FT. WORTH FRONTIER CELEBRATION WILL OPEN ON JULY 18

Ft. Worth, July 2.—Definite date for the opening of the Ft. Worth Frontier Centennial was announced today by Billy Rose, producing director, and the Board of Control.

The mammoth entertainment extravaganza will open its gates to the public on July 18th with four big shows and a carnival world of lesser attractions scattered over the 162-acre festival grounds.

Setting of the date for the opening, was purposely deferred until it could be determined when the entire Frontier Centennial grounds would present a complete and finished appearance, will be a red-letter day in the whole history of entertainment.

No other enterprise ever has been conceived along such unique lines as that of the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial. Dedicated to the sole purpose of entertainment, it is so planned that even its few exhibits of historical interest will fit into the holiday pattern.

Along the Frontier Village Street, where historical collections will be housed in a replica of a pioneer town, an assortment of town characters will enliven the place with picturesque entertainment.

Major shows will be the Casa Manana, or cafe-theatre show, a mammoth musical extravaganza, "The Last Frontier," a wild and whoop-ee show based on the story of the old West, and Billy Rose's "Jumbo," imported from the New York Hippodrome. As interesting as any of these, though briefer, will be the free show in the Pioneer Palace, to be given from a stage set in the wall above the mirrored bar. With mirror background, lusty old oadal music and new ones by Billy Rose (Example: "The Guy With the Handle-bar Mustache"), the Pioneer Palace show will follow the tempo of the gold rush, the frontier, the gay nineties.

All over the grounds will be such attractions as Sally Rand's Nude Ranch and such bait for the kids as ferris wheels and merry-go-rounds.

It will be the State's largest and finest festival ground.

CANNERY WILL OPEN AT BALLINGER WEDNESDAY

Announcement was made yesterday that the Canning Factory at Ballinger would be open for business Wednesday of next week.

The Winters factory is running now at full capacity and it is said that present bookings will keep the plant operating at capacity for the next two or three weeks.

Those who have vegetables to can which cannot be accommodated here in time to save them, might be able to do so by taking them to the Ballinger factory, however, it would be best to telephone the factory before taking vegetables to it.

SPEAKING AT OAK CREEK

We are requested to announce that there will be a candidate speaking and ice cream supper at Oak Creek school house Wednesday, July 8. All candidates are urged to be present.

The speaking is sponsored by the Oak Creek Home Demonstration club.

"I'M STUDYIN' SHORTHAND AT SCHOOL," SAYS MARY BELLE PERKINS, "BUT MAM'S TEACHIN' ME T' COOK. A GIRL NEVER KNOWS WHAT KINDA HUSBAND SHE'LL GET."

BANKS AND P. O. WILL BE CLOSED ON JULY FOURTH

STORES WILL BE OPEN THROUGHOUT THE DAY.

The post office and banks will be closed all day tomorrow (Saturday) celebrating the 4th of July, and patrons of these institutions should transact all business with them today that cannot be carried over until Monday.

Practically all the stores of the city will be open all day tomorrow (Saturday) and business will be carried on as usual.

METHODIST COLORED FOLKS WILL ERECT CHURCH BUILDING

Rev. J. S. Starks, the Presiding Elder of the Abilene District, for the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, is here in the interest of helping to build a Colored Methodist church for Colored people of Winters.

Bishop R. A. Carter, the Bishop of the Colored Methodist Episcopal church, has shown his faith in the people of Winters, by sending his check for $107.50 to help build this church, and he is asking the citizens of Winters to match this with $75.00 and $50.00 from the Colored people. Bishop Carter's check for $107.50 and the $75.00 from the citizens has been deposited in one of the local banks and the remaining $50.00 will be secured within the next few days. The church will be erected within the next ten days.

We take this means to thank the loyal citizens of Winters for their generous response to this worthy cause.

It is through the fine spirit of cooperation of J. M. Skaggs, M. E. Leeman and Rev. J. W. Sharbutt that this project has been so nearly completed.

We want to thank every one for their part in helping to make it possible to erect a church for the Colored Methodist folk of Winters and the community. —Signed, J. S. Starks.

J. D. SMITH MADE FARMING PAY IN RUNNELS COUNTY

Below we are reprinting an article taken from the Ballinger Ledger because of the interest to our readers. Mr. Smith is a well-known and prominent citizen of this section of the county and his land is principally located near Winters. He came to Runnels county from the Evans section of Coryell county.

"J. D. Smith, of Wilmeth, came to Runnels county just before 1900 with a horse, a hack, and $34 in cash. He began buying land on the credit and today is one of the most prosperous farmers of this section.

"Fields well set in Johnson grass appealed to him and when he found one whose value had decreased because of that fact he bought the tract, farmed it carefully for two or three years and came out with a clean place, fertile above the average.

"Today with a sizeable number of blackland farms, he and his sons are among the largest operators in this county. Mr. Smith was in Ballinger last week and told of buying groceries on the credit from M. D. Chastain, soon after arriving in this county. This favor Mr. Smith has never forgotten.

"He and his family have no desire to leave the farm and move to town. The farmer's place is on the farm," Mr. Smith says, and Mrs. Smith and the children agree.

"A combine owned and operated by J. D. Smith, Jr., and T. M. Hogan, a son-in-law, has had a busy season, operating day and night."

FREE DEMONSTRATION OF CANNING METHODS AT HIGGINBOTHAM'S

Mrs. Alisse Chaptman of Dallas, well known Home Economist of the Ball Brothers Co. will be in Winters at Higginbotham Bros. & Co. on Monday and Tuesday, July 6th and 7th, at which time she will give a free demonstration in the proper modern method of canning meats, fruits and vegetables in glass.

Mrs. Chaptman is a graduate of East Central State Teachers' College in Oklahoma and was formerly connected with the extension department of Oklahoma A. & M. College. During her many years of experience she has specialized in the art of canning. Mrs. Chaptman has done extensive work in the culinary department working with different clubs interested in the progress of better foods for home uses.

This demonstration is being sponsored through the courtesy of Ball Brothers who, for over fifty years, have been manufacturing the world famous Mason jars for canning of fruits, meats and vegetables under the U. S. government approved methods of steam pressure, hot water bath and open kettle canning. Attendance prizes given.

WILL HOLD CANNING DEMONSTRATION

MRS. ALISSE CHAPTMAN

SINGING AT BRADSHAW

Beginning at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, July 5, singing will be held at the Baptist church at Bradshaw, according to Luther McMillan.

A cordial invitation is extended to everybody to come.

BUYS AGENCY

Henry Jones purchased the interest in the local Chevrolet agency owned by Otis Grisham, last week, thus becoming the sole owner of the Jones Chevrolet company. It is understood here that Mr. Grisham will move back to Sweetwater, his former home.

PAID ADMISSIONS TO CENTENNIAL EXCEED CHICAGO'S

Dallas, Texas, July 2. — Paid admissions during the first week of the Texas Centennial exceeded the total for the first week at Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition by 58,790, official comparative figures revealed here today. Paid admissions during the first week of the 1934 Century of Progress Exposition exceeded the first week's total for the Texas Centennial Exposition by 4,755.

The paid admission for the first Centennial Exposition week totaled 231,149, while the 1933 Chicago exposition total was 172,359, according to official figures for both fairs. The paid admissions for the 1934 Chicago exposition totaled 235,904.

These figures for the Texas and Chicago expositions do not include admissions by passes of employes, press representatives and others.

Texas Centennial officials were elated over the comparative figures when announced by W. A. Webb, general manager. If the average attendance for the first week is maintained, the total attendance for the exposition will exceed the 10,000,000 visitors expected by executives before the close of the Texas World's Fair November 29.

Total attendance at the 1933 Chicago exposition was 27,703,132. For the 1934 Chicago exposition the total was 21,066,095 position the total was 21,066,095.

ALLRED URGES SANE 'FOURTH' IN TEXAS

Austin, July 2. — Governor Allred, by proclamation, today urged Texans to co-operate in a precautionary manner for the observance of a safe and sane Centennial Fourth of July.

"Civic organizations and public spirited citizens have aroused themselves," the proclamation stated, "to the urgency of impressing the seriousness of the situation upon the minds of those who might by careless act endanger the safety of themselves and others."

Miss Mildred D. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith, is in Ridgecrest, North Carolina, attending the Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly, as camp nurse from Texas. She will return to Abilene the last of this week where she is a student nurse at the Hendrick Memorial Hospital.

Billy Parramore submitted to an operation for the removal of his tonsils Wednesday morning.

BAPTIST PASTOR TALKS TO LIONS CLUB ON PRAYER

TWO READINGS WERE GIVEN BY MISS GREGORY.

Following two enjoyable readings by Miss Mayme Gregory, Rev. W. T. Hamor, Baptist pastor, addressed the club on "Prayer" at Tuesday's Lions Club luncheon. The speaker's theme was "It is Worthwhile For Business Men to Pray Over Their Problems."

R. L. Stokes of Lubbock, was a visitor and spoke briefly.

The program was in charge of Lion Frank Flynt.

Next Tuesday at noon the club will hold its luncheon and program at the Victory school house, it was announced by President C. L. Green.

BALLINGER'S GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY IS WELL ATTENDED BOTH DAYS

Throngs of people filled the downtown streets of Ballinger to celebrate the Golden Wedding Anniversary Monday. At the home-coming services at three of the churches of the city Sunday large crowds were assembled. The Baptist, First Christian and Methodist churches' home-coming day programs were features that drew many old-timers back for the 50th anniversary celebration.

Pioneers were honored during the day Monday at a barbecue and transportation was furnished for their comfort during the parade at ten o'clock when the business firms, county clubs and civic clubs of Ballinger participated in a mammoth show of decorated floats and cars. The Ballinger Cherry Band led the parade.

Mayor E. M. Lynn presided for the program at 11 o'clock on the court house lawn and extended a welcome to the pioneers and visitors. He introduced the principal speaker, Walter Woodul, The Tickville band and the Light Crust Doughboys were featured on the program during the day.

Downtown streets were packed for the evening's entertainment and thousands saw the pageant at Fair Park and the queen, Miss Ballinger of 1936, and her court. A street dance closed the celebration.

2-DAY ENCAMPMENT OPENS IN BALLINGER ON JULY THE 8TH

Plans are complete for the annual 4-H girls' club encampment to be held at city park in Ballinger July 8 and 9. Miss Myra Tankersley, county home demonstration agent, is expecting large attendance this year with all clubs in the county represented. Last year 70 girls attended the encampment at Ballinger.

Each girl will bring two cans of canned beans, a cushion which has been made for her bedroom, and a story of her club work. In addition the girls will furnish their own bedding, and each club will bring its own cooking and eating utensils.

The girls will register on the afternoon of July 8 and as soon as the evening meal is served will go into the first program of stunts and recreational activities.

Each club in the county is preparing one stunt for this program.

Camp will be broken late in the afternoon of July 9, the girls spending only one night in the park.

Club sponsors were here Saturday attending to business and voted that delegations to the 1936 farm short course must be first place winners in major projects, as only three girls in the county will be provided with reservations at College Station this summer.

Mrs. L. T. Smith and Mandy Lee and A. Boone went to Waco Wednesday to visit with relatives.

CANDIDATES TO SPEAK HERE NEXT FRIDAY EVENING

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO HEAR THEIR CLAIMS.

The Enterprise has completed arrangements to have candidates for county and district offices present their claims to the voters of the Winters country at a public speaking on Friday evening, July 10th, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

One of the city's blocks will be roped off, speakers' stand arranged, lights and loud speaker installed so that all may hear the different speeches.

This will probably be the only general political gathering to be held here before the primary, and voters should take advantage of the occasion to acquaint themselves with those whom they will elect to run their governmental business during the next two years.

Candidates for county offices will not require much time in which to present their claims, but district candidates will be given sufficient time within which to present their platforms.

NORTON CLUB GIRL IS GIVEN 1ST PLACE BEDROOM CONTEST

The 4-H girls' club bedroom contest in this county ended Friday, Miss Stuart Evelyn Setser, of Norton, winning first place; Miss Mary Reese, of Blanton, second place; and Miss Dorothy Brooks, of Dale, third place.

The judges completed the scoring Thursday afternoon and announced the winner Friday morning. Miss Setser's room will be entered in the district contest and will be scored by the district home demonstration agent within a few weeks.

Miss Setser made her room improvements at a cost of $4.51 and turned the room into a beauty spot with real conveniences.

To provide space for clothing a closet that formerly opened into another room was turned into her room and made room in every respect. An old dresser was converted into a beautiful dressing table. Miss Setser also refurnished a library table, a large chair and other pieces of furniture, adding much to the attractiveness and convenience of the room.

In one corner a built-in wash basin center was installed with a drain for waste water. The floor was completely refinished and all woodwork was repainted. Handwork curtains were hung at the windows and a tufted bedspread was made. Bookshelves were built and the entire room was repapered. One of the most useful articles in the room was a chest for flat linens built from a part of an old fireless cooker.

Marvelous transformations were made in other contestants' rooms and of the nine entered in the competition all revealed careful planning and much work.

WINTERS COUPLE UNDERGO OPERATION AT S. ANGELO

While at the bedside of her husband, Vernon B. Campbell, who last week submitted to an operation for acute appendicitis, Mrs. Campbell suffered an attack of appendicitis and had her appendix removed Monday.

Both are patients in a San Angelo hospital and were reported to be convalescing nicely.

ACCORDED HONOR

Denton, July 2. — Miss Jane Oliver, daughter of W. B. Oliver of Winters, has been accorded scholastic honors at Texas State College for Women (CIA) on the basis of her work during the second semester of the past session. Her name will be inscribed on the dean's honor roll, and special recognition will be given her by the college. Miss Oliver is majoring in business administration.

Frank Ellis of Victory spent the week-end with Ross Sumner.

"A Message to Garcia" Will Show at Queen Theatre Saturday at Midnight, Three Big Stars Are Featured in Cast

High adventure of the sort that sets your pulses pounding; glamorous nights of romance in the tropics; roistering, boisterous comedy—these are the elements from which the suspense-filled action of "A Message to Garcia" fascinating adventure making its debut at the Queen Theatre Saturday night at the mid-night prevue, are woven. Gene Autry breaks away from the tried and true western formula in his latest outdoor feature, "Melody Trail" showing today and tomorrow. Margaret Sullavan and Henry Fonda are featured together in "The Moon's Our Home" which is to be the featured attraction Tuesday and Wednesday. Sparkling comedy, is skillfully blended with emotional drama in "The Lady Consents" with Ann Harding and Herbert Marshall to be shown Thursday night only.

joined in the romantic roles About the perilous adventures of the man who carried the message to Garcia, the picture unfolds its story, leads up to a smashing, crashing, searing climax in which Beery gives his life so that those of his friends may be spared.

"Melody Trail"

It is the latest Gene Autry feature in which he sings many of his new songs, and is supported by the same comedy character Smiley Burnette, who is seen in his recent favorite "Tumbling Tumbleweeds." The picture also brings to the screen in her second starring vehicle Ann Rutherford, glamorous Hollywood star. In addition the cast includes, Buck, the famous dog of "Call of the Wild," and many other notables.

"The Moon's Our Home"

It is the story of two internationally famous persons who learn to hate each other by reputation, but fall desperately in love when they meet under assumed names. They marry, and the clash of temperaments results in a heated quarrel on their wedding night, with the bride walking out on the bridegroom. Relucting, their efforts to find each other create many amusing situations. Margaret Sullavan

"A Message to Garcia"

Glamorous nights in the tropic wilderness—three brave companions fighting against the jungle's menace—romance, adventure and daring feats of courage! Those are the things captured by 20th Century in this great picture. Topping the cast is Wallace Beery, in the role of a lovable rogue, while Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles are plays the temperamental motion picture star whose tempestuous, fiery frenzy causes her completely to wreck a lavish living room in a modernistic Hollywood bungalow apartment. In support of Miss Sullavan are Henry Fonda as the husband, Henrietta Crossman, and Charles Butterworth.

"The Lady Consents"

The picture tells that story of a modern wife who has the courage to send her husband into the arms of another woman to prove to him that it is his wife whom he really loves. The action is of the fast-moving variety and is filmed against a background of metropolitan and suburban New York high life. Herbert Marshall plays the philandering husband, a fashionable New York physician, whose married life has been marked by a series of affairs of the heart which have been as transient as moonlight. Ann Harding, of course, plays the role of the understanding and wise wife. Margaret Lindsay is the love pirate who steals the doctor from his wife. She has won high praise for her performances.

The GOOSE WOMAN

by REX BEACH

Copyright, by Rex Beach

FOURTH INSTALLMENT
SYNOPSIS: Amos Ethridge is found murdered in a country lane with a crude cross of wheat on his breast and a scented sheet of note paper in his pocket. He was the richest man in the state with power and influence enough to make himself candidate for Governor. With his death came hints of an unsavory private life, of wronged women and betrayed husbands and fathers who had reason to wish him dead. There was also a powerful secret political organization opposed to him. . . . Mary Holmes, called "the goose woman" by newspaper reporters, lives nearest the scene of the crime on a small chicken farm where she ekes out a poor living and tries to find in drink the forgetfulness of past glories when she was Marie di Nardi, world-renowned opera singer. . . . Gerald Holmes, a talented young artist, is hated and loved by his mother who is embittered because his birth caused the loss of her voice and wrecked her operatic career. He has been befriended by the murdered Ethridge, and is engaged to another of Amos Ethridge's proteges. . . . Hazel Woods, lovely and brilliant young actress, has been helped to success by Ethridge. She lives in a small cottage owned by Ethridge. . . . Jacob Riggs, eccentric old-time actor, now a doorman at the theatre where Hazel Woods plays, has appointed himself her guardian and lives in a room over her garage.

beautiful, mother, very talented and very fine." The boy's eyes were fixed and shining; a breathless, reverent quality had crept into his voice, and it was plain that when he mentioned this girl his soul bowed in worship and his heart paid homage. "She is infinitely superior to me, of course. That's what makes it so wonderful, so incomprehensible. I want you to—well, to make your self over into what you were so that she can meet you and know you."

There was a moment of silence. Mrs. Holmes broke it by exclaiming harshly, "Forget it!"

Gerald had hurt her bitterly tonight. He had rubbed salt into her wounds. She had fallen low; she had become ugly and old and contemptible, had she? Instead of sympathy he gave her a sort of supercilious pity and implied that she was unfit to meet his sweetheart. Instead of sharing her sorrow he went out and made his own life, made for himself a career such as he had robbed her of. The injustice of it! Well, this would be their hour of reckoning, the hour when she would compel him to take up and share the burden that had bowed her shoulders. Those alcoholic demons in the back of her head were dancing dizzily and it gave her a prodigious; wicked satisfaction to realize that she had the power now to humble his spirit as he had humbled hers.

"Forget it, Jerry," she repeated. "You can't get a girl like that to marry you."

"I can if we stop right here, mother, and if you'll let me help you—er, get back on your feet." "She wouldn't have you—not the kind of a girl you've been talking about." Mrs. Holmes giggled malevolently. "You see, my boy, you haven't any name to give her."

"Not much of a name, of course, but I'll make one. I'll make it something to be proud of."

Mrs. Holmes rose, walked to the cupboard, opened its door, and took out a thick drinking glass and a square-faced bottle. Slowly she poured the tumbler half full of gin, then drank it; her eyes as they met those of her son were hostile, there was malignity in her gaze. It was an act of deliberate, calculated defiance, for never before had she taken liquor in his presence. Gerald looked on incredulously.

"You don't understand English," she said, harshly. "If you are old enough to run around with women and think about getting married, I guess you're old enough to stand some plain talk. You give me enough, God knows. A little of your own medicine won't hurt you. What I mean to say is this—your father and I were never married."

Gerald gasped; his face whitened; a look of fright, of abject misery, crept over it. "I—should have known better than to talk to you when you're—when you're like this," he groaned. "You're not serious, mother!"

"Oh, yes I am! I mean exactly what I say. You're forever telling me unpleasant things about myself; now I'll tell you some. I'll have to go back and explain, so you'll understand. . . . Opera stars, in my time, were about what they are now, and the profession was about the same. A girl had to exercise every means at her disposal to get to the top. It was the price. Success in any art must be paid for; every great artist has to make some sort of sacrifice. I made mine, but the reward was worth it. It was worth any price. Art is so much bigger, so much more important than other things—everything else is so small, so trivial, so false and so fleeting. I was young, I had sex appeal, and I had a voice. I used them all to get ahead. I had temperament, too. I lived every role I played; I put vitality and fire into them. When I was on the stage they used to say I was a flaming genius. Flaming!"

Mrs. Holmes trumped about the room as she talked; beneath her feet the bare floor boards creaked.

"I've told you how my big success came abroad. You know all that and how I was anticipating the day when I could come home and achieve my supreme triumph, here in America. How I met your father—in Paris. It wasn't his first affair, nor mine, but it was the first time I had ever been genuinely, madly in love. I didn't know I had it in me. I was a perfect fool. Most women are, by the way, at one time or another. He hadn't a thing—money, I mean—so I gave him what I had earned and what had been given to me. I showered him with gifts, spoiled him, turned his head. He took it all and we lived wildly, extravagantly, drunk with each other's love. That temperament again!"

"I suppose it had begun to pall on him even before we learned that you were coming, but he didn't show it. When we discovered that I was going to have a baby I supposed we talked about marriage—people usually do. Probably that helped to spoil things. Perfect love, perfect romance, was one thing; marriage, squalling children, milk bottles, dirty dishes—that was another. He was an artist. You came between us even before you were born."

"He couldn't bear to see the change in me. My appearance got more and more on his nerves. He quit finally—went away. That was a terrible shock to me; it was enough to kill most of the affection I might have felt for you. Oh, I know it sounds unnatural, incredible! That is because you can't understand how some people are constituted. You're full of story-book sentiment; this was real life. Neither of us was domestic. You won't understand, either, when I tell you that his desertion would not have left any serious results on me; they said, as a matter of fact, that it would make me even a greater artist—having suffered. But at least you can understand how it turned me back to my work with a more passionate devotion than ever, since it was all I had left, all that was real and substantial and satisfying. My voice had never been so splendid as it was during that period. My friends told me that a miracle had occurred and that I possessed the most beautiful voice in the world. They worshipped it. They, and I, blessed you as the cause of it."

"Then you were born. . . . Again Mrs. Holmes turned her eyes upon her son, and now they were brilliant, feverish; her face was working. "You know what happened! For a while, the doctor encouraged me to believe that my voice would come back. That was to keep me from killing myself. But it didn't come back. It was gone, lost to the world! There were artists in the company who would have strangled you, gladly, and hung for it, if it would have brought back Mary Holme's voice. That's how much they thought of it. That's what a truly great voice means."

"You wonder why I've never been a real mother to you. God! You've been a living reproach to me; every day of your life you have tortured me, stuck knives in me. As if that weren't enough, you've grown into the very image of your father—you're like him, inside and out. I suppose this girl feels towards you the way I felt towards him—so far as she's capable. But I'll bet she won't marry you. Not now she won't." For a second time the speaker giggled.

Gerald flinched at the sound. But he did not raise his head. "It seems to give you an unholy satisfaction," he said, wretchedly. "I wonder why?"

"Why? Why not?" Mrs. Holmes allowed a hitchcock to escape her lips. "Turn about is fair play, isn't it? Maybe you'll shed some of your fine airs, now. Maybe you'll quit nagging me, quit this 'holier-than-thou' business. Why shouldn't you help me carry my load? . . . Well, why don't you answer? What have you got to say?"

"Not much"—Gerald rose wearily and took his hat—"except to curse the day you tasted liquor for the first time. If you were in your right senses you would never have told me this. You wouldn't—couldn't take such devilish joy in causing me pain. You would have carried this secret to your grave. I dare say you expect sympathy, but what about me, the fellow who has always cherished an old-fashioned reverence for motherhood and who believes in pure women and such things? You mentioned the hand of God, a while ago. The hand of God is on you, mother; it's on both of us. I—I'm afraid it will destroy us both." Without another word Gerald walked to the door, opened it, and stumbled out into the night.

The time was when Westland had been a first-class theatrical town and most of the good road shows had played it. But conditions had changed. Chicago was only a few hours away, picture palaces had been built, and now the old West Theatre, the city's leading playhouse, ran a stock company. It was a good stock company, however; Amos Ethridge, the owner of the property, had prided himself upon being a patron of the drama and he had seen to that; in consequence a number of well-known artists were usually featured upon the West's billing. This season the most popular, if not actually the most prominent, member of the Ethridge players was Hazel Woods, the youthful leading woman. Mr. Ethridge had hired her out of a New York dramatic success and Westland considered itself fortunate in having a real Broadway favorite to worship.

Stock engagements in small cities like Westland are often both profitable and pleasant, for salaries are good, the players form new friendships, they enjoy an agreeable social life, and receive numerous courtesies and advantages denied them in larger cities. In Miss Wood's case, for instance, Ethridge had put a charming little house at her disposal, rent free, there being no really first-class residential hotel in Westland; and there she reveled in the unfamiliar joys of house-keeping and entertained as much as her arduous duties permitted. Being a very pretty, very sprightly young woman, she had quickly made herself popular. Through Amos Ethridge she had met Gerald Holmes. She and Gerald were about the same age, but in experience, he was much younger than she, and this fact, perhaps, as much as his shyness, his modesty, and his undeniable genius had engendered in her a desire to "mother" him and to help him along. Some men awaken in women an impulse to hover them, and Jerry was one. But not many emotional young women with abundant personal charm can successfully maintain a maternal attitude towards an attractive and magnetic young fellow, no matter how humble and how reverent may be his regard at the beginning. There was only one possible outcome to this affair. Gerald fell head over heels in love and, having nothing, he magnificently offered to share it all with her. Hazel had astonished him by accepting. Eagerly, and yet with caution, she became engaged to him; she promised to marry him—some time.

Tonight as Gerald parked his car near the stage entrance of the theatre a few minutes after eleven he experienced his first genuine regret at having permitted himself to fall in love. What his mother had so brutally told him an hour before left him dismayed, sick. All the way in from her farm he had asked himself whether he should tell Hazel and risk—may invite her to break the engagement, or whether he should deceive her. His duty seemed plain, but the mere possibility of losing her was unbearable. He was in turmoil.

Members of the cast and some of the stage hands were leaving as he entered the stage door and spoke to Jacob Riggs, the doorman. He and Jacob were great friends and the old fellow welcomed him with a smile.

"She's dressing, but she'll be out in a few minutes," the latter announced. "Have a good time in Chicago?"

"Not exactly a 'good time'," Gerald said, with an effort to speak naturally. "I was too upset by the news of Mr. Ethridge's death. It must have been a terrible shock to Miss Woods and to all of you."

"Yeah!" Jacob nodded. "It caused quite a stir all over town. 'All Judah did Hezekiah honor at his death.' D'you think they'll ever find out who done it?" "I hope so. I can't bear to think—you see, he did a great deal for me. He was a real friend."

"He treated me all right, too, but—" Jacob shook his white head. "A lot of things about him we don't know, Jerry. A lot nobody knows. The Lord works in a mysterious way and the wicked is doomed to destruction."

POULTRY PARASITES REDUCE THE PROFITS

Are your hens slacking up in their egg production? If so it would be advisable to examine them for parasites, writes J. M. Williams. With eggs at the present price it would be very profitable to destroy the blood suckers and hen agitators that may be the source of trouble.

Lice, the most common pest of poultry, are usually found to some extent in all poultry flocks at this season of the year. Contrary to some belief, lice are not blood suckers but live on the dried skin and oil contained in the feathers. They aggravate the birds, lower vitality, and reduce egg production considerably. If you find your hens infested with lice they may be easily and quickly destroyed with Sodium Fluoride, used either as a dip or a dust. If a large number of hens are to be treated it is best to use the dip. If using the dip method select a warm day to do the work. One pound of the powder is sufficient to treat 100 birds. One ounce of sodium fluoride should be used to each gallon of water. If the weather is cool the water should be heated to body temperature. A tub may be used and each bird held by the wings and put into the solution. Holding the fowl with one hand take the other and ruffle the feathers in order that the solution may come in contact with all parts of the body. Finally the head is soaked under, being sure that the mouth and nostrils are closed. (Use the thumb and index finger to cover the nostrils and the second finger to hold the mouth closed.) If all birds on the lot are handled in this manner, the lice will be destroyed.

Mites and bluebugs hide during the day in the cracks of the roosts, in the nests, in the corners of the floors, or between boards. For this reason their presence often remains undetected until the chicken houses are badly infested and the poultry raiser seeks an explanation for the drooping condition of his fowls. These parasites attack the birds on the roost and sap their vitality by sucking the blood. To eradicate these pests a thorough cleaning of the chicken houses and spraying with an insecticide having sufficient body is all that is necessary. Anthracene oil mixed with an equal amount of kerosene oil makes an ideal spray. High grade creosote or crude petroleum are also satisfactory and usually cheaper. Crude oil should be thinned by adding one part of the kerosene to four parts oil. All boards, loose boxes and roosts should be removed and the insecticide applied in the form of a rather coarse spray, using a suitable pump. Birds should be kept out of the houses until the fluid has thoroughly soaked into the wood.

Scaly leg mites which cause a rough appearance of the surface of the feet and legs and reduce production considerably may be destroyed by dipping the affected parts in crude petroleum. This can be done most easily by putting the oil in a large bucket. The work should be done in the morning so that the oil will evaporate before the birds go to roost.

Fleas breed in the dust on the floors of the houses and on the soil under houses and out-buildings. Therefore a special treatment to breeding places rather than individual fowls is necessary. Hen houses and yards should be thoroughly cleaned and sprayed with creosote or crude oil. One part of kerosene to four parts of crude oil is very effective. As the flea breeds freely beneath buildings it is advisable to exclude poultry from these places. The comb and wattles of the birds may be anointed with carbolated petroleum or sulphur ointment to destroy the fleas but care should be taken to prevent the application from reaching the eye as blindness will result.

In conclusion, Williams states that many poultry flocks in the country would double their production in just a few days if all pesky parasites were destroyed.

Elaborate Plans Are Being Made For Chisum Trail Council Boy Scout Camp Which Will Be Held at Camp Tonkawa

The great Chisholm Trail Council Boy Scout Camp will be held at Camp Tonkawa, July 12th to 26th, and the Council officials are working on one of the best programs ever contemplated by the Camping Department of the Council.

Excellent swimming will be one of the features of the program and all swimming, Junior and Senior American Red Cross life-saving tests will be held in the new concrete swimming pool at the C. C. Camp, the Scouts having been given permission to use this fine pool. American Red Cross Examiners will have charge of all life-saving tests and the very exciting and interesting game of water polo will be embodied in the program.

The Making of Indian war bonnets will be an added feature of the camp activities, each war bonnet to be patterned from the original bonnet made by the Sioux Indians.

A new type of archery is to be introduced and for the first time—instruction will be given in the making of flat bows similar to the ones formerly used by the American Indians.

Several Courts of Honor will be held and the entire program will be under adult supervision and leadership. There will be graduate nurses on duty at all times and instruction will be given in Second and First Class First Aid.

The Camping Committee will grade the Scouts as the preliminary move to recommending Chisholm Trail Scouts to attend the great National Jamboree, which will be held in Washington, D. C. during June, 1937.

Permission has been granted the Chisholm Trail Council Scouts to use any and all of the buildings at the CC Camp, including the first aid building, administration, Mess Hall, Barracks, shower baths and so forth. However, a great many of the activities will be held in the original Camp Tonkawa site.

Scouts are urged to register immediately and in order to get the benefit of the entire program, register for the two weeks period.

One of the main features of the Council Camp is the association that Scouts have with Scouts of other cities. Lasting friendships are created among Scouts of different communities and different cities. They learn to play the game with Scouts they have never met before and learning to play the game with Scouts is to give and take, is really one of the best principles of citizenship and character training.

President E. S. Cummings of the Chisholm Trail Council announces that during the Camp period, Scholarship Applications for Hardin-Simmons University, McMurry College, and Abilene Christian College will be decided upon by the Executive Board of the Council. No Scout that has previously received one of the Scholarships is eligible for a second scholarship and only Scouts that are active are eligible and these Scouts must be from communities that are supporting the Chisholm Trail Council financially. This ruling was made by the Executive Board of the Chisholm Trail Council several years ago.

Executive Shumway will serve as Camp Director and will be assisted by a number of experienced Scoutmasters and Eagle Scouts. Professional cooks will prepare the meals and enable the Council to live up to its reputation as serving excellent meals at Camp Tonkawa.

Camp Tonkawa is one of the prettiest spots in West Texas. It has plenty of shade, many large trees and the Regional Office considers the Camp site one of Misses Viola Kirby, Omega Dobbins, Berma James, Ada Milliohn, Olga Kirby, Fey James, Bertha Milliohn, and the honoree, The Misses Leo and Louise White sent lovely gifts to Mrs. Teten.

Shorts Invade Office

NEW YORK . . . The controversy over the ordinance against shorts for women on the streets of New York so irritated the girls in the office of Charles Atlas, N. Y. physical culturist, that they formed a "Long Live Shorts Club," every member to wear shorts at work throughout the summer. Beatrice Schott of Brooklyn, file clerk, is shown at work.

Miss Wade and Mrs. Berwick Are Honored at Party

Mrs. L. E. Low was the gracious hostess Tuesday afternoon at a pretty party to honor her guest, Miss Annje Wade of the Hawaiian Islands and Mrs. James Berwick of Altus, Oklahoma, who is visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hunt. Both honor guests are former teachers in the local schools.

A profusion of summer flowers were attractively arranged about the rooms where tables were appointed for games of contract bridge and forty-two. High score for bridge was made by Mrs. W. A. Pace and in games of forty-two, Mrs. W. P. Gardner made high. They were presented hand-embroidered guest towels. Guest prizes were dainty hand-made handkerchiefs.

At the tea hour the hostess served an iced course to Mesdames J. W. Dixon, Chas. Chapman, W. E. Hickman, W. P. Gardner, S. E. Hunt, W. L. Pratt, T. V. Jennings, Walter Brian, C. S. Jackson, Frank Williams, W. A. Pace, A. J. McDaniel, L. T. Smith, John Q. McAdams, A. Bourne, F. J. Brophy, J. M. Skaggs, R. C. Maddox, Miss Wade and Mrs. Berwick.

Designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 38 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch fabric. Vestee requires 1 1/4 yard of lace edging. Bow requires 1/3 yard of ribbon.

SMART STREET FROCK

You who must be cautious in choosing your frocks for fear of accentuating the wrong places, gather closely and give this model careful appraisal. Now then, wouldn't your friends be apt to compliment that new diet (which you aren't keeping) when you step forth more slender looking, all because of this clever frock, with sizes ranging from 36 to 48. The capelet sleeves are sure to get your vote; they're good style and very comfortable. The cool looking vestee is simple and the softly rolling revers lend graceful refinement to the waist front. The unusually nice hang of the skirt is an important feature of this frock. It demands and gets action from the box pleats in the panels.

For Patterns, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired) your name, address, style number and size to Patricia Dow, The Winters Enterprise Pattern Department, 115 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. A. T. Gerstenburg and son, Bobby, and Mrs. Dolly Whiteley, left Tuesday for a visit with relatives and friends at Belton and Temple. While absent, Mrs. Gerstenburg will undergo a minor operation.

D. S. Moore, Jr., of Del Rio, is here this week visiting in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton White and baby daughter, Patricia, have returned to their home at Amarillo, after a visit in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. White. They were accompanied home by his sons, Donald and Glenn, who will spend a few weeks visiting in Amarillo.

Methodist W. M. S. Is Trying For Efficiency Aim

The Methodist Woman's Missionary Society is trying for the Efficiency Aim by doing the work planned by the conference for the Woman's Missionary societies.

All pledges are paid up to date and, in fact, all the work is up to date. The Society has an active Spiritual Life group and the chairman of the Social Relations, Mrs. Ella Ritch, is doing good work. Fifteen members have subscribed for the World Outlook.

All officers are loyal and active under the leadership of the efficient president, Mrs. J. M. Skaggs.

Miss Pearl Cary and Joe Lesley Married July 1

The marriage of Miss Pearl Cary and Joe Lesley of Content was solemnized Wednesday morning, July 1, at the Methodist parsonage with the pastor, Rev. J. W. Sharbutt, officiating.

The bride was becomingly attired in a chiffon frock of Royal blue with harmonizing accessories.

After a brief wedding trip the couple will reside near Content where Mr. Lesley is engaged in farming.

MYSTERY STORIES MOST POPULAR AT THE FREE LIBRARY

A mystery story, The Murder of Roger Akroid, by Christie, has proved to be the most popular book among the fifty borrowed from the State Library and now to be returned. All the other mystery stories of the collection were in great demand.

Among the books for children Little Princes Nina and Betty Bide at Home were preferred. As all these books are due now and the young readers who wish for a different set of books for reading are returning promptly the books they take out for reading another bunch of books are to be expected soon.

An honor roll for those whose record is perfect in the care and return of books will be inaugurated for the summer vacation reading.

JULY 4TH A Day Worth Celebrating

Every nation has in its history certain events of which it is justly proud. But among all the patriotic episodes in the life of all the nations, there is any which, judged by the vastness and significance of its results, is comparable with the signing of America's Declaration of Independence?

May the future of our nation be fashioned with a vision as magnificent and ideals as worthy as those which, in 1776, made possible the amazing advancement that has taken place since that time!

RECIPES

Denton.—The meat and fish salads are perhaps the most popular of the more hearty salads that may be served as the main course for luncheon, supper, or small party.

Often when accompanied only with a hot bread and a beverage they make a satisfactory meal. When preceded with a hot soup and finished with fresh fruit, the meal becomes quite complete when simplicity is the note desired.

Salad Luncheon No. 1: Cream of tomato soup, chicken and vegetable salad, cinnamon buns, baked apple.

Salad Luncheon No. 2: Shrimp salad, graham bread sandwiches with chopped olive filling, strawberry shortcake, hot tea.

Salad Luncheon No. 3: Cream of pea soup, ham salad, raisin muffins, iced chocolate.

Salad Luncheon No. 4: Salmon salad, buttered toast, stuffed prunes, grapefruit punch.

Salad Luncheon No. 5: Chicken-noodle soup, country club salad, bread and butter sandwich, chilled fruit cup.

RECIPES

Ham Salad: 3-4 c. cooked peas,

2 c. cooked diced ham, 3 T. sweet relish, 1-4 c. chopped celery. Combine ingredients and chill in French dressing. Arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with Russian dressing made by adding chili sauce to mayonnaise.

Salmon Salad: 2 1-2 c. cold salmon, 1-3 c. pickle relish, 1-2 tsp. salt, 1 1-2 c. chopped celery, 3 T. lemon juice, 1-2 tsp. paprika. Flake the salmon, discarding skin and bones. Add celery, lemon juice, salt and paprika. Stand in refrigerator to chill. Mix with mayonnaise to moisten. Serve on salad green and garnish with pickle relish.

Country Club Salad: 1 c. cold cooked veal, 1 c. cold cooked ham, 2 c. chopped celery, stuffed olives. Cut ham and veal into small dice and add celery. Moisten with French Dressing one half hour before serving. Chill and serve in beds of lettuce with sliced olives and mayonnaise.

Chicken and Vegetable Salad: 2 c. diced cold chicken, 1-2 c. cooked peas, 1-2 c. cooked diced beets, 1-2 c. string beans, (cut) 1-2 c. cooked carrots, 1 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. paprika, 1 T. chopped parsley, French dressing. Combine all ingredients and marinate in French Dressing. Let stand until thoroughly chilled. Arrange in lettuce leaves and top with mayonnaise.

Shrimp Salad: 4 c. cooked

THE CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE

A few months ago it looked as if the Constitution of the United States might be one of the major issues between the two political parties in the Presidential campaign which has just begun. The reversal by the Supreme Court of some of the Administration's measures, enacted by a Democratic Congress, and the resentment openly expressed, prepared many political observers to expect a demand by the Democrats for a revision of the Constitution, either extending the powers of Congress of curbing the authority of the Supreme Court. Surprisingly enough, however, the only suggestion of a Constitutional change, so far as it is officially figures in the campaign, has come from the Republican candidate for President, Gov. Landon.

President Roosevelt took occasion to declare himself and, by inference, the party which follows his leadership, in his speech at Little Rock on June 10. In referring to the Constitution as "the best instrument ever devised" for maintaining the fundamental principles on which the nation was founded, and declaring that "it is intended to meet and satisfy the amazing physical, economic and social requirements that confront us," he put an effective end to the talk that he and his party would inject the Constitutional issue into the campaign.

Gov. Landon, in his telegram to the Republican National Convention, did not accept his party platform declaration that ways can be found under the Constitution whereby states may enact minimum wage laws for women and children and declared that he was prepared to advocate a Constitutional amendment to that end, if necessary, to accomplish the purpose.

Neither candidate has voiced any criticism of the Supreme Court. Both Gov. Landon and President Roosevelt are intelligent enough to understand that even though the Constitution does not specifically authorize the Court to set aside an act of Congress, it is its prime function, as it is of any court, to interpret the law, and the Constitution specifically declares itself to be the "supreme law of the land." It will so remain until the people themselves decide otherwise.

SPENDING THE BONUS

Nearly two billion dollars of fresh purchasing power is now being put into the hands of more than three and a half millions of American families through the distribution of the bonus bonds voted to veterans of the World War by Congress. That this distribution is bound to have a stimulating effect upon business of all kinds in every part of the country is certain.

Never before has such an enormous of fresh money been dropped at one time into the channels of trade. How permanent the effects of this influx of cash may be it is much too early to say. At best, its effect can only be guessed at, since there is no precedent in economic history. That it will, in the main, be beneficial in tiding the business of the nation over the usual summer slump is probably true. It is another question, however, what the effect of the bonus payments will be upon those who are receiving them.

Doubtless a fair proportion of the veterans will save their bonus bonds, either adding to savings they already have accumulated or starting a fresh back-log against the future. But it is too much to expect of human nature that the majority will be so prudent. Economic conditions being what they are, it is reasonably certain that a high percent of the bonus recipients will feel themselves compelled to meet pressing obligations with the proceeds of their bonds. And it is even more certain that a great many of them will behave as the general run of people are prone to behave when wealth comes into their hands.

"Easy come, easy go," much more than a mere catch-word. It expresses a philosophy based upon a sound understanding of human nature. Few people can resist the temptation to splurge when they find themselves suddenly in possession of money. It is to be feared that it will not be long before a large proportion of the recipients of the bonus will be just as "broke" as they were before they got it.

They're Off!

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, July 1. — The Presidential campaign has started off with a bang. The new management of the Republican Party is letting no grass grow under its feet. Political observers of both parties now agree privately, whatever they may say in public, that it will be a real fight, with the chances much more nearly even than seemed likely only a few weeks ago.

It is much too early to say that the Republicans are confident of victory, but it is certainly true that they have more ground for hope. Likewise, it would be absurd to represent the Democrats as being despondent but talk in Democratic circles is much less tinged with confidence. Their party is facing an aggressive opposition. As aggressive as has appeared upon the political horizon in a long time.

New GOP Control

The most interesting angle of the whole situation is the complete control of the Republican Party organization by the men who followed Theodore Roosevelt in his Bull Moose campaign of 1912 and the heirs to his political philosophy. Gov. Landon and Col. Knox, both the Republican candidates, left the Republican Party in 1912 to follow Teddy's standard.

John Hamilton, the new Republican national chairman, was too young to vote in 1912, but his whole political career has been colored by the Bull Moose progressivism which has long

Speaker Bankhead

WASHINGTON . . . A newly posed picture of Representative Wm. B. Bankhead of Alabama, elected Speaker of the House of Representatives at the death of the late speaker Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee.

dominated the Party spirit in the Middle West. That is decidedly a fighting spirit. Men who had attended the Bull Moose Convention of 1912 were reminded again of the fervor, the almost religious enthusiasm of Teddy's followers, by the demonstrations at Cleveland.

Republican hopes are based largely upon the fact that party control has been wrested from the hands of elderly leaders of ultra conservative views taken over by a group of young men who, the Republicans believe, can put on a campaign which will attract the young voters upon whose ballots victory next November will depend.

Democratic Strength

Opposing this new Republican Party is what is probably the most completely organized political party that ever functioned on a national scale. Under the direction of Postmaster General Farley as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, it is certain that every office-holder and beneficiary of the New Deal will be called upon to help elect President Roosevelt. It is a formidable army of which Mr. Farley is the generalissimo, and it has as its candidate a gentleman whose eloquence and oratorical ability are not to be derided. Mr. Roosevelt's persuasive voice and convincing manner are familiar to every American who has ever listened to the radio, and that is a lot of Americans.

Gov. Landon, on the other hand, is still an unknown quantity as a campaigner. He seems to possess little of the ability of Mr. Roosevelt to transmit personal charm by radio. He is more effective, however, as a public speaker than was Mr. Hoover, either in 1928 or 1932. The campaign, in the long run, will be determined more by the personalities of the two leading candidates than by any other single factor, and it still remains to be seen how Mr. Landon will measure up in the public mind as against Mr. Roosevelt.

See Landon Courage

Gov. Landon has been presented to the public as an ordinary American, with all the homely virtues of a small-town western environment. Those who know him best and have studied his record and career agree that he is just that kind of a person, but with much more than the ordinary citizen's political acumen.

Landon followers point out that he possesses a high degree of courage and integrity. They point to his telegram to the National Convention, in which he took exception to certain planks of the Republican platform and declared his position on gold, Civil Services reform and the power of the states to establish minimum wages for women and children, much more definitely and vigorously than the Committee which shaped the platform had dared to venture.

Busy News Fronts

The propaganda mills here in Washington are busy grinding out campaign literature for both parties. The new propaganda chief of the Democrats is the Rev. Stanley High, formerly editor of the Christian Herald, who is not only making a special appeal to church people but is putting out literature of a much more dignified and constructive character than any of the previous Democratic propaganda material.

The Republican National Committee is expected to continue its propaganda machinery already in operation here and to amplify and intensify its operations. There will be little chance of any voter escaping the impact of propaganda from both sides. Plans already in operation by the Democrats and in preparation by the Republicans contemplate a campaign in which every known medium reaching the public eye and ear will be utilized to the limit of its possibilities. Both sides will have all the money they need, to do whatever they want to do.

One man who is pleased with the outcome of the Republican National Convention is former President Herbert Hoover. He is particularly pleased because the platform adopted embodies the doctrines that he had preached during the past 18 months. Whether he will take any active part in the campaign now seems doubtful, but if called upon, he will serve.

Mr. Hoover would have preferred Col. Knox to Gov. Landon to head the ticket, but applauded Col. Knox's willingness to serve in the capacity as he put it, of "First Mate."

G.O.P. wants to give F. D. R. the air but thinks that the broadcasting companies ought not to.

Refreshing Relief When You Need a Laxative

Because of the refreshing relief it has brought them, thousands of men and women, who could afford much more expensive laxatives, use Black-Draught when needed. It is very economical, purely vegetable, highly effective. . . Mr. J. Lester Roberson, well known hardware dealer at Martinsville, Va., writes: "I certainly can recommend Black-Draught as a splendid medicine. I have taken it for constipation and the dull feelings that follow, and have found it very satisfactory."

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Mancy Hart's HOME NEWS

An exhibition of recently discovered letters from Elizabeth Barret Browning to her poet husband have attracted considerable attention. These letters were written on thin note paper like the familiar "onion-skin" which was in vogue in the 40's. This same type of crisp, sheer note-paper is sold at many of the stores now for personal letters and especially for air mail purposes. And the envelopes are lined in the foreign manner in dark blue or gray tissue.

Household Hint: A few tiny pieces of ginger, grapefruit or orange peel or candied fruit will give an added flavor to fruit salad or fruit cup.

"Certainly it's intoxicating," says Harmony Gal, Mae Mitchell, about Harry Von Tilzer's new song hit, "In Our Cocktail of Love," "and so easy to take—darling!" concludes Mae.

Strawberry time is shortcake time. The modern woman, wishing to serve a strictly early-American delicacy, should by all means make at least one old-fashioned strawberry shortcake while the berries are in season. It's popular with every member of the family. Such a cake is easy to prepare, decidedly inexpensive—and very luscious. Once tried, it becomes a regular desert, so long as strawberries can be obtained. Here is a carefully tested recipe for:

- Old Fashioned Strawberry Shortcake
- 2 cups flour
 - 1-2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 4 teaspoons cream of tartar baking powder
 - 3 tablespoons shortening
 - 3-4 cup milk
 - 1 quart berries
- Sift dry ingredients; mix in shortening; add milk to make soft dough; smooth out lightly. Bake in greased deep layer cake tin in hot oven at 475 degrees F. for 20 to 25 minutes. Split, butter and spread sweetened crushed berries between layers.

A woman is as old as her mouth, according to beauty experts. Nothing does more to mar the appearance and add extra years than tiny mouth lines, flabby puckered skin and dry, roughened lips. Whenever you cream your face, remember not to skip your lips. Rub the cream in gently and also massage for a few seconds around the corners of the mouth with an upward circular motion. Its an excellent year-round suggestion, too, for softening the lips and removing roughness, to keep a bottle of your favorite lotion handy and moisten the lips frequently with it during the day and as a finishing touch to your nightly facial.

The victims of tuberculosis say they are becoming fed-up with professional sympathizers who seek funds from the public with harrowing sob-stories and tear-jerking publicity. So they are now forming their own cooperative league for mutual help and rehabilitation. If you have friends or acquaintances who may be interested, information can be had by addressing The National League of the Tuberculous, Astoria, New York.

Smart shops are now showing air-tight metal canisters which keep crackers, coffee and the like crisp and fresh indefinitely. They filled one with crackers, immersed it in a pan of water for two weeks, and the crackers came out crisp as ever. The canisters come in two and three pound sizes.

We couldn't possibly think of a neater gift for the bride of modest income than one of the new racks which fasten against the wall, and have two rows of five sliding hooks for pots and pans. Everything right where you want it. The upper part may be used to hold canisters, and there are brass roosters, foxes and fish for added color.

Household Hints: Wind small rubber bands around the ends of slippery dress hangers and you will have a "non-skid" hanger.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and deepest appreciation to all the neighbors and friends who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement caused by the sudden death of our husband and father.

We are especially grateful for the words of comfort and also the beautiful flowers.

May the Lord's richest blessings rest and abide on each of you in our prayer.—Mrs. J. H. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Townsend.

Says! who reads the ads, anyway?

There they are, next to the play-by-play dope on the ball game, cutting off the news of So-and-So's engagement party so you have to jump clear to the middle of the next column to finish it. Those ads! You know who runs them, their signatures are on 'em—but who reads 'em, anyway? The printer? That's right—but shucks, he's paid to! And the advertiser—sure, he reads them to see if the paper got the prices right. Who else? What's the great American ad-reader look like? Who reads the ads? Let's solve the mystery . . . and see!

This fellow's income is 'way above average; there are not many like him, we'll admit. Retired from real estate last year; survived the depression nicely, thank you, and will be back from Bar Harbour in September. Gets a kick out of picking up $7 shirts for $3.79 by waiting for the sales. Reads the ads—not every week—but wouldn't think of buying without checking the price and quality against every value in the paper.

Remember her debut party? She'll be back at Smith in the fall; right now she's pretty busy, what with the little car an Enterprise ad helped sell her Dad, the places all the crowd goes to (they say the boys pick them from The Enterprise) and the show her club gives every summer. To date she's tracked down material for costumes, arranged for tickets, and has practically closed a deal with a florist . . . all through The Enterprise.

She likes to say that the children are grown up and out of the way now . . . but just watch her smile when she sees an ad for print wash frocks . . . size 2 to 6! Keeps a gift list that touches almost every day of the calendar, and half the dates are for children! Entertains a lot, too, and manages to belong to quite a few of the clubs. Proud of her home, and not a bit unwilling to take advantage of a bargain for it when The Enterprise backs it up!

Hers is a pretty complete little world, of course. Two children, a busy young husband, a new house . . . a little dominion that's pretty hard to crash. But she's made the Enterprise a welcome intruder. Where else, she asks, would she find the same help in keeping a not-too-big budget straight . . . how else could she keep the house looking so newly furnished on so little . . . what other source would be so obliging about tipping her off on dozens of sales every day.

Still prefers the comics, but graduated into the ad reading class last year, when he decided he wanted a prep suit like the one his buddy Charlie got. Has since found quite a few things he's going to own some day. Sold on one make of bicycle right now, and a certain page of the Enterprise has a way of popping up in a prominent place each night about the time that Dad's due home.

Belongs to a number of the city's service clubs, has kept a good business going for a number of years, and has a son who's going into the business some day soon. Makes a hobby of his place up at the lake, and won't let a gun or tackle ad out of his sight till he's read it all the way through. Finds The Enterprise ads a good indication of business conditions in the city . . . as well as an effective medium for his own business.

Still in school, but looking forward to the day when he can buy his first car. Just at present quite satisfied with the buys he finds in sporting goods in The Enterprise. Interested in what the well dressed young man should wear, and willing to do a little research in the subject. (It's whispered that she lives just a block or two away). Working the family pretty hard for the trip west that he read about in an ad in The Enterprise.

Had a tough time a couple of years ago. But he found a job through the Employment section in the classifieds, and he and the wife have been reading the ads for one reason or another ever since. First it was the new furniture they needed when they stopped "doubling up" with her folks, then they needed a used car, and right now, since things look better at the plant and there's another nest egg laid away, they're looking for another house.

The Answer, of Course, Can Be Briefly Told; Everybody Reads the Ads Each Week in

The Enterprise

Pretty shrewd, this youngster! Kind of hated to leave the city and go back to the farm, but he's managed to combine the advantages of both places in just a few short years. First saw the radio he now owns in an Enterprise ad. Installed a bathroom after an Enterprise ad told him how inexpensive the fixtures would be. Found that he'd save time by trading in the old truck on a light pick-up that a Winters dealer advertised. And he saved money on the reaper that he picked out of the want-ads!

Not too many free hours in her life! But The Enterprise makes every one of them do double duty, when she starts off on a shopping tour. Clothes have to be smarter, to make up for hours spent in a uniform; cosmetics have to be better, to pass her rigid inspection; everything she buys must get by a sentry-like insistence on perfection. She learned back in her student days that she could rely on the ads, and she's learned since that she can depend on them to save her off-duty time.

It's a date! And that, as any bright young member of Winters high school will tell you, means a trip through Enterprise ads. It may be for some new hose . . . for a place to have the white coat cleaned . . . for something really different to wear if it's a dance. But whatever the occasion, it's reason enough for a trip through the ad pages, especially when it's almost as much fun as a shopping expedition, and saves the strain on next week's allowance.

"You wouldn't catch me reading the ads . . . just a waste of my valuable time." Oh oh! Puts us in a bad spot. Your photo must have gotten in here by mistake. Sorry . . . hey, wait a minute; . . . that tie you've got on . . . didn't we see that pattern advertised a week ago? Uh-huh . . . well, we thought so!

There's a BARGAIN FOR YOU in the CLASSIFIEDS; Read them!

BAR ADMISISON
RULES REVISED

Austin, July 2.—The Supreme Court today added difficulties to the paths of those who aspire to become lawyers in a revision of rules governing admittance to the bar.
New rules required that candidates must pass at least one-half of the examinations on 20 subjects at the first trial. The remainder must be completed within the year.
If a candidate failed to pass
in two trials, he would be required to pass all of the courses in subsequent examinations. A second failure would necessitate a three-year study. A third failure would disbar the candidate.
Eligibility rules were altered to require one year's residence in Texas and attainment of 21 years of age. Previously those who had the disabilities of a minor removed were admitted.

Mrs. Roxie Floyd, city secretary, left last Sunday for San Antonio, where she is spending a two weeks' vacation visiting relatives and friends. Mrs. Henry Saunders is acting city secretary during Mrs. Floyd's absence.
Mrs. Neil Scott and Mrs. Florence Scott of San Angelo visited in the home of Mrs. Ella Ritch Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Taylor and son, Dennis, of Oklahoma City, are visiting her mother, Mrs. Ella Ritch and other relatives.

R. L. Stokes came Monday to accompany his mother, Mrs. A.
T. Stokes and his daughter, Miss Fannie Lou Stokes, to Lubbock
where they will spend some time visiting in his home in that city.

EXPOSITION WILL SHOW FIRST 1936
BALE OF COTTON

Dallas, July 2.—The first bale of cotton grown in Texas in the Centennial year will go on exhibit in the agricultural department of the Centennial exhibition here this week. The bale was shipped to Dallas from Corpus Christi Tuesday night, according to announcement made from the offices of the state publicity department.

Arrangements for display of the bale, forerunner of the 1936 crop, were being made here by J. A. Moore of the agricultural exhibits department of the exposition, working with Jeff Bell, manager of the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce and members of the Corpus Christi Cotton exchange.

The bale was grown by Teofilo Garcia of La Gulla, Starr county, and was received at Corpus Christi late Monday. It was bought at auction Tuesday morning by the Corpus Christi cotton exchange which paid 25 cents a pound for the total weight of 542 pounds. In addition the grower received a $150 premium raised by Corpus Christi cotton buyers and a $500 premium given by the Southern Bagging Company of Houston.

The Washington
Whirlpool

Washington, D. C., July 2.—
Further evidence that President Roosevelt and the New Deal administration still stand strong with the country is found in the latest compilation of returns from the Democratic Congressional primaries which show that only an insignificant number of sitting Democratic members of the lower house have been defeated for re-nomination.

To date nearly one-half, or seventeen of the forty-eight states have held their primaries for the selection of nominees for Congressional office to be voted on in the national elections of November. Although a total of 134 Democratic congressmen were required to go before their constituents in these seventeen states on the record of their support of the Roosevelt administration only seven of the lot were defeated for re-nomination.

There is nothing to show that the seven unsuccessful incumbent candidates were rejected because of any allegiance with the New Deal administration. The very opposite may have been true, in fact.

But the significant thing, as viewed by trained political observers, is that the turnover should be so small. Comparative figures are not available at the moment, but it is self-evident that if any such dissatisfaction existed over New Deal policies as claimed by Republican opponents of Mr. Roosevelt, the feeling would have manifested itself in more convincing style.

Louisiana, the first of the states to hold a primary, calls for special treatment because the situation which existed there under the dictatorship of the late Senator Huey P. Long, has since changed. While five of the state's eight sitting congressmen, all Democrats, were defeated for re-nomination, New Deal issues did not figure in the election as regards their individual campaigns. It was merely a matter of Long and anti-Long forces battling it out, with President Roosevelt taking no part in the contest beyond the indirect influence of the knowledge that there was no love lost between him and the colorful Senator.

Though still dominant in its control of Louisiana affairs, the old Long machine has now come over to support of the Roosevelt regime, so that the defeat of the five congressmen demands a separate consideration from the others.
If there is any lesson to be read from the primary returns
it is that the Democratic voters of the nation, or those participating in Democratic primaries are standing back of the Congressional legislators who supported the chief executive during the turbulent period of the past few years.

Otherwise the country would have witnessed a growing number of dissenters sweeping in over the incumbents on issues unfavorable to the administration.
Undoubtedly some of the nominations were contested on this basis, but the fact that only seven sitting Democrats, exclusive of Louisiana's unique delegation, have been retired thus far speaks for itself.

What is true of the House members is equally true of the Senate, again eliminating Louisiana, where Senator Long won despite the hostility of the administration. Aside from Long, five Democratic senators have faced the voters of their states already this year—Lewis of Illinois, Bankhead of Alabama, Bulow of South Dakota, Neely of West Virginia, and Bailey of North Carolina. All of them have been re-nominated.

Only two of them faced spirited opposition, Senator Bailey on the score that he had not been as wholesome in his support of the New Deal as some thought he might; he won by a not too comfortable majority. Senator Neely was heatedly opposed by the youthful junior Senator Holt of the same state because of his defense of administration agencies in West Virginia. Neely won by a landslide.

As an added factor in the situation, the Democratic registration lists have been swelled to a greater extent this year than ever before, with such normally Republican states as California, for example, actually reversing the figures for the last Presidential election year, 1932, when several thousand more voters registered themselves as Republicans than Democrats.

In the light of the Congressional picture as thus given, the recent claims of John Hamilton, of Kansas, the youthful newly elected chairman of the Republican National Committee, about Mr. Roosevelt being conceded only six states, hits a new mark for political optimism.

Chairman Hamilton has evidently set about to out-do Chairman James A. Farley, of the Democratic National Committee,
in 1932. But then Mr. Farley's forecast proved accurate, and was supported by the various polls and acknowledged trends of the day.

There is no such encouragement to support Chairman Hamilton's claims today. On the other hand, the reverse is more evident, measured by the steady gain in Roosevelt popularity as reflected by the polls of the American Institute of Public Affairs and the consensus of observers who have made the preliminary rounds of the states already.

So preposterous are the Kansas' claims in behalf of the Republican Presidential nominee, Governor Alf. M. Landon, that some political wag has suggested the excitement of his successful coup at Cleveland may have caused his tongue to become twisted in giving utterance to such profound optimism.

Certainly, as the political experts take it, his figures would have carried earmarks of more accuracy if Chairman Hamilton, with more modesty, had conceded
his ticket six states at the start.

Democratic Chieftrain Farley
still clings to his assertion that President Roosevelt will have more electoral votes this year than in 1932 though conceding for a while that the number of states may not be as large. The difference will be made up in the huge electoral vote of Pennsylvania, which he says will be safely in the Democratic column
this year. To the surprise of everybody the state went Democratic in 1934. Maybe he is right again. Who knows?
