WINTERS, RUNNELS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY JULY 10, 1925

NUMBER 10

THOUSANDS THROUGH THE CITY CELEBRATING THE FOURTH OF JULY HERE

What is said to have been the largest crowd that ever gathered in Winters, was here last Saturday to celebrate the 149th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Early in the day the city was lined with cars, until parking space was not available. About ten o'clock a steady stream of cars began to flow toward the picnic grounds a short distance north of Winters, and by 11 o'clock there was hardly parking space to be found there and the grounds were literally packed.

All during the morning the Winters band entertained the people with music, and M. G. Olsen of Waco spoke to the huge gathering of the principles and purposes of the Ku Klux Klan.

At the noon hour, everybody whose appetite was keen, were turned in on the barbecue which was piled high on two long tables, together with pickles, bread and cake.

Field Editor Farm and Ranch Here Last Wednesday

T. C. Richardson, field editor of Farm and Ranch, of Dallas, was in the city Wednesday in company with Mr. Lehmburg, Runnels county farm demonstration agent, of Ballinger. Mr. Richardson said conditions in the Winters country looked very promising to him. He glanced through a copy of the Enterprise and said, "Judging from your paper you must have a mighty good town here." And we readily agreed with him. That is exactly the impression we would have the Enterprise make upon all who glance through its columns.

Clem Wyatt Kicked By A Mule Monday

Last Monday morning while attending to his duties with the Winters Ice & Fuel, Clem Wyatt was kicked in the chest by a mule. He was badly hurt but at this time he is doing nicely and will soon be on the job again.

DEATH OF SANFORD E. FLYNT, JULY 3RD

Sanford E. Flynt died at the family home, Friday, July 3rd.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church by Rev. H. H. Stephens and interment was in the Winters cemetery.

He was twenty-two years old at the time of his death and had made this place his home all his life. He was a young man of sterling character. Circumstance guided his every act and it seemed to be so perfectly natural for him to do right.

It is sad to give up one whose influence among men would doubtless have been good. Yet, he who doeth all things well, makes no mistakes. The human link snapped asunder on earth is forged anew in heaven. The yearning relatives mourn not as one without hope. It is true that when youth has gone not much of life remains; hence the dear one's eyes are closed to all earthly trials. In his spring time of enthusiasm and tenderness, ere the sunshine of hope and joy was extinguished, he passed to the glorious beyond.

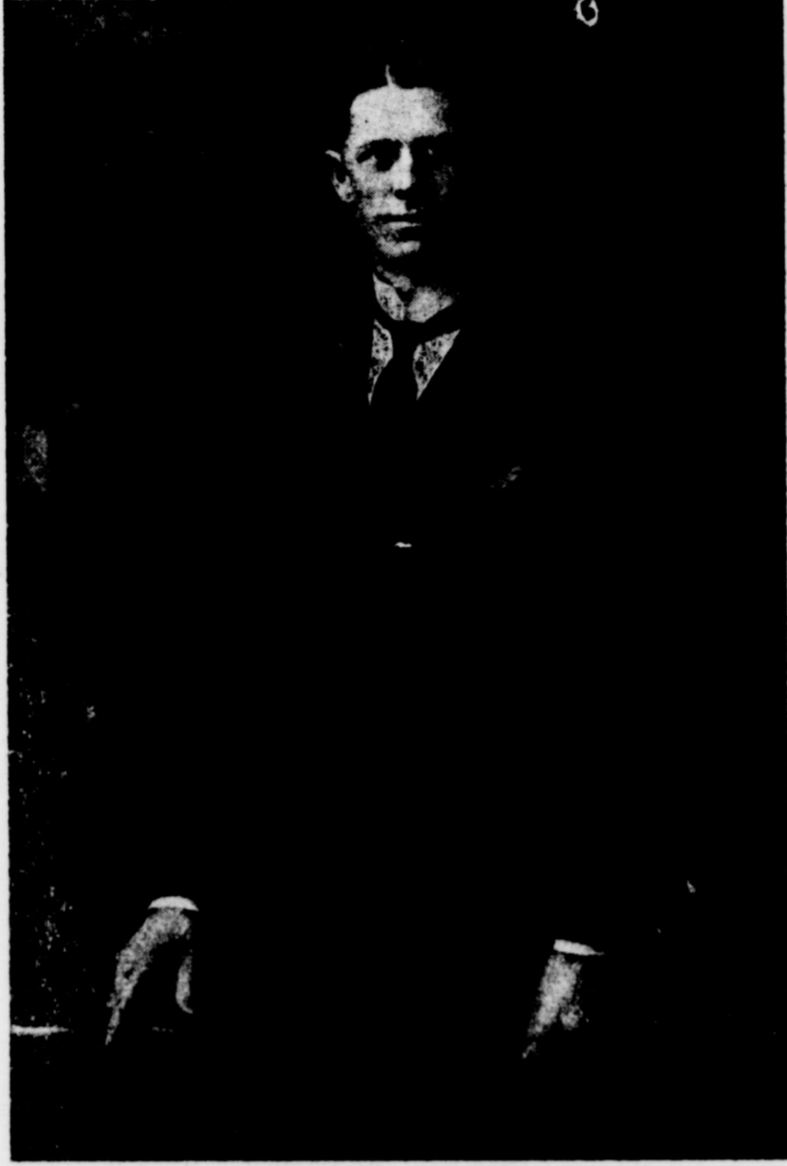

He leaves a grandmother, Mrs. S. F. Flynt, with whom he made his home, and one brother to mourn his loss.

C. L. Hudgens and family of Ft. Worth, are in the city for a week's visit with his parents and other relatives.

Merrick Spill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spill has been quite ill for the past week. Friends will be glad to learn the young man is reported as improving.

Wayne Mitchell and family are attending the Baptist encampment at Christoval this week.

REVIVAL SERVICES TO BEGIN AT CHURCH OF CHRIST SUNDAY, JULY 12

JOHN T. SMITH

The regular annual summer meeting of the Church of Christ begins next Sunday morning with Brother Jno. T. Smith of Denver, Colorado, doing the preaching. Brother Smith is formerly of Tennessee but until his location at Denver about two years ago he lived and preached extensively in Texas, for several years. He is recognized as one of the leading proclaimers of the Gospel among us.

Back From the Davis Mountains

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Low with their son, A. M. Gideon and family of Dallas and Misses Sallie Upshaw and Leslie Lanford of Holland returned Thursday from a two weeks trip through the Davis mountains and several days camp at Junction, Texas.

LIONS CLUB TO TAKE VACATION

At the luncheon of the Lions Club last Tuesday at the noon hour the club was favored by a report of President Holcomb who had just returned from the National convention in Ohio, and talks by Messrs. Rehrens of Abilene who were guests. Among other things it was decided that after the next regular meeting the club would take a vacation during the month of August. Regular semi-monthly meetings will be resumed in September.

TRACTOR DEMONSTRATION ON DAVIS FARM

Last Tuesday a good friend of Grover Davis rushed into our office with the news that people for many miles around were gathering at Mr. Davis' farm to help recover his crop from the grass and weeds.

An investigation revealed the fact that it was only the demonstration of the McCormick-Deering Farmall Tractor put on by the Van Pelt Hardware Co., of this city.

A factory representative was here to assist with the demonstration and all during the day people from all over the country were in attendance, and Mr. Van Pelt tells us that the demonstration was a success in every way and praise for the Farmall Tractor was heard on all sides during the day.

These services will be conducted in the open air tabernacle on the church property on Main street, and all in Winters and surrounding territory are earnestly invited to attend. Plenty of good seats and fans for everybody.

Rev. Gid J. Bryan, pastor of the Methodist church is assisting in the meeting at Wingate, which began Saturday night. The attendance is good and interest is growing. They have had several conversions. Quite a number of people from here are expecting to attend this meeting.

J. Q. Lankford returned home the first of the week from Ardmore, Okla., where he went to accompany his mother for a visit with relatives and friends.

Mr. Lankford visited Greenville, Denison, Ft. Worth and other Texas cities. He was accompanied home from Ardmore by his brother, J. F. Lankford and family, who are visiting in the Lankford home.

RUNNELS COUNTY BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUB ENCAMPMENT

One of the big events in Runnels county will take place on July 16 and 17, Thursday and Friday. These are the dates set for the Runnels county Boys' and Girls' Club Encampment.

The encampment will be held this year in the new Ballinger City Park, on the Colorado river, adjoining the Fair Park. The entire park will be exclusively reserved for the boys and girls, to their parents and friends, for the two days.

The Chamber of Commerce of Ballinger is deeply interested in the club work of the boys and girls of Runnels county and is offering its full co-operation to the county and Home Demonstration Agents in making this encampment the biggest and best as well as the most pleasant and profitable ever held in Runnels county.

Among the accommodations that will be furnished free at the camp will be large screened sleeping rooms, a screened dining hall, electric lights, shower baths, ice water, plenty of shade, etc.

Aside from the accommodations that will be furnished for your comfort, much entertainment, in the way of band concerts and other entertainment will be furnished. Bring your bathing suits, as the Ballinger Country Club extends a hearty invitation to you to enjoy a nice swim in their Country Lake.

The Women's and Girls' Club work will be under the direct supervision of Miss Eula Key, Home Demonstration Agent, and the men's and boys' work will be under the supervision of C. W. Lehmburg, County Agent. A very interesting and instructive program will be furnished during the two days. Mr. Lehmburg and Miss Key will be assisted in putting over the program by the County Agents and Home Demonstration Agents from adjoining counties.

We are anxious to make this the largest encampment in West Texas and we are therefore urging every club member, their parents and friends to be present during the two days and take an active part in the various phases of the program.

We are planning a big Club Parade for the first day, Thursday, from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m. This will be one of the most unique parades that has ever been staged in Ballinger. We want every community that has a club to be present during the parade, take part in the parade and back up its local club. Every community will bear a banner with the slogan of the community printed on it. Let's see which community can have the biggest crowd and the best slogan. The night program to be held in front of the Grand Stand in the Fair Park and which will begin at 8:30 p. m. promises to be a very interesting feature of the encampment. This as well as all other programs are open to the general public and are absolutely free. We not only invite the public to come out but we hereby urge you to be present at every program during the two days.

FAIR DIRECTORS HOLD MEETING

Mr. Sid Neely attended the meeting of the Runnels County Fair Association at Ballinger last Tuesday. Mr. Neely tells us that the directors at this meeting voted to enlarge the territory of the fair, taking in the counties of Coleman, Concho and Coke. Several other matters of business were attended to among them the allowing of $10.00 to each community exhibit to help pay for arranging and displaying the exhibit.

Next Week is National Ford Truck Week

The coming week has been designated as National Ford Truck week and Nance-Brown Motor Co., local authorized dealers, have arranged for a complete showing of Ford built truck bodies.

Entrance of the Ford Motor Company into the manufacture of commercial bodies indicates a new and important advancement in this division of motor transportation since it shows that Ford is bringing into delivery and hauling services the same low cost and high value that has made the Ford passenger car the most popular in the world. The Ford truck chassis has long held the lead among light commercial vehicles and at present approximately 75 per cent of the one-ton trucks in use are Fords.

The business man or farmer who is interested in reducing hauling costs will have the opportunity this week of becoming fully acquainted with these Ford built truck bodies which, because of the economies of Ford quality production, are offered at low prices.

Arrangements have been made by Nance-Brown Motor Co., to keep show runs open every evening during the week so that all may have an opportunity of inspecting the trucks and as an opening feature a truck parade will be held through the business streets Monday, beginning at 4:30 o'clock.

More important, however, Nance-Brown Motor Co. will be prepared to give demonstrations of any of these units and those interested are invited to enter their requests for the demonstration as early as possible.

The Ford-built body combinations for the famous Ford one-ton Truck chassis include the open express type, the express type with either screen sides and canopy top or with top alone, and the stake and platform body. This latter body also is of particular interest to the farmer and truck gardener, for it is adaptable to every agricultural hauling as it may be used with either grain or cattle sides. With stakes it provides unusual spaces for carting garden produce.

A closed cab, adaptable for use with any of these bodies, also is provided and has grown greatly in popularity since its introduction. It is of all-steel construction, roomy, with removable panels in the back and affords complete protection for the driver in inclement weather, with ample ventilating facilities.

The displays also will include the new pick-up body, which is mounted on the rear of the Ford runabout, providing a light delivery car which meets a variety of requirements where quick delivery is an important factor.

A Letter From Murl McCasland

5641 Drexel Ave., Chicago, Ill. The Winters Enterprise, Winters, Texas. Dear Editor:—Several months have passed since I enjoyed the friendly atmosphere of my old home town and several more will perhaps be torn from the calendar before I am again granted the merited privilege of your hospitable association.

Not one week has passed since our parting, that I have not watched the happenings of the Winters community through the pages of "The Enterprise" and there I have found pleasure and sorrow alike in its pages. I am glad to hear of the new and successful undertakings of the community and to notice a very decided improvement in our newspaper. I am sorry indeed to read in your late papers of the deaths of my dear friends. My heart goes out to their loved ones in sympathy and if it were possible, I would be glad to offer personally just such deeds of kindness as were offered me in similar hours of sadness.

When I last sent to you a few words of greetings, I was in Colorado, where I had a very pleasant and profitable year in school work. I closed my years work with much greater success than I had anticipated, and I found much pleasure in the friendships of a wonderful community and in the great success of my athletic teams.

I am at present one of the ten thousand employees under one roof, all of one accord and for one purpose in the great work of promoting the daily routine of "The Marshall Field Co." retail store, recognized as the greatest in the world for its highly developed system of merchandising and capitalistic production. I realize that I am a very small cog in a large wheel but I find entertainment in my work and it is my intention to do my best as long as the company has enough confidence in me to allow me the responsibility of the position.

You perhaps realize that a place like this has many exciting, adventures and many ghostly thrills to offer a country lad who is trying to break into the daily routine of such a mad, rushing, restless mob of material and humanity. All this I find strange, but time will brush the sun from my face and the rural features from my personality and this howling mob will be proved to adopt me as though I were a native son of such environment but they will never rob me of the fundamentals built into my character through the association of dear friends to whom I owe a great debt for their kindness. Life here seems to be merely a process in which the individual is not consumed with the presence of his fellowman neither of his personal destiny.

I do myself honor when I say that I am still under the very attentive watchcare of my older brother, Vernon, through whose influence I came here. We enjoy some very fine times

I have no intentions of being a preacher, but nothing would not satisfy him but that I should fill his appointment last Sunday and carry on the good work of preaching the gospel. Fact and Fiction About Canada's Royal Mounted

Police Commissioner Starnes Says the Only Ideal Troopers Are in Motion Pictures

Commissioner Cortlandt Starnes, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, thinks that the only ideal "mounties" are in the movies. He says it is not human to expect that each of the thousand or so men who are under his command "combine the skill of D'Artagnan, Sherlock Holmes, a Texas ranger, a British cavalryman, a French Canadian coureur de bois and a Yankee scout, all rolled into one, with the manners of Lord Chesterfield."

And he knocks on the head the traditions that "the 'mountie' always gets his man." They get him when they can, according to Commissioner Starnes, and that is all that can be expected of them.

However, the "mountie," working miles away from civilization in the pursuit of criminals through the wilds, has developed unusual qualities of independence and resourcefulness that have won him recognition as one of the finest types of policeman the modern world has produced. And fiction writers, who have made the "mounties" famous for their courage and ingenuity in tracking their men, are probably as close to reality as the commander who speaks to strip this body of police of their glamor.

That glamor is due as much to the novelist, James Oliver Curwood as to anybody. Curwood knows his "mounties"; he has lived with them and hunted with them. And the results of his experience with them have been told in a long series of stories. Possibly the best of these is the series called "Steel of the Royal Mounted," which, made into a Vitagraph photoplay, will be at the Queen Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, 13 and 14.

In the actual records of the "mounties" the romance has been left out, and the lure must be found somewhere between the lines, for it does not seem to be anything but prosaic in the troopers' written reports. But when the processes of the trooper's mind are actionized there is a startling romance, suspense and gripping conflict.

In "Steel of the Royal Mounted," when Corporal Steele is detailed to find out the murderer of a poor French trapper he adopts a method that is at once original and daring, and incidentally it is the exact method used in a similar case by a Canadian trooper.

Steele knows that the body of the dead trapper is to be sent back to the man's shack in which he was killed. He figures that the murderer, if he was a member of the gang that frequented the shack, would return before the burial. By his authority as a trooper he detains the casket that has the body in it and procures an empty one, into which he crawls and is carried to the shack.

As in real life, the screen hero, in this case, gets his man.

The hero in the picture is played by Bert Lytell. He is assisted in the tracking of the criminal by another trooper, played by Glen Cavender, who, in real life, has had a lot of soldier-of-fortune experience himself. Cavender served in the Boxer Rebellion, he was a personal aid to General Villa in Mexico, and he served in the World War.

"Steel of the Royal Mounted" is a David Smith production.

What with balloon trousers and balloon tires, this old world seems to be getting a bit too crowded.

KILPATRICK MOTOR COMPANY

Chevrolet Has 28 Zone Offices in U. S.

The Chevrolet sales organization, endeavoring to keep pace with demand for the new car, has opened two more zone offices; one at Indianapolis, Ind., and another at Jacksonville, Fla., an additional connection links between factory and dealer.

The company now has 26 zone offices in the United States. During the summer the Jacksonville branch will erect a large brick storage building.

The Indianapolis office, known as Zone Office 25, has been established at 54 Monument Circle, Indianapolis. It is in charge of Charles R. Lee, who will assume the responsibilities previously spread between three zone offices in adjoining states, his jurisdiction covering all except one or two counties of Indiana. Because of the geographical convenience of nearby Chevrolet parts and car stocks, the Indianapolis office carries no stock.

According to C. E. Dawson, assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, increasing volume of sales throughout Indiana necessitated establishment of the Indianapolis office to assure prompt attention to the needs of the 87 direct dealers and the 34 associate dealers now included in the zone.

The new factory branch at Jacksonville, now in temporary quarters at 916 Main street, was opened recently as Zone Office 26 when it became apparent that the facilities of the Atlanta, Ga., zone were inadequate for the rapidly increasing Florida trade. Under the direction of Zone Sales Manager Chester A. Smith it will serve as the distribution center for Florida and southern Georgia.

Plans are being drawn for a two-story building to provide reserve storage for cars and a $50,000 stock of parts.

"Cyclone Rider" Full of Thrills and Daring

All the world is seeking thrills, and no one knows it better than Lincoln J. Carter, author of "The Cyclone Rider," a William Fox special production at the Mission Theatre Saturday as a "thrill-drama." Lincoln J. Carter has been writing stage plays for a great many years—so many that his name was a household word when the moving picture industry was in its infancy. Some time ago he was inducted to join the Fox staff. That his genius for turning out scenarios is every bit as great as his genius for play-writing was proved in the success of his first two screen entertainments, "The Fast Mail" and "The Eleventh Hour."

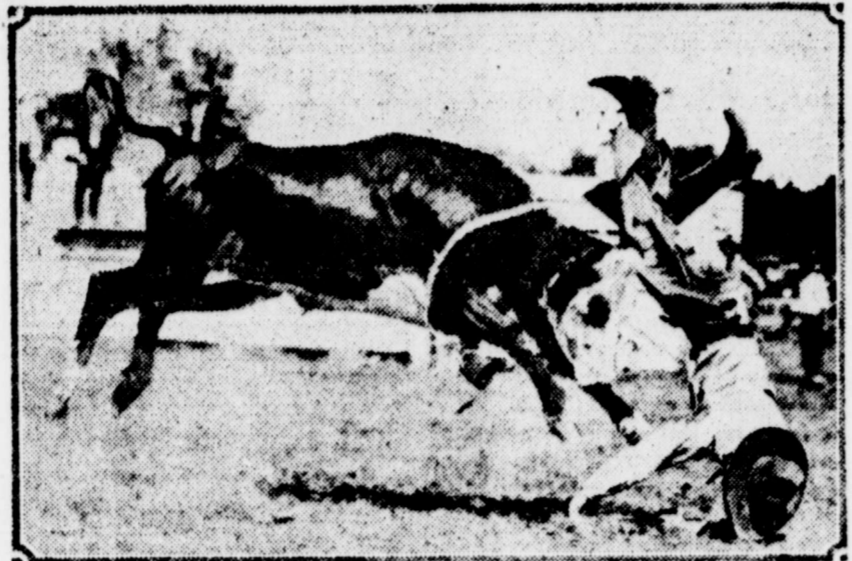

Now along comes "The Cyclone Rider" with ten times the speed and action of its predecessors and a great deal of romance and humor which they lacked. It was directed by Thomas Buckingham, who has always excelled in productions of this type, and it features, in the title role, a young man named Reed Hows, who looks the part so thoroughly that he could act only half as well as he does and still put it across.

The big scene, and the biggest thrill of the picture comes in the automobile race which he enters, hoping to win the $5,000 purse. Doris' father has decreed that he shall earn this amount before he can win the girl, which makes plausible the death-defying chances he takes to cross the line first. And then, when the race practically won, a child wanders out across the track and he is obliged to wreck his machine to save her. That gives an opportunity for the picture to run on into even more thrills.

The audience doesn't mind. If "The Cyclone Rider" were twice as long, it would sit clutching its chair arms and grasping joyfully through to the end. No one walks out in the midst of such excitement as this—and no one has the least chance to get bored. Even the wedding at the finish is not an ordinary wedding in any sense. The hero arrives through the window swinging on a steel derrick beam, in time to prevent Doris from marrying a blackguard, and then, since the minister was there and everything ready, he marries her himself.

Protect your wife. Give her an electric range. 9 2c

DYNAMITE ON THE HOOF

Riding a wild steer is anything but a "pink tea" sport and if you don't believe it, ask any of the many cowboys who will try to stay on these chunks of living dynamite during the Chicago Roundup and World's Championship Rodeo, beginning August 15. The Brahma steer, a cross between the Mexican longhorn and the Brahma, or sacred cattle of India, is a fighter from the word "go," according to the boys who have tackled them, and after throwing a rider they'll frequently try to maul him up.

Steer riding, calling for an excess of skill and daring, is one of the features of the Chicago Roundup, which will be held under the auspices of the Chicago Association of Commerce for nine days. The competitions are under the direction of Tex Austin, who has managed the largest and most successful of rodeos. More than $30,000 in cash prizes will go to the winners of the events, together with the world's championship titles.

"The Ridin' Comet" At Queen Saturday

All too often a picture that is heralded as a knockout turns out to be something of a disappointment when it is finally shown. But this can by no means be said of "The Ridin' Comet," starring Yakima Canutt, the world's champion cowboy, at the Queen Theatre, Saturday, July 11.

The "difference" of this thundering western melodrama, lies largely in the fact that the regular and indispensable requirements of romance, thrills and action is added a broad and understanding under current of the love of two strong men for a horse, and the courage, loyalty and intelligence of this magnificent animal. Eventually he pays his debt to the man who is not his master, but who has saved his life, by in turn saving the life of the man. The swimming of the "Devil Draw," where a raging flood sweeps angrily down a rocky gorge, is one of the most thrilling scenes ever filmed for the screen; and much of the powerful drama of this incident is due to the superb acting of "Babe," Canutt's horse. As "Meadowlark," the wonder horse, "Babe" gives a great display of ability and intelligence.

The fight of Slim Rantlers, a young westerner, known as a gun-fighter, to keep back the inevitable progress of the onward march of civilization in his beloved range country, as instanced by the rising power of the Water trust and the irrigationists, forms the background of the story. Against this is projected smashing action, and a rich young love story of this proud but misguided man and the sister of the watermaster men. Between these two virile men there is only the bitterest enmity and their one point in common is their love for Meadowlark.

AUCTIONEERS OVERLOOKED

The State Department's style book gives a list of persons in America who should be addressed as "Honorable" and "Esquire," explaining that everybody else should be addressed as "Mister," except the occupant of the White House, who should never be addressed as "Excellency," but as "the President" formally, or "My Dear Mr. President" or "Dear Mr. President" informally. But how about the 23,413 auctioneers over the country? They would be equal to declaring war if lumped among the "Misters." No well regulated country newspaper will ever under any circumstances permit the name of the home auctioneer to appear in its news columns without the "Col." appearing before the name. And why not? This breezy, good natured, optimistic fellow, known to every man, woman and child in his home community, is a booster and a valuable person in his community and we are perfectly willing that he shall carry the title of "Colonel."

LOYALTY

Under the caption "Loyalty," a contemporary says:

"Happy is the town where the people are loyal to industry and local industry is loyal to them. The obligation is not one-sided. It is mutual or it doesn't exist. There have been cases in which local industry taxed its home people higher than it taxed outsiders. Loyalty is beautiful. But it is a give as well as take proposition."

That Winters people and Winters institutions are mutually loyal we make no doubt. But in the event one side should become more loyal than the other, both eventually will suffer. Not only should our people encourage local industry by their patronage, but also by their moral support.

SLEEPING ON THE JOB

Keep up the summer advertising. This is the season when the average merchant sets up in his advertising and when the mail order house begins to get in its deadliest work. It is hard for the merchants in the smaller towns to understand that it pays to advertise during July and August, but the mail order house knows that the best time for it to go after business is when the merchants are asleep on the job.

People will buy from you regularly if you ask them to regularly. Keep on telling the people of this community about your store and splendid merchandise and you'll keep on selling them.

THE ROAD HOG

This seems to be the time of the year when the road hog flourishes the most plentifully. The road hog, you know, is the motorist who wants the whole road. He likes to drive slowly in the middle of the road, so that anyone behind him has to stay behind, even if it is at a snail's pace. He always plows ahead regardless of intersections, and he always makes the other fellow take the ditch on a narrow road.

Since the road hog is too selfish to consider others, the only remedy would seem to be to ram him with an armored car. He ought not to be allowed to drive at all.

"CHANGE"

Says a bulletin of a state board of health: "Change is the first essential to a vacation." It is indeed. And the dickens of it is, nobody ever has enough change to take as big a vacation or go as far as he would like.

EVERYBODY CELEBRATED

The President celebrated the Fourth as his fifty-third birthday. The War Department observed it as Defense Day. And the small boy as usual celebrated it as the day for getting his fingers burned.

FAVORITE READING

This is the season of the year when the road maps get the greater part of the attention that the family bestows on reading matter. Whether the family is going to drive out for the week-end or for a long summer trip, every member wants a look at the road and to know which road offers the best opportunities for enjoyment.

"The Fast Set" de Mille Film Here Next Week

Philanderers have one redeeming feature—they make indifferent husbands appreciate their own wives!

In "The Fast Set," which William de Mille produced at the Paramount West Coast Studio, a "great lover" really saves a family from disruption by making love to an author's wife.

The husband is so busy writing love stories about fictional characters that he is blind to the charms of his wife. But when the popular "great lover," leader of the "fast set," dares to show an interest in the young woman, the author fights back. As soon as the philanderer seems to want her, the husband realizes that he, too, wants her.

The finesses with which his rival plays the game astonishes the author and he resorts to a daring step. For the purpose of making his wife realize her position and to insult her friends with biting comparisons, he invites a girl from the streets as guest to a dinner party given by his wife to her friends.

As a climax the novelist pays the philanderer the great compliment of listening to advice as to the best way of winning back his wife!

The picture will be shown beginning next Monday and Tuesday at the Mission Theatre.

BUSINESS IS THE WAY TO GREAT SUCCESS

It has long been known that the biggest incomes and the richest opportunities are to be found in the field of business; that young men and young women often achieve greater success before they are thirty than many men achieve in other callings in a lifetime.

Business is the only calling in which all humanity must depend to a greater extent; the only calling in which every man, woman and child is a "prospect." Business is the only calling which, in America alone, has 110,000,000 "prospects." Every man, woman and child must have food, clothing, a house, and home furnishings. Business serves every need and it serves every whim. There is not another field like it in all the world.

An investigation by the government shows that a success or a failure in a person's life is made between the ages of 40 and 45. You see the young business person has made in a way, a success before he or she reaches that age.

Preparing young people to meet the demand of 110,000,000 people, Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas, has grown to be the largest business school in America.

Fifty thousand completed either the Private Secretarial, General Business, General Banking, General Railroad, General Western Union, General Civil Service, General Cotton Classing, or one or more of the many other courses, and are now in business for themselves or holding responsible positions.

The Tyler Commercial College offers you definite results, results which you will feel in a short time. This is true because immediately upon completion of your course, the Employment Department will endeavor to place you in a good position.

"Achieving Success in Business" is the large book that will be sent to you for the asking. This helpful book tells you all about the Tyler Commercial College—how others won success—why men and women enter their school from all over the world—of the opportunities open to you. Just fill in and mail the coupon printed below for the large free book.

Lady Says She Took Cardui and Never Saw Such Improvement—Was So Weak Couldn't Stand.

Weathersby, Miss.—Mrs. James M. Hall, of this place, writes that she was "getting weaker all the time" when Cardui, the woman's tonic, was first brought to her attention. After she had taken Cardui a while, she writes that she "never did see such an improvement."
"I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. Hall. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman—used to outdoor exercise, walking and going where I pleased, and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship."
"Nothing seemed to help me, till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me, and I sent for five more. By the time I had taken these, I was on my feet, going around, doing my work, gained in health and strength."
"I took two more bottles, and I am well and strong. Can work my garden. I haven't had any more sickness."

Mankiller Horse Attacks Cowboy

Cactus Bend, July 10.—Word has been received here from Sweetwater Ranch, of a ferocious attack upon Buck Dwan, a cowpuncher, by Tiger, a mankilling stallion owned for breeding purposes by Henry Baker, ranchman.
That Dwan escaped with his life is due more to his riding skill plus good luck than to any outside help. In fact ugly rumors are circulating to the effect that the affair resulted from a plot on the part of Jack Hawksby, foreman, to have Dwan killed in this way.
Persons who are in a position to know, say that the enmity of the foreman for Dwan is due to the fact that Baker's daughter, Mary, smiles upon Dwans, rather than upon Hawksby.
Dwan, newly come to the ranch, was taunted by Hawksby and dared to ride the horse. He finally agreed. A most terrific battle ensued between the cowboy rider and the blood-thirsty horse. Meanwhile all the other ranch hands stood about unable to lend any assistance.
The surprising conclusion was that Dwan finally subdued the beast, and was able to ride him slowly about the corral. He has bet a thousand dollars that he will break the horse for ordinary saddle purposes.
To see the thrilling story of the west—LOOPEO FOR LIFE, in which that daring and consummate actor Acord plays the leading role, and in which the battle with the horse is but a single incident, one need only attend the Queen Theatre, Friday evening, July 10, when the picture will be shown.

BUY IT IN WINTERS

If every person living in Winters bought his requirements from some firm which does business here, it would have more to do with the growth and progress of this city than any one thing. Do you know that almost everything needed by almost everyone living here is sold by some firm doing business right here in this city? How shall Winters ever become the hub of a great trade territory that it has every geographical right to become unless every citizen in this city patronizes home industry? Think and talk about Winters if you want it to grow, show that you are for Winters by purchasing your supplies here—Winters merchants and business firms can give you values that can not be equaled in other cities. Glance over this list of progressive firms which made this campaign possible and patronize them.

Most everybody in Winters knows G. T. Pounds. Everybody knows that he operated the City Cafe up to the time he sold out some few months ago. Everybody knows what kind of a restaurant man Mr. Pounds is, for he has had the experience and puts that experience into good eats, when they go on the table.

Mr. Pounds has just recently purchased the Cozy Cafe. He has renovated the interior, painted up the exterior, and put quality into the food that will be served here in the future. He lets nothing enter into a meal or short order but the best the local market affords. The customer has the satisfaction of knowing that his meal will be composed of the best, properly prepared and appetizingly served.

Mr. Pounds gives his personal and undivided attention to everything that is prepared for you, and employs only culinary artists that can, and knows how to prepare a meal.

If you have not been a patron of the Cozy Cafe in the past, give it a trial in the future and note the difference. Consider the improvements in the savor of the things you eat and at the home feeling that exists. Also make note of the fact that cleanliness is the watch-word in this cafe. The kitchen is 100 points sanitary, and your pocket-book is reasonably safe.

Religion As a Civic Asset

Among many people, the ideas concerning religion are vague. Many conceive it to be a phantasy playing on the minds of weaklings or even a spasm of distorted mentality. Above all, an impediment, restraining them from what they consider profitable business and many pleasures. Taking it all together, a thing to be shunned and even resented and despised.

Other people, many of whom have profound learning and are holding high positions in state, regard religion as a consuming pleasure, susceptible to great joy and even companionship that is altogether pleasant. They see in it that which inspires the lofty and the holy in art, in literature, and in social relations, and above this a restraining fear of future punishment, or an inspiration towards an eternal future life of bliss. All of which are things to be profoundly hoped for, and a cause demanding loyalty even unto death.

Divergent as these ideas are there is a common ground for all. History is replete with the thought that the religion of a nation was under the power and protection of the rulers of it, and used it as a means of furthering the welfare of its people. Knowing its great power for good, taxes were and are collected to maintain its services and build its edifices. Schools have been its inseparable companion, and only in recent years have the ideas of separate schools and separate churches prevailed.

Religion, especially the Christian religion with its varied denominations teach the power and pleasure and usefulness of the grace of giving. From the practice of this grace, churches are raised and maintained, schools are fostered and hospitals and orphanages abound. The Christians have achieved so much good that others are prompted to do likewise and things that are of a common interest and use find a ready help from them. Public roads and public conveniences, public utilities, institutions for the care and education of the blind and deaf and the crippled, also for the care of the insane, the poor, and the orphans providing homes for our honored Confederate soldiers and wives, and the like are products of their great idea. What would Winters do if its people were not obsessed with it?

From the teachings of religious leaders the people get their principal idea of right and wrong, and all have in them the inherent idea of a hell which punishes, and a heaven that rewards. These ideas are so strongly entrenched that a vast amount of evil is prevented by the fact that an All-Seeing-Eye watches his acts even in the dark, and the consciousness of doing good prompts many of our finest deeds. If there was no fear of the Devil or a hope of reward, what would Winters be like?

If our people were left with a government that each individual would be judge for himself as to what was right we would have as many governments as we have nature, competent people. Uniformity must be established, and the uniformity of law is based on the conscious convictions of right as given us from our pulpits and platforms. Many of our law makers may be religious men, yet they are guided in the main by the religious ideas of right and wrong gained from association with their fellow law makers. What would Winters be like if every man was governed by his own law?

Again, the religious element in leading men to religious actions is attested in the fact that all officers from the lowest to that of the president are inducted into office only after they have taken a binding oath to support the constitution of the United States of America, and such other laws and regulations as affect their own offices. With this the religious is bound by special laws prescribing penalties for unfaithfulness in office. What kind of government would Winters have if its officers were not bound by oath to do well what is required of them?

Religion unifies nations and holds them to a common purpose. Let us read history and find how often a conviction of the right caused armies to prevail and nations to flourish where every condition seemed against them. So the nations and their subdivisions must prosper and be perpetuated to just such a degree of prosperity and happiness as its people rest their faith in great religious principles and practice those sentiments.

A city without churches or moral schools or moral platforms or stages would be a cancer on the body-politic. Thoughtful men always consider the religious environment before they decide to settle in a new community. From this we would conclude that religion is probably the greatest civic asset that a city possesses.—J. C. Watts, Sec'y C. of C.

Charles K. Harris, that genius of the song world, has for the moment turned his attention to the world of motion pictures, and is the author of "The Bridge of Sighs," at the Queen Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, July 15 and 16. The man whose songs, "Just Break the news to Mother" and "After the Ball Was Over" were sung in every household on two continents in their day, is said to have created a story that carries all the punch and heart-throbs for which he is noted in song writing.

Dorothy Macknill has the featured role in this Warner Bros. "Classic of the Screen." The popular supporting cast embraces such figures as Creighton Hale, Alec B. Francis, Richard Tucker, Ralph Lewis, Clifford Saum, Fanny Midgley and Aileen Manning.

The directing is put in the very capable hands of Phil Rosen, whose "Abraham Lincoln" started the movie goers by its rare artistry.

The story deals with the regeneration, through a girl's pure love, of a waster. Billy Craig is a rich, spoiled young man who has got into deep difficulties through gambling debts. He steals a large sum of money from his father's office, confident that the trusted employe will be sent to prison for the offence. And so it transpires. When Billy Craig, stung with remorse, confesses to his father and asks to be sent to jail, the father, knowing that Billy's confession of theft would kill his invalid mother, has Billy shanghaied to spend a year on board one of his own ships. The life on the sea does something to Billy, and he returns a changed man. The innocent victim knows that his daughter loves Billy, and forces Billy to remain silent of his past.

Critics in other cities hail "The Bridge of Sighs" as a photoplay packed with thrilling drama and human appeal.

Nobody Would Do Without the Telephone Now-a-days

—The telephone is one absolute necessity in modern business. It is necessary in modern society. No community can get along without a telephone service.

—So the telephone is a real vital public utility. It is so effected with a public interest that experience has shown that what is best for the community in the way of telephone service is best for the telephone company.

—If the best service possible is not provided the community can not get along as well as it might. If the community does not make such service possible the telephone can not do as well as it deserves to do.

—There is not and can not be any difference at all between the interests of this industry and the interests of the people who depend upon telephone service.

—Whenever difference arises they are due to lack of understanding.

—This company seeks the fullest co-operation of the community to the end that its service may be the best possible service.
