

Residents of Texas coast flee Hurricane Gilbert

By The Associated Press

BROWNSVILLE — Thousands of coastal residents from Mexico to Louisiana fled to higher ground Thursday as fierce Hurricane Gilbert churned in the Gulf of Mexico, building strength after thrashing the Yucatan Peninsula.

"This is a killer storm," said Gordon Guthrie, director of the Florida Division of Emergency Management. "I feel sorry for anybody wherever this hits."

The death toll from the storm's onslaught through the Caribbean islands was at least 34, and damage estimates reached $8 billion.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements issued an emergency proclamation allowing local authorities to suspend laws "to preserve the health, safety and welfare of the public," including such things as the direction of travel on highways.

Grocery stores ran low on bottled water, batteries, canned tuna and bread as people laid in supplies. Homeowners covered windows and doors with plywood and shatter-proofing hurricane tape. Offshore oil workers left their rigs in the Gulf of Mexico.

Bob Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said the 450-mile wide storm would likely make landfall today at about noon along the northern coast of Mexico or southern Texas.

In Brownsville, Texas' southernmost city, winds began to pick up around noon Thursday under overcast skies.

Lorena Curry, who has lived in Brownsville since 1935, said she plans to ride out the storm. "I've been through them before. I'm going to stick around at my home." But she added, "I could get along without a hurricane very well."

At 11 a.m. CDT, the storm center was about 410 miles southeast of Brownsville, moving west-northwest at about 15 mph and dumping about 10 inches of rain, according to the National Weather Service.

The weather service issued a hurricane warning for Mexico's northern coast and the southern half of the 370-mile Texas coast from Brownsville to Port O'Connor, including 250,000-resident Corpus Christi. A hurricane watch remained in effect for the remainder of the Texas coast, from Port O'Connor north to Port Arthur near the Louisiana border.

The weather service said warnings might be extended northward, depending upon Gilbert's path.

Gilbert surged into the gulf after battering the Yucatan Peninsula in Mexico with 160 mph winds, forcing tens of thousands to flee.

After crossing the peninsula, Gilbert's winds weakened to 120 mph, but forecasters predicted the storm would intensify again as it moves over open water.

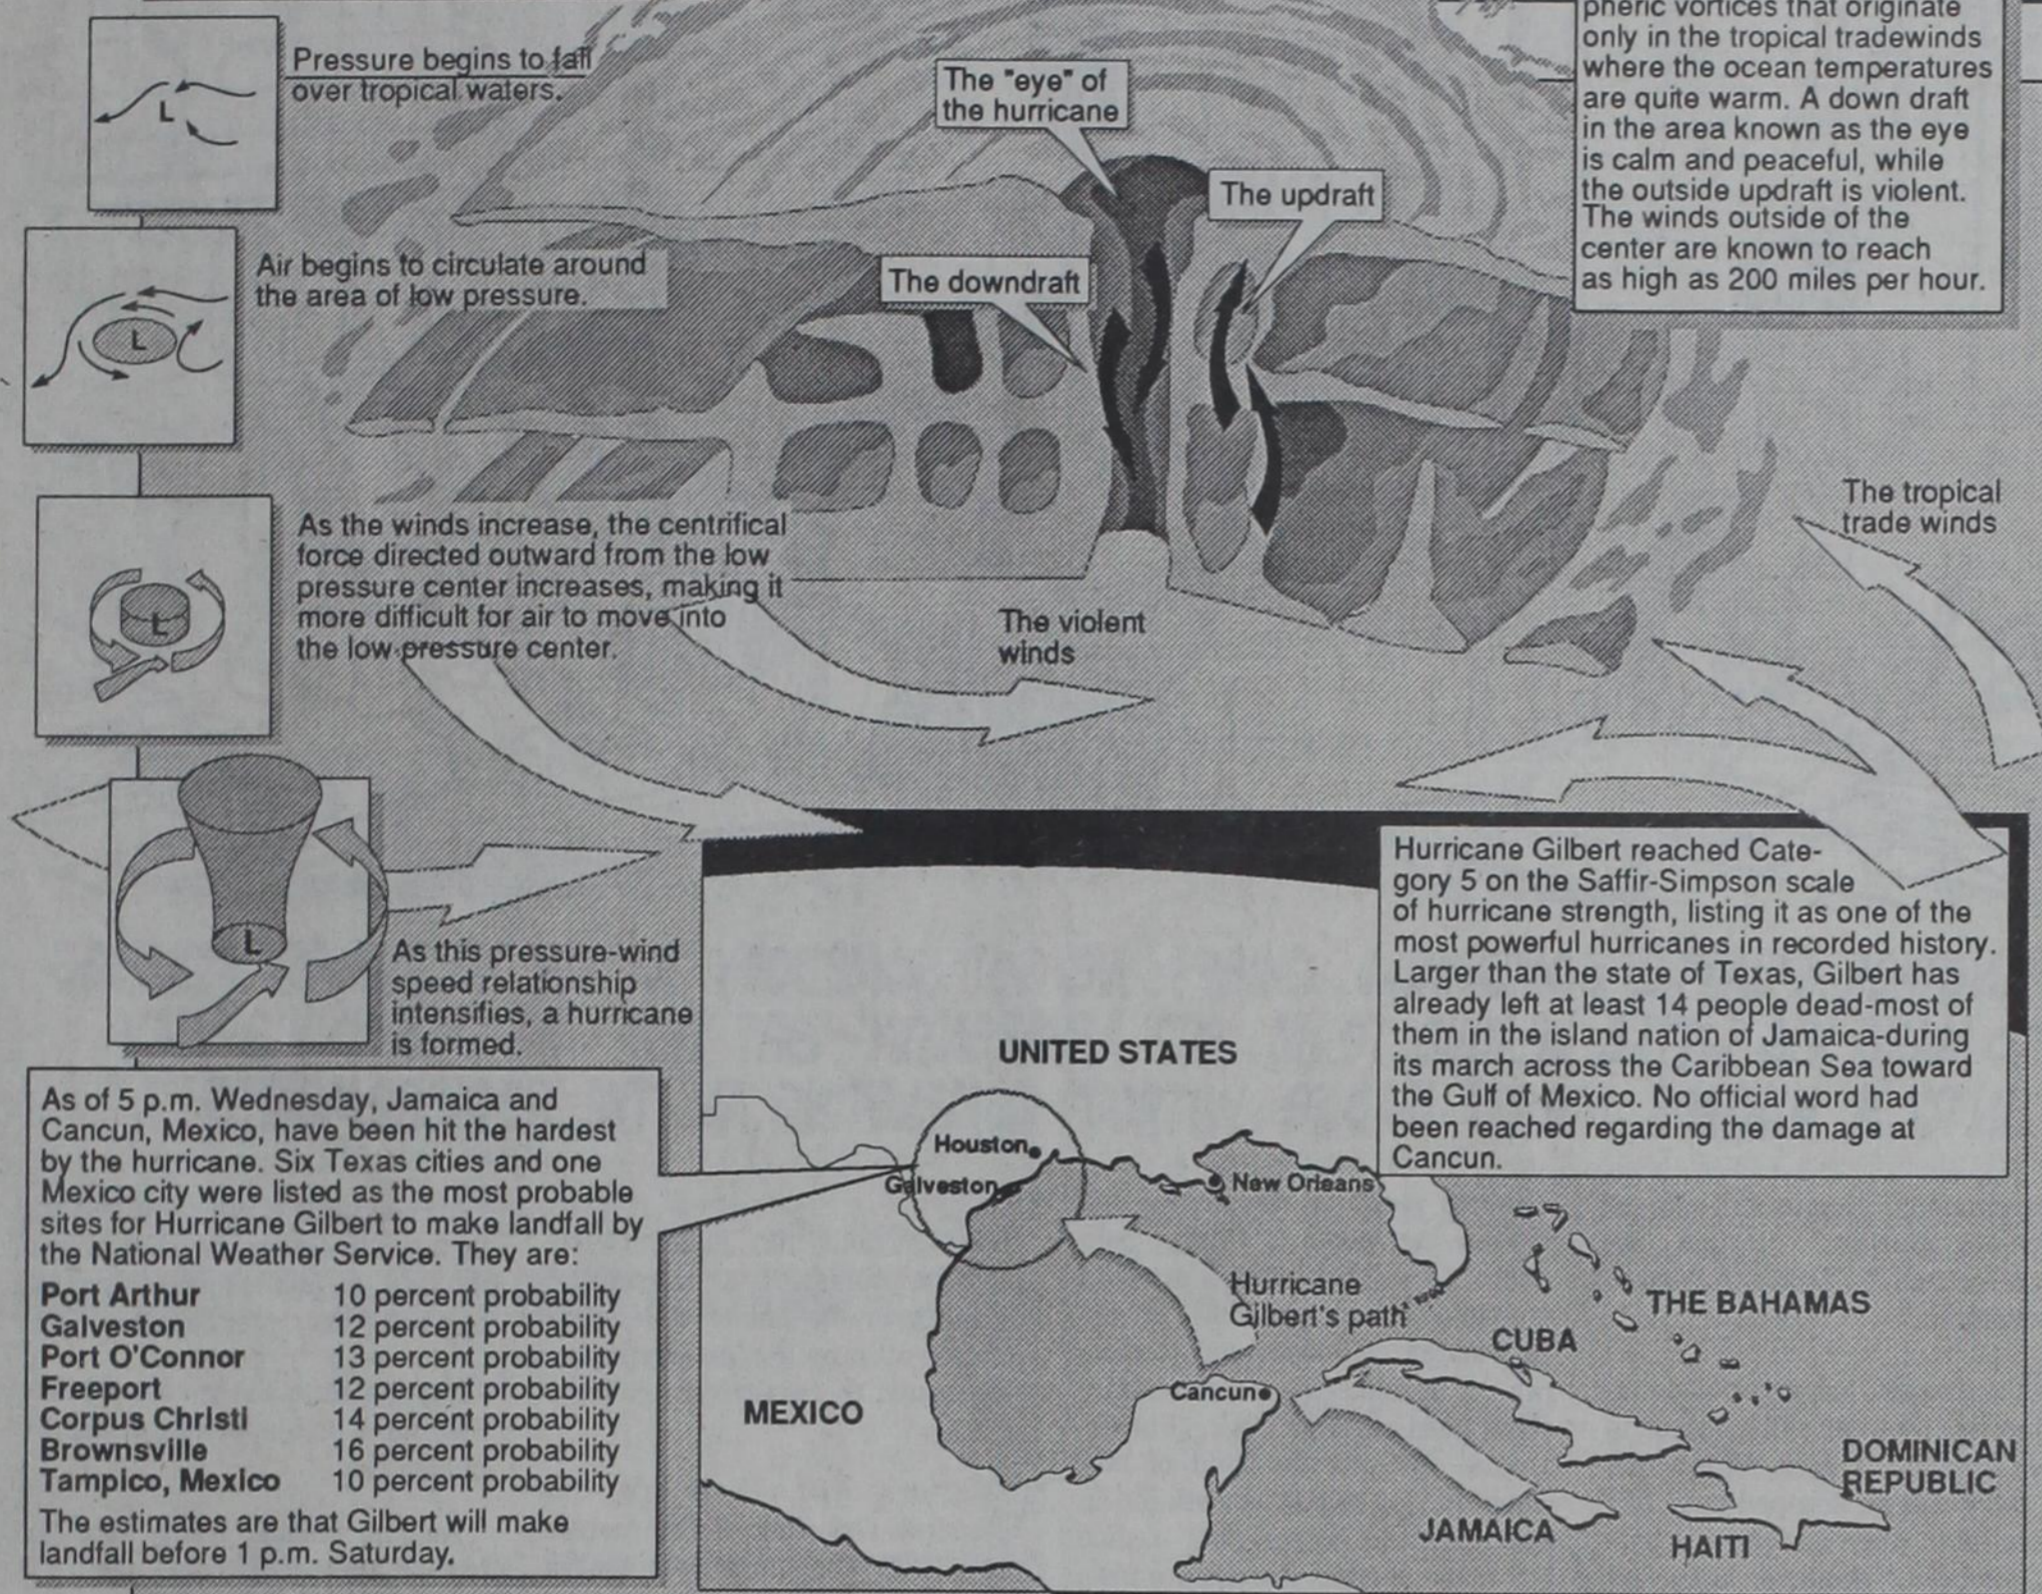

"The shower and thunderstorm activity that we see taking place around the hurricane itself is getting better organized, more vigorous, so we think it's starting to strengthen," said Sheets at the Hurricane Center.

Sheets said the hurricane's sustained winds would "certainly increase to 130, 140 miles per hour."

Cavazos moves one step closer to presidential cabinet

By GARY HARPER
The University Daily

Outgoing Texas Tech President Lauro Cavazos was unanimously confirmed Thursday afternoon by the U.S. Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources to fulfill the post of secretary of education.

The confirmation puts Cavazos one step away from the cabinet position as the approval of the U.S. Senate will be sought next week.

According to Rich Adams, press secretary for U.S. Rep. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, the committee confirmed Cavazos about 4:30 p.m. CDT. Cavazos was in Washington, D.C., last week to answer questions before the committee concerning his qualifications to head the U.S. Department of Education.

Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the committee, praised Cavazos after Thursday's vote and said he would bring "fresh leadership and a new dedication to excellence in education and a less confrontational approach to this all-important issue." President Reagan's nomination of Cavazos last month has been criticized as being politically motivated to increase the Hispanic vote for Republican presidential nominee George Bush.

If confirmed, Cavazos would serve only until Reagan's term expires in January, but Sen. Phil Gramm, R-College Station, said he believes if Bush wins the presidential race, Cavazos will remain in the position.

"Larry's dad was a cowboy on the King Ranch, he joined the Army right out of high school and worked his way through college and graduate school to become the nation's top educator," Gramm said. "He did it the hard way, but in doing so he proved to every American that it can be done."

"I expect him to be confirmed (by the Senate) unanimously. I would be very surprised if anybody voted against Larry."

At the hearing, Cavazos told committee members that education is the solution to many American problems.

Tech enrollment shows increase

By GUY LAWRENCE
The University Daily

Texas Tech enrollment has increased 4.3 percent over 1987 figures, according to 12th day unofficial figures released by the office of admissions and records.

Gene Medley, director of the Office of Admissions and Records, said the unofficial enrollment figure is 24,566 students, an increase of 1,002 above 1987 official figures.

The unofficial number will fluctuate, Medley said, because of adjustments made through the graduate school, bursar's office and financial aid office.

Medley said he expects about 50 to 75 graduate students to register late. He said that increase might be offset by students who drop because they did not qualify for financial aid.

Medley said his office releases the 12th-day-of-class enrollment figure and passes the information to the statistics and reports office.

The statistics and reports office has until Nov. 1 to report official enrollment figures to the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board in Austin.

Enrollment figures showed large increases in both entering freshmen and continuing students, Medley said. There were 573 more continuing students and 531 more entering freshmen than 1987 fall enrollment.

Tech suffered minor decreases in transfer students and re-admission students, he said. There were 44 fewer transfer students and 21 fewer readmission students compared to 1987 enrollment figures.

The College of Arts and Sciences received the lion's share of the enrollment increase, with 824 more students over last year's enrollment for the college, according to enrollment figures.

Charles Kellogg, associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said the increase probably is a sum of many factors, one of which is a nationwide renewed interest in liberal arts education.

Kellogg said steps taken to increase the admission standards of the university have had a positive effect on enrollment.

Robert Ewalt, vice president for student affairs, said it is too soon to determine what factors contributed to the enrollment increase. The student affairs office will study the enrollment data over the next several weeks to shed light on the reasons behind the increases, he said.

Lin Carter, assistant director of the Office of New Student Relations, said one of the reasons for the increase in freshman enrollment probably is a result of the campuswide coordinated and centralized effort in recruiting prospective students.

Senators OK resolution to study Texxans status

By DAWNA COWAN
The University Daily

The Texas Tech Student Senate approved a resolution during its Thursday night meeting to send the status of the Texxans, a senate support group, to an ad-hoc committee to be studied.

Senator Kendra McKenzie introduced the resolution to the senate. McKenzie had authored legislation at the senate retreat in Ceta Glen Sunday asking the senate to abolish the Texxans.

The resolution stated that former Texxans and any members of the Student Association (which includes every student enrolled at Texas Tech) can serve on the committee. Members of the ad-hoc committee must report to the senate by Dec. 1 with plans for the future of Texxans.

After the meeting, Senator Rodney Markham said he was pleased with the response from 10 senators who already had expressed interest in the committee.

Senator David Zook introduced a resolution to implement a voter registration drive, with the Intergovernmental Relations Committee taking responsibility for the drive.

The senate passed the resolution, which stated that the voter registration drive will take place Sept. 19-24 and Oct. 3-7.

Settlement of grievances against TTUHSC reached

By LAURA MERRILL
The University Daily

A settlement of grievances was reached Wednesday between a biochemistry professor at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center and the university administration, the Texas Faculty Association reported.

Wendell Leavitt was released from employment at the TTUHSC this year after filing grievances against the administration last May. He was reinstated to his lab after a federal restraining order was issued. Faculty Association attorneys had filed for the order on constitutional grounds.

In the grievance, Leavitt claimed that the administration failed to evaluate his performance fairly, interfered with grants between him, the National Science Foundation and National Institute of Health, denied him and his colleagues use of TTUHSC equipment and facilities and access to departmental funds and failed to maintain contractual agreements between him and the university.

Preston Lewis, manager of the TTUHSC Bureau of News and Publications, said that under terms of the settlement, the results of the agreement reached between Leavitt and administration representatives will be kept confidential.

"They think it's in the best interest of the parties involved not to release details," Lewis said.

Engine failure ruled out as primary cause of Delta crash, NTSB reports

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Federal investigators Thursday ruled out engine failure as the primary cause of the crash of a Delta Air Lines jet last month, saying there was no evidence the engines suffered a mechanical breakdown prior to impact.

The Aug. 31 crash as the Boeing 727 was attempting to take off from the Dallas-Fort Worth airport killed 14 of the 108 people aboard. The three pilots survived, but none were able to shed light on the cause of the crash in initial interviews.

Early speculation on the cause of the accident centered on the plane's three engines because witnesses saw flames coming from an engine and one of the pilots was heard on the cockpit recorder to refer to "engine failure" shortly before the crash.

But the National Transportation Safety Board said Thursday a detailed examination of the three Pratt & Whitney JT8D engines at the company's facilities in Connecticut "indicated there was no evidence of pre-impact failure."

"There was evidence that all engines were running as commanded and capable of producing full power at the time of impact," the NTSB said in a brief statement.

The findings also seemed to rule out the possibility that an object or bird was sucked into an engine since that would have been evident when the engines were reassembled.

NTSB spokesman Mike Benson said the findings do not necessarily rule out a compressor stall or series of stalls that could have been caused by a disruption of air flow through the engine as a result of other problems.

What does America want to see? Not the news

Quayle feeding frenzy bores TV, print media aficionados

Russell Baker
Columnist

NEW YORK — Newspapers and television overdid the Dan Quayle story. The result was the infamous feeding frenzy.

The public was revolted, especially at breakfast time. It was bad for the image of the press. It was bad for the image of television.

And justly so. In the old days, there were certain stories, certain pictures that were not used in newspapers meant for the breakfast table. Dan Quayle being subjected to a feeding frenzy was such a story.

In the old days editors took one look at such stories and cried, "Is this a feeding frenzy?" If the answer was yes, there was an editing frenzy, and the offending material was killed.

To prevent another feeding frenzy and improve the image of the American news industry, the following rules are now in effect:

1. When in doubt, poll.
Assume there will be an event that is totally unanticipated and likely to be of great interest to many millions.

Yes, an event like the disclosure that an almost perfect stranger named Dan Quayle could become president of the United States.

To leave personalities out of it, let's say star-gazers have just discovered that a gigantic meteor on a collision course with the Earth is going to strike New York.

Does the public really want a lot on this story? Won't millions be disgusted if their regular television programs are pre-empted for news of the imminent collision? Won't millions more who already suspect the press of a morbid preference for bad news rather than good have their worst suspicions confirmed?

And what about conservatives from other regions who consider New York the home of elitist liberalism?

Will they interpret heavy news coverage as more proof of what they've known for years — to wit, that the media swarm with elitist liberals who wouldn't give a hoot if a meteor destroyed Huntington, Indiana?

Instead of rushing into print and interrupting "All My Children," editors will wait for results of a poll on the following question:

How interested would you be in learning that a big meteor was about to wipe out a good-size American city? Responses will be in four categories: extremely interested, pretty interested, mildly interested, not interested a bit.

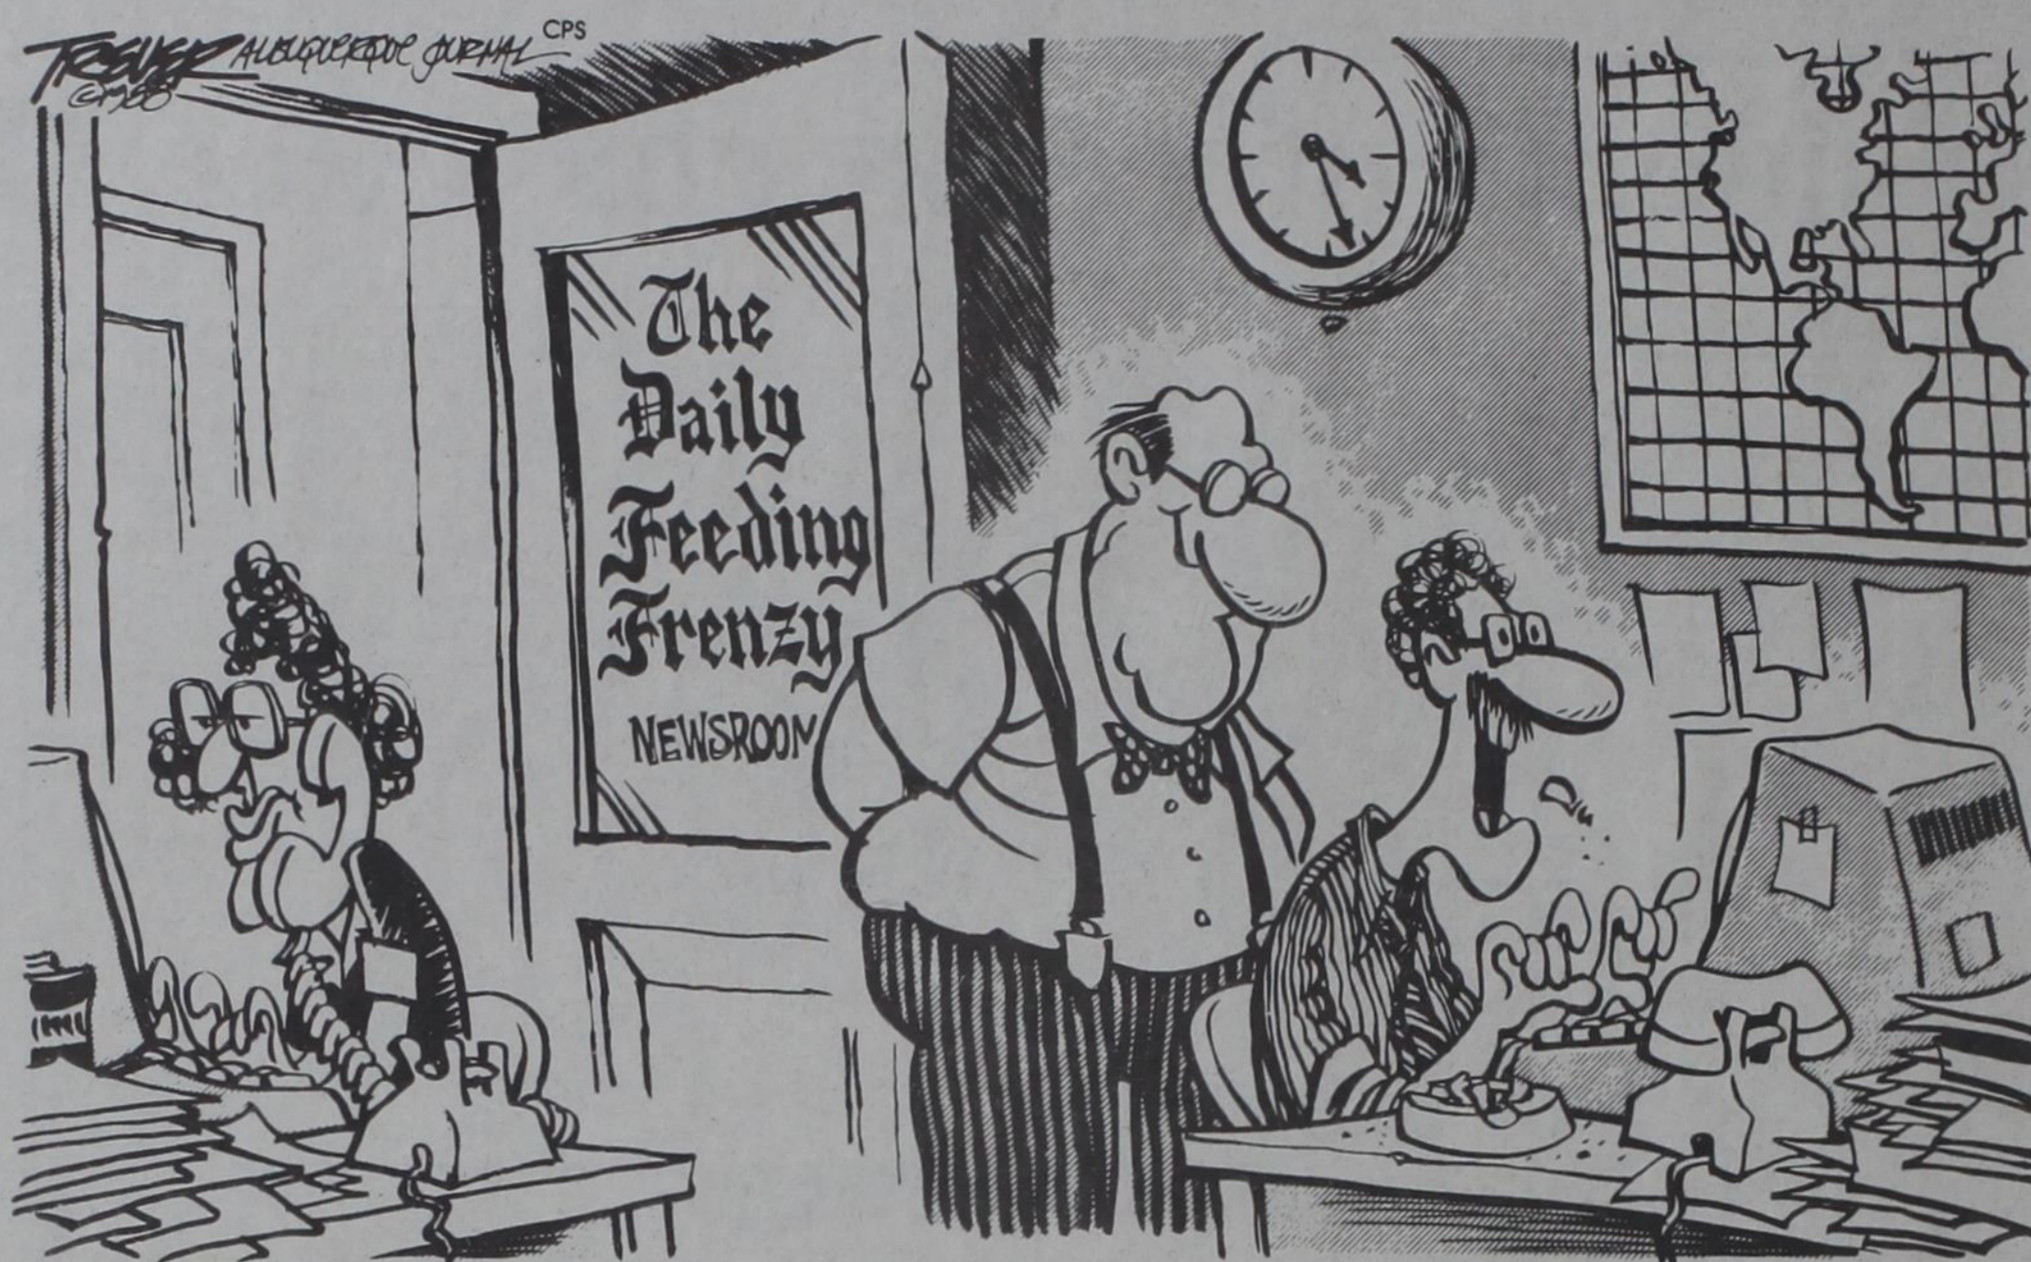

2. Fit the coverage to the poll.
If more than 50 percent of the sample falls in the "mildly interested" and "not interested" categories, the story will be covered by no more than 10 reporters until the collision occurs.

After that, 20 reporters will be permitted on the day after impact, 16 on the second day, 9 on the third, 5 on the fourth, and 2 for three days thereafter.

By this time another poll will be available on the public's appetite for continuing the coverage.

The question: How do you feel about continuing coverage of the meteoric destruction of New York?

The possible answers:

"ANOTHER QUAYLE BOMBHELL, CHIEF! WE GOT SOMEBODY TO SAY HE PULLED STRINGS TO MAKE HIS LITTLE LEAGUE TEAM, AND APPARENTLY—GET THIS—HE TALKED HIS WAY INTO A HIKING MERIT BADGE WITHOUT COMPLETING ALL THE REQUIREMENTS!"

"Fascinated," "Not as dull as most week-old stories," "Rather see more football," "Sick and tired of whole thing."

If the first two answers poll a majority, one reporter will continue to cover for another week, after which the story will be dropped until two weeks later when editors will permit one brief "Whatever happened to New York?" article.

This may be followed a week later by the usual editorial and columnist material scolding Washington for not moving faster to fill the hole where New York stood, drawing profound moral parallels to the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, or reminiscing sentimentally about good old New York. (For example: "It was the kind of city where paying $3,500 a month for an apartment no bigger than a shoe box made you feel it was pure bliss to be alive.")

3. Always remember the public has feelings about news coverage, too.

Though polls may justify covering the collision, a substantial minority of the public will be offended, even by the low-key reporting bound to result from Rules 1 and 2.

Editors will, therefore, intersperse reporting of the meteor story with announcements that a remarkably beguiling story of interest to all mankind will be reported as soon as this unpleasant meteor thing has run its course.

To keep this promise, a poll will be taken to determine what story of the past the public loved more than any other story ever reported. To be sure, it's time the media realized they have obligations to please the public, too.

And no feeding frenzy like last time in Monaco, either!

Baker is a syndicated columnist for the New York Times News Service.

Geographical goof-up

To the editor:

In light of the problem Americans have with geography, it would seem that the media would be doing what it could to better help the reading public in this regard.

However, the map on the front page of the Sept. 13 University Daily depicts West Germany as having a common border with Russia and Poland. This is simply not the case.

The Federal Republic of Germany (West) is bordered by the German Democratic Republic and Czechoslovakia, not Poland and Russia.

Get out of journalism

To the editor:

I am a citizen of the European community currently studying at Texas Tech. As I do every morning, I picked up a copy of The University Daily.

I was really shocked by the map on your front page. The geopolitical knowledge of Mr. Mark Harlien appears to be fairly limited. Let me be his tutor in European geography for a moment.

First of all, Mr. Alien, there are four countries missing. These countries are named, respectively, East Germany, Luxembourg, Denmark and Czechoslovakia. East Germany, as her name indicates, is located east of West Germany. The capital of East Germany is Berlin. If this does not sound familiar to you, I am afraid that your background in contemporary history resembles yours in geography.

For your own information and education, Denmark shares a border with the Lander of Schleswig Holstein. The capital of Denmark is Copenhagen. Concerning Luxembourg, I have to inform you that this country has not yet been annexed by France, Germany or Belgium.

Mr. Scott Brumley, in case you do not know, the role of the editor is to verify what is inside his newspaper.

I suggest you both retire before further damaging the reputation of our university.

Gilbert wake sets stage for aid

Scott Brumley
Editor

Many things can be — and have been — said about Texans. People from the Lone Star State have been called proud, arrogant, boastful and monomaniacally defensive about their homeland.

No one, however, can rightfully say that Texans are unwilling to lend a helping hand when such assistance is needed.

And such assistance almost assuredly will be needed within the next 24 hours.

Where? The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and its eyes in the sky and on the ground aren't saying they're certain, but meteorological harbingers point to Hurricane Gilbert — the most intense storm ever recorded in the Western Hemisphere — making its northern Gulf Coast landing somewhere along the Texas coast sometime today.

Texans have come to each other's aid admirably in similar situations in the past. The aftermath of the tornado that ravaged Wichita Falls in 1979 is a prime example.

From Lubbock alone, truckloads of bedding, clothing, supplies and food were sent to the disaster area as citizens banded together to provide aid to storm victims.

Wherever the storm strikes land, death, flooding and destruction are sure to follow. Enter the rest of the state's role — indeed, its duty — to assist the soon-to-be-stricken coast.

Money, food, clothing, bedding and almost any other imaginable necessity will be in short supply after Gilbert's unwelcome landfall, and such commodities can be provided by those not directly affected by the hurricane.

So, as the most intense storm on record in the Western Hemisphere prepares to make its assault on the northern Gulf Coast, Lubbock residents — including members of the Tech community — should prepare to offer any assistance possible to the hurricane's victims.

After all, wouldn't it be nice to think that Lubbock could expect the same emergency aid should a tornado or other natural disaster befall the Hub City?

Bush favors North innocence; Dukakis amazed by park fires

By The Associated Press

George Bush said Thursday he hopes Oliver North is found innocent of charges in the Iran-Contra affair and declined to rule out a pardon if the former White House aide is convicted. Michael Dukakis toured Yellowstone National Park and said he was "awestruck" by the summer's fire damage.

Bush seized the role of campaign aggressor for the day, saying that under Dukakis, Massachusetts has fared poorly on the creation of jobs. He derisively awarded his Democratic rival a gold medal in the "tax and spend" competition. But the vice president's attack was marred when he omitted a word from his prepared text and said Massachusetts had lost jobs since 1983. Official figures show the state has lost manufacturing jobs — as Bush's prepared speech said — but overall employment has risen by more than 200,000 jobs.

Dukakis' aides in Massachusetts rushed to criticize Bush's claim, but the governor himself at first said, "I'll be responding to that sometime next week."

Later in the same session with reporters, without further prompting, he said: "If this nation had 3 percent unemployment (the rate in Massachusetts) and had 10 years of balanced budgets and had the record that we have, we could be looking forward to a future of strength and optimism and jobs for everybody."

The topic of the Iran-Contra affair arose when Bush fielded questions from high school students in California and was asked whether he would pardon North.

"The question is for me — pardon imputes guilt. And therefore I have refused to speculate on this because I want to see this man have a fair trial. I hope he's found innocent. I'm not one of the North critics. I'm not one of these people that are jumping all over this guy," he said.

"So I hope he's found innocent and then I'd have to make a determination later on as to the equity in that nature."

Livestock Day kicks off Golden Spur Weekend

By MICHELLE STRICKER
The University Daily

The Texas Tech Ranching Heritage Association, the College of Agricultural Sciences and the animal science department are sponsoring Livestock Day today in conjunction with the Golden Spur Weekend.

Bob Long, chairman of the department of animal science, said a full day of events is planned at the livestock arena. Long will act as master of ceremonies for the morning programs.

This year's livestock theme is sheep, and Bill Sims of the Texas Sheep Industry will speak during the morning session on political and promotional programs dealing with the industry.

Dedication of the newly constructed Tech meats laboratory will take place at 11:30 a.m. today. Sam Curl, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, will act as master of ceremonies.

Remarks will be made during the dedication by U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and Kenneth A. Gilles, U.S. assistant secretary of agriculture for marketing and inspection services.

U.S. Reps. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, and Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, also are scheduled to attend.

Bob Albin, associate dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, will be master of ceremonies for the afternoon session, which will continue until 3 p.m. Programs on predator control, llamas and sheep dogs are among the topics of the afternoon session.

Concluding the events will be the presentation of the 11th annual National Golden Spur Award from the Ranching Heritage Center.

Storm damages Amarillo homes

AMARILLO (AP) — A severe thunderstorm, which some eyewitnesses said produced a tornado, belted this West Texas city, damaging about 120 homes, but no serious injuries were reported.

The storms, which began Tuesday and lingered through Wednesday morning, caused at least $300,000 in damage in one neighborhood in the southwest part of Amarillo, officials said.

Herb McGregor, tax assessor-collector for Amarillo, said 120 homes, including about 20 mobile homes that were dislodged from their foundations, were damaged. Two of the mobile homes were heavily damaged, but most of the other structures received only minor roof or window damage, he said.

Amarillo authorities said several people suffered minor injuries.

Program assists older students

By GUY LAWRENCE
The University Daily

Students who do not fit the typical mold of entering freshmen can find support for surviving the college experience from a new program in the continuing education office.

"It makes a difference to the university that they are here," Judy Copeland, a Texas Tech specialist in curriculum development, said of students who are older and work in outside jobs more than average students.

Copeland said the program will introduce study skills such as attention, test taking, time management, memory, reading comprehension, speed reading and note taking.

"If you read every word that is assigned to you, you're reading too much," Copeland said.

Practical, useful information is given to the class members involved in the program, and there are no homework assignments, Copeland said. Each session should provide the student with a new skill, she said.

The program will take place at noon on Mondays and Tuesdays in 206 continuing education building. The continuing education office still is accepting enrollees for the program, which will begin Monday.

Copeland, who has been in continuing education for eight years and in curriculum development for two years, said non-traditional students are the hardest to reach because they do not share the same communication network as traditional students.

She said more and more non-traditional students are enrolling at Tech at later stages of their life. Some students delay going to college because of military service, family commitments or work, she said.

Copeland said she is a "true believer" in higher education and that "education is the backbone of a strong society."

Some students are intimidated about the registration process and are deterred from returning to school, Copeland said.

She said the program also will familiarize students with campus procedures and policies.

Campus organizations inform at fair

By DAWNA COWAN
The University Daily

Students and organizations will be able to get acquainted from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today during the Activities Fair in the University Center ballroom, said Andy Kean, assistant coordinator of student activities.

"The Activities Fair is to provide an opportunity for students to see what organizations are available on campus in one location at one time," he said.

The Activities Fair provides an informal way for students to obtain information about the different organizations available to them on campus, Kean said.

"Sometimes students feel uncomfortable at meetings. This (Activities Fair) is a real non-threatening way to go by and pick up information," he said. "I hope a lot of people take advantage of it."

The Activities Fair also will be an opportunity for organizations to recruit new members quickly and easily, he said.

Kean said there will be 55 organizations with booths at the event to promote their particular organization. He said there will be more organizations present at this year's fair than in the past.

Technical school grant promotes writing skills

By AUDRA SPRAY
The University Daily

The Texas Project in Writing Across the Curriculum has been awarded a grant to encourage broader writing curriculums in vocational and technical schools.

The project received a Carl Perkins Vocational Education grant totaling $44,948 from the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board in August.

The project is staffed by David Chapman, an assistant professor of English; Don Cunningham, a professor of English; Jeanette Harris, an associate professor of English; and Thomas Barker, an assistant professor of the English. All are members of the Texas Tech English department faculty.

The project centers on vocational and technical schools where students are not required to do much writing. Wendell Aycock, associate chairman of the English department, said such programs are sweeping the country. "We want to encourage people to learn to write no matter what field they are in," he said.

The project will focus only on two-year schools and will not affect the curriculum at Tech, although Chapman said he would like to see a similar program at Tech.

At first, instructors at two-year schools expressed doubts about the program, but there were positive results.

"We make a distinction between writing to show learning, such as essays and term papers, and writing to learn," Chapman, the project's director, said. "In-class writing, such as journals and reaction papers, help the student the most in learning the content of the course."

Tech Talks

Today's question:

What do you think could be done to prevent further airline disasters such as Delta Flight 1141 on Aug. 29?

Reporter : Gary Harper

Photographer : Matt Brunworth

Kelly Burns
Fr., Pre-Med, Amarillo

"I don't think they're checking the planes well enough. If they shut down planes and check them more thoroughly, it wouldn't happen."

Maria Froemming
Soph., Telecommunications, Houston

"I think more routine checks of the mechanical workings of the airplanes would help prevent further incidents."

Mike Hill
Jr., Math, Lubbock

"I think air traffic controllers are overworked and too busy. There is too much to do and not enough workers."

Chuck Peterman
Sr., Animal Business, Enid, Okla.

"I think maybe more training and less emphasis on scheduling would help. The air traffic controllers should be more willing to ground planes."

Tanya Peters
Soph., History, Corpus Christi

"I guess they should check the planes more thoroughly before they take off. The FAA should increase standard regulations for planes."

Hurricane expected to hit at noon

Island, about 25 miles southeast of Brownsville, the mayor ordered its 1,000 residents to evacuate.
"We can't force them to leave, but it doesn't make any sense to stay," said Mayor Bob Pinkerton Jr., adding that water and electricity would be turned off Thursday afternoon.

Tropical storm force winds, at least 39 mph, extended outward up to 250 miles to the north and 200 miles to the south of the center.
The storm's first landfall earlier this week left at least 19 people dead in Jamaica, five in the Dominican Republic, and 10 in Haiti. It also left a half-million people homeless in Jamaica and caused widespread damage to the Cayman Islands.

The storm barreled into the Yucatan coast at dawn Wednesday, thrashing beaches with 23-foot waves, uprooting trees, knocking out electricity and water supplies and severing telephone lines.
Mexican officials reported at least seven injuries. There were no reports of deaths, but authorities were unable to reach many isolated villages.

Gilbert pounded the provincial capital of Merida and the gulf port cities of Puerto Progreso, Campeche and Ciudad del Carmen, closing airports and roads and knocking out communications and power and flooding streets and highways.

Ballet Hispanico to perform Saturday

Dancers celebrate heritage with grace

By TIM WEINHEIMER
The University Daily

To cap the three-day Fiestas del Llano celebration, Ballet Hispanico of New York will perform at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center Theatre at 8:15 p.m. Saturday.

Founded in 1967 as a professional dance company and school to represent the traditions and cultural development of Hispanic Americans, Ballet Hispanico since has performed for more than a million people in the United States, Europe, South America and the Caribbean.

The performance offers a brilliant image of the contemporary Spanish-speaking world, combining Hispanic themes, rhythms, music and color as it contributes to the world today. Hispanic dance forms will include flamenco, classical Spanish dance, Latin American folk dance and Caribbean rituals integrated to create a dynamic, fast-paced, theatrical vision of the Hispanic culture.

Texas Tech students can purchase tickets with a Tech ID for $8. All other tickets are priced at $12. Ballet Hispanico's visit to Lubbock can be credited to the Lubbock City Council, Civic Lubbock Inc. and University Center Programs.

Desert Rose Band spices cook-off with history

By GABRIELLA MINOTTI
The University Daily

Look! Up there in the sky ... it's a Byrd! It's a Flying Burrito Brother! No, it's the Desert Rose Band! Ex-Byrd member Chris Hillman and other Desert Rose Band members join the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity in launching the 12th annual SAE Chili Cook-off at Buffalo Springs Lake's stage area Saturday.

The cook-off, which is the largest Greek-related collegiate cook-off in the nation, will begin at noon Saturday and will benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

"It started as a small thing and has grown over the years," said Ed Chaney, chairman of the cook-off and an SAE member.

He said he expects the event to draw a large crowd of Tech students to the lake's stage area for the chili but also for the Desert Rose Band concert.

The band, consisting of members Chris Hillman, Herb Pedersen, John Jorgenson, Jay Dee Maness, Steve Duncan and Bill Bryson, will begin its concert performance at 3:30 p.m.

Sandy King, a representative of the band, said the band members expressed favorable feelings toward traveling to Lubbock.

"They (the band) feel that in Lubbock they are reaching their real fans and bringing the music back to the people," King said.

Hillman's previous record of musical success began with the group the Scottsville Squirrel Barkers, who released their debut album in 1963 entitled "Scottsville Squirrel Barkers." Hillman formed the Hillmen in 1964. From 1965 to 1982 Hillman played with the Byrds, where he made his most famous mark in the music world. The album "Mr. Tambourine Man" launched the Byrds' career, and in 1967 their album "The Byrds' Greatest Hits" went platinum. Their "Sweetheart of the Rodeo" album was one of the first albums recorded in Nashville by an established rock group in 1969. The Byrds broke up in 1982.

During Hillman's Byrd days, he also was a participating member of many other musical groups, such as the Flying Burrito Brothers from 1969 to 1973, Steven Stills' Manassas in 1972 and 1973, whose "Manassas" album went gold, the S H F Band in 1974 and 1975, Chris Hillman in 1976 through 1984, McGuinn, Clark & Hillman in 1979 and 1980, and Ever Call Ready in 1985.

Hillman's 25 years of musical inclination brought him to his current status as a Desert Rose Band member. The band released its first album in April 1987 entitled "The Desert Rose Band" by MCA/Curb Records. Current singles released from the album are "Ashes Of Love," "Love Reunited" and "One Step Forward."

But, wait, there's more. Chris Hillman also co-wrote Tom Petty's "So You Wanna Be A Rock 'n' Roll Star" and performed with Dan Fogelberg and Stephen Stills on their albums.

The Desert Rose Band often is referred to by fans as "California's country sound."

"Most people don't realize they like the Desert Rose Band until they hear the music and know who's in the band," Chaney said.

Chaney described the Desert Rose Band's music as "forward country with some rock influence."

"I never listened to country music that much before," Chaney admitted.

Any group or organization who wants to enter the cook-off may do so by attending a sign-up party at 14th Street Bar and Grill at 2424 14th St. at 6 p.m. today. The entry fee is $20 per four-member team. If additional people are on a team, they must pay $4.50 for an admission ticket.

Mark Wright of the Texas Cafe and Bar will hand-pick five cooks from Lubbock restaurants to judge the cook-off.

'Dive-in movies' ride waves into summer pool fun

© New York Times News Service

SAN DIMAS, Calif. — The drive-in movie has gone off the deep end. That's where the screen is, perched high and dry at the end of pool.

The viewers? All wet, most of them, floating in inner tubes as they and others on a surrounding embankment watch "Jaws," "The Creature From the Black Lagoon," "Crocodile Dundee" and less aquatic adventures.

"Dive-in movies" are in their second year as a summer weekend feature at Raging Waters, a 44-acre water amusement park in the hills of San Dimas, 35 miles east of Los Angeles.

Richard Hollingshead probably would approve. He was the New Jersey movie exhibitor who, in 1934, propped a projector on the hood of his Model A and hung a screen from an oak tree, creating the first drive-in.

The Texas Tech Recreational Aquatic Center pool also is diving into movie fare. The film "Cocoon" will be screened at the pool at 9:15 p.m. Saturday.

The free movie (all you need is a valid Tech ID) prominently features water in the story of aliens who inadvertently improve the vim and vigor of the local nursing home population.

The Rec Center pool will provide the inner tubes, popcorn, punch and water.

Pitcher 25th on strikeout list

Ryan Express rolls in season's second half

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI — Nolan Ryan's star hasn't burned out at age 41. His latest shining moment was a step back in time, to the days when he could overpower hitters with his fastball. Ryan pitched a four-hitter Wednesday night to lead Houston to a 7-1 victory over the admiring Cincinnati Reds.

"He pitched a masterpiece," Astros manager Hal Lanier said.

It was artistic, with Ryan's usual broad strokes. He threw a fastball clocked at 96 mph in the first inning. He allowed just four hits and fanned a season-high 13. He didn't walk a batter for his second consecutive start.

"It was a pleasure playing against him, and it's a pleasure watching him," Reds manager Pete Rose said. The pleasure's been Ryan's since the All-Star break.

Ryan went into a deep slump in June, going 0-5 in seven starts with a 6.20 earned run average. He beat New York on July 9 to end the skid, and wound up 6-7 with a 4.26 ERA at the All-Star break.

The Ryan Express has rolled again in the second half. He's 6-4 in 13 starts for the weak-hitting Astros with a 2.60 ERA.

"He's pitched well since the All-Star break," Lanier said. "We've started scoring some runs for him. He's pitched some big ballgames for us."

His most recent starts have been his best. Ryan has allowed just four earned runs and 22 hits in his last five starts, covering 39 innings. Ryan, who has led his league in walks eight times during his career, hasn't allowed a walk in his last 20 innings.

While the walks get fewer, the strikeouts remain plentiful. He leads the National League with 224 strikeouts, and has fanned 10 or more batters seven times this season to push his total in that category to 181. His career numbers are 4,771 strikeouts and 273 wins against 253 losses, ranking him 25th on the all-time victory list with Red Ruffing.

Rose, who loved the challenge of batting against Ryan, thinks the right-hander hasn't just gotten older, he's gotten better.

"The amazing thing about him is his control," Rose said. "I think he's a better pitcher in the last four or five years, since he came up with his changeup. If he had that changeup 10 years ago, he would have had 6,000 strikeouts."

Ryan said it's not as easy for him to put up the impressive numbers now.

"It takes me more effort," he said. "I don't have the stuff I once had. I can feel the difference."

Cowboys await Giants with Walker, 'voodoo'

By The Associated Press

IRVING — The New York Giants call Texas Stadium the "SWHV." "That stands for Southwest House of Voodoo," quips Ed Croke, director of Giants' media services. "Something bad always happens there."

Indeed, the Dallas Cowboys do hold some kind of spell over the Giants, particularly at Texas Stadium where the visitors have won only twice since 1974.

The Cowboys have won five of the last six games, including victories of 16-14 and 33-24 last year.

New York quarterback Phill

Simms also has a haunted Texas Stadium past.

In 1985, he had an Ed Jones tipped pass returned for a touchdown by Jim Jeffcoat. He also lost a fumbled snap which led to a 30-29 Dallas victory.

In 1986, the same two players performed the same feat.

Parcells said the Giants' defense has a tough chore ahead stopping Herschel Walker, who gained 149 yards in 29 carries against the Cardinals.

"Walker has just been terrific," Parcells said. "Dallas is using him a lot of ways. He can run, catch and block. They split him wide. If I had him that's what I would do."

Martin relieved to play unheralded opponents

By JOEL BROWN
The University Daily

The Texas Tech volleyball team takes a 5-7 record to Las Cruces, N.M., Saturday and Sunday for the New Mexico State Volleyball Classic.

"It's kind of a relief after playing so many good teams to be in a position to play someone that is not ranked nationally," Tech coach Donna Martin said.

"I feel like the team's ready, and hopefully we'll be successful," she said, adding that four full days of workouts during this week have helped to prepare the team.

Tech's first match will begin at 6 p.m. Saturday with U.S. International University. The championship will be played at 8:30 p.m. Sunday between the winners of the Tech-USIU match and the Western Kentucky-New Mexico State match. A consolation match will be played at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Outside the tournament format, the winners of each of the first-round matches will play the losers of the opposite games, ensuring all teams of playing everyone in the tourney. Those matches will come at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday.

Western Kentucky boasts the best record of the field at 5-1 after winning its tournament last weekend in Bowling Green, Ky. The USIU Lady Gulls are 0-1 on the year, having lost to Utah State in their only action, and NMSU is 2-6 coming off a seventh-place finish at the Titan-Mikasa Preview in Fullerton, Cal. last weekend.

Bears, Coogs take perfect records on road

From Staff and Wire Reports

All Southwest Conference football competition continues to go outside the conference for the fourth week in a row as six SWC teams take to four home state fields in hopes of continuing to improve their records and national standings.

BAYLOR (2-0) at IOWA STATE (1-0)
RAYCOM TELECAST, Noon.

Baylor faces its second consecutive Big Eight Conference foe and seeks to become the first SWC team to win three games in 1988.

The Bears, in the midst of a three game road swing, are meeting the Cyclones for the first time in school history. The Cyclones stand 1-7 against SWC opponents.

Baylor downed Kansas last week, 27-14, in Lawrence, Kans.

Baylor head coach Grant Teaff is approaching his 100th win as the Bears' all-time leading football coach at 98-81-5.

The Bears rely on an up-and-coming ground attack, paced by sophomore Edwin Raphael, who leads the conference with 232 yards on 34 carries for a 6.8 yard average.

HOUSTON (1-0) at MISSOURI (1-0)

Missouri engages in its 45th game with SWC opponents, and Houston goes after its fifth win in six games as the Cougars travel to Faurot Field.

Houston has been the most potent passing team in the conference since Sept. 1987 with 3,824 yards passing in the last twelve games and a SWC-high 549 yards against Louisiana Tech.

"Super back" Kimble Anders joins wide receiver standouts Jason Phillips and James Dixon as acute pains for opposing secondaries. Last season, the trio made a total of 219 catches for 2,241 yards and 12 touchdowns.

Houston defenders registered seven quarterback sacks last week and limited Tech to minus 72 yards rushing.

Junior fullback Tommie Stowers (707 yards rushing last year) and cornerback Adrian Jones are big-play makers for Missouri.

MISSISSIPPI (1-1) at ARKANSAS (2-0)

Arkansas seeks its third consecutive victory against a non-conference foe in the traditional tilt between bordering states.

Both teams like to surprise opposing defenses with deep passing routs after running option plays, and Razorback quarterback Quinn Grovey has one of the SWC's best pass efficiency ratings at 141.3 (17-30 for 263 yards with no interceptions and one touchdown).

Senior running back James Rouse (31 carries, 147 yards, two touchdowns this season) leads a balanced Arkansas running game.

NEW MEXICO (1-1) at TEXAS (0-1)

Texas starts the home portion of its 1988 season at Memorial Stadium against the pass-oriented Lobos of the Western Athletic Conference.

Texas is hoping to bounce back from a 47-6 loss to Brigham Young of the WAC last Thursday.

New Mexico broke a 12-game losing streak with a 36-34 win over intrastate rival New Mexico State Saturday and has gained confidence in a quick-striking passing attack.

Texas is buoyed by the probable return from a one-game suspension of All-America candidate Eric Metcalf.

BOWLING GREEN (0-2) at TCU (0-1)

This game marks only the second meeting between the SWC and the Falcons' squad.

TCU, an option-running squad, features the talents of running backs Tony Darthard and Scott Bednarski.

The Horned Frogs were crushed by Georgia 38-10 in TCU's season opener in Athens, Ga.

ALABAMA (1-0) at TEXAS A&M (0-2)

ESPN TELECAST, 3 p.m. Alabama's Crimson Tide will roll into College Station Saturday for the first time ever if Hurricane Gilbert's tide doesn't roll in first.

The two schools may opt to move the game to Dec. 3 if the weather will not permit the Alabama team into Texas.

The Aggies were open last weekend, while the Crimson Tide was busy shutting out Temple 37-0 in their season opener.

Alabama leads the series between the teams at 2-1. The two have met twice in Cotton Bowls. The Crimson Tide won the first matchup 29-21 in 1942 while the Aggies took the 1968 Cotton crown by a score of 20-16.

Hurricane moves Oilers to Memphis

By The Associated Press

preseason.

HOUSTON — The Houston Oilers planned to conduct two workouts in Memphis, Tenn., en route to New York for Sunday's game against the Jets, an team official said Wednesday.

The Oilers left two days earlier than normal for road trips because of approaching Hurricane Gilbert.

Houston worked out at its facility here Thursday and planned to fly to Memphis for workouts today and Saturday.

The Oilers played an exhibition game in Memphis during the preseason. "The only thing you don't like about it is we won't have our own training room," Oiler Coach Jerry Glanville said.

Glanville said running back Mike Rozier, who missed last week's game with an ankle injury, did not work out Wednesday and possibly will miss Sunday's game.

The Oilers will take a 2-0 record into Sunday's game. Houston hasn't won its first two regular season games since 1981, when it finished 7-9.

The Oilers haven't won three in a row to start the season since their first year of existence in 1960, when they opened with a six-game winning streak.

The Jets, 1-1, won't be easy, Glanville said.

"If you didn't have to play them, they'd be fun to watch," Glanville said. "They play very similar to the way we play."

The Jets beat the Browns 23-3.

Glanville said the Oilers made plans to protect their families and possessions before leaving the city.

He said many of the Oiler families were going north to Dallas to ride out the storm.

"It's one of the few times we recommended someone go to Dallas," Glanville said of the home of the Dallas Cowboys.

Coogs' Dacus throws for superhero yardage

Curtis Matthews
Sports Writer

Forget Superman or the Fantastic Four; the Houston Cougars have their own cadre of comic book super heroes, and they're led by a guy with a No. 3 emblazoned on his chest.

This masked, er, helmeted man is David Dacus, who also could be known as "Confidence Man."

Dacus, Houston's starting quarterback, and a truckload of sure-handed receivers have picked up where they left off last season.

The Cougars' run-and-shoot offense tore Louisiana Tech apart in their season opener Saturday, 60-0. Four Houston quarterbacks combined to pummel the Bulldogs with 552 yards passing. Leading the way was Dacus' 309 yards on 25 of 43 attempts.

"I feel that we can move the ball against anybody," Dacus said in a phone interview Wednesday from Houston. "The year of transition is behind us. We're ready."

That "year of transition" saw Houston win only one of its first six contests before going 3-0-1 down the stretch.

Dacus also got off to a slow start, losing his starting job after a poor performance in coach Jack Pardee's Houston debut.

"It was really a nightmare for a while," Dacus said. "I thought we were all ready — especially me."

Five games later, Dacus was back in the driver's seat.

"I got down for a bit, but I knew my time would come," he said. "When it did, I wasn't going to let go of it again."

Dacus transferred to Houston after playing two years at Cisco Junior College.

"That was my baptism into the run-and-shoot," he said. "I feel like I fit right into that type of offense."

Dacus said much of the credit for Saturday's win goes to the Houston offensive line. He said the linemen have improved steadily and that he has "an abundance" of confidence in them.

"You have to realize that on most plays, they are the only ones around ... all the receivers and the superback (Houston's name for its lone setback) might have a route to run," he said. "Other teams have tight ends and backs to help out, but these guys mostly have to do it on their own."

Though a run-and-shoot offense can lead to a multitude of complex pass route memorization, Dacus said he always has felt "comfortable and confident" with the offense.

"It's a comfort to know that it's more of a problem for the defenders than for me," Dacus said. "There are so many of them, how can I not find a man open? Everywhere I look I see one of them."

TCU's Scott Ankrom finally did what so many thought he couldn't — finish a football game.

Ankrom, the oft-injured Frog, played the entire game Saturday in TCU's 38-10 thrashing by Georgia. The last time he made it through an entire game without pulling a muscle or injuring an ankle was the third game of the 1985 season.

Ankrom, who is playing quarterback, flanker and halfback this season, rushed for 60 yards on seven carries and caught his first collegiate pass for seven yards.

Texas quarterback Shannon Kelley resembled a Popsicle on a summer day in last Thursday's 47-6 drubbing by Brigham Young University.

Kelley was good in the first quarter, going eight of 13 for 84 yards. He then melted to a skimpy three of 19 for the game's remainder.

Houston leads the NCAA in a quin-tuplet of statistical averages.

Not surprisingly, the Cougars lead the college ranks in total offense (632 yards), passing yards (552) and scoring (60).

But the Coogs also are tops in rushing defense (minus 64 yards) and are tied with five others in scoring defense (0).

Baylor athletes were trying to justify their come-from-behinder against Kansas after Saturday's game.

"Kansas had some good players, I don't care how small they are," said Mark Bass, a Baylor offensive tackle. "It was a bunch of small dogs fighting some big dogs."

Small is right. Baylor's offensive line outweighed the opposing Jayhawk positions by almost 40 pounds per player.

Baylor center Bobby Sign could see his first action in a Bear uniform Saturday.

Sign, a transfer from Pittsburgh, has missed the first two games of his senior year with a strained knee. He has practiced this week and is listed as a probable starter.

Sports Briefs

Cross country teams perform in El Paso

The Texas Tech men's and women's cross country teams will open their 1988 season today at the fifth annual Lori Fitzgerald Memorial UTEP Invitational in El Paso.

Both squads will race on the Spanish Dagger Course at Santa Teresa Country Club. The women will run on a 5,000-meter course, and the men will perform on a four-mile course.

The men's team will feature Victor Heredia, Rich Oropeza, Mike McCorgary, Rod Reeves, Ruben Vera and Chris Engeberetson.

Heredia, who was a standout on the Raider track team last year, will join the Tech cross country team for the first time. Heredia transferred from UTEP last season.

Golfers to compete in Arkansas tourney

The Texas Tech men's golf team will swing into its 1988 season opener Saturday at the Fairfield Bay Classic in Fairfield Bay, Ark.

The 54-hole tournament will be played on the par-72 Mountain Ranch Golf Course. The first 36 holes will be played Saturday, and the final 18 will take place Sunday.

The top four scores in each round will count toward the team total. The Raiders will be led by seniors Mike Winfrey and Dale Ackridge. Junior Jim Sanders, sophomore Mark Allen and freshman Jason Foster will round out the Tech team.

The tourney also will provide the Raiders with an early season look at Southwest Conference rivals TCU and Baylor.

Ruggers start season against Desperados

The Texas Tech rugby club will open its 1988 season against the San Antonio Desperados at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the Student Recreation Center rugby field.

Last weekend, Tech had two players, Bobby Medigovich and Scott Clary, travel to Fort Worth and represent Texas Tech by playing for the Texas Select Side.
