CHURCH OF CHRIST REVIVAL MEETING BEGINS SUNDAY

Winters to Dress Up For Centennial Visitors; All Clubs Invited to Co-Operate in City Beautification Plan

WINTERS HOME DEMONSTRATION TO SPONSOR MOVEMENT; PLANT EXCHANGE IS BEING HELD AT CLUB HOUSE TODAY.

Through the efforts of T. D. Coupland, secretary of the Board of Community Development, and the cooperation of the entire citizenship, Winters will dress up for visitors coming to the Centennial celebrations. A city and rural beautiful program has been launched.

Two representatives from the Literary and Service club, Mrs. E. D. Stringer and Mrs. Harris Mullin, two Diversity club members, Mrs. John Q. McAdams and Mrs. Roy C. Maddox, accompanied Mr. Coupland to Coleman Friday of last week to attend a civic meeting and heard plans discussed by Jac. L. Gubbles, landscape artist for the highway department. Other speakers of the Brownwood district also discussed the beautification of Texas cities and highways.

The state highway department is cooperating with towns in beautifying highways leading into each town and where a certain shrub or plant is adopted the highway department will use a like planting on the outskirts of the town. Small roadside parks are being beautified along the highways where visitors may stop for a brief rest or slow down for a view of natural setting which has been beautified.

Although Winters started rather late to plant shrubs or roses, it is time now to plant perennials or annual flowers which will add much to the beautification.

Mr. Coupland has asked the Winters Home Demonstration club to sponsor the city beautification program and all clubs of the city and home demonstration clubs have been invited to cooperate in a plant exchange to be held at the club house today, Friday, March 20.

As chairman of the Home Economics Training of Sixth District T. F. W. C., Mrs. Charlie Chapman, is cooperating with the other organizations in an effort to make the plant exchange the most successful ever held and Winters the city of flowers and attractive homes.

Garages and filling stations are urged to plant flowers and otherwise beautify their places to make them attractive for visitors who will stop. Every available spot of soil that can be planted should have flowers blooming by the time the Centennial opens.

All those who have surplus plants of any kind and would like to exchange them for other

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Cramer and family returned home the first of the week, after a week's visit with their daughter, Mrs. Allen Adams, at Arp. Mr. Cramer had spent the previous week in Fort Worth where he was a witness in a suit pertaining to cotton.

ROADS DISCUSSED AT THE LIONS CLUB LUNCHEON TUESDAY

An east-west highway, from Coleman through Winters and on to Sweetwater was the topic of a round-table discussion at Tuesday's Lions Club luncheon.

In short talks, every member present added his endorsement to this particular project.

Jno. Q. McAdams gave a report of a meeting in Sweetwater recently, at which Harry Hines, chairman of the State Highway Department was present. Mr. McAdams reported the highway chairman very favorable to the project, and favorable action on same is expected in the not too distant future.

T. D. Coupland was in charge of Tuesday's program.

er plants, are asked to bring them to the Home Demonstration club house today (Friday). Those who do not have any plants for the exchange should not feel a hesitancy in coming and getting plants that are needed. Take them to the club house today and get what you need in exchange.

COTTON CHECKS TOTALING $6,965 TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Thomas B. Hill, assistant in cotton adjustment in County Agent J. A. Barton's office, Ballinger, released the following for publication yesterday:

"The County Agent's office at Ballinger has received instructions that Subsidy payments will be made to all producers turning in Cotton Sale Certificates on cotton sold. Applications which the producers have to sign before they can receive payments are being prepared in this office. In order to put the producer to as little trouble as possible, we are planning on taking these applications out in the different communities of the county to be signed. Only the producers that made applications for cotton tax exemption certificates are required to sign the application for subsidy payment. This subsidy check will be made out in this applicant's name and he will be held responsible for the division with other parties interested.

"A schedule of the days that we will be in the different communities will be mailed to each person that is required to make application for subsidy payment.

"This office received 147 rental checks and 122 Parity checks on March 13th, totaling $6,965.52. We are expecting other second rental and Parity checks in the near future, as there are quite a few producers who did not receive their checks before the AAA was declared unconstitutional on January 6th. Producers who placed certificates in the Special Pool in the summer of 1935 will be paid for the amount sold which was approximately 44 per cent.

"We have not had any report from the 1935 National Pool as to the amount of the certificates that were sold. The only report we have received was that sale of these certificates was stopped on February 1st and as soon as reports were received from the various counties of the United States, that payments would be made to producers for the amount that was sold at the rate of 4c per pound. Producers having certificates in the Special Pool will be paid 5c per pound.

"On the days that we are in the field taking applications for subsidy payments we will give the farmers all the information we can in regard to the new Farm Program. At this date we have not received any official information on the new program."

TO BRING SHOW HERE

Harley Sadler

HARLEY SADLER IS COMING TO WINTERS 3 DAYS NEXT WEEK

TENT THEATRE MAKING CENTENNIAL TOUR OF TEXAS.

Making the Centennial year tour of Texas, Harley Sadler and his company, will be in Winters for three days next week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and are billed for Ballinger the last three days of the week, opening in Ballinger Thursday night.

Appearing in a new tent theatre, the most elaborate ever built, with a $5,000 sound equipment, Mr. Sadler will present all new plays and the vaudeville will include the Fox Sisters, all star comedy quartet; Whitehouse Twins; eccentric dancers, crooners and many other novelty acts, also Bob Keheley and his 12-piece band.

Two local talented entertainers, Annette and Janette Tucker, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Mord Tucker, will appear in special numbers during the engagement here.

The opening play will be "The Auction Block," a red-headed "Toby" play with lots of Harley Sadler comedy. Ladies will be admitted free on opening night with one paid adult ticket. During the engagement, Mr. Sadler will present his masterpiece, the Centennial year feature, "The Seige of the Alamo."

The tent will be located in Winters on the lot west of the Abilene & Southern railway station and the company is showing here under the auspices of the Board of Community Development.

LICENSES SHOULD BE SECURED NOW TO AVOID RUSH

Deputy Collector Carl Henslee said yesterday that it would probably be impossible for him to take care of the rush during the last few days of this month of those people who have not yet secured their car and drivers licenses.

Mr. Henslee is very anxious to serve the people of this territory who must secure these licenses during this month, and if people would attend to this matter now, they would save themselves the trouble of the anticipated rush during the last few days of the month.

Enforcement officers of the state have their instructions to proceed against all those owners of cars running after the first of April without the new 1936 license plates and also all those drivers who are operating cars without personal drivers licenses.

If you would avoid the rush and inconvenience attendant upon the last few days of the month, you should secure both license plates and drivers licenses today.

BEDFORD ACQUIRES PARTNER'S INTEREST IN LOCAL BUSINESS

Announcement was made yesterday that W. G. Bedford had acquired the interest of E. A. Shepperd of Abilene, in the local Shepperd & Bedford insurance agency, and that hereafter the business will be carried on in the name of W. G. Bedford. The office will continue to look after the personal business of Mr. Shepperd in and near Winters.

Speaking yesterday concerning the acquisition of the business, Mr. Bedford said: "It is my purpose to carry on this business on the same sound principles followed for many years by Mr. Shepperd personally and more recently by our partnership.

"One of the insurance companies I represent uses this slogan, 'Consult your agent as you would your doctor or lawyer.' I have studied a great deal in order to be prepared to give sound advice on insurance, loans and real estate matters. In soliciting a continuance of the favors accorded the old firm of Shepperd & Bedford in the past, let me take this occasion to say that I want to be that 'agent whom you consult.'"

HINES FAVORS WINTERS EAST-WEST HIGHWAY

FAVORABLE DECLARATION IS MADE AT S'WATER.

At an all-civic club gathering of more than 200 persons last Friday at Sweetwater, Harry Hines, chairman of the Texas Highway Commission, expressed himself as being in perfect sympathy with the idea of connecting Sweetwater, through Winters, with Coleman, and asked that Nolan county secure right-of-way in that county for the road immediately.

In conference with the Runnels county delegation, Mr. Hines was assured that this county would provide right-of-way for the project whenever he wanted it.

Visitors in attendance from Abilene, Albany, Ballinger, Big Spring, Blackwell, Bronte, Coleman, Colorado, Hamlin, Lorene, Maryneal, Midland, Merkel, Roscoe, Roby, Rotan, Snyder, Winters and Divide; Runnels county being represented by County Judge Paul Trimmier and J. D. Motley of Ballinger, Commissioner Joe Mapes, Jno. Q. McAdams, and T. D. Coupland of Winters.

George Sheppard, state comptroller, spoke briefly on the progress Texas is making with its gasoline tax. Mr. Sheppard introduced Chairman Hines as "an unassuming man, but one who enjoys responsibility and is honest—a man with a vision."

Annette and Janette Tucker, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Mord Tucker, who have been quite ill were reported late yesterday to be improving and expected to be up in a few days.

WILMETH WILL STAGE AMATEUR SHOW AT QUEEN

Wilmeth school will sponsor the Amateur stage show at the Queen Theatre next Tuesday evening for the benefit of the school ball club.

Several rehearsals have been held and from all indications an excellent program will be rendered. Some real talent will be seen when the amateurs give their show in singing, dancing, reading and the playing of musical instruments.

WOODIE HOLDEN OF HAMLIN TO PREACH AT THE SERVICES

SERVICES WILL BE HELD TWICE EACH DAY OF REVIVAL.

Revival services will begin Sunday morning at the Main Street Church of Christ and will continue for nine days. Woodie Holden, minister of the Hamlin Church of Christ, will do the preaching and services will be held each morning and each evening during the week.

Brother Holden is a young preacher and is exchanging his services with L. R. Mickey, local pastor, who will go to Hamlin next month for a series of revival services. Both ministers are former students of Abilene Christian college. Mr. Holden graduated with the class of 1934.

Having spent last year in evangelistic work in East Texas and this year as pastor at Hamlin, Bro. Holden is doing splendid work and is one of the outstanding young ministers of the denomination.

Pastor Mickey announces services for next Sunday as follows:

Sunday morning Bible study, 10 o'clock; Young People's class Sunday evening at 6:45; Ladies Bible study, Monday evening at 3 o'clock. Preaching services each morning next week at 10 o'clock and each evening at 8 o'clock.

Good crowds and fine interest are expected during the meeting.

JEWISH EVANGELIST WILL DEMONSTRATE PASSOVER SUPPER

SERVICE WILL BE HELD AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

From Sinai to Calvary, or "How a Jew Found Christ," will be the subject of Joseph Cohn, Jewish evangelist, at the First Baptist Church, Sunday night beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The evangelist will give a demonstration of the Passover Supper as observed at the time of Christ. The demonstration will be in family group setting with unleavened bread, bitter herbs, silver pitcher of wine, candle holders in silver and gold, silken robes worn in Palestine, and the scene will be enacted as it was observed nineteen hundred years ago by Jesus and the apostles.

Joseph Cohn has gained considerable recognition as a Jewish Christian evangelist. During the past 17 years he states he has won around twelve thousand souls to Christ. He was led to accept Christ 17 years ago at Charleston, S. C., by Dr. C. C. Coleman, at one time pastor of the First Baptist church, Abilene. He was baptized in the Citadel Baptist church, Charleston, one of the famous churches of the country.

Evangelist Cohn is author of two books, "The Jew and Christianity," and "The Christian Jewish Tragedy."

THE NEW FARM AGENCY WAS HERE YESTERDAY

J. A. Barton, the new Runnels county farm agent, was a visitor here yesterday.

Mr. Barton announced that Mr. Eulady, dairy specialist of A. & M., would be in the county next Tuesday, the 24th, and would hold a meeting of those interested in dairying and trench silos, at the Geo. Kemp dairy, three miles south of Ballinger on the San Angelo road that afternoon, at which time the trench silo on Mr. Kemp's farm will be opened.

Farmers and others of the county interested in dairying or trench silos are urged to attend this demonstration, Mr. Barton said.

AMERICA Liberty

Every once in a while I feel like waving the American flag and giving three cheers for Uncle Sam. What set me off this time is the last two or three decisions of the Supreme Court, especially the one in which the Court reasserted the rights of the press to free expression without restraint by any government authority.

Of course, the press is responsible if it prints libels or scurrilous matter of any kind; but the Court pointed out again that no power exists, either in Congress or the states, to say in advance to any newspaper "You may not print that."

It seems to me that the very roots of all our liberties are bound up in this liberty of the press. The first thing a dictator does is to suppress or regulate the newspapers. We will never lose our liberties as Americans so long as anybody can set up a printing press and tell the people the truth about what is going on.

RADIO rights
I agree with my friend David

Lawrence that radio broadcasting should be as free as the newspaper is. As things stand now, there is a Federal commission in Washington which has power to say what may and may not be broadcast. I don't know that that power has ever been abused, but it ought not to exist. Radio, like the press, ought to be permitted to say anything it wants to say—and should be punished, like the press, if it uses indecent or profane language or utters a libel reflecting falsely against the character of any person.

In the long run, truth always prevails. Sooner or later those who try to deceive the people are found out. In the meantime, I am for letting them all talk as long as anybody wants to listen.

OPPORTUNITY today

One thing that makes me feel patriotic is the frequent instances I encounter of young who have found opportunities to get ahead in the world and make something of themselves when all around them folks were wailing that there were no opportunities left for the young.

There are greater opportunities than ever for young people of character, who are willing to work. Six young friends of my daughter, all of them under 30, were at the house the other night. All of them have had to make their own way in the world and all have made good in spite of these years of depression.

One girl is breeding dogs and making a good living at it. One young man is getting along by collecting and selling metal from discarded automobiles. Two of the girls started a laundry three years ago, specializing in washing baby clothes. They run three delivery wagons now. Another boy and his brother have turned their taste for amateur photography to account, and do a good business in photographing business men in their own offices.

Opportunity gone? Not a bit of it.

HISTORY and us
At a dinner party in New York the other evening one of the guests, a Frenchman, asked me a question about American history, which I was, fortunately, able to answer.

"I've been in your country two years now," he said, "and the longer I stay, the more I am impressed with the durability of your American institutions. You have been running now for 150 years or so under a system of government which has enabled you to become the greatest people in the world. Over in Europe we have changed every principle of government many times. I'm still a Frenchman, but I like your system better than my own country's."

"Since Washington became President of the United States, France has had five different kinds of government. Our present Republic is only sixty years old. We throw out our Cabinet and President every little while. We think we know a lot, but one thing which we haven't learned and Americans have is how to govern ourselves."

Somebody—I don't know who—once said that "self-government is better than good government." I think he was right.

FREEDOM ours

I met a man the other day who has just moved from Nebraska to New York. The same day I called on a friend who was moving his office from New York to California. Next morning came a letter from a friend I had last heard of in Chicago, telling me about his new job in Texas.

There isn't any other country in the world where people have so much freedom to move around as they please. There are no

The Woman's Angle

The de-bunking of history goes merrily on. Most recent puncture of a favorite fable is the discovery that Marie Antoinette did not say "Let them eat cake" when told that millions of French peasants were starving for want of bread. Competent authorities now point out that the word used by the Queen, who lost her head for it was "brioche." And a French barriers to travel or employment from one end of the country to the other. Nobody has to have a passport or a police permit to go 3,000 miles, if he wants to; nobody cares where he comes from if he knows his job.

Those conditions exist nowhere else in the world. In Europe a man may live for years in one house and work at one job; but when he moves into the house next door or changes his employment, he has to report to the police, or be fined if he doesn't.

"brioche" is about as much cake as a Scotch scone, an English muffin, or an American biscuit. Brioche and coffee is the classic Continental breakfast and, like the English muffin, is finding increasing favor in this country as a welcome change from the endless repetition of toast. You'll find recipes for the English muffin, Scotch scone and French brioche in your up-to-date cookbook. All are easy to make, simple and nutritious.

When making cracker crumbs for breading, first put the crackers in the oven and allow them to get good and crisp. Then roll them with a rolling pin so they will be fine and soft. Keep in a pan with waxed paper for a lid.

How do you wash your face?—That sounds like a trick question, doesn't it? But cosmeticians tell us that how we wash our faces is of great importance in preserving the beauty of smooth, fine-textured skin and clear complexions. Never scrub the face, and never use hot water. To do so enlarges the pores and embeds particles of soap and grit into the skin. The best method is to make a creamy lather of soap suds on your wash cloth and wipe it gently over the face, using tepid water. Then, as gently, rinse it all off and follow this with a final rinse of cold water to close the pores and act as a mild astringent.

Get Rid of Poisons Produced by Constipation

A cleansing laxative—purely vegetable Black-Draught—is the first thought of thousands of men and women who have found that by restoring the downward movement of the bowels many disagreeable symptoms of constipation promptly can be relieved. . . Mr. J. P. Mahaffey, of Clinton, S. C., writes: "I have found that Black-Draught is very effective in the cleansing of the system. When, affected by the dull headache, the drowsiness and lassitude caused by constipation, I take Black-Draught."

The Washington Whirlpool

By Fraser Edwards

Washington, D. C.—Strange as it might seem on the surface, Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas, "horse and buggy" candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, is rapidly becoming the "favorite son" of the Democratic high command, as well as the fair-haired boy of Wall Street interests.

In the face of the nation-wide building-up ballyhoo for Landon as the strong, silent man of the Republican party, Democratic strategists may appear to be a little soft in the head when they pray for Alf's nomination. But they have figured all the angles and the answer to the seeming paradox is that they deem Landon the most vulnerable of the G. O. P. candidates. They are confident they can lick him to a frazzle.

While the Democrats refuse to concede any Republican a Chinaman's chance of election, they believe Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, would come closest to giving President Roosevelt a real tussle in November, if he could get the nomination. But "Big Bill" might win all the primaries while Landon is pussy-footing for delegates and then find himself flattened out by the Old Guard steamroller in the Cleveland convention.

In view of their conviction that the Old Guard is setting the scene to give Landon the nomination, the Democrats are elated that he should emerge in his true colors—as a representative of the Old Order. This "Coolidge of the West" is regarded by the Democrats as reactionary as the Coolidge of the East ever was. The Democrats feel sure the people never will consent to a return of the political philosophy which says to those who have no bread—"let them eat cake."

The tip-off that Landon is to have the backing of the fat boys in the front offices down in Wall Street, came when Charles D. Hilles, G. O. P. National Committeeman from New York, sent an emissary to Kansas to give Alf his blessing. Hilles is a living symbol of the Old Order and is known in the political world as "the bridge to Wall Street."

The selection of Landon by these fine-feathered friends is none too flattering in some respects. Many of the "Big Shots" in Wall Street have abandoned hope of defeating Roosevelt. These long-headed gentlemen are laying plans for 1940. By nominating a Westerner, whom they expect to take a drubbing, they will be in a position four years hence to say, "Your boy had a crack at it, now give our Eastern man a chance." And if by chance Landon should luck out they will feel secure with a "safe man" in the White House.

If Hilles' endorsement was not sufficient evidence of Landon's support by the great financial and industrial interests, all doubt was dispelled when the red-headed and energetic John Hamilton, Kansas national committeeman, resigned as vice chairman of the Republican National Committee to devote all his time to promoting Alf's candidacy. Hamilton sees eye to eye with the Old Guard and naturally National Republican Chairman Henry P. Fletcher bid him God's speed on his mission.

Hamilton will spend much of his time pirouetting around the East fixing up deals for Landon. He also will be busy as a bird dog in the South where the Republican party exists for patronage and pelf. Southern Republicans, sensing the direction of the political wind, already are clambering aboard the Landon bandwagon.

On top of all this came the announcement of former Senator Walter Edge of New Jersey, who is close to the Standard Oil of New Jersey, that he will do his utmost to land the Jersey delegation for Landon. Then Gov. Frank Merriam of California, a hard-boiled Old Guarder of the first order, came out for Landon. That put Herbert Hoover, the first choice of the Democrats for the Republican nomination, definitely out of the running. Hoover's friends hoped for a California delegation favorable to the former President. They had visions of the Cleveland convention turning to Hoover if the delegates got into a dog fight over Landon, Borah, et al.

Because Borah is as strongly opposed to the Wall Street crowd as Roosevelt, the Idaho senator's backers will be in a sense allies of the Democrats, if Landon is nominated. They intend to tell the world that birds of a feather flock together. By the time the Cleveland convention is held, they expect to have Landon's budget balancing act pretty well debunked. That is Landon's ace card and if the Borah people trump it, the Kansan will have nothing left to play. Only steamroller methods can save him.

Naturally, the Democrats are holding their fire until after Alf is nominated. Meanwhile, they are gathering ammunition to blast him. They already have a compilation showing how the Roosevelt Administration took the burden off the shoulders of Kansas and thus enabled Landon to balance the state budget.

In the last three years, the grand total for all costs of state and local governments in Kansas was $302,000,000. During that period, the Federal Government has given, granted or loaned to Kansas and its citizens, and otherwise spent within the state, more than $460,000,000.

In other words, enough money has been paid into Kansas by the Federal government in one form or another during the time the Roosevelt Administration has been in power to pay not only all the indebtedness of the state of Kansas but all the indebtedness of its local subdivisions, including counties, townships, cities and school districts, as well, plus enough to pay the tax bill of the state and of its local subdivisions in the past three years.

It is little wonder that Landon made his plea for re-election on the ground that he had cooperated with the Roosevelt Administration and only he could get more money out of the Federal government.

While Landon has demonstrated his ability as a tight-rope walker he is in a tight box right now. Unless he calls a special session of the legislature to raise taxes to pay Kansas' share of social security benefits, the old folks in the Sunflower State will lose their pensions.

But Alf is loathe to call the session because new taxes would knock his "balanced budget" into a cocked hat. Moreover, it would raise a wet and dry issue, which Landon would like to soft pedal. If put up against the gun, Landon would be forced to assume his dry stand and that would do him no good in a big way with the wringing wet states of the East in the presidential campaign. So Alf is between a chill and a sweat.

The "stop Roosevelt" movement has blown up. Former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, Al Smith ally and arch foe of the New Deal, has abandoned his attempt to round up an anti-Roosevelt delegation to the Philadelphia convention from the Bay State. When the Roosevelt forces made a clean sweep in the New Hampshire primary, the first of the political season, Ely said in martyred tones: "One lone Democrat can't lick $4,000,000,000 and he is foolish to try."

Down in Georgia, America's champion "I" man, Gov. Eugene Talmadge, has come to more grief. It may be a result of his "safe-cracking" methods of government. After firing the state treasurer, the Cracker Dictator had had no money to run the state so he called for an acetylene torch crew to burn down the doors of the state treasurer's vaults. Here he obtained money which had been legally earmarked for highways and other purposes and attempted to use it for general revenue purposes. The act did not go over so big with the Georgia people.

Talmadge succeeded in having the presidential preferential primary test between himself and President Roosevelt called off in Barrow county, but he could not prevent the test in Harris county. Unofficial returns from 12 of 16 precincts gave Roosevelt 1387 votes to 35 for Talmadge.

Raymond Moley, one-time No. 1 Brain Trustee, has come out against President Roosevelt's tax plan in an editorial in the magazine, Today, which is owned by Vincent Astor. Astor is the head of several close corporations and if the program to tax undivided surpluses of corporations is enacted by Congress, it would make a powerful difference in young Mr. Astor's tax bill.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, arch-critic of the New Deal, is not counting on President Roosevelt or any member of the Cabinet as speakers at the annual convention the last week in April. The President addressed the convention in 1933 and called upon hundreds of business men to raise wages. With relations decidedly strained last year he declined to speak but sent a message warning against "rocking the boat." This year, it will be "just another convention" to the President.

Democratic spell-binders soon will be on the hustings asking President Roosevelt's famous question—"Are you better off this year than you were last year?" A partial answer was contained in reports of two governmental agencies—the Department of Commerce and the Federal Reserve Board.

The Commerce Department reports that business activity in major activities indices was higher in January and February of this year than the corresponding months of 1935, while the Federal Reserve Board report shows department store sales 13 percent higher in February over the same month of 1935. Secretary of Labor Perkins stated that industrial employment mounted 31 percent between April 1933, and December 1935. At the same time she said industrial payrolls increased 61 percent.

The impending House investigation of the Townsend Old Age Pension Plan has failed to relieve members of the jitters. Congressmen from Western states where the Townsendites are strong fear the inquiry will come too late to be of much help to them. The inquiry was initiated at the instance of the gentlemen who found themselves on "the spot." They hoped to be able to prove that the old Dr. Townsend and his associates were making a profitable racket out of the old folks. If that could be shown conclusively, the plan would be discredited and its political potency destroyed.

Politics always has been a strange phenomenon in Pennsylvania but one of the queerest quirks has come up in connection with the candidacy for Congress of Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of former Gov. Gifford Pinchot of the Keystone State. She is now living in Washington, is a legal resident of Pike county, Pennsylvania, but proposes to run for a seat in the House of Representatives from a Philadelphia district.

The financing of the meet, in the way of purchasing medals, which were gold and silver and pennants, the following candidates for public office made contributions: Harry Tom King; Homer Traylor, Tad Richards, S. H. McAdams, R. A. Middleton, Ross Miller; Sam Curl, H. J. Bradshaw, Otis Miller, A. A. Heatherton, Jess Hamilton, E. D. Davis, A. J. Hood, H. H. Webb, J. L. McMillon, Mrs. Dorothea Griffin, J. R. Black, Burl Jones Fryar, J. W. Pool, Burl Wheeler, C. L. Darden, Tom McGhee, W. P. Bounds, John Camp, Esco Walter, Mervin Meeks, J. Bryan Bradberry, Belle Wellborn, M. S. Long, Marvin Jones, Lindsey Walden.

Hopkins Wins Dollar-Throwing Contest

At the close of the meet, a silver-dollar throwing contest was staged, it being remembered that George Washington and Walter Johnson threw dollars across the Rappahannock river, a distance of 317 feet. Therefore, to gain admittance in the Washington-Johnson Dollar Throwing Club, a person must be able to throw a silver dollar a distance of 317 feet or more. The following parties threw the dollar the following distances in the presence of several hundred witnesses, and the distances were measured with a steel tape:

George Hopkins, coach of Wingate School, 424 feet 4 1-2 inches; Jimmie Craft, 356 feet; "Kid" Brown of Wingate, 325 feet 8 inches; Mack Wells, 329 feet 5 inches.

Billie McCasland, 335 feet; Clarence Ledbetter, 322 feet 11 inches.

Notwithstanding a group of more than a hundred people were at the far end of the throwing field, the first two dollars thrown by Hopkins went so far over the crown that they were lost and not recovered. In the third trial, the crowd got back a distance of 500 feet and Hopkins' throw was thus witnessed and measured.

Each winner was presented with a silver dollar, and certificates were prepared and forwarded to Walter Johnson for his signature.

Smash Hit is Registered by "Stars Over Broadway" Which Comes to the Queen Sat. Night. Sun.-Mon.

BRILLIANT PORTRAYAL IS GIVEN BY SYLVIA SIDNEY IN "MARY BURNS, FUGITIVE," SHOWING TODAY AND SATURDAY.

"Stars Over Broadway" which is coming to the Queen Theatre for the first time Saturday night in a mid-night prelude, is a musical comedy that is sky high in entertainment. "Mary Burns, Fugitive," starring Sylvia Sidney, is a gripping romantic drama of an innocent girl hunted by the law, which is showing today and Saturday. "Anything Goes," the screen presentation of the famous Broadway hit of the same name, with Bing Crosby, Charlie Ruggles and Ethel Merman, is the feature film for Tuesday and Wednesday. Tuesday night is also Wilmett amateur night. Kathleen Norris' newest and best love story "Navy Wife" is showing Thursday only.

Saturday at 11:30 p. m. "Stars Over Broadway," Warner Bros' new musical comedy drama, which will be shown at the Queen theatre takes the audience behind the scenes of broadcasting stations and night clubs in one of the most entertaining and tuneful pictures to come to the screen in many a long day.

One of the most amusing spectacles in the film is an amateur radio hour conducted by Frank Fay in which will be heard every sort of "unheard-of" musical instrument and almost every kind of voice.

Pat O'Brien in his characterization of a Broadway theatrical agent down on his luck, who accidentally picks a man with a great voice and rises to fame with its possessor, gives his finest performance.

Melton, famous radio star, who plays the part of a porter who leaps to fame almost over night, proves that he is not only a great singer, but an accomplished actor. This is his first film production.

The picture also serves to introduce another radio star, Jane Froman, to the screen in the role which she enacts in real life. Jean Muir sings her first song for the screen, proving she has a talent for music as well as acting. With O'Brien she supplies the love interest of the production, although their romance runs anything but smoothly.

Much of the humor is supplied by Frank McHugh, as the pal of Pat O'Brien, who is quite over-zealous in plugging songs for the firm that employs him.

Thursday Only
A thrilling love story set in a background entirely new to the motion pictures—the medical and nursing corps of the United States Navy—"Navy Wife" comes Thursday.

It stars Claire Trevor, while Ralph Bellamy, one of the screen's popular young actors, has the romantic lead opposite Miss Trevor. Others who have prominent roles are Warren Hymer, Ben Lyon and Jane Darwell. It was adapted from Kathleen Norris' popular novel, "Beauty's Daughter."

Miss Trevor enacts the role of a nurse in the Navy medical corps who is embittered against marriage by the failure of the marriage of her divorced parents. Despite her resolve never to fall in love, she loses her heart to Ralph Bellamy, a young Navy doctor.

Bellamy, still in love with his dead wife, proposes to Miss Trevor, telling her frankly that he admires her and believes she will make a good mother for his crippled daughter. She accepts his extraordinary proposal in the belief that such honesty will be conducive to a successful marriage.

"Mary Burns, Fugitive" Crammed with action, thrills and romance, "Mary Burns, Fugitive," starring Sylvia Sidney, which opens at the Queen today, is a swift-moving, soul-stirring drama, a distinguished photoplay

On Texas Farms

Roses are a feature of Grimes county rural yard improvement since 228 home demonstration club women put out 4,325 rose bushes last spring.

A rose garden placed for enjoyment when in the outdoor living room is part of the landscape plan of Mrs. Sam Inglet, yard demonstrator in Montgomery county. Soil, into which one third as much well rotted manure and leaf mold was spaded was prepared for this rose bed.

Rose cuttings set out by Mrs. J. E. Manning of Dallas county last spring have developed into bushes almost equal in size to three year old plants. Mrs. Manning attributes this to the thorough preparation given the soil before she planted the cuttings. Rotted straw and manure were plowed into the bed until the soil was very loose. It retained its moisture all summer for this reason.

Pruning is something many rose fanciers argue about. Mrs. O. B. Harkey, yard demonstrator in San Saba county prunes her radiance roses this way—she selects four to six of the very best shoots and cuts out all of the rest. Then she prunes the selected canes to from six to 12 inches high.

Newcastle — Sixty-five and one-third bushels of corn were sold for $1.17, per bushel by feeding it to beef cattle, states Charles Blancett of Newcastle, Texas, in Young county.

Blancett put five head of steers in the feed lot with an average weight of 700 pounds and a total value of $175. November 1, 1935. These steers were first put into a field of hegari which was well headed, and were given the full benefit of this for 30 days. They were then put into the feed lot and fed a ration of corn, bundles and cottonseed meal.

The total amount of feed consumed in addition to the five acres of hegari which was hogged down as 3,300 pounds in bundles, 4,704 pounds of corn, 440 pounds of heads and 980 pounds of cottonseed meal. The total feed cost including the feed grinding was $106.25. Total marketing expense, including trucking and selling commission was $18.68, making a total expense of $124.93.

The steers at completion of the demonstration weighed an average of 992 pounds and sold for seven cents per pound bringing a total of $347.20. The total profit above the initial value of the calves plus all the expenses was $47.27 which added to the price brought the total sale value of the corn up to $1.17 per bushel instead of 45 cents which was the amount Blancett could have received by selling on the market.

Canyon — George E. Mason living in the Highland School of first class entertainment. Providing Miss Sidney with a part that is distinctly her meter, "Mary Burns, Fugitive" emerges as an emotionally powerful, tensely dramatic photoplay, packed with romance and adventure all the way. In the title role, Miss Sidney gives one of the finest performances of the year as an innocent girl, hunted by the law and relentlessly pursued by a former sweetheart gangster.

Running a close second for acting honors are Melvyn Douglas and a promising young film find, Alan Baxter. Both give splendid portrayals in widely different roles. Douglas, cast as a wealthy, famous scientist, temporarily blinded, who falls in love with Miss Sidney, brings a finesse and dignity that characterizes this able actor. Baxter, playing his first film part, displays ease, poise and acting ability.

Bing Crosby Coming
Bing Crosby is coming to the Queen Tuesday and Wednesday in "Anything Goes," a Paramount presentation of the musical comedy which was such a pronounced success on Broadway. It abounds in tuneful songs, comic scenes and a set of parodies on the "You're the Top" hit which are riotously funny.

Bing Crosby heads the cast of favorites in a role that affords him an unrivaled opportunity to display his versatile talents in song and comedy. He sings and clowns to one's heart's content. Assisting in the general merriment are Ethel Merman, known everywhere as the Broadway rhythm girl, Charlie Ruggles, Grace Bradley, and Ida Lupino.

community in Randall county bought a farm level in 1935 to lay off contour rows for his row crops, according to B. A. Zorps, county agricultural agent.

On 160 acres that Mason planted in milo, his average yield was nine bushels per acre. His neighbors, some of them harvesting only the best parts of their field, averaged from five to six bushels.

Big Spring—A well built concrete cellar with shelves on two sides for storing canned goods has been constructed by Mrs. G. W. Overton, 4-H pantry demonstrator for the Overton home demonstration club in Howard county, according to Miss Mayme Lou Parr, home demonstration agent.

The entire cellar is concrete lined and white-washed, with the shelves painted white. This makes the cellar very light, and it is possible to read all labels on the cans easily. A well balanced canning budget has been followed, providing sufficient leafy, starchy and other types of vegetables.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jones went to Big Spring Friday for a visit with their daughter.

PAINT HEADQUARTERS

PROMENADE DECK

by Ishbel Ross

SYNOPSIS . . . A luxurious five-month cruise around the world aboard the "Mareina" brings together a group of passengers for adventures, romantic, entertaining . . . and tragic . . . Like in "Grand Hotel" these passengers offer a study in human actions and reactions which unconsciously bare their souls . . . These characters are aboard the ship; Macduff, dour Scotchman, single, of middle age; Miss Mudge, school teacher, spending the savings of 20 years; Angela, faithful wife of Lovat, gigolo; Dick Charlton, first officer; Clare, a person of experience; Joan, a dissipated flapper; Jenny, runaway wife and Peter; Captain Baring, master of the ship . . . and his soul . . . NOW, GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SECOND INSTALLMENT

A slight girl strode past with a youth at her heels. She was all in yellow, and her pale gold hair burned in the day's afterglow. Dick's glance swung from Clare's opulence to the figure in primrose, moving with the careless grace of inexperience.

"Ingenué!" commented the chief officer, his gaze settling again on the figure beside him.

"Yes"—she darted a fast look at him—"and how one has to protect oneself from the young!"

He looked at his watch. It was half-past five. "Sorry. Seamen must work. No time for dalliance now."

"But now is always a lovely time." Clare stretched languorously in the depths of her deck chair.

Dick swung along the deck, a tall, blue figure tacking against the wind.

Clare watched day melt into night. She could see Macduff roaming up and down, puffing his pipe. "I wonder if I could make him talk," she speculated idly. But he looked so forbidding that she decided to leave him alone and go down to dress.

In three days Clare had begun to hear the histories of some of her fellow passengers. She knew that the woman with silver hair, sitting to her right, was taking her husband around the world for his health. Clare decided that her face suggested an interesting past, although gloom was blotting her out for the time being.

At the next table, like a modernist doll propped beside a dowager, sat Patty Arundel. Patty had summed up her fellow passengers with the hard disfavor of twenty. She thought them old and stuffy. Clare she regarded as a Victorian siren, a silly woman who did not know that love was never mentioned by name between two modern young people. "Sticky!" thought Patty to herself.

"Johnny"—Patty raised her voice—"there goes Mrs. Langford."

She found that she was not drawing Johnny's attention to Clare—it was already there. He blushed slightly, surprised in his own thoughts. He had just arrived at the conclusion that he had never seen such lovely curves, and what was it that lurked in those yellowish eyes? Johnny was fresh from college; his father was sending him around the world before he settled down to being a broker. Patty was fresh from Vassar, and she didn't fall in love with every youth who danced well or beat her at tennis. Johnny was on probation, but failing greater excitement, he seemed a god-send on the Mareina.

"Johnny!" This time her voice was imperative. "You're mooning. Give me your attention, all of it, and another dry Martini."

"Forgive me, Patty. My wits are wandering. Here, steward, two dry Martinis."

"I was wondering what you thought about Mrs. Langford, but now I shall not ask you."

"If you really want to know, I think she's a knock-out," said Johnny, with surprising fervor.

Patty snuggled deep in her leather chair and looked a little moodily at the figure in gold. What a lovely gown! She wished that she knew what men could see in women who were as transparent as glass to their own sex.

Patty's thoughts were interrupted by the sudden appearance of her aunt, who had walked over to their table to pick her up. She was small and slight, carefully groomed and faintly bored, a woman who knew the worst and the best that were to be had from life.

"I shall want one, two, three, four, possibly even five dances tonight," said Johnny, jumping smartly to attention in deference to Patty's aunt.

"Try to get them," retorted Patty, as she slipped through the door.

Johnny lingered over his cocktail, reflecting that it was luck to have found a girl like this. Clare walked at his table on her way to the dining-room, leaving a trail of perfume that made Johnny's nostrils contract with excitement. Wonder what she was doing on this trip, and who her husband was. Probably a divorcee. He would soon know, for it seemed that everything was getting about—too much so for his taste. It rather sickened Johnny, the way people talked—the men in the smoking-room, the women on deck. No one would have a scrap of privacy left by the time they had reached India.

Macduff was walking out and the bar was clearing. Johnny decided that it was time to go down to dinner. The orchestra was playing as he entered, and the boat was rolling so much that he staggered on the way to his table. He had drawn agreeable dining companions—a loose-boned Westerner, Bill Laird, with a charming wife whom he teased unmercifully. Bill was getting a reputation already for being the practical joker of the boat. Patty waved blithely across the room.

"Not feeling well?" enquired Bill, solicitously.

"Never felt better," said Johnny. "If you want to try a remedy on some one, you'd better watch out for Patty Arundel. She threatens to be sick whenever the boat rolls."

"Oh, Mrs. Langford!" Bill shouted, half an hour later, seeing that Clare had finished dinner and was passing out at a leisurely gait. "Join us for coffee and liqueurs."

She had already had some deck-chair conversation with the Lairds and liked them both. Drawing in his lazy way, Bill introduced Johnny, who jumped to his feet and stood staring down at her in a tongue-tied manner. They all went upstairs to the salon and settled down to wines and cigarettes. Clare chatted idly and Bill baited her, but grew bored when he failed to find resistance in her shallow retorts. She had no repartee, but her voice had a husky note that Johnny found alluring. He talked to Mrs. Laird, but kept his eyes glued on Clare. She ignored him most of the time, but when the dancing began she slid into his arms, and he suddenly knew that she had been thinking of him all the time. She danced divinely. Her hand felt alive in his clasp.

"I think I'm going to enjoy this trip," murmured Clare. I've been seeing you about the boat. You're very strenuous, aren't you? Tennis, swimming, games."

Clare smiled and her hair brushed his chin. He had never held a woman in his arms who magnetized him like this. It was not like dancing with the girls he knew at home. Johnny began to feel like a man of the world.

At last he gave her up reluctantly, for the music had come to an end. It was hard to wait for his next dance with her to begin. Patty had come into the room with her aunt, but he had forgotten that she existed. She had found other partners and was dancing now with Dick, the chief officer.

Dick danced with the swing of the sea, and entertained Patty by telling her about some of the things she would see on the trip. The third time he danced with her he suddenly saw that she was not listening to a word he was saying, but was looking over his shoulder with the expression of a hurt child. With the next turn he could see why—Mrs. Langford was drifting in a sea of self-intoxication, her wide lips an inch from the cheek of the boy whom Dick had seen pursuing Patty around the decks ever since they had sailed. So that was the way! Well, a good thing it had happened quickly, before she had got fond of him. He swung her hastily down the other side and out for a breath of air. The promenade deck was enclosed with glass, and she suggested that they go still higher. "I should love to feel the wind on the top deck," she said. They climbed up the companionway. Patty hugging her white fur jacket around her thin frock.

The moon was a crescent swung on a chain of diamonds, and the waves dashed foam against the bow. Patty had a dim idea that the woman in gold hovered like a shadow between a care-free yesterday and an ominous tomorrow. It was the look in Johnny's eyes that had appalled her. How did a woman make a mere boy, whom she scarcely knew, look like that?

Dick kept quiet, preserving a sympathetic air. He was thinking: "A lovely child, but she's in for more of it, if she feels that way about the boy. It's just another case of what the sea does to a woman."

He felt her clutching at his arm; all of a sudden she had decided to go down to her stateroom. Telling him to let her aunt know that she had gone to bed, Patty went below and tried to read. The type danced before her eyes and she wondered if she were getting a little seasick. When her aunt came in, she found her fast asleep.

"Bertrand Russell's Marriage and Morals," said Mrs. Minton, picking up the book and covering her gently. "The child is growing up."

The Mareina lay at anchor at Villefranche, her flags strung like a garland of autumn leaves over the sapphire stretch of the bay. Monte Carlo was snugly tucked in the green curve of Monaco. After eleven days at sea, Macduff blinked at the brilliance of the scene before him. He had his own plans for the day. He would give Monte Carlo a wide berth and stretch his legs in one of his favorite walks. He had a poor opinion of the place and had never tossed a penny on the table. Any time he went to the Casino, it was simply to see what fools human beings could make of themselves over a gambling-wheel.

He strode along, with his arms swinging like windmills. More passengers were getting on at Villefranche. That was a pity. There were altogether too many on board already. Things seemed to be happening on the ship, some of which he did not altogether approve. Soon they would all be bickering, where now they were gushing and flirting. It was bound to turn out that way when people saw too much of one another.

He hoped they wouldn't get another Mrs. Langford on board; one of her kind was enough. She was beginning to get under his skin, spoiling his pleasure on the top deck, always up to her tricks, and now roping in the American boy. Macduff thought that his sex should be protected from such influences. The Foster girl was showing up badly, too. He never went into the bar that he did not find her there. The high jinks of the boat extended even to his own alley, where a diamond merchant across the way was continually entertaining women in his stateroom.

He came down off the break-water and followed the road to the Italian border, stopping at a restaurant that stood on stilts in the sea.

The short Riviera day was passing, and the chill of three o'clock was creeping in from the sparkling waters. It was short-lived at its best, warm and vivifying, but swift in its decline. He remembered that he had to be on board the Mareina by seven. He might motor back to Monte Carlo and take a turn in the Casino to see what his fellow passengers were doing . . .

Hot and stuffy inside, as usual, with an annoying buzzing of subdued voices, like a swarm of bees zooming in a distant grove. The merciless lights dug seams in weary faces. He thought he had never seen so many pairs of tired eyes. Wherever he looked he could spot some one from the Mareina, but very few were throwing counters on the tables. They were a cautious lot and ill at ease. He was surprised to see Miss Mudge—little Miss Muffet—tossing two counters on the baize with quite a flourish. He would watch to see what happened. The wheel spun round. The croupier raked up her counters. She looked anxiously at his pasty face, not quite sure which way her luck had gone, but he did not raise his eyes from the table.

MARCHES ON!

A 1926 model car popping along is certainly a true picture of a "has-been." Contrast it with the streamlined models of today. Compare its performance. It fades out of the picture . . . outmoded and obsolete.

And so it is with gas ranges. In their manufacture science and engineering have wrought advancements just as striking as in the automobile industry. Appearance, structural details and performance have been radically improved, creating a new standard in a cooking appliance. Without this modern cooking appliance no kitchen—no matter how modern its architecture and other appointments may be—can truthfully be called modern unless its range is a truly modern gas range!

So go modern with a new gas range. You can afford to. Terms are surprisingly small. See the newest 1936 models now on display.

F. F. A. JUDGING TEAMS TO BE SELECTED NEXT WEEK

Teams that are to represent the Winters chapter in F. F. A. judging contests at Lubbock, Stephenville and College Station will be selected next week, J. M. Williams, vocational agriculture teacher, said yesterday.

The chapter will have entrees in two contests, dairy cattle and terracing. Seven boys will be selected to make these judging trips, one alternate being appointed to fill in if necessary.

Members of the chapter are making a large number of field trips to judge cows. Two classes of Jerseys belonging to Howard Williams were visited by both V. A. groups and the boys showed considerable skill in placing the animals.

To be eligible for the terracing team a boy must have assisted in the construction of 500 yards of terraces during the past year. The following boys will meet this qualification requirement and are trying out for a place on the team: Frazz Belitz, Cecil Vinson, Merle and Gerald Proctor and Leland Mills.

Eugene Hope, a vocational student, was slightly burned with sulphuric acid during a laboratory period last Tuesday. The class was testing milk for butterfat, and during the testing process Eugene sucked some of the acid into his mouth. A severe burn might have resulted had not ammonia been used to neutralize the action of the acid. He was out of school for two days with a very sore and slightly parched tongue.

EXHIBITS TEXAS MAP DATED 1856

B. G. Owens, one of Winters' earliest citizens and pioneer druggist, was proudly displaying a pocket map of Texas dated 1856, which was used by his grandfather on a trip from his home at Moscow in Polk county to Austin.

The map which was yellow with age was neatly folded in a pocket size book with pages where he had kept an expense account of the trip which was made in a horse drawn buggy. The trip covered 13 days and the total expense account was $25.82. Items of the expense account included feed for horse as well as his own personal expenses.

West Texas at that time was a vast open space with no cities and from the map was divided into large counties. The trip made to Austin could be traced definitely from the map.

Mr. Owens' sister, Mrs. E. W. Melson, of Sanger, who owns the map intends to place it in the exhibits at the Centennial at Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Howell and daughter of Rankin spent the past week-end visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hickman.

Mrs. Sid Anderson and little Bobbie and Miss Orelle Caskey left Tuesday for Slaton where Mrs. Anderson will visit with relatives. Miss Caskey will return to her home in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Davidson attended the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, Misses Maurita Penny and Bendena Spill and Albert Joseph attended the Fat Stock show in Fort Worth Sunday.

Miss Orelle Caskey of Lubbock visited here with friends the first of the week.

Mrs. Ralph Lloyd is in Dallas this week at the bedside of her brother, who submitted to an operation Wednesday. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Maurine Robertson.

B. G. Owens returned home Monday afternoon from Sanger, where he visited relatives and friends.

Joan Featherston, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Featherston of the Victory community is able to be up after her recent illness.

J. E. Cleveland has been seriously ill for several days and is reported to be in a serious condition.

CAN WAR BE AVOIDED?

For more than a year we have been hearing war talk from many parts of the world, and have been getting news of actual warfare. First Japan invaded China—and nobody did anything about it. Then Italy attacked Ethiopia. The whole world protested, and the League of Nations undertook to put pressure on Italy to desist from its unwarranted attack on a weak and almost defenseless nation.

Then we heard threats of war in the Far East between Japan and Russia. In the meantime, however, Germany disclosed the fact that it was rearming and preparing for another war—a war of "defense," of course, though nobody seemed to be threatening Germany. Russia disclosed that it has the largest trained and equipped army in the world, and a reserve of 17 million men. Stalin, the Russian dictator, denied that Russia had any hostile intentions toward Japan, but spoke of the menace to world peace that lay in Germany's beligerent attitude.

France has been strengthening her armies and the fortifications along the German and Italian borders. Britain, following Prime Minister Baldwin's declaration that the British frontier is no longer the North Sea but the Rhine, announced the other day a program of aerial and naval rearmament to be completed in three years. Germany's answer to that was to move its army across the Rhine, occupying territory which, under the Versailles Treaty and the later Pact of Locarno, it was obligated to keep demilitarized. But Hitler declared those treaties had been rendered void by the new treaty

FREE SPEECH

Quite a number of good Americans have shown indignation over the fact that Earl Browder, secretary of the Communist Party, was allowed to broadcast a speech on his party's principles the other day. Many more Americans have got all worked up over the fact that some schools and colleges actually try to explain to their students the principles of Communism—along with the principles of other forms of government, including our own.

One of the prime principles of Americanism is the right of everybody to speak freely on any subject. Another American principle is that everybody should understand as much as possible about his own government—and others. If we are afraid that Communism or any other "ism" is so alluring that most folks will prefer it to what we have, that does not speak very well for our faith in our own system. But the best way—the American way—to maintain our own institutions is to let those who would overthrow them talk all they please. Suppression of Communism or of anything else only tends to encourage its advocates.

between France and Russia.

All of those things are fighting gestures. They may lead to war, or they may result only in a readjustment of European relations and a possible easing of the warlike tension. Nobody knows. All that is certain is that the world is in a state where a single false move may start a greater war than has even been seen. Such a war would almost certainly destroy civilization as we understand it.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, March 18.—The outlook for adjournment of Congress before June 1 gets slimmer and slimmer. The main thing that is going to eat up time is working out a new tax bill. That a very large amount of additional tax revenues must be found somewhere, and that quickly, is now regretfully admitted by members of Congress. At any time the problem of taxation is a delicate one. Important new tax systems have to be discussed and considered from many angles besides the question of whether they will raise the money needed.

That sort of discussion has already begun in regard to President Roosevelt's proposal to levy a tax upon the undistributed surplus of corporations. That would mean that liquid funds in corporate treasuries, which are being held as reserves, either against a falling off in business or to finance improvements and extensions as business picks up, would be drawn upon as a new source of revenue.

The President's proposal is to abolish the existing taxes on corporate incomes, excess profits and capital stock, which now produce a revenue of about $1,000,000,000 a year, and instead, levy a tax which is estimated at about one-third of their total on the corporate reserves. This, the Treasury figures, would amount to about $1,600,000,000, thus increasing the Government's income by $600,000,000.

Viewing New Tax Plan

The question of how the President's plan would work out is what is puzzling members of Congress. First, would it cripple corporations which have accumulated large surpluses? Second, would it result in an immediate distribution of large proportions of those surpluses in the form of dividends to stockholders, and so reduce the total to a point where the expected tax revenue would not be forthcoming?

It is pointed out on one hand that these surpluses are the property of the stockholders and ought to be distributed to them in the form of dividends. If that were done, they would be taxable as individual incomes.

On the other hand, the argument is set up that only the existence of large undistributed surpluses has enabled many industries to carry on, to keep their plant equipment up to date, continue to employ labor, and pay dividends to stockholders during even the depths of the depression, when they were actually running at a loss. How far can that protective reserve be drawn upon without incurring the risk of serious damage to industries and increasing unemployment?

These are serious questions, and are being taken seriously by the members of both Houses.

New Farm Act

No very definite program for the administration of the new Farm Act has yet been formulated by Secretary Wallace, who is in charge of its administration.

There will be no contracts with individual farmers specifying how much each may produce, as under the AAA. Some system of bonus payments to those who voluntarily retire acreage from cultivation and plant it to soil conserving crops of a nature that will not disturb the market for farm staples is what is contemplated.

It is not an easy thing to figure out a system that will accomplish the objective of taking 30 million acres out of cultivation and distribute $500,000,000 to farmers for doing so.

Looking Ahead

The best guess now is that the President's plan will not be adopted in its entirety, mainly because there is not time between now and the political conventions to examine all of its implications. There probably will be some experimental tax on undistributed surpluses, but existing corporation taxes are not likely to be repealed, although they may be scaled down.

Resistance is very strong to any increase in individual income taxes except in what are termed the "upper brackets." Incomes in excess of $10,000 net a year may be taxed at a higher rate than at present. There is also a strong indication that there will be many excise taxes.

There is little likelihood of higher taxes on liquor and tobacco. There is much more likelihood of new taxes that will increase the costs of food and clothing.

The President has asked for nearly $800,000,000 more a

Dressing Up For Centennial Year

For the general region west of the Trinity river, the pecans may be planted wherever its natural requirements, a deep, alluvial soil and sufficient moisture, are found. The live oak, too, extends far beyond this line being found native as far as the Guadalupe Mountains. Deciduous oaks found in this region include the Texas red oak, the common red oak, the burr oak, the chinquapin oak. Among the elms one may choose from the American elm, the winged elm and the cedar elm. The mesquite is a valuable tree and may be transplanted with ease, when grown from seed, at the end of the first or second growing seasons. The wild chinaberry or soapberry is an interesting and widely adapted tree, extending from East Texas as far west as New Mexico. An interesting small tree generally distributed in west Texas, is the Naked Indian or Madrona. Its conspicuous, smooth reddish-brown trunk, twigs, and branches mark it with distinction.

In central and west Texas there are no less than nine species of Junipers, including one eastern, one southern, and seven western species. Of these the most important and most abundant is the so-called mountain cedar. When properly trained it develops into a fine tree.

Among the native shrubs found in this region is the Texas Redbud which extends as far west as Callahan county and south into Mexico. The Redbud generally distributed through eastern Texas is the American Redbud. A large shrub found along the watershed of the upper San Saba river and extending west to the Devils River Country is the Mimosa. It succeeds generally where it obtains a fair amount of moisture. An outstanding summer flowering shrub native to this region, which should not be overlooked is the desert willow. Its white, orchid, or purple blossoms are produced during the entire summer. Another shrub of general interest is an evergreen barberry, locally known as agarita or chapparral-berry. It is an excellent shrub especially in situations where the soil is rich in lime. Once more we turn to the sumacs, and in addition to those mentioned for the eastern part of the state, we may add an interesting one, the evergreen sumac native in central and western Texas. This shrub is also known as tobacco sumac.

is any oil any different?

Different because it's alloyed

We don't mean one of those "talking point" differences. We mean a real difference. Alloying Germ Processed oil goes beyond refining and re-refining. After every harmful element is cleaned out, the patented Conoco Germ Processing element is scientifically put IN.

That's what brings you this alloyed oil, with its strange attachment for pistons, cylinders, and all other engine parts—including every known type of bearing. All these parts really become oil-plated!

This oil-plating is extra. It's a plus—added to the tougher, more slippery, heat-beating Germ Processed oil film. You've got this high-durability oil film, sliding on thoroughly oil-plated surfaces, and so you're that much farther from wear and noise.

You're facing hotter days and harder runs. Out with dirty winter oil! Only the Conoco man can change you—quickly—to Germ Processed, the alloyed oil. Continental Oil Company.

BRUCE BARTON

Says:

WE WANT TO FEEL BETTER

A man who is much disturbed by what he calls the "forgotten habit of church attendance" asks me to write a piece on that subject. From rather limited observation, it has seemed to me that church attendance has been better since times became worse. If this observation be correct, it only bears out the record of past experience.

Years ago Roger Babson made a study which proved in most interesting and conclusive fashion that people tend to neglect the church in boom times and go back to it when prosperity has fled. A boom begets big-headedness, conceit, extravagance, self-will; all these are enemies to humility and faith, and all evaporate in a deflation.

My father, who was a clergyman, used to say: "It does not surprise me that more people do not go to church. On the contrary, I am forever being amazed that so many do go." He went on to ask: "Why do people go?" And he answered by saying that they go to hear themselves called sinners, to be told that they have done wrong during the week and have been a disappointment to themselves and the angels; they go to be asked to give money and to be told that they do not give enough—All this said my father, is a program so rigorous that the wonder is that anybody continues to ask for it.

He might have added that people who have been regular church attendants in recent years have had to listen to an awful lot of second-hand economies.

Those people who went to listen to the Founder of the Church heard a good deal about their social obligations, but they heard, also, that they were great people, with infinite capacities—children of the Almighty and heirs of eternal life. At the close of the sermon they felt encouraged, not discouraged; better, not worse.

This can not be said of some church congregations today.

WE'LL ALWAYS BE FALLIBLE

It is my painful duty to report that the human race is in a bad way, and to submit in evidence a number of remarks made recently by thoughtful citizens at luncheon and dinner tables.

First remark, by the president of a large corporation: "I have revised my will and eliminated the clause which named a Trust Company as administrator. My observation of the action of trust companies during this depression convinces me that they do not know anything."

Second remark, by an intelligent woman: "I have no use for doctors. Most of the time they are merely guessing. They have the lucky advantage of being able to bury their mistakes."

Third remark: "When the lawyers talk about 'cleaning up the bar' they know it is just talk and that nothing will be done. They want the law to be intricate and involved because that makes more work for lawyers."

Fourth remark: "I don't read advertising any more; it is so exaggerated and misleading."

Each of these remarks reminded me of the very wise advice of an older editor when, years ago, I was placed in charge of a magazine. He said: "You are going to discover that there are no efficient people in the world. You will explain an idea to a writer, and he will seem to understand, but when he delivers the finished article it won't be at all what you want. You will think an artist has a clear notion of the kind of picture you want, but when he brings it in it will be a hundred percent wrong."

All of which sums up to this—the human race is made up of a great many million very fallible human beings. On the whole, they try their best, but their batting average is low; it always will be low just because they are human and limited and fallible. If you proceed on that assumption you never are disappointed, and every now and then you get a very cheering surprise.

Recipes And Menus

Denton — Milk contains the greatest assortment of nutritive substances of all simple food materials. It constitutes the foundation upon which an adequate diet can most safely, most easily and most economically be built.

It is a recognized fact that all growing children need one quart of milk every day. This requirement is based on certain facts including the superiority of milk to any other food for bone and muscle building. It is an important source of good quality proteins and of the mineral elements, calcium and phosphorus needed for bones and teeth. It also supplies abundant energy and the Vitamins A and G needed for growth and the protection of general health.

Inasmuch as many children are unable to have milk for the noon lunch at school it seems wise that the evening meal should contain at least one dish with a milk foundation. The following recipes are suggested with this view in mind.

Cabbage and Potato Soup: 2 T butter, 1 small chopped onion, 1 quart water, 1 tsp. salt, 2 cups diced raw potatoes, 2 cups chopped cabbage, and 2 cups rich whole milk. Cook onion slowly in butter until soft. Add water, salt, potatoes and cabbage and cook until just tender, about 20 minutes. When ready to serve add milk. Serve very hot with chopped parsley, a dash of paprika or toasted bread cubes.

Creamed Fish With Vegetables: Half pound fresh fish or canned salmon, 1 cup diced raw potatoes, 1-2 cup diced raw carrots, 1-2 quart milk, 1-3 cup flour, 2 T butter, 1 small chopped onion, and 1 tsp. salt. If fish is fresh, simmer in a small quantity of water about 15 minutes. Drain and remove the skin and bones and flake the fish. Cook the potatoes and carrots until tender in a tightly covered kettle and in as little water as possible. Boil the remaining liquid down to 1-4 cup. Save this liquid and add to the mixture before serving. Mix and add to the onion, salt, butter and the flour and milk mixture, the rest of the milk, which should be heated. Cook until thickened. Add the vegetables and the liquid from the vegetables and the fish and cook for a few minutes longer. If canned fish is used, it does not need the preliminary cooking.

Rice and Chicken or Veal Custard: 2-3 cups rice, 1-3 quart chopped cooked chicken or veal, 1 pimento, 2 eggs, 1 cup whole milk, 1-2 cup chicken broth. Wash rice. Drop into one gallon of briskly boiling, salted water, and boil until tender. Drain and rinse with hot water. Place layers of rice, chicken and pimento in a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle each layer with salt and a dash of cayenne. Top may be decorated with strips of pimento or thin rounds of green pepper. Pour over it a custard made of the eggs, milk and broth.

Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) until set.

Suggested Milk Drinks: The following are suggestions for wholesome drinks for children who refuse milk: (1) Milk mixed with tomato juice. (2) Milk mixed with grape juice. (3) Milk eggnog, with raw egg and sweetened to taste. Add vanilla. (4)

Lady Took Cardui When Weak, Nervous

"I can't say enough for Cardui if I talked all day," enthusiastically writes Mrs. L. H. Caldwell, of Statesville, N. C. "I have used Cardui at intervals for twenty-five years," she adds. "My trouble in the beginning was weakness and nervousness. I read of Cardui in a newspaper and decided right then to try it. It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

When we ask luck to protect us against habitual carelessness and recklessness we are inviting disaster.

Bringing HOME the FACTS
by BARBARA DALY

Meet the Brush Family . . . Toothbrush, Hairbrush, Clothes brush and scrub brush. Time was when those four were the sole members of a very noble family. But now what haven't you? Well, you may not have all of these but here's a list of what the well-equipped household carries in the brush line. Besides the aforementioned, there's a brush for nails, for complexion, and for all-round bath use — long handles, short handles, with stiff or soft as down bristles, depending upon the use. There's a powder brush for milady and a firm little complexion brush with rounded bristles that fits into the palm of her hand and coaxes out a day's grime like nobody's business. And there's a he-man complexion brush for the gentleman of the house, to discourage poaching.

Clothes can be valeted beyond description with a curved brush whose firm bristles seek out wayward hairs behind shoulders, and a soft bristled brush that picks up the nap on dusty felt hats. The old scrub brush worked hard for its living keeping the house in order. Now it is joined by numerous long-haired floor-brushes, wall radiator and three sectioned Venetian blind brushes. Upholstery is kept well-groomed with a specially constructed brush whose bristles end in a point for working into crevices. And there's a whole clan of cleaning brushes, many of stiff fibre bristles whose sole purpose is to spruce up bathroom and kitchen hardware.

The best hair brushes are made of boar' bristles. Need I stress how important it is to buy only the best if you expect long and useful service. For some reason or other the Siberian boar has the reputation for producing the finest bristles. Untouched by communal influence, he has spent years champing over the Siberian steppes developing an independent bristle as well as an independent mind. Try pinching a genuine boar's bristle and you find it won't snap off or lose its resiliency like the bristle of an inferior brush. Bleached or au naturel, the real boar's bristle has years of life in it.

Do you brush your hair one hundred strokes a day? No, I thought not. You can't get beyond fifty-two? That's a good average. But you'll find the operation much more enjoyable with no fear of discouraging a beautiful wave if you use one of the new brushes designed for curly heads. It has deep, penetrating bristles, serrated on top to fit into the lines of your wave. It lifts rather than flattens the wave, and aerates as it lifts. Bend forward from the waist, please, as you brush, to encourage circulation to the roots of your hair.

Go into the canning factories if you would discover economy in food preparation carried to the last degree of perfection. Take the case of pineapple. Those thick slices constitute only one portion of the pineapple's assets. The broken slices at either end are diced and canned. Tidbits come from the inner shell lining. Then juice is extracted from the shell, ends and core and boiled down for syrup. The residue is converted into a fine bran mash for stock feeding.

A woman with five growing daughters told me how she solved the manicure problem. Each daughter demands her own set of lotions for nail softening and cuticle removal. That runs into money when multiplied by five. So each week a bottle of nail softener is prepared and placed in a stoppered bottle for general use. Here's the recipe: four tablespoons of pure soap flakes dissolved in one and one-half cups of hot water, a fourth cupful of salad oil added, shake well and use the emulsion as needed.

MODERN WOMEN

by CHARL'ORMOND WILLIAMS
President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, Inc.

Beach pajamas, with adjustable pants, buttoning into any length from the regulation to shorts are one of the more practical novelties for spring and summer wear.

For the flower gardener: The new dwarf Hybrid Dahlias are as easily grown from seed as zinnias. They come in all the gorgeous colors of the sunset, in single and semi-double varieties, and are a delight in the garden and for cutting purposes.

Green dishes for St. Patrick's Day give some of the charm of the Emerald Isle to your party on this festive occasion. Here is an easily prepared treat in the proper color:

Green Gage Mousse: Remove the stones from two 8 ounce cans of green gage plums and press the plums through a sieve. Add one-third cup sugar and one-fourth cup corn syrup. Boil for about two minutes. Soften two teaspoons gelatin in two tablespoons cold water, and dissolve in hot syrup. Cool. Add one-fourth cup lemon juice, and, when it begins to set, fold in one and one-half cups of beaten cream. Tint green. Pack in a melon mold and freeze in a mixture of salt and ice, or in refrigerator trays. This serves eight persons.

St. Patrick's Cocktail: Combine the contents of one No. 2 can of pineapple juice, one-half cup of honey and two cups of sweet cider. Chill well. Put a green mint cherry in each tall slim glass, fill with crushed ice and pour in the cocktail. Top with a sprig of fresh mint. This fills eight glasses.

Among the spring dress novelties this year are radium evening gowns with luminous patterns, and perfumed chiffon evening frocks in your favorite perfume to order.

Handiest home gadget we've heard of in a long time is a wrapping shelf set up in the unused space of a closet. It is thirty inches from the floor and as deep as space will allow. A wall bracket holds a roll of wrapping paper, and another provides a place for twine. If you're a paper and twine saver, a magazine rack under the shelf holds papers and wall hooks keeps strings from getting tangled. And the whole arrangement is such a convenience for wrapping packages and gifts.

The Big Spring annual Cowboy reunion and rodeo will be staged this year on August 8 to 11 inclusive as a Centennial year celebration which will emphasize the spirit and atmosphere of the west of story and song.

After all, why should anyone comment further on the story of the two Louisiana hold-up men who mingled with a group of visiting legislators and walked out of prison unnoticed?

If you divorce capital from labor, capital is hoarded, and labor is starved.

Nothing is wrong with the mind of the man who minds his own business.

The busy man seldom has time for self-pity.

The wise man studies others so that he can learn from their mistakes and at their expense.

A small mind is obstinate. A great mind can lead and be led.

The law of worthy life is fundamentally the law of strife. It is only through labor and painful effort, by grim energy and resolute courage, that we move on to better things.—Theodore Roosevelt.
