WORK ON EAST-WEST ROADS STARTED YESTERDAY

CROWDS INCREASE AT REVIVAL AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

DR. MELTON OF WACO PREACHING TWICE DAILY.

The Baptist revival started last Sunday morning with Rev. W. T. Hamor, pastor, preaching at both the morning and evening hours.

Dr. W. W. Melton, pastor of the Seventh and James Street Baptist church, Waco, and Johnnie Cohen of Palestine, arrived Monday, and Dr. Melton is preaching at both morning and evening hours, while Mr. Cohen is in charge of the music.

Interest is fast developing in the revival, which is attested by the increasing crowds in attendance at each service. Dr. Melton is a very forceful and interesting speaker, plain and logical.

Sunday's services will carry out the Easter spirit in the sermons as well as the special music which is being prepared, Rev. Hamor stated yesterday.

Services are held each morning from 10 to 11 o'clock, while the evening service starts at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend all services.

COLEY ANNOUNCES FOR RE-ELECTION AS JUSTICE OF PEACE

W. E. Coley, incumbent, places his announcement in this issue of The Enterprise as a candidate for Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 5, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held July 25th.

"If the voters again see fit to return me to this office, I expect to give each and everyone having business with my court the same fair, impartial and courteous treatment that I have endeavored to give in the past," said Mr. Coley.

"The remuneration of this office does not justify one in making an active campaign for it, however, I want my friends and the voters of the precinct to know that I will appreciate their support and vote in July, just the same as if the job was a good paying one," Mr. Coley concluded.

AN ODE TO GRANDMA 1935 MODEL

Below we are printing an opinion in rhyme of the Townsend old age plan which was sent recently to one of our subscribers. The poem was originally sent to Mrs. W. N. Yates at Pecos who desired to have it pass on and was published in The Pecos Enterprise. The author is unknown to us.

Cheer up, Grandma, don't you cry, You'll wear diamonds by and by.

When the Townsend plan goes through, Uncle Sam has money mills Made to grind out brand new bills.

He will champion your cause With his old age pension laws, You will find the poor relations Sticking like the League of Nations.

No more panic over bills, Butchers duns or doctor's pills, No more panic over rent, Leave that to the Government. You can soar away fully fledged

With the over-privileged, Dine on squabs and caviar, Sport a streamlined motor car When the blizzard's "bliz a bit,"

Off to Palm Beach gaily flit, Lead a life on pleasure bent— But you must spend every cent. Whoopie! Grandma, keep alive Life begins at sixty-five.

FUNERAL RITES FOR MRS. TEKELL HELD HERE MON., APR. 6

DEATH OCCURRED AT SEALY HOSPITAL SATURDAY.

Mrs. Florence Tekell, 51, passed away Saturday night at 11:40 at the Sealy Hospital in Santa Anna, where she had been taken two weeks prior to her death for surgery.

Funeral services and last rites were held from the First Baptist church in Winters Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. J. F. Miller, pastor of the Norton Baptist church, and Rev. J. R. Steele of Sidney, former Norton Baptist pastor, conducted the services and paid beautiful tribute to the deceased.

Mrs. Tekell was a native of Texas and was born May 26, 1884 in McLennan County. She was married to N. C. Tekell, who preceded her in death in 1926. Nine children were born to the couple all of whom are living. She had been a member of the Baptist church for many years and held membership in the Norton Baptist church.

The surviving children are Mrs. Evelyn Wright of Overton; Mrs. Edna Stewart of Purdon; Mrs. Maurine Wade of Wingate; N. C. Tekell of Milford; C. D. Tekell, Robert, Allie and Miss Bertie, all of Norton and O. O. Tekell of Abilene. There are fifteen grandchildren, five brothers and four sisters, also surviving.

Pallbearers were Oneal, Herman, Douglas, B. W. and Curtis Overman and Cletus Dawson.

Flower girls were Mildred Murphy, Jewell Mann, Joyce Roper, Ada Patton, Marguerite Allen, Phyllis Roper, Ellen Mae Jennings and Mary Dell Murphy.

WOODMEN CIRCLE MEETING IS HELD AT SHEP, MAR. 28

The Centennial Grove of Shep held the regular lodge meeting Saturday, March 28, in the First Baptist church at Shep. The guardian, Mrs. Olene Cole, presided.

Mrs. Janie B. Garner, national representative and district manager, and her daughter, Mrs. R. M. Jones, of Winters, were present.

J. M. WILLIAMS TO HOLD MEETINGS ON NEW FARM PROGRAM

HAS MADE STUDY OF PROGRAM AT MEET IN STEPHENVILLE.

J. M. Williams, vocational agriculture teacher in the local schools, attended a meeting Tuesday of vocational agricultural teachers held at John Tarleton Agricultural college at Stephenville.

E. R. Alexander, agricultural economist from A. & M. college and Paul G. Haynes, state director of Vocational Agriculture, were in charge of the meeting which was held for the purpose of studying the new farm soil conservation program.

At the meeting the vocational agriculture teachers were asked to cooperate with the county agents in holding informational meetings and assisting in any way possible in carrying out the new plan.

Mr. Williams conducted a meeting Wednesday night at Harmony and is to hold a similar meeting tonight (Friday) at the Franklin school. Other meetings will be scheduled in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Goodnight and daughter, Gloria Marie, of Holland, Texas, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Buckley the past week-end.

SENIOR PLAY TO BE PRESENTED ON TUESDAY, APR. 21

"The Marlenburg Necklace," a royalty mystery play, under the direction of Miss Edgar Parten, will be presented by the Senior class of Winters high school next Tuesday evening, April 21st at the high school auditorium.

Ably supporting the leads, Marguerite Duncan as Marilyn Drake, the niece and Harry Dobbs as Robert Warning, a young lawyer, are: Mrs. Marlenburg played by Doris Reid; her sister, Miss Madison by Carolee Henslee; Maxine Marlenburg, the step-daughter, Mozelle Barnhill; Ronald McAdoo, as Maxine's suitor, by Erskine Davis; Hawkins, the Butler by Bill Roundtree; Mandy Lee Smith as the maid; Frances Hodge as Janet Williams, a reporter; O'Flannigan, a detective by C. S. Jackson; and Mr. West, president of the Detective agency by Morris Cooke.

LIONS ENJOY ONE-ACT PLAY AT TUESDAY'S LUNCHEON

DISTRICT GOV. STOKES WAS A GUEST OF THE CLUB.

Featuring Tuesday's luncheon of the Lions Club was the presentation of "The Finger of God," one-act play, by the high school cast which won first place in the Runnels county Interscholastic League Meet, under the direction of Miss Edgar Parten. This one-act play will compete in the district meet at San Angelo this evening.

The cast presenting this one-act play is composed of Miss Frances Lyle, Floyd Shackelford and Clois Mapes.

District Governor V. C. Stokes of Sonora, was a guest of the club. In his talk on Lionism, Mr. Stokes gave an outline of the work being done by several of the clubs in this district, and complimented the local club on past accomplishments.

Besides those mentioned above, W. L. Green, Owasso, Okla., father of C. L. Green, was a guest. Lion C. L. Green was in charge of the program.

MORE THAN 10,000 DRIVERS LICENSED IN RUNNELS COUNTY

Ballinger, April 6. — Slightly over 10,000 drivers' licenses were secured in Runnels county up to April 1, according to W. A. Forgey, county tax assessor-collector, following a preliminary check-up today. The accurate number will not be ascertained until all deputies in other towns of the county have made reports.

This is an average of nearly three drivers to each motor vehicle license plate issued. With a check-also incomplete, he said about 3,700 passenger car licenses had been handled thru his office, a hike of about 200 over last year, 400 commercial car licenses and 200 farm truck plates.

Calixto Iodiquez of Satillo, Mexico and Jesse Cillarro of San Antonio are visiting in the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Maddox.

A daughter was born April 2 to Mr. and Mrs. Homer Tubbs to whom they have given the name, Patsy Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Middleton of Bradshaw are the proud parents of a new son, born Thursday, April 9.

Mrs. Foy Proctor of Midland visited in the home of Dr. and Mrs. T. V. Jennings the first of the week.

RED VERBENA IS SUGGESTED FOR MASS PLANTING

Committees from the Literary and Service club, Diversity club and Home Demonstration club who are cooperating with the Board of Community Development in an effort to beautify Winters for the Centennial year, are suggesting a mass planting of red verbenas. The red verberna was adopted several years ago as the city flower and with uniform planting makes a very pretty showing.

The senior high school class is taking orders through Mrs. John Norman for verberna plants or other flowers for Easter and all who are planning to cooperate in the beautification program should see some member of the class and place orders now.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS RE-ELECTED AT W.T.U. MEET

Abilene, April 8.—All directors and officers of the West Texas Utilities Company were re-elected for 1936, at the annual meeting of stockholders Tuesday. Present in person or by proxy were 38,778 shares of preferred stock and 260,000 shares of common stock, which is 53 per cent of the preferred and 100 per cent of the common stock outstanding.

Members of the board, all re-named are: Price Campbell, P. W. Campbell, Dan A. Gallagher, Dan R. Junell, F. W. Schroeder, W. G. Swenson, J. M. Wagstaff, R. M. Wolfe, Abilene and Chas. W. Hobbs, San Angelo.

Price Campbell is president; Schroeder, vice president; Gallagher, secretary, treasurer; Arthur Harker, assistant secretary; C. C. Sellers, assistant treasurer, and R. M. Wolfe, auditor.

President Campbell submitted a report showing a net income of $354,626 which was $121,477 more than that of the previous year. "The company's electric output is increasing rapidly, due partly to rate reductions, but principally to new business efforts, merchandising appliances and sales efforts in lighting and power sales," said the president.

"While the company anticipates a better year this year than last, it has the same hazards as other businesses; that is, the nations political situation, inflation of government credit through government paper in banks, and has in addition the greater hazards of government competition, promotion of municipal plants with donations of funds from taxation."

Mr. Campbell states WTU has no municipal plant promotional activity in its territory at this time nor does it anticipate any soon as so many of its communities have already definitely refused any such proposals and none have accepted. "The principal hazard this utilities business has above that of other businesses in this territory is that of direct government competition through promotion of little T. V. A. hydro power sites on the Brazos and Colorado rivers. This is rather remote, however, as the company has no properties adjoining these sites and none that it would be economically feasible to construct transmission lines to and pay interest on such line after constructing stand-by plant at the end of the line and paying for the current at the dam site; therefore, the West Texas Utilities Company did not join other power companies in the suit to restrain the government in the construction of the two power dams now under way.

This company registered under the holding company bill and has been complying with all requests from the Federal Power Commission and the securities act thereunder. Contrary to the impressions led by some articles forwarded out of Washington, there is no real hazard to this company in the T. V. A. or the

ONE NEW ALDERMAN SELECTED IN VOTING HELD LAST TUESDAY

In Tuesday's city election one new alderman, C. F. Pumphrey, was elected to membership on the council, while Lanham Brown and Ralph Lloyd, incumbents, were returned to office. These, with Mayor J. W. Copeland, Aldermen Albert Afflerbach and C. L. Green, and City Secretary Mrs. Roxie Floyd, complete the official family.

Following is the results in Tuesday's election:

J. R. Dry, 37; Lanham Brown, 76; C. F. Pumphrey, 75; Howard Baldwin, 67; Ralph Lloyd, 70; Geo. C. Hill, 32.

Mr. Pumphrey succeeds Mr. Baldwin on the council.

In Saturday's school board election, two members were to be elected. There was no opposition and Messrs. Harris Mullin and J. M. Pyburn, incumbents, were re-elected. A very small vote was polled.

COMMITTEEMEN ARE ELECTED FOR THE NEW FARM PROGRAM

MORE THAN 2,000 FARMERS HAVE ATTENDED MEETINGS.

Election of local committeemen in Runnels county to put the new farm program into operation has been completed, and these committeemen will meet in Ballinger at the county court house at 2 p. m. Saturday to complete the organization by selecting the county board and elected officers for same, J. A. Barton, county agent, stated yesterday.

Mr. Barton stated that much interest is being manifested in the new farm program by Runnels county farmers, and that more than 2,000 have attended the series of meetings which have been held over the county. He said that the latest information concerning the new farm plan had been given out to the recently elected committeemen, and that farmers wishing detailed information about the plan should see one of these committeemen.

Mr. Barton believes the new farm plan will bring into Runnels county this year as much money as was received under the old AAA last year, provided sufficient cooperation is given, and this he believes will be had.

Local committeemen who have recently been elected over the county, are as follows:

In the Winters District, which is composed of Baldwin, Victory, Dale, Pumphrey and Cochran, John T. Curry, Pete Davis and Joe Awalt were elected. W. J. Gardner is first alternate, N. R. Iley, second alternate.

In the Harmony, Content and Crews district, Roy Pumphrey, Henry Bright and Walter Pape were elected. First alternate is Ed Hoelscher; second alternate, Fred Parker.

In the Miles, Rowena, Maverick and Brookshire district N. S. Wright, L. W. Rohinfeld and Bert Fletcher were elected. First alternate, E. T. Gordon; second alternate, C. Zly.

In the Wilmeth, Wingate, North and South Norton, Oak Creek and Brookshire district N. S. Wright, L. W. Rohinfeld, Ralph Burns, G. S. Walker and Gray McKown were elected. W. S. Proctor, first alternate; Dewey Whitfield, second alternate.

D. Charles Clark of Comanche, secretary-treasurer of Higginbotham Bros. & Co., spent a few days here on business the first of the week.

NEW FARM PROGRAM BRIEFLY EXPLAINED BY COUNTY AGENT

HOW PLAN MAY APPLY TO RUNNELS COUNTY FARM.

How the new Agricultural Adjustment Administration soil conservation program may work out in Runnels county is explained briefly by J. A. Barton, county agent.

"Take a typical farm of 70 acres. Native pasture and the land around barn and house and lots cover a total of 13 acres, garden and orchard take up 2 acres. The remainder is normally divided between 40 acres in cotton, and 15 acres in feed, mostly grain sorghums and a little corn and cane.

"The soil depleting base would be 55 acres in this case. The minimum requirement to qualify for a grant calls for at least 20 per cent, or in this example 11 acres devoted to soil conserving or soil building crops or practices. This means that some cotton or feed land must be shifted to other uses." Since there is very little more feed than his stock needs, most of the shifting will have to be made from cotton acres.

"Suppose this farmer feels that he must have at least 30 acres of cotton to get along. That will give him 10 acres for soil improvement plantings, but he needs one more acre to qualify, so he takes out an acre of grain sorghums to make up his 11 soil conserving acres. He may plant these to legumes or pasture grasses, or to small grains to be pastured or turned under. There are other possibilities, but these are the chief ones.

"He finally decides on five acres of sudan grass pasture and six acres of cowpeas to be pastured off and turned under. This helps the land and at the same time makes his feed supply safe. So with 30 acres of cotton, 14 acres of corn, grain sorghums and cane, six acres of cowpeas, five acres of sudan pasture, garden, orchard and a little native pasture, this farmer has a pretty fair farming system."

CAR DEALERS HAVE GOOD BUSINESS DURING PAST MONTH

APPROXIMATELY 80 MEN WILL BE USED ON PROJECT

ABOUT 4 MONTHS WILL BE TAKEN TO FINISH CONSTRUCTION.

D. D. Ross, construction superintendent for J. Malcombe & Co., of Abilene, opened his office in the office of the Farmers Gin company the first of the week, where he will direct the building of five miles east and five miles west of farm-to-market roads out of Winters.

The Malcombe Co. was recently awarded the contract to build this road by the State Highway Department, and actual construction was started on the east road yesterday.

Mr. Ross stated yesterday that he expected to have work started on both ends of the road at an early date. He also stated the project would employ seventy to eighty men as soon as he could get both ends of the road under construction.

The contract calls for grading and drainage structures and the road, when completed, will be topped with gravel and caliche.

It will require some three or four months to complete the project, Mr. Ross stated.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. W. A. CLARK SUNDAY MORNING AT ORIENT

BODY IS LAID TO REST IN THE GLEN COVE CEMETERY.

Mrs. Tabitha Clark, 87, pioneer resident of Runnels county, passed away Sunday shortly before noon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sudie Coffee at Orient following a short illness.

After a brief service the remains were conveyed to the old family home place near Glen Cove and now occupied by a granddaughter, Mrs. Jim Brevard. Last rites were held from the graveside in the Glen Cove cemetery Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock conducted by Rev. M. C. Golden of Ballinger.

Mrs. Clark, the daughter of William and Lucendy McCullom, was born in Tennessee June 11, 1848. She was married in 1886 to W. A. Clark who preceded her in death 13 years ago. There were ten children born to this union, five of whom survive their parents. She was converted at the age of 21, uniting with the Missionary Baptist church at Harris Creek in Smith county. The family lived in Smith and Lampasas counties before their location in East Runnels county near Glen Cove in 1898.

The five surviving children are Mrs. S. H. Miller of Talpa; Mrs. T. L. Grace of Lorena; Mrs. Ida Lewis of Benoit; Mrs. Sudie Coffee of Orient; B. F. Clark of Houston.

Pallbearers were Arthur Clark, W. F. Clark, Grady Miller, Sammy Brookshire, Tom Gregory, and Ike Baker.

Honorary pallbearers were Clyde Brevard, S. J. Brevard, Noble Faubion, Sammy Faubion, and E. W. Brookshire.

TAKES OVER GULF STATION

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Young have moved to Winters from San Angelo and will make their future home here.

Mr. Young has taken over the Gulf Service Station on North Main street, succeeding Marvin Bedford. Mr. Bedford expects to open a station on West Dale avenue, just south of the Tourist Hotel, about the 15th of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Young lived here for many years before going to San Angelo. They have many friends here who are glad to welcome them back home.

"So Red the Rose" is Feature Picture Booked For Saturday Prevue, Sunday and Monday, Margaret Sullivan Star

One of the foremost novels of the year, "So Red the Rose" has been made into a motion picture by Paramount and with Margaret Sullivan in the starring role will be seen at the Queen Theatre at the Saturday midnight prevue, also Sunday and Monday. "Another Face" which opens today for one showing only, is a fast-running, tensely exciting melodrama marked by lavish comedy and played to the hilt by a highly capable cast. Lew Ayres, Isabel Jewell and Jimmy Ellison will be featured in "Leathernecks Have Landed" at the Queen Saturday only. "In Person" showing Tuesday and Wednesday with Ginger Rogers and George Brent is a very unusual picture. Reginald Denny, Frances Drake, Gail Patrick, and Rod LaRoque will be seen in "Preview Murder Mystery" showing Thursday night only.

"So Red the Rose" Margaret Sullivan plays the role of a gracious though headstrong Southern belle who is caught up by the need of her people when the war comes. But the man she loves, and to whom she is pledged, has different ideas on the subject. He is unable to arouse in himself the fire of patriotism, and his actions precipitate a tense and touching dramatic situation that gives life and significance to the picture. Miss Sullivan's performance as the heroine, Vallette, is easily her best to date. Charming in costumes of the period, Miss Sullivan makes Vallette a vital, sympathetic, interesting young woman. Randolph Scott plays Duncan, the man in love with Vallette.

"Another Face" The adventures of a motion picture publicity man who loses his girl because he is more concerned about newspaper headlines than about her safety, and then regains her by tackling gangland's most sinister killer single-handed, provides thrills and comedy. Wallace Ford, Phyllis Brooks and Brian Donlevy are the cast of this RKO Radio picture.

"Leathernecks Have Landed" The convincing story is aided by an excellent supervision, good direction and cast, resulting in fast-action drama that is tops on the Republic program to date. Yarn concerns a fighting marine who loves to fight so much that he contributes to the death of his buddy and his own dishonorable discharge. He gets tangled up with a gang smuggling ammunition to Chinese bandits, turns the trick and helps his former buddies clean up the situation. He wins a citation for valor and reinstatement into the service.

"In Person"

In the story "Ginger Rogers is given an opportunity to display her heretofore little revealed talents in that direction. The plot concerns the comic and romantic entanglements which develop when an egotistical actress falls in love with a handsome young man who refuses to accept her celebrated charms as an offset to her exhausting arrogance. In his mountain cabin he disciplines her, but it is not long before he reciprocates the actress' romantic urge. George Brent plays the romantic but stubborn young man.

"Preview Murder Mystery"

Yarn concerns the murder of a star at a preview, the killing of a nightwatchman and a director, all accomplished by a former star, supposedly dead. Former star, victim of face burns during a scene shot while he was in his prime, duplicates body of another victim, disguises himself by the aid of make-up and seeks vengeance. It moves at a rapid and thrilling pace, is packed with tense situations, hair-raising suspense and with an adequate cast.

LYRIC THEATRE

It's murder on the range that causes the complications in "Swiftly" that keep Hoot Gibson in and out of trouble for six reels at the Lyric Theatre where this newest, fastest, and most exciting Hoot Gibson western production is playing for Saturday only.

There's plenty of mystery and high suspense in "Swiftly" and this element added to some excellent chase scenes, make the new Hoot Gibson outstanding as an action picture. It will delight audiences of all ages for it has both exciting action and interesting characterizations. Geo. Hays, who plays the sheriff gives an outstanding performance. He has one of the best roles of his career. June Gale as Helen McNeil whose father was myster-

MODERN WOMEN

by CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS

President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

The ninth annual observance of National Business Women's Week throughout the country in March brought to light many unusual achievements and interests of women.

In Washington, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is a member of the New York League of Business and Professional Women, invited me to the White House for a discussion over a national radio network on the year's theme of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, "Women Unite For Effective Democracy."

In New York twenty-four women of achievement were honored on March 18 at a dinner given by the New York League with the cooperation of 200 men and women's service organizations. These outstanding New York women represented seventeen different professions ranging from prominence in legal circles to excellence in creating mannequins. The selection was led by four writers chosen for distinction: Fannie Hurst, novelist and short story writer; Mrs. William Brown Meloney, editor of "This Week"; Dorothy Thompson, author and special feature writer; and Anna Steese Richardson, associate editor of "The Woman's Home Companion."

From the standpoint of numbers, this group was followed by three teachers: Mrs. Evelyn N. Allan, principal of the Girls' Commercial High School in Brooklyn; Marion Dickerman, principal of the Todhunter School and an associate of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt; and Isabel Stewart, Professor of Nursing Education, Teachers College, Columbia.

The legal profession was represented by the two New York assemblywomen, Jane Todd, Republican, and Doris I. Byrne, Democrat, and Judge Genevieve Cline. Judge Cline has made a name for herself as the first woman United States judge. She is at present the presiding justice at the Federal Customs Court in New York.

The Woman's Roosevelt Memorial Association recently awarded bronze medals to Mrs. August Belmont, citizen of New York, who has been honored for her services to the people, and to Miss Lucia Bori of the Metropolitan Opera, for her golden voice, her generosity and her loyalty to the opera.

Mrs. Henry R. Caraway went into politics after women were enfranchised because she thought the new members of the electorate should familiarize themselves with parties, policies, and platforms. She conducts current events discussions, contributes to "The Guidon," a club publication which she formerly edited, and addresses groups in many cities.

Margaret Cuthbert, pioneer woman radio executive, and Mrs. Hortense Odium, president of a Fifth Avenue store, were selected for their efficient executive accomplishments.

One who lacks ambition does not even flirt with success.

We cry out against the curtailment of Robinson Crusoe liberties but by keeping our garbage in cans and by properly disposing of sewage we are free from plagues which destroy thousands in India and China.

PROMENADE DECK

SYNOPSIS . . . A luxurious five-month cruise around the world aboard the "Marenia" brings together a group of passengers for adventures, romantic, entertaining . . . and tragic . . . Like in "Grand Hotel" these passengers offer a study in human actions and reactions which unconsciously bare their souls . . . These characters are aboard the ship: Macduff, dour Scotchman, single, of middle age; Miss Mudge, school teacher, spending the savings of 20 years; Angela, faithful wife of Lovat, gigolo; Dick Charlton, first officer; Clare, a person of experience; Joan, a dissipated flapper; Jenny, run-away wife, and Peter; Captain Baring, master of the ship . . . and his soul. NOW, GO ON WITH THE STORY.

FIFTH INSTALLMENT

Stealthily Joan started toward Dick's stateroom, then stopped to survey the situation. The rotunda was rather wavy to-night. She dawdled among the plants, dipping her fingers in the water. She must remember sometime to catch a goldfish and take it to her room. Mr. Stein had told her that he had put one in his pocket, and it had wiggled so much that he had flung it overboard into the sea. Joan laughed out loud. She liked people who did things like that. Joan moved slowly away from the fountain and knocked at Dick's door. It was opened at once, but not in a friendly way.

"Joan, you here? What do you want?"

"I want to talk to you. Let me in."

Dick looked down the corridor; he was annoyed.

"All right, then, come in, but you've no business to come here. I've told you so repeatedly."

Joan straightened up. "Don't be ridiculous, Dick," she told him, solemnly. "I can't think why you're so severe. You're not cut out to be a reformer."

She walked in, ignoring his frowning brows, and seated herself on the sofa. Taking her time about it, she crossed her legs and lit a cigarette.

"Got any brandy?" she asked.

"Yes," said Dick, shortly.

"Want some?"

He poured out two liquors and drank his own in sips.

"Why aren't you crossing India?" he asked her.

"Because I didn't want to."

What did she mean by that? He watched her thoughtfully.

"Tell me about yourself, Joan," he said, abruptly.

"Tell you what?"

"Oh, everything—who you are—what you are, why you are? Don't think me rude, I'm interested."

"Do you care, really?"

"I'd like to know. It might help me to understand you."

"Old Southern family, boarding schools, beaux, plenty of money one day, and not a sou the next," said Joan, flippantly. "And love in abundance, if that's what you choose to call it. It's been hectic enough, but not very satisfying."

Dick watched the pulse that throbbed in her throat, the ripeness of her lips, her disordered hair, the shadowy hollow of her bosom.

"I've never done anything with my life," Joan went on, "just messed about, staying up late every night and sleeping every morning—killing time in between. Restaurants, speakasies, the theatre and places to dance—forgetfulness for a little while. I was caught in a tangle of excitement before I knew what I was doing, Dick, and here I am gay at night and ready to kill myself when I wake up in the morning."

Joan held up her glass, watching it through the light with fingers that trembled. She walked over and sat on the arm of Dick's chair, more sober now than when she had come into the room. How hard it was to make him understand the muddle of her life! Always meaning to make things better, always sinking a little lower.

She curved her arm around his neck and leaned her cheek against his temples. Gently she stroked his hair, and let her lips stray over his face in caressing butterfly kisses. Dick sat without moving, until her mouth reached his. Then he seized her firmly and swung her into the circle of his arms.

"Cherub," he murmured, "you get your way, don't you? I ought to slap you, but instead you've forced me to make love to you."

He caught her roughly in his arms.

Next morning he regarded her coldly across the breakfast table in the dining-room, regretting his impulse of the night before.

Joan looked appealingly at him across the table, dimly aware of his thoughts. What did love mean to her, anyway? Nothing, except the excitement of the chase. It was really only when she was tipsy that she abandoned herself to the more advanced stages of love. What a long procession of men had loved her once, and slipped out of her life, while she waited at home for their telephone calls! It sickened Joan to think of it. She had been jilted so often that fear was a fixation with her now. Yes, she was a mess.

Now Dick! Joan helped herself to marmalade and thought that he was the most attractive man she had ever known—just as she had suspected. He did not need her at all; that was painfully obvious. She envied people who knew how to run their lives and control their own destinies.

Dick was looking at her searchingly.

Miserable, she turned away from his sagacious scrutiny. Suddenly Dick felt touched. It gave him no pleasure to see anyone unhappy or disappointed. He knew, from his experience with women, that the worst hurt of all was frustration, for it touched them in their pride. Besides, she couldn't help it.

"Joan," he said, catching her arm as she left the dining-room, "I want you to take the pledge for a little while and behave yourself."

"Don't be funny," she said.

Dick shook her impatiently. "Don't wise-crack, Joan. It does not become you. I'm in earnest. You've got to stop drinking, and I'm going to make you."

She flashed him a wistful glance.

"It's no use, Dick; I'm sunk. It's the only relief I have. I'd do anything for you, but not that."

"Promise me you will for a week." His voice was urgent.

Joan laughed in his face.

"All right; it's a go," she said

"beginning today. Watch me."

"Good girl!"

Funny, thought Dick, walking away from the dining-room, he was teaching one woman to drink and another to swear off. Undoubtedly, it was the right prescription in both cases. He couldn't imagine that Miss Mudge was ever going to touch a drop when she returned to the States. Meanwhile, it would be a pity if she went home to Ohonto without a few memories of downright wickedness.

It was a great relief to have all these people off the boat. Three weeks of comparative freedom? His face was puckered with the sun as he moved away from the rail and passed a row of empty deck chairs. Hello! here was Miss Mudge, still on the boat for some mysterious reason and under one's feet as usual. Today she was dressed in some sort of gingham thing—her tropical costume—with a hat like a coal scuttle upside down. God! how he hated white cotton stockings. He stopped at her side and greeted her.

"Hello! You here?"

Miss Mudge was blushing violently. She sat up straight, and the stockings disappeared from view over the side of her chair. Was he dreaming, or had she painted on her cheeks at broad noonday, and shockingly misapplied? Good for Miss Mudge? She was getting on. Lipstick and sheer stockings next.

"I'm surprised to see you still on the boat," he said. "I thought you'd be on your way across India by this time."

Miss Mudge's responsive face was suddenly lost in a cloud. She rustled her papers, then lifted her head with a perky air and answered him: "No, I'm not going across India. I'm staying right here on the boat."

He checked an exclamation of surprise.

"That's topping," he said. "We are going to have fun together. I always stay with the boat, so I shall show you Bombay. Shall we start tonight?"

Miss Mudge brightened, like a lamp that has just been lit. "That's very kind of you, Mr. Charlton. I'm sure India could not be any better than the Holy Land."

"Were you so impressed by that?"

"More than words can tell." Her voice sank to an awed whisper. "Jerusalem was just like the colored Bible scrolls we used to have in our Sunday school. It seemed so strange, after all these centuries, to see men walking the cobbled streets with their crooks and their beards, and looking the same as they did in our Lord's day. And I'll never forget the night we drove up from the Dead sea and thought we saw the Star of Bethlehem. Agatha always wanted to see Gethsemane and the River Jordan, so I've brought her a bottle of water from the river. Agatha's never even been to New York."

Miss Mudge's voice trailed off in a dimineundo of feeling. Yes, the Holy Land had glamour.

The train whirled through the Indian night and dust poured in the windows like desert sand. Angela lay awake, staring at the shadows on the ceiling in the stuffy compartment she shared with Patty and Mrs. Minton. Pounding wheels beat on her brain, disturbing different from the vibration of the boat. Patty tossed uneasily on her hard bed behind the green curtain that shut her off from Angela. Her aunt slept peacefully, with all her anxious nights behind her in the past.

"Patty," whispered Angela, "are you asleep dear? I thought I heard you tossing."

"No, I'm wide awake and choking with dust."

"Isn't it frightful? It's right down to my lungs. Why aren't you sleeping?"

"Oh, I have a little demon at work. I can't close my eyes. Aunt Neil is sleeping like the dead. She always does. It's an easy conscience. Toss me a cigarette. Angela, please."

"Perhaps, if we were to put out this beastly corridor light things would be better. It's just like a green eye winking in on us."

"Here's my scarf. Hang it over the transom."

"That's a bright idea. I don't suppose it will stick."

Patty's strong young arms maneuvered a temporary screen and she lay quiet, in darkness that was now complete. "Angela," she said at last, "I'm going straight out to the Taj the minute we arrive at Agra, for the moonlight is perfect to-night and we mightn't catch it again. Tomorrow night it might rain."

None of them felt like luncheon when they returned to their hotel from seeing the taz and the Ganges at Agra, India.

They found Macduff at work on a new kind of cocktail. He was getting on with his list. He had crossed off the Blue Blazer in Jerusalem, the Sidecar at Shephard's, the Jabberwock at the Mena House, the Bombay Special at Bombay, the Thunderclap at Agra, and was now due to try the Union Jack at Benares.

He had decided not to go out on the Ganges, for he had been there before and knew the worst. In any event, he had a poor opinion of a race that did not drink. He was enjoying himself considerably and had no desire to look at the spindly legs of so many miserable men. It pleased him to sit on a wide and shady veranda with a glass in front of him, and a fakir trying to screw a penny out of his pocket. Macduff chuckled to himself at the mere idea of anyone getting a farthing for nothing from him. He was really enjoying the voyage more than he would admit. The roisterers were settling down, and nobody bothered him now. Miss Mudge was a bore—too skitterish. He had avoided her ever since Monte Carlo. Mrs. Wynant seemed like a sensible person, but he thought it dangerous to pass the time of day to any woman on a boat; she might turn out to be another Mrs. Langford.

His place in the bar was sacred now. He had glared every intruder out of his corner seat, and it was just as much boycotted as if a placard were up: "Reserved for Macduff. The dog will bite."

For some one who never spoke to a soul, Macduff had extensive knowledge of his fellow passengers. He spotted many things they did not know about one another—that was one of the advantages of sitting back and holding one's tongue. Life would be simple for a great many people if only there were less talk.

Macduff downed his fourth

Area Judging Contests

Members of the local F. F. A. judging teams returned from Stephenville recently where they competed in the Area vocational agriculture judging contests. The Winters chapter placed teams in dairy and terracing. The dairy team, composed of third year students, placed 11th in this contest, while the terracing team placed sixth in that event. There were 54 teams competing in the dairy contest and 32 in terracing. The boys are proud to have done this well as this is their first experience in such contests. Out of 162 individuals in the dairy division, Winters placed the seventh high individual. Geo. Brown won this place and was awarded a prize for his efforts. Mr. Williams plans to take three teams to the State F. F. A. contest at A. & M. College, April 27. A livestock judging team will be selected soon.

Boys making the trip to Stephenville included: Gerald and Merle Proctor, Ellis Lee and Franz Belitz, terracing; and George Brown, J. B. Guy, and D. B. Collinsworth, dairy.

The chapter plans to give a party next Friday night in the vocational agriculture room. Most of the boys are expecting a big time while a few seem to be having trouble finding the right girl, or any girl as for that. Committees on entertainment and refreshments have been appointed and the boys are expecting a big time.

Next Monday, April 13, marks the fifth year that F. F. A. programs have been broadcast over the radio on a nationwide hookup. At 11:30 a. m. an F. F. A. program will be broadcast from Washington, and A. & M. college. The entire chapter plans to listen in on this program. A radio will be placed in the V. A. room so that all may hear this broadcast. The chapter urges you to listen in and learn more about our organization.

Birthdays Banquet Sponsored By Ladies of Methodist Missionary Society is Attended by 150 Guests

TWELVE TABLES WERE ARRANGED TO REPRESENT EACH MONTH OF THE YEAR; INTERESTING PROGRAM IS GIVEN.

One of the most colorful affairs ever sponsored by the Methodist Woman's Missionary society was the Birthday Banquet given in the church basement Friday night with Mrs. E. D. Stringer as toastmistress. One hundred and fifty guests were present.

Tables were arranged for each month in the year and guests sat at tables representing their birth month. Each table was especially decorated for the month and the same theme was carried out in the program. Rev. J. W. Sharbutt, pastor of the church, offered the invocation.

The January table depicted a snow scene surrounding a lake of water with a sleigh and dog team, lighted by white tapers. Hostesses at the table were Mesdames W. A. Pace, W. W. Poe and Dewey Marshall. Their number on the program was "Happy Birthday" sung by June Carter, Billie George Russell, June Frances Williams and Doris Babston.

A Valentine motif was featured in the February table. A tree decorated with red hearts and red burning tapers with red cellophane paper gave the center decoration of the table. Hostesses were Mesdames H. H. Cryer and A. D. Lee. Their number on the program was a quartet from McMurry College.

A Texas Centennial theme was carried out at the March table with decorations of the state flower, natural bluebonnets, the old oxcart, the spinning wheel, six flags of Texas and hand-painted place cards. Hostesses were Mrs. I. N. Wilkinson and Miss Gladys Oliver. For their part on the program Mrs. Foy Proctor of Midland sang "Going Back to Texas" and "Carry Me Back to the Lone Prairie."

Easter was the central theme at the April table with a large basket of Easter eggs, rabbits, chickens and lighted tapers for the center piece. Hostesses were Mrs. J. W. Sharbutt and Vivian Cryer. Their number was a reading "Easter Dresses" by June Wilkinson.

May, the month of flowers, song birds and school closing, had for the center decoration a garden scene with the May pole and ten miniature dancing dolls. The hostesses, Mrs. Harris Mullin and Miss Gladys Oliver, presented Carter Chapman in a piano solo "June Roses."

A Tom Thumb wedding represented the month of June and was the climax of the program. A miniature bride and groom, small baskets of bridal wreath and pink lighted tapers centered the table. Mrs. M. E. Lee-man and Mrs. W. A. Pace were hostesses.

The wedding party was composed of small children. Velma Boone sang "I Love You Truly." Ann Leeman was the bride and Clifton Poe, the groom. They were preceded by the flower girl, Mary Elaine Stringer, Ruby Nell Ashley, the bride's maid, Troy Lee Boone, best man and Billie Jeff Bratton, the preacher. Mrs. Charlie Chapman at the piano played the processional and the recessional.

The July table was decorated with flags, fire crackers, sparklers, souvenir horns, and lighted tapers. Mesdames Skaggs and Walter White were hostesses. For their number every one stood and faced the flag while Mrs. Roy Crawford of May led in singing "America."

August was depicted by a swimming pool surrounded by cut flowers and the scene lighted by white tapers. Five children, Virginia Joe Ashley, Reba Osborn, Velma Ray Boone, Glenn White and Lynn W. Duncan, gave a swimming pantomime and sang a parody on "The Old

Devotional Tea Is Favor Given By Dorcas Class

Honoring the T. E. L. class, members of the Dorcas Sunday School class were hostesses Wednesday afternoon at a devotional tea at the First Baptist church. Members of the Home Builders class were especially invited guests.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. C. L. Cooke, with Mrs. L. E. Low, Mrs. Lora Hinds and Miss Eunice Polk presiding at the punch bowl. Mrs. W. R. Franklin was at the registry.

Spring flowers were used to decorate the room and the tea table which was laid with lace featured an Easter theme with green lighted tapers on either side of the crystal punch bowl.

The devotional was given in the form of a Bible quiz followed by a prayer by Mother Hamm; a piano solo, Jean Barlow; reading, Selma Chapman; duet, Miss Mattie Cooke and Mrs. A. T. Lindley; reading, Mayme Gregory and reading by Peggy Jean Lindley.

Those present were Mesdames J. T. Brown, J. R. Cooke, J. H. Craig, G. E. Hamm, J. L. Pumphrey, S. L. Alexander, John Shipman, E. L. Brandon, W. R. Franklin, S. H. Davidson, A. T. Lindley, A. D. Smith, Ray Powers, C. L. Cooke, J. W. Dixon, L. E. Low, Lora Hinds, Misses Selma Chapman, Jean Barlow, Mayme Gregory, Eunice Polk, Mattie Cooke, and Peggy Jean Lindley.

Merri-Maids Met With Eva Lou Poe For Regular Meet

The Merri-Maids Club met Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Poe with their daughter, Eva Lou, as hostess.

A very interesting program was given on Easter as follows: "Why We Have Easter," by Novie Moreland; "The First Easter" by Juanita Inman; "Signs of Easter" by Nona Catherine Inman.

Delicious refreshments were served those present.

Spinning Wheel. Mrs. Charlie Chapman was hostess.

A log school house with dolls to represent school children formed the centerpiece of the September table with white tapers in black holders. Hostess was Mrs. Frank Williams. "School Sickness" was sung by June Frances Williams.

October table carried out the Halloween theme. The table cloth was covered with black cats and bats and centered with a large basket of pansies guarded by a black cat. The hostess was Mrs. F. J. Brophy. The McMurry quartet sang numbers of their own selection.

The November decorations were suggestive of Thanksgiving with turkeys and pumpkins placed on the festive board centered with an overflowing basket of fruits and nuts, yellow tapers in black holders. Hostesses were Mesdames T. V. Jennings and Babston. Their number was a reading by Ray Nell Gardner, "A Good Thanksgiving" and a Thanksgiving song by Mrs. Roy Crawford.

December carried out the Christmas theme. In the center was a bright Christmas tree and other decorations were silver bells, several little Santas, holly and red lighted tapers. Four little girls, Lavanda Baldwin, Mary Nell Cryer, Gladys Flowers, and Doris Babston, dressed in white robes and carrying lighted tapers, sang "Holy Night." Hostesses were Mesdames Guy Mullins, and Wm. Stevens. In conclusion, Mrs. Roy Crawford led the group in singing "Jingle Bells."

JOY S. S. Class Meeting Held at Inman Home Wed.

Members of the JOY Sunday School class of the First Baptist church met Wednesday afternoon with Miss Nona Catherine Inman for their regular monthly business and social meeting.

Minutes were read by the secretary and new and old business was discussed. In response to the roll call scriptures on "Answered Prayers" were given. Maydene Collins led a short devotional and "Prayer Changes Things" was sung by Imogene Thornton, and Leona Inman.

During the social hour many games were played and dainty refreshments were served to the following: Misses Illa Mae Vinson, Waldeen Coward, Annie Byrd MacFarland, Opal and Odell Martin, Ida Mae Bennett, Maydene Collins, Jewell Wyatt, Leona and Nona Catherine Inman and the teacher, Mrs. L. T. Smith.

Bridge Party is Given Wednesday to Honor Visitors

Mrs. A. Bourne was hostess Wednesday afternoon at bridge, honoring Mrs. L. LaRoe of White-wright and Mrs. Lee Wilbourn of Austin who are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mack.

An Easter theme was featured in game appointments and a green and yellow color scheme was given emphasis in the table covers and in the delectable salad plate which was served at the tea hour. Easter chicks and bunnies were used as plate favors.

In the games of contract, Mrs. A. J. McDaniel made high score and was awarded hand-embroidered pillow slips; Mrs. Joe H. Payne second high, a sandwich server and the honorees were presented dainty handkerchiefs.

Those present were Mesdames R. B. Mack, Ernest Caskey, Jack Wilkinson, V. C. Bradford, H. N. Lyle, E. D. Stringer, F. J. Brophy, A. J. McDaniel, R. H. Henslee, J. M. Skaggs, H. O. Jones, Lyle Deffebach, Joe H. Payne, Miss Gladys Oliver and the honorees, Mrs. LaRoe and Mrs. Wilbourn.

Mrs. R. B. Mack Is Hostess at Luncheon Tues.

Spring flowers adorned the rooms of the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mack Tuesday when Mrs. Mack was hostess at luncheon to favor members of the Emanon Contract club, her house guests, Mrs. L. LaRoe of White-wright and Mrs. Lee Wilbourn of Austin and a few invited guests.

A delectable menu was served in three courses and games of contract were enjoyed in the early afternoon hours. High score prize, for club members, a Frostoria crystal relish dish, was awarded Miss Bendena Spill and high for guests, a deck of cards, went to Miss Gladys Oliver. Mrs. LaRoe and Mrs. Wilbourn were also presented cards.

Others present were Mesdames J. M. Skaggs, A. Bourne, Jack Wilkinson, Roy Mack, Roy Maddox, Joe H. Payne, R. H. Henslee, H. N. Lyle.

MOPPING UP AFTER THE FLOOD

Fortunately the recent floods, which inundated great areas from Maine to Arkansas, took a comparatively small toll of human lives. Most people had ample warning and got out of the way before the waters reached them.

The property damage, however, was extremely heavy. The submerged districts included several great industrial centers and hundreds of smaller and thickly built up cities and towns. Nobody yet knows what it will cost to "mop up" the great factories and business houses, whose machinery, stock and equipment was damaged or ruined by mud and water, and to rebuild and refurnish the homes that were flooded.

Most of this work of rebuilding and replacement will have to be done promptly. Add to it the cost of rebuilding bridges, relaying tracks, replacing dams that were washed out, reconstructing highways, and setting up protective defenses against future floods, and the net result should be a tremendous demand for labor of all kinds, and for materials.

It is predicted that we may expect a widespread and general business boom, beginning just as quickly as decisions can be made, by the millions of persons affected, as to what needs to be done and how they are going to do it. The furniture industry, for example, is anticipating a heavy demand for new home and office furnishings to replace those ruined by the flood waters. So is the refrigerator industry, likewise the rug and carpet manufacturers. All of the building trades and the producers of building materials will benefit greatly.

There is a greater volume of unused credit in the banks of the United States today than ever before, and on easier terms, available to everybody who has a legitimate use for it. We can think of no more legitimate use for credit at this time than to rebuild and re-equip the devastated flood areas, building more substantially and with more adequate protection against the future.

One can be a fairly good liar without much practice.

THE TAX ON MOTORISTS

Car owners have submitted to the gasoline tax imposed by the Federal Government and by the several states with much better grace than taxpayers usually submit to taxation. This state of mind has come about because everyone who drives a car has been able to see direct and tangible benefits to himself in better highways paid by the gasoline tax revenues.

In several states, however, it has been found such an easy tax to collect that the taxing authorities have begun to divert the proceeds of the gasoline tax to other than highway uses. Mr. Alfred P. Sloan, President of General Motors, in the annual report of that corporation, decries this policy of diversion of the motor vehicle fees and gasoline taxes to other than highway purposes. He points out that nearly 20 per cent of the proceeds of state taxes levied upon highway users in 1934 was diverted to other purposes, and the tendency toward such diversion is growing. This, Mr. Sloan declares, "creates a tendency to neglect highway safety projects and we thus lose the benefit of roads engineered and built for safe travel."

There should be general agreement that this unfair use of the taxing power should be discontinued. In the course of a very few years the most magnificent system of highways existing anywhere in the world has been built in the United States, largely from the proceeds of the automobile and gasoline taxes. Motorists in general would pay even higher gasoline taxes than they now pay, without complaint, if they were assured of greater value for their money. They have a right to complain when some of this tax money is used for other than highway purposes.

Authentic Southwestern cowboy and range music will be used in "Cavalcade of Texas" the $150,000 dramatic spectacle to be staged at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas. David Guion, famous Texas composer, arranger of "Home on the Range," will supervise the musical score.

CAUSE AND EFFECT — by A. B. Chapin

The Washington Whirlpool

By Fraser Edwards

Washington, D. C., April 8.—Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, may have his Bill Borah to rend the Republican party asunder in 1936, just as William Howard Taft had his Teddy Roosevelt smash the G. O. P. with the Bull Moose movement in 1912.

For the glizzled, shaggy-mand independent Senator from Idaho stands as the guardian of the G. O. P. gates today, ready to use his matchless eloquence as a sword to mow down any Wall Street puppet the monopolistic interests seek to steamroll into the Republican nomination for President at the Cleveland Convention.

And President Franklin D. Roosevelt not only bids fair to reap a bumper re-election harvest out of the discord sown by a possible split in Republican ranks just as Woodrow Wilson did in 1912, but to achieve his ambition to make the Democratic party the dominant party in the nation.

In last week's dispatch, this writer suggested that a bolt by Senator Borah was altogether probable if the Old Guard manipulators at the Cleveland Convention shoved a stooge for fat boys down the throats of the delegates and tried to make them like it. Now it is no longer a matter of speculation. We have Borah's own thinly veiled threat. Speaking at Chicago, demanding that the men who represent monopoly shall not dominate the Republican Party, he said: "If monopoly is going to name the candidate and write the platform for the Cleveland Convention, I reserve my rights. I have no purpose, I have no plan to bolt. But I am going to reserve absolute freedom to look over the candidate and the platform of the Cleveland Convention."

Nothing could have been plainer than that warning, even the Borah's advisers deplore the emphasis placed on the statement as inspired by the opposition. Nor was there any doubt that "Big Bill" shook his shaggy locks at Alf Landon, primarily. But it applies with equal force to any other Republican candidate who gets tarried with the Wall Street brush.

No one who has known Borah as this observer has for 25 years can doubt his sincere desire to purge his Party. He is now 70 years old. He is taking a final fling at the G. O. P. nomination after flirting with the idea for 20 years. His own personal political fortunes concern him far less than a re-birth of the Republican Party. He is determined to rid it of Old Guardsmen dominated by politically-minded Wall Street interests. He will chuck his own candidacy out of the window rather than permit the big interests to name their own man and write the Cleveland platform.

Whether Borah would content himself with merely "taking a walk"—as Al Smith threatened to do on Roosevelt—if he loses his fight at Cleveland, or whether he would rally Progressive Republicans to his standard and form a new party as T. R. did in 1912, still remains a question. Borah, of course, stressed the fact that he has never bolted his party—not even in 1912, when Taft and Teddy came to the parting of the ways. In either event, the Republican high command admits a Borah bolt would be disastrous. If Borah simply "took a walk" a large majority of the 10,000,000 normally Republican and independent voters who cast their ballots for the New Deal in 1932 would be far more likely to follow Franklin D. Roosevelt again than to swallow a G. O. P. nominee with the Wall Street brand on him. This would serve to bring about a permanent alignment of the formerly Republican agricultural West with the Democratic Party and make Roosevelt's dream come true.

Some of the wise boys are taking bets on a gradual change in a national presidential poll subscribed for by Republican newspapers. The polls now show Roosevelt leading by 54.1 per cent of the straws taken in all States which would assure him of a wide margin in the Electoral College. But the boys believe that the poll will show a gradual decline as the campaign grows older. This is supposed to have some sort of a psychological effect on the voters, and win over the band wagon jumpers.

While Landon's pussyfooting campaign appears on the surface to be making headway, Borah's brutally blunt blast gave the Republican headmen a terrific jolt. They promptly revised their estimates that Alf had the nomination "in the bag." On the contrary, they predicted that if Borah persists, as he certainly will, in taking potshots at the Kansas, it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to nominate him, to say nothing of the danger of defeat with Alf as the standard bearer.

Hence the G. O. P. tops started scouring the bushes for a more acceptable candidate. They promptly counted out Col. Frank Knox, who admits that he and Landon "are much alike in viewpoints." In fact, they believe the gallant Colonel had no more right to enter the contest than Joe Dokes and regard him as merely a stalking horse for Landon now. Leather-lunged Senator L. J. Dickinson was considered no more available than any other Iowa hog-caller. Some suggest Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, as a dark horse. But the other recalled that Vandenberg declared in favor of the New Deal "with constructive vigilance," whatever that means, in his race for re-election in 1934. However, Van is now ranting against the New Deal and several inspired stories about him assuming the real Republican leadership of the Senate have appeared recently.

So the search goes on and the Republican high command is just as unhappy as Brother Crawford's wife of Amos and Andy fame.

For downright gall, Col. Frank Knox capped the climax by espousing the Democratic tariff theory in his speech at Philadelphia. While the Chicago publisher decried the "one-sided" reciprocal tariff treaties negotiated by Secretary of State Hull, he declared for an adjustment of tariffs by international negotiation and against political logrolling in Congress. Now the Democrats are worrying for fear the Republican candidates will steal more of their thunder.

It is quite noticeable that the Republican newspapers in the East and many Republican spellbinders are piping-down on the abuse that was heaped upon President Roosevelt for many months. They discovered a little late that it was having a profound reaction in favor of the President among the people. The latest to raise his voice against campaigning by denunciation is Charles P. Taft, son of the former President and brother of Robert A. Taft, who is running against Borah as Ohio's favorite son in the Buckeye state primary.

The William Randolph Hearst Republican ticket is Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, a vocal dry, and Representative James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York rampant wringing wet in the days when it was politically dangerous to espouse repeal. Up to now, Hearst and Wadsworth have never seen eye-to-eye on any political proposition, except the repeal issue. So when the affable Jimmy heard about the espousal of his name for the Vice-Presidential nomination by the publisher, he exclaimed: "This sounds like a foul plot to bury me."

So many pledges for large contributions are pouring into G. O. P. headquarters that Republican National Chairman Henry P. Fletcher is becoming alarmed. He sees the danger of the public getting on to the fact that the G. O. P. is running a Mark Hanna campaign with a boodle barrel. So they are trying to figure out a method of spending this money thru auxiliaries. This flood of gold is in marked contrast with the lean days at Republican headquarters during the 1934 campaign. At that time they were nearly a year in arrears on the rent and when Saturday night came, the employees did not know whether it was pay-day or just Saturday night.

One of the oddest features of the Republican campaign is the universal demand for a balanced Federal budget. This demand does not seem to take into consideration the fact that the chief unbalancing is due to the funds spent for relief of the jobless, destitute, homeless and hungry. President Roosevelt could have kept the budget balanced if Republican votes in Congress had not aided in the destruction of the Economy Act and if he had been willing to let the people starve. Hence, the demand for a balanced budget is tantamount to a declaration in favor of starvation and to allow the farmers to stow in the juice of five cent cotton, ten cent corn and two-bit wheat, brewed for them by the Hoover administration.

Governor Landon sure has his eye on the wet votes in the Eastern states. He startled the people of bone-dry Kansas by refusing to become a trustee of the Anti-Saloon League, a post held by his predecessors in office for years. His refusal was all the more startling because during his campaign for re-election in 1934, in which he fought for the retention of the bone-dry provision of the state constitution, he declared, "The blood of the W. C. T. U. runs in my veins."

Getting something for nothing deprives at least two of their deserts.

and rose in a mellow mood to eat his luncheon. As chance would have it, there wasn't a vacant chair in the place, except across from Mrs. Wynant. Well, he could stand looking at her. He sat down and reached for the menu.

"Good-morning, Mr. Macduff. Have you been on the river?" Angela enquired, turning her dark eyes full on his face. Macduff had never had any trouble in being rude, and had cut more cordial advances than this, but the four Union Jacks were behind him, the sun was bright, and he liked the way that Angela did her hair. He thought he would unbend.

"No," he said. "I suppose you've seen it before and then it doesn't matter. I took Patty Arundel with me, and it made her ill. Hygiene, you know. They teach the American young that cleanliness is far ahead of godliness."

Macduff looked suspiciously at Angela. Was she, by any chance, making fun of him? But no, her face was kind and open.

"It's a pity your husband couldn't make the entire trip."

"Heavens!" thought Angela, "the man's a boor!" A shadow darkened her face. "Yes, I'm very sorry," she said. "He couldn't get away for so long. Of course, when one is a writer it doesn't matter, where one is—work can go on. Are you writing, Mr. Macduff?"

"No," said Macduff, shortly. "I never combine my business with pleasure."

Not the Payments But Improvements Form Greatest Value in Farm Plan

College Station — Not how much money can be gotten out of the new agricultural program, but how much will it help improve sound farming is the fundamental question to be asked, according to A. L. Smith, who has charge for the Extension Service of putting into action plans made under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act.

He suggests that every farmer map out his fields as he would like to farm them—to make the farm cropping plan that he knows would hold and build up the land, and which he has not used because of lack of money. "When that is done let each farmer investigate the new AAA soil conservation program to see how it fits. In most cases farmers will be surprised at how closely the new program fits their own plans," he adds.

To farmers who apply for them, after completing the program of approved soil conserving and soil building practices, grants of money will be made later in the year because soil conservation and sustained farm buying power are of vital importance to the Nation. For this reason the Government teams up with the farmer to help finance the job of making American farms secure, Smith points out.

Farmers whose farm plans for 1936 conform to the flexible soil conserving program may be paid at the rate of 5 cents per pound for the normal lint cotton yield on land from this soil depleting crop or use that protects and restores the soil. Not more than 35 percent of the base acreage of cotton may be shifted to form the basis of a payment, and that only if the total in the county does not exceed 25 percent.

Throckmorton — Contouring 70 acres of land in 1934 gave H. E. Bulies, Throckmorton county farmer, $300 more profit in 1935 than he would have realized had the contouring not been done, according to R. O. Dunkle, county agricultural agent.

The 70 acres produced 165 pounds of lint cotton per acre, while near-by lands not contoured produced only 130 pounds per acre. The contouring was done in August 1934 at a total cost of $32.

Giddings — Terracing to stop the washing and fill up the ditches in his field is the first step that A. N. Beasley of the Adiana community in Lee county has taken in restoring the fertility of 50 acres of his farm, according to L. M. Gandy, county agricultural agent.

Beasley aptly describes the fertility of his farm when he states that today 25 acres are necessary to produce as much corn as 70 rows did when he put the land into cultivation.

This land was very difficult to terrace, as the major portion of the farm sloped from both sides to the center of the field where a large ditch was forming. This ditch, if not prevented, would take out 10 acres of good land. The land had an average slope of eight percent and in the last 15 years had washed down to the clay.

Conroe — By the use of artificial inoculation on his peanuts in 1935, C. H. Page of Montgomery county increased the production of both peanuts and hay by 35 to 40 percent, according to G. L. Clyburn, county agricultural agent.

"The difference in the inoculated plants and those that were not inoculated, was visible right up to the row," Page said. "It seems that any farmer could hardly make a better investment than the 20 or 25 cents per acre for artificial inoculation of peanuts and legumes. Although cowpeas and peanuts will grow in this section without the addition of bacteria to the soil, it has been learned recently that a fresh supply of "canned" bacteria often increases the yield noticeably."

"The new farm act to be based on the conservation of our soil" comments The Farmer-Stockman in an editorial in March 15 issue, "will be just as valuable as we make it."

"If we take the attitude that the conservation of the soil is made the excuse for paying cash benefits to farmers, we will do merely those things necessary to get the money."

"That sort of farming can't continue. Sooner or later it runs its course. The gullied hillsides and the dead, hard soils which contain no longer a proper store of humus testify to our destruction."

"In the past three to five years we have done, in total, a fine lot of terracing. But the known total of land terraced as compared to that needing terracing, does not comprise a record of which we can be proud. The big job is still ahead of us."

"In fact, we have not yet reached the point that we are holding our own. We are losing soil faster than we are saving it. This new program can reach

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

Housekeeping is a hazardous occupation. More than 100,000 fatal accidents occur annually in this country. And between one-quarter and one-third of them happen right in our homes. Careful investigation has shown that very few such accidents are unavoidable. A large percentage of them are due to negligence and carelessness; and as such they could be anticipated and avoided or prevented.

These hazards in housekeeping fall into four classifications:

First: Mechanical (due to falls, slipping, ladders, cuts, etc.).
Second: Fire (from accumulations of rubbish, spontaneous combustion, carelessness with fuels and matches, etc.).

Third: Electrical (shock, short-circuit, defective apparatus, etc.).
Fourth: Miscellaneous (poisons, polishing and cleaning materials, etc.).

Spring cleaning season is an excellent time to check over your home, study the risks and dangers and how to prevent them. The home may be considered on the same status as the industrial shop or factory from the standpoint of accident and fire prevention. The housekeeper is the executive of the home and should keep in mind that prevention is always the efficient and economical guide in matters of safety and health. An ounce of prevention is worth more than a pound of cure.

The coat with fly-front (buttons concealed under a stitched panel of cloth) is a new idea for spring. One particular good model of this type comes in soft navy blue woolen.

A new unbreakable glass manicure stick promises to supplant the familiar orange wood. It is used to put nail whitener under the nails and to push back the cuticle. The glass surface is said to be ideal for these purposes.

Leap Year, in the revised calendar every farmer in the South during the first year of its operation. If we whole-heartedly accept the program, we can, in 1936, make a most definite start in conserving the soil resources on each and every farm.

"Up to this good day we have mined our soil of the store of fertility which nature put in it. Few of us have farmed to maintain the fertility. That farm is an exception which is as fertile as the day it was broken out."

"... this new farm bill will be offered to every farmer engaged in growing any of the major crops. Thus the set-up is perfect for getting the maximum results on the shortest possible time. If we do our whole part, we will find at the end of three to five years that we have stopped our loss of soil and have, at last, started the process of building back to a once more productive agriculture."

endar which the League of Nations expects to establish throughout the world in 1939, will be unchanged, except that the extra day will be shifted from February 29th to the middle of the year. In the proposed new calendar February will have 30 days and Leap Year will come as an "extra Saturday" between June 30 and July 1. An "extra Saturday" would obviously create a longer week-end and it is suggested that this day be considered as an international holiday.

Files should never be used on the nails, say beauty experts. A rusty file may cause serious infection, or may have an uneven edge that leaves the nails rough and ragged. We all know how easily the slightest snag on a nail has a way of catching one's silk dress or stocking, damaging the nail as well as the material. An emery board is recommended by the experts. And go over the nails lightly every day. Forming this habit will keep them always beautifully shaped and smooth.

The faithful hen that cackles to announce its egg, has a modern foster child, a biddie that peeps when an egg is boiled. Originated by a manufacturer exhibiting in the Chicago Merchandise Mart, a container to boil eggs has a small chicken on top which peeps when the egg is cooked to the desired solidity. The time is regulated by the amount of water placed in the top compartment.

NEW TEXAS ALMANAC
The book of 100,000 facts—the 1936 edition of the Texas Almanac—is just off the press. It is the largest volume in the history of this publication—a total of 512 pages, on better grade of paper and more profusely illustrated. The 1936 book, although designated as the "Centennial Edition" and compiled in tribute to the grand celebration in Texas this year, misses only twenty-one years of reaching its own centennial year, having first been issued in 1857 by the Galveston News, the parent organization of The Dallas News, its present publishers.

While much new material of historical nature is included in the new issue, none of the chapters that has made The Texas Almanac the standard reference book of Texas in the past has been omitted. The names of several thousand individuals appear in its pages.

Features of the current issue include an extensive description of the Texas Centennial, including celebrations at Dallas and other points in the State, an outline of the history of Texas from its beginnings to the present, an illustrated chapter on the wild flowers of Texas, lists of the different kinds of trees and wild animals found in Texas, extensive lists of historic old towns and origins of names of Texas towns, a text of the State Constitution with all its amendments and brief account of submission of all adopted amendments since adoption of the Constitution, and the new farm census figures of 1935. There is much of interest for the coming political campaign, including the current poll tax payments by counties. All figures on State, county and city bonded debt are brought up to date. There are several chapters devoted to points of interest for the Centennial tourist in Texas, and a new map made in four colors especially for this edition of the Texas Almanac, entitled "Texas for Tourists," is folded between the leaves of each volume.

There are more than 100,000 facts about the history, natural resources, crops, livestock, industries, commerce, transportation, finance, government, politics, educational system, cultural institutions and other phases of Texas economic, political and social development.

The Texas Almanac, always in demand by business and professional men and women and students in the Lone Star State, will be more in demand this year than ever before. Texas history is more glamorous and richly appealing on the State's 100th birthday. Thousands of out-of-state visitors and newcomers will find this birthday edition particularly acceptable. No individual or organization is so thoroughly equipped to present in book form a compendium of Texas data. Facts and figures come from all parts of the State to find, in well edited form, their niche in this widely demanded handbook on Texas — its past, present and future.

little T. V. A. of the Brazos and the Colorado as yardsticks through comparative rates. If the company can't meet comparative rates on a fair basis, it should have no cause to complain. This company will under-estimate, by more than 20 per cent, the T. V. A. power costs, if the public will be the umpire and insist that the accounting set up by the Federal Power Commission for the utilities shall also be used by the government subsidized utilities, including interest, depreciation and taxes. Under such accounting, the costs of T. V. A. were recently estimated to be $68.25 to produce and distribute a kilowatt year of prime sales—for which the T. V. A. proposes to collect from the user $30. The federal taxpayer, you and I even in this far off section, will be called upon to help shoulder the remaining $38.25, let alone the indefinite but tremendous amount of lost taxes which have heretofore been paid by utilities in that area.

One company alone which is to be destroyed contributed more than $2,000,000 per year.

In reviewing, Mr. Campbell stated that in general this company's contingencies are fewer at this time than they were last year and prospects are better for crop conditions and a greater volume of business in West Texas which would in turn improve the company's position, all of which he hoped might permit it to make some increase in its dividend to preferred stockholders, of which more than 70 per cent are in Texas and 51 per cent in West Texas. The company's earning position will be reviewed from time to time by the directors to be elected today and when it is possible, these payments will be increased.

A review of the report just received from the Federal Power Commission on rates was made which disclosed that West Texas Utilities Company's net average residential rates are below that of the average over the nation and for the state of Texas, and below that of similar sized communities and 17 per cent below that of the average of all municipal plants in the state of Texas, even though it pays large amounts in taxes to the various governing bodies. Payment made in taxes this previous year was 60 per cent more than was paid to all stockholders. Electric service costs average about 1-20th the taxes the average household pays in various ways, according to the Bureau of Census and other government sources.

After adjournment of stockholders' meeting, the directors held a meeting, electing the officers and transacting their regular monthly business.

S. K. McCasland and family returned to their home in Wharton Tuesday after a few days' visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. McCasland.

JACK FROST IN WINTERS

Texas-Made Products Advertised by Factory Representative.
Jack Frost, 240-pound factory representative of the Waples-Platter Grocery company, was in Winters Monday advertising Texas-made canned goods packed by the company, using the slogan, "What Texas Makes, Makes Texas." Mr. Frost has been connected with the company for thirty-three years.

The Waples-Platter Grocery company factory site covers 27 acres and has a canning plant of a daily capacity of 63,000 cans. Texas is 100 years old and the Waples-Platter company has been in business 64 years of that century. It started in a tent on the banks of the Red River in 1872 and is now the largest wholesale grocer, coffee roaster and canner south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Joe Briley, an old Winters boy, has been with the company 17 years and is now covering a county territory out of Fort Worth.
