"Shipmates Forever," Thrilling Naval Picture Set in Historic Annapolis Has Good Cast; Opens Here Sat. Night

WARNER OLAND IS HAILED AS ONLY STAR FOR CHAN ROLE IN "CHARLIE CHAN IN SHANGHAI," SHOWING TODAY-SATURDAY.

The thrill and romance of naval officers in the making, is colorfully depicted in the new Warner Bros.-Cosmopolitan drama-with-music, "Shipmates Forever," which is scheduled as the feature attraction Saturday night at the midnight preview, also Sunday and Monday at the Queen Theatre. The adventurous career of that benign detective, Charlie Chan, very nearly comes to an untimely end as Warner Oland, again playing Charlie Chan in "Charlie Chan in Shanghai," now showing venturers into China, to break up a dangerous gang of international opium smugglers. Helen Mack and Edward Ellis are co-featured with Lionel Barrymore in "The Return of Peter Grimm" showing Tuesday and Wednesday. "Personal Maid's Secret," a comedy drama will be shown on Thursday only.

"Shipmates Forever"

It is an intimate and revealing story of the lives of the midshipmen in their study rooms at Annapolis, on the parade grounds and their cruises at sea. Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler head the cast. Dick personifies the raw cadet, somewhat spoiled but with the makings of a man, who is whipped into shape as a gallant officer through the rigor of the Naval Academy training, and Ruby, the loyal daughter of the navy. Dick sings, fights a bitter battle alone with himself and finally winds up as a hero who dashed through scalding steam and flame to rescue a shipmate. Ruby dances to gay throngs, all the while she fights desperately to win the man she loves to the traditions of the Navy. The film company spent a month at Annapolis, the movie actors enacting their roles with the training school as a background, and with 1,000 cadets taking part.

"Charlie Chan in Shanghai"

From the moment Chan sets foot in Shanghai, his adventures begin with the murder of his host, an English secret service man. Chan's own life is menaced by mysterious assailants, who shoot at him during the night, attempt to kidnap him but fail to match his Oriental wile. Joining forces with the American secret service, Chan takes up the threads of the crime. The Englishman's secretary, Charles Locher, is suspected of the murder and held despite the protests of his lovely fiancée, Irene Hervey.

"The Return of Peter Grimm"

Heart-sick at the tragedy and unhappiness he has brought upon those he loved by his tyranny while on earth, Peter Grimm returns to his mortal abode in an effort to restore peace and joy. But he is unable to make his presence known. But the highly tuned instincts of his old collie dog and the eyes of a dying child, whom he loved, finally pierce the celestial veil and he is enabled through them to rectify his mistakes and restore harmony and well being to his family. Never has Lionel Barrymore been afforded a role that gives him greater opportunity for the display of his genius. As the fiery, explosive old man who has no interference with his wishes and desires, he provided a brand of quaintness for which he long has been famous. The dainty sweetness and ethereal beauty of Helen Mack is given scope in the role of Catherine, the foster child of Peter Grimm, who sacrifices her love upon the altar of filial devotion.

"Personal Maid's Secret"

It is a rare and novel tale of a struggling New York family, ambitious to get ahead, but lacking the proper contacts. The head of the family, though a man of ability and personality is so intent on watching the family budget that he fears to launch out into the bigger affairs of life. His wife has a greater courage and starts the ball rolling by engaging a maid. The maid has worked for many wealthy families and makes it her business to see that her employers come in contact with the proper persons who can bring them business. The way in which the family skyrockets from a small apartment to a big Long Island

PNEUMONIA ATTACKS CAUSE SWINE LOSSES IN AREA -- WILLIAMS

A serious outbreak of pneumonia, a highly contagious disease of swine, has been reported by hog raisers of this area. Two such cases reported have ended in death to the animal while a number of hogs are still sick from the ailment. Pneumonia is perhaps exceeded only by cholera in its death rate among swine. It is very contagious and usually fatal unless proper treatment is given at the beginning.

Symptoms of the disease are very slight usually, for the first two or three days. The patient will first refuse to eat and exhibit a fever of 104 to 105 degrees. Breathing becomes somewhat difficult and there is a dry, hacking cough in some cases. As the ailment advances, the animal will attempt to bury himself in the soil. The hog will drink small quantities of warm sweet milk when aroused. Death apparently comes within six to fourteen days after the period of attack. Some animals, however, have recovered after having been sick twenty days.

This disease can be prevented by vaccination with a 5 c. c. dose of Pulmonary Mixed Bacterin (Swine). A high degree of immunity is established which lasts for a period of one year. Due to the fact that the disease is very fatal, and the organisms causing it remain in the soil for years, the vaccination of swine against it is becoming an established practice. The vaccine also immunizes against swine plague (hemorrhagic septicemia) and other mixed infections.

All animals in infected herds should be vaccinated with 10 c. c. of the bacterin, injected deep into the muscle, and all sick hogs should receive additional 10 c. c. doses at 48 hour intervals until recovery. Recovery is slow and is obtained only in a small percent of the attacks. Feeds should be reduced to one half in well hogs and sick ones should be encouraged to eat sloppy foods and warm sweet milk. Ground oats and wheat bran soaked makes an excellent feed for this purpose. The addition of copper and iron to the drinking water will also prove beneficial.

After an outbreak of the disease has been checked, all soiled litter should be removed from the pens and burned. Some good disinfectant should then be used to destroy the organisms causing the disease.

Ford "$25-Per-Month" Plan Is Very Simple

Eight years ago the Universal Credit Company began its history as an important factor in the commercial, financial, and industrial life of the nation—a specialized financial institution created for the exclusive purpose of providing a stabilizing factor in financing the time sales of Ford cars and trucks. The company has made sound and substantial progress ever since inception.

During this comparatively brief but disturbing period in the economic history of the United States, Universal Credit Company has financed the purchase of new Ford cars and used cars sold by Ford dealers exclusively to the motor-buying public of America in the amount of more than one and a half billion dollars, serving a total of more than 2,600,000 Ford customers. Such, in brief, is the history of one of the nation's greatest financial service corporations.

These figures are indicative of the substantial contribution being made by Universal Credit Company to improve conditions. This record of volume places UCC among the foremost of American financing institutions. UCC has been repeatedly responsible for the reduction of finance costs for Ford buyers. The large volume of business developed has made possible constantly improved plans, providing courtesy, safety, and economy for the Ford purchaser desiring to buy out of income.

Texas' Romantic History 400 Years Ago Until Present Will Be Featured In Cavalcade of Texas at Centennial

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 29. — The romantic history of Texas from the landing of the Spaniards 400 years ago until the present day will be portrayed in a cavalcade of Texas at the Texas Centennial Exposition which opens here in June.

Exposition authorities have appropriated $150,000 for this spectacle which will be one of the feature events of the $25,000,000 World's Fair. On an artificial river in the Exposition grounds will float Spanish galleons, LaFitte's pirate ships and war boats of the Republic of Texas. A huge screen of spraying water tinted by various colored lights, will curtain the shifting act.

From conquistadore to cowboy, from the quest for gold to the discovery of oil, the glamor of Lone Star state history will be recounted in detail. Three hundred Texans will be in the cast, many of them direct descendants of the historical characters they impersonate. Cowboys, Franciscan friars, revolutionary and Confederate soldiers, trail drivers and rangers will sing in massed chorus. The dramatization of Texas history will be set to music with songs of various periods interwoven in its throne.

The Exposition's research department is searching the State for authentic properties for use in the show such as longhorn cattle, buffalo, stage coaches, ox teams, covered wagons, Spanish armor and the long rifles of the frontiersmen. Charles E. Turner, former West Texas cow puncher and recently mayor of Dallas is in charge of the spectacle with William M. Hamilton, playwright and composer as director. The script is written by Jan Isbell Fortune, Texas writer of note.

Plans protect the purchaser's car against Fire and Theft, Collision, Flood, Windstorm, Tornado, Cyclone, Hail, Riot, and other elements of physical damage—complete protection against accidental physical damage to the car itself.

Texas Business Was Better In 1935 Than During the Year '34

Austin, Texas, Jan. 29.—Sales of Texas department stores were moderately higher in December than for the corresponding month of the preceding year, and the increase over Nov. was greater than the average seasonal rise, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Reports from 87 representative Texas establishments show an increase during December of 3.9 per cent over the like month last year. The gain over the preceding month was 54.8 per cent, again an average increase of 49.4 per cent in the past nine years. Aggregate sales for the year were 4.8 per cent greater than for 1934.

Other show increases greater than the average for the State during the comparable periods were Beaumont, Dallas, Fort Worth, Galveston, and San Antonio.

Synopsis: Ben Furlong, a young but practical oil man and driller from the Pennsylvania field drifted into the Texas oil country, broke and looking for work. Finally he fetched up at the Durham home where lived an elderly aunt, shortly widowed by the explosion of a powder wagon, and her niece, pretty Betty Durham. . . . Perhaps because of his smile, Betty cooks some food for Ben and while he eats he learns the aunt, in town on business, has an oil man, Tiller Maddox, sinking an oil well for her. . . . A short 6 inch bolt worked loose from the rigging and is in the bottom of the well. Work has been suspended for days as the crew "fish" for the bolt and operating funds dwindle away. . . . Furlong offers to give a hand but Maddox objects. . . . Betty insists and overrules Maddox so Furlong fashions a tool which he has just lowered into the well, hoping to fish out the bolt. . . . NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Second Installment
Furlong himself handled the rig during this operation, and even Maddox could find no fault with the way he did it. When, after what seemed an interminable time, the wire cable began to stream up out of the depths and wind itself in smooth, black layers upon the drum, the two women pressed in upon the derrick floor.

Out of the well-mouth finally slid the fishing tool; it stopped, hung motionless with the lower end at the level of their eyes. The teeth had bent inward, jammed together by the blows from above; inside the basket thus formed and tightly bitten between two of those prongs was a battered six-inch piece of steel.

When Furlong had finished washing up he found Betty Durham waiting for him.

"Come over to the house," she said. "You must be tired."

"I told you I was lucky," the young man declared, with a grin.

"Lucky, nothing. You've got sense."

"Simple, wasn't it? I wonder Maddox never thought of it."

Betty stirred; impatiently she exclaimed: "Oh, he's too busy thinking about something—! Say! We've got an extra room, but Aunt Mary says it wouldn't look right for you to sleep there. Don't that make you sick?"

"How about the barn?"

"That's what she proposed. Come on. We'll fix it somehow."

It was dark; the trail through the cactus and the mesquite was dim, but Betty knew it by heart and where its meanderings were indistinguishable she took Furlong's hand and guided him.

"I suppose you think Aunt Mary's crazy, risking all her money like this," she said.

"I sure do," the man admitted. "This thing will show you the chances she's taking. Suppose that bolt had been something else, something we couldn't get hold of? There's a thousand things can happen to a well."

"I know. But she's—greedy. She always was, Tiller talked her into it after Uncle Joe died, and she wouldn't listen to me."

"It's a lot safer to let the big companies do the drilling, and be satisfied with a royalty."

"Some people can't be satisfied," the girl said, quietly. Then after a moment. "Uncle Joe never intended to leave the whole farm to her. They didn't hitch very well. He said he was going to leave part of it to me, but—I guess he never got around to it. I'll bet Aunt Mary's sorry by this time that she listened to Tiller; there's so many things a driller can do to a well."

"Pshaw! Is he that kind of a man?"

"What kind of a man? Men are all alike, aren't they—when they've got reasons to be?"

"She better fire him."

"I guess she can't, or dassent . . . Funny my talking this way to you and not knowing you only a few hours. I'd better mind my own business. Here we are. You wait while I get a light."

They had arrived at the house, and the girl left her companion outside. She reappeared in a few minutes with a lantern and a couple of patchwork comforters. These latter she surrendered to Ben, then led the way to the barn.

Like most farms in the oil country, this one had been allowed to run down, and with the exception of some chickens and a few dispirited cattle there was no live stock left upon it. There still remained, however, some old fodder; it was dusty and musty, but suitable enough for a bed, and Furlong announced that he was delighted with these sleeping arrangements. He set the lantern down and walked to the door with Betty. There he said:

"You've been mighty nice to me. I wish that fishing job had been harder."

"Why?"

"It would have taken longer."

The girl's face was dimly illuminated as she smiled up at Furlong. She was the prettiest girl he had ever known and she felt a great liking, a great sympathy for her. The clasp of her warm hand as she had guided him along the dark trail had affected him in an unaccountable manner, and now it affected him again in the same way when she laid it in his. A sudden recklessness overwhelmed him and before he knew what he was doing he had bent forward and kissed her.

The girl was startled, but she did not recoil. Curiously she inquired: "Why did you do that?"

"I don't know. I—I couldn't help it, I guess. I didn't intend to, but—" Ben floundered; he felt his face burning hotly.

"Tiller tried that and I slapped him. I've known him a long time, too—" Miss Durham shook her head, apparently more perplexed at her own lack of resentment than surprised at Furlong's boldness. "I must like you pretty well."

"I wish you would—did. I—think you're wonderful."

"Queer!" Betty turned to go. A moment later she called back through the gloom, "I'll call you when breakfast is ready."

Furlong was not altogether surprised when, on the following morning, Tiller Maddox offered him a job. Maddox, it was plain, was acting upon orders, and he took no pains to conceal his dislike for the new hand; nevertheless, Ben accepted the offer. Aside from the fact that he needed work, his interest in Betty Durham was now sufficient to make almost any sacrifice worth while.

In the days thereafter he tried to fathom the peculiar relationship existing between Maddox and the two women, but had not succeed very well. The driller, it was evident, had his heart set upon Betty, and in his attempt to win her Mrs. Durham was his ally; nevertheless, for some unknown reason the aunt disliked and distrusted the man. About all that Ben could make sure of was the fact that in some manner not readily apparent the oil well was being used by Maddox as a weapon, that somehow it had become the stake in three-cornered game.

Furlong and Betty meanwhile managed to see a good deal of each other, but they met clandestinely. Neither of them openly referred to this fact, and, although the girl pretended that it was her aunt whom she feared, Ben very well knew that it was Maddox. No longer, by the way, did he apologize when he kissed her, and their stolen moments together had become very sweet.

Work on the well progressed as rapidly as could be expected. Inch by inch, foot by foot, the heavy steel bits cut through the rock; length after length was added to the casing, and as it neared the level of the oil-bearing structure "indications" became evident; occasional sighs and gurgles issued from the well mouth as gas gathered and released itself. Its odor was at times quite strong.

It was at this time that Maddox and Furlong clashed.

Some new tackle was being slung and Ben had been sent up aloft while the foreman issued directions from below. It was heavy work. Ben was forced to cling to the derrick timbers or to balance himself upon a narrow plank, and his progress at times did not suit the elder man. Maddox was in a surly mood, anyhow, and he became profane. Furlong was hot and irritable. He answered back, whereupon the man below flared out angrily: "You do like I tell you an' don't argue, or I'll come up there an' give you a dam' good beating!"

The rigging was finally secured in place and Maddox was occupying himself with something else when he felt a hand upon his shoulder. He turned to find Furlong at his side. The latter's eyes were blazing. In a voice ominously harsh and vibrant with fury he said:

"I came down to get that beating. I want it now."

The other member of the crew froze in various attitudes of startled suspense. The two men stared at each other.

Furlong was a burly, thick-necked youth; he was as hard as iron and in his gaze at this moment was an evil quality quite unexpected. His enmity for the driller had finally foamed over. In proximity to this flaming passion Maddox's smoldering dislike gave off no heat; nor at short notices could he fan its embers into a blaze. After a brief survey pregnant with possibilities, he turned his head and winked at the other men. In a feeble effort at jocularly he said:

"I told you I'd come up there and give it to you. I never ask you to come down here an' get it." He guffawed loudly at his own humor and walked away.

Furlong stood shaking in his tracts.

That evening Maddox went over to the farmhouse. Evenings in this thirsty land, like evenings upon the desert, were cool, refreshing, beautiful. The brazen sky cooled, a blessed breeze played through the scrubby bush and brought faint fragrances unnoticed at other hours; the harsh outlines of unlovely objects were softened; birds twittered; Nature filled her lungs and took on new vigor.

Mrs. Durham was rocking upon the little front porch, and of her the man inquired:

"Where's Betty?"

"Her and Ben have gone to town."

Maddox scowled. "I allowed they had."

"He's gone in to buy himself some clothes and she took the car—"

"He won't need no more clothes than he's got, on this job," asserted the driller. "He's all through an' washed up."

"What's happened, Tiller?"

"We had a row. I was a fool to put him on, in the first place, but his week's up Friday."

Mrs. Durham ceased rocking; her sallow face became yellow. With an effort she said:

"He's a right smart hand, Tiller. I'd rather you didn't fire him."

"The hell you'd rather!" Maddox exclaimed angrily. "What you got to say about it?"

"Why, it's my prop'ty, my well—"

"Is it?"

"Y—You know what I mean. He's smart, I tell you. Didn't he fish that bolt?"

"Sure! An' didn't you hire him straight off, so's to spy on me?"

"Tiller! I s'p on no such thing. Why should I spy on you? What you been doin' that you need spyin'—?"

"Shut up an' listen to me. He's fired Friday night an' he gets off this place the next mornin'."

So that's that! Saturday, sometime, the powder wagon'll be here an' early Monday the men are comin' to shoot the well. We got a big one; I'll bet my life on that. I can tell! Why, she's makin' gas an' trying her best to let 'em go, but—" the speaker paused, then finished slowly, distinctly—"there ain't agoin' to be no well what ever until I'm took care of."

The widow's colorless eyes fixed themselves hypnotically upon the swarthy face of the man before her. He continued:

"I wasn't gettin' along any too good with Betty before this feller showed up, but since he came she won't have nothin' to do with me."

"L did the best I could," Mrs. Durham declared, nervously, "but she says she won't marry you. She goes hog wild every time I talk about it."

"There's ways to make a girl marry. You got to make her marry me before that well comes in, or its just like I said—it ain't comin' in!"

"Tiller!" grasped the woman. "You dassent do— anything to it. Not now!"

"Oh, dassent I? Who'll stop me? You won't. That little old bolt made a lot of trouble, didn't it? Well, that's nothin'. It just shows how easy it is to—"

Pension Applicants Must Show Proof Of Age, Auditor States

Austin, Texas, Jan. 29.—Facing old-age assistance applications will be the difficulty of proving their ages, Orville S. Carpenter, executive director of the Old Age Assistance Commission, said today when asked what he thought the most difficult problem of old people making application.

Application forms will be distributed to cities and towns over the State and will be available to all who want them February 14, when the law goes into effect. As required by the new law, certain facts must be established by the applicant. The law grants assistance to the needy who are 65 years of age or more, and each applicant must definitely and conclusively prove his or her age.

"There are many ways by which a person can establish his age," Director Carpenter stated. "The Commission will consider any evidence that proves or helps to establish definitely the age of the applicant. However, it will be necessary in each case for the applicant to establish to the satisfaction of the Commission, by whatever means he can, that he is 65 years of age."

A number of kinds of evidence to be used in proving age are the following:

1. Birth certificates.
2. Marriage certificates giving the ages of both parties.
3. Birth certificates of children giving age of parents.
4. Ages of sons and daughters when these are sufficiently advanced.
5. Naturalization papers giving age at time of applying for same.
6. Passports. Service books of immigrants.
7. County records. Baptismal certificates.
8. Insurance papers.
9. Employment records.
10. School records.

Scientists now say that the first inhabitants of America were cannibals. Sound's bad, but eating a man's body after he is dead isn't nearly so bad as destroying his reputation, while he is alive, by gossip.

On Texas Farms

College Station — The 1936 Farmers' Short Course will be held at A. and M. College a week earlier this year starting Monday, July 20 and carrying through Friday, July 24, it was announced recently by H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas Extension Service.

Preparations for this annual farmers' affair in Texas are being pushed stronger this year than ever in view of better living standards and live-at-home programs which are being advocated by the Texas Extension Service and other agricultural agencies in the State.

Looking backward, a brief glance at the 1935 Annual Farmers' Short Course shows a record of all times with the attendance totaling 7,000.

Clarksville — Joe P. Spivey of Clarksville, Texas, in Red River county, started three years ago with 12 grade ewes and one registered Hampshire buck. January 1, this year he had on hand 21 ewes. He raised 25 lambs, according to a report from C. M. Knight, county agricultural agent.

He sold these lambs for $6. a head making a total of $150. He sold $31 worth of wool making a total of $181 on an $86 investment.

Spivey states that the sheep more than paid for the small amount of grain fed during the month of January and February, in the destruction of weeds in his permanent pasture which is under improvement. The sheep were treated three times with blue stone and nicotine for stomach worms.

According to the Red River county agricultural agent, this record is due to proper management, a registered buck, and a good permanent pasture.

Waco — Mrs. G. Akin, 4-H demonstrator for the Liberty Hill Home Demonstration Club in McLennan county, shows the following results with a cash outlay of only $11.09, according to Martha Buttrill, home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Akin spent $1 for fertilizer, 35 cents for poison and bought 508 cans. Her net profit return on labor amounted to $135.

In January, Mrs. Akin planned her garden. It was planted with the short-lived vegetables on one side and the long-lived vegetables on the other.

Mrs. Akin has canned 498 quarts, 53 different varieties of products from her garden; fed her family of four for a cash outlay of only $94 from January 1 to September 15.

Other than her garden, Mrs. Akin has produced $329.45 worth of chickens, meat, lard, and eggs. She has also sold $75.00 worth of milk from her four dairy cows.

San Augustine — A total of 76 shrubs was moved this fall by Mrs. Vena Redden, yard demonstrator of the New Hope Demonstration Club in San Augustine county, according to a report from Esther Ross, home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Redden said, "This summer I dug a three foot bed all around my house, filled the bed up with well rotten barn-yard manure, then put a lot of leaf mold on top. I then worked some of the dirt that I had taken out of the bed and laid it on top. I kept the bed well worked and planted my shrubs in it this fall.

"I have transplanted 48 privet bushes, two box wood, two cape jasmine, three crepe myrtle, eight mimosa, one lilic, four althea, and six running roses. They are all growing."

Mrs. Redden prepared her rose garden much the same way she did her beds except she had it plowed instead of dug.

Crystal City — Sixteen heavy steers of common stock carried hegar bundles to market for $7.31 a ton when no markets existed for this feed in Zavala county, according to Fred Le-Crone, county agricultural agent.

The steers were fed on the Frank Burdett farm near La Pzor and they gained an average of 202 pounds during the 90 days feeding period.

These steers consumed 387.5 pounds of cotton seed meal and 2,150 pounds of ground hegar bundles. The meal cost $5.82 which leaves $7.31 to pay for the roughage, as the steers sold for six and one-half cents a pound. No value for the better price of fed beef was estimated on the original weight.

Dumas — From a flock of 370 hens, Art Knorpp of Dumas in Moore county received $166.19 from the sale of market eggs during the month of December.

His flock contains 70 per cent pullets with the remainder going into their second laying season. His total feed and other cash expenses for the month was $65.25. A total of 6,260 eggs was produced during the month.

Knorpp moved his flock into Dumas from his farm six miles east of Sunray in November and placed them in a newly constructed hen house which he has wired for lights. He turns the lights on every morning at 4:15 and they remain on until 8 o'clock at night.

When the flock was moved into Dumas, he started feeding a small amount of moist mash at noon every day, about what the flock would clean up in five to ten minutes. He has continued feeding moist mash up to the present time; however, only about half as much is now being fed as when the feeding was started.

The devil couldn't be everywhere so he made the nagger. Male of females, the nagger is the devil's most valuable aid.

World's Greatest City Takes 10-Inch Snowball on Chin

NEW YORK... The world's greatest city awakened from its mid-winter dream of a mild winter to start wrestling with the year's record snow fall of 10 inches and a 100 mile-an-hour gale. Traffic was in a snarl and 42nd street and Broadway shops (upper photo) might have done a good business in skis, if they'd had any skis. Lower photo shows one of "the city's finest" helping a lady hold a true course across Columbus Circle in the 100-mile wind.

Monday at school the three pupils that were perfect readers for one month were given prizes for their faithful work by their teacher, Miss Sheppard. The three were Gerald Smith, Floyd Vinson and Charles Mitchell.

Mrs. Duke's pupils that read perfectly one week were given a party Friday afternoon from two to four o'clock. They hiked down to the "Red Hills" and back before going over to the teacherage. "Ten Reasons for Keeping the Scrub Cow"

1. She consumes a lot of cheap feed so that I need not haul it to market.
2. She reduces my taxes as her value is low.
3. If she dies I do not lose very much.
4. It takes very little time to milk her.
5. She is dry a lot of the year and doesn't require any care.
6. She never yields much milk and does just about as well on maize heads and cottonseed as she does on balanced rations.
7. It makes little difference whether or not I milk her on Sunday.
8. I am never pestered by neighbors who want to buy her.
9. She keeps down the surplus dairy products and in this way is no small economic force in the agriculture of the nation.
10. I never have to sit up nights worrying what to do with all the money I get from my cream check.

Twins Born to Eden Couple

Former Winters Girl Married at Carrizo Springs

In a letter received from Rev. Sam Morris is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Huntsman, a former resident of Winters, which we are printing because of the local interest and of the high esteem in which Miss Huntsman is held in Winters. The letter follows:

"I am sure it will be a matter of news and interest to your readers to know that on December 18, 1935, Miss Elizabeth Huntsman the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Huntsman, formerly of Winters, but now living in Eagle Pass, Texas, was united in marriage to Mr. John Alderman, of San Antonio, Texas. The marriage ceremony was performed by, and in the office of the County Judge, in Carrizo Springs, Texas.

Miss Huntsman is a charming young lady who is well known to the people of Winters, having graduated from the Winters high school with the class of '34. Miss Huntsman was also an active leader among the young people of the Methodist church and had the love and confidence of all those with whom she labored in this capacity.

Mr. Alderman was graduated from Breckenridge high school at San Antonio with honors and is an honor graduate of Texas university. He is engaged in the field of radio, having directed the activities of several leading stations during the time of his majority. In addition to a New York station where he got his early training, he was for some time manager of KVRG of Harlingen, Texas. He was also an announcer on the Mexican radio station, XEPN of Eagle Pass, Texas. Many of the people of this section have heard him on the station. He was for several months the announcer who introduced Rev. Sam Morris on the Voice of Temperance broadcast.

"It was while serving in this capacity with Rev. Morris, a very close friend of the Huntsman family that these young people became acquainted. The acquaintance ripened into love and led to their marriage. We are sure their many friends of this community wish for these two fine Christian young people the greatest of health and happiness as they journey life together."

WARNINGS OFFERED TRUCKERS IN AREA

Warnings to truckers of this section on possible violations of both federal and state seed acts were issued yesterday by J. W. Young, San Angelo, state seed inspector for the department of agriculture at Austin.

"Any trucker who is not a common carrier, and who hauls misbranded seed from one state to peddle it in another, violates the federal seed act," said the statement. "Transporting misbranded seed from one state to another is forbidden by law, but common carriers are exempt. Selling misbranded seed in interstate commerce also is an offense and the peddling trucker could be punished for either or both of these acts."

"Complaints received from state officials by the division of seed investigations, which administers the act, indicate that much of the seed sold by truckers from other states, has been at unusually low prices. But this cheap seed is also of unusually low quality and otherwise unsuitable. Truckers should be able to handle seed that is correctly labeled and is of high quality. Past experience indicates, however, that it is poor business to buy seed from a stranger or person whose reputation is not known. Buying cheap seed has resulted in injury to many farmers who have not realized the importance of buying seed that is clean and free of noxious weed seeds, seed that germinates well and seed of a variety adapted to buyer's locality."

Mr. Young said unless farmers had a record in black and white of seed purchases, they had no recourse against the seller. He advised them to get the name of the trucker and the number of the license and its state.

Consider This Spring Planting Also

We plant seeds in the spring so we'll not want for food in the winter. Why not follow this plan for your money also? In the spring and summer of life you are at the height of your earning power—and if you would enjoy a happy old age you better follow the plan of putting aside some of the money you receive every pay day. You owe to yourself and those dependent on you, so why not start a permanent account today. We offer you absolute safety and remember, it only takes a dollar to start and a strong will to follow the plan to build up a good sized nest egg in the bank.

LIVE-STOCK THEFT HAS BEEN PAYING BUSINESS RECENTLY

Livestock theft has been so profitable the past three years that the stockmen of Runnels County organized the Runnels County Livestock Association, posting a reward of Two Hundred Fifty Dollars for conviction of persons stealing from membership.

This Association welcomes the Herring and Stalling Wool Warehouse which will be operated in Ballinger on the same policy of their other houses at Brownwood, Lometa, Goldthwaite and Hamilton, no doubt filling a very necessary need to all sheepmen in this territory.

We suggest that a Bill of Sale be required with each bag of wool under five sacks, when purchased, along with positive identification of people selling dead wool tags to any purchasing agency. They report all suspicious cases to officers. Many counties have organized like associations during the past year, as thievery must be stopped by stockmen, as was necessary in the earlier days but in a different manner, through watchfulness and investigating all hauling of live stock, especially the small two wheel trailer, which is very popular with the thief as very people pass him by thinking him only a local man moving his stock.

Fire branding is not by any means the task so many people think. Most of us intend to when things are just right. Have your irons made 1 1/2 inch in height, by 1 inch wide, with handle long that will not get hot, not less than five irons in fire at one time. Make crowding pen to hold closely, 30 or 40 head. One man can brand on front of nose, (low down), without throwing or help, 1500 or more per day, or as fast as you can pass hot irons.

The neck fold that is common on some breeds of sheep will not permit a readable side brand on jaw, but the clear type shows clearly. Recently in a nearby county part of a truck load of sheep were hauled many miles during the night and turned loose on the highway after fire brand was discovered. Positive identification can only be made when registered fire brand is used. This should also apply to all your livestock, which will compel the thief to destroy the hide. Butchers are being more careful of whom they buy, also our State laws have hide requirements hard to get by. All stockmen in the county are invited to join this association composed of officers and directors, elected by majority vote,

RUNNELS COUNTY OFFICERS ARE GIVEN HIKE IN SALARY

Annual salaries of the seven Runnels County officials involved by abolishment of the fee system, set last Friday by the commissioners, totaled $18,000. The combined increase over their net earned compensation of last year amounted to $1,644.94.

Under the optional clause of the amendment, the commissioners voted to retain precinct officials on the fee system.

The total net earned compensation of the seven office holders in 1935 amounted to $16,355.06. However, uncollected fees brought the total to about $11,678 in excess fees and Forgey, $4,036.34.

However, according to a ruling obtained from the state attorney-general's department by County Judge Paul Trimmer, fines laid-out in jail are not earned fees. This cut heavily into the earnings of the county attorney and sheriff's offices.

The court set salaries of four of the offices at $3,000 each. These included the county judge, the county clerk (W. W. Chastain), county assessor-collector (W. A. Forgey), and sheriff representing every part of the county. Go to your banker, pay him $1.00, give him your registered cattle and sheep brand, ask him to send this fee to Hugh Campbell, secretary, Ballinger, Texas, who will send you proper receipt. Not another dime will be required from you until conviction of a thief, stealing from one of this membership, at which time, if the membership fees are not sufficient to cover the $250.00 reward, you will be assessed sufficient funds to cover same.—Leo Holliday, chairman; Hugh Campbell, secretary.

(W. A. Holt.) The salary of the county attorney (C. C. Sessions) was set at $2,400; district clerk (John Rayburn), $1,800; and treasurer (Mrs. W. A. Francis) $1,800.

In addition to their salaries, the sheriff, the county clerk, and the assessor-collector were allowed a combined total maximum of $11,000 which includes deputies for the three and other expenses of the assessor and collector. The sheriff was granted a maximum expenditure of $1,800 on his deputies for the ensuing year; the county clerk, $2,400; the assessor and collector, $5,000 plus $1800 for other expenses.

Last year the county clerk received his maximum of $3,000 in gross earnings, as did the assessor and collector. Chastain paid into the coffers of the county $116.78 in excess fees and Forgey, $4,036.34.

The sheriff's net earnings amounted to $2,289.83 but his gross earnings were about the same as his set salary.

The county judge's gross earnings were $2,971.16 which also will be equivalent to his net earnings upon collection of $100.01, principally probate fees on which he is practically assured 100 per cent collection.

The net income of the county attorney was $2,057.10. His gross income amounted to $2,289.85, not including $582.05 on fees paid by jail and work on court house lawn.

Compensation by the district clerk amounted to $1,436.97, although his earnings were $1,773.70.

Owing to extra work added to the office of the county treasurer its last year's salary of $1,600 was boosted $200 by the commissioners.

KIPLING IN AMERICA

The cables report that Rudyard Kipling, who died the other day at the age of 70, left an estate estimated at nearly $4,000,000. Every dollar of it he earned by his writing, and the greater part of it came from the American readers of his poems, stories and novels. And that is as it should be, because Kipling had a love and admiration for this country such as no other British writer has ever expressed. He knew and understood America. His "American Notes," written back to his newspaper in India when he was a young man looking for a newspaper job in this country, breathe a spirit of understanding of this country in every line.

"Oh, be good to an American wherever you meet him," he advised his readers back in India. He married an American girl, built himself a home in the Vermont hills and would have become an American citizen but for an unfortunate lawsuit begun by his brother-in-law over the title to a few acres of land, which disgusted him with that particular kind of Americanism. Everybody is more or less familiar with Kipling's poem "If," but few realize that the ideal man who inspired it was George Washington.

No writer of modern times has written so much quotable stuff as did Kipling. One hundred years from now the lovers of stirring poetry and penetrating prose will be reading Kipling.

Pensions all hands
The people of the United States seem to me to have been infected with the pension-craz as I have not seen them since the 1890's. Even then, nobody thought of pensions for anybody but veterans of the Civil War. Now the American Legion comes out for pensions for soldiers' widows, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars is advocating pensions for all veterans, and on top of that, Dr. Townsend and his followers would pension everybody over 60 years old, while almost every class of public servant, from school teachers and policemen to Governors, are nowadays being pensioned at public expense.

Constitutions change
The latest decisions of the Supreme Court holding that Congress had exceeded its delegated powers in undertaking to regulate business and agriculture have revived talk of amending the Constitution. Half a dozen amendments have been proposed to give the Federal Government broader powers than it has yet been granted by the states. No good American can quarrel with the idea of amending the Constitution. We have done it a good many times and doubtless will do it many more times in the future. The Constitution itself provides three ways for its own amendment. The only thing it doesn't provide for is amendment in a hurry. And that, it seems to me, is very wise.

What ever party is in control at Washington would always like to have more power. But it can't get it without giving all the people and all the states plenty time to think it over.

Thrift best pensions
I have not seen in any of the projects for supporting old people at public expense anything that does as much for them as every man can do for himself, if he will. Even the contributory old age benefit plan of the Social Security Act does not provide for as large old age annuities as the ordinary man could buy for himself from any insurance Co. if he would pay out of his wages the same percentage that the Government now proposes to take from him in old age taxes. I am reminded of Bob Davidson, an Albany newspaper man, who died only a few years ago. Bob never earned more than $28 a week in his life, but when he died, after 40 years of work, he left an estate of $1,000,000. He had the qualities of thrift and self-denial, which are so repugnant to the folk who are now loudly demanding old age pensions which they have done nothing to earn.

Hamilton influence
Every time I pass Trinity Churchyard, in New York, I pause to look at the tomb of Alexander Hamilton, who died when he was only 47 years old. I believe no man in our history has exerted such a strong and enduring influence. I was impressed anew with that belief when I read the two opposing opinions of the Supreme Court in the AAA case.

It was Alexander Hamilton who first put forward and maintained the view that the taxing power of Congress under the "General Welfare" cause of the Constitution was unlimited. That view was bitterly contested by Jefferson and Madison, but every one of the nine justices of the Supreme Court upheld Hamilton, although they did not all agree on the AAA case on other points at issue. There is hardly a phase of our national development that has not followed along the lines and principles first laid down by Alexander Hamilton—who died at 47.

Money evil
J P. Morgan proved himself the other day a better student of the Bible than his partner, Thomas W. Lamont, who is a minister's son. Mr. Lamont remarked before the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs that "The Bible says money is not the root of all evil." Mr. Morgan corrected him. "It is the love of money that is the root of all evil, according to the Bible," he said.

Nine people out of ten misquote St. Paul, who never expressed any hatred of money as such, but was everlastingly right

Bringing HOME the FACTS

by BARBARA DALY

France is a portion of Utopia. I am reserving for my declining years. I hope some day to visit that land of bouillabaisse and crepe suzettes. When I do I'll make straight for Mont Saint-Michel. For there lived Madame Poulard. She it was who flipped omelets to a King's taste. If she didn't exactly mother the hen that laid the egg, at least Madame Poulard made culinary history when she flipped her first omelet. For her fame as an omelet maker spread far and wide.

An omelet can be tough and dry like Irish moss. Or it can display all the virtues of a new-laid egg, tender within, yet firm and determined without, yielding the promise of good substantial fare. Here's my method. Yours may vary a jot or so but on one point we'll agree. The eggs must be fresh. Two to a person and then one more. Drop a lump of butter into an iron skillet that has been polished clean as a teacup. Whisk up the eggs, with salt and pepper, and let them cook slowly and tenderly in the skillet, over a middling flame. When the eggs have acquired a firm glaze on top run the tip of a spatula around the curved edge. Flip one half the omelet over the other and gently lift to a hot platter. That's all there is to Madame Poulard omelet.

variety; a putty knife—for scraping anything from loose paint to chewing gum; upholstery tape—good for recalcitrant carpets that insist on curling up; an ice pick whose uses are too numerous to mention—grand for spearing and dipping candy.

A jug of ale or porter and a thick juicy beefsteak was common fare along the New York waterfront one hundred years ago. A sea captain, coming in hungry from a tussle with the elements, could drop in at any porthouse and order up a mess of beefsteak. It was the cut we know as "porterhouse" but called "roasting sirloin" at that time. Soon the vogue for short orders and a quick-cooking steak a la Porterhouse, spread, and butchers dubbed the choice top muscle, cut from the sirloin, Porterhouse Steak.

You like other cuts of meat besides Porterhouse? So do we. Some of the less tender cuts which make excellent steaks are chuck, shoulder, flank, round or rump. Three rules apply to the cooking of them if you would have tender meat. Low heat, added moisture and lid clamped on tight. Only the pedigreed Porterhouse Clan—sirloin, tenderloin, club and ribs short-cut, flourish uncovered, over live coals and without added moisture.

A little paint is the elixir of life to an aging ice-box refrigerator. A fresh coat of paint retards the penetration of heat by sealing the porous wood thus checking tiny beads of moisture which may form on the outside.

Overheard at a State Fair last Fall: "Town life for me is just like Chop Suey. Tasty if you feel strong."

If fault finding and criticism were left to those who have handled their own business and their own lives in a manner that they were an entire success, there wouldn't be so much of it.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theodor's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theodor's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

SATURDAY, FEB. 1ST, YOU ARE AGAIN ASKED TO DECIDE IF BEER AND WINE SHALL BE LEGALLY SOLD IN RUNNELS COUNTY.

Runnels County received $619.58 in liquor license fees in 1935, which is less than the cost of the December election. Is it worth the price?

It is estimated that one average gasoline service station pays more revenue to schools than the license fees on 75 beer saloons.

Four Per Cent beer is twenty-five per cent stronger than 3.2 per cent. It will train many a youth to become a drunkard.

rural schools are being consolidated, buses put here by the state to transport our children to the different schools where they may have the same opportunities to receive an education as others. Therefore we need to make it safe for them to go at all times by building better roads. I also would like to see our mail routes graveled which would benefit almost everyone in the precinct, however, I realize this cannot be done overnight.

"I expect to carry my campaign to the people in a clean, honest and straightforward manner, and will try to meet every voter in the precinct during the campaign, however, should I fail to see and personally solicit your support, I hope you will take this announcement as a solicitation of same. If elected, I promise you the best efforts within me in behalf of the precinct and the county.

Winters' First—

Burton believes it is near 500,000 miles.

His first salary was $58.50 for the twenty-three miles traveled. Route 1 changed six times in 25 years as other routes were added and with the changes his salary was increased to $73, $85 and $100 per month. After carrying the mail on his route a quarter of a century, he exchanged routes with A. E. Bell, carrier on Route 3, which increased his route to forty-two miles and his salary to $215. He served this route 4 years and 5 months. Good roads and the use of automobiles helped him to serve the route in from two to three hours.

As Mr. Burton retires, the routes will again be changed. Route 3 will be consolidated with route 2 and 4 and will be known as route 2. There will be no route 5, which will become route 3. L. T. Smith will carry the mail on route 2; Mr. Collins will take Mr. Smith's former route, No. 3; Hal Cryer, No. 4 and Clyde Burton, son of E. Burton, will carry the mail on route 1.

Mr. Burton who has spent much of his spare time in looking after his farming interests, plans to leave this afternoon for South Texas where he has property and will spend much time in fishing and looking after his winter garden now growing near Carrizo Springs.

Paid-in-Advance Subscriptions Not SUBSCRIBERS GIVEN THIRTY DAYS TO RENEW New Policy of Enterprise Managers

Our present policy of paid-in-advance subscriptions is not entirely a new one, but we are forced to adhere to strict measures to keep our mailing list a paid-up one. We have no favorites and our subscribers are urged to send in their renewals within thirty days after notice is mailed.

During the past few years when money was scarce and all of us were "in the same boat," so to speak, we were rather lenient and kept some of our subscribers on the list many months, with the idea that we were doing them a favor by keeping the paper coming until the time that they were in a position to pay us for past favors. Many subscribers appreciated this and have paid all past due accounts.

Our national advertisers require us to show a mailing list that is paid-in-advance and in order to secure business from them we are forced to discontinue all subscriptions not paid up for another year. If your paper is stopped, please consider it a strictly business matter where all are treated alike and not from the fact that we do not trust you for such a small amount as a year's subscription. Renewals will be taken for 3 months or six months, making it easy on those who cannot spare the price of a full year.

Notices are mailed out and subscribers are given thirty days to send in their renewals. After that date we consider that you do not want the paper longer and your name is dropped from our list.

FORMER RESIDENTS ARE PRESENTED NEW CALIFORNIA HOME.

Many friends here of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Proctor, who formerly lived in Winters, will be glad to know of their good fortune which happened recently. Their son, Avery Proctor, of Kansas, bought a lovely knotty pine home near Los Angeles, Calif, and presented it to his parents. Another son, Clay Proctor, furnished the home throughout.

Several acres surrounding the home are beautifully landscaped with large trees and shrubbery.

Since moving to California, both Avery and Clay Proctor, who will be remembered here, have been quite successfully engaged in the oil business and the presentation of the home to their parents is a commendable act.

Aggregate premiums this year total $2,578, a considerable increase over last year's total.

Improvements costing $4,500 are now being completed at the fair grounds.
