"OUR TOUR"

On June 23 with the intention of seeing "Texas first," we turned old "lizzie's" nose toward the east of one of the most wonderful states of the union.

Starting from Winters we went by Abilene, one of the most beautiful cities of the west, noted for its fine schools, colleges and other places of interest.

From Abilene we toured to Breckenridge, passing over mountains from which we could see villages on every side dotting the valleys below and the scenes captivated our eyes as we wound around the mountains noting here and there large herds of sheep and cattle. Some lazily feeding on the green carpets of the valley, others climbing the mountain sides nibbling the branches of the small bushes which seem to cover the mountain. Under the shade of a tree a shepherd and his dog kept watch.

On arriving at Breckenridge, the shades of night began to fall and as old "sol" was stealing behind the western horizon, reminding us that night was near, we pitched our tent with other tourists for the night. After a refreshing lunch we knew nothing more "till break of day" found us relishing hot coffee, toast, bacon and egg. Breakfast over we resumed our journey toward the rising sun. After passing through one of the best sections of the state and seeing the broad acres of cotton and corn, we greeted the sights of the city of Fort Worth, noted for its fine stock yards, beautiful buildings and other things of interest. After refreshments we coaxed old "lizz" on traveling by way of Rockwall, the city a part of which is being excavated, passed through Caddo Mills, Royce City and Farmersville. We arrived in Greenville in time to answer call for supper where we spent the night with relatives.

After a visit to the beautiful parks, a spin over the city and a dive in the Natatorium, we started on our journey to Winsboro, going via of Sulphur Springs, the heart of the fruit section of East Texas. Here our mouths began to water for the delicious fruits and melons which were being shipped from that place. From here we continued our journey, stopping a few minutes to view the coal mines of Como. Some of these having been abandoned a number of years, leaving a part of the town undermined.

Arriving at Winsboro, we received a warm and hearty welcome by relatives and old friends. After two weeks of fishing, hunting and other amusements, we left for the "land of the mistletoe," stopping over some few hours, looking over the city of Paris. The pride of North Texas, crossing Red River we began to gaze in wonder at rich fertile lands of our sister state. A few minutes ride found us in the heart of Hugo, one of the most beautiful little cities of southeastern Okla., especially noted for its clean streets and beautiful residences. After stopping a few hours with relatives, we started west, seeing spacious farms where once stood trackless forest, traversed by the warriors of the redman. The busy hum of life could be heard on every side. After a few days visit in the little town of Sopher and Boswell we started back to Winters, where we "devoured" our share of watermelons and peaches. Our time being limited, we took our same route home arriving in Winters one month from the date we left.

We saw wonderful sights, but still "there's no place like home."—G. H. Mullins and family.

Miss Margaret Terry, who had been a guest in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. J. A. Oliver, for several days, left the latter part of last week for her home in San Antonio.

Miss Gladys Glenn returned to her home in Dallas last Friday, after a pleasant visit in the home of her friend, Miss Christine McDuff.

PASTOR FOUND DEAD, KNEELING AS IN PRAYER

Miles, Texas, July 27.—Rev. William C. Moeller, D. D., 67, pastor of the Lutheran Church of Miles, was found dead at his home at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, by neighbors who became alarmed because of his non appearance about the place and upon investigation found him kneeling by the side of his bed as if he had passed away while at prayer.

The local physician stated that he must have died during the night. Rev. Moeller was apparently in good health at a late hour Saturday night.

An inquest was held and the cause of his death was called dilation of the heart.

Rev. Moeller was recently called to this place by the Lutheran church from Baden, Canada, where he had been preaching for some time. He was accompanied here by his sister, Mrs. Jennie Jatho of Chicago, Ill., who has been keeping house for him and who at the time of his death was visiting relatives in Chicago.

Mrs. W. H. Bean of Ballinger is spending the week with Mrs. A. T. Stokes.

Mrs. W. C. Quindlen returned the last of the week from Edgewood, where she spent a three weeks vacation with her mother and other relatives.

Miss Evelyn Floyd returned home Tuesday from a visit to Marfa and Fort Davis.

A surprise party is seldom an unexpected occurrence.

A card received from Miss Bonnie Davidson, who is spending her vacation in Colorado Springs, Colo., states she is having a good time and had visited Cheyenne Canyon, Garden of the Gods and High Drive Pikes Peak.

E. R. Kilpatrick has made several trips to San Angelo the latter part of last week and also this week to attend the sick bedside of his father. Local friends are hoping Mr. Kilpatrick's father may soon regain his health.

Miss Virgie Inman of Austin, Texas is the guest of Mrs. Lauske this week.

Bill Desmond in "Straight Through" At the Mission

"Straight Through," Blue Streak Western, starring William Desmond, is coming to the Mission theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. The star is supported by a cast that includes Marguerite Clayton, Ruth Stonehouse, Claude Payton, Albert J. Smith, Bill Gillis, Frank Brownlee and George Marion. Arthur Rosson directed.

It is a melodrama, with a number of comedy situations and tells the story of a man who was forced by a most unusual experience to acknowledge that he was wrong, and therefore obliged to keep the promise made to an evangelist, and reform.

The firmness of determination that made him feared as a bad man in a mining camp, also enables him to keep his promise, but his idea of showing his reformation by doing good to others, while it earned for him the name of Good Deed O'Day, also involved him in much trouble, some of it of a humorous nature, but at last in a series of happenings that meant tragedy for him.

His efforts to assist a woman in keeping her promise of "going straight" after she had become the wife of a man ignorant of her past, result in O'Day being misunderstood, not only by the woman he loves, but by the husband of the woman he endeavors to protect.

Maintain the High Quality of Your Ford Car by Using Only Genuine Ford Parts

—By using only genuine Ford parts in Ford cars owners can retain indefinitely those qualities and durability and long time performance, which are characteristic of Ford products. The use of genuine Ford material is not only an assurance to owners of receiving maximum service at minimum cost, but is a protection to them against the damaging results that frequently follow the use of counterfeit parts.

—In the manufacture of genuine Ford parts only the highest grade materials and workmanship are used. Each part must conform to certain precise specifications and is subjected to the same rigid inspection that is given the Ford car during its process of manufacture.

Some Ford owners fail to realize that certain concerns are engaged in the sale of counterfeit Ford parts. Many of these parts are of exceptionally poor quality and when installed in a car actually constitute a menace to the safety of the occupants. To prevent such material from being installed in your car, and for your own protection, we recommend that when in need of repair parts or service you make it a point to call upon a Ford Dealer or Authorized Ford Service Station. By so doing you not only obtain the services of skilled mechanics using specially designed equipment, but you have the assurance that only genuine Ford parts will be used in your Ford car.

The care exercised in the manufacture of genuine Ford parts is not only reflected in the service they render but is also a guarantee of safety and satisfaction to the purchaser, in the performance of his car. This quality is being zealously maintained by the constant vigilance of a vast force of experienced engineers and the resources of an engineering department second to none.

Many New Ideas in Better Buicks

Standard Six, five passenger two-door sedan

Greater Power, More Protection to Working Parts Included; Prices Lower

Buick again demonstrated the marvelous resources and abilities of the automotive industry when it introduced the present Better Buick. Embraced in this latest Buick offering are additional power and strength, the newest engineering achievements designed to give even longer motor car life, the maximum in comfort and safety, besides new beauty and refinements of design and finish representing the latest skill in body craftsmanship. And in face of these material and costly improvements lower prices are announced throughout the entire line of Standard and Master Sixes.

The announcement and the showing of the better Buicks silenced the rumors that Buick would abandon the valve-in-head for another type engine which would permit of cheaper construction. The same principles that were inaugurated by Buick 21 years ago and which have made it the leader in the industry have been adhered to throughout. The mechanical improvements introduced would have been considered impossibilities only a year ago. They represent the work of Buick research and engineering staffs constantly striving for betterments. The new prices likewise represent achievements of the engineering, production and business departments of the Buick organization, and are in no small measure due to the phenomenal approval of Buicks by the public. This latter factor has resulted in continuously increasing sales with the attendant possibilities of economies in purchasing and production.

$150,000 Loss In Groesbeck Auto Fire

Groesbeck, July, 28.—Fire, which Monday at midnight destroyed the Oliver Garage here, with 30 automobiles and all equipment, caused a loss of $150,000, the largest in the history of the city.

Lack of water, due to the drought, hampered firemen in fighting the blaze which for a time threatened the entire town. The fire department of Mexia, 12 miles from Groesbeck, materially assisted in checking the blaze. Adjoining buildings were damaged.

Many of the autos stored in the garage were new and expensive. W. M. Barnett owned the building.

The Olivers mentioned above have a number of relatives residing here, which makes the above item of more than passing interest.

Mr. Dennis Brown, John G. Key and Thurman Mitchell left Tuesday for a two weeks vacation, visiting Corpus Christi, Houston, Galveston and other places of interest. They write back that they are having a fine time and took a boat ride out from Corpus and said they really saw some ocean waves.

FOULS

Twenty thousand held their breath as the horseshoe soared from the bat of the clean-up hitter with a resounding thud.

There were three on, two out, and the home team two runs behind.

Now the runners were tearing like mad in an effort to tally.

The ball is far beyond the reach of the racing fielder, and the game is saved. The crowd gives voice to a mighty roar—and then it dies with eloquent suddenness.

The ball is foul.

The runners cannot score and the batter misses the third strike. The game is lost.

What a difference that one little foul made.

Are you batting within bounds for your home and your town?

Are you keeping the hits within bounds and enabling your community to score? Or, are you driving them into the mail order fields and whiffing the third strike?

Think it over!

PUBLIC LIKES IT

A high priced hair tonic, when analyzed, proves to be 99 per cent kerosene and the balance material to disguise color. And the joke of the thing is that it does the trick. It's the directions on the bottle: "Apply night and morning and massage the scalp for hour and half." Nothing like elbow grease for making hair grow. But the public likes to be humbugged.

POSTAL DEFICIT

Postmaster General New foresees a million dollar deficit in the operation of the new postal service at the close of the new fiscal year. Let that shudder its way home in these days of persistent economy and tax reduction talk.

A deficit in the postal service is nothing new. But an increase in the deficit to these figures is something to think about. The recent increase in some of the postal rates has fallen short of providing the additional revenue that had been expected. This big deficit demonstrates that Congress is a poor guesser at what schedule of rates will meet the expense that it piles up.

Wisely, the policy of the Government has been to build up the postal service for the benefit of the people, making quick communication with all parts of the country possible and aiding in the dissemination of knowledge.

MANY BUSESSES

The motor busses are doing a lot of business in America. During last year nearly 1,600 new lines were established in this country alone and this rate of extension continues. Of course, a number of them are operated by street car systems and the feeders for trolley traffic, but many are in direct competition with established railway lines. They are connecting town and country. Motor busses are bound to spread over the land until all corners are easily accessible to the stranger, such is the trend of modern travel.

A FINE SPIRIT

John D. Rockefeller was 86 years old recently. A statement from his household read:

"Mr. Rockefeller is well and full of good cheer and gratitude for all the blessings that the coming year holds for him."

Note well that he is grateful for what the future holds, not the past. Any thoughtful physician will tell you that the attitude of mind is the surest insurance of good health, without which blessings are, if not valueless, at least greatly depreciated.

"One Way Street" Makes Hit as Film

"One Way Street," First National's adaption of the popular Beale Davis novel, at the Queen Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, August 3 and 4, is an excellent example of the modern novel property treated in screen form.

More reserved is required of a screen presentation of a story than in the written form. But Earl Hudson, under whose supervision "One Way Street" was produced, has kept a firm grip on the dramatic problem without dodging about the border sensationalism.

Ben Lyon and Anna Q. Nilsson have the leading roles, and make the most of the opportunities offered by the unusual situations and the brilliant setting of London society. Praise is due also to Marjorie Daw, Lumsden Hare, Thomas Holding, Dorothy Cumming and Mona Kingsley for their characterizations.

"One Way Street" was directed by John Francis Dillon, and is worthy of comparison to his "Flaming Youth," "Lillies of the Field" and others of equal dramatic tone.

Young Ben Lyon fully upholds his share of the honors along with that tried artist, Anna Q. Nilsson, which is by way of saying that he has measured up to what might have been expected of him in this, his first featured role.

The story is that of a beautiful English society leader who finds her-

"IT IS a practically impossible task to educate the American housewife to the necessity of keeping the household refrigerator thoroughly clean."

We don't agree for a minute. Our interest in seeing customers get right value and full food protection from the ice they buy therefore prompts this advertisement.

The devotional was led by Mrs. Young and a missionary program was carried out.

Mrs. E. M. Hall said some very fine things when she gave a talk on "Brazil."

A talk by Miss Mary Neely on "What Missionary Societies Have Done and are Doing Now," also, "What a Christian Life Means to the World," was very interesting and instructive.

Roll call was answered by each member giving a little history from the different mission fields.

During a short business meeting it was decided that Mesdames Latham and Sid Neely's Sunday school classes would feed the Lions next Tuesday.

A committee was appointed to decorate the church for the dedication service next Sunday.

Closing prayer was led by Mrs. Neely.

The Ladies Aid Society of First Christian Church Had Meeting

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Christian Church met Monday afternoon, July 27, with Mrs. Ben Anthony.

The devotional service consisted of chapter reading by Mrs. Chas. L. Moore and prayer by Mrs. Wm. Heavenhill.

During a very interesting business meeting, presided over by the vice-president, Mrs. Moore, committees were appointed to carry out plans for the big Evangelistic meeting to be held the latter half of August.

The hostess served cream and angel food cake to Mesdames Chas. L. Moore, Wm. Heavenhill, John Shipman, Thomas, P. J. Stark, Tompkins, R. E. Bacon, W. F. Hartzog and Miss Josephine Heavenhill.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Denwiddie are spending their vacation in a camping trip at Christoval.

WHY?

She went to a sale in a neighboring town,
I won't give the name of the city,
But how she was wooed in the bargains she got,
To me seemed a shame and a pity.
Of course now the trip cost her quite a good bit,
Railroad fare, or expense on the car,
And then there were lunches and restaurant fees,
The small incidentals we'll bar.
Back home when at leisure she looked at her wares,
Her aluminum she found under weight,
She'd broken some dishes from hauling so far,
Her hat was in a terrible state.
For part of her things she had paid really more,
Than prices at home the year round.
She went to the sale without taking time
To find out the prices in town.
Her clothes was too narrow, or faded in steaks,
And some of her groceries were too small,
To her great surprise her shoes were too small,
When she would return them she failed.
And he went along, by paying spot cash,
Perhaps he saved five cents a dollar,
But if he had counted up all the expense,
I'll tell you, I'll bet he would holler,
Besides he owed most of the merchants at home,
They let him pay just as he could,
And they had to charge him that small five per cent,
Could have saved at home if he would.
He had all advantage his home town could give,
He bragged of its quiet peace,
He held all his property at the top price,
And each year his holdings increased.
He got all his living here in his home town,
But spent all his money away,
He never had priced things in all the home stores.
What on earth makes folks act that a way?
—Contributed.

Rare Treat is in Store For Picture Lovers

Superior photoplay is promised, among other alluring features, in Vitagraph's "Pampered Youth," the picturization of Booth Tarkington's great novel, "The Magnificent Ambersons," at the Queen Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, August 5 and 6.

The assurance is made doubly certain when it is said that the men who had charge of the photography for this picture are the ones who wielded the cameras in "Captain Blood," the super-special which was the work of the same producer, David Smith.

The photography of "Captain Blood" was everywhere recognized as of the highest possible order. Some critics went so far as to say that in that great photoplay the pictorial side had no equal in any other of present film successes. It was because of that voice of approval, un-animously lifted, that Mr. Smith determined to re-engage his photographic artists.

"Pampered Youth" deals with a family living in a small interior city, who take great pride in the display of their wealth. The Ambersons spent small fortunes on their buildings, both inside and out, and "went in" for magnificence rather than taste and harmony. With all their splendor the sets in the picture are sometimes beautiful, and the clear mind, deft hand and artistic judgment of expert cameramen were required to translate all their beauty to the screen.

The photographic experts who assisted Director Smith in "Pampered Youth," as in "Captain Blood," are Steve Smith, Jr., David H. Smith, Ted Reed and Elmer Fryer. Steve Smith Jr., attained more than national fame in past years as one of the greatest of serial cameramen, and more recently he has achieved an even great-

Anna Q. Nilsson and Ben Lyon in "One Way Street."

At The Queen Theatre, August 3rd and 4th.

Winfield, Texas.—"My back hurt night and day," says Mrs. C. L. Eason, of R. F. D. 1, this place. "I ached and ached until I could hardly go. I felt weak and did not feel like doing anything. My work was a great burden to me. I just hated to do up the dishes, even. I was no-account and extremely nervous. "My mother had taken Cardui and she thought it would do me good, so she told me to take it. My husband got me a bottle and I began on it. I began to improve at once. It was such a help that I continued it until after the baby's birth. "I took eight bottles and I can certainly say that it helped me. It is a fine tonic. It built me up and seemed to strengthen me. I grew less nervous and began to sleep better. "I can certainly recommend Cardui to expectant mothers, for to me it was a wonderful help. In every way I felt better after taking it and I think it is a splendid medicine."

Cardui is purely vegetable, and contains no harmful drugs. For sale everywhere. NC-162

THIS IS A FISH STORY

However, Lois Wilson tells it, so it must be true.

Lois claims that she has caught rainbow trout without rod, line or net! Caught them with her bare hands! And there are thirty or more persons, including William Farnum, Wallace Worsley and Edward Horton, who will substantiate her claim.

Wallace Worsley, who produced "The Man Who Fights Alone" for Paramount, in which William Fox num is starred, was sent with his company to Huntington Lake, Lake, Cal., on location. When the party arrived it found the lake dry, except for a few small stretches of shallow water.

In these stretches and the adjoining puddles numerous trout, from ten to fourteen inches long, had become landlocked. Being unable to escape, very little difficulty was experienced in fishing them out with the hands. The result of one morning's sport provided an appetizing mess of broiled trout for the entire party.

"The Man Who Fights Alone" opens at the Mission on Next Monday.

W. T. Padgett of Ballinger was in the city the first of the week greeting friends and transacting business.

Jordan's Studio

Located Upstairs, East Dale Street

Starting in Winters 12 years ago, Jordan's Studio has in this time grown into one of the best commercial studios in this part of the country. They first occupied a 7x20 home, today have an entire floor, 30x30, equipped with all the photographic devices that go to make a first-class studio.

A photographic shop is one institution where a person is compelled to keep abreast with all the new methods pertaining to this work. This is a business that has made rapid strides in the last decade, and is continually developing new ideas, and the Jordan Studio has not let any of them pass by. One of the latest innovations in their line is the photographing of color work, using color plates and filters, photographing anything in its natural colors, which is quite an improvement in their work.

They always attend the various schools and conventions where the problems and improvements in their line are discussed and given out, which keeps them informed as to all latest methods in photography.

When it comes to service, they are prepared to do that, giving you 12 hour service on kodak work, the same as given in the larger cities. They are ready, willing and prepared at all times to photograph anything, anywhere, indoors or outdoors, and their work will stand the test of the most critical, in fact they will make it so, for if they do something that does not suit them, they will do it again.

Nobody Would Do Without the Telephone Now-a-days

—The telephone is one absolute necessity in modern business. It is necessary in modern society. No community can get along without a telephone service.

—So the telephone is a real vital public utility. It is so effected with a public interest that experience has shown that what is best for the community in the way of telephone service is best for the telephone company.

—If the best service possible is not provided the community can not get along as well as it might. If the community does not make such service possible the telephone can not do as well as it deserves to do.

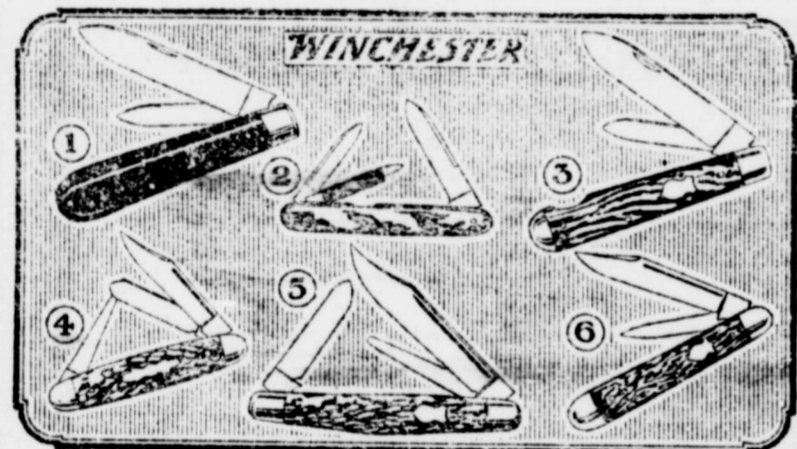

—There is not and can not be any difference at all between the interests of this industry and the interests of the people who depend upon telephone service.

—Whenever difference arises they are due to lack of understanding.

—This company seeks the fullest co-operation of the community to the end that its service may be the best possible service.
