ROGER BABSON PREDICTS

Business In 1959—Not Too Bad, And Not Too Good

The American on wheels has become as much a fixture as the Christmas tree during the Christmas holidays. Seems that during this season half the people are going some place, and the rest are coming back. We believe we saw about half of them during a little trip we took during the past week, because the roads were pretty well jammed—as well as every other form of transportation, except the struck airlines.

Conditions must have changed since we took a long trip, though, because before this when we drove a long distance on car-filled highways we usually were as nervous as a grasshopper in a henhouse. This time, however, we thoroughly enjoyed the trip and got home without the usual case of jangled nerves. We even had an opportunity to notice the country through which we traveled, and made a few observations on the trip.

For instance, in the drive which included long distances in five states, it was interesting to note that in the states where the highway speed limits were the highest, the roads were the poorest—in our estimation. Don't know if there is any connection in the fact that state gasoline taxes were more in the high-speed states, with the exception of one.

Traveling across country, directed by a map which indicated the road we were on was a well-maintained state highway, we suddenly found ourselves bouncing along on an ancient vintage asphalt trail. Figured we'd taken a wrong turn and got ourselves lost for sure—until we came to an old iron bridge with a toll gate. We helped 'em finish paying off the mortgage, though, with the 45 cents they made us pay for crossing. Later, we were charged a dime to cross a multi-million dollar bridge.

On one stretch—for about 100 miles—as we drove along we kept noticing that about every house by the side of the road had a sign posted, "Real Estate Agency." Kept wondering about the apparently booming real estate business, and were finally satisfied with an answer: Business was brisk; of course, one of them said, they sometimes had to sell to one another; but business was brisk.

We ended the trip a convert of the cross-country turnpike idea. For a country boy, they take a mite getting used to, and at first we kept dodging like a fly in a swatter factory when the fast traffic passed us. Once you get the hang of it, though, and stick your nose out in that fast lane, with no crossing traffic to worry about, there's smooth sailing from fill-up to fill-up.

At one place where we stopped for a cup of coffee, we didn't think it unusual for the waitress to use a stub pencil about two inches long to write an order—until we looked around the room and saw, in glass cases hanging on the walls, the collection of the owner—what we would guess to be about two thousand pencils of all shapes and descriptions. This in South Haven, Kansas.

Now that old maul and man-handled 1958 has scooted off like a whipped houn' dog, and li'l ol' 1959 is busting to get on with the things at hand, many of us are wondering what manner of success, if any, we will experience in the new year. Of course success is relative; it just depends from which direction we look at it. As one fence-sitting forecaster has put it, business in 1959 will not be good, but will not be bad. So take your pick. Anyway, we wish everyone their idea of a Happy New Year.

IN GOLDTHWAITE
Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Shuffield spent the week end in Goldthwaite visiting in the home of Mrs. J. M. Spinks and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Dalton.

VISITED PARENTS
Mr. and Mrs. Don Davis of College Station spent the holidays visiting in the home of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Gene Virden and Mr. and Mrs. Wilma C. Davis.

1. Not too good and not too bad. Both the boom and the recent recession will be awaiting developments following the recent November elections.

2. 1959 will be a "do nothing" year for Congress. Both parties will hold their cards close to their chests until 1960,—when the Republicans will want good business. Most Democrats will vote for most of the inflationary legislation; but only a few of these Congressmen will vote for such legislation over the President's veto. The Democrats will be in a dilemma. In their hearts they will not want good business in 1960; but they must be very careful not to do anything which could be held against them in 1960.

Every act of Rockefeller's and of other leading Presidential candidates of both parties will be carefully scrutinized to analyze their vote-getting possibilities for 1960. We will comment on these possibilities in our Forecast for 1960 a year from now.

3. So long as Russia is fearful of China's loyalty, she will not intentionally start a shooting war. I hope that Chiang Kai-shek will come to his senses so that China will become an ally of the United States. Marshall surely bet on the "wrong horse" when he made his report to Truman.

4. Our national budget will show a heavy deficit in 1959. This and other factors should cause a continued gradual, although not dangerous, inflation.

5. Serious competition will continue at all levels in 1959. Manufacturers, merchants, and others who reduce advertising and other selling appropriations will surely suffer.

6. Despite competition, the profit squeeze will be eased for many concerns by strenuous cost-cutting programs and improving business.

7. More foreign goods will enter the United States during 1959. This especially applies to German, Italian, Japanese, and Russian goods.

8. New cargo ships, built in Japan, England, Germany, Norway, Sweden, and Italy, will be launched in 1959. This should result in most American-built and American-registered ships operating at a loss. More subsidies will be demanded.

9. Failures may not increase during 1959. Some big corporation, now listed in the Dow-Jones Average, may get in financial difficulties.

10. Federal cost-of-living figures will be disputed in 1959. Labor rates and wages which have been tied to the Federal Tables will be disputed by both Labor and Management.

11. On the basis of the above statements, I forecast, on the average, no wide change in 1959 for commodity prices. The recent recession is not over. Russia is still fighting us with an economic war.

12. There will be more strikes and labor troubles in 1959 than in 1958. Due to fear of unfavorable labor legislation and poor business conditions, labor leaders were on their good behavior in 1958.

13. It is now difficult to forecast the unemployment situation for 1959. Owing to the increase of automation, working forces will continue to be cut. Looking ahead to the elections of 1960, manufacturers, who are mostly Republicans, will want no more serious unemployment to occur.

14. Many plans for expansion of plants were postponed during 1958 for fear of a real depression. Some of these plans will be executed in 1959, although on a more moderate scale.

15. There will be a need for continued economic readjustment in 1959; but the playing of politics by both parties may temporarily postpone it.

16. 1959 will not see any marked change in money rates. However, borrowers who have not established good credit will continue to find it difficult to get new funds in 1959.

17. This means that it should be more difficult, on average, to sell long-term bonds in 1959 than in 1958. Buy only non-callable serial bonds or bonds of reasonably short maturities.

18. The supply of non-taxable state, municipal, and revenue bonds will increase during 1959. This will be due both to less readily available credit and to rising needs of municipalities.

19. The "fly-in-the-ointment" will be the uncertainty of the Federal policy regarding the new $30,000,000,000 roadbuilding program. Will it compete with or protect toll roads recently built? I believe this program will not harm outstanding Turnpike Bonds.

20. Many investors will switch from stocks into bonds in 1959, thus obtaining both higher income and better security.

21. As inflation becomes more serious, only short-term bond issues—other than convertible bonds—should be held to maturity. Bonds should no longer be considered good "permanent" investments unless they are non-taxable or convertible on a reasonable basis.

22. The best investment policy during 1959 will continue to be a well-diversified portfolio—of stocks, short-term bonds, and cash. Every conservative investor will keep one-third of his portfolio liquid, to have funds available in case of a sudden very severe drop in the stock market. This will come some day.

23. As the 1958 Congress has not accomplished more in correcting abuses in the Teamsters Union, the 1959 Congress will do little to improve the labor situation. Therefore, invest in companies which will not be subject to strikes. Banks and utilities probably are the most nearly immune.

24. The Taft-Hartley Act will not be amended, nor will labor's exemption from anti-monopoly laws be removed, until after the 1960 election. Labor leaders will get more and more power until—with Russia's help—they bring on a real depression.

25. Due to unemployment and the difficulty of borrowing funds for installing automation (automatic factories), the machinery industry will continue quiet during 1959.

26. I now see no probability that either wages or retail prices will be "fixed" during 1959 unless Russia threatens World War III.

27. Most wageworkers will be more efficient during 1959, which should enable some management to increase their productivity and profits.

28. Executive will attend more strictly to business during 1959, reducing time spent on luncheon clubs, golf, etc.

29. Good building land on the proper side of growing cities will continue to increase in price notwithstanding a decline in suburban building. Small farmers holding such should not now sell.

30. Small farm without any suburban possibilities may well con-

William Mills Hired As City Night Watchman

William Mills, 27, formerly of San Angelo police department, has been employed by the City of Winters as city night watchman, to begin work Jan. 1.

Mills will replace Herman Baker Sr. Sr., who has been serving as night watchman since the resignation of Orville Cotter several months ago.

The new night watchman has been a resident of San Angelo for about eight years, where he worked for nine months on the San Angelo police force. At present he is working as a salesman.

The new appointee will move with his wife to Winters.

Mills will work under the Winters chief of police, L. F. Hennigan.

City Council Orders Election For April 7

The Winters City Council in regular session Monday evening ordered an election April 7 to choose a mayor and two city councilmen.

Terms expire for Mayor George Poe and Councilmen O. B. Raper and Bob Loyd.

Other councilmen are A. B. Spill, Elzie Cox and Lee Harrison.

Both the mayor and councilmen serve two-year terms, the councilmen's terms being staggered.

C. of C. Names New Directors At Tuesday Meeting

Members of the board of directors of the Winters Chamber of Commerce met in special session Tuesday afternoon to canvass the ballots cast for new members of the board.

Postcard ballots were mailed several weeks ago to members of the chamber of commerce and returns were completed this week.

New board members elected by the membership were M. D. Johnston, Gus Voss, T. L. Hatler, Al Libbe and Dr. John E. Griffin.

Jeannine Poe Accepts Civil Service Job At Fort Polk, La.

Jeannine Poe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Poe, has accepted a civil-service position as recreation leader at Ft. Polk, La., and will assume her duties on Jan. 5.

Miss Poe will receive her Master's Degree from Baylor University with the January graduating class. She was employed with the International American Health Studios as manager in Pomona, Calif., before returning home in June to complete her graduate work.

After receiving her B. A. degree from Baylor Miss Poe owned and operated a Retail Merchants Association in Winters and was later associated with the Retail Merchants in Ft. Worth. She has had other business experience in Houston and Phoenix, Ariz.

Following a summer's study in Paris, France in 1952 with a group of Baylor students, Miss Poe taught in Hattiesburg, Mississippi Woman's College, and has taught in Dallas and Houston Public School.

1958 Was Good Year In Winters

New construction, street paving and a good grain and cotton crop led the march of important events in the Winters area for the year 1958.

Construction hit a high level, with many new houses built. A new sanctuary for the First Baptist church was completed; an addition to the Winters Municipal Hospital was completed; a new band hall for Winters High School was completed. Construction was started on two new cotton warehouses and a big factory building was started by J. R. Dry & Sons.

Several streets in the city of Winters were paved, and plans were made to surface several blocks of downtown alleyways.

Farmers harvested more than 200 cars of small grain, more than 200 cars of milo, and the cotton crop was the best to be harvested in several years.

Arthur Eggemeyer States Much of RSCD Very Dry

Arthur Eggemeyer, vice-chairman of the Runnels Soil Conservation District, stated that much of the district is becoming very dry. Blow trouble can be expected next spring if this trend continues, he added. A combination of practices is needed to control wind erosion. One of these practices is strip cropping.

Cecil Drake, of the local Soil Conservation Service, said, "strip cropping is the growing of crops in a systematic arrangement of strips which serve as a barrier to wind erosion." Crops that are suitable for the strips are sorghums, small grain, sorghum, alfalfa and blue panicum grass.

Strip cropping should be planned so it will fit into normal cropping operations. The width of the protective strips will vary as to the kind of soil, farm equipment and kind of crop used for the strips. For best results, the strip should not be less than four normal width rows wide. The type of soil will determine the width of the area between the strips.

R. W. Straach, Rt. 1, Miles; Bill Schwertner, Rt. 1, Miles; and Alfons Book, Rt. 1, Miles are a few of those who are practicing strip cropping.

State Capitol Highlights:

1958 Lacked Sensational Headlines Erupting From Texas State Capital

By VERN SANFORD

As a news-making year, 1958 lacked the lid-blowing scandals and sensational headlines that erupted from the Capitol in '56 and '57.

But it was momentous year in many ways. Elections. Recession. State treasury bankrupt. Much talk of new taxes.

Many research reports were made—by the State Tax Study Commission, the Texas Research League, the Hale-Aikin Committee. Required reports came from the Board of Water Engineers, Legislative Council.

All in all, 1958 was a year of surveys, a time of critical self-examination. All the research re- High Education Commission and ports made lengthy stories, little headlines. Few are complete stories. Most will be continued into the turbulent Legislative year of 1959.

A month by month review of 1958, including top news events, both good and bad, depending on your viewpoint, follows:

JANUARY

Gov. Price Daniel refused to be gloomy about state finances. He said he wasn't convinced the State Treasury would be in the red by 1959, as some said, nor of the need for new taxes.

New State Water Planning Board set up shop with the aim of doubling Texas' water storage capacity. . . . Land Commissioner Earl Rudder resigned to become A & M Vice President. Bill Allcorn of Brownwood succeeded Rudder. . . . Rival groups of optometrists squared off in a court battle to decide legality of price advertising.

Early-day satellites swirled overhead and a lot of people were worrying whether our schools were as good as Russia's. . . . Hale-Aikin Committee asked for grass-roots suggestions for school improvement.

FEBRUARY

Gov. Daniel proposed that precinct convention be abolished and that delegates to the county convention be named by direct primary vote. It was a surprise counter-move to the "code of ethics" campaign being conducted by the DOT as part of its drive to wrest party control from the governor.

State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert predicted a $12,000,000 state revenue deficit and need for $100,000,000 in new taxes by 1959. . . . Economists announced bluntly that there was a recession.

MARCH

Texas oil allowable dwindled to nine producing days. Oil Imports Study Commission blamed excess stocks on over-production during Suez crisis, competition since from foreign oil.

Unemployment payments hit a figure double that of a year ago. . . . And many Texas farmers reported it was "too wet to plow."

APRIL

Oil allowable tumbled to an all-time low, eight producing days. . . . But TEC, for the first time in 1958, announced a significant drop in joblessness.

Former Sen. Bill Blakley, Dallas financier, announced he'd run for senate post held by Ralph Yarborough. It was starting gun for summer politicking.

MAY

Eight-day oil production pattern continued. . . . Governor Daniel kicked off a campaign to save 254 lives in '58 by reducing the 1957 highway death toll 10 per cent.

Bureau of Business Research reported the recession "is still very much with us."

JUNE

Election campaigns got into high gear. But as much, if not more, attention focused on the "after-hours" election, the precinct conventions. Prize in the struggle would be control of the state convention in September and selection of party officials for the next two years. Leading the rival factions were Governor Daniel for the moderate-conservatives and National Committeewoman Mrs. R. D. Randolph for the liberal DOT.

JULY

Primaries returned almost all incumbents to major offices, including Ralph Yarborough to the U. S. Senate and Price Daniel to another term as governor.

Oil was up to nine producing days. . . . Economic analysts pointed to lessening unemployment, hefty bank deposits, said it might be "a good year after all."

AUGUST

Legislative Budget Board wrestled with money requests from state agencies far in excess of expected revenue for 1960-61. . . . Second primary settled who would sit in 56th Legislature, but not who would preside over the House. Both Joe Burkett of Kerrville and Waggoner Carr of Lubbock claimed enough pledges to be elected speaker.

Leaders of all types of Democrats called for "harmony" at September convention. Oil allowable rose to 11 days.

SEPTEMBER

Hale-Aikin Committee made its first report on proposals to update, enrich public schools. . . . Fiscal leaders in Legislature upped their gloomy predictions on new revenue needs to $140,000,000.

Texas Democrats turned their eyes toward 1960 after a convention controlled by the Governor despite DOT outrage over the exclusion of its members from the Executive Committee.

OCTOBER

Texas General Revenue Fund ran dry and began going in the hole. . . . Hale-Aikin Committee reconsidered and reversed its previous stand against federal aid for school lunch programs and vocational training.

Commission on Higher Education proposed a more unified study program for state colleges and universities, concentrating grad-work at UT and A & M. . . . Texans debated merits of nine proposed amendments to the state Constitution.

NOVEMBER

State fiscal officials upped their estimates of needed new revenue to nearly $200,000,000. . . . Industry leaders called the oil industry "sick." Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson called for mandatory import controls.

Many public officials were disappointed over amendment voting. Salary raises for legislators and pension plans for county officials got thumbs down.

DECEMBER

Waning weeks of '58 saw a flood of legislative proposals flow into Austin. . . . Hale-Aikin Committee, joined by Texas State Teachers Association, asked more pay for teachers, more courses, longer school year. Others wanted safety legislation, fiscal help for cities, flexible auto insurance rates, small loan company regulation, etc.

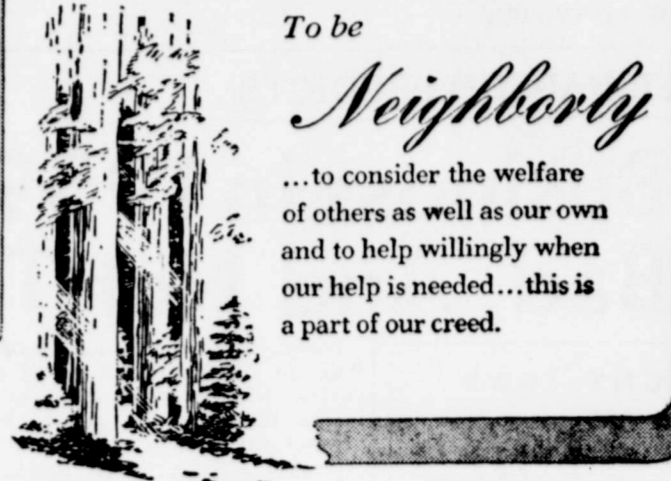

State Tax Study Commission made no recommendation beyond its reporting of the fiscal facts of life in Texas. Governor Daniel estimated the state would need $65,000,000 a year more for future spending plus $55,000,000 to wipe out the deficit. He said he thought it could be done without general sales or income taxes.

And the safety crusade moved toward an unknown outcome as officials, joined by newsmen and hundreds of billboards, sought to cut the usual holiday highway death toll. Whatever happens to the piles of data and recommendations in '59, their accumulation made '58 a significant year. It was a year in which many thoughtful people sought to take a grasp on the problems and promise of Texas' future.

OPTOMETRY: The Art and Science of Visual Care

This is a sign of LIFE

It takes time to see and time to act. That's why good vision is important to safe driving.

With 20/50 vision, you won't see a STOP sign nearer than 90 feet. At 60 miles an hour you will be 200 feet PAST the sign before you can stop.

And at night the problem is multiplied. That's why two-thirds of all traffic deaths occur at night.

Seeing quickly and clearly is vital to safe driving. An examination by a professional optometrist every year can tell you if you are visually prepared to drive. He might help you save a life—maybe your own.

Don't live to regret! Live to be thankful that you could see the Sign of Life.

Baptist Church Choir Held Christmas Party In Johnston Home

Members of the choir of the First Baptist Church were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Johnston Sunday, December 21, following the presentation of the Christmas Cantata at the church. Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Collins served as co-hosts. Husbands and wives of the members also attended.

The refreshment table was laid with a red net and felt sequined cloth. Mrs. Alvin Benson and daughter, Nancy, presided at the silver coffee and tea service.

The group listened to a tape recording of the cantata and presented a gift to Gene Sauer, director, Mrs. L. H. Henslee, organist, and Ed Blair.

Approximately fifty attended.

By VERN SANFORD

Last year's harvest of wildlife resources in Texas was the greatest in the memory of many old-timers.

Thanks to good wildlife management, areas that were "shot out" 25 years ago had top hunting in 1958. Quail were more numerous perhaps than ever before in Texas. And the duck and goose population from Canada was very good.

This all gets back to management. Naturally it had to start with control. Limits had to be put on the bag, and seasons had to be set. All of this, however, would have been to no avail without land management.

We have in Texas a rather paradoxical situation. The game belongs to the people—you and me and everyone else. The land on which it lives, for the most part, belongs to the individual landowner. There is very little public domain in Texas, and it also falls under control.

Every Texas landowner is interested in having some wildlife resources on his land. Most landowners like to hunt and fish a little. But it doesn't take too much to satisfy them.

Hunters must remember that farmers and ranchers have to grow crops or raise cattle to make a living. They build fences to keep their livestock in . . . and to keep people out. Occasionally someone poaches and kills game that belongs to one landowner, but had taken up residence on another man's private property.

As a result the poacher finds himself confronted with the justice of the peace, who slaps a fine on him, usually amounting to forty some odd dollars.

With population growing it became the problem of those who placed controls on wildlife to find a way for every man to hunt. First the sportsmen got together. They didn't have all the answers, so they began to look to science. Biologists were brought into the picture.

They looked around and saw that much of the cover was being destroyed from the land. There wasn't ample feed and wildlife was starving to death, or moving to some other place that was more inviting.

Biologists approached the landowners, who asked the normal question of "why should we?" It was then up to the biologists and the sportsmen to convince the landowner that wildlife can be harvested the same as any other crop.

Some landowners had known this for years. That didn't stop them from overgrazing their land.

ing to provide adequate food and cover for them. As a result he'll have good shooting. He will be entitled to ask a fee from his friends in town to hunt on his property. After all when he goes to town he must pay for what he gets.

There still are some die-hards. They think they know more about wildlife than the men who study it every day in the year and compare notes.

On the other hand, the experts admit they don't know everything, and there is a lot more to be learned. They are learning fast, however. And thanks to them, we are getting a brand of land management and hunter cooperation that will make hunting and fishing better each succeeding year.

When we look at our watch, thinking it must be three o'clock and discover it is five, we know we have accomplished something, on that day at least.

When the evidence is conclusive, a pretense of innocence is amusing in children, dogs, and adults.

Secretaries are usually so helpful and understanding when they are on the job that the boss often wonders why all women can't be like that.

A golfer is one who yells "fore" takes six, and puts down five.

Quail Turnover Heavy in Texas, Biologist Warns

"Quail cannot be stock-piled," says the director of wildlife restoration of the Game and Fish Commission.

Now is the time, he reminds hunters, to take advantage of the "spectacular numbers of quail" found in many parts of the State. Cold weather soon will reduce these numbers and decrease available food supplies for all kinds of wildlife.

Game and Fish Commission field personnel already report fewer quail in some areas.

"The exploding population this year is very likely to do a complete turn-about next year, probably by Spring," he said.

Survival will depend upon the condition of food and cover crops and existing rat populations. "The greatest losses will be found where rats are numerous and cover and food are low," he said.

Quail apparently will not move extensively if they have an ample food supply. Evidence of this comes from a report that one man shot a quail he had released at the same spot 18 months ago.

Roger Babson Discusses:

Says Struggle, Self-Help Should Be Important Part of College Education

I wonder how many of you readers realize we have with us a vast new group of intelligentsia—who are college students of today and will be the leaders of tomorrow. I refer to the ever-increasing number of young married college students. These young people are being encouraged to believe that either dad, or society, or some college is obligated to educate them, and also, at the same time, to pay for the complete support of their wives and children. Yet, the lessons to be learned from struggle, self-help, and denial should be important features of a college education.

The prospect of educating a family of two or three children today has been likened to having one's uninsured house burn down. It can become a real financial catastrophe. Education in the average privately endowed college will cost dad about $2,000 per year per student, and in some colleges it will run as high as $2,600. $2,000 multiplied by four years is $8,000. $8,000 multiplied by three children is $24,000—and that is a lot of money. On top of this, father often has to foot the costs for a wedding, medical bills, his grandchildren, and housing and food for the additional family. Considering the nation's present prosperity, this seems all wrong to a country boy like me.

Parents are Getting too Soft

In some areas there are now state-sponsored college-loan programs for residents of the state. Just a few months ago the federal government passed the National Defense Education Act, setting up $47,500,000 for the year 1959; $75,000,000 for 1960; $82,500,000 for 1961; and $90,000,000 for 1962 and for each of the following three fiscal years. Under this new Education Act, a student may borrow up to $5,000 and have eleven years to repay the loan at 3 percent interest! What kind of a millstone is this for a young person to hang around his neck? What kind of financial burdens are we unwittingly loading onto our financially inexperienced youth? In New England the average college graduate, ten years out of school, is making about $7,500 per year. Take out of this the charges for all of life's necessities, for babies, cars, a new home, insurance, and the rest, and add the repayment of a $5,000 loan for education, and what do you have left? Is this a good way for young married couples to start life?

I certainly favor helping the student who is really financially needy and who has some brains and ambition. But there are altogether too many young people who are being sucked into the economic booby traps of easy loans and easy marriages by easy parents all too soft-hearted to see the damage they are doing. Too many children are being spoiled by parents who make life too easy for them.

Should Girls Marry Students in College?

A typical young graduate recently applied for a job. He is 22 years old, had just completed his military service, and was looking for his first civilian job out of college. He had a wife and two children, and was deeply in debt. He seemed bright enough; but stated that he could not go to work for less than $6,500! He stated that living expenses for his family, plus payments on a car and repayment of a debt for his education, made $6,500 a bare minimum. I simply had to tell him that no prospective employer is responsible for his wife and children. Without experience, he just was not worth $6,500 to anyone.

I know cases, too, where young married couples with children are now living well on earnings of $4,000 a year.—God bless them! They are the ones who really deserve help. Education is not something to be handed out on a silver platter to everybody and his brother. This cheapens the whole process, as well as hurts the man. Education, to be effective, is something to be worked for and earned. I am afraid our colleges, parents, and even the banks, which are now becoming involved in federal loans to students, may be doing real harm. I am glad to say that the Babson Institute, Webster College, and Midwest Institute are trying to train young men and women for survival in tomorrow's struggle for a free and competitive economy.

"Ride a Crooked Trail"

War hero Audie Murphy may well be the world's bravest man, but he still trembles whenever a screenplay calls for him to kiss a girl, an assignment he is called upon to execute with enthusiasm in partnership with the Irish-Italian beauty Gia Scala in Universal-International's Color Cinema-Scope drama, "Ride a Crooked Trail," opening next Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre.

Audie, who is cast as an outlaw forced to masquerade as town marshal, has a number of torrid love scenes with Miss Scala, who portrays a light o' love Creole beauty out of Audie's past. And to make things worse for the kiss timid Audie, he had never even met Gia before the picture began shooting.

Murphy has created for himself a unique place in the annals of outdoor movie adventure dramas with such pictures as "Night Passage," "Kansas Raiders,"

"The Duel At Silver Creek" and others. But his first important non-Western was one of the most successful and most widely acclaimed pictures ever filmed, the unique accomplishment of having Audie re-enact his own story "To Hell and Back." That was the account of the fabulous exploits that earned Murphy the record of being the most decorated soldier of World War II, receiving 23 decorations and the Congressional Medal of Honor, killing 240 Nazi soldiers and miraculously living through wounds from a bursting mortar shell, an artillery shell and a sniper's bullet.

Audie and Miss Scala are joined in "Ride a Crooked Trail" by co-stars Walter Matthau, who plays a gun-totin' judge, and Henry Silva, a double-dealing bandit. Joanna Moore and Eddie Little head the feature cast. The picture, written by Borden Chase and directed by Jesse Hibbs, was produced by Howard Pine.

Fidelis SS Class Entertains At Christmas Party

Members of the Fidelis Sunday School class of the First Methodist Church entertained their husbands at an annual Christmas party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rankin Pace recently. Christmas decorations were used throughout the home, adding gaiety to the party.

Adolph Gottschalk of Cuero is spending the holidays visiting in the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Hans Gottschalk. Richard Gottschalk of Waco spent Christmas in the Gottschalk home.

CARD OF THANKS

Words are insufficient to express my deep and sincere gratitude for so many kindnesses while I was in Abilene in the hospital and since my return home. The ex-Winters people and others of Abilene were so thoughtful to visit me and bring gifts and flowers. Dr. Harry Sarles and wife, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church and Rev. James Alexander and wife, assistant at the First Baptist Church came often and offered prayers.

A special thanks to Mrs. J. T. Denton, Mrs. James Glenn, Mrs. Edna Johnson and Mrs. L. E. Low for bringing prepared food to me at the hospital. My deep appreciation to Ted Meyer, Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Craig for their many visits to Abilene and here, and to all of you for your visits, your letters and cards, your beautiful flowers, your delicious food and your prayers.

Also a special thanks to the blood donors, John E. McAdoo, Dee Belew, Spec Robinson, H. M. Nichols and Mr. Merck.

Also let me thank you for so many beautiful Christmas cards. All of this has helped me to keep on keeping on. Charlie joins me in this expression of thanks to you. Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Chapman lip

VISITED RELATIVES

Mrs. Roxie Floyd spent the holidays in San Antonio visiting her children, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Floyd and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jennings. She also visited her sister, Mrs. Nora Mao and a brother, W. H. Tyer and family. She attended the wedding of her grandson, Guy Floyd to Bonnie Boag, Saturday, December 27.

CARD OF THANKS

To all the friends of W. A. Porter, who passed away December 17, we wish to thank those who sent cards, flowers, food and the many neighborly deeds shown during his two years of illness. May we be a comfort to you in your times of need as you have been to us. The W. A. Porter family. Itc

An illustration for next Sunday's Lesson which bears the subject—"Jesus Calls Forth Faith"—Grandma Darty was getting up in years. She tired easily, had dizzy spells, and was short of breath. Her daughter urged her to see a doctor, but Grandma had no faith in doctors and firmly refused. Then one winter she had a bad case of flu and the doctor had to be sent for in spite of her protests. He patiently asked a lot of questions, made a few tests, and told her what her trouble was. Grandma had been anemic for years. The doctor prescribed a different diet and some medicine, and in a few weeks Grandma felt better than she had in a long time. Through the years when she had felt only half alive she might have been well and happy if she had only had a little faith in her doctor. How many of us are spirit-

1959 Predictions-

sider selling to adjoining farmers if offered a fair price in 1959.

30. Large commercial farms with latest machinery should prosper during 1959; but small farmers may not do so well.

31. Pending a serious war, there will be no radical change in the Government's farm policy during 1959.

32. With less fear of serious war, the real estate situation in the larger cities may improve; but municipal taxes will increase.

33. Some suburban houses now owned by well-paid executives will come on the market in 1959, due to loss of positions or moves to other sections of the country.

34. Real estate mortgage money will be tighter in 1959 than in 1958. Furthermore, due to inflation, it will be worth less when due.

35. The demand for motels is largely satisfied; but there will be an increasing demand for very modern apartment houses,—especially of the co-operative type. Old houses of all kinds will depreciate during 1959.

36. Woodland will continue to be in demand during 1959. This especially applies now to pine, which is used for the best lumber, and to spruce, which is used for pulp. Hold woodland in 1959.

37. More Russian imports of pulpwood may be expected in 1959, but this should largely be offset by the increased domestic demand for cartons and packages for shipping and displaying merchandise.

38. Both timber and oil reserves of Canada will gradually increase in value. I am bullish on many Canadian and African investments.

39. The greatest factor in determining the price of city land and businesses in general is the automobile and availability of parking space. This is responsible for both the boom in suburban real estate and the decline of city property. Buying city real estate without nearby parking facilities is a great mistake.

40. I was wrong in my forecast a year ago as to the Dow-Jones Averages. Although many stocks sell lower today than a year ago, the Dow-Jones Averages—especially the Industrials—sell higher. However, I will again run the risk and forecast that they will sell lower sometime in 1959 than they do today.

41. My forecast of the bond market for 1958 was correct. I am inclined now to reverse that forecast in the case of long-term non-convertible corporate bonds,—that is, they should sell for less sometime in 1959 than they are selling for today.

42. I continue to forecast that high-grade, cumulative, non-callable first preferred stocks will sell higher sometime during 1959 than they do today.

43. I repeat what I said last year regarding "cheap" stocks: "The large fortunes made in the stock market have come from buying non-dividend-paying common stocks at $5.00 a share or under. These will be the first to reach a buying level." If you are to buy these low-priced common stocks, you should seek companies without too much prior debt or cumulative preferred stock outstanding. They are the best common stocks for "capital gains."

44. Convertible bonds should hold up fairly well during 1959.

45. The best investment policy for 1959 is for one now to have a good bank account so funds will be available to buy bargains when a sufficient break comes in stocks, bonds, real estate, and commodities.

46. There will be many failures in hastily organized electronics, nuclear and similar companies during 1959.

47. With two or three exceptions, railroad stocks should be avoided during 1959 and until a definite long-range program of government aid is assured.

48. For steady income and fair marketability, well-established utility stocks should be the best for conservative investors not looking for profit. This especially applies to cumulative first preferred non-callable utility stocks.

49. The three handicaps to American business are the fear of inflation, the fear of union labor leaders, and the fear of President Eisenhower's physical collapse.

50. The three hopes for America are our churches, our schools, and a desire to "pay as you go!" For these to function properly we must depend upon the parents of our nation.

889 Farmers and Ranchers Have Conservation Plans

According to H. Gieseche, Jr., chairman of the Runnels Soil Conservation District, 889 farmers and ranchmen have conservation plans with the district. Gieseche stated that conservation plans on Fred Brown, Rt. 2, Ballinger; Vernon Pape, Ballinger; Charles Kellermeyer, Rt. 2, Miles; and Joseph T. Middleton and Flay Brevard, Ballinger, were approved at the board meeting December 18.

Farmers and ranchmen who have recently signed district agreements and plan to develop a conservation program are H. H. Gully, Rt. 1, Rowena; Therin Osborne, Rt. 2, Talpa; Paul Pruitt, Star Route, Bronte; Barney Puckett, Rt. 4, Winters; Joe J. Fuchs, Rt. 1, Ballinger, and Theo Halfmann, Rt. 1, Rowena.

James Glynn, of the Soil Conservation Service, said that these conservation plans may include such practices as contour farming, stubble mulching, cover crops, conservation crop rotation, wildlife area improvement, strip cropping, waterway development, deferred grazing, proper use, brush control and livestock ponds.

To All My Friends

I am taking this means of expressing my sincere appreciation to you, my friends who have supported me loyally during the past 20 years, and also to the men who have worked under my direction during those years for their consistent loyalty.

Without the support of you, my many friends, in keeping me in office the past 20 years, it would have been impossible for me to serve as I have.

Also, without the good work of the men working with me, it would have been impossible for me to accomplish what has been done for our precinct during my years in office.

I wish to say that I have found the friendship and cooperation of the other members of the County Commissioners' Court and the other County Officials, most satisfying.

It is my hope that you will give our new commissioner the same fine cooperation, as given to me so generously, so that he may be able to serve you well during his term of office.

Sincerely,

F. D. BEDFORD
