WINTERS, RUNNELS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY NOVEMBER 6, 1925.

NUMBER 27

Enterprise Offers $30 Cash Prizes to Farmers of Winters Country

Believing that an agitation should be started in the Winters Country, which is one of the best farming districts in the biggest State in the Union, which has for its ultimate end the abandonment of the one-crop idea which is too prevalent among our people, The Winters Enterprise makes the following proposition to the dirt-farmers of the Winters territory in the hope that a full and free discussion of the subject may prove of value to the people:

For the best article written by a dirt-farmer on the subject: "How Can and Why Should Runnels County Farmers Diversify?" we will give $15.00 in cash.

For the second best article we will give $10.00 in cash.

For the third best article we will give $5.00 in cash.

Contest Rules

Articles are not limited in number of words, but should be plainly written, on one side of the paper only.

All articles become the property of the Enterprise and will be published, if we deem advisable.

Articles to be judged on merit of proposed ways and means of diversification and not from a literary standpoint.

Disinterested judges to be selected by us to judge the articles.

All articles to be signed by author and must give his address.

All articles must be in not later than 6 p. m. Friday, November 20th.

This contest is put on with the hope that through a full, free and public discussion of this all important subject may bring out a plan, if adopted, which will help the people to meet such years as 1918 was, and will enable the farmer to have money in the bank in the summer as well as in the fall. It is an indisputable fact that the community whose bank deposits decrease in the summer time more than they do in the Winters territory would be hard to find. Some remedy for this should and can be found and, personally, we believe diversification—chickens, hogs, turkeys, fruits, milk cows (a living raised at home)—is the solution.

If you see this question as we do, your co-operation is asked in this contest, in order that the country as a whole may benefit.

We are not advocating the abandonment of cotton. We believe cotton will always be king in the Winters Country but we are advocating a program of diversification which will retain the fertility of the soil, and the raising of at least two years' feed supply, in order to successfully carry our a profitable diversification program.

We are not attempting to tell the farmers how to run their business—they know far more about that than we do—but we believe a public discussion or agitation of the question might result in spreading ideas which will be beneficial to the people.

Young Forger Under Arrest

A 16-year old boy, Arlie Greer, was placed under arrest Tuesday and is now lodged in the Runnels county jail to await action of the next grand jury on a charge of forgery and passing a forged instrument in writing. He made a complete confession to the county attorney Tuesday morning and pleaded guilty to raising three checks given him and to cashing them at a Winters bank.

Young Greer was picking cotton for T. O. Williams and received three checks from Mr. Williams on the Winters State Bank. In each case the youth raised the checks, carried them to the bank and cashed them, getting the money, his statement said. The first check was given Greer on October 7th for $8.38, and by adding an "0" after eight and squeezing a "ty" onto the eight, he succeeded in getting $80.38. The next check on October 16th was for $6.07, and this was raised to $96.07; and the third on October 23rd for $9.24 was raised to $90.24.

After Greer stated that he was 16 years old on August 19th, 1925, and was the son of T. H. Greer. He lives four miles west of Winters and had been picking cotton for Mr. Williams during this fall and up to his arrest. —Ballinger Ledger.

Lee's Rhode Island Reds Win At Ballinger

At the Runnels County Fair at Ballinger of last month, Mr. A. D. Lee's Rhode Island Red chickens won about everything there was to win. There's no doubt but what Mr. Lee has some of as fine birds as can be found in the State, and here's how they put the ribbons on them over at the County Fair:

First Old Pen, First Pen, Second Cock, First Young Pen, First and Third Cockrels, Second and Third Pullet.

We call that a clean-up, and congratulate Mr. Lee upon the good showing his birds made.

Ford Salesman Is Hi-Jacked and Robbed of $316.

Last Tuesday evening about 11 o'clock, while coming in from the Oplin country, J. E. (Shorty) Taylor, an employe of the Nance-Brown Motor Co., of this city was held up by two unmasked hi-jackers and relieved of $316.60—$76.00 in checks and the balance in currency.

Mr. Taylor, who had made some deliveries of Ford products in the Oplin country, had been paid off by his patrons and was on his way to town and had reached the concrete crossing on the highway out near the city lake, when a chain on the rear of his car came down and was dragging, so he had gotten out of the car and was fixing up the chain when two men drove up from town in a Ford roadster and asked if they could assist him. He told them they could not, and when he came from behind his car he was met by one of the men who threw a pistol in his face and told him to "put 'em up," which he promptly did, and the other man proceeded to relieve him of what money he had on his person.

Mr. Taylor says the light from the hi-jackers' car blinded him so that he could not give much of a description of the men and also that he could not get the number of the car from the front and that the car had no number in the rear.

Local officers are working on the case, but so far no clue as to identity of the hold-up men has been found.

Buy $11,500 Worth of Land In Dimmett Co.

E. Burton purchased 164 acres of Dimmett county land in the Winter Garden Section of Texas, the past week, the consideration being $10,000. Also W. H. Smith purchased 10 acres for which he paid $1,500. These deals were the culmination of an excursion which was conducted by W. W. Rainwater, of the firm of Rainwater & Beeler Land Co., local real estate dealers, who are interested in that section of the state.

Those composing the party making the trip were C. W. Miller, Tom Cummings, W. H. Smith, E. Burton and W. W. Rainwater. They returned to the city the first of the week.

First class mail handled by the office from Sept. 22 to Oct. 14 days—which could have been cancelled with the electric cancelling machine numbered better than 2700 pieces.

The office is to also be furnished with new adding machine upon the record of the number and amount of issued orders.

Valley Creek Boy Killed By Truck

Last Sunday a deplorable accident occurred on Fritz Kraatz's place out on Valley Creek when Elton Williams Persky, the 8-year and 11 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Persky, who were here from the drought-stricken section of the State picking cotton, was accidentally run over by a truck driven by a boy of Mr. Kraatz, which resulted in his death some two hours later.

It seems that the little fellow was attempting to jump on the truck when he slipped and fell under the wheels with the results as stated above.

The body was prepared for burial by Spill Bros., local funeral directors, and shipped to Sharp, Texas, where interment was to be had.

A patient harp aroh aroa aroa A petition soliciting aid for the family was being circulated in Winters Monday by Valley Creek citizens, Mrs. Persky being ill in bed at the time, and was meeting with a generous response from our citizens when seen by an Enterprise reporter.

The stricken family have the sympathy of all who heard of their sad plight.

Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander and little daughter and Mrs. J. C. Watts of Drasco were here last Wednesday. They brought the baby in to the doctor to have several stitches removed from a very bad cut received several days ago. The wound has healed nicely and the little lady is getting along nicely.

Mrs. J. E. Farrow left today (Friday) for Fort Worth to spend a few days with her daughter, who is a teacher in the Fort Worth city school. She will be accompanied home by Mr. Farrow, who has been in the city for treatment.

Messrs E. A. Shepperd, Bert Low, Luther Owens and C. S. Jackson attended the Howard Payne-Trinity Football game at Brownwood last Wednesday afternoon. They report a good game, the final score being Trinity 6, Howard Payne 0.

Mr. Paul Dittrich of Hamilton, Texas, arrived in the city the first of the week and has associated himself with Mr. Steve Unfred at the Alamo Garage and will be a special salesman for Star Automobiles. Mr. Dittrich has handled Star cars for several years and is thoroughly sold on them, believing that in a Star the buyer can get more automobile for his money than in any other car on the market. Mr. Dittrich will be pleased to make your acquaintance and talk Star cars with you at any time at the Alamo Garage.

Have Gay Party

One of the most pleasant social occasions of the week occurred last Friday evening at 7:30, when the Doan's class entertained the members and their families with a Halloween fancy costume party. This lovely affair was staged in the basement of the First Baptist church.

The spacious rooms were "spooky" with Halloween decorations of black and yellow crepe paper. Apples hung from the ceiling. Black cats grinned from unexpected corners.

The chief attraction was the fortune teller's booth presided over by the witch. The amusements consisted of eating apples off of a string and hunting marshmallows out of a pan of flour without the aid of the hands.

Refreshments were served from the booths presided over by Halloween spirits. In one booth imitation egg on toast was served, hot chocolate at another, individual potato pie at another and favors presented each guest at another booth. There were fifty guests present.

Ballinger O. E. S. Chapter Entertains

The Ballinger Eastern Star Chapter entertained the different chapters of the county Thursday evening, October 5, honoring Mrs. W. - B. Halley, of Ballinger, who was elected Grand Worthy Matron of Texas, at the meeting of the Grand Chapter at San Antonio last week.

This is the highest honor that can be conferred on a member of the O. E. S. and a distinct honor to Mrs. Halley. The members of this organization and the Masonic Lodge should be very proud of the distinction awarded one in their midst.

Mrs. L. R. Gaston To Conduct Local Sale of Seals

Once each year, usually a short time before Christmas, a campaign is made for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals, the proceeds from the sales of the seals being used in the fight against the great white plague—tuberculosis.

Mrs. W. D. Sande's is the county chairman, J. C. Watts of Drasco, secretary, and Bert E. Low, treasurer. For the sale of the seals this year Mrs. L. R. Gaston has been appointed chairman for the city. There is to be a sales chairman in each district of the county.

The drive for the sales of these seals is to take place between Nov. 11 and Nov. 26th.

This is indeed a worthy cause—relieving suffering humanity and fighting one of the most dreaded diseases of the human race and deserves the hearty co-operation of all the people.

Buy seals and don't let a piece of mail or Christmas package go out from you without bearing one of these little seals, which shows your sympathy for the unfortunate and your willingness to do your "bit" toward relieving it.

ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice Day, the one anniversary in the international calendar dedicated to peace, has again arrived. Its commemoration marks a new trend of international thought, for it brings to mind the termination of the bloodiest struggle in which the nations of the earth ever engaged, the first day in a period extending over more than four years on which arms were stacked and the voices of cannon were dumb.

Seven years have passed since that memorable day—November 11, 1918—when the world went mad with joy. The war that involved a whole world was ended. Even now we can feel the thrill that ran over this country on that memorable day.

Armistice Day will be appropriately observed as a legal holiday in nearly every nation in the world, and particularly by the American Legion of the United States.

A proper observance of Armistice day will serve to bring the Christian people closer together, to turn their thoughts to the blessings of peace, to promote that fraternity which is destined eventually to make war impossible.

We join with the rest of the country in paying our deep respects to the soldiers who brought peace to the world. The memory of the service and the sacrifice of these brave young men will be as enduring as the nation itself.

Surely those who gave their lives have not died in vain; and may the surviving never again be called upon to suffer the horrors of such a conflict.

start on Winters but a hundred years from now the conditions may be reversed. The growth of our town has been gradual, and the result now is that we need not fear any come-back or slump as invariably follows the unnatural expansion boom towns. No discounting of the future is being done in this community.

NO SUBSTITUTE

Recent months have brought an enormous increase in the use of the radio on the farms of this country, and the department of agriculture says that more than 5550,000 farms are able to listen in nightly and visit with the faraway places of the world, besides getting weather, crop and market reports hot off the wire when distributed.

This is perhaps 4 per cent of all farm homes. Campaigns will take notice. The radio is no substitute for the country newspaper if an idea is to be put over. Eighty-five per cent of American homes take the American newspaper, and 66 per cent of this is the home paper.

RUBBER IN AFRICA

The Firestone interests have obtained leases on nearly a million acres of land in the negro republic of Liberia, on the west coast of Africa. The action is a bit of preparedness against a possible future famine in rubber. The British have the best of it in controlling the present visible supply, and development in Liberia may ease the future. If Americans go into the rubber game on the scale in which big business usually undertakes things the bumpers on our airplanes nine years from now will be made of Liberian rubber.

We intend sending several messengers to the State convention in November. Any time you care to visit a model B. Y. P. U., Mr. Malone, just make us a visit. We will be glad to have you any time.

"Necessary Evil" Is Colorful Film

Moving picture fans who like colorful shifting scenes will find variety of settings in First National's latest attraction, "The Necessary Evil," which comes to the Queen Theatre next Tuesday, Nov. 10.

In this picture, in which Ben Lyon and Viola Dana are co-featured, a wide range of climes is presented. The picture opens in Cholopan, Central America. It shifts to New York, then to a college town, then back to Cholopan again.

The scenes in the Central American sequences bring in this languid colorful life of the Latin countries. Even in the New York scenes all the color and life of the city are portrayed instead of the drabness that is so often seen.

George Archainbaud, who directed "The Necessary Evil," is noted for his handling of big colorful scenes. He spent two weeks on these scenes alone in order to get the proper atmosphere and life into them.

Industry is Doing the World's Work

—The people who know most about industry are those who are in industry. In addition to knowing about industry people who are in the public service industry know about the interest that all the rest of the people have in that industry.

—The public utility industry—for instance the service of West Texas Telephone Co., is peculiar in that it can do well only as the people served by it do well. It is an essential service, and experience has shown that an industry which is affected with a public interest serves well only through co-operation between the service and the people served.

—The spirit of co-operation for the benefit of both the service and those served is the spirit that inspires this company to look always to the welfare of its customers and of the community it serves.

A Christian Program for the Rural Community

Following is a synopsis of an address made in Dallas last spring by Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield, president of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, which was written at the request of The Farm News:

In this day of tense feeling and discussion, one of the most startling charges that has been made against our present civilization is the charge that it is half pagan. What is meant is that the fight for power among individuals and classes, and the love of comfort and pleasure, lead people to the most unchristian things. So we see today hosts of books and sermons urging that we make our civilization thoroughly Christian. And we see group after group of religious-minded men and women making programs for social reform on the basis of Christian teaching.

Curiously, however, most of these programs and discussions have nothing whatever to do with the largest group of people in the world—the farmers. Is it because they are being forgotten? I think the time has come to have a thorough discussion as to whether there is need for making a Christian program for rural affairs, and if there is a need, what this program should be.

What Makes a Christian?
At once we have to answer the question, What makes anything Christian? Is it belonging to a church? Is it holding to some religious creed or belief? That surely is not all there is to Christianity. What is the difference between farming that is Christian and farming that is not Christian? I think the difference begins at this point: Are we in this world merely to make a living, or are we here to live a life? Which is the more important? Which is the real end, and, consequently, which should receive more attention? Should the Christian place main emphasis on getting his rights or upon fulfilling his duties? From the Christian point of view there is only one answer, is there not? In practice, however, we are a long way from living up to our best of these points.

Of course, when anybody tries to make out a program based on the idea that every man should do his duty by his fellows rather than insist upon his rights from his fellows, that he should try to live his life rather than give all thought to making dollars, he will make a program that will differ from that of somebody else; but the following things will, I think, be accepted by most people as necessary in a Christian program:

A Definite Program

1. That every man shall have his chance. This means not merely his chance to make a living, but his chance to grow, to use all his powers, to develop in body, mind and soul, to really live a full human life. This means that every man is worth something, worth so much that we must try to help him to be the biggest man that he can possibly be. Men differ in capacity and they differ in attainments; but in a Christian program every man must be given his chance to achieve all that he is capable of achieving.

2. That we all seek the common good and not along our own personal advancement; that is, in giving each man his chance, we must work together for the common good. We can not develop simply by each one seeking his own end, not even his own growth. We have to live together; we can not go off by ourselves. So we have to give and take; we have to concede; we have to give up some things for the sake of the common good; we have to think of the common welfare, not merely of our own.

3. Under modern conditions we have to learn what is right as between groups of people. This is more difficult than it seems. If I am a teacher and I want coal to burn in my fire in my Northern home, if there were a little mine next door and I could buy coal of the miner, then the relations between us are pretty easily worked out. We can probably arrange it on a fair price, fair to both of us. But when I am hundred of miles away and the man who mines my coal is one of thousands, and there are dozens of people between us who are handling that coal, the right relations between my miner friend and myself are hard to discover. They are there, just the same, only they exist largely between groups of miners and groups of consumers like myself. Now, in a Christian program we have to find out how we can establish these right relationships between groups.

4. I think we must have the world point of view. We must get rid of our unchristian thinking about other classes, other races, other nations. These prejudices and antagonisms are making for misunderstanding and for war, and they are thoroughly unchristian.

5. The Christian program will insist upon development of an individual inner life that can rise above circumstances, a life that will seek the highest no matter what the economic conditions are.

Applying Ideas to Farming

All this only comes to the idea that a Christian program thinks more of people than it does of material things, that human welfare is the biggest thing in the world. Now, when we come to apply these ideas to farming, what shall we say? Let me make some suggestions:

1. The farmer must have access to the land on terms that give him the largest possible personal freedom and encouragement, and at the same time most fully assuring society that the fertility of the land will be maintained.

2. He must have a fair share of the consumer's dollar.

3. The farmer must have a fair chance at a good agricultural education. Particularly must there be proof schooling for farm boys and girls. The country community must not only have good schools, but good churches, good recreation and good health.

4. The family life must be kept up to a point, not only of efficiency, but to one that goes to make home what it ought to be.

5. In general, the farmer must have a satisfying life as well as a reasonable income.

The farmer must serve the common good, must be conscious of his usefulness to mankind, must remember that the world depends upon him for food and depends upon him to maintain the fertility of his land.

Farmer's Contribution Necessary

The farmer must make his contribution to the common national welfare. He must remember that he is tied up with farmers of the world, that there is a possibility of personal growth in farm environment, that there is such a thing as culture from a corn field.

One important thing to remember is that if we are to have this Christian program in farming, farmers' organizations must be just as anxious to get Christian results as are the churches. As a matter of fact, the spirit of real co-operation is thoroughly Christian.

A Christian program, to be effective, must permeate all aspects of life, all institutions, all geographical areas, all movements. As a working basis for readjustment it must develop in the local social groups; otherwise it will not be really effective. If we can not have a local Christian rural community, we can not have a Christian rural civilization. We may fool ourselves into measuring civilization by what we see in certain literature, or tendencies or attitudes among those whom we are pleased to call the people at the top, but there is such a thing as mass values, and in the long run civilization is measured by the quality of the entire people. What goes on in a local community is the vital test of a Christian program. Therefore the task of Christianizing the local rural community is the very heart of our problem.

Pumphrey Baptists Welcome Pastor

Rev. J. E. Nicholson, who has been pastor of the Pumphrey Baptist church since the 1st of September, returned last Friday with his family and household goods, and are now located at 428 State St. Winters Texas, from which place they will pursue their pastoral duties.

Tuesday night, Nov. 3rd, the pastor and family were disturbed by the honk, honk, honk of many auto horns and on going out to call the disturbers down, they discovered that they were being stormed by the membership of their church.

Filing in each one bringing something in the grocery line until the dining table was loaded and the floor so covered with good things, that the room looked more like a "Piggly Wiggly" store than a dining room.

After a welcome by the family the successful working of the church and pastor, then songs and a good fellowship meeting in every way. Bro. Will Lloyd led the crowd in prayer, then these Jolly Baptists went their way either to see or keep the "Ten Commandments."

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hudson, and two of their grand-babies remained for a while to keep the storm from breaking so sudden, then left the pastor and family to meditate upon what a splendid set of folks they have in their charge.

Mr. Nicholson says he will try to teach his people to be regular in their habit.

Mrs. A. M. Dickenson, mother of Mrs. Vanzandt, who has been ill at her home here for the past week or so, has sufficiently recovered to return home and was accompanied by Mr. Vanzandt to Old Runnels last Tuesday.

LOW COST IN EVERY WAY

AN automobile is economical only when a low selling price is followed by low operating costs.

2292 Star owners report an average cost of 1-14 cent per mile for mechanical repairs and replacements, 23¹/₁₀ miles to the gallon of gasoline.

This low cost represents Star car performance under all the variable conditions of road and climate that exist in the United States. It is average performance of Star cars under average conditions of every day work.

What Lies Back of the Trouble-Free Performance of a High-Grade Motor Car

The average owner of a good automobile whose car, entirely free from trouble, glides smoothly over the highways, month in and month out, marvels at its unflinching dependability, unaware, perhaps, of the elaborate and painstaking system employed by the manufacturer to insure that character of performance. In no other industry is inspection more rigid or are safeguards more firmly adhered to.

"No other factor in our entire programme of manufacture is a more vital part of the production program than our system of inspections and tests," says D. M. Averill, vice-president and general manager of the Ajax Motors Company. "It is only by constant, insistent and repeated testing that a manufacturer is in a position to know definitely, before a motor car is shipped, that its performance in the hands of the ultimate owner will be entirely satisfactory. Reports received by us from Ajax owners, many of whom have driven their car thousands of miles, show plainly that the character of performance fully justifies our policy of rigid inspections and tests."

Visitors at the Ajax factory frequently express amazement at the lengths to which the company has gone to assure perfect workmanship and materials. This work begins with the raw materials which are not unloaded from the freight cars until definite tests have shown that they measure up to specifications and requirements in every particular. Then as each of the numerous operations are performed in the various departments, inspectors must pass on them. Thus the possibility of trouble is eliminated at the very outset; finished units not only are closely inspected but are thoroughly tested before going into the chassis.

Motors are run on their own power for hours before they finally are placed on hoists and swung into position in the frame; crankshafts, when finished, instead of passing on immediately to the motor assembly department, are checked on a balancing device to assure absolute balance. Connecting rods and all reciprocating parts are tested for perfect balance. Definit reports are made and kept on each inspection of the multitude of operations entailed in the manufacture of the car but even when the Ajax, completely assembled, is run on its own power, there is still one of the most important tests of all to be made. This final test, the actual performance of the car under all driving speeds, is conducted on a brick track built and maintained for that purpose alone. This track lies just outside of the final assembly and the cars as they come off the line, are filled with gasoline and turned over to drivers long trained in motor car construction and performance.

When the car, in actual performance, measures up to standard in every particular, it is finally run to the loading dock and tagged for shipment.

The Ajax line is handled in Runnels county by the Davis-Patrick Motor Co., of Winters, who will be pleased to show the new models to you.

MISS LAURA COUPLAND SPEAKS AT BAPTIST CHURCH LAST EVENING

Miss Laura Coupland, missionary to China in the Baptist fields, who is home on a leave of absence after five years' service in that country, spoke last evening at the regular prayer meeting hour at the First Baptist church to a large audience, including members from all churches of the city.

Mrs. W. M. Welch, president of the woman's auxiliary of the First Baptist church, was in charge of the meeting, introducing the speaker in a most beautiful manner, and announcing the musical numbers which were given as follows: Lead Me Gently Home, O Father, a vocal solo by Mrs. H. A. Stamps, accompanied by Miss Jewel Broadfoot, who also played the accompaniment for a violin solo, Carmen, by Mrs. M. J. Burandt.

Miss Coupland's talk was highly entertaining and was a departure from the usual speeches on the habits and customs of the Chinese people. She began with a brief thorough vivid description of Canton, the city in which she lives, is the fourth largest city in the world, with a population of more than 2,000,000 people crowded into an area about the size of Longview. She told of the narrow streets, the means of transportation and about the boat people who live in small row boats on the river which passes through the center of Canton.

The educational system, games of the young people and the girls' school in which she is an instructor, were briefly discussed. She described the Chinese people as highly cultured, pleasant, courteous and above the people of other nations in intelligence. She told of the superstitions of the non-Christian Chinese, and how they live their lives in constant fear of the evil spirits that they think are always following them and laying in wait to harm them.

One of the most interesting things mentioned in her speech was how the missionaries in passing through the crowded streets can distinguish the Christian Chinese from the non-Christians by the expression of their faces, for in the face of the Christian Chinese is a look of peace and freedom from fear that cannot be found in the faces of non-believers. Though Miss Coupland seasoned her speech with bits of humor, she impressed her hearers with her deep sincerity in her work to which she feels she has been chosen, and the happiness and joy she gains in working among these foreign people is a revelation to all who have heard her talk.

Miss Coupland departed last night for Homer, La., for a few days visit.—Longview Ex.

Mrs. Hart Phillips Hostess to Ego Amo Te Club

On Thursday evening, October 29, at the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Mullin, the husbands, friends and members of the Ego Amo Te Club were entertained by Mrs. Hart Phillips with a cleverly planned party.

Each guest was masked and dressed in fancy Halloween costumes and upon arrival were numbered and given at Halloween favor and ushered into the reception rooms, which were real "spooky" with Halloween decorations and the dim light of candles.

After all had assembled a guessing contest was entered into and Miss Pauline Dunn was the luck one in guessing the real identity of the greatest number of guests present, then all were unmasked and a series of "42" games held happy interest for two hours, during which time candy and nuts were served. Miss Bonnie Davidson and Mrs. Marvin Patrick won the prize for high score, which was a box of candy.

Refreshments, suggestive of the festive season, of baked apples with whipped cream, hot chocolate and cake were served to Messrs and Mesdames Patrick, Unfred, Mullin, Wall and Misses Lora Farnsworth, Carrie Flynt, Willie Carter, Lela Mae Lloyd, Bonnie Davidson, Pauline Dunn was the lucky one in Buckley, Dwight Mitchell, Luther Haynes, C. R. Robertson, Sims Saylor and Wilbur Hartzog.

PARTY AT COLEMAN

On October 23, the football boys, in company with several others went to Coleman to play football. As school did not turn out till 2:15 the ones who went to the game were pretty late getting there.

Before the boys went down there it was rumored that the boys and girls were going to give the Winters boys and girls a good time. The game did not end as was hoped. And the boys with the exception of one or two decided that they would console themselves with a good time at the party.

At 7:30 the boys finished supper at the American Cafe and began to drive in the general direction of where they were having the party. Some of the bravest decided they would do a little bit hunting before the party. They met with very good luck.

When all the boys had arrived at the party the host and hostess gave the rules of a game called a track meet.

By the time the game was over some had gone to the veranda to sit and catch a little moonshine, while others caught some air. Perry Barber and William Phillips done pretty well as they had from 3 to 5 young ladies all the time. They have both expressed the wish to go back some time.

There was something wrong with J. D. Robertson, he said that his leg hurt him, but as there was two pretty girls trying to get him to come into the house, it looks pretty suspicious to some inquisitive persons.

When the game had started, Mr. Robertson and Mr. Mitchell, two of Winters esteemed High School teachers in company with Miss Ruth Jones and Miss Wilson arrived at Coleman.

After the game they were seen about 8:00 and as they didn't go to the party some supposed they went home, but it was reported that they were seen at Ballinger about 10:30 o'clock. It is thought very probable that they had tire trouble.

Everybody at the party enjoyed it very much. They hope that they can go to Coleman again.

8,164 Fords are turned loose daily at Detroit. Step lively, please.

Let's hope that France and Germany have buried deep the hatchet of hatred.

Is your home well lighted or do you just have lights in your home?

AGAIN!
OFFERS GREATER VALUE

July 23rd Nash introduced new models—by long odds the finest motor cars Nash ever built.

These new models presented new and uniquely original body designs, far-reaching improvements in construction, and many notable refinements in engineering and equipment—all at far greater manufacturing cost.

BUT—NASH DID NOT INCREASE PRICES!

NOW!
PRICES REDUCED

Reductions up to $300

The above price reductions are effective November 1st on exactly these same models.

It is possible to make such price reductions only because of the tremendous volume of sales inspired by the manifestly GREATER QUALITY and GREATER VALUE of the Nash product.

In the first 3 months these cars have been on the market the total sales have more than equaled one-half the sales for the entire year of 1924.

Simmons Tender-foot Down High School Blizzards

For the first time this season the Winters High School Blizzards were beaten on their home field. It was a very unfortunate game for us, the injury of Fields, Vancil and Phillips cost us dearly. Fields will probably be on the sideline the rest of the season. Vancil and Phillips were not hurt severely but enough to take them out of the game Friday. Our boys were weak at the beginning and the invaders carried the ball to our own 8 yard line before they were stopped. Robertson punted the ball back up the field to our 35 yard line but Simmons did not return it. After a series of passes, and sweeps and line plunges they carried the ball to our 12 yard line and were stopped again.

The Blizzards opened the offense by making a 14 yard pass. A pass was tried again but was not completed. We did not gain through the line so Robertson punted out of bounds on our 40 yard line. The ball was given to our opponents and after a series of passes and wide end runs they liked about two inches getting a touchdown were thrown for a 4 yard loss on the next play and they did not gain on their last chance. Robertson went back to kick for Winters but fumbled and a Simmons player covered the ball which gave them their first touch down, they did not kick the goal and the score was 6 to 0.

The Blizzards chose to receive and Knight caught the ball on the 20 yard line and he returned it to the 49 yard line.

We opened the offense by passing but Robertson fumbled and a Simmons player covered the ball. The invaders failed to make any gain after a few attempts and they kicked to our 10 yard line. The Blizzards tried a pass but it was intercepted and was returned to our 4 yard line. We were penalized 5 yards on the next play, which put the ball on our 1 yard line, and they had 4 downs to make in it. However, Campbell broke through and covered the ball to save a touchdown. Neely gained about 4 yards on an end sweep and then Robertson punted to our 40 yard line, but it was returned to the 35 yard line. The offense was opened with a pass but Phillips intercepted it, which gave the ball to us on our 10 yard line. After a series of end runs and incomplete passes, we were forced to kick before we had gained our 10 yards. Then came that short punt and the players piled up over the ball. Vancil was hurt and had to be taken out. The ball was given to the opponents on the 50 yard line. They failed to gain and they kicked to our 35 yard line and Edwards returned it to the 38 yard line. We were not able to gain and Fields punted to Simmons 30 yard line, but it was returned to the 34 yard line. After a series of line plunges they made a first down, but before they could begin another the half ended.

The last half opened with Simmons kicking to our 20 yard line and Neely returned the ball to the 28 yard line. Simmons was penalized for being off side and the Blizzards made a first down easily. Fields was injured early in the next attack and Bill Phillips was put in in his place. The Blizzards saw that they could not make the 10 yards and Robertson punted to Simmons 20 yard line. Two fumbles cost Simmons 20 yards and they punted to their 35 yard line and covered the ball. After a series of end sweeps, they got the ball on our 48 yard line. Bill Phillips intercepted a pass and carried the ball back to our 40 yard line. The blizzards were making a good headway but a pass was intercepted and returned to the 40 yard line as the third period ended.

The final period began with the ball in possession of Simmons on their 40 yard line. They carried the ball to our 20 yard line and here the Blizzards intercepted a pass to stop their drive. Robertson immediately punted to our 40 yard line but it was returned to the 35 yard line. After a series of wide end sweeps and deep plunges through the line, Simmons made their second touch down but did not kick the goal.

Simmons kicked to Knight on our 25 yard line and he returned it to the 35 yard line. Our offense was opened with a long forward pass, which Bill Phillips leaped high to get. The game ended before another play could be started and the ball was in our possession on Simmons 45 yard line. A big circus has signed a Texas youth who stands 8 feet and 3 inches. Climb it.

Sills In Another Thrill Film Soon

Another big First National Feature picture, with Milton Sills in the stellar role, has been secured for the Queen Theatre Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 16 and 17.

The coming picture is "The Making of O'Malley," an adaptation of Gerald Beaumont's Red Book magazine story of the same title. It is Sills' first starring vehicle, and is a vivid, heart-gripping story of a New York policeman and a society heiress, especially fitted for the stalwart dramatic vigor of the star—outstanding exponent of two fisted roles.

Supporting Sills is an excellent cast headed by Dorothy Mackbill, best seen here in "Chickie." Others in the cast include Thomas Carrigan, who gained a high place in filmdom as Nick Carter in the detective series; Helen Rowland, six-year-old screen phenom; Claude King, Warner Richmond, Julia Hurley, Allen Brander, Charles Galam, Nell Craig and Jack de Lacey.

Thrills galore, pathos, tragedy, color, real fun, beautiful photography, a wonderful love story and unusual settings are promised in "The Making of O'Malley." A large part of the picture was photographed on the streets of New York City, where Sills, who plays the role of a policeman, is shown actually engaged in directing New York's street traffic.

Mrs. Chas. Chapman had as her guest last week, her sister, Mrs. J. E. Drummond of San Antonio and Mrs. R. C. Terry and little son, Carlton of Talpa.

Rin-Tin-Tin Does Thrilling Stunts In Latest Picture

In "Tracked in the Snow Country," starring Rin-Tin-Tin, the "Wonder Dog," at the Queen Theatre, Friday and Saturday, November 6 and 7. This well known canine actor has a number of new thrills for those who have seen him in the several Warner Bros. pictures in which he has been previously presented. His most sensational performance in this picture—if not, indeed the most sensational in any of his pictures—comes when he, the villain and the hero, are cornered in the mine, and Rin-Tin-Tin finds himself caught in a deep well, unable to come to the assistance of his master. His escape from the well with one marvelous leap, trailing the villain across the ice which breaks under him and sends him down into the cold water from which he tries vainly to extricate himself, but into which he is repeatedly thrown by the dog, to finally drown, provides breathless moments for the audience.

"Tracked in the Snow Country," as the title indicates, is one of these standard melodramas of the Far North. The story has to do with the attempt of a villainous half-breed to steal from an old miner and his beautiful daughter a rich gold mine which the old man has discovered and is secretly working. Rin-Tin-Tin, the old miner's faithful dog, is largely instrumental in defeating the purposes of the half-breed, being assisted by the young forest ranger who is in love with the daughter.

We learn through E. A. Sheppard, in whose company the car was insured, that the new Dodge car which was stolen from Mr. Low about a year ago had been recovered in Dallas. The insurance company settled with Mr. Low for the loss of the car at the time of the theft, so the car now belongs to them.

New Victor Produces All Tones of Human Voice

The audience broke into applause last night on hearing the first record played at the first public hearing of the newly perfected orthophonic talking machine at a dinner which the Victor Talking Machine Company gave at the Waldorf to the Western Electric Company.

The first record was the soldiers' chorus from "Faust," sung by forty voices, which rang out from the new instrument full and clear.

This was followed immediately by a chorus of eight voices on one of the best of the old records on the best type of the Victrola. A laugh ran through the audience at the contrast.

The talking machine company gave the dinner to the Western Electric Company because the new instrument is largely the development of the telephone engineers of that company. The principle and patents developed by the Bell Telephone Company in its long experience in improving sound transmission have been made the basis of the new reproducing instrument, which gives forth tones with power and fidelity over nearly twice the range which the existing phonograph can compass. Its performance, beside that of its predecessors, is like a fine oil painting beside a copy in black and white.—New York Times

Spill Bros. have the agency for the Victor Machines in the Winters territory and are expecting to have one of the new Orthophonic victrolas in their store for demonstration by the time this paper reaches its readers and are very anxious for you to come in and let them demonstrate it to you.

The Plush Album A Retrospect

(By Joe Sappington)

One by one old customers and institutions are passing away. The side saddle, the wagon circus, Punch and Judy, the country fiddler, side burns, the long drooping mustache and the plush album, are fast fading memories. But the dearest of all is the memory of the old plush album that came upon the scene in the early eighties and reached the height of its glories reign A. D. 1892, or about four years before Bryan began running for president.

The family album played a conspicuous part in most of my early courtship. Strange as it may seem to those who know how eloquent and entertaining I am today, I was a bashful, diffident boy, a poor conversationalist and frequently sought inspiration while turning the leaves of the family album when paying court to my lady love. One of the largest collections of photos I ever saw congregated under one roof was in the hospitable home of old Sam Dugens, sire of Polly Dugens, a tongue tied lass of some seventeen summers, and like myself inclined to be bashful. Polly was my first real sweetheart and if it hadn't been for the big plush album our love-making would indeed have been dull and colorless. Our conversation usually started something like this: "I bet I know something you don't know, Miss Polly." "Pleathe tell me Mither Tho," (she could not say Joe). "No I ain't goin to tell you, Miss Polly, cause you won't tell me nothin." "Now Mither Tho, you ought to be athamed of yourself to theat me tho bad." "No I ain't goin to tell you nothin, for if I did you would tell Mace Jackson." "Pleathe Mither Tho, tell me what it ith and I'll never tell Mathe a word no indeed I won't." "No I can't." "Yeth you can." "No." "Yeth you muth." "No." "Yeth." "No." "Yeth." Sometimes this line of conversation or something just as brilliant would last for several minutes, and after we had "Noed" and "Yethed" till we couldnt "Yeth" and "No" and longer, Polly would bring in the big plush album and I would hold her hand while she turned its pages.

Polly's pa was an ill-grained old fellow and never missed an opportunity to show his dislike of me. He overtook us one Sunday as I was escorting Polly home from church and made her dismount from the family mare and crawl in the wagon with the rest of the family, after which he tied the old filly to the tailboard and drove away. I almost know the old cuss had seen me holding Polly's hand during one of our seances around the family album.

Sally Moore's folks had a whoppin big album also. No telling how much the thing cost. It was not only finished in plush, but had a looking glass on one of its covers. No telling how many times I said to Sally: "Do you want to see the purtiest girl that ever lived on Cave Creek?" "Yes, show her to me," she would say, and I would hold the glass in front of her face and say, "Look at yourself, then." Then she would blush and peep at me thru her fingers and say I ought to be ashamed of myself for making fun of her. "How would you like for somebody to make fun of you that way just because you was ugly and couldn't help it," she would ask still peeping through her fingers. "Sally," I would plead, "you know your air the purtiest thing in ten thousand miles of here and you needn't deny it neither." "No I ain't." "Yes you are." "I ain't." "You air." "I ain't." "You air." and after "ainging" and "airing" until we were both out of breath we would lean our heads until they touched and slowly, turn the leaves of the big plush album too full of love for utterance.

The widow Jones, mothe of Lucy, another sweetheart of mine, had a big heavy-set plush album full of the family portraiture, dating back almost to the days of the Inquisition. Some of the portraits were in a bad state of preservation on account of rough handling. Uncle Aaron had had the misfortune of losing a goodly part of his ears by the knocks and jabs of time. And there was Cousin Rufus with his smooth-shaven upper lip, but sporting a flowering beard, slipping into eternal space from the Widow Jones Album. The last time I saw Cousin Rufus, the cock roaches had made sad inroads on his whiskers besides gnawing one of his eyes out.

Luck was a great collector of pictures, no matter whose pictures they were. Her collection embraced the hatred mug of a rival of mine— one Sid Hopkins, and for this reason I stubbornly refused to add my type to her collection. One night while we were going through the album for the twentieth time, I became so insanely jealous of Sid that I snatched his picture, tore it to pieces right before her eyes and threw the pieces out at the window. I told her as plain as I could talk that there never was an album big enough to hold both Sid's and my pictures. She pouted awhile and said she hated me, but while her back was turned I slipped my picture in the place of the deposed rival. Before leaving that night she confessed that she had always loved me more than she did Sid and was proud I had torn up his ugly old picture.

There is another and dear old album that comes to my mind while I write these lines. If it is still in existence and if I knew where it was I would journey many leagues to see it, even if I had to walk, for it contains the portraits of loved ones who have long since crossed over that mysterious river, and are now resting in the shade of the trees.

Deep down in the heart of every true and loyal man and woman who is descending the western slope of Life's rugged hill, is the memory—the sad sweet memory, of faces in some old neglected album, now classed as rubbish. Sometimes it is the joyous face of youth that pulls aside the curtains of departed years and smiles at us from afar, and again it illumines the pages of that dust-is the face of a sainted mother that covered and moth eaten old album that belongs to the mouldering past.

The old plush album may be relegated to the things that were, but many of the dear faces that nestle between its covers, will live and be cherished by the sons and daughters and men as long as reason holds its sway.

PALE, NERVOUS

West Virginia Lady Says That
She Was in a Serious Condition, But Is Stronger After Taking Cardui.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition—in fact, was in a serious condition," says Mrs. Fannie C. Bloss, of 1964 Madison Avenue, this city.

"In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere.

"Life wasn't any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time.

"My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. I took two bottles, then I noticed an improvement. I kept on and found it was helping me. I have taken nine bottles. I'm stronger now than I have been in a long time."

Cardui is made from mild-acting medicinal herbs with a gentle, tonic, strengthening effect upon certain female organs and upon the system in general.
