United Savings Bank of Detroit, Mich., to do Business in Winters

Winters is taking its place along with the larger and older cities of Texas in the substantial valuation of its city property. The United Savings Bank of Detroit, Michigan, through its local representative, W. F. Hartzog, is prepared to make loans on their well known monthly payment "On or Before" plan for the purpose of buying, building or improving your business or residence property in Winters. The United Savings Bank is the oldest City loan concern doing business in Texas and they do not enter any City or town until the real estate valuations are suitable. Winters was recently inspected by Mr. George V. Basham of Dallas, Texas, the State Manager for the bank, who expressed his confidence in Winters and Winters territory and immediately made arrangements for putting the Bank in Winters. The Banks loans are made on such terms that any one able to pay reasonable rent can take care of this loan. The loans are made on a very simple plan of one hundred monthly payments, each carrying also the interest for the monthly period.

Mr. Hartzog comes from Whitesboro, Texas having been cashier in a bank there and selected Winters of all West Texas towns to locate in. He will handle loans for the United Savings Bank, fire insurance, bonds and life insurance and real estate. His temporary office will be with Dr. R. C. Maddox in the Jordan building. The fact that there are no vacant offices in Winters was another thing that impressed both Mr. Basham and Mr. Hartzog with the growth and thrift shown in the Winters territory.

The United Savings Bank has loaned over $2,000,000.00 in Abilene on city property during the past five years and have never had a foreclosure. The bank likes all West Texas and wants all the good loans available in Winters.

The Enterprise is pleased to welcome Mr. Hartzog as a citizen of Winters and we believe the coming to Winters of the United Savings bank of Detroit means a great forward step in the development of our town. Winters should also be congratulated on the location of this loan company here, for it is seldom, if ever, they are induced to locate in a town of less than five thousand inhabitants.

76TH ELECTRIC RANGE INSATLLED IN WINTERS

Just as we go to press we are informed by Mr. Vanzandt with the West Texas Utilities Company that the 76th electric range goes on their lines in Winters, which goes to prove that the electric range is not only practical but economical as well. An electric range in your kitchen is one of the best investments you ever made. Ask your banker.

W. H. Chapman and daughter of Munday, were visiting in the home of his father, H. L. Chapman, and transacting business in the city the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dodson of Abilene, spent the past week-end in the city visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Watts.

PAY YOUR STREET TAX

The annual street tax of $3.00 is now due and the City Marshal is collecting and receipting for same. No other funds are available for street maintenance for the year, and every resource of the city government will be behind the Marshal in collecting this tax. This money goes for something that is just necessary to the citizens of this town as shoes or clothing and the only concern that need be felt is whether or not it is wasted. I promise to spare no time or trouble in seeing the money is well spent, and that full value is received for every dollar of it. Please pay the Marshal promptly as much work is now being done that must be paid for.—A. F. Roberts, Mayor.

BAPTIST PEOPLE HAD BIG DAY SUNDAY

Last Sunday, commemorating Mothers' Day, the Baptist of this city, with many visitors from all over the country, had an all-day singing with dinner on the church lawn. The morning's program, after the Sunday School hour, consisted of readings, quartets and numbers by the choir and congregation, and the songs used were different numbers called for by the large audience.

The men of the church bought two beeves and had them barbecued and with the bountiful supply of other edibles brought by the ladies in baskets, the tables fairly groaned under their load of good things to eat, and while some five hundred people ate dinner, there looked to be enough left to feed another five hundred.

In addition to the local singers and orchestra who took part, the Lone Star quartet from Fort Worth, and W. F. Daniels of Dallas, added greatly to the program.

We understand this will be an annual affair in Winters.

Frank Williams, P. G. Garrett and Charlie Roberts are attending the State Convention in Cisco this week, representing the local fire department. Here's hoping the boys have a jolly, good time.

Engagement of Former Winters Girl Announced

The following article was taken from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, which we reproduce because of its local interest.

Miss Willie Beard is the daughter of Mr. I. L. Beard, former merchant of Winters and many will remember these former citizens.

"The engagement of Miss Billie Beard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Beard, Sixth Avenue, and Mr. Bob Merrill, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Merrill, Fairmount Avenue, was announced Thursday at the Woman's Club building when Miss Alice McAdams entertained with a prettily appointed luncheon.

Pink and orchid peonies in a basket of silver graced the center of the oblong table, pink and orchid being chosen by Miss Beard for her wedding colors. Lighted candles held in tall silver candlesticks cast shadows over the pretty setting. Candied pond lilies in pink and green were reflected in the mirror base surrounding the centerpiece.

The announcing was made by each guest reading from the back of her place card the story of the romance. Miss Christine Carter gave a toast to the bride and Miss Myrtle Lee Hart a toast to the bridegroom.

Others present were Misses Bee Magers, Aubrey Fae Stedman, Louise Stedman, Mary Claypool, Margine Dulin, Valette Foute, Lois Richardson and Alice O'Keefe and Meses. M. F. Cheney, Sam Jennings, I. L. Beard, Arthur Graves and Otto Oberle.

Miss Myrtle Lee Hart of South Adams Street entertained last week with bridge honoring Miss Beard. Pink and orchid decorations were used with profusion of sweetpeas and larkspur, orchid tapers being held in silver holders tied with pink tulle bows.

After the game, Mrs. Vier Allison-Stephens, accompanied by Miss Christine Carter, sang "I Love You Truly" and the guests were then led to the dining room which was lighted from the glow of concealed lights. The table was laid in lace over pink satin with the center marked with a large wedding cake decorated with pink rosebuds and orchard sweetpeas.

Refreshments were served to Misses Carter, Magers, Stedman, Loressa Armstrong, O'Keefe, Lucille King, Teddy Braselton and Lu White and Meses. Graves, Jennings, George T. Maher, Vier Allison-Stephens, W. C. Ellis and W. T. Roads.

Mrs. Sam S. Jennings will entertain the wedding party Wednesday night at her home on Sixth Avenue with a buffet supper.

Winters Girl to Represent T. W. C. In Debate

The following is taken from Wednesday's Fort Worth Star-Telegram which carried a picture of Miss Mary Neely and is reproduced because of its local interest, Miss Neely being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Neely of this city:

"The annual debate between students of Texas Woman's College of Fort Worth and Baylor College at Belton will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

"The question for debate is 'Resolved, That the United States should grant the Philippine Islands their independence within a period of five years.'

"Debates will be held in Belton and Fort Worth simultaneously. The negative team from Baylor will come to Fort Worth and negative team from T. W. C. will go to Belton.

"Miss Maud Maddox of Avenue D, Fort Worth, and Miss Mary Neely of Winters compose the T. W. C. affirmative team. The negative team is composed of Miss Elizabeth Robinson of Muskogee, Okla., and Miss Alice Hill of Mineral Wells."

E. A. Shepperd, Winters' popular insurance and loan agent, was a business visitor in Abilene Monday.

Mrs. C. E. Ham of Jacksboro is visiting her sister, Miss Mollie Farrer, and her daughters, Mrs. Jack Pierce and Miss Grace Ham, the efficient teachers of the Victor school.

J. M. Skaggs, proprietor of Skaggs Dry Goods Co., was in Abilene Monday.

J. R. Fielder, formerly of this city but now district manager of the H. H. Hardin Lumber Co., with headquarters in Abilene, was in the city Monday on business.

W. W. Rainwater has purchased the A. Krauss home in Dale's West Addition on Parsonage street.

BILL BOOSTER SAYS

"GIVE THE TOWN KNOCKER CREDIT, SAY I. HE DOES HIS BIT. AFTER LISTENING TO HIM YAPPING ABOUT THE CITY OFFICIALS, AND THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS, AND THE DOCTORS, AND THE MERCHANTS AND THE YOUNG FOLKS, AND THE CHURCHES AND THE GOVERNMENT, IT JUST NATURALLY MAKES BOOSTERS OF THE REST OF US!"

Girls Lose to Ft Worth; Boys Lose to Breckenridge

The opposition proved too strong for our debating teams Friday in the State contest at Austin, when the girls met Fort Worth and the boys met Breckenridge. The defeat is probably due to the limited supply of material from which our teams had to draw their argument and from the lack of sufficient strong authorities. The girls supported the affirmative against Fort Worth and the boys the negative with Breckenridge.

The first preliminaries opened Friday morning at 9:30, the boys team meeting in the law building and the girls in the education building of the University. It seemed a little complimentary and yet unfortunate that both our teams should be placed immediately against stone-wall opposition. Both our boys and girls' teams, however, put up splendid fight and they closed well with their opponents, so that in both cases the decisions were doubtful.

In the finals Saturday night to which the Winters group was very careful to attend in order to hold up knowledge on what a real championship team should be, San Antonio won the girls' contest and York Town the boys'.

Glee and Leon as well as Auburn and Benton were heard to make some vows as to there being another meet next year and that there was another chance. The defeats hurt, of course, but boys and girls who have been sports enough to win ten victories are indeed sports enough to take one loss.

When the time came to send back a telegram to Winters, the keenness of loss was greatest for those who met the foes knew more how to take the defeat than those at home awaiting anxiously the message.

"Tell them that the 'Win' is still in Winters," each contestant said, and emphasized. "It is—for a person is not defeated until he admits he is. You may get us down, but you can't keep us there!"

Amid the applause and cheers of a hundred and fifty students and many Winters citizens, the Austin delegation consisting of twelve—students, coaches and parents, left for the interscholastic meet at the State University last Wednesday afternoon. The party returned Sunday with no first places but with honor and good names, at least, for Winters high school, and was greeted by a host of students and citizens, who back up a fellow in loss as well as in victory. Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Ingram, Lottie and Glee Ingram, Leon Campbell, Auburn Neely, Gerald Knight, Fannin Low, Benton Benton Neely Coach Childers and Miss Barber made up the happy party, and, their report of the trip (as far as they would tell) indicates one of the happiest and greatest times ever experienced by a group of delegates.

In the various reports made Monday morning in chapel there seemed to have been at least three jokes on each person. Climbing the capitol dome and seeing the insane asylum evidently were the features of the sight seeing. Benton and Fannin refused absolutely to go through the asylum, reasons being, of course unknown. Mr. Childers experienced some tragic contact with one cer-

Dr. J. C. Hardy of Belton to Deliver Commencement Address May 28th.

DR. ALONZO MONK TO PREACH HERE SUNDAY

Dr. Alonzo Monk of Benton, Ark., father of Mrs. Gid J. Bryan of this city and Rev. Alonzo Monk, Jr., of Mineral Wells who just recently held a revival for the Methodists of Winters, arrived in the city Wednesday evening for a visit with his daughter and family.

Dr. Monk will fill the pulpit at the Methodist church next Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour. Personally we do not have the pleasure of knowing Dr. Monk but we understand he is one of the strongest ministers of the denomination in the South.

Methodists of Winters and adjoining communities are expected to hear him next Sunday and the general public is cordially invited.

Dr. C. T. Rives Home From New Orleans

Dr. C. T. Rives, who has been taking a post graduate course in Tulane University, New Orleans, La., arrived home the first of the week after an absence of some six weeks.

Dr. Rives made a special study of diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat and will specialize on these diseases. He will also do a general practice as heretofore. He says that New Orleans is some city and Louisiana has some mighty fine country, but Winters and the great Winters Country still looks good to him.

Mrs. J. T. Stevenson returned last Tuesday from a three weeks visit to Los Angeles, California, where she was called on the account of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Kirksey Lewis. Mrs. Stevenson reports a fine trip and her daughter slowly improving.

Mrs. Harry Suttle and Mrs. Tom Armstrong of Dallas, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark of Lubbock came in the latter part of the past week to spend Mothers' Day in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Reid.

tain inmate in which he himself testifies that he felt inclined to give away to his talent in the "hundred mile dash." Miss Barber stayed unusually close to the manager after a "pale" experience in the men's hall way.

Going and coming supplied more fun than any other part of the trip—fun for us, at least, not for those who were trying to make a sleeping car out of the coaches.

"Where is Winters?" was asked more than once. "And who is Winters?"

The group could not get away from the spirit of those many cheers and songs that were the last sound that followed them after the motor car had made its start for Ballinger. That sea of faces, all unselfish and enthusiastic, and eager for victory to come back to Winters, seemed to go along with each contestant and made him feel the tragedy of losing—when such a crowd as that is backing him. And when we brought no trophies home—that same group stood to greet us with the same great unexplicable spirit that sent us away. A spirit like that can fail, yes; but a spirit like that can also win and does when the right time comes.

"State Championship" is our goal for next year. Less than that satisfies us this year, but less than that will not satisfy us longer.

Expression of Grati- tude From W. H. S.

The high school delegates to Austin would find some means of expressing their gratitude to the citizens of Winters, who, by their support financially and spiritually, made the trip a greater success and a happier event. We wish we might have brought victory back to you. But we're glad that in what ever test we face ourselves as a school, we can always know you are for us and with us.

Belton, Texas, May 13.—Dr. J. C. Hardy, president of Baylor College for Women, Belton, will deliver the commencement address to the graduates of the Winters High School, May 28th.

For thirteen years Doctor Hardy has been president of one of the largest girls' schools in the United States. Under the guidance of Doctor Hardy, who came to Baylor College from Mississippi A. & M. College in 1912, Baylor has been built up from 408 students to more than 2,200 students, the faculty from 29 to 112 members, and the buildings from 3 to 13 stone and brick structures. The college has registered students from every part of the world; five foreign countries and twenty-three states being represented in the student body this year. In the moulding of raw material of human lives, Baylor has predominated in the development of character and has sent out products of refined young womanhood to every part of the earth.

Doctor Hardy himself, big, genial, good-natured, has woven his life so completely into that of the institution that the two have become indeed a living part of each other. Always busy in the accomplishment of bigger and better things for Baylor, he is never too big nor too busy to help a distressed girl who seeks his advice and sympathy in her personal problems. While bearing the responsibility and problems of a great institution on his shoulders, which are indeed broad enough to carry the burden, he smilingly works among the students, taking a strong fatherly pride in their accomplishments and addressing most of them by name.

Realizing the necessity of developing leadership, individual responsibility, personality and self-assertion in the lives of the young women, the college authorities and the girls themselves have built up a complex system of student life which has been responsible more than any other one thing for the unparalleled record which the college has attained through the years of its progress.

Into the closely knit union of students and College authorities and into the cultural development of Christian character, are woven the

Dr. J. W. Dixon left last Tuesday for New Orleans, where he goes to take a post graduate course in Tulane University.

Lions Club After Free Postal Delivery Service for Winters

The Lions Club met last Tuesday at noon for their regular semi-monthly luncheon in the basement of the Methodist church with some twenty-five members present. The toastmaster appointed for this meeting being out of town, Pres. Paul Holcomb presided in his ever happy manner.

Business discussion of the proposed minstrel show, it was decided to abandon the show and have the secretary of the club draw on each member for their pro rata part for the purpose of sending our delegate to the National convention.

Winters, after providing the proper sidewalk facilities, is entitled to free city mail delivery and the club appointed a committee to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to induce citizens to build the needed sidewalks in order that we might secure this convenience.

Dr. Roy C. Maddox and Rev. A. H. Clark were elected to membership in the club at this meeting.

A representative of Bradstreet & Dunn was presented as a guest of H. O. Jones, but we failed to get his name. This gentleman made some very complimentary remarks concerning Winters and her solid and substantial business institutions, saying, "Winters, financially, has one of the best records of any town in Texas."

Mail Order Business

The merchant who buys mutual and reciprocal insurance has no kick coming at the farmer who patronizes mail order houses. In fact, he is encouraging a practice which, if not curbed, will eventually cut his own throat. Winters gets no credit on its good fire record for the money spent with mail order insurance companies.

GRATITUDE

My dear friends of Winters high school if you would only look into the depths of my heart tonight and see the thoughts that are penetrating my mind, you would understand how proud I am of you and how thankful I am for the great and noble things you have done for me. My heart seems to be aching to proclaim a message of gratitude to you, my friends, but I do not have the words with which to express these thoughts. I then must burst forth with the lament Tennyson uttered, "O! that my tongue could state the thoughts that arise in me."

You can never know how much I appreciate the compliments and the kind words of encouragement that you have offered me, and I assure you that each good word you speak of me sinks deep into my heart and strengthens and encourages me and causes me to strive to accomplish something worth while. Each and everyone that lends me an encouraging hand shares a part in my success.

As I have heretofore stated I truly appreciate your kindness and courtesy, but then, when I stop for a moment to think of how little I have done for you, guests, and sadness overshadow me and I must confess that I am unworthy of your praise. You have blessed me with a bountiful supply of kindness, while I have done very little in return.

I am thoroughly convinced that there are some people in Winters that are as good as there are anywhere on the face of the globe, for the world produces no better characters. Each day I think more and more of these good people and my life is made better and happier by associating with them. I am not trying to write this so that it will sound nice and flowery for beauty's sake, but I am writing it because I really feel it. Every thought that I have presented in this article has come from the depths of my heart with all earnestness and sincerity.—Alfred Lamotte.

Many members of congress will appear on chautauqua circuits during the long recess. Some of them like Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi or Senator Willis of Ohio, who are old favorites in the big brown tents, make more on a summer lecturing campaign than their annual salaries on Capital Hill. Besides featuring their nests in a financial way, spell-binding statesmen claim that their chautauqua work makes them better public servants by bringing them in close contact with the people.

As for the people themselves, they disabled veterans of the World war, and for the orphans of those veterans who laid down their lives on the battlefields of France. No thinking man, within whose heart lurks the semblance of patriotism, sympathy or appreciation, can fail to see in this campaign the means of paying a moral debt which we all, as citizens of America, owe to those whom the war bereft.

It is an appalling thought, when we stop to consider the wrecking wrought by the great struggle of seven years ago, and count the heartaches and disappointments that came back from France with the maimed bodies of America's manhood, or arose to mock the heritage and birthright of those, whose fathers did not return.

The Legion, as the voice and spirit of the service of 1917 is seeking to collect this debt, and it has the right to expect a whole hearted and spontaneous response from the public.

CRIME NEWS

The idea of checking crime news by the suppression of its publication in the newspapers is a mistaken theory. Critics of such practices contend that the mere publication of crime news tends to incite a certain portion of the impressionable youth of the country with a desire to emulate the main actors in these dramas. Such may be the case but on the other hand it may be argued that the suppression of such news has a tendency to encourage crime by shielding the offender from exposure.

No right-handed publisher should ever stimulate crime news into a merchantable commodity, but not to mention a crime at all is not to print the news. The main problem and the only problem is that of lessening crime. When this is accomplished the publication of crime news will automatically diminish.

A glamorous and thrilling tale of the South Sea Isle is unfolded in First National's new picture, "As Man Desires," at the Queen Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, May 18 and 19th.

The story was adapted from Gene Wright's novel, "Pandora La Croix," and affords a quick-action drama based on fury like a woman scorned."

Sills, in the role of a British army surgeon in the Indian service through a murder charge trumped up against him by an English society woman whose love he spurned. Thoroughly embittered of conventional life, he secures a schooner and captains it into the pearl fishing beds of the South Seas where he sinks to the depths of degradation and becomes a terror of humanity.

In Tahiti he meets the dusky, bewitching native dancing girl of Viola Dana's interpretation. While hating all women, he beats off her other admirers among the scum of the harbor in a fierce battle and makes her his wife. It is his gesture of contempt toward all womanhood.

It is then that his real identity as the fugitive surgeon is uncovered by his enemies and a British agent summoned to arrest him. How the little dancing girl discovered his real love for a girl in London, clears up the false murder charge and brings them back together, only to lose her own life in the act, gives "As Man Desires" a thrilling climax.

Dr. J. C. Hardy—

traditions of old Baylor, which was the first college for women founded west of the Mississippi, and having celebrated its eighty-first birthday, is older than the State of Texas itself.

On Baylor "Hill" the large well-kept lawns and the great oaks and mesquites are sources of pleasure to Baylor students. Southeast of the main campus are located Ferguson and Head Halls, the teachers' dormitories. The walks and driveway which winds upward through the great iron gates mark the approach to the massive stone structures of other buildings of old Baylor, the walls of which seem to live and breathe of sacrifices both the present and of the past.

The front driveway circles from the gate around the large front campus and approaches Luther Hall, the first building to be erected and now the main dormitory. South of Luther is Wells Science Hall, a large three-story structure in which are located classrooms and laboratories.

Directly to the north of Luther stands Wilson Administration building, wherein are located the business offices, the academy classrooms, and on the third floor Almo Reeves chapel. North of this building is Burt Hall, the largest dormitory, toward the erection of which R. E. Burt, Dallas, gave the largest donation. This building, with its individual suites and private baths, is one of the most distinctive school dormitories in the south.

Behind Luther stands Ely-Pepper Hall, and beside it on the north, Ruth Stribling Hall, given by J. C. Stribling, Llano, and named for his daughter, a former Baylor student. These two buildings, with several cottages, compose the Ely-Pepper system, which was begun for girls who come here and have to work their way thru school.

Visible to every student, who passes daily along the walks that lead to the chapel building, stand the Baylor Bells, the most distinctive symbols of tradition on the campus. It was one of these bells which first heralded to the world the coming strength and power of Baylor college when the school was located at Independence, from where it was moved to Belton in 1896. No student fails to feel today the thrill to their tones, now mellowed with age, when they ring out the joyful tidings of a victory won for Baylor.

Within the shadows of the walls of Baylor, within hearing distance of the voices of more than 2,000 students that ring out from the chapel in the stirring strains of "Old Baylor," lie the remains of Robert Emmett Bledsoe Baylor, founder of the college, who in compliance with a request which he made before his death, was buried on Baylor soil.

Such a setting as this could but throw an intangible veil around the faculty and students and gently draw them into the irresistible tide of Baylor spirit—a spirit which has been responsible for the pledging of more than $100,000 by the faculty and students in the present drive for $500,000 endowment.

In addition to the traditional phases of Baylor college as students on the campus see it, the location of the college is a small Texas town, which is primarily distinguished by the fact that it is the home of Baylor college, has had much to do with the unity of student life in spite of the magnitude of the institution. It is necessary for their social development that Baylor girls have a spirit of co-operation and fellowship; for, with no outside interest conflicting, the social activities are created directly on the campus.

The college itself is a community, supplying every need, social, mental, religious. Every year many entertainments of unusual worth are sponsored. Some of the most distinguished personages in every form of art are brought to Baylor in connection with the lyceum course.

A more material phase of the community life is the fact that Baylor has its own means of support. A garden on the grounds provides some of the vegetables; the college dairy provides the milk and some of the butter used; and the butcher shop, the meat. Baylor owns its own ice plant and electric power plant.

Each student is made to feel an individual responsibility for herself in the complexly organized Student Government Association. This organization has not only solved to a remarkable extent the problems of discipline which confront every like institution but has developed among the girls whose qualities of self-assertion, power of leadership, and discrimination which tend toward the strengthening of character. The officers, who make and enforce the rules by which the student body is governed, are chosen from the student body by the students themselves. The Baylor College Choral Club, which annually makes a two weeks tour in Texas, is recognized as one of the best organizations of its kind in the south. The directors strive to give the girls more than good musical training. She makes it her primary aim to develop in the girls those personal qualities of charm and graciousness of manner which will fit them for social life as well as for any career which they may desire to follow.

From the development of Christian culture, the College has a completely organized system of religious activities which are under the direction of the Baptist Student Union, which includes the Baptist Young People's Unions, Young Women's Auxiliaries, Sunday school classes, Girls' Auxiliary, and a Volunteer band, composed of those students who will enter some form of missionary work after they have finished here.

The athletic phases of student life have built up strong bodies, have made quick, alert minds, and have accomplished much social development among the students. Through a spirit of friendly rivalry, each year the school has produced excellent inter-class teams in sports including baseball, basketball, tennis, volley ball and track. Those as well as swimming and gymnasium work and hiking are under the direction and supervision of the physical education department.

The necessity of a practical education is stressed in every course which Baylor College offers. In connection with the regular prescribed courses required for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, there are many courses which provide for professional training.

Baylor College was the first college for women in the world to offer the degree of Bachelor of Journalism and is the second school in Texas to offer the degree. The course afforded training for the students who wish to enter the newspaper and literary world.

Courses in county demonstration work, costume designing, millinery, catering, dietition work, tea room management and work as hostess are some of the phases of the professional training offered in the home economics department.

The Conservatory of Fine Arts is the largest of its kind in the southwest. Under the direction of Walter Gilewicz the department presents an excellent opportunity for students to train professionally for entering the artistic field. The music department embraces the departments of voice, piano, violin and other orchestral instruments.

The public speaking and expression departments prepare students for entering many professional activities and aid in teaching women those powers of expression and self-assertion which are now essential to her welfare. The art department stresses the structure and appreciation of art as well as instruction in art itself.

Found upon the very principles of democracy itself, Baylor College has instilled into her students the ideals while exclude all that is small and base in the lives of the girls and has brought a realization that true character is built upon individual worth.

Not only must the adequate means for giving the education which will best provide for meeting the problems of womanhood be presented but there must also be a financial means for every girl to receive this education if she has the desire. As a solution to this problem the Ely-Pepper System was begun in Baylor College.

Through the untiring and unselfish effort of Mrs. Ely Moore Townsend and her corps of workers, the system has built up until now more than a third of the girls in Baylor make all or part of their expenses by doing various kinds of work on the campus.

The most remarkable part of the manner in which the system of working girls is conducted is the democratic spirit which exists among the entire student body, which works in harmony in the various activities of the school with a disregard for the money rating of each student.

"He Who Gets Slapped" Is Offered at the Mission Next Week

Lon Chaney in "He Who Gets Slapped," one of the greatest pictures yet seen in Dallas this season, will be the attraction at the Mission Theatre, beginning next Wednesday. In this film, Chaney appears as a circus clown who makes thousands laugh while his heart is filled with sorrow.

Important members of the supporting cast are Noroma Shearer and John Gilbert, but some of the actors filling character roles also do splendid work. The story is one of a man wronged and of his revenge, which also comes in a way as to save the girl he loves.

Will be pleased to show you our line of Graduation Gifts.—Schindlers Variety Store.

Winters Enters City Class

It was after due deliberation by myself and a personal inspection by Mr. Basham, of the United Savings Bank, of Detroit, Michigan, before it was definitely decided to bring the Savings Bank to Winters to make loans on Winters real estate.

The Savings Bank has been making loans in Texas over 20 years and Winters is the smallest town where they have a local representative and it is with the thought of helping you to own your home and to build Winters into the city which I believe it will be, that prompted me to bring the Bank here.

I have in connection with the loan business, a first class General Insurance Department, which I am prepared to handle all your insurance in any line. Your business placed with me will be gladly given my personal attention and it is on service, courtesy and appreciation that I ask you for your business.

County Agent's Report For March and April, 1925

The following is a report of County Agent's work in Runnels county for the months of March and April, 1925:

Phone calls 66; days in field 43; days in office 9; calls on county agent at headquarters 83; letters written 29; farm home visits made 63; project meetings held 14; attendance at these meetings 1877; articles published 4; miles traveled 1980.

Farm Engineering Work

During the months of March and April farm engineering work was carried on in 54 individual farms comprising an acreage of 9240.

In every instance where the instructions given by the County Agent, relative to the proper building of the terraces were carried out gratifying results were obtained. Farms that washed badly before they were terraced have not only stopped washing but are gradually and constantly building up now. Where a great deal of the surface water was lost due to too much slope the water is now conserved and given an opportunity to soak in thereby increasing crop production. A good many farmers have stated a number of times that their production had been increased from 1-4 to 1-3 per acre besides building up the farms from year to year.

The following letter was received by the County Agent a few days ago, from Mr. E. T. Frierson of the Star community:

"I want to say that I completed the terraces that you laid off for me. We have had some awful heavy rains but every one of the terraces held. Not a break in any of them. Would not take $1000.00 for them. Certainly saved my land. I thank you very much for your service and accuracy in the work."

Farmers' Short Course

One of the most impressive pieces of work done in Runnels county, so far as the executive staff of the extension service is concerned was that of holding a four day farmers' short course from March 16 to 20 it inclusive.

A very instructive as well interesting program was rendered at the following places: Drasco, March 16; Bethel, March 17; Norton, March 18; Crews, March 19.

The object of the short course was to sell extension service more thoroughly to the people of the county and to more fully acquaint them with the aims and purposes of this great institution.

Those on the program brought a message that was received by the hearers with the keenest appreciation and aroused a deep interest in community development and created a strong desire for the service of a Home Demonstration Agent.

During the four days the program was presented by approximately 1000 people. A good many requests have since come to the County Agent's office for another short course in the late spring or during the summer months.

Club Work

Up to the present time eight Boys' and Girls' Agricultural Clubs with a membership of 185 have been organized. Every club is active and the work is progressing nicely. The local leaders in most instances are active and doing all they can to keep up the moral of the clubs. Judging from the interest manifested at present the county will be able to show good results at the end of the club season.

Miscellaneous Work

A good deal of miscellaneous work such as vaccinating cattle, attending to sick stock, culling poultry and making a survey of the grasshopper situation and other phases of county home work have been attended to.—C. W. Lehmborg, County Agent, Runnels County.

Carroll Moseley and wife and baby of Big Spring are the guests of R. L. Moseley and family. While here they will also visit Mrs. Moseley's parents at Hatchel.

In keeping with the progress of the town and the growth of the "M" System in Winters of which Jim Smith is owner, he has just recently installed one of the latest candy cases which displays all the candy to the eye that is indeed appetizing. Another improvement is the installation of a huge ice cooled vegetable and fruit case, which insures the patrons of this store fresh and crisp vegetables at all times.

All spaghetti eating records recently were shattered in Los Angeles. The champion won by a yard.

Rin-Tin-Tin At Queen Wed.-Thurs.

Any picture in which Rin-Tin-Tin, the famous Warner dog star appears, is always a delight, but "The Light-house by the sea," at the Queen Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, May 20 and 21, proves a rare pleasure because of Louise Fazenda, the popular comedienne of the movies, who plays the leading female role.

An honest-to-goodness movie treat for those who enjoy hair-raising thrills; the drama of primitive and unadorned emotions that strive and fight for supremacy; the glorious sight of a police-dog in action! And, as an additional stimulant to one's delight, a sincere love story running through the whole.

The story concerns itself in brief with the aged lighthouse keeper, his daughter, Louise Fazenda, their helper and his dog, Rin-Tin-Tin, against the brutality of a band of bootleggers operating along the coast, whose leader, Douglas Gerrard, has professed his love for Louise so as to be in touch with the lighthouse when his gang of cut-throats make their landing. On the night chosen for their vicious activities, Gerrard captures the keepers of the lighthouse and throws the government boat off its pursuit by putting the light out. But Rin-Tin-Tin, whose mind has grasped the full significance and evil portent of the cruel Gerrard, manages to start the light again, and then ensues the clashing encounter between the revenue officers and the rum-runners, with Rin-Tin-Tin a flashing sword of heroism.

The crescendo of powerful absorbing incidents is more than adequately handled by Louise Fazenda, Buster Collier, Jr., Mathew Betz, Douglas Gerrard, and Charles Hill Mailes, while Rin-Tin-Tin, the marvelous dog star, is a sight never to be forgotten, as he flashes through his role.

Miss Christine McDuff spent the week-end in Abilene visiting relatives.

B. M. Smith living out on route four was a business visitor in Winters Saturday. Mr. Smith requests us to enter his name as a new subscriber to the Enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Calvert of Belton were guests in E. Clements home the later part of last week.

West Texas Chamber Commerce Convention

The Convention assembled with a rush and a roar seldom equaled in Texas events. The magnitude of its program forced consideration. Music by contending bands was often so close together that it became a jargon. Some wonderful music was enjoyed when all the bands were massed and played the same tunes. In the auditorium when the nomination and selecting of the next meeting place was selected, the roar of the bands was truly fierce. The boys said that all we tried to do was to supply PEP. It seems the great crowd was well housed and cared for in spite of the inclement weather.

The program in the great sense of the word was all that could be desired. The governor was not able to be present so her regrets were voiced by the Lieutenant Governor, Hon. Barry Miller. The chief theme of his discourse was that of caution in regard to the wholesale voting of bonds for the erection of roads that at best would last but a few years. It seemed to me that the two greatest events of the meeting were the great speeches by our Senators. Senator Mayfield, briefly rehearsed the glories of the history of the South and Senator Sheppard emphasized the importance of our people turning to thrifty ways, owning our own homes, and attending to our own business. The picture he drew of the future of the wage earner and the tenant farmer was alarming.

It was well that Winters appeared among the contending horde as it emphasized the fact that a good city was here quite able to do her part in the future prosperity and progress of the great West Texas movement. Our band did itself proud. On the side lines we often heard our boys spoken of in the highest praise, and Joe Ward's clear incisive trumpet spoke for itself among all the roar. — J. C. Watts, Sec'y, C. of C.

"ONWARD"

In this world of gloom and sadness,
In this world of toil and strife,
I oft times, feel tired and lonely
In confronting the trials of life.
Discontentment slowly creeps o'er me,
Trying seems my nerves annoy
But when I think of the "Seniors"
My heart throbs with peace and joy.
Through long days of turmoil and study,
I long for hours of peaceful rest
But our good teachers so encourage us
That I wish to do my best.
Then when the cares of day are over,
And when I sit all alone
I think of the dear old "Seniors"
And the kindness they have shown.
Solemn thoughts come slowly to me,
And pass quietly through my brain
How I yearn to do something,
To place humanity on a higher plane.
"Seniors" let us ever press onward,
Our high school work will soon be past,
Then our diplomas shall be issued,
And we'll enjoy success at last.

Abilene & Southern Cuts Motor Service

We learn with profound regret that the Abilene & Southern railroad is forced to do as most of the large railroads are doing—discontinue part of its train service. Next Saturday will be the last day for a double trip for the motor car. The service will be continued as the first agreement, one trip a day. This is made necessary by a clean loss of $21,110, during the past 18 months and is a proof positive that Winters must stay awake on the railroad question for the time may come when owls and bats will inhabit some of our residences and the big sign "For Rent" will be displayed behind many fine plate glass windows on our streets. — J. C. Watts, Sec'y. C. of C.

Is it True With You?

Several times already this year he has asked for credit, but only a short time, and as they have come due these notes have been met promptly. A renewal hasn't been necessary in a single instance.

The other day he told us how he did it. The secret of it all was several tons of maize held in reserve. YOU, TOO, can be more independent. Plant more FEED. We will help you.

Winters Farmer to Make Test

A test in the raising of cotton, which is expected to have a far reaching effect on the production of the staple in West Texas is being made by Felix Y. Little on his farm west of Winters. Twenty varieties of cotton have been planted in one field by Mr. Little and the experiment is being watched with much interest by the farmers of west Texas.

By the means it is expected to be determined the best variety of cotton adapted to this section, the one that will stand the season best, make the heaviest plant and produce the largest amount of cotton with the best staple. Of course, Mr. Little expects to reap a return from the experiment but at the same time he will be benefitting the farmer in this part of the State as the experiment will be the means of showing them the best kind of seed to plant.

"The reason I am planting these twenty varieties is this," he said. "I have observed that from year to year farmers continue to plant the same two or three varieties of cotton and it has been hard to convince them to try just one kind of cotton that they had not planted before. They did not seem to care to plant any cotton except the varieties they had always planted.

"I have always been in search of something to better my condition and help my brother farmer. Two years ago I ordered eight varieties of cotton and began to experiment to see if I could find a variety that would beat the old kinds that I had always planted. My first year I planted the eight varieties side by side and made daily observations and noted the difference in the different varieties, such as the fruiting of the cotton, and also the period of the first blooms. I would mark the blooms and watch to see how many days it was from the blooming period until the boll opened as the period between the bloom and open boll often determines the yield as a quick fruiting variety will make more per acre on the same rainfall.

A Valuable Trip

"Also a variety with smaller leaves will thrive on less moisture than one with large leaves, as the one with large leaves presents such large space for water evaporation to take place. This was brought out very distinctly in my experiments the next season and most important is the size of the bolls. I had some cotton that has been boosted for its large bolls. It was advertised that forty bolls would weigh a pound. But when grown under test it took ninety five bolls to weigh a pound.

"I tested all of my varieties for large bolls and on an average sixty-five bolls made a pound. I had one variety that forty-five bolls made a pound. I also sampled it for staple length. I found in my experiments a large majority of the cotton runs from seven-eighths to one inch. I also found that a large seeded cotton had a better staple length than small seeded cotton. I am speaking of the upland varieties that can be grown in the western part of Texas.

"In my work with cotton, I have found that I opened a storehouse of knowledge if I would only take heed of the different things that come to hand in testing different varieties. There is a lesson to be learned every day, if we will only heed it.

"I have done some breeding and produced some new strains of cotton. This year I am planting twenty varieties in my field on a test. These will be grown on a competitive basis. Last year I sold all of the seed I produced from my best varieties and when I had sold all of my seed I ordered several hundred bushels for my neighbors. They have seen the value of good seed when grown side by side with 'just cottonseed.' It was brought out very clearly the best varieties that could be grown in West Texas with our rainfall as some of the varieties doubled other varieties."

Urges Study of Seed

Mr. Little urges the farmers to study the conditions under which cottonseed produces in this part of the State. "Some people order seed from the states east of Mississippi river and expect to do equally as well when grown in the western part of Texas and when they do not, they blame the seed," Mr. Little said. "But the trouble is not with the seed, for the seed is good, but they are grown under different climatic conditions.

"So when you buy seed, get them just as close to home as you possibly can. Buy seed that is steeply sloped. Buy the seed that the staple is an inch or more in length and try and get a variety with all of the good features you can. Test it out with other varieties as that is the only way to see if a variety is adapted to your climatic conditions. Some varieties do best the second year, unless you are sure that they will not come up to the standard."

To Our Friends and Customers Our Store Will Be Closed on Sundays

In the past it has been customary with us to open our store on Sunday mornings, and remain open until 9:00 o'clock, but we have decided not to open our doors at all on the Sabbath in the future.

First, it interferes with all us in attending our Sunday school and church; second we believe that our customers will agree with us that they can arrange to buy their meats and groceries on Saturday.

In making this resolve, we don't intend to hamper our service to our customers, but firmly believe that with a day of rest we all will be better prepared to give you prompt and efficient service with a smile on Monday and everyday during the week.

We sincerely trust this move will not inconvenience any of our friends, and assure you that it will be our greatest pleasure to serve you during the week.

Debaters and Track Boys Return Sunday

The debaters and track boys returned Sunday. About that little depot was the many good old sports from Winters high, who though we lost were "good losers."

The freshman class do hereby congratulate and humbly implore all honor due to these boys and girls who worked hard to place Winters high school on the map.

Gives Talk in Chapel

Monday, May 11—Upon returning Sunday and when school began Monday morning the debaters and others going to Austin, gave to us their good times and also their work to "keep the win in Winters. Several topics of interest were told.

Glee Ingram announced the visit to the insane asylum and wondered why Benton and Jerald did not remain. Mr. Childers then explained why Miss Campbell told us of the "Austin flapper and jellybeans" and warned us not to notice them in going to Austin.

Notice

In last weeks issue of the Freshmen news a typographical error was found in the last line of "a conversation between Miss Ballinger and Mr. Winters," which changed the meaning somewhat. The word "not" was omitted in the line "the win of Winters shall 'not' soon depart."

"What'll I Do"

School is nearly out. Good. Not exactly for "poor fish" who don't have our themes, book reports and etc., in. If you were to come in our English class and hear Mr. C. R. Smith standing in front of the class giving expressions like, "rotten," "the worst thing ever written," "terrible," "what's the matter with you poor fish", etc., you may know why we poor bone heads "kind-o" dead exams" and Friday, May 29 when we see our reports. Some of us shall be singing and others crying and some are now saying the following verse: What'll I do when I have failed to pass?

And I am blue, what'll I do?
What'll I do when I feel green as grass?
And oh! I am too,
What'll I do when I am told by some teacher that looks so bold?
That day after day, year after year,
There will be many a silent tear
That next year again must I do,
The same old work that this year I have done too,
Or rather did not do, (but yet),
What'll I do when I am grown?
Not one of my pals, alone, alone,
What'll I do for a laugh once more?
That we had at the school with pep and a roar?

Lady Says Her Back "Hurt Night and Day"—Least Noise Upset Her. Better After Taking Cardui.

Winfield, Texas—"My back hurt night and day," says Mrs. C. L. Eason, of R. F. D. 1, this place. "I ached and ached until I could hardly go. I felt weak and did not feel like doing anything. My work was a great burden to me. I just hated to do up the dishes, even. I was no-account and extremely nervous."

"My mother had taken Cardui and she thought it would do my good, so she told me to take it. My husband got me a bottle and I began on it. I began to improve at once. It was such a help that I continued it until after the baby's birth."

"The Saddle Hawk" Contrasts Sheep and Cattlemen of Our West

From section hand to railroad president is no greater achievement than from shepherd to cowboy, if one takes the somewhat restricted opinion of the cattle country as a measure of comparison.

In "The Saddle Hawk," Universal production coming to the Mission Saturday, Hoot Gibson, the star, undergoes that latter transition, and he said while the picture was in the making that he was glad he did, for his early experience as a real cowboy had inoculated him with a contempt for anything connected with sheep raising that has lasted him until this day.

"I have heard a lot about suffering for art's sake," remarked Hoot, but there is nothing in that line that can compare to the anguish endured by a real, honest-to-goodness cowboy being compelled to herd sheep! And that goes for me, even if it is only picture shepherd I'm impersonating!"

Another thing that made it tough for Hoot was the fact that the picture was filmed in Eastern Oregon, where for a number of years he earned his living as a cowboy and won championships for range sports and skill in the annual round-up held in Pendleton.

"The Saddle Hawk" was written especially for Gibson by Raymond Schrock and Director Sedwick.

GRAND DRAGON OF THE KU KLUX KLAN VISITS WINTERS

Judge M. A. Childers of San Antonio, Grand Dragon of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan addressed the members of the local organization in the Klan hall here Tuesday night, May 5. While this was not the regular meeting night there was a large attendance, more than 400 out to hear that wonderful address.

Judge Childers is an outstanding christian character in the State, being a lawyer of repute, a steward in the Southern Methodist church and has been three times a member of the General Conference of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church, South—the highest law making body of that church—and a Sunday school teacher who has a large class of business men of San Antonio who meet every Sunday in the St. Anthony Hotel to study the Bible.

The Grand Dragon's address was of an inspirational nature, and while it was for members only it would be of interest and importance to the general public, in that it dealt with state and national problems that effect every member of society equally.

In outlining the program for the state organization, he, among other worthy motives, made mention of an offer of 50 acres of black land to this organization for the location of a Protestant Orphanage; the land to be deeded free of cost by a member; that there is now being formulated a program for building this home on that place and headquarters for this kind of activities throughout the State; that this home will be built by the Ku Klux Klan of Texas, the Woman's organization joining that of the men's, will be the finest and most complete in structure and equipment anywhere in the south; that not less than a half million dollars would be spent in building and equipment. He mentioned that one good Klansman on hearing of this gift of fifty acres on which to build this institution is considering the giving of $50,000.00 in cash as a nest egg around which to attract other subscriptions until the total amounts to at least $500,000.00 for the plant. He said this institution was going to be big enough to give every protestant orphan a real home, with christian environments and teaching with a paramount view of turning out good American citizens that would become men and women of character and an asset to the government instead of a liability; that they would be treated nurtured and instructed as growing children should be, instead of having to eke out an existence as slaves.

In the national program he outlined remedial legislation in the strengthening of our immigration law and public education, together with law enforcement of every kind. He emphasized very forcibly that every one of the 15,000,000 Klansmen were not only honor-bound but oath bound to help the duly constituted officers of the law in bringing to justice every violator of our statutes; that a Klansman who knew of law violations failed in his part as a Klansman unless he furnished the officers what evidence he had in any and all violations; that the Imperial organization had set aside ten per cent of all revenues received for humanitarian purposes.

The Grand Dragon's outline of the National program was one of great constructiveness, and while he made mention of many constructive measures in process of formulation, he stated that this was for the information of members only at the present time but would later be made public when thoroughly completed in detail.

At the close of his address he referred and read from history the bitter fight against the Masonic fraternity.

beginning in 1808 and running through two presidential campaigns reaching its height in 1830 when hate, contumely and anathema were heaped upon the organization in such way and manner that had the name and date been changed to that of the Ku Klux Klan and 1924 would have been almost identical. The fight was so strong that in some of the northern states disbanded their Masonic organizations and remained disbanded for ten and twelve years before reorganizing. That the Ku Klux Klan, in spite of the prejudice and hate is still held in tact and would continue to be until the American people became informed of its principles and tenets, and he was sure that a reasonable, intelligent citizenship would ultimately endorse the program of service they are attempting for the benefit of the nation as a whole.

Do you want to ask a neighbor to meet you downtown?

Possibly you want to tell the doctor how Willie's cold is and ask for instructions.

There are the groceries to order.

These things are done with as much ease and speed as if the neighbor and the doctor and the grocer were right there in the room.

You simply use the telephone. It is five minutes out of a day. Without the telephone it would have been half a day's work to attend to the three items.

No community would be worth while without the modern facilities for communication that the telephone brings.

Because it is an essential public service its services are available to all at the lowest reasonable cost. For this reason also their interest in telephone service is as great as the interest of the telephone company.

This company wants its customers to know the company better and to aid the company by cooperating to make the service as good as it can be made—and with the modern progress in this service that will be mighty good.

Dear Sir:—

Replying to yours of the 30th., ultimo, we wish to advise that the Good Fire Record Credit for Winters for the current year was based on information furnished this Commission by each agent on an affidavit blank as per attached, said blank clearly specifying that only the net premiums and losses written through the admitted stock fire insurance companies are to be furnished and that no business for mutual or reciprocal insurance companies is to be included.

Trusting this furnishes you with desired information, we are,

Yours very truly,

Letter From Mrs. Eason, California

Ontario, Calif., May 4, 1925.—Enterprise and folks at home: Good—I'm glad I beat Henry Ford to it. "Back-to-the-Kitchen." I'm there three meals a day. Lot's of fun when you have been off the job as long as yours truly.

How I wish I might phone some of you to run over and eat with us—vegetables everyday and strawberries—the finest I've ever used, must be good as East or South Texas. This is one of our favorites—crush a cup of berries in pan, add 3-4 cups sugar, quarter pound of butter sliced, cover with light flaky crust, add another layer of sliced berries and sugar, cover with crust, generous sprinkling of sugar, add cup of water and bake 30 minutes, serve with heavy whipped cream.

This would cause the Lions to roar some Tuesday.

Well, any way, I certainly enjoy preparing meals. Beaty is with us, so that makes 4 to cook for, and also enjoy the food.

We came to Ontario last Tuesday, rented a house furnished, 5 rooms, bath and breakfast room. Just enough like a Texas built house to make us feel at home. We are 40 miles east of Los Angeles, on the highway, so you can all stop to visit us.

We brought our outfit down from Los Angeles Wednesday and made ourselves at home.

At 1:30 Friday morning our slumbers were violently disturbed, I said, "earth-quake." The second shock brought Beaty running to our room to see if we were awake. We were. However, we are told that there are two kinds, one that frightens and one that doesn't. This will do for us. A prophet has another one billed for the 9th.

Well, I am beginning to get a little more nerve than I had at first. I don't think I gave you my experience when we reached the city of Los Angeles. I felt that if ever I got within 4 walls, I would stay right there until I could start back home. Believe me, I was nervous. We got through fire. Did not bump or get bumped and escaped the cops. Next day the family voted to go sight-seeing. I had seen enough, did not want to go, but had to, to make the others happy. Once more we got out of the city limits and I could breathe, wondered if there could not possibly be a round about way to get back home. There was not. Places of notoriety or of interest were painted out, but it feel on deaf ears, I could not see a thing only the street ahead. We would reach a grade and as I looked away ahead at the maddening stream of cars, street cars, electric and steam cars, my heart would almost stop its beat and the blood in my veins would chill. Not for anything would I suggest going anywhere, the quickest way home suited me best. Through it all I was mute, not through fear of ridicule, but no one had time to listen to a case of nerves. And I see no reason why it should be called "nerves," when so many at "the wheels" act insane.

Happily, I am getting accustomed to the mad rush and think will soon be enjoying hunting former friends and visiting.

We are in a ten minute drive to the mountains, most of the way a beautiful boulevard. Euclid Blvd. Ontario, is said to be the most beautiful in America, but that is California literature, so I don't know. Ten thousand acres in grapes just to our east. Oranges, lemons, walnuts, olives and truck farming. The best wheat we have seen anywhere is 5 miles out.

The fruit is being gathered and bank deposits are growing fast, similar to ours during the cotton season. This is a good year out here, and business conditions are improving since the drought last year.

We went to church last night at the First Methodist church. Opened with a song. Then song by the choir. A young man sang a solo, and then had moving pictures—"B'r'er Rabbit and His Friends," showing all small animals. After the show the words of two sacred songs were screened, well, I just could not sing, having never sung at a picture show, some how, I just could not get the pitch. Then the pastor read the scripture and gave a lecture in a very matter of fact way, and that was all there was to it. It was a northern church, no negroes in the congregation, perhaps I might get accustomed to that way of doing, but I don't want to. Much prefer a sermon on "hell-fire and brim stone."

It's a long stretch from the sermon on the mount, to a little old church that has to put on a picture show to get a crowd. I'd rather have Amy McPherson any day. Her sermons are full of faith and love and she has big crowds every day.

Don't know where our church home will be yet.

Started Ralph to school this morning. Am going to spend quite a bit of my time seeing how they do their work out here. It's different in many respects to our way. Quite an improvement along some lines and others I don't know about.

Our dairy man is a nephew of C. L. Logan. Our ice man is a Texas man and also our landlord.

Each morning as I go to market I enjoy the fragrance of the orange blossoms, the roses and carnations, but there is not a friend with whom to stop and chat.

Who is coming out to the Shriner's convention. Great preparations are being made for the occasion. Am sure it will be a wonderful trip. Right now I serve notice, that who ever comes from the old home town will be guests of the Easons at least part of the time. If you are coming, please drop us a card, so that we may have the pleasure of anticipating your visit.

The good news has reached us of the abundance of rain in Texas—three cheers.

Mrs. Stevenson intends leaving for home within the next few days as Kirksey is now improving fast.

Expect to go to Los Angeles for the week-end and go out and visit Mrs. Gardner.

P. S.—I am going to town just especially to buy ink, paper etc.

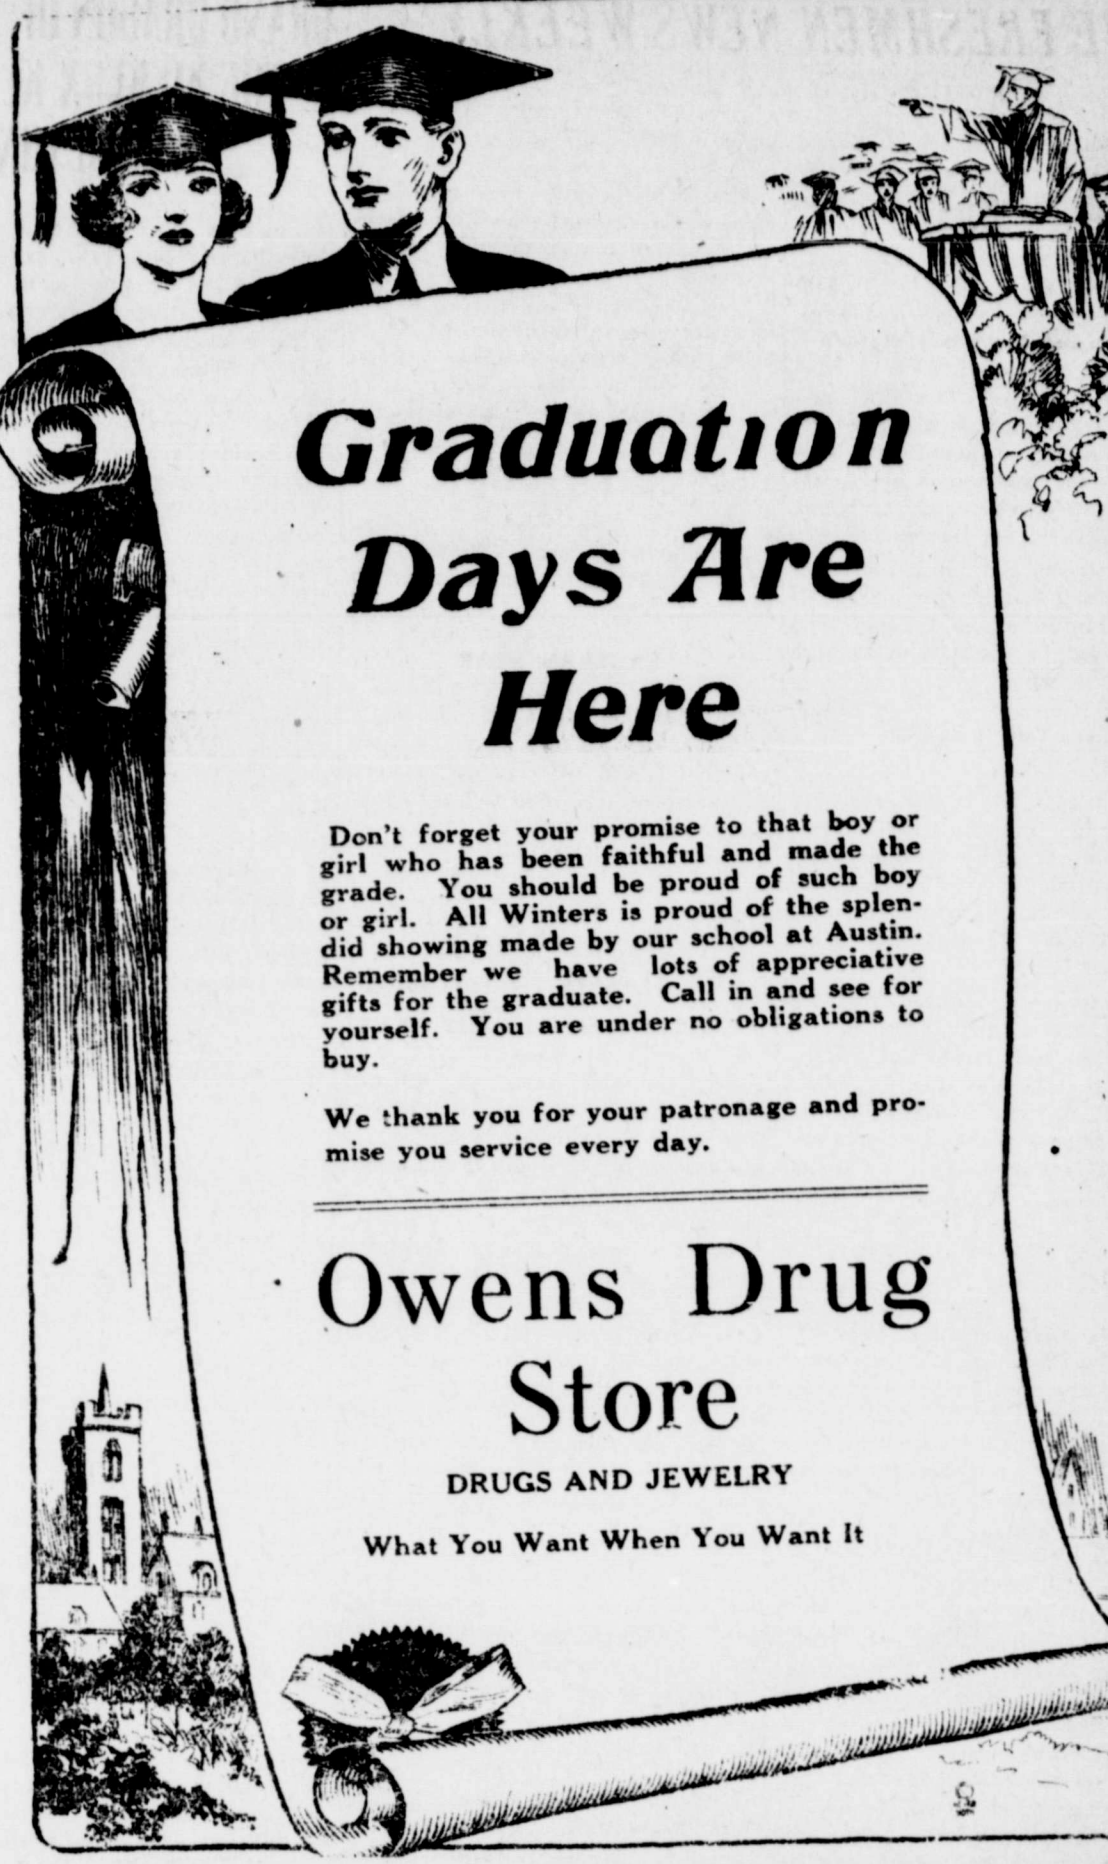

I know this is bum copy, but I've pecked it out on the old type writer for so long, I can scarcely write.

I'll set 'em up to the operator when I get home. Mr. Eason is sold on Calif. but I am not yet. Maybe I'll fall for it after while. I sure nut ready to buy a paper out here.—Sincerely, Mrs. Eason.

Letter From Mrs. Eason, California

Ontario, Calif., May 4, 1925.—Enterprise and folks at home: Good—I'm glad I beat Henry Ford to it. "Back-to-the-Kitchen." I'm there three meals a day. Lot's of fun when you have been off the job as long as yours truly.

How I wish I might phone some of you to run over and eat with us—vegetables everyday and strawberries—the finest I've ever used, must be good as East or South Texas. This is one of our favorites—crush a cup of berries in pan, add 3-4 cups sugar, quarter pound of butter sliced, cover with light flaky crust, add another layer of sliced berries and sugar, cover with crust, generous sprinkling of sugar, add cup of water and bake 30 minutes, serve with heavy whipped cream.

This would cause the Lions to roar some Tuesday.

Well, any way, I certainly enjoy preparing meals. Beauty is with us, so that makes 4 to cook for, and also enjoy the food.

We came to Ontario last Tuesday, rented a house furnished, 5 rooms, bath and breakfast room. Just enough like a Texas built house to make us feel at home. We are 40 miles east of Los Angeles, on the highway, so you can all stop to visit us.

We brought our outfit down from Los Angeles Wednesday and made ourselves at home.

At 1:30 Friday morning our slumbers were violently disturbed, I said, "earth-quake." The second shock brought Beatty running to our room to see if we were awake. We were. However, we are told that there are two kinds, one that frightens and one that doesn't. This will do for us. A prophet has another one billed for the 9th.

Well, I am beginning to get a little more nerve than I had at first. I don't think I gave you my experience when we reached the city of Los Angeles. I felt that if ever I got within 4 walls, I would stay right there until I could start back home. Believe me, I was nervous. We got through fire. Did not bump or get bumped and escaped the cops. Next day the family voted to go sight-seeing. I had seen enough, did not want to go, but had to, to make the others happy. Once more we got out of the city limits and I could breathe, wondered if there could not possibly be a round about way to get back home. There was not. Places of notoriety or of interest were painted out, but it feel on deaf ears, I could not see a thing only the street ahead. We would reach a grade and as I looked away ahead at the maddening stream of cars, street cars, electric and steam cars, my heart would almost stop its beat and the blood in my veins would chill. Not for anything would I suggest going anywhere, the quickest way home suited me best. Through it all I was mute, not through fear of ridicule, but no one had time to listen to a case of nerves. And I see no reason why it should be called "nerves," when so many at "the wheels" act insane.

Happily, I am getting accustomed to the mad rush and think will soon be enjoying hunting former friends and visiting.

We are in a ten minute drive to the mountains, most of the way a beautiful boulevard. Euclid Blvd, Ontario, is said to be the most beautiful in America, but that is California literature, so I don't know. Ten thousand acres in grapes just to our east. Oranges, lemons, walnuts, olives and truck farming. The best wheat we have seen anywhere is 5 miles out.

The fruit is being gathered and bank deposits are growing fast, similar to ours during the cotton season. This is a good year out here, and business conditions are improving since the drought last year.

We went to church last night at the First Methodist church. Opened with a song. Then song by the choir. A young man sang a solo, and then had moving pictures—"Br'er Rabbit and His Friends," showing all small animals. After the show the words of two sacred songs were screened, well, I just could not sing, having never sung at a picture show, some how, I just could not get the pitch. Then the pastor read the scripture and gave a lecture in a very matter of fact way, and that was all there was to it. It was a northern church, no negroes in the congregation, perhaps I might get accustomed to that way of doing, but I don't want to. Much prefer a sermon on "hell-fire and brim stone."

It's a long stretch from the sermon on the mount, to a little old church that has to put on a picture show to get a crowd. I'd rather have Amy McPherson any day. Her sermons are full of faith and love and she has big crowds every day.

Don't know where our church home will be yet.

Started Ralph to school this morning. Am going to spend quite a bit of my time seeing how they do their work out here. It's different in many respects to our way. Quite an improvement along some lines and others I don't know about.

Our dairy man is a nephew of C. L. Logan. Our ice man is a Texas man and also our landlord.

Each morning as I go to market I enjoy the fragrance of the orange blossoms, the roses and carnations, but there is not a friend with whom to stop and chat.
