"AMERICA" TO BE AT THE QUEEN

Columbus discovered America; but David Wark Griffith made her picture. The discovery was an accident but the picture was not an accident. Griffith knew where he was going and he arrived where he planned—with a great result.

It is so vivid, so powerful. It is not so much the glory of the picture, the genius of the builder, the skill of the players, the alternating currents of laughter and drama, the superb sequence of events, the appeal of straight souls, the epic grandeur of a Nation's birth, but around it all and over it all the actual, sacred struggles of our common Mother, America.

"The Fathers" step out of their gilded frames and draw their swords. They put off their marble and put on flesh. It is as if our silent benefactors enacted their struggles once again to rebuke the slumbers of their children.

Patrick Henry's lightning defiance flashes as it did in old Virginia; Paul Revere, the Mercury of Independence, rides, not only through the scattered settlements, but through your heart as well. You thank the stately Burke, he pours a flood of eloquence against the enlistment of Indians to help subdue the aspirations of freemen. You pity, yet glory in the very rans of Independence.

You see Washington! If "America" did nothing more than turn the Father of His Country from impassive majesty into surging, indomitable purpose, its mission would be fulfilled.

You see him at Princeton, rallying his broken lines, amid a storm of death, compelling victory. You walk with the great Captain.

And through it all there runs, as gentle and as soothing as the old-fashioned song your mother used to sing the golden thread of love—of love, so pure, it rebukes the libertine—of love so constant, it silences the cynic—of love, that chaste element, which amid all profanation, still endures, the never-resting, never-fading redeemer of human life.

When the curtain falls you are a little better, a little bigger, a little more American than ever before. Your flag is not a thing of bunting now, but assembled from the shins of stars.

"America" is more than a picture. It is an institution. •And it is even more; it is a resurrection—a resurrection of the finest band of thoroughbreds who ever merged their personalities into a state.

To the students of history, America will be an inspiration; to the schoolboy it will be an education, and to the man who does not know of the country's early struggles, it will be a revelation. Films fans, you who rave about good pictures you have seen, see "America" and you will have something to brag about.

Our own "America" which will be shown at the Queen Theatre Thursday and Friday, Jan. 29 and 30, will

A NEW BUILDING ON SOUTH MAIN ST.

Material is on the ground and work is going right ahead with the construction of a concrete building fifty by eighty feet in dimension on the former Sam Wood property on South Main street. The new building is being built by Luther Poe and will be occupied by him as a filling station and auto service store as soon as completed.

The building will be quite an addition to that section of the business district.

WINTERS FIREMEN IN GOOD MEETING

An altogether interesting and enthusiastic meeting of the Winters Voluntary Fire Department was held at the fire station Monday night and business transacted that indicates that the boys have a live program laid out for the year.

The election of officers resulted in selecting the following:

P. G. Garrett, president.
Marshall Chapman, vice-president.
Horace Hawkins, Sec'y-Treas.
Jno. Hall, recording secretary.
Rev. Hal F. Smith, chaplain.
Mrs. H. W. Lynn, sponsor.
Stuart Williams, mascot.
Frank Williams, chief.
R. G. Owens, assistant chief.

A plan of insurance, whereby accident insurance will be carried by each of the active firemen, proposed by B. G. Owens, was adopted and a committee composed of Chief Williams, Assistant Chief Owens and Secretary Hawkins was appointed to confer with the city council looking to the putting in force of the measure. Under the plan each fireman will carry accident insurance covering accidents while on duty, the cost of same to be met by others.

A committee was appointed with authority to set date and make all arrangements for the coming joint banquet between Ballinger and Winters firemen, at Winters. The committee was composed of H. W. Lynn, E. A. Shepard and W. W. Poe. Later the committee announced that they had selected Thursday evening, January 29th, as the date and that the banquet would be served in the basement of the Methodist church.

The fire company now numbers twenty-five members and it was agreed that hereafter no one would be urged to join the company. The boys find that the best firemen are those who, of their own accord, seek membership in their ranks and the membership roll is open to those who will join and lend their aid.

be acclaimed by the hundreds who see it as a picture the nation is proud of. It sets new tandards in motion pictures as high and commanding as "The Birth of a Nation," set in its day. "America" will be acknowledged as the best work of Mr. Griffith, so far, and if he does not make a better picture, no one else will.

POULTRY SHOW IS A BIG SUCCESS

The first annual poultry show of the Runnels County Poultry Breeders Association held in Winters last week was in every respect a successful affair and the enterprising gentlemen who are responsible for the organization and the show feel very much gratified over the results.

The entries were far greater than expected by the most optimistic, and altogether showed that the poultry fanciers of Runnels and adjoining counties are enterprising and are gradually breeding their birds up to a very high standard.

Brown, Coleman, Taylor, Nolan and Tom Green counties were represented in the show and the spirit of friendly rivalry between them was gratifying indeed and calculated to increase interest in this important industry.

We have been unable to get a copy of the list of awards, but if this can be secured, same will be given space in these columns next week.

NOTICE FROM CITY MARSHAL

All homes and business houses in the city are strongly urged to connect with the sewer system at once and those who do not do so and who maintain over-ground toilets will be required to adhere strictly to the regulations requiring sanitary arrangements. If this is not done we must report to the state sanitary board and their regulations will be very rigid and you will be dealt with in a manner that will leave no chance or escape.

The city marshal now has charge of the sanitary department and will be expected to pay him the heretofore collected by the city.

SAM KIRBY, City Marshal.

NEW BLACKSMITH TO OPEN BUSINESS

Ped Miller and Bingham Boone are opening a new blacksmith shop on Parsonage street north of the Hinds gin on the J. Hood property. They announce that they will soon be ready for business, just as soon as the building can be erected.

These men are two good blacksmiths, popular with the public and they have every reason to expect a good trade in their line. You are asked to call on them when in need of same.

Jno. Q. McAdams of the Winters State Bank was joined here by R. L. Grimes of Merkel and the two made a business trip to Dallas the latter part of last week. Mr. Grimes has recently disposed of his bank holdings at Merkel and resigned as cashier of the bank there.

Jno. D. Owens of Leonard is back on a visit to his sons, Luther and Buford, and looking after business matters. His visit here two weeks ago was cut short, and we are glad to have him back again.

SEED BREEDING MEETS APPROVAL

W. S. Galloway of the Winters Seed Breeding Industry, was here part of the past week seeing that everything was in readiness to supply high-grade seed to farmers. He found W. D. Meadows with a good supply of seed on hand and answering all calls. The seed are in the E. E. Spill store on South Main street.

Mr. Galloway informs us that has secured almost the required number of orders to fill his quota assigned to the Winters county, making up the number of acres planted in this seed for us. Orders are coming right ahead and it is fully expected that in another few weeks the orders in this line will exceed the maximum figures placed by Mr. Galloway when he first decided to come to Winters with this industry.

Contract has been made with C. Kornegay to gin cotton from plantings of this seed exclusively on one gin, giving the farmer either round or square bales.

Progressive cotton farmers are watching with interest further development of Mr. Galloway's project.

NEW FILLING STATION

The Corum blacksmith shop has been moved from its location at the corner of Dale and Divide streets and is now located on lots southeast of its former location.

On the corner will be erected a concrete structure to be occupied by George Speer, who will operate here a general auto service station.

TROUBLES DOUBLED TO MRS. ALLRED

Mrs. J. L. Allred has returned from Kingman, Ariz., where she was called a month ago on account of the illness and death of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Brown. Mrs. Johnnie Hamilton, another daughter, who resides there has been critically ill from blood poisoning and the mother has just been able to leave her.

Mrs. Hamilton is improving but as yet has no use of her hand and arm, one incision being in her hand. A nurse is caring for her. While Mrs. Allred was away, her oldest son, J. L., had the misfortune of shooting the end of his thumb off and the family here at home decided not to inform her of this while the daughter was so ill, hence it was only in the last few days that Mrs. Allred knew of the son's misfortune, and she at once made arrangements to come home.

Friends of Mrs. Allred and her family deeply sympathize with her in the trouble that she has undergone the last few weeks.

J. D. Motley, secretary of the Y. M. B. L. of Ballinger was in Winters for a few hours Wednesday, looking after a little business and visiting friends.

P. T. A. PUTS O. K. ON "JANICE MEREDITH"

It has the recommendation of the Parents-Teachers Association and the ministers of the different churches of the town who were asked to see it before it was booked for Winters.

Mr. Trammel has in this great picture, as far as we know and understand history, a wonderful reproduction of our country's fight for liberty. It brings to our minds vividly the awful hardships and sacrifices made that we may be called a free people, and boast a Goddess of Liberty that one cannot but appreciate.

The ride of Paul Revere is intensely thrilling, but the crossing of the frozen Delaware by Washington's army is the most powerfully gripping of all. And with the historical effect there is a beautiful romance connected with it. And coming in for no small part are the beautiful costumes worn by our own American beauties and those of the French courts.

We hope that every pupil in the rural districts will get to see this wonderful picture Monday or Tuesday nights.

Parent-Teachers Association.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Beaty of San Angelo went to Abilene Saturday to attend the social and business meeting of the West Texas Utilities Co. They were accompanied by Miss Kemp of San Angelo.

Mrs. Ray H. Skaggs and little son, Ray, Jr., left Saturday afternoon for their home at San Antonio after a very pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Skaggs.

Christian Endeavor

Christian Endeavor topic for Sunday, John 18. Friendliness as expressed through medical missions.

This is the first of a series of missionary topics for the year. The last Sunday in each month we will have a missionary program.

One of the most interesting numbers on the program Sunday evening was an article written by Dr. Wallace J. Anderson, telling of a Christian Endeavor Society composed of lepers, Southern Korea. There are many lepers in that part of the country and we have missions and hospitals for them where they receive the best treatment possible.

It was during a visit to one of these hospitals that Dr. Anderson told the lepers about the Christian Endeavor and suggested that they try it. They adopted the suggestion with enthusiasm, and as there were so many eligible for membership, and they did not want to make the society so large that only some of the members could take part in the meeting every week, they organized five societies, age and sex constituting the dividing lines. These societies have wonderful meetings and the opportunity for expression, which it brings has put new interest into their lives. The leper before coming to the hospital was an outcast; now he is a child of God.

Dr. Anderson says that with funds received from America we had Christian Endeavor literature translated into Korean.

Dr. Anderson spoke to these lepers when he was in Korea in the interest of the World's Sunday School Association, and he was much surprised to see the young people wearing Christian Endeavor pins. We hope to have a larger audience at these meetings through the coming year.

If you are interested in the work of our missionaries be on hand at 6 p. m. every fourth Sunday.

FOLKS:—Last fall the sun was warm and bright, the skies were azure blue, Jack Frost did not show up at night, and grass and lilies grew. The coal man called up my abode and tried to make a sale. He wished to send me down a load at fifty cents a pail. The weather man was with me strong, so I refused to buy. I spent my cash in wine and song and lived both fast and high. Thanksgiving came with sun and heat. It seemed like hot July. There was no chance for ice sleet to drop from cloudless sky. When Christmas came with weather fine, the coal man gave up hope. He said, "No more life for mine," and bought a piece of rope. Just then with one loud war-like roar, like arrow from the bow, old Winter hit our land once more, with sleet and drifting snow. The storm caught me cold and broke. I haven't got a dime. The lesson that I learned is tough. It doesn't pay to stall, or try to call old winter's bluff on balmy days next fall.

Somebody has grouped this basic truth into a series of answers to the question "What is Christianity?"

"In the home it is kindness.
"In business it is honesty.
"In society it is courtesy.
"In work it is fairness.
"Toward the unfortunate it is pity.
"Toward the weak it is help.
"Toward the wicked it is resistance.
"Toward the strong it is trust.
"Toward the penitent it is forgiveness.
"Toward the fortunate it is congratulation.
"And toward God it is reverence and love."

Windy Wolf, after consuming a frugal meal, ventured to remonstrate with his wife and to suggest what he considered a suitable menu for a tired business man after a hard day's work.

His suggestions did not seem to meet with Mrs. Wolf's approval and after several pointed remarks, she concluded with, "And I want you to understand, Windy Wolf, that I'm running this house and all that is about it."

"Alright," replied Windy, for the first time thinking of something good for a comeback. "Hop to it. I never did care much about running the furnace, and since you insist on taking it off my hands, I won't mind in the least."

Wood alcohol is being made from corn, but it is reported to be just as bad as wood alcohol that is made from wood, so what's the use?

WITH THE METHODISTS

Gid J. Bryan, Pastor.

We are able to heat our church in the coldest weather. Let no one stay away on account of bad weather. Last Sunday the auditorium was too warm until we cut down the heat. We expect to take care of our Sunday school, no matter how bad the weather may be. Come right on.

Rev. A. D. Porter, presiding elder of the Brownwood district, will be with us Sunday morning, Jan. 25th, next Sunday. Let us give him a large and responsive congregation. We find his sermons always interesting.

Brother Porter will preside at the first quarterly conference, which will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. All friends are invited to be present at the quarterly conference.

Sunday night at seven o'clock the pastor will begin a short series of sermons upon the Sermon on the Mount. Every member is urged to be present at the first sermon and bring some one with you.

Monday afternoon at three o'clock the Woman's Missionary Society will have their program day. A program on missionary work will be given which should interest every woman in the congregation.

We will continue our Bible study on Ephesians at the prayer meeting, Wednesday at 7:00 p. m. Come.

KEEPING YOUNG FOLKS ON THE FARM

When a farmer has reared a family of boys and firmly planted them on the land he is looked upon as an outstanding success. So far as his family is concerned he has checked the flow of country folks to town. Rural society is enriched by his blood.

From time to time The Weekly Star has pointed out that more young folks are born and raised in the country than the farm can profitably employ and that most attempts to stop the flow of rural folks to town are not only futile but foolish.

Nevertheless there is grave danger of the country losing too many of its best boys and girls, as has frequently been emphasized in these columns. These are the kind of young folks that are most likely to leave the farm, because they have more energy and ambition than other children. They are the kind that naturally leave the home whether that home be in town or in the country, and they go far away to try their fortunes in a field of their own choosing. Some are so restless as actually to run away, even though there be no undue restraint upon them, more for the sake of adventure than to escape from a life that has become a bore. The spirit of adventure is as strong in the country youth as in the city child. To try to curb that spirit is as futile in one case as in the other. Trying to interest this type of child in things will always be without effect.

Parents too often forget that their children have not yet reached the point in life when they may be interested in worthwhile things and are ready to settle down. Parents, forget, too, that they were once young and as eager for new experiences and adventures as their children now are. Frequently a trip to the city with a load of cattle, unaccompanied and with full responsibility for the outcome of the enterprise and the privilege of remaining in the city for a few days, will serve to calm a spirit that is becoming restless. Often giving a boy the opportunity to own a calf or a sow and pigs and to see them grow under his management will be sufficient to hold his interest in farming.

But this means of creating contentment at home, to be successful, must include the entire control of the property and the disposition of the proceeds of its sale. Especially should the child be permitted to use the money without parental restraint or too much parental guidance. Probably the boy will waste the money through the purchase of some trifling article or the making of a bad investment. But through that experience the boy learns an important lesson in economy and business. And how much better it is to have him learn that lesson while young and when it involves only the proceeds of the sale of a steer or a litter of pigs than latter when it might be the home or the life savings of the family. That boy, like the rest of us, learns important lessons by the trial and error method exactly as the savage learned his primitive lessons a hundred centuries ago.

Give the country child experience; experience that includes knowledge of the city. A knowledge that is intimate enough to reveal the drawbacks of that life as well as its charms. Bring the child up to appreciate the advantages of its country life as well as its shortcomings—its joys as well as its toil. It is only under such circumstances that the country bred child will truly appreciate rural life and want to live on the farm.

It is no disadvantage to agriculture to have folks pursuing that vocation who are dissatisfied with it. If they want to go to the city to live, nothing should be placed in the way of their going. Those who are recruited to agriculture through ignorance or deception add nothing to the quality of rural society. The greatest of all human tragedies is that in which the worker fails to find pleasure in his work.

The Passing Day

(Will H. Mayes)

Department of Journalism, University of Texas

Some of Governor Neff's friends gave him a banquet at Austin just before he retired from the office of governor. A number of eulogistic talks were made in which he was praised for his services, and an automobile was presented to him. The testimonial must have been very pleasing and the present very acceptable to the retiring governor. A Texas governor is likely to get more criticism than praise, and no governor can please all the people. The deference many persons are so ready to show incoming governors may be prompted by selfish motives—it nearly always is—but there is nothing to be gained by eulogizing those who are going out of office.

The gift of the automobile at this time was especially considerate. Holding the office of governor of Texas is costly, for the salary is low and the expenses high. It has even been said that "that a poor man can not afford to be governor of Texas." A governor can not well afford to accept expensive gifts from his constituents during his term of office, for receiving presents while in office creates a suspicion of an implied obligation to reimburse the donors in some way. For that reason most governments frown on gift-taking office holders. But where friends gather and make a gift as a token of appreciation for years of faithful service the gift carries with it a compliment, and the retiring officer can afford to accept it, knowing that he is no longer in position to be approached for official favors by gift-makers.

The Texas presidential electors met at Austin last week and selected Mrs. J. D. Claybrook, of Austin, as messenger to take the Texas vote to Washington. This is an honor that is usually much sought, but only two persons were considered by the Texas electors, both being women. The action of the electoral board was a decided compliment to Texas women and was in line with the present disposition to give women a share in political honors. Mrs. Claybrook is a talented woman, an impressive public speaker, and her selection for this honor is most pleasing to the Texas Democratic women voters, of which organization she is president.

Indications before the opening of the legislature were that the body would favor passing the appropriation bills first and give the remaining time to the consideration of important measures. With a board of control considering all appropriation measures in detail long in advance of the legislative sessions and the finance committees of both houses taking early action on appropriations, it would seem that the wise thing to do would be to get such measures out of the way of other matters of legislation, and it is probable that this may be done. This action appears to be in line with the declared purpose of this administration to give the people an economical administration.

For his own encouragement as much as for the interests of the students, this writer recently gave a lecture to one of his classes at the University of Texas on "The Writing Mood." The conclusion reached was that writers can not afford to wait on the proper mood for work before doing it. While writing is coming to be regarded as a profession and by most writers must be considered as a business, it is somewhat an art, and most artists are at times governed by their moods. This, however, is not limited to the arts. Most persons do their work according to the humor they happen to be in. Too many postpone what they are doing whenever they may so wish, with the statement "I just don't feel like doing it now." The habit of procrastination, if at all encouraged, soon becomes fixed.

It is easy to persuade yourself that you can do a certain thing tomorrow better than today, next week better than this week. Unnecessarily postponing action results in dawdling, and the dawdler soon becomes a failure. He may be ever so active at times, he may not be lazy at any time but his dilatory methods make him a failure. Today is the best time to face tomorrow's problems, to discharge today's duties.

MAY McAVOY AND MARIE PREVOST AT THE QUEEN MON. AND TUESDAY

We wondered whether a picture could be made with a flawless cast, one which could convince an audience of the realities of situations even in less important scenes of the story.

"Three Women," which will be shown at the Queen Theatre Monday and Tuesday, January 26 and 27, is an enviable example of a picture with a perfect cast. Instead of the customary one star, there are three, and the supporting cast could not have been chosen with a better knowledge of the actors' work and their ability to fit themselves into given roles. Marie Prevost, May McAvoy and Pauline Frederick are at the head of the cast, which includes Lew Cody, Mary Carr, Pierre Gendron and Willard Louis.

To add to this incomparable combination of stars, the direction of the picture is credited to Mr. Ernst Lubitsch, whose famous picture, "The Marriage Circle," attained such great success not long ago. In our desire not to reveal the plot we can only say that it is entirely different.

"Three Women" is a picture that Ernst Lubitsch can be proud of. This Warner Bros. Classic of the screen is a picture worth seeing.

AMARILLO SETS A GOOD EXAMPLE

Abilene Reporter: Amarillo decided at a recent mass meeting of its citizens that it would get rid of the bugaboo of water shortage by solving the problem handsomely.

Like all West Texas towns and cities, Amarillo doesn't do things by halves. It goes the whole hog or none.

Thus it happens that in solving its water problem Amarillo is going about it in the grand manner peculiar to West Texas. She is going to spend about $1,750,000 in bringing an abundant supply of water to the city.

Abilene's great water system did not cost anything near that sum, but then Abilene was very fortunate in finding such a wonderful natural site for a reservoir, all carved out of the mountains by the frosts, winds and heats of ages. It is true that Abilene must make large expenditures in the near future to finish up the job so splendidly begun a few years ago, but for the nonce (as the novelists say) we are permitted to enjoy our water system without wondering where the next drop is coming from.

Starting off with a fund little short of two million dollars, it is to be presumed that Amarillo does not intend to solve its problem by degrees as Abilene elected to do. It must be confessed, Abilene, though optimistic and aggressive as West Texas communities are apt to be, outgrew itself almost overnight. It is still growing at the same amazing pace it has maintained for more than five years.

Just how much the abundant water supply had to do with the growth of Abilene never will be determined, but undoubtedly it had much to do with it. Without Lake Abilene the city could not have grown even a few hundred souls, much less the many thousands it has actually attracted since Lake Abilene was finished. If Lake Abilene was not the direct cause of Abilene's growth, it certainly made that growth possible.

ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW IN EASTLAND COUNTY

West Texas Today: (By Geo. W. Briggs, Sec.)

The third annual Poultry Show of the Eastland County Poultry Raisers' Association was held in Eastland. More than five hundred birds were on exhibit.

Eastland county has taken a long step toward making this section the real "Egg Basket of Texas" during the past year. Some score or more of commercial plants have been added to the already long list, and a large number of the farmers have added to their number of hens—some of them having as high as eight hundred to a thousand.

Perhaps the most important step taken is the organization of the Bankhead Poultry Producers Association, which has brought together in one large organization the poultry producers of both Eastland and Stephens counties. This association has been organized for the purpose of marketing the poultry products of this territory. While at the present time, with possible exceptions in the spring and early summer, the demand for eggs is greater than the supply, the poultrymen backed by the Chambers of Commerce and the county agents are preparing for the future in a way that will put the poultry business on a permanent basis.

The ten main cities and towns in the territory which will be concentration points are all connected by hard surfaced roads, either brick or asphalt. This makes the gathering of all poultry products a comparatively simple matter.

The Association has the backing of the business men and the Chambers of Commerce in the territory in every sense. The Chambers of Commerce have already subscribed sufficient funds to guarantee overhead expenses of Association for such a period of time necessary to get it in good working order and self sustaining. The object of this fund is to provide a working capital which will guarantee the success of the Association.

More than thirty thousand hens have been signed up and it is expected to more than double this number within the next few months. Poultrymen who sign this contract bind themselves to market all their products excepting breeding stock and eggs through the Association for a period of five years.

To show how the industry is increasing in this territory, last year Eastland county had forty thousand capacity commercial incubators and Stephens county had ten thousand. These plants could not take care of the demand. This year Eastland county has seventy thousand capacity incubators, while Stephens county has thirty thousand, making a total of one hundred thousand for the two counties. It is already anticipated that these incubators will have all they can do throughout the entire season.

A number of the commercial plants are specializing in breeding stock as well as eggs. These breeders trapnest, and keep careful records, so that the purchaser, either of eggs, baby chicks, or pullets can know what he is getting. Other plants are developing mostly along the egg production line. The greater number of the poultrymen are growing White Leghorns, though some of the heavier breeds are popular.

SECRETARY WATTS GIVES A REVIEW

All we need to prove that the Winters Chamber of Commerce has done all that is listed below is to cite the reader to the voluminous reports of my brother secretaries. We take credit for all improvements.

Jokes aside, the Chamber of Commerce does no small part in the development, through the means of creating confidence in the city, and that causes its inhabitants to invest their means in its improvements. It also causes the mass of people to collectively pool their interests, and public improvement is the result. A review of the past twelve months' achievements of the city of Winters is rather startling.

We began the year with the following hopes:

- A new $40,000 Methodist church.
- A new ice factory.
- Free mail delivery.
- Telegraph office.
- Sewer system.
- Another lumber yard.
- Two modern cafes.
- A modern Linotype in the Enterprise office.
- A flash light system in the telephone office.
- Ten new residences.
- What we really achieved are the following:
- Fourteen new business houses.
- Seventy-four new residences.
- A new hall.
- A $40,000 Methodist church.
- Two new plumbing firms.
- Two new bollix gin attachments.
- Two new filling stations.
- Two new brass bands.
- A new laundry.
- A modern Linotype in the Enterprise office.
- The establishment of a Western Union Telegraph office.
- The free delivery of express matter.

- A $50,000 sewer system.
- The organization of a live Lions' Club with a membership of about 35.
- A new lumber yard.
- Tinkle Park opened.
- The city mapped and the houses numbered.
- The placing of a motor car service on the A. & S. Railway.
- Much improvement about the property of the A. & S.
- A new four room school building to catch the overflow of our school.
- The establishment of a cotton seed breeding station.
- An ice cream factory.
- Much good street work in the way of grading and surfacing with gravel.
- The roads leading into the city are much improved.
- The banks of the city one and one-half million dollars on deposit.
- The postoffice has had an increase of $1,600 in receipts, making in all $12,586.43.
- Two thousand more bales of cotton have been ginned than was ginned last year.

The income from poultry has been quite satisfactory, yet definite figures can not be obtained.

The farmers began the year with their land 50 per cent plowed, with plenty of feed and plenty of stock for their farms. The merchants have had a good trade during the trade season and it is holding up strong for this time of the year.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce have not mapped out a course of procedure for the coming year, but will soon function in that respect. The Runnels County Chicken Show is the first item on its calendar. It is scheduled for Jan. 15, 16 and 17th.

Confidence in the city and country is still running strong and another great year seems dawning upon us. J. C. Watts, Sec. C. of C.

SAN ANGELO PLANS FARTHER GROWTH

San Angelo, Jan. 12.—San Angelo's investment in 1924 in promoting and encouraging commercial and industrial development, in advertising the resources and advantages of the city and section, in entertaining visitors and otherwise in carrying on projects for general advancement and development amounted to $6,877.51. This is revealed in the annual financial report of the board of city development, San Angelo's tax supported commercial organization.

The board last year spent $1,032.66 more than the revenue from taxation placed to its credit by the city, which, its directors believe, shows the justification of their application for a greater apportionment of the tax levy. This request was granted and in 1925 the board will receive 7 1/2 cents on every $100 worth of property taxed, instead of 4 1/2 cents as heretofore. With property tax values raised to around $9,500,000 by a revision of valuations, the increased revenue will be approximately $1,000.

A complete report of the B. C. D.'s activities will be made at the annual banquet late in January. The $6,877.51 spent by the board in 1924 does not include subscriptions and special funds totaling around $7,000 and the spending through the board of $20,763.80 on the Fall Fair, of which amount around $6,500 was subscribed through the board. The fair is fostered by the B. C. D. which each year elects the president and tenders the service of its secretary as secretary-manager of the fair.

School Notes

The Winters schools are swinging into full tide of a new year's work. The high school has had three weeks of continuous hard study, climaxed this week by mid-term exams.

The new term opens Friday, the juniors and seniors being allowed to register Friday morning and the sophomores and freshmen Friday afternoon.

Two new teachers have been added to the faculty, making 23 teachers now in the school. Miss Carter of Killeen has been added to the grammar school force, and Charles Ross Smith of Lamesa to the H. S. Mr. Smith will relieve the English, Spanish and science departments of some of the first year work. This means that there will be thirty-five courses offered in high school curriculum this term.

The students and teachers are putting out a type of work this year that seeks most closely to correlate with the State University requirements, thus securing the full amount of credits for a clear college entrance. The students have, somehow, come to feel that the responsibility is as much theirs as the teachers' and are putting out as creditable work as any high school could.

The Juniors Are Awake!

Led by their efficient president, Robert Lee Jonas, the juniors are doing things lately. A big junior-senior banquet will take place with the juniors' leadership Friday night, at the Methodist banquet room. Miss Fields is the sponsor of the juniors and she with the other high school teachers will be guests at the banquet. A full program will come out next week.

C. R. Smith, the new high school teacher, is a Simmons graduate and an experienced high school teacher. The high school welcomes him as one of the faculty.

A course in oral English and one in Business Arithmetic are being added to the schedule this term. These are practical courses which every all-around student needs.

Look for the announcement of "Good English Week." It's coming in February.

It has been rumored among the students that a certain precedent has been broken by the teachers this Christmas, and that there might be a little disappointment in that breaking. The precedent is an annual affair that certainly ought to be respected. It is that at least one of the teachers should get married or do something out of the regular schedule.

The high school is jubilant over our San Angelo victory Friday. We play San Angelo and probably Bradshaw, too, on this coming Friday.

Gerald Knight is giving his "photo" to all who make application. The teachers are among the first to apply. Others, it is thought, will.

Miss Stevenson has become interested recently in the science of medicine—doctors, also.

SINGS PAEAN OF PRAISE FOR TELEPHONE GIRLS

A tribute to the telephone operator forms the text of an interesting article by William E. McDermott, dramatic editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Mr. McDermott writes as follows:

"The idea of the telephone girl as an unlovely and exasperating creature is one of the quaintest of contemporary illusions. Her patience and urbanity in the face of insolence, wise cracks and excessive expectations seems to me absolutely saint-like. It is superhuman.

"To be blamed by loud voiced strangers for errors not one's own, to be held culpable for all the fallibility of man-made machine, to be spoken to sternly by office boys and bootleggers, to be talked to habitually like a fish wife and yet always to reply with a sweet 'Number, please?' 'Thank you,' or 'I'll give you information,' that is a brand of self-control and miraculous civility that is wholly amazing to an ordinary mortal.

"We used to send children to school to learn 'manners.' The telephone companies seem far more successful than the ordinary schools in driving home lessons in urbanity. Instead of sending girls to 'finishing' schools, perhaps it would be better to let them be telephone operators for a while."

News from Puckett

There is a lot of flu and other sickness over the country and we seem to be having our share, but are hoping that this seige of sickness will soon be over.

Jack Burns has been painting and hanging paper for Mr. Allen at Wingate the past two weeks.

Tonie and Bud Queen attended Jan. 11th.

Wilburn Hickam seems to be a regular visitor at Mr. Burns' lately.

Mrs. Jim Danford spent the day with home folks Tuesday.

Tonie Queen was a visitor at J. W. Price's last Sunday evening.

We are certainly having some bad weather now. It has been cold several days now and we have had some snow.

Jim Danford has been working on the road the past week.

Mr. Whigham finished Mr. W. R. Hill's new house he was building and Collis and his wife moved in Thursday afternoon. Friday night they were visited by a shivaree party which made quite a lot of noise. They at first thought there wasn't anyone at home, so one of the party entered the house and found one room locked. But the noise was too much or lasted too long for Collis, and he let it be known that they were at home and asked the party to come in to the fire. This they did and stayed about thirty minutes, but I suppose Collis and his wife must have been scared for they never did unlock their door or come in where the party were.

R. J. Queen has been doing some carpentering work at home the last week.

Sunday was a very disagreeable day. It was cold and sleeted and snowed most of the day.

We are glad to report Hill Danford better after almost a week's illness. Also Mrs. Modsett is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Danford also Jack and Lee Burns were visitors at W. A. Danford's Sunday.

We are very sorry to report that Mrs. Wright doesn't seem to be improving much. She has been sick almost a year.

LEADERSHIP

Those who differed with Samuel Gompers, late president of the American Federation of Labor, are constrained to admit after his passing that he was an unusual man and that he won his unprecedented leadership of American unions through unselfish devotion to the causes he represented.

None doubted Gompers' integrity, even his worst enemies. Many who had been his most severe critics became his admirers when he piloted labor safely through the war by preaching the doctrine of Americanism, and threw his influence on the government's side with all the vigor that he possessed.

The leadership of American labor in less patriotic hands would have been a serious menace to America's successful culmination of the war. Gompers had many admirable traits, not the least of which was his great devotion to American ideals and institutions. His last words were a prayer that they grow better and better.

Gompers' life may well be a lesson to men and women who aspire to leadership, whether large or small. He won the confidence of his followers by never betraying their trust. He placed the interests of the American laboring man even above his own, refusing to use his office as a stepping stone to political power. Those who have ambitions to become leaders in their communities, in the state, in the nation, in their professions or businesses, should remember that leadership not based on sincerity and honesty will fail.

ON MAKING RECORDS

The business of making records extends far beyond records for talking machines—it is a business that should engage the earnest attention of every young man and woman in the nation.

The woods are full of men and women who have made records—but the records we refer to are records that you and your parents will be proud of. Make a record. It pays to make a record whether you are a mechanic, a clerk, a stenographer, a laborer, a manager, an executive, or a student.

Make a record of some kind. You can make a record by sticking to your job, or by doing it better than it has ever been done before.

The young man or woman who makes a record either in school or on their job, no matter how slight it may be, is the one to be promoted. It pays to make a record. It pays to make a record because it is the only way to get out from the common crowd. It is the only way to get ahead.

Remember the words of Andrew Carnegie: "Do not be content with doing only your duty. Do more than your duty. It is the habit that will win a high school that wins the race."

Let this be your New Year's resolution.

BE TRUTHFUL

First! Be truthful yourself! Do not cherish the illusion that you can tell a child anything, and be believed. For you cannot!

At first his child will believe but—after repeated misrepresentations, one will find that the thing told will be taken with a grain of salt.

As an illustration: If you have promised the child a visit to the park on a certain day, and then feel to tired, after a hard morning's work, how are you going to make him understand?

"Why, mother, you said you'd take me this afternoon," cried surprised Bobbie.

"Yes, I know," impatiently, "but you will have to amuse yourself at home today. I'm too tired to walk that far."

A very grieved and disappointed child is left to his own devices, with a prohibitive reason to be worked out as to why his playtime hour has not been realized.

If a promise he made to a child, he had need to grow.

Edwards and his brother, Bud, both of whom lived in Tecumseh, were employed in the overland trade business. With a wagon train they started to cross Kansas, and when near where Great Bend, Kas., is now the train was attacked by Indians. Bud Edwards was killed. Allen fell from his horse with an arrow through his body. An Indian took his scalp and left Allen on ground supposedly dead. The attacking party was beaten off and Allen was found with the arrow through his body and both hands and feet pierced with with arrows. He recovered and returned to Tecumseh, where he lived many years.

A COMMUNITY CANNOT LIVE WITHIN ITSELF

Newton (Miss.) Record:

The following timely article is from the Mississippi Builder, which is doing a good work for Mississippi.

"During the eighteen years that the writer has been engaged in publicly work, we have visited hundreds of cities, towns and communities, among which we have found a few that thought they could live without the co-operation of the rest of the world. These communities have never amounted to much, in fact, they have grown smaller, until they have lost in the progress of the other communities that are seeking the co-operation of others and forging ahead. Yet, sometimes the backward ones wake up to the necessity of getting on the band wagon of progress.

"No, a community cannot live within itself, for no matter what the resources are or the advantages possessed, there must be an outlet somewhere. A progressive spirit of co-operation with others must be instilled and inoculated into the minds of the people, so that all progressive movements may have the right support for good. If you, as a community, will not do anything in co-operation with your neighbor, your neighbor will not do anything for you. You cannot go out and invite people to come in, and tell them that they must forsake the rest of the world. The markets of trade are like unto an endless chain covering the whole world, and if you let it go by without catching on, you are side-tracked and soon forgotten. The greatest and unbuilding of your community are just what you, as a citizen, make it."

What the Builder says is true, and it is also the case with individuals. They cannot live alone but must co-operate with one another. In fact, the man, the community or the nation which lives for self alone will never broaden or flourish, nor achieve that for which they were intended.

keep it. If, as sometimes happens, it is impossible to carry out that promise, explain carefully just why it cannot be fulfilled at the time.

Be truthful!

To questions asked—I know they are legion—answer truthfully, explain carefully. It may take time away from other duties, but one will be well repaid by the contented, happy spirit born in the child when the information sought is gladly given.

Trust will be fostered, also—trust in the one who enlightens ignorance with knowledge; then will come trust in the world at large. This foundation of knowledge for the children is centered in you who have the shaping of these young lives in your hands.

HIS LAST "STEP ON THE GAS"

Texas Highway Bulletin:

Arrested for speeding on a Colorado State Highway, A. L. Larson of Wichita was directed by the officer to drive into Pueblo for a hearing before a traffic court. While he was on the way, a higher judge intervened—Larson was killed when his car overturned on a curve. He was a victim to incorrigible disregard of the law for violating which he had just been cited.

Too late to benefit him, the fatal accident demonstrated that the speed limits had not arbitrarily been fixed solely to annoy drivers who want their machines to "show a little pep." (Larson and his companion, who was driving, doubtless felt that way as out of the policeman's sight, they speeded toward town). The limits are essential to protecting the lives of everybody who uses the road, including the motorists themselves.

Had Larson succeeded in reporting to the court, he might have told a plausible tale which would have influenced the justice to dismiss him, with an admonition. At worst he would have only been assessed a small fine prescribed for the first offense. Instead, he paid the death penalty—he carried the case to the wrong tribunal.

Human laws are mild, indeed, compared with those of chance, which the speeder sees every time he opens the throttle wide—particularly when he spins around a curve or across a railroad track. Man-made laws are enacted for the specific purpose of safeguarding the motorist, his passengers and fellow-travelers against the more cruel, inescapable laws.

The speeder who deliberately violates the traffic regulations cannot appreciate this, but it is none the less necessary to protect him and others against his folly even at the cost of putting more teeth into the laws—such as jail sentences or deprivation of the car. The sensible man would prefer either to death—an end toward which the habitual speeder is rushing.

SUPER-POWER—GIANT POWER

These terms have a euphonious sound and have been used by public speakers and writers in manners which confuse the public mind on the subject of electric power development. Interconnection of present electric properties has already developed superpower, or giant power electric systems in different sections of this country.

To illustrate: A high wind in northern California recently brought down five Pacific Gas and Electric Company transmission lines which in the past would have cut off the electric supply from thousands of people. Instead, an interconnection of sources of supply enabled the continuance of service with slight inconvenience to consumers. This is superpower.
