SPECIAL COSTUMES ARE DESIGNED FOR EACH CHILD.

Closing speech recital of Mrs. Morey Millerman will be given at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock on the night of Friday, May 15th.

The program is to consist of three parts: "School Days," a play featuring Junior students in songs, readings, and dances; "Elmer," a one-act comedy by Beatrice Humiston McNeil, in which older students are to appear; and a group of special numbers, skits, readings, playlets, between these two plays.

The climax occurs after Susan has received a lovely new evening coat, her first brand new garment, and Janie has demanded that she be permitted to wear it before Susan does. The coat disappears, and the excitement and comedy begin. Susan's part is enacted by Helen Hamor. Selma Chapmond carries the role of Jeanie, Shirley Cole, Janie. Miss Luisa Pinney, the dressmaker, is played by Nita Merle Lindley, Mrs. Collier, Eugenia Conlee. Myra Nell Hamor plays Fannie Belle, the colored girl, and C. S. Jackson plays Hubert Brown, who becomes involved in the mystery of the missing coat when he comes to take Janie to a dance.

Special numbers to be given between these plays include "The Beautiful Lady in Blue," "Umbrellas Built for Two," "Dolly Has the Flu," "The Tin Soldier and the Doll from France," "Movie Pests," "Naughty Pickaninies," "The Cutest Kids in Town," "Captain Kid, That's Me," "Grandmother's Patchwork Quilt," "Four Little Aids at Tea," and "The Boy Who Didn't Pass."

PIANO PUPILS OF MRS. L. T. SMITH MAKE HONOR ROLL

FOUR GIRLS ENTERED NATIONAL PIANO CONTEST.

Four piano pupils of Mrs. L. T. Smith entered the National Piano-Playing tournament held at Abilene Friday and Saturday, May 1 and 2 and all four made the national honor roll with superior rating. The pupils were Jane Hodges, Mary Evelyn Perkins, Rhea Sue Bartlett and Jean Barlow.

The National Piano-Playing Tournament, founded in 1929, has grown from an enrollment of 46 pupils in 1929 to a total of more than 4,000 young pianists in 1936. The events are held in more than 40 major cities from Boston to Los Angeles. In each city where tournaments are held teachers bring their prepared pupils together to play for an imported examiner, a teacher of experience who is sent in by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, Inc., to hear the pupils play.

The pupils strive to make honor rolls. There are three honor rolls, the District, the State and the National. An 80 per cent average upon pieces played gives the student the honor roll for which he has been prepared (good rating). A 90 per cent average puts the pupil in the High Honor class (excellent rating). A 95 per cent average adds highest honors to his achievement (superior rating.)

Jane Hodges entered ten selections; Mary Evelyn Perkins, fifteen selections; Rhea Sue Bartlett, fifteen selections; and Jean Barlow, twenty selections. All four made highest honors.

SOUTH HIGHWAY WILL BE OPENED FIRST OF WEEK

CONSTRUCTION WORK TO BE FINISHED TOMORROW.

Clay Simpson, who has the contract under the L. E. Whitcomb Construction Co., for the topping of Highway 4 from Winters south to the precinct line, stated yesterday that barring unfavorable weather, he expected to complete this work tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon.

Mr. Simpson stated that it was the custom of the State Highway Department to allow three days for roads to season after they have been finished before they were opened to traffic, and if this custom is followed he expects the order from the highway department to open the road on Wednesday of next week.

This road has been closed several weeks during the past six months, causing much inconvenience to through traffic as well as local citizens and especially members of the Winters Country Club, located five miles south of town on this highway.

CITY TO FORCE PAYMENT OF PAST DUE WATER BILLS

DELINQUENTS TO FACE "NO WATER" SITUATION.

Mayor J. W. Copeland stated yesterday that there were entirely too many customers of the city water department who wanted the service, but were unwilling to pay the cost and that he could figure out but one way to meet the situation and that was by "cutting off" the water.

"We have entirely too many people who are failing to pay their water bills, and in all fairness to those who do pay, we will be forced to cut off the water service to those who are habitually delinquent," said the mayor.

Continuing, the mayor said: "The council has made provisions whereby no one should be deprived of water service. The city has a plan whereby citizens may receive the minimum amount of water without cost, if you are willing to be placed upon the charity list, and the council decides that it where you belong, but you must make proper application for this service. The other plan is to pay your water bills."

"While the task is distasteful, nevertheless action is necessary, and unless you want your water cut off, you had better make arrangements to take care of your water bill, if it is delinquent," concluded Mayor Copeland.

A baby boy was born Friday, May 1st to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Plouff. He was given the name of Jerry Donald.

Mr. and Mrs. Reubin Kiser are announcing the arrival of a baby boy who was born on May 4th.

PROGRESS BEING MADE ORGANIZING COOPERATIVE GIN

H. K. REID, NEW MGR., WORKING ON ORGANIZATION

H. K. Reid, recently elected manager of the new co-operative gin company being organized here among cotton growers, said yesterday that he was meeting with satisfactory success in placing the stock of the gin with farmers of this section, and that he had no doubt of ultimate success in forming the company among farmers of this territory.

J. W. Cowan, cousin of Mr. Reid, who resides at Munday, recently wrote him the following letter relative to the operation of the cooperative gin at that place:

"The Farmers Union Gin was organized here in 1914 and since that time has returned over $400,000 to the patrons. The plant was bought without a single dollar being put up or cost to any man. The gin was bought on time and was paid for and also returned a dividend the first year.

"The Farmers Union Gin expanded to three plants before the cotton reduction program was put into effect, and the number of bales ginned in a year was over 10,000.

"This gin has not missed paying a dividend for the past six years, paying $4 per bale last season on about 8,200 bales. We ginned for 30c per hundred. The gin has a tendency to keep ginning costs down here and in surrounding territory, although we charge just like the others, as the customers get cost ginning.

"This gin draws trade to this town that would otherwise go to other towns if it were not for the gin's dividends."

Wrecks Car Enroute to Funeral in South Texas

Unconfirmed reports were received here the first of the week that Arthur Smith wrecked a new Standard Chevrolet Coach while enroute to South Texas near Robstown where he had gone to attend the funeral of Mrs. Herman Bullock who died while visiting in the Smith home here.

It is understood here that the car was so badly damaged that a wrecker was necessary to move it into town.

Mrs. W. B. Cotton who was one of the occupants of the car received minor injuries but we were unable to secure definite details about the other occupants of the car before going to press late yesterday.

It is believed that Mr. Smith who was driving the car dozed on account of loss of so much sleep during the serious illness of Mrs. Bullock and the car ran into the abutment of a culvert.

FARMERS CROWD TO SIGN UP NEW FARM PROGRAM

AGENT AND HELPERS UNABLE TO FINISH THE WORK.

County Agent Barton said yesterday afternoon that he and seven helpers were unable to sign up many farmers here who wanted to cooperate with the government's new farm program, owing to their inability to do the work within the two days—Wednesday and Thursday—set aside for the Winters district.

Throughout both days farmers crowded the building on North Main street, where the sign-up work was being done, and while considerably more than two hundred farmers were signed up, the workers were unable to wait upon many more.

Mr. Barton said that if those farmers who wished to sign up, and failed to get waited upon Wednesday and Thursday, would turn in their names to one of the county committeemen or direct to him, he would make arrangements for their signing of the agreement. It was possible, he stated, that another day for signing up would be set aside for Winters.

It is estimated that about 50 per cent of the farmers of the county have signed up for the new program, and when the work is finished it is expected the figure would reach 75 per cent.

Dick Powell in "Thanks a Million," Season's Greatest Show Coming to Queen Theatre Sunday and Monday

"SHOW THEM NO MERCY" IS THE FEATURE FILM SHOWING TODAY AND SATURDAY WITH "BOULDER DAM" COMING TUESDAY.

There are a million dollars worth of stars singing, dancing, kidding and romancing in the new 20th Century musical spectacle, "Thanks a Million," showing Sunday and Monday at the Queen Theatre. "Show Them No Mercy" is the featured attraction showing today and tomorrow. "Boulder Dam" the Warner Bros. picture which comes to the Queen Tuesday and Wednesday has a left-handed leading man and leading lady. They are Ross Alexander and Patricia Ellis. A murder mystery of quite some originality is heading in the direction of the Queen. It is Columbia's "Guard That Girl" a thriller to be shown Thursday.

"Thanks a Million"

The story concerns itself with the incredible adventures of a party of troopers, who are being herded through the one-night stops by the mis-guided genius of showmanship, Fred Allen. As fate would have it, they become involved in a madcap political campaign, Dick Powell becomes attached to an exquisite character played by Margaret Irving, and it is not until the climax that the complications are cleared up. That is just the brief outline of the story, but it gives you some idea of the gorgeous fun it contains. The comedy, of course, reaches its highest peaks when Fred Allen and Patsy Kelly are occupying the screen, or when Raymond Walburn is indulging in his drunken high-jinks. Powell, who gives a sterling performance throughout, has been more than fortunate in the choice of songs, almost everyone of them a hit. Besides Dick Powell, Fred Allen, and Patsy Kelly the cast has other notables such as Ann Dvorak, Paul White-man and his band, Raymond Walburn and the Yacht Club Boys. The romantic feeling between Ann Dvorak and Dick Powell is strong, while Allen and Patsy Kelly indulge in a comedy variation of the same feeling.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, May 6.—It begins to look as though Congress would not, after all, succeed in adjourning before the first of the major party national conventions. The Republicans are to meet in Cleveland on June 9, and the Democrats in Philadelphia on June 23. But before Congress can adjourn it has to get the new tax legislation out of the way, if nothing else, besides enacting one or two deficiency bills and appropriating some more money for relief. The outlook now is that this will take considerably more than a month.

The tax bill, as reported by the House Ways and Means Committee, consists of 259 book pages of fine print, which the House is supposed to analyze, debate, discuss and pass upon before the Senate takes its whirl at the problem. Some of the members of the House Committee claim that they understand the bill. Most economists, tax experts and Congressmen of both houses say that it is too complicated for anybody to understand in the form in which the Committee has drafted it. The real new tax law will be drawn up in the Senate and handed back to the House for concurrence. All of this is going to take a lot of time.

New Convention Strategy
Democratic leaders are beginning to say that perhaps, after all, it may be good strategy for Congress to be still in session while the Republicans are nominating their candidate and announcing their platform at Cleveland. Practically all the Republican members of both Houses will be attending that convention. That will leave a clear field for a lot of Democratic oratory in the halls of Congress, where it will get better headlines than if it were merely scattered utterances by individual Democrats. By this bit of strategy, it is believed, whatever the Republicans propose may be offset in the headlines before the Democratic Convention meets, and even before the Republican Convention adjourns.

The subject of party platforms is receiving more and more attention. It is the general feeling here that President Roosevelt, in his Jefferson Day speech in New York on April 25, laid down the general lines which the Democratic platform will follow. That party's appeal to the people, if this assumption is correct, will be based upon the assertion that recovery has been brought about under and by the present Administration.

The Democratic platform is expected to point with pride to the record while promising still greater prosperity if the party is reelected. There will quite possibly be coupled with this some reference to the way in which the Federal Government has taken care of the unemployed, perhaps accompanied by a demand that business and industry make a stronger effort to take up the slack.

Campaign Outlook

If the Democratic campaign management takes its cue from the tone of the President's address, the Presidential campaign of 1936 will be quieter than has been anticipated. Word has been passed out to all of the Administration's publicity bureaus to tread lightly from now on upon the toes of the Opposition, and to put out nothing which will tend to stir up partisan antagonism or furnish ammunition to the Republicans. If that policy can be made to stick with campaign spokesmen for the Administration it may prove highly effective.

The Republican leadership is still struggling with the shaping of its platform and the points to be emphasized by Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, who has been selected to make the keynote speech at Cleveland, as temporary chairman of the Republican Convention.

Senator Steiwer thus comes into the limelight as a national figure, and there is naturally some talk of him as a possible "dark horse" Presidential candidate. He comes from the Far West, which is geographically good politics. He has a clean record for party regularity and is highly regarded by his colleagues in the Senate, though little known to the general public. Less well-known men than Senator Steiwer, have, however, been nominated and elected to the Presidency in the past.

The GOP Contest

The contest in the Republican Convention on the early ballots now seems likely to be between Governor Landon and Col. Knox. Col. Knox believes that he will have three hundred votes on the first ballot. Gov. Landon's friends claim more than that for him on the first ballot. It takes 501 votes to nominate. Nobody knows yet how many votes Senator Borah will have, but he will have a good many, perhaps 200 or more. Senator Vandenberg will have the 38 Michigan votes on the first ballot. The present outlook is that there will be some votes for Senator Dickinson.

The real question, however, as political observers here see it, is whether the strength of these minor blocks of delegates will be thrown to Landon or to Knox. Few believe that Knox can attract to himself enough votes to gain the nomination. Senator Borah will have greater influence in the convention than the number of his delegates might imply, and that will not be small. He will not throw his strength to Col. Knox, but he might, in order to defeat Gov. Landon, join his strength with the Knox strength to advance Senator Vandenberg's claim.

The Republican situation has really resolved into a "Stop-

Strike!!

Landon" movement. Whether that movement has started too late to be effective is still in doubt. Some of the experienced political observers here are drawing a parallel between this Stop-Landon movement and the Stop-Roosevelt movement of four years ago, and are predicting a similar failure.

Eighth Birthday Is Celebrated By Ladell Denton Fri.

Ladell Denton celebrated his eighth birthday anniversary Friday afternoon with a party at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Denton.

Games were played on the lawn that were interesting to children until a late hour and refreshments of ice cream cones, cookies and lemonade were served to the following little guests: Mord Tucker, Charles Baker, Lynn W. Duncan, Bobby Ray Little, Edwin Barlow, Carter Chapman, John Edward McAdoo, Mary Sue Cooke, Pat Harmon, Reba Jean Osbourne, Elsie Pauline Hart, May Dell Henniger, Jennie Joe Ashley, Velma Ray Boone and the little host.

Believe it or not. Went to a picture show last night and the hero never once said "O. K. baby," and the heroine was original to the extent that she never once said "oh year."

Junior-Senior Banquet Colorful Affair Given Fri.

West Texas in the early period of settlement gave the theme for decorations and the program Friday evening when the Junior class of Winters high school and their sponsors, Miss Edgar Parten and Mr. Joe Martin, were hosts at the annual Junior-Senior banquet.

Red, white and blue colors were featured in the floral decorations for the center of the U-shaped table with bowls outlined with red roses and filled with Queen Anne's lace, blue and white delphinium in attractive arrangement. A miniature log cabin was the central decoration for the table and hand-painted Texas cowboys with lariats held the program. Place cards, miniature lariats and spur, marked places for more than one hundred guests.

A typical West Texas scene created the background for the setting with artistic arrangement of rocks, cacti and mesquite trees. The new moon rising thru the trees completed the natural picture for the stage where Dewey Shot, Calvin King, Gerald and Merle Proctor played appropriate string music during the dinner hour and for the program.

Charles Gardner, president of the Junior class, served as toastmaster and the invocation was given by Mr. Caskey, principal of the school. Selma Chapmond gave the welcome and Bill Roundtree talked on "Western Hospitality." A pageant "History of West Texas" was given with Frances Lyle as the reader. Horace Cooke and Nancy Pyburn depicted Indians; Truett Nance and Riley Jackson, first settlers; Lawrence Jennings and Sherrill Oliver, Texas Rangers; Sedic Poe, Spaniard; Clois Mapes, cowboy; Lohma Hoover, cow girl; David Chapman, priest.

Besides members of the two classes others present were Supt. and Mrs. E. D. Stringer, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Caskey, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Martin, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Hill, Miss Edgar Parten and Mr. Phil Davidson.

Literary, Service Club Officials Entertain at Tea

Social activities of the Literary and Service club were brought to a close Saturday afternoon when officers of the club entertained at tea at the American Legion Hall honoring the incoming officials.

Vases and bowls of roses with potted ferns in attractive arrangement about the room gave the floral setting, and the club colors, green and white, were given emphasis in the programs.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. J. M. Skaggs and others in the receiving line were the hostesses, honorees and a guest artist, Miss Bonita McGahey, of Simmons university. Hostesses were Mrs. W. G. Bedford, president; Mrs. J. M. Skaggs, first vice president; Mrs. Harris Mullin, second vice president; Miss Marie Hill, third vice president; Mrs. V. C. Bradford, recording secretary; Mrs. Lyle Deffebach, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. E. Caskey, treasurer; Mrs. Chas. Chapman, parliamentarian, Mrs. Wm. Stevens, critic, Mrs. L. E. Low, reporter.

THE PARTNERSHIP

The bank that realizes its responsibility to the citizenship of the community—and gives its best to absolve that responsibility—is certainly an institution that may be depended upon to render real cooperation to its customers.

This institution has grown in strength through the confidence and support of the bank depositors of this section. In turn, we are extending to them every courtesy consistent with our conservative policy, using every effort within our power to handle the affairs of our customers in a manner that will make them happy in their contacts with us and proud of their bank.

It is only by knowing each other better that we can accomplish the relationship that will promote our mutual interests.

Shipmates Club Enjoys Hike Fri.

On Friday morning at 10 o'clock, the captain and crew of the "Shipmates Together Club" took "land leave" to go on a hike. The members of the club met in front of the American Legion Hall loaded with "provisions." The hike was made to a creek about five miles east of town, where a delightful picnic lunch was enjoyed. It was decided that no more "voyages" would be made for a month or two as the club would disperse for the summer vacation.

Which man has made the greatest success of life, the man who has amassed a fortune and built a great industry and has not content, or the man who has small means, a small home, a small business, a few friends and contentment?

While a considerable number of people refuse to subscribe to the theory that the human race descended from the monkey, there is this to say, no one ever saw a two faced monkey.

CRIME AND POLITICS

The activities of the Governor of New Jersey in the case of Bruno Hauptmann did not prevent the execution of the death sentence upon the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. They did have the effect, however, of stirring the whole world to sneering and contemptuous comments upon the administration of justice in America.

Few fair-minded persons ever questioned the justice of Hauptmann's conviction. The evidence against him was overwhelming and the testimony on his behalf of the flimsiest character. The fairness of his trial was affirmed by the highest court of New Jersey and reaffirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States; the State Board of Pardons refused to intervene on his behalf. People may honestly differ as to whether the death penalty is ever justified, but it is difficult to imagine an honest difference of intelligent opinion on the question of Hauptmann's guilt.

Why, then, did the Governor of New Jersey interfere in so many ways which kept Hauptmann from paying the consequences of his crime? One of the most often heard answers put forward is that Governor Hoffman was actuated by political motives, arising from factional quarrels in his own state.

The close relation between crime and politics has long been a national scandal. Crime can never be stamped out or controlled so long as politics and politicians have anything to do with the administration of justice.

CENTENNIAL COINS

Centennial half-dollars provide for patriotic Texans more than an opportunity merely to obtain a souvenir of the Centennial celebration.

The specially minted half-dollars are being sold for a dollar each. Proceeds of the sale will be used to finance the building of a Texas Memorial Museum on the campus of the University of Texas at Austin.

Such a building is sorely needed. Priceless relics of Texas history now are housed in flimsy structures which are not fire-proof. There is no central museum where documents, rare old books and historical objects can be assembled under one roof where they will be available for inspection by this and future generations of Texans.

Documents, old letters, rare books and photographs are mouldering in dusty attics or musty cellars throughout Texas. There is little incentive at present for their owners to donate them to libraries or State institutions. When this central historical shrine is completed, they will be encouraged to give this priceless material to the State so that it may be preserved as a permanent record of Texas history.

Libraries throughout the State have accumulated a large amount of this material, but since it is scattered and unindexed it is of little value. When it is collected in the Memorial Museum, as it undoubtedly will be, it will be

TODAY and TOMORROW

FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE

ALCOHOL . . . from U. S. Crops
Mussolini rides in a motor car which uses alcohol for fuel. Italy can produce alcohol but it cannot produce gasoline. In America we have been talking about alcohol as a motor fuel, or a mixture of alcohol and gasoline, for a long time. This has been put forward as a means of helping the farmer.

We still have plenty of oil reserves and cheaper gasoline than anywhere else in the world. We also have cheaper alcohol, mostly made from imported molasses, for which we pay about 2 1-2 cents a gallon. Alcohol produced from American farm products would be several times as expensive. Moreover, practical automobile engineers say that nobody has yet devised an engine that will work as well on alcohol as the present engines.

I don't think we are going to get very far in that direction.

GAS . . . many sources

Up in the country a good many of my neighbors are using a "bottled gas" for cooking. It comes in long cylindrical tanks, some of it just ordinary coal gas and some natural gas under pressure.

The other day an automobile ran through the streets of Detroit propelled by natural gas. Two small tanks carried enough gas to run a heavy car 70 miles.

That is another interesting experiment. Also, it is something that would be more useful in countries where cheap gasoline is not available everywhere. In London they are running busses on ordinary illuminating gas in tanks. Gasoline costs one-and-sixpence a gallon in England. That is about 38 cents. It costs about the same in Germany, where they are running some trucks and busses carrying their own gas generators, using wood, coal or charcoal to manufacture the gas inside the vehicle.

All of those things are expedients which do not seem economical from the American point of view.

CLASSES . . . not here

Ours is the only country in which humanity is not divided into distinct and usually hostile classes. We have here no peasantry tied to the soil as they have on the continent of Europe; no working class hopeless of ever getting out of that class, as in England.

I see and hear of many efforts to make groups of Americans class-conscious, but I don't come of inestimable value to present day students of history and historians of the future. Texans should join enthusiastically in this project by purchasing the commemorative half-dollars.

think any of them will succeed in setting class against class because it is so easy for any American to remove himself from one social or economic group into another.

If we ever do succeed in dividing Americans into two classes I think they will be the self-reliant class and the beggar class.

DRINKS . . . easing down

I went to the annual luncheon of the Associated Press the other day. At my table were ten men, among them some of the most distinguished publishers and editors of great newspapers in all America. Beside every plate, as we sat down, was a cocktail.

As we got up from the table after luncheon I noticed that five out of the ten cocktails were still there, the glasses untouched.

I think that is about the percentage of drinking in these days, among men whose business calls on them to keep their heads clear. I have noticed the same abstinence at several other recent public and private dinners at which drinks were served. I think there has been a change since repeal. People do no longer drink as a gesture of defiance of an unpopular law. Neither do they take a drink whenever they can get it for fear they may not soon have a chance to get another one.

PRESIDENTS . . . of ours

Partly by accident and partly in the course of my newspaper work I have had the opportunity to meet and get more or less acquainted with every President of the United States since Gen. Grant. Lately I have been meeting some possible future Presidents.

A couple of weeks ago, I went

LOCAL CHEVROLET DEALERS ATTEND ANGELO MEETING

Chevrolet dealers in this territory have just returned from attending a very important meeting at San Angelo. This meeting was May 1, under the direction of Mr. Geo. A. Reed, of Chevrolet Motor Company. Attending the meeting from this territory were Otis Grisham and H. G. Jones.

This meeting was held for the purpose of putting into effect plans covering merchandising with some friends to the White House, where we had a two-hour talk with President Roosevelt. The next day I had a visit with Senator Dickinson of Iowa, and met for the first time Col. Henry Breckinridge, who is an avowed candidate for the Presidency on the "Constitution Party" ticket. The next day I had luncheon with Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, and a couple of days later, lunched with Col. Frank Knox of Illinois.

Some one of the men I have just named is quite likely to be the next President of the United States. I don't know which one has the best chance. I do know that they all have less aloofness and more of the manner of ordinary human beings than some of the Presidents I have known in the past. I think the time has passed when a statesman can get anywhere by posing heroically in dignified attitudes and refusing to unbend in the presence of the common people.

campaign throughout this territory in order that Chevrolet dealers might reap the maximum benefit from the great increased automobile market that has developed in recent months.

Due to the increased volume of new car business throughout this territory, Chevrolet dealers are receiving an exceptionally large volume of new car sales—and at the same time—because of the great number of used cars being traded in on new cars, they have acquired exceptionally good stocks of used cars—and due to the popularity of the new 1936 Chevrolet, they have obtained these used cars at a very satisfactory price, which we find as a general rule is considerably below current market values. As fast as these cars are properly reconditioned, they will be offered for sale by the dealers throughout this territory. Mr. Grisham feels very confident that this good volume of business will continue and that he will have exceptional values in his used car stock in weeks to come.

When these auto-airplane combinations get on the market, at a poor man's price, we may see the real flying age.

The egotist looks for himself among the great.

RUNNELS GRAND JURY RETURNS 26 INDICTMENTS

Ballinger, May 4.—The grand jury of the 119th District Court completed its work for the present term late this afternoon by returning five more indictments, bringing the total to 26, and handing in its report to Judge O. L. Parish. The body was dismissed by Judge Parish subject to recall.

The report offered no suggestion as to law enforcement in the county nor intimated laxity by officers and other officials on any specific law. It stated an inspection of the jail and courthouse showed both in good sanitary and physical condition.

Arrests had not been made tonight on the new indictments. Two others were added to the arrests after indictments today by Sheriff W. A. Holt, bringing the total to nine of 21 indictments returned last Friday. These included Earl Hubbard, charged with cattle theft, who was released under a $1,000 bond, and J. A. Hurst, charged with drunken driving, who was released under a $500 bond.

The petit jury for this week was dismissed by Judge Parish until the week of May 25 shortly after court convened this morning. Only non-jury civil cases and possible criminal cases with pleas of guilty without a jury will be heard this week by the judge.

PROMENADE DECK.

by Ishbel Ross

SYNOPSIS . . . A luxurious five-month cruise around the world aboard the "Marenia" brings together a group of passengers for adventures, romantic, entertaining . . . and tragic . . . Like in "Grand Hotel" these passengers offer a study in human actions and reactions which unconsciously bare their souls . . . These characters are aboard the ship: Macduff, dour Scotchman, single, of middle age; Miss Mudre, school teacher, spending the savings of 20 years; Angela, faithful wife of Lovat, gigolo; Dick Charlton, first officer; Clare, a person of experience; Joan, a dissipated flapper; Jenny, runaway wife, and Peter; Captain Baring, master of the ship . . . and his soul . . . NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

NINTH INSTALLMENT

"I've been wondering about you this morning, Jenny. I came back to your door last night, but your stateroom was quiet and the lights were on. I thought everything must be all right," said Angela.

"Perhaps it is," said Jenny, blankly. "I don't know. Peter's gone."

"Jenny darling, do sit down and drink some tea with me. Have you had your breakfast yet?" Angela rang the bell for her stewardess.

"Breakfast?" repeated Jenny, aimlessly.

"Yes, breakfast. You look exhausted. Did you sleep at all?"

"All night, like a dog. I think I must have fainted when I found Peter wasn't there. I scarcely remember the night at all. Wouldn't it be funny, Angela, if I never saw him again?"

"Don't talk rot. You're shivering. Throw that dressing-gown over your shoulders."

"Jenny, darling," said Angela, plunging swiftly to the point. "I have some bad news for you."

Jenny retracted her head, wary for the coming of a blow.

"Peter—oh no!" Jenny's voice was a cry of pain. "Angela, there isn't any doubt in your mind."

"Mr. Charlton thinks they caught a boat to Singapore yesterday."

"While we were watching the foolish dancers! But his things—how did he get them off?"

"He came back and packed, and he and Mrs. Langford got a steward to take off their bags."

Jenny was staring at the floor. "You know I'm not his wife," Angela announced her announcement with no change of expression.

"In fact, I left my husband and four-month-old baby to run away with Peter."

"Your baby? Oh, Jenny darling!"

Angela's voice halted in mid-stream. So this was the story. She looked pityingly at the girl on the bed. "You must have loved him very much."

"I did. I do. But, you see, one must pay for a thing like that."

"How long have you been with him, altogether?"

"About ten weeks. Such a little time. I thought it would last forever. But ten weeks! Funny, isn't it? I'm repeating history. My mother did exactly the same thing when I was a little girl."

"But didn't you feel that anything was wrong, Jenny?"

"I saw him go into her stateroom the other day, but I closed my eyes to reality. I couldn't believe it. There was no change in his manner."

She lapsed into silence again. Angela could see her fingers twisting and untwisting, and the flow of thoughts over her face.

"Angela, I want to be left to myself," said Jenny, suddenly.

"Of course, my dear child, but I shall come back, and if there is anything I can do—" she bent down and kissed her forehead.

"You're very kind. There's nothing that anyone can do."

Angela went upstairs, to find that the boat was seething with gossip. She decided to go down to Jenny's suite again and see if she were asleep. No, she was lying exactly as she had left her. When the door opened she threw an eager glance toward it, but her face clouded as soon as she saw that it was only Angela.

"Jenny, are you all right?"

"Yes," she spoke in the faded voice of the very ill.

"Have you slept?"

Smiling feebly, she shook her head.

"A storm is coming up, a real China Sea storm. I hope you don't get seasick."

"Never."

"It should lull us all to sleep tonight."

"Yes?" Jenny's glance was faintly questioning.

"Wont you have some tea with me? Let's have it here. You haven't had luncheon."

"If you don't mind, Angela, I want just to be let alone. I'm rather tired. I think I shall sleep."

"You'll send for me if there is anything I can do, won't you?"

"Rather!" She smiled piteously at Angela—a lost face, drowning in its own bewilderment.

The last traces of Peter's occupancy—a few odds and ends of paper—had disappeared. A white and blue envelope lay on the table.

It was a message from him. The letters danced before her eyes—foolish, jumbled letters, all capitals and no punctuation. It had come in dots and dashes direct from her lover on his way to Singapore.

On my way to Singapore. Writing at once to explain everything and arrange financial matters.—Peter.

Jenny looked in the flowered bag that had gone with her to the wats of Bangkok. Opening her purse, she found that she had very little money.

Pattering down the adjoining alley, the steward, too old for any duty at sea but that of night watchman, arrived at Jenny's stateroom, which was next to Macduff's. He saw a ribbon of light under her door and assumed that she was still awake. He knocked and a faint voice answered, "Come in."

"Sorry to disturb you, madam. I have orders to close the dead-light. Captain's orders, madam."

"Leave it as it is now, steward," she said. "I shall ring for you later. My head is splitting and I must have air."

Harry stood at the door, wondering what he should do. "It's the captain's orders, madam," he repeated. "It's bad night and the water will come in."

Jenny voice was imperative: "Leave it to me, I shall ring in a little while."

The old man went grunting off. He had plenty of others to attend to, and he supposed the lady knew what she was about. Senseless of her, though. He shuffled down the next alley; no doubt she would ring. Soon he had forgotten her existence.

The storm was now at its peak. Jenny could see the green-black mountains racing past with squirming foam-crests. In her ears were thundering cries of anguish—the requiem of the sea. She dashed across the cabin and slapped her hands in aimless frenzy against the panels. "He couldn't, he couldn't!" she screamed, but her voice was a whisper in the mad crescendo of the gale. She covered her eyes with her arm. She must be going mad. But the water would wash the fever from her brain, would lap her in peace and security.

She reached the porthole, was standing below it. She stretched up her arms, and the tips of her fingers touched the rim, finding it cold and wet. Her ears were filled with the roar of the sea. Nothing must stop her now. At last she worked her slender shoulders through the rim of the porthole. Turning her head, she saw that the deadlights must all be down, for the ship was as dark as a whale. She was working with frenzy now, pushing her slim body farther and farther out. The waves dashed into her face, stinging her to a sharp knowledge that she was close to death, beyond aid and love. Her only fear was that they might push her back. She dreaded the moments of quiet, the lull between the waves, when her thoughts washed back to the life she was leaving. One arm reached into the night and the water raced through her fingers. It was black and icy-cold. The water was a void from which one plunged into light. Slowly she wormed her way through the black circle—her breasts, and now her waist. If only her hips would slip through the porthole! Jenny's head swooped down toward the water. A thousand echoes thundered in her ears and her thoughts were splintered to fragments. Her baby would never know her—better that she would die. Peter would never love her—better that she should—

With one last tug she pulled herself clear. There was a tiny splash. A huge wave roared along the side of the ship, and, finding an open porthole, rushed in. Two peach slippers rode like boats for a split second and then, as the water eddied with the lurching of the Marenia, were stranded limply in a corner. Macduff, restless in the adjoining cabin, heard a metallic click during a moment's lull, the crash of a slipper heel against the partition.

Angela found a letter from Lovat waiting for her at Peking.

My dear Angela (he wrote): Many things have happened since you left, and I'm afraid I'm going to hurt you a great deal with what I have to say. You must have realized for ages that things could not continue the way they have been between us. I had an idea, when you started off on this trip, that the situation might right itself, but I've fallen in love, and not a passing fancy this time.

I shall furnish evidence when you return, if you feel you want to divorce me, Angela, and, of course I shall make it all as easy as possible. I want you to believe that our love, while it lasted, was something separate, apart and wonderful; that I have never known a woman I admired as much as you. But I'm afraid I should continue to hurt you, and things would only get worse as you must realize. I could not bear your reproachful eyes at Cairo, although you said so little. Wouldn't it be better if we went our separate ways? I have already left your home and am living at my club. Jock is with me, but I shall return him as soon as you get back. Forgive me, Angela, and I hope we shall always be the best of friends. Yours, Lovat.

P. S.—Would you please get me a very fine jade bracelet in China? The Kitten wants one.

The letter dropped from Angela's hand and she stared after it as it fell. She had feared it all along. Of course, she would let him have his divorce, tho it would be beastly—all of it! The tears went sliding down Angela's cheeks. She had not thought that he would slip completely out of her life as soon as she turned her back. There would be no use opposing him now, and why try to hold him when he had already passed from her life?

She took out her writing things and sat down to reply to his letter.

Darling Lovat:

I waited and waited for a letter, and then when I got to Peking, I learned that there wasn't anything more to look forward to. Of course, you shall have your divorce. I shouldn't dream of standing in your way.

She's Richest Girl in Texas

Mildred Yount, 15, is reputedly the richest girl in Texas, through a $15,000,000 fortune willed her by her father, Miles Yount, Beaumont oil magnate. An accomplished horsewoman, Miss Yount will exhibit several of her finest mounts at the Texas Centennial Exposition, $25,000,000 World's Fair opening in Dallas June 6.

Make any arrangements you like and as soon as I get back I shall talk things over with you. I hope you're sure you love the girl, Lovat. I'm going out to look for the bracelet tonight. It will be my wedding gift to your new bride, and I hope you will both be happy. I blame myself for marrying you, ever; but I love you still, and always shall, I'm afraid.

Former Wife Heard

COLUMBUS . . . A. H. Hawraney (above), offered to loan the city $50,000 when it was announced that a $900,000 deficit must be met this year. The city declined . . . but Hawraney's former wife, at Detroit, heard of it and now asks for more alimony.

Angela.

Macduff might go with her on her quest. He would have no idea that she was buying a gift for her successor, and he was certainly obtuse enough not to know that she was hurt. Angela changed into her gayest gown, like Jenny with her flowered frock at Bangkok. At last she went down to the lounge and found Macduff with a whiskey before him.

"I'm going on an expedition tonight, Macduff, and I'd like you to come with me."

"Where?"

"I've been commissioned to buy a jade bracelet," she explained, lightly. "I want to find the loveliest one in China. We'll scour the city until we get it."

"It sounds like a foolish idea to me, but I shall come."

"Good! I can always depend on you."

OLDEST EMPLOYEE CHRISTENS
REXALL 29,000-MILE TRAIN

When the Million-Dollar Streamlined Convention Train of the United Drug Company was dedicated in Boston at the start of its 29,000-mile tour, it was christened by Miss Edith Minard, one of the 14 original employees of the Company. L. K. Liggett, President and founder of the Company (right) is an interested spectator as Miss Minard breaks the traditional bottle of champagne on the driving rod of the 350-ton locomotive.

The train will visit 147 cities and meetings of Rexall druggists will be held aboard the "Convention on Wheels" in 109 cities on the eight-month tour.

On Texas Farms

Mount Vernon — To date, all tillable land and all pasture land except 15 acres has been terraced on the farm of J. T. Gragg, Franklin county farmer, according to W. N. Williamson, county agricultural agent. Gragg began terracing his 140 acre farm 15 years ago, and seeing the advantages of these terraces, he began to terrace his pastures.

These terraces, together with crop rotation practices, have contributed toward maintaining soil fertility to such an extent that Gragg considers his farm a good investment and has no trouble in securing good tenants, he says.

LaGrange — "If I had required a certain farmer to terrace his farm 10 years ago when I financed him, he would not have turned it back to me, as mortgagee, a washed and wasted tract of land," Fred Bittner, Fayette county farmer, told J. C. Yeary, county agricultural agent, recently. "Now I will have to build back the soil fertility of the farm in order to get my money out of it."

The terracing job has been completed and Bittner is ready to put a planting program into effect on the farm so that he can qualify for a grant under the new soil conservation program.

Canyon — Nine new farm levels have recently been bought in Randall county, and 15 farm crews are working every day possible. In one week's time, 17, 500 acres were contoured by these crews at a cost of less than two cents per acre to the farmer, according to B. A. Zorns, county agricultural agent.

H. R. Gwyn of this county had one-half of an 80 acre wheat field contoured last year. On the 40 acres contoured, his records show an average yield of nine bushels per acre. Part of the other 40 acre field was abandoned, and the average yield on those acres harvested was 3 bushels.

Brady — Twenty-seven miles of level contours fifteen inches high were recently built in a 450 acre pasture by Charlie White, a rancher of McCulloch county. The contours were graded up with road machinery with a drop of one foot between contours. The fresh ridges were sown to a mixture of oats, sudan grass and Italian rye. This 450 acre pasture was a part of a total of 1,280 acres of farm and pasture land terraced or contoured in McCulloch county during March under the direction of county agent James D. Prewitt.

CIVIL SERVICE WARNS AGAINST MISLEADING SCHOOL INFORMATION

Washington, D.C., May 5.—The United States Civil Service Commission has sent a notice to post offices, warning that misleading information is being given the public by representatives of some of the correspondence schools which sell "civil service" courses. For a long time, the Commission has been receiving complaints from different parts of the country which indicate that opportunities for obtaining Federal employment have been greatly exaggerated.

It was made clear that no school has any connection whatever with the Civil Service Commission or with any other branch of the Government, and also that the Commission has no agents who solicit applications for civil service positions or who sell "civil service" courses.

No school can "guarantee" Government employment and none is given information regarding examinations, or any other information, which is not available to the general public. The Commission stated that it does not recommend any school, and explained that it is not necessary for anyone to take a course with a so-called civil service school in order to compete in a civil service examination.

A special point was made of the fact that information concerning examinations may be obtained at any time, without cost, from the Secretary of the Civil Service Board at any first- or second-class post office or from the Commission's office in Washington, D. C.

Our own idea is that the country can afford some inflation but we are against running wild.

History of the Local Volunteer Fire Department is Recalled by Owens

BY B. G. OWENS

(Editor's Note.—The following article was written to be presented at a meeting of the fire department, and is printed here because we believe it is of interest to our readers.)

On a hot sultry day, July 1909, a locomotive steamed into a stirring village, changing it from the ranks of an inland town to that of a bustling, busy, thriving little city in a very short time. The incident referred to is that of the railroad's entrance to the town of Winters, which occasion was celebrated by a picnic and barbecue. Many are still living here who remember that eventful day the celebration was staged in all parts of town, but the luncheon guests assembled on the property west of the railroad where stands today many of the best residences in our small, but modern, little city. People came from hither, thither, and yon—some just to see, some to stay, and others just for the ride or maybe (as some have said to "feed")—but they came.

After this eventful occasion, the people of Winters set themselves to the task of making their town a better place in which to live; that is, to supply the needed conveniences that had been lacking up to that time. Many things were inadequate for the increasing population, but that thought that I am mainly interested in getting over to you is that the town was in a critical condition because of its scarcity of water and lack of fire fighting facilities. At the moment, we depended almost entirely upon the well at the Stark residence, which was known then as the Bedford well; and our only means of fire fighting was a bucket brigade. Those of you who have never seen a bucket brigade in action would be surprised at what results can be obtained if plenty of water is available. I recall a large two story frame building which stood on the corner now occupied by the Main Drug company. This building was occupied by a furniture dealer, and it was in flames before the alarm was given. Of course, the building and contents burned, but the work of a bucket brigade saved the adjoining buildings. This fire for some time threatened an entire block, and it was the incentive that aroused the determination of a few citizens to start the organization and building of a permanent fire department. This occurred shortly after the railroad entered the town.

Our first Fire Department, as recorded by the City Secretary, was organized in 1911. Jas. F. Holliday (now of Dallas) was made chief. The equipment consisted of a hand drawn 50-gallon chemical tank, several small hand extinguishers, a number of buckets, pick axes, and a couple of ladders, all of which usually found their way in some manner or another to and from the fires. The newly collected fire fighting equipment was housed in a sheet iron building on the lot back of Smith Drug store. Ed P. Eason, who at that time was, together with many others, very enthusiastic and rooting strongly for the building up of Winters, took pride in looking after the equipment. The first alarm was usually the shooting of a pistol by some disturbed native, who possibly did not sleep as soundly as some of our boys of today. The first alarm was usually followed quickly by shouts of "Where is it?" and "Get a Bucket." In a short time we were given the use of the Methodist church bell, which was mounted on a frame near the present building. We used the tolling hammer very successfully for a time, and later the bell was given to us and was erected on our own tower. For quite a while it served as a fire alarm and curfew, being discontinued when the siren which we are using today was installed.

About this time the water works being completed, we had plenty of water—and did we have the pressure? Ed Eason had succeeded Jas. F. Holliday as chief; the Council purchased two hose carts with a supply of hose. These carts had hitches for eight men and were equipped with high wheels to prevent their turning over on short turns. So with this water supply and equipment we were really getting into the business of fighting fires. Our fire station was soon to be moved, for it must be kept in convenient range at all times. The chief was moving from the building now occupied by Carl Davis Tailor Shop to a location on Main street, so the fire station and equipment were moved to a location about where the Farmers' Gin office now stands.

I shall never forget the first fire after we got our hose and reel. It was a drug stock in the building now occupied by Smith Drug and was owned by the late E. F. Edwards. We had never had a supply of water before, but this time we really poured it on. And to the utter astonishment of many, we succeeded in putting it out. Previously, people were almost compelled to watch their stuff burn once it got afire.

Our department moved along nicely until one day trouble came, as it always will. But soon the company was reorganized in the latter part of 1917. At that time, Frank Williams was made chief. The company immediately took on new life. A subscription list was soon passed among the citizens, with which, after a like amount from the Treasury of the city had been added, our first motor drawn apparatus was purchased. It was a factory equipped model T Ford with 50 gallon chemical tank and hose. It carried several men and also ladders. It was a "self starter" (starter by yourself if no one came to help you.) In cold weather a light was burned next to the manifold, which was detached by means of a slip socket.

We very often found our Ford overloaded when joy riders insisted on making their way to a fire whether they belonged to the Fire Department or not, but as time marched on and we became better organized and our people more educated, we had less trouble along that line; and, as you know, today we seldom have an intruder.

We liked our Ford, and it gave us much better service and protection than we had ever known. Our citizens were very appreciative of our efforts and before long they were sold on the idea of a better fire department. So the Council, together with the mayor and members of the fire department, exchanged the Ford for a Reo pumper, a real modern fire wagon which would put out 250 gallons per minute. We were sitting on top of the world then; our company grew in efficiency and everyone became more interested in it. Property valuation was increasing rapidly. Winters was enjoying a steady growth and had acquired that well known slogan: "The Busiest Little City in the West." And for that, and many other reasons, we soon saw the need for two pieces of apparatus instead of one. Having two wagons would increase our efficiency and at the same time lower the insurance rates. The late C. T. Spangler was serving as mayor at that time, and he was quick to realize the advantage to be had in owning more wagons. So after thorough investigation and due consideration the idea was adopted and a new 500 gallon La France was added to our equipment, giving us ample protection for a town of our size.

Time marched on and things were changing; better buildings were being built; our little city was becoming more modern, for by this time we had paved streets, etc. Our Fire Department kept in step with progress. Believing that the best interest of the department and city demanded still better and more modern equipment, the Mayor and the Council traded the Reo for another La France of a later model, giving us two 500 gallon La France Pumps kept in perfect condition at all times. This gives Winters one of the best, cleanest, and most efficient fire companies in the State under the direction of Chief L. E. (Sis) Hamilton, who is a fireman by nature. Such a splendid department was made possible thru the cooperation of J. W. Copeland, mayor, and was also the first mayor of Winters, the city council, and the entire citizenship of the town.

I hope you have enjoyed these lines on the growth and development of your Fire Department. Realizing that there are others who have observed the changes the same as the writer, I have refrained from dates as much as possible for fear of contradiction. It has not been my purpose to glorify anyone in these remarks, therefore, very few personal references are made. I am indeed grateful to each individual who has had a part in the life and growth of the Winters Fire Department. Some have been connected with it from its beginning; some have moved away; and still others have passed to their reward. With the greatest appreciation for our chief and each member of the department, let me say

Miss Jessie Hogue, Enterprise Cooking School Lecturer, Is Noted For Her Plain, Understandable Cookery Talks

A little snow, tumbled a bit, if done craftily, and with conditions in harmony for snow tumbling, soon becomes a mountain. Just so, with the secret formulas to be given freely to the ladies and their husbands, if they desire to learn of them, and most husbands do—in the coming free city-wide and community-invited Kitchen Chautauqua to come to this city soon. This is of most vital importance and it will be lead by that genial-hearted, informative-minded Southern lecturer, Miss Jessie Hogue. Her reputation for plain, understandable, interesting, short-course, post graduate giving, language and demonstrations that hold audience interest throughout, has preceded her by weeks. And, it is all free, and a most hearty invitation is extended to every housewife in this city and the communities around, together with their husbands.

"Men are taking most seriously to the master art of the world—"Cookery," is an emphatic word that comes in advance from Miss Hogue. "Leadership men throughout the nation are learning more and more the post graduate points of home-happiness-cooking. They have learned and are learning that the paramount health and happiness pinnacle of the home centers at the kitchen. Science has proved it, experience has taught it and now it is free for the managers of the homes of this city—the housewives and their husbands.

In this fashionable parade of the preparation of foods, its value to health and happiness, harmony and secret formulas are possible that will make certain that happiness will have its play in the family life. Whether it's the style, mode, fashion, pattern, elegance, preparation, griddling, codding, juggling, deviling, cooking, roasting, steaming, braising, baking, broiling, frying, parboiling, stewing, panning, frizzling of making food ready for the family table, there are secret formulas and harmonized relations that must be known if kitchen and home-happiness is to be a star in the domestic circle. The house-wife of today does not have to run to the back porch and "grab the cow with the iron tail"—the hand pump—to get water. She is surrounded with the most modern and convenient electrical mechanical and scientific advances of this modern civilization, waiting at her beck and call and to reduce her worries and work.

The Kitchen Chautauqua will be held in Winters June 11, 12 and 13. Make your plans now to attend every session.

LUTHERANS HOLD CONVENTION AT YORKTOWN, TEX.

The Rev. C. N. Roth and family, together with Mr. Robert Spill and family, returned last week from Yorktown, Texas, where they attended a delegated convention of the Texas District of the American Lutheran church. Election returns show that Rev. Roth was elected recording secretary for the coming year, which office was previously held by the Rev. W. C. Leibfarth of Hondo, Texas. Rev. Roth will continue his pastorate here due to the fact that this office is not a full time position. In addition to the usual secretarial correspondence he will do intensive work only a few weeks each year. All bulk material is to be handled and distributed by under-secretaries from the church headquarters at Seguin, Texas.

President E. A. Sagebiel of Seguin was re-elected to his position for another term of five years.

PRECINCT CONVENTIONS ENDORSE F. D. R. ADMINISTRATION

COUNTY FAILS TO INSTRUCT ITS DELEGATION.

Delegates selected in two precinct conventions here last Saturday attended the county Democratic convention in Ballinger Tuesday. Both delegations were instructed to cast their ballots in the county convention endorsing the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Delegates elected from Precinct No. 26 were A. L. Smith, J. R. Cooke, H. O. Jones, Howard Baldwin, and R. A. Cramer.

Delegates elected in Precinct No. 7 included W. D. Meadows, T. B. Young, Jim Conley, M. E. Leeman, Mrs. Roxie Floyd and A. O. Strother.

At the county convention Tuesday an uninstructed delegation was elected to the state convention, after which the convention adjourned without passing resolutions of any nature.

Mrs. H. K. Reid is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Tom Armstrong, this week in Dallas.

Mrs. L. D. McClish of Santo spent the past week-end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Tyson. She is a sister of Mrs. Tyson.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Middlebrook and baby, Martheil, went to Hamlin Friday where Mr. Middlebrook transacted business.

Every politician knows that it is impossible to please everybody; what they seek is the favor of a majority.

F. F. A. JUDGING TEAMS GIVE HIGH POINTS OF TRIP

Friday, April 24, at one o'clock the three judging teams composed of George Brown, D. B. Collinsworth and J. B. Guy, dairy; Merle and Gerald Proctor, and Ellis Lee, soil conservation; and Frank Brown, Rufus Williams and Robert Parramore, livestock, accompanied by Mr. Williams and Mr. Lee, who provided for the transportation for the trip, started on their trip to A. & M. The first main stop was at Austin, where they went through the state capital and spent the night. The next morning they went to Huntsville and through the state prison.

A guide directed them through the prison in a group and told them not to talk to any of the inmates. Three hundred loaves of white bread are consumed daily which are baked in the prison bakery and five hundred pounds of corn meal are used to make corn bread for supper. The tables were set for the noon meal. In an adjoining room was seen the food prepared for the noon meal, consisting of roast, gravy, lima beans, greens and sweet corn. In another room were seen inmates preparing sweet potatoes, carrots and greens for supper. The total expense is 6 cents per day for feeding one man, as most of all of the food is grown on the prison farms. In the shoe factory was seen men making shoes by hand. It takes 30 men to make 10 pairs of shoes per day and all shoes worn by the convicts are made in the prison factory.

They next went to the death chamber where 128 men had been electrocuted.

Each one of those who have met their death here with the exception of two, have walked into the death chamber. Two were carried in. From the death chamber they went to another building where the sleeping quarters were seen. The cells are three rows high and were quite comfortably furnished. The sleeping quarters are equipped with loud speakers for amusement and to enable prison authorities to account for where prisoners are at any time.

There is a night school provided for the inmates which teaches from the first to the eighth grade. Contradictory to the belief of many there is one inmate who has a college education, less than one per cent who have even entered college and over two thirds of them could not read nor write when they were sent there. There were 1034 prisoners of which there is one county, two district prisoners and the remaining ones are state prisoners. Statistics show that negroes make more trusty prisoners than do white prisoners. Of the 143 trusties 100 are negroes. After visiting the prison they drove out to, and went through Sam Houston's home and saw his grave. From Huntsville they went to Houston. They spent the night in Galveston. Next morning they went to the pier and visited a Coast Guard Cutter which was very interesting to all of the boys. After another swim in the bay they motored up to College Station Sunday afternoon preparatory to the contests Monday morning. The night was spent under the stadium with about one thousand other boys, so they very likely slept plenty, anyway they were feeling fit as a fiddle. The trip was enjoyed by each member.

Mrs. Bullock, 30 years of age, was the wife of the assistant high school coach of Robstown. Besides her husband she is survived by a son, three months of age, and two older children, a boy and a girl. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Segers of Robstown and other relatives were

IF PRODUCTS SUFFICIENT, CANNING PLANT TO OPERATE.

Secretary T. D. Coupland of the B. C. D., announced yesterday that if there were sufficient spring vegetables to justify the Works Progress Administration would operate the canning factory here, according to information received Tuesday from the Brownwood office.

In response to a letter written by Mr. Coupland to the Brownwood office, he has received the here. The body was conveyed in a Spill funeral coach to Robstown where funeral rites were held the following Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Baptist church with the Rev. Ben Milan, pastor, officiating.

following reply from Bess Padelford, District Supervisor Women's Projects, District 14:

"In response to your letter of May 1, regarding the opening date for the Canning Plant in your town, we wish to state that we anticipate operating the Canning Plant, but not until such time as we feel relatively sure that there is an abundance of spring vegetables to be processed, as it will be necessary to close the sewing room when the Canning Plant is opened."

Esteem, honor, position, and success await the honest-hearted man who can go into life and treat others with the same consideration that is due to mankind. All this comes under the heading of tact. The lack of this quality will injure any man immeasurably.

The wise person is too busy to hate others or sympathize with himself.
