INVITATION TRACK MEET SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY

NEW FARM ACT SEEN AS BIG HELP TO AGRICULTURE.

HOPE OF CO-OPERATION IS EXPRESSED BY ROOSEVELT.

Washington, March 1.—Acting swiftly to get the AAA replacement program into motion, President Roosevelt announced Sunday that he has signed the $500,000,000 soil conservation subsidy bill which reached his desk late Friday.

A stroke of the presidential pen shortly before last midnight made the measure law, just fifty-five days after the Supreme Court invalidated the original administration plan for crop control known as the agricultural adjustment act.

In a statement Mr. Roosevelt said the new soil conservation and domestic allotment act represents an attempt to develop, out of the AAA efforts, a long-time program for American agriculture.

Apparently speaking to AAA's critics, the President expressed the hope that farmers would cooperate, despite the absence of signed contracts, in the new plan to seek parity "not of farm prices but of farm income, adding:

"They and we have not abandoned and will not abandon the principle of equality for agriculture."

Not Seen as Final Plan

While asserting that in general the law "follows the outline of a long-time policy for agriculture which I recommended in my statement of Oct. 25, 1935," Mr. Roosevelt added:

"I do not regard this farm act as a panacea or as a final plan. Rather I consider it a new basis to build and improve upon, as experience discloses its points of weakness and of strength.

"Aiming at justice for agriculture and self-interest for the Nation, the plan seeks to salvage and conserve the greatest values in human life and resources with which this Nation is endowed."

Chester Davis, AAA Administrator, and assistants who held conferences throughout the week-end on plans to speed the functioning of the new program, received from reporters their first word of the President's action.

They immediately issued a call for four regional meetings of farmers and farm representatives, at which details of the new set-up will be explained. The first two will be held at Chicago and Memphis next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The others will be in New York and Salt Lake City March 9, 10, 11.

Coincidentally, administration sources disclosed that a major objective under the new law will be the division in 1936 of from 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 acres of commercial crop land to soil conservation uses.

Subsidies to Farmers

The new law, various versions of which were introduced in Congress by Senators Smith (Dem.) of South Carolina and Bankhead (Dem.) of Alabama, and Representative Jones (Dem.) of Texas, authorizes up to $500,000,000 in Federal subsidies in any one year to farmers for soil conservation and economic use of land. The subsidies will be paid either directly or to States which set up approved programs. After two years the act would only be effective in States which have such provision.

President Roosevelt's statement listed three major objectives of the act which he said are inseparably and of necessity linked with the national welfare:

"The first of these aims is conservation of the soil itself through wise and proper land use. The second purpose is the re-establishment and maintenance of farm income at fair levels so that the great gains made by agriculture in the last three years can be preserved and national recovery can continue. Miriam Hopkins and Joel McCrea Teamed in "Splendor," New Film Which is Booked For Sun.-Mon.

PERILOUS THRILLS PACK "WOMAN TRAP," FAST-PACED DRAMA WHICH IS SHOWING TODAY AND SATURDAY.

A new type of Vanishing American—the fabulously rich and socially prominent leaders of New York's 400 is immortalized by Rachel Crothers in "Splendor," her thrilling romantic drama starring Miriam Hopkins at the Queen Theatre starting Sunday afternoon for a two day run. Glorious romance checkers stark terror in the new Paramount dramatic thriller "Woman Trap," which opens today at the Queen. College music and college thrills cleverly admixed with love and laughter make the comedy romance "Freshman Love," showing Tuesday and Wednesday, delightful entertainment. Joe Morrison, one of screenom's most popular singing actors, presents two new numbers in his latest starring role in "It's a Great Life," showing Thursday night only.

"Splendor" All that remains of the once-great House of Lorrimore is its fifth avenue mansion, dominated by the imperious and dominated old madam, Helen Westley, whose schemes to recoup the family fortune by marrying her son, Joel McCrea to an heiress are shattered when he brings home his pretty by penniless Southern bride, Miriam Hopkins. The story reaches a gripping climax when the selfish and ambitious dowager pushes the girl into an affair with a wealthy and influential man and wrecks her marriage. But love comes to the rescue and brings the young husband to his senses and the film fades out with the pair finding ineffable splendor in the prospect of facing the future together in a two-room flat. Prominent in the supporting cast are Paul Cavanaugh, Billie Burke, David Niven, and Katherine Alexander.

"Woman Trap" It tells of a frontpage reporter in quest of a big scoop. He has a roving commission to follow a gang of killers, fugitives from justice. Complications pile up when the reporter rescues a thrill-seeking girl from a plane floating on the water. She gets in his way, and into his heart; both are recognized by the crook chief, who coldly plots their murder, and bides his time. Thrills that leave one gasping are provided by the desert sequence, when the young couple ride to doom, surrounded by the desperadoes. Surprises abound, but the strangest of all is that which awaits the film fan at the end, when the crooks are caught in a trap of their own making. Gertrude Michael and George Murphy leave nothing to be desired in their roles.

"Freshman Love" Martial airs of the athletic field, sentimental love songs and peppy dance tunes are as much a part of campus life as the every day grind of the classroom and in this picture are so blended with a most whimsical and humorous plot as to make it delightful entertainment. It has a splendid comedy cast with Frank McHugh playing the part of the college coach. It is Patricia Ellis who throws a wicked eye at the famous oarsmen. Not only is she a capable actress, with a flair for comedy, but she sings exceptionally, one song by herself and one with Warren Hull, the radio star who has the romantic lead. Hull, who was both a musical comedy and radio favorite, is proving himself an excellent actor, having recently joined the film colony.

"It's a Great Life" Typical activities in the CCC are examined in detail by the camera through the background for the picture is secondary to the story's romantic aspects, involving Joe Morrison, Paul Kelly and Rosalind Keith. With these three handling the principal roles with Chic Sale cast as the patriotic old Civil War veteran and with three leading juvenile stars taking part you've got a picture that makes first-rate entertainment. Joe, who sings during the film, is the small-town boy who persuades his mother and grandfather to let him join the CCC because he can't find other work. Rosalind Keith is his childhood sweetheart and sole support of her motherless brothers and sisters. Morrison, enroute to camp, meets Paul Kelly, they become warm friends and the two join together. Kelly, a hobo, has no family to receive his twenty-five dol-

HELPFUL HINTS ON LANDSCAPING HOME Dressing Up For Centennial Year

Wherever possible in the beautification of the home, plants which are native to the locality should be used. When this is done, the entire setting will harmonize with the type of plant material that is found in nearby fields and woods and the home planting will fit perfectly into the environment. We assume, of course, that in every instance where native plants are used that proper arrangements will be made with landowners.

In recommending native trees and shrubs it would be well to say that experience has shown that only plants of medium size should be moved out of the wild and in order to insure success in moving, to select the plants during the fall or winter one year before they are actually to be transplanted, and at that time to dig around each plant with a "grubbing" hoe or a sharp spade for the purpose of cutting the lateral roots. To determine the distance from the main trunk to cut lateral roots, the rule is, "one foot from the trunk for each inch in diameter the trunk measures." When this is done, a large number of new roots are produced during the following summer and few plants will be lost as a result of transplanting.

Where the time element is an important consideration, and the plants cannot be prepared thus for transplanting, then all possible precautions should be taken to guard against losses.

The general rule to be observed in transplanting is that deciduous plants may be moved bare-rooted and "evergreens" must be balled and burlapped. In all cases the roots must be kept moist.

All preparations for moving the plants should have been completed beforehand. The hole should be two or three times larger than is actually necessary to accommodate the root system in order to give the plant a fair chance to live. Rich top soil should be worked carefully around the roots with the hands, additional top soil filled in and then firmly packed to prevent air pockets around the roots.

When the hole is almost full of soil a miniature dam should be made around it and the depression filled with water. The water should be permitted to soak into the soil. If the soil is inclined to be dry, the operation should be repeated several times. The soil forming the dam should then be raked in and the surface leveled. The latter soil usually is quite dry and forms a mulch over the wet soil beneath. The top soil should not be packed.

In the case of evergreens which have been secured with a ball of earth, place the ball in the hole at the desired depth and fill in around it with top soil and proceed as explained above.

In transplanting, set all plants at the same depth or preferably slightly deeper than they grew before.

Deciduous plants should be pruned at the time of transplanting. Approximately one-third of the top should be removed to compensate for the roots which have been balled and burlapped need not be pruned.

If native plants may be secured from a nursery, such stock is preferable because under nursery cultivation better root systems are developed.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me."... "Kept in Step with the Calendar" THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE

COOL WATERS

by Rex Beach

Final Installment
When Fisk cancelled their second reservation Gloria went to bed. There seemed to be nothing seriously wrong with her and in fact there was nothing the matter—except a broken heart. Race-horses are like that—they will run until their hearts break, until there is not another gallop, in them; and Gloria was from thoroughbred stock. The desert had beaten her.

A few days later Fisk wired to the port for the best doctor available, and the latter came up on a special locomotive. What the doctor said drove out of the husband's mind all thoughts of oil, of fishing jobs, of Homestake Number One. A nurse was secured as quickly as possible and meantime the physician stayed on.

Fisk did not return to the well; he hung about the house, a dumb figure of suspense. Gloria no longer knew him and that was terrifying. He was like a frightened child, deserted and alone. Every whisper that issued from her lips was like a knife-thrust. He did not sleep; his eyes grew bloodshot from the tears that came whenever he left the sick room.

The doctor and the nurse watched him closely and more than once they found him muttering words as senseless as those that fell from the sick wife's lips. He wildly cursed himself and the desert.

Nature finally exacted toll for the way he had cheated her, and although he ached intolerably for sleep, he arrived at a condition where he could not close his eyes; when he lay down his brain began to race and black fancies drove him sighing out of his bed.

One morning when the brazen sun rose over the hills and began again to pour its hatred into the valley, the doctor told him as gently as possible that the end was near and that he must prepare himself. It was merely a question of time now, a question of hours, when the tired heart would cease to function. Gloria was in no pain; further stimulants were useless, they would merely serve to hasten that inevitable moment when the weight of her lungs would prove too heavy for her feeble breath to lift.

Donald groaned. If only she would revive enough to recognize him, to give him one word, one look! He would know then that she forgave him. But for her to slip away without even a smile, a kiss—God, no!

"It isn't a case where any sort of medicine can do much good," the doctor explained. "I've had other cases like it. Nothing organically wrong, but—you understand! It's the country, I guess. The heat or the monotony or—hope deferred, maybe. We have a lot of it down here. If your well had come in, I'm sure she'd have rallied."

The husband sat most of that day in a trance waiting for his hideous dream to end. Sometimes he bowed his head in his hands, but the other watchers could not tell whether it was tears or sweat that ran down between his fingers. They fancied it must be the latter, however, for his grief was too abysmal for tears.

Late in the afternoon Fisk heard the little brown Goya children playing in the road. They were laughing! He groaned aloud. Children! Gloria and he had wanted children, but there again the desert had thwarted them. This was no country for white women. A man might as well lock his wife in a furnace and expect her to bear children.

So Gloria was dying! And he had killed her! He rose and creaked about the house, wringing his hands. His mental numbness was wearing off now and agony consumed him. His mind was galloping, running away, and he talked incessantly, but with a thick tongue and without finishing his sentences. Yes, he had killed her! He had staked her out on the blistering desert as the Apaches staked out their prisoners, leaving the sun to wreak its torture.

What was the doctor had said? If Homestake had come in she would have lived? Oh, there were devils in this valley! They were in the air, in the dagger points that armed the cacti and the bloodbushes. Yes, and other demons were in the rocks beneath the hills. These latter were the worst, for they collected in the bottom of oil wells and cut cables; they defected fishing tools; they filled threads and sockets with mud and grit. Malignant devils! The Homestake was full of them.

An insane determination took slow hold of Fisk. He went out and cranked up his flivver, mumbling to the nurse that it was necessary for him to go out and look after the job. Company affairs, he told her, wildly, had to proceed, even if girl wives died and their husbands went crazy with grief. Companies were like that—soulless and unfeeling—just like devils—great joke on company managers, wasn't it? They put in their lives, they sweated their souls white, and got—this. Damn all companies!

The car shot away and went rocking, pitching down the road.

McKay and his men were asleep when their employer arrived; he did not awaken them.

The desert moon was bright enough to read by, so he flung himself out of the car and picked his way to the shanty where the nitroglycerine was stored. The explosive was just as he had left it three weeks before; he carried it out into the light and poured it into the long tin container designed for lowering into the well. He worked swiftly and with no more caution than if he were handling so much lubricating oil. The torpedoes, when filled, he carried in upon the derrick floor; then he ran a thin manila line through a block, and the end of this he made fast to the first cartridge.

So! Those little devils would drop his tools, would they? They would wreck the well, bankrupt the company, and make him lose his boat, eh? Murderers, that's what they were. They had murdered Gloria. By Heaven! two could play at that game!

He let the long, shiny torpedo slip quietly into the casing mouth so as not to give them warning of what he had in mind.

McKay and his crew were awakened by a peculiar sensation; it was as if their beds had been lifted a few inches by the upward thrust of a thickly padded piston and then dropped.

"Hey! Who kicked my bunk?" inquired the driller as he sat up. A startled voice answered him. "That's funny! Me too. Did you fellows hear anything?"

One man had, an other hadn't. Somebody suggested an earthquake—anything was likely to happen in this accursed country. They were arguing stupidly in the dark when McKay spoke with all trace of sleepiness gone from his voice:

"Hark! . . . My God, listen!"

An instance, then he was out upon the floor and the others had followed him. They stood strained, alert. At first the hush of the desert was as complete as that of a tomb; then from somewhere came a long, sighing exhalation, not unlike breath issuing from the lungs of a wounded giant. It was an eery, penetrating sound close yet away; it came from nowhere, from everywhere, and it raised the hair upon the necks of the listeners. Together they tumbled out of the shanty.

There was nothing in sight except the Homestake derrick, a gaunt skeleton silvery by the moon; nevertheless that sigh grew, second by second, and as it continued it changed into a whistling moan, indescribably blood-curdling. The men realized finally that it came from the well. And yet that was impossible! The soil beneath their feet was trembling now; from the casing mouth issued a vibrating rumble, a rasping, grasping, gurgling roar.

Then before their staring eyes an amazing thing took place. Homestake Number One vomited into the night a geyser of black mud and water and broken stone. The burden came with a great retching, as if coughed out from the very vitals of the earth, but jolly enough, instead of diminishing, the jet mounted higher, moment by moment, along with the pitch of the sound that came with it. It sprayed up, up, climbing the eighty-foot derrick section by section, until the crown block was hidden. It stood there finally, a tremendous fountain belching its rage up towards the empty sky. There was the rush of many waters; the desert was drowned beneath a deluge; there came a raw penetrating odor of gas and petroleum.

Homestake Number One had come in.

The valley had flung off its suffocating shroud of heat; for a few hours at least there was respite. In the living room of the Fisk home the doctor and the nurse were talking quietly, soberly; occasionally they stopped and listened, for out of the night came a monotonous note like the hoarse blast of a siren many miles away. Finally through this irritating monotone came another sound the approaching rattle of a rickety automobile. The road was illuminated by the glare of headlights, then in the open doorway there appeared the figure of a man in dripping, oil-soaked garments which the dust of the road had rendered indescribably foul. His hair was matted his face was smeared, his shoes were sodden, and when he stepped they oozed a sticky liquid the color of tar. He had, it seemed plunged into a lake of oil, then rolled in dirt, for he reeked with the smell of crude petroleum.

It was Donald Fisk. He stood cowering upon the threshold; the whites of his eyes glaring wildly as he fixed his gaze upon the bedroom door; he tried to voice a question, but the dust was thick in his throat and he failed.

The doctor approached him, laid a hand upon his greasy sleeve, and spoke in a low tone: "She is—asleep!"

Fisk flung off the grasp, lifted a cry of despair. Gloria! Gloria! He clenched his grimy fists and shook them, he began to curse in a hoarse, horrible, croaking voice.

"Hush!" The doctor seized him again, struggled with him. "Man! You don't understand. She's asleep! She's better!"

Fisk comprehended nothing at first except the sharp admoni-

Parliamentary Drill Given at Club Meeting

Literary and Service club members met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. E. Nicholson for regular meeting and program on parliamentary law, with Mrs. W. E. Hickman as leader.

Discussing the question "How do the laws of our state protect women?" Mrs. J. M. Skaggs gave a paper on "Their Property Rights," Mrs. L. E. Low, "Their Children," and Mrs. A. J. Smith "Their Marriage and Divorce." Mrs. Charlie Chapman conducted the parliamentary drill.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS NEEDED AT LOCAL FREE LIBRARY

The Winters Free Library has just received two more books by donation: Mary J. Holmes' "Millbank," given by Mrs. Lizzie Hartley, and Appleton's "Tom Swift and His Chest of Secrets" donated by Ralph Hartley.

Both these books are for young people and during the summer months will be in great demand. Beginning this early in the season, perhaps the library will receive enough donations to supply the children with the wonderful knowledge that only books can furnish when means for travel and recreation are denied by circumstances over which the child has no control.

And right now it might be suggested that the growing child will not wait for the depression to end, and for his parents to become able to buy the books that are food for the mind and as necessary to balanced growth as food for the body. "Man Can Not Live by Bread Alone" should especially be applied to the developing child, and if he does not get food for his mind to develop along the right lines, he very likely will feed his mind with trifling or vicious thoughts. —Mrs. R. H. MacFarland.

YOUR BANKER IS YOUR FRIEND

A connection with a good strong bank that is able to know what your problems are, and is willing to help you solve them, is a part of good business. This is especially true just at this season when the help and understanding of the bank is often necessary to the success of the farm.

Financing the business of agriculture is an immense problem, and one which must be carried on in such a manner as to insure success for the borrower and safety for the funds of the bank's depositors.

Let us say at this new planting season that Intelligent Diversification and a Living at Home is the best basis for credit accomodation at any bank.

A DOLLAR GOES A LONG WAY

Well, Walter Johnson did it. There probably was more interest in this year's Washington's birthday celebration than in any previous February 22 in recent years. It was a bright idea of Congressman Sol Bloom of New York, to bet that Walter Johnson, famous former baseball pitcher and now a Maryland farmer, could not throw a silver dollar across the Rappahannock River.

Mr. Bloom had expressed doubt that George Washington ever performed that feat, which was related by his first biographer, Parson Weems. The good Parson only wanted to prove that the Father of his Country was a very powerful man. There isn't any other evidence that Washington ever threw a dollar away, either across the Rappahannock or anywhere else, but the story has persisted. Now Walter Johnson has proved that it could have been done. That is, provided the Rappahannock River wasn't any wider when Washington was a young man than it is now. It is 272 feet wide now at Fredericksburg, Virginia, but Mr. Bloom thinks he has evidence that it was 1320 feet wide in Washington's youth.

Mr. Bloom was also skeptical about the dollar story, because he said that dollars were not coined in America until after Washington became President. That is true, but he forgot that "dollar" is not an American word, but had been in use for centuries, and that the Spanish milled dollar, or peso, was a standard coin all over the world long before the American Revolution. So it looks as if Mr. Bloom had lost on all counts, and Walter Johnson has proved that even though he has quit big league baseball to become a farmer, he is still a mighty pitcher.

Some commentator once remarked that George Washington did an even tougher job than throwing a dollar across the Rappahannock, when he threw a sovereign across the Atlantic Ocean. Even Walter Johnson couldn't do that.

THE TVA DECISION

Everybody seems to be satisfied with the ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Tennessee Valley Authority case.

It reaffirmed that the Federal Government has full control over navigable streams and that this control involves the right to build dams and otherwise improve the channels of such streams to make navigation safer or easier. And that, as the Court put it, the Government then becomes the owner of the power generated by the waters flowing over the dams. Being the owner of the water power, it can sell the water power to whomever wants to buy it, either as water power or by converting it into electric energy.

The Supreme Court decision stopped there. It did not go into the question of the Government's right to set up a model community in the Tennessee Valley and go into the business of distributing electric energy at retail or doing other things for the betterment of the lives of the residents which have been announced as parts of the TVA program.

The Government's case as presented to the Court omitted all reference to the latter items. They likely will be brought before the Court in another action. What the decision will be remains for the future to disclose. So far as the TVA decision went it was clearly in accord with Constitutional precedents.

It seems clear from the language of the Court's decision that the Federal Government cannot go into the power business as a primary objective and so compete with privately owned utilities. It can only sell power whose production is incidental to the carrying out of another purpose, so far as the Court ruling goes.

It is difficult to see how the utilities can be seriously harmed, especially as they are probably in the best position of anyone to buy and distribute the power generated at Federal dams without going to the capital expense of building the dams themselves.

COMES THE DAWN — by A. B. Chapin

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, March 4 — With the new farm aid bill out of the way Congress is trying to get down to a working schedule that will let its members get away before the political conventions. A dozen or so highly controversial proposals, however, are bound to come up for discussion, and nobody can guess very accurately as yet what the outcome is going to be.

Senator Robinson, the Administration's leader in the Upper House, has announced that there are seven measures which he calls "live" bills whose consideration has been agreed upon by the Senate leaders. One of them is going to stir up a lot of debate. That is the rural electrification bill.

There probably will be even more excitement when the bill to regulate chain stores gets on the floor. This would prohibit producers and distributors of merchandise from selling cheaper to the chain stores than they do to individual retailers. It is one of Senator Robinson's pets, with Senator Patman actively interested. It will meet with strong opposition not only from the chains and from manufacturers, but from consumers groups and from newspapers. It has about an even chance of enactment as things look now.

Four "Live" Measures
The Coolidge bill to tighten the barriers against undesirable aliens and make their deportation easier is on Senator Robinson's list. It has a good chance. The other four "live" measures, as the Senate leaders see them, are the Capper stockyards regulation bills, Senator Gore's Panama toll bill, Senator Fletcher's bill to increase the capital of the Commercial Credit Corporation to aid the marketing of agricultural products and another Fletcher bill exempting from taxation all securities of banks held by the RFC.

Since the passage of the bonus bill less is being heard of the so-called "pressure groups" and their influence on legislation. "Pressure group" is just a fancy word for lobbyists. It does not imply bribery, necessarily, but the pressure groups work effectively upon the fears of members of Congress that they will not be reelected if they don't give these groups what they demand.

JOE GISH

NOTHIN' BOTHERS US SO MUCH AS THAVE SOME ONE INTERFERE WITH OUR LOAFING.

A short time ago one of the strongest pressure groups was the currency inflation bloc. It seems to be losing influence and its particular measure, the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill, looks to have a slim chance. The silver bloc, which was a very strong pressure group a year ago, is not so strong now.

Coughlin and Thompson
Father Coughlin, who has been the spearhead of inflation, is not the influential figure that he formerly was. He was a powerful influence before the extent of his following was known. Now Congressmen generally poo-poo the notion that he is actually able to influence any important body of voters, sufficiently concentrated in particular states or districts to influence the election of particular Congressmen or Senators.

The Townsend old-age pension bloc is a case in point. Outside of a few spots on the map its strength is not yet sufficiently concentrated, or at least so the leaders in Congress believe. The impending Congressional investigation into the Townsend movement is expected to disclose its real strength. But it will have the effect of postponing any possible action along Townsend Plan lines until next session, if ever.

One of the shrewdest political observers here remarked the other day that the one pressure group which seems to be missing is the "economy bloc." Congress wants to keep on spending money, but shies like a frightened colt from the shadow of tax projects necessary to provide the money to spend. The boys on Capitol Hill all know that they have got to enact some new tax measures this session, to appropriate a lot more cash for direct relief on top of WPA. The strongest pressure group of all is perhaps the one composed of governors of states and mayors of cities who insist that they cannot take care of the destitute without Federal aid after April 1, when direct Federal relief theoretically comes to an end.

Distribution of Federal funds through relief agencies, public works, the bonus and farm relief checks is expected to keep retail business humming until after election eyes, general business will improve rapidly.

Presidential Talk
Discussion of Republican Presidential candidates is on every tongue in Washington. Governor Landon's apparent popular lead steadily increases. Whether he is too far out in front is being debated by his friends and his opponents. It is pointed out that four years ago, in February, Franklin D. Roosevelt was away out in front of all the contenders for the Democratic nomination, and he was the party's nominee. It is doubtful, however, whether Governor Landon has at his command the well-organized machinery for gathering delegates which Mr. Roosevelt had at that time.

Legion Awards Certificate of Distinguished Service to Representative H. B. Sessions

A certificate of distinguished service to Texas was received last week by Hon. Horace B. Sessions, representative of this district in the state legislature. The certificate came from the American Legion, department of Texas, and was really a token of appreciation for his co-operation in establishing the American Legion sponsored Texas Memorial Museum as a part of the educational system of the state and as a Texas Centennial feature attraction.

The museum is to be erected on the southwest corner of the University of Texas campus and will be a permanent structure. It is to be financed by the sale of Centennial coins, which were recently authorized by the federal government. The sale of the coins has been started. Fifty cents out of each dollar spent for the Centennial half dollars will be used in financing the project.

fessional political observers here are now saying that the Republican nominee will be "either Landon or a dark horse." Talk about a "dark horse" usually brings up the suggestion of Justice Roberts of the Supreme Court. Senator Vandenberg seems to be emerging from the dark-horse class into that of a regular contender.

BRUCE BARTON Says:

THERE ARE OTHER WORLDS

A man who made some money without work, and therefore thinks he knows everything, was recently delivering himself on the subject of religion. He dismissed the idea of immortality as mere superstition, the yearning of children afraid of the dark. "Of course, there is no other world," he said.

To which a friend responded quietly: "You yourself have already been a resident of another and very different world. The world in which we now have our existence is a world of alternating periods of sunlight and dark; it is a world wherein human beings draw air into their lungs and expel it, eat and drink through their mouths, and walk around on their own legs. For nine months you lived inside your mother's body, in a world where there was no light, no air, where no nourishment reached you through your mouth, and you were moved about on other legs than your own. Suppose an embryo were endowed with intelligence and imagination. How could it ever form any notion of this outside world? Wouldn't any description of it seem absurd? Wouldn't the embryo say, as you have just said, 'There can be no other world?'"

The smart man is still thinking up his answer.

Just before I left the house this morning I held a conversation with a member of my family in the presence of our dog. As we talked, his little head swung back and forth, his round eyes looked first at one of us and then the other, trying so hard to understand. He dwells in the same house, eats the same food, breathes the same air that we do. But what we say and do and think and hope is utterly beyond his comprehension. He and we are citizens of two different worlds.

I have friends who live in worlds which I never have been able to enter. They see values in pictures my eyes can not see; music speaks to them in a language I do not understand; they have spiritual experiences which never have come to me. When I am in the presence of the best of them I have no difficulty in believing that there are possibilities of human life far and above our highest imaginations. Even beyond and above the mystery called Death.

THE SHOW IS A FLOP

When the tension between England, France, and Italy was at its highest point recently, the French veterans sent an appeal to their Premier not to make war on Italy. They said that armed conflict with the soldiers who had been their brave allies was unthinkable.

Now this is a very interesting development in history. In times past the veteran used to sit around the tavern, relating his deeds of courage and urging the young men to prepare themselves for the day when they too would fight.

The veterans of the World War went back to their respective countries with no impulse to boast; memories were graven on their hearts that never can be erased; modest, quite, tight-lipped, they have kept their war stories to themselves. In almost every country they are now leaders in the cause of honorable peace.

The young people who come to my house tell me that in all colleges and schools the anti-war sentiment is very strong. Does this mean that modern youth is less courageous than its forbears? Not at all. It means that the whole world is coming to realize that war as it used to be and war as it is are two entirely different things. There may have been glory in hand-to-hand conflict; there is no glory in long-distance slaughter.

The age-old road-show called War has lost its following. Today the scenery is worn and tattered and spotted; martial music has lost its magic, the costumes and the well-worn lines of the principals seem to belong to the years of Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model. The show is a flop.

On Texas Farms

Mount Pleasant—D. H. Payne, 75 year old farmer living in the East Side community in Titus county, grew a one-half acre truck garden during 1935 that netted him $111, according to D. R. Ralph, county agricultural agent.

On his one-half acre, Payne grew fresh vegetables which included cabbages, Irish potatoes, tomatoes, onions, corn, butter beans, cantaloupes, black eyed peas, white corn, field peas, cucumbers, carrots, squash, string beans, beets, turnips, mustard greens and English peas. Payne stated that the total expense for seed, plants and work other than his own cost $50. From the sale of his vegetables, he received $161. Deducting the $50 expense, Payne made a net profit of $111 on his truck garden.

New Braunfels — Beginning 25 years ago, Edgar Pantermuehl, farmer in Comal county began the systematic construction of rock dams across a natural drain through his field of 65 acres, according to George E. Ehlinger, county agricultural agent.

In the course of years, he has constructed eight of these dams, building them about five feet high through the middle of the wash, and about 200 feet long. "This work," Ehlinger said, "has resulted in all the dams filling up with soil off the field, and as Pantermuehl expresses it, the only decent part of the field is that built-up area between these dams."

These dams worked into a terracing system whereby terrace lines were run from each end of the dams, leading all water into this center drain and over the dams, according to the county agricultural agent.

Sinton—In order for her chickens to have green grass all the time, Irene Mattingly, 4-H club girl from San Patricio county, has her chicken house in the center of the chicken yard and fencing on each side, thus dividing the yard into two parts, according to Appolline Cobb, home demonstration agent.

One side is sowed with oats and the other side has a good turf of Bermuda grass. Irene has a flock of 12 white leghorn pullets and one cockerel.

Bastrop — Seven inches of leaves with some well rotted barn yard fertilizer is being placed on the rose bed and shrub beds of Mrs. L. A. Kunkel, member of the McDade Home Demonstration Club in Bastrop county.

"These leaves," according to Mrs. Kunkel, "will protect the plants this winter and will form a mulch for working in the soil next spring. The leaves will also help the soil to hold moisture during the dry months next spring and summer."

Mrs. Kunkel did the same work last fall and she had shrubs and roses all summer and fall.

Alice—Majorie Warkentin enrolled in the Premont Girls' 4-H Club in October and already has radishes, lettuce and carrots in her garden, according to Ernie Wines, Jim Wells county home demonstration agent.

She has collected 20 cents from the sale of radishes. The lettuce is forming heads and the carrots will soon be large enough to eat.

Majorie Warkentin is 11 years old and this is her first year in club work, according to the agent's report.

Pearsall — Some 800 acres of Rhodes grass will be planted in Frio county during 1936, as a result of a 10 acre demonstration plot seeded by Sam Johnson in 1935, according to N. H. Hunt, county agricultural agent.

A good stand was obtained on eight acres. At first three head of cattle were placed on the grass, then five head, and finally 10 head before any appreciable notice was made of the cattle keeping the grass down.

Sam Johnson reported to the county agent that during a dry period in early summer, the Rhodes grass was the only grass which was green.

"Because of the excellent showing made on this demonstration," Hunt stated, "the Rhodes grass acreage in Frio county will be greatly increased."

Kountze — J. J. Fountain, living 12 miles south from Kountze in Hardin county, is finding a ready market for his smoked sausage at 40 cents per pound.

According to W. P. Barrett, county agricultural agent, Fountain made up three hogs just before Christmas and sold the entire lot during the holidays at his front gate. He also disposed of all ribs and backbones and most of his surplus lard in the same manner. Fountain lives on State Highway 40.

Newcastle — "My terraced farm of 160 acres produced more corn and feed stuff, as well as cotton, in 1935 than it did 25 years ago when it was virgin land," T. J. Routon, farmer in Young county, recently stated.

The land was terraced last winter under the supervision of B. F. Vance, then Young county agricultural agent. As a result of this terracing, Routon is terracing all the rest of his farms.

Searching questions are being asked of would-be gardeners by J. F. Rosborough, Extension Horticulturist, as the gardening season opens.

No cross examining lawyer can beat Rosborough when it comes to this questioning business—"Were five loads of manure applied to each half acre of your garden?" he asked (if not, rotted manure, leaf mold or rotted gin burs can still be applied, he says).

"Has the garden soil been plowed six inches deep?"

"Where there is excessive rainfall, is the garden ditched to prevent water standing?"

"In areas subject to wind damage, has a wind break been provided?"

"Is your garden large enough to provide 600 feet of row for each member of the family?"

As a reminder Rosborough never forgets to say that for each person in the family there should be 175 feet of potatoes; 150 feet of tomatoes; 150 feet of mustard, cabbage, carrots, green beans, or other leafy green and yellow vegetables; and then there should be 125 feet of such vegetables as onions, beets, and radishes.

Beeville—Annie Butts, garden cooperater of the Normanna 4-H Girls' Club, planted 6,325 feet of vegetables last year for the family garden, according to the annual report of Lorena Yates, Bee county home demonstration agent.

Twelve varieties of vegetables making a balanced diet were grown by Annie. She has canned for the family 711 containers.

Also Miss Yates reports that 38 girls grew gardens in Bee county. A total of 14,445 pounds of vegetables were produced for home consumption. The value of all the gardens grown by these Denton, March 5.—New suggestions for any meal are welcomed, but perhaps most important are those for the lunches carried to school by the children.

A cold lunch of sandwiches, cookies, and perhaps some fruit may become very monotonous and lacking in proper nourishment unless carefully considered.

The sandwich is indeed the most important item since it is easy to pack, easy to eat, and stands up well for a few hours when properly made and well-packed. The following are suggestions for sandwiches selected for low cost, nourishment and variety. They might well be used too for luncheon at home for Sunday night supper.

Creamy Cheese sandwich: For a soft, well-flavored cheese sandwich, so much more appealing than the dry plain one, make a thick white sauce of 2 T. shortening, 2½ T. flour, 1-3 tsp. salt, 1 c. milk. Add 1-4 cup grated yellow cheese while sauce

Bay City—"That an appreciation for native shrubs is being developed in Matagorda county can be seen by the number of yard demonstrators, accompanied by their husbands, that have been found recently in the woods with spades and sacks for balling and burlaping shrubs." Leola Cox Sides, home demonstration agent, reports this month.

She reports that youpon, cherry, sweet bay, cedar, Indian holly and coral berry are being used extensively for transplanting.

Muleshoe — "We know what sub-irrigation will do so that is why we have made enough tile for the whole garden this year," said Mrs. G. P. Howell, cooperater in the Enochs Home Demonstration Club in Bailey county.

Two years ago, Mr. Howell laid 795 feet which sub-irrigates every shrub in the yard. He used old worn out pipe and cut a hole every 12 inches. Mr. and Mrs. Howell made 2,000 feet of additional tile this spring for one and one-half cents per foot.

Carrizo Springs—A. L. Sebesta, county agricultural agent, reports that year after year more farmers in this county are using inoculation on their cowpeas that are used as cover crops.

He states that he has found in practically every case, the vine growth, health and increase in growth will nearly double that of uninoculated seed.

"One alfalfa grower in Dimmit county has found it useless to try to grow this crop without inoculation," according to the county agricultural agent.

Wheeler — "Forty-one seed crops were grown as a part of terracing demonstrations in 1935. Jake Tarter, Wheeler county agricultural agent, reported in his annual check-up.

"These 41 seed crops produced an average of 54 per cent more seed per acre than the same crops grown on adjoining farms that were unterraced. Some of these crops were grown by the same producer. All field crop demonstrations in the county were demonstrations of conservation of soil moisture and soil fertility," his annual report said.

The county agricultural agent also reports that 116 farms were terraced in his county during 1935 which amounted to a total of 11,670 acres terraced and 800 acres chiseled. The total value of this work was estimated at $117,600 which included the renovating of 16 tractors, 44 implements and 16 plows.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Proves Washington's Dollar Throwing Feat

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. . . "Big Train" Walter Johnson, one of baseball's pitching immortals, proved that the legend of George Washington having thrown a silver dollar across the Rappahannock river here when 11-year old; was entirely possible. In two out of three attempts here on Washington's birthday, Johnson threw silver dollars across the 272 foot stream. His throw was 317 feet.

is hot. Add 1 cup mashed tomato pulp. Chill and use generously as a sandwich spread.

Ground meat sandwich: The richness of corned beef, minced ham, or cooked liver may be improved as well as increased when mixed with a thick boiled dressing of: 2 egg, 1-2 cup water, 1-2 cup vinegar, 1 tsp. salt, 1½ T. flour, and 1 cup ground meat. Chopped eggs may be added when not expensive. Use as a binder for chopped corned beef, minced ham, liver, or other highly flavored meats.

Carrot-Raisin Sandwich: 1 cup finely ground carrots, 1-2 cup ground raisins, 4 T. peanut butter. Combine ingredients and spread on whole wheat bread.

Cottage Cheese Sandwich: 1

cup cottage cheese, 1-2 cup of ground raisins or cooked prunes. Mix together in a paste and spread on whole wheat bread.

Dried Fruit Sandwiches: Chop dried fruits, such as prunes, raisins, peaches, pears, or apricots. If very sweet jelly is used add a little lemon juice. Mix with jelly to make a paste. An inferior jelly that has failed to jell is even better than a firm one. Spread on whole wheat bread. This sandwich may be substituted for cookies and fresh fruit as a sweet item in the basket.

Liver Butter Sandwiches: Grind left-over cooked liver or cook raw liver by simmering in a little water. Put through the food chopper, discarding all stringy portions. Rub to a paste in a mixing bowl. To each cup of liver paste, add 1-2 tsp. salt, 1-4 tsp. celery salt, 1 T. melted butter, 3 T. tomato catsup or chili sauce and 1 tsp. onion juice.

Ice Box Cookies: 1 1-4 c. shortening, 1 c. brown sugar, 1 c. granulated sugar, 3 eggs, 1 tsp. cinnamon, 1-2 tsp. salt, 4 1-2 c. flour, 1 1-2 tsp. soda, and 1 c. nut-meats.

Cream shortening thoroughly, add the sugar gradually, then the beaten eggs. Mix well. Then add the dry ingredients, which have been sifted three times and mixed with the nut meats. Pack in a mold or form into a roll. Wrap in wax paper, and leave in the refrigerator overnight. With a sharp knife slice as thin as possible, lay on an oiled cook sheet, and bake for 12 to 15 minutes in a moderate oven until a golden brown. The dough for these cookies may be kept in a cold place and when needed may be quickly cut and baked.

New Farm Act--

third major objective is the protection of consumers by assuring adequate supplies of food and fiber now and in the future.

Preparing to ask Congress next week for taxes, of which $500,000,000 will replace invalidated AAA processing levies to finance the new program, Mr. Roosevelt continued:

"The Federal Government, with an annual expenditure far less than the actual yearly wastage of fertility by erosion in the past, will make grants of money to farmers, conditioned upon actual evidence of good land use.

"Thus, in carrying out the soil conservation plan, there will be provided a positive incentive to and protection for those who voluntarily shift from soil-depleting surplus crops, such as cotton, corn, wheat and tobacco, into erosion-preventing and soil-building crops, such as grasses and legumes, of which there is no surplus.

"This will help to bring about and maintain a healthy supply and demand situation from farm commodities and will have a beneficial effect on farm prices and farm income."

The President emphasized that there would be no contracts with farmers. Such contracts constituted one of the Supreme Court's objections to AAA. While saying that such absence of production control might make impracticable the attainment of parity prices, Mr. Roosevelt said he is "confident that the farmers, co-operating with the Government, will work hard within existing legal limitations to achieve the new law's goal, which is parity, not of farm prices but of farm income.

The statement added, significantly:

"They will not abandon the principle of equality for agriculture."

To Benefit Consumers Asserting that consumers would be benefited as well as farmers, the President reminded that "in years of surplus consumers may lightly take for granted the continuance of adequate supplies of food and fiber; but the recurring dust storms and rivers yellow with silt are a warning that nature's resources will not indefinitely withstand exploitation or negligence.

"The only permanent protection which can be given consumers must come from conservation practiced by farmers."

Praising the act's provision for State-Federal co-operation in the soil program, Mr. Roosevelt said that would mark a further application of the principle of shared responsibility.

Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Coward returned Wednesday to their home at Caddo after a few days visit in the home of Mrs. W. A. Pace. Rev. Coward is the pastor of the Baptist church at Caddo.

Rep. H. B. Sessions and Mrs. Sessions of Ballinger were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Jones Tuesday evening and attended the Lions Club banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wright had as guests Sunday, Mrs. Wright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Roberts of Fort Scott, Kansas; her brother, Edwin Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Liggett, all of Fort Scott, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Spencer, Jean and Jerry Spencer of Albany.

Friends here will be glad to know that A. Krauss, who has been a patient in Memorial hospital at Houston for several weeks, is improving rapidly and it is thought he will be able to return to his home here in a few weeks.

Mrs. R. L. Verner and Mack McElreath of Fort Worth were week-end guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Campbell. Mrs. Verner is a sister of Mrs. Campbell.

B. G. Owens returned home Monday from Sanger where he had been called to the bedside of his brother-in-law, E. W. Melson, who is critically ill. His sister, Mrs. Lula White, who accompanied him, remained in Sanger at Mr. Melson's bedside.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dunnam spent a few days this week in Fort Worth visiting their daughter, Miss Devena, who is attending a nursing school in that city.

Judge B. C. McCasland of Tulsa, spent a few days the first of the week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pike McCasland, and transacting business here.

Some folks want jobs without work.

Some folks want jobs without work. They want the recurring dust storms and rivers yellow with silt are a warning that nature's resources will not indefinitely withstand exploitation or negligence.

"The only permanent protection which can be given consumers must come from conservation practiced by farmers."

Praising the act's provision for State-Federal co-operation in the soil program, Mr. Roosevelt said that would mark a further application of the principle of shared responsibility.

"The history of every nation is eventually written in the way it cares for its soil," he continued. "The United States as evidenced by the progressive public opinion and vigorous demand which resulted in the enactment of this law, is now emerging from its youthful state of heedless exploitation and is beginning to realize the supreme importance of treating the soil well."

AAA officials said the program will be put into operation first in the South, where planting in the cotton area starts soon.

SAN ANGELO FAT STOCK SHOW TO OPEN TOMORROW

GOVERNOR ALLRED TO LEAD THE HUGE PARADE.

San Angelo, March 12.—Featuring a huge parade of which Governor James V. Allred will be the grand marshal and the Hardin - Simmons University Cowboy Band, Abilene, the official rodeo band, the Fifth Annual San Angelo Fat Stock show and rodeo will open here Saturday morning. Between 2,000 and 2,500 animals will be shown from a score of West Texas counties.

In the parade there will be more than 200 persons on horseback. Old time horse-drawn vehicles will also be seen in the parade.

More than 40 rodeo contestants have already arrived here for the afternoon performances that are to be held daily in connection with the show and it is expected this year's event will attract around 40,000 persons.

Arrangements for bringing the Cowboy Band here were completed last week. This band has recently played for the Tucson, Arizona, fat stock show and rodeo but in years past has played for rodeos in Chicago, Madison Square Garden, New York, and has toured the North American Continent and England and Europe.

The band has also been contracted to play a week's engagement at the Texas Centennial, Dallas, and will tour the state advertising the Centennial. The band is one of the best known rodeo musical organizations in the United States.
