic of Kazakhstan.

After Wednesday's test, the Soviet scientists quickly checked their instruments and announced they had obtained the data necessary to determine the force of the blast.

The joint experiment was the culmination of a "dream for many experts who have spent their careers watching and studying their counterparts from a distance," said C. Paul Robinson, the chief U.S. negotiator at the Geneva talks on limiting nuclear tests.

Both sides expressed confidence the test explosion would lead to ratification of treaties limiting the size of underground nuclear blasts.

Tutoring program could help students

Elementary through high school age students can enroll in the Texas Tech University Reading Laboratory tutoring program. The program includes an initial diagnosis of reading difficulties and individual tutoring sessions with advanced undergraduate students and graduate students in reading education.

The fall session began Monday and will run through Dec. 8. Students in the program attend two sessions a week either on Mondays and Wednesdays or Tuesdays and Thursdays. Both sessions are offered at two different times — 4:15-4:55 p.m. and 5:05-5:45 p.m.

Semester fees for new students are $250 plus $30 for the initial diagnosis. Fees will be prorated for students beginning after Sept. 12.

Lester Butler, lab director said tutors arrange individualized plans for each student after the nature of the reading problem is determined. The program emphasizes developing reading skills, love for reading and self-confidence, he said.

The reading lab is located in 233 Administration Education building. For more information, call 742-2397.

Saddle Tramps sponsor 'buster' contest

The Texas Tech Saddle Tramps will sponsor a homecoming buster contest for all organizations on campus. The deadline for entries has been extended until Tuesday.

A buster is a big poster that football players "bust" through as they run into the football stadium at the start of each football game.

All entries from organizations will receive points for the Homecoming Spirit Contest sponsored by the Student Organizations Services office.

Organizations are not allowed to use any letters or symbols on their buster design that would name or give support to their organization.

Tech media reps discuss policies

By DAWNA COWAN
The University Daily

Representatives from La Ventana, KTXT-FM and The University Daily answered questions from campus leaders and students Wednesday during Meet the Press day.

Students questioned Steve Mahnich, station manager of KTXT about extending the station's Wednesday night three-hour college music program.

Mahnich said the station's format is set by an adviser. The music played on KTXT is contemporary hit radio, he said.

"There is a wide band of people who like the music," he said.

Mahnich said the station cannot air every public service announcement, but he encouraged students to provide information to the station on events and activities to be publicized.

The goal of the station is to provide professional experience to students who work at the station, Mahnich said.

University Daily Editor Scott Brumley addressed a student's question about administrative regulation of the campus newspaper.

tions," he said.

He said historically there have been no real problems, but even if the School of Mass Communications wanted to regulate the newspaper, it could not.

The UD falls under the jurisdiction of the student publications department and receives a portion of student service fees at the beginning of each year, but after that, the newspaper relies on advertising sales for funding, Brumley said.

He said guest columns and letters to the editor are welcome.

"We'll print any letter to the editor that goes through the proper channel," he said.

La Ventana Editor Leslie Legg said mug shots for the yearbook will be taken Monday through October 14 in room 209 of the University Center. Mug shots cost $3, she said.

"Any registered student organization can buy as many pages as they want in the yearbook for $95 a page," she said.

Moment's Notice

Moment's Notice is a service of The University Daily for student and university organizations. Publication of all announcements is subject to the judgment of UD editors and availability of space. Anyone who wants to place a Moment's Notice announcement should come to the UD newsroom on the second floor of the journalism building and fill out a separate form for EACH DAY THE NOTICE IS TO APPEAR. Notices of meetings may run twice, and notices concerning applications may run three times.

UC Open House offers mystery

By TIM WEINHEIMER
The University Daily

The University Center will be hosting its Second Annual Open House September 16 starting at 6 p.m. However, something seems to be amiss — a scandal is brewing!

Now is your opportunity to solve the big mystery. Someone will be murdered Friday, but the culprit is unknown. Will it be the maintenance man, the librarian, the secretary or the English student?

A "world-reknoned" detective will be on hand to conduct the investigation, but he will need some help.

For only a $1 cover charge at the door, students help solve the mystery while engaging in other UC fun, including:

★ Mini-Murder Mystery: Solve the crime and have your name put into a drawing for a prize from 6 p.m.-10 p.m.

★ Star Trax Recording Booth: Students can record their all-time favorite song from 6 p.m.-10 p.m.

★ Tie Dye Off-The-Wall Gallery: Create your own artistic t-shirt from 6 p.m.-10 p.m.

★ Tech Food Sampler: Sponsored by Texas Tech Housing and Dining Services, UC Catering and the UC Cafeteria.

★ Pizza Eating Contest at Guido's Pizzeria in the UC Cafeteria.

★ 25th anniversary appearance of billiards trick shot artist Jack White: Courtyard demonstration at 6:30 p.m.

★ Feature film: "Beetlejuice," 10 p.m. in the UC Allen Theatre.

Chisholm, a pop/country band from Dallas, will perform from 8:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the UC courtyard. The group has performed with Alabama, The Judds, Randy Travis, John Schneider and Marie Osmond.

Other highlights of the evening include a magic show by Steve "Trash" Richerson, Games Rooms contests, laser print sale, movie poster giveaway, fashion show and all you can eat cotton candy.

More than 25,000 Texas Tech students attended the Open House last year. As a result, the UC folks expect this year's event to be bigger and better than ever.

The UC's check cashing services and automatic tellers will be available to students not attending the event. Students need to be aware that the UC will close at 5:30 p.m. on Friday before opening at 6 p.m.

Phillips picks up from end of '87

Cougar receiver named for record-breaking game

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Houston Cougar receiver Jason Phillips, who led the nation in receiving with 99 catches last season, anticipated creative double coverages designed to cut down his receiving opportunities last weekend.

Instead, Louisiana Tech treated him just like another receiver and suffered the consequences. Phillips caught 16 passes for 224 yards and two touchdowns as the Cougars got off to a record-popping start with a 60-0 victory.

The performance earned Phillips the Southwest Conference Offensive Player of the Week honor and the Cougars took the national lead in total offense.

Baylor linebacker Gary Joe Kinne, a 5-11, 227-pound junior from Mesquite, earned the SWC Defensive Player of the Week honor for his performance in a 27-14 victory over Kansas.

"It didn't appear to me that they tried to key on me," Phillips said of Louisiana Tech. "They had a lot of young people in their secondary and I think they just tried to run their regular defense and not confuse the young players."

"We came out the first game and really expected to perform like we did," Phillips said. "We played exceptionally well the last four games last season so we knew what we could do."

The Cougars take their run-and-shoot offense against Missouri this week.

Kinne blocked a field goal attempt that was picked off by teammate Robert Blackmon and returned 64 yards for a touchdown.

Kinne also had an 11-yard interception return and contributed five tackles, two for losses totaling six yards.

The Bears' defense held Kansas to 160 total yards.

Dallas in Walker's hands

By The Associated Press

IRVING — Just call them "The Herschel Walker Cowboys."

It became 100 percent clear on Monday night that the fate of the 1988 Dallas Cowboys rests solely on the performance of Walker.

Walker carried nine times on the winning 81-yard touchdown drive as the Cowboys defeated the Phoenix Cardinals 17-14.

Dallas ran 24 plays in the fourth period and Walker touched the ball on 17 of those plays, accounting for 88 of the club's 122 yards.

"That's what I envisioned when I decided to put Tony Dorsett on the bench," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "Herschel can just dominate a game. You can be in perfect position and he will still break a tackle and make a big play."

The loudly objecting 33-year-old Dorsett was traded to Denver so the 26-year-old Walker could become the Cowboys' prime offensive weapon.

"I like to carry the ball a lot," Walker said. "I get into the flow of the game that way."

Walker ran 29 times for 149 yards against the Cardinals.

"Ideally, we like to get the ball into his hands 30 to 35 times a game," Landry said. "Phoenix did a good job of double-teaming Herschel on pass coverage so we just pitched it to him. He's powerful and always seems to be stronger in the fourth quarter than he is in the first quarter."

Landry did admit he may have stretched Walker to his limit on the 81-yard drive.

Gaylord will exercise option, purchase Texas from Chiles

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY — Billionaire Edward Gaylord has decided to exercise his option to purchase the majority 58 percent interest in the Texas Rangers' baseball club of the American League from Eddie Chiles, Gaylord-owned radio station WKY-AM said Wednesday.

Gaylord indicated a major factor in his decision was to ensure continued presence of Texas Rangers baseball in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. The price tag for the Rangers and Arlington Stadium is an estimated $80 million.

A number of Oklahoma publishing companies are headquartered in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Gaylord also says he was reluctant to sell his company's 38 percent interest to "another party whose allegiance may be stronger to another state than to the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex."

A group headed by Tampa, Fla., automobile dealer Frank Morsani had agreed in principle to buy the team from Chiles, who later expressed regret that he hadn't got them to agree to not move the team from Texas.

Jones files suit against draft

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers second round draft pick Quintin Jones, a season long holdout, joined the NFL Players Association anti-trust suit against the NFL as a co-plaintiff, the player's agent said Tuesday.

"We're attacking the draft as an illegal mechanism for distribution of talent," Jones' agent, Gusto Sunseri told KRIV-TV of Houston. "We're looking for free agency."

Jones sat out the entire preseason in a contract dispute with the Oilers and General Manager Ladd Herzeg.

Sunseri said Herzeg is the problem in getting a contract resolution.

"If anyone else was involved, there would be a more reasonable solution," Sunseri said. "He seems to attract litigation. I don't think it's good for the team or the league, especially when they are on a championship trek here."

Jones said the suit appeared to be the only means of resolving his status.
