Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The Little League All-Star baseball team made a good record for themselves in tournament play last weekend in Abilene. This is their first year to be affiliated with the national Little League association, and they proved they were worthy of membership by taking two hard-fought games out of three.

The Winters kids failed to get a chance to go on to district play, losing to the Abilene Dixie All-Stars Saturday night. But one thing should be noted, and it is not mentioned in the way of an excuse for the boys losing the game Saturday night: These boys played Thursday night, again Friday night and went back to Abilene to play Saturday night. An 80-mile round trip two nights in a row, plus the fact that many of the boys did not get to bed before midnight each night adds nothing to the physical condition of baseball players, old or young.

The whole town is proud of that All-Star team, and extends a vote of thanks to those men who took time to work with the boys and promote Little League baseball in Winters.

A new radar set has been built which can detect and record the actions of a man walking. The radar screens records the wiggles and waggles as a person walks within its reception area. This may come as a surprise to many, but the radar proves that a man wiggles more than a woman while walking.

It looks like the lawmakers down in Austin will get to head back to their own pea patches within the next few days. From reports, they just might get together and pass some new tax laws, thus ending the third costly session.

This has been a hectic half-year down here, and tempers have flared as the weary weeks stacked up, with very little accomplished in the way of raising money for state operation. Many tax bills have been proposed, only to be slapped down, some because of their seeming absurdity, and some because of alleged pressure from interested sources.

Because next year is election year again, many legislators walked lightly, eying warily any measure which might bring reprisals at the polls from the folks back home. They flirted dangerously around the edges of a general sales tax idea and, from all indications, only nipped a few exposed items for sales tax purposes, with articles such as cigarettes, boats and motors, and air conditioners, and a few others, hit with the levy. The Senate, however, turned down a proposal to add another penny to the beer tax, and tacked on a 3 percent occupancy tax for hotel rooms. Of course, these are not law yet; everything has to be cleared by both houses, and then the governor. But the result is going to be a crazy-quilt sort of tax bill.

We just read that many members of the legislature are growing tired of reading so much about the special sessions and tax troubles. We can think of no reason for their discomfort, except for the fact that they just got caught in the draft.

City Council Ups Water-Use Rate

Little League All-Stars Won 2, Lost One in Abilene

Ending their first year of affiliation with the National Little League association, Winters' Little Leaguers put the icing on the cake last week end by trouncing two top Abilene teams, only to lose out to the third team in the try for the right to participate in the district playoff.

Thursday night, the Winters All-Stars slugged down the Northern All-Stars from Abilene to the tune of 4-2, winning a chance to go against Dyess Friday night.

In the Friday night game against Dyess Little Leaguers, the Winters boys stopped the air base boys 7-2.

A bunch of Winters boys, weary from two nights of hard play and long hours of road travel each night, took the field Saturday night against the Dixie League All-Stars, and lost a 9-1 ballgame.

In Thursday night's play, Gary Young was the top hitter for the Winters team as he picked up two doubles and a single in three trips to the plate. Larry Await got a triple, James Patterson and Denny Aldridge each collected a single and Beck rapped a double.

James Patterson started Winters' fourth with a single and moved to second as Denny Aldridge got to first on an error. Young doubled in Patterson and moved Aldridge to third.

Await then struck the big blow, a triple, to push over Aldridge and Young. After Await was picked off trying to steal home, Richard Puckett singled in Beck from second for the final Winters run, to win over Northern 4-2.

Playing their second night, the Winters boys came from behind to stop a fresh Dyess club, which had drawn a bye for the first night of play.

Three Winters batters slapped two run homers for Winters in the fourth. Chester Puckett, Mike Patterson and Jimmie Adams each collected round trippers.

Young's three-hit pitching for Winters limelighted the evening's show as he tossed 53 strikes and only 19 balls. He walked only one but hit three batters.

The other Winters run came on a throwing error by the Dyess catcher. Denny Aldridge connected for a double and a single while Johnny Beck slapped two singles for Winters.

In the final game Saturday night, the Dixie League All-Stars from Abilene held Winters All-Stars to one hit, as the Abilene team won 9-1 in Northern Park.

Mike Patterson collected the only Winters hit, a single in the fourth. Gary Young scored the only run for the Winters club as the Dixie catcher missed a throw from third base on an attempted run down play.

The Winters team was transported to Abilene each night in a Wingate school bus.

Raymond Cowan of Wingate was the coach for the Winters Area Little League All-Stars, and was assisted by Jet Chapman.

Miss Marie Maughan To Attend Teachers' Annual Conference

Miss Marie Maughan, homemaker advisor in the Winters High School, plans to leave Monday to attend the annual State Inservice Education Conference for homemaking teachers which will be held in San Antonio August 3 to 7. The opening session is scheduled for 8:00 p. m. Monday.

The theme of the meeting is "Looking Forward in Home Education with emphasis on current developments affecting home and family life education."

A review and study of the report and recommendations of the committee for Homemaking Education and the over-all recommendations of the Commission to Study Circulation for Vocational Education and Industrial Arts, will be given major emphasis on Tuesday.

"Since this report will be presented to local schools for study during 1959-60, homemaking teachers at the conference will have an opportunity to give preliminary reactions and suggestion," Miss Maughan stated.

The Winters City Council this week accepted the recommendation of the Mayor to increase the water-use rates.

At the regular session of the city's governing body Monday night, the water-use rate was increased from $1.50 to $2.00 on the first 2,000 gallons of water used. Council also increased the cost of water above the 2,000 gallon minimum, raising the rate from 25 cents per thousand gallons to 30 cents per thousand gallons.

These rates will go into effect in October, with the October billing showing the rate increase, Mayor Harvey D. Jones said.

Council also raised the tapping fee charged by the city for new connections to the water system. Tapping fees have been raised from $12.50 to $25.00. The mayor, in his recommendations to the council recently, proposed that tapping fees be increased to $20.00.

Increasing costs have forced the raise in the tapping fee, the mayor said. He pointed out that direct costs to the City of Winters for making a new connection on the water system was "in excess of $60," for meter, labor, and supplies to make the connection.

The council accepted the tax equalization board's report, and also authorized the mayor to engage an attorney to collect delinquent taxes.

Delinquent water and electric bills also were discussed, and the council authorized city employees to discontinue water and electric service to all accounts 30 days past due, and not paid by the 20th of the month following.

The council still is studying other recommendations recently made by the mayor. Mayor Jones had recommended, in part, an increase in the evaluation of property. He proposed an increase to 55 percent of card value of all property. Present rate is set at 40 percent of card value, for tax purposes. His recommendations for an increase in electrical rates are still under consideration by the council.

State Capitol Highlights:

Idea Advanced To Let People Decide Sales Tax Question At Special Poll

BY VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Tired reading about the Texas legislature?

Well, my friend, you're not alone. Seems like most everybody feels that way — including many members of the House and Senate.

Okay, then, for a little diversion let's look north and see what has been going on in our neighboring states.

Oklahoma's legislators also faced a financial crisis. How did they meet it? First they cut some needless expenses, eliminated waste and duplication. Then they appropriated for 18 months instead of 24. But they did not increase any existing taxes. Fortunately for them, financially at least, Oklahoma voted in liquor and they now have some brand new tax income — or will very, very soon.

Oklahoma, it must be remembered, has a state income tax and an across-the-board two percent sales tax — two things Texas doesn't have.

Putting the state in a better light collection-wise, Oklahoma legislators swiped Uncle Sam's idea and added a state withholding tax. This to assure more collections from their income tax.

Six months of continuous session have just been ended in the Sooner state. Although their financial problems are solved for the next eighteen months, after that a sizeable hike in taxes is expected.

Texas legislators have met almost continuously since January 13. They may even have to go into a fourth special session. But if they do, they will earn the wrath of the old folks whose pensions stop in mid-August unless a sizeable tax bill is enacted. There is no doubt about it in Texas, the people are disgusted. And the legislators are disturbed.

There is much talk that many of them will not be re-elected. Undoubtedly there are some who don't ever want to return to the legislative halls.

Many of the senators and representatives have tried hard to formulate a tax program that would care for the needs of the state. Their efforts have been stymied.

During the past six months there has been talk of a unicameral legislature, like Nebraska's. Also there has been talk of a special election to let the public decide on taxes — especially sales taxes. Some officials feel that the public, if it had its say today, would vote for a sales tax — and thus take the monkey off the backs of the legislators. But so far no one has had the courage to introduce such a measure.

Soundings by the press indicate that a sales tax might very well be acceptable to the people — that the people fully realize the dilemma — that they at least would go along with a reasonable sales tax, although they might be firmly opposed to an income tax.

Maybe a special election on the subject of a sales tax is the answer. At least the public would have a say in the matter and our senators and representatives would not have to face the criticism they now fear.

Wish somebody had thought of that earlier, don't you? An election could have been held on the subject at much less expense than that incurred in financing three additional special session, all of which actually centered around that very topic.

NEW BUILDINGS

While the Senate and House are busy trying to find a way to finance the state's future operations, governmental buildings still are being erected around the Capitol. In fact, they are beginning to dwarf the major edifice.

Occupancy of the first of these buildings to be completed has just been made by the Texas Employment Commission. Its six hundred employes now are housed in the $2,400,000 structure.

A total of 11,000 pieces of office equipment were moved out of eleven downtown Austin locations into the new six-story building.

TEC began some 24 years ago with a staff of 25 employes in the state headquarters and 50 local offices. Now employed are 2,300 persons, with 93 local offices throughout the state.

GOVERNOR SIGNS BILL

A bill by state Senator Bill Fly extending the time for removal of the offices of the State Board of Insurance from the International Life Building in Austin has been signed by Gov. Price Daniel.

The Commission rents some ten floors of the building. However, the rent is paid by the various insurance companies in Texas.

Earlier Senator Fly secured passage of a bill calling for the removal of the Insurance Commission from that building and the construction of its own office headquarters. Work has not yet been begun on the new building.

Other bills signed by Governor Daniel include one by Sen. Hubert Hudson, authorizing certain water districts to waive immunity from liability for negligence of its agents; a bill by Sen. Charles Herring relating to monies appropriated to the State Board of Barber Examiners; and two bills dealing with hunting and fishing.

One, by Rep. Sam Parsons, would authorize the Game and Fish Commission to allow fishing and hunting of migratory waterfowl on lakes and rivers located upon a common boundary with other states. The other, by Rep. Zeke Zbrank, related to the catching of catfish from the Trinity River.

LONG INVITE POCKETED

A second attempt to get legislative approval of an invitation to Gov. Earl Long, Louisiana, to address the Texas legislature when he came through the state recently.

Jones said that his invitation was a matter of "common courtesy" to the governor, who had expressed a willingness to address the Texas legislature when he came through the state recently.

TRINITY PROJECT PRESENTED

An application from the Trinity River Authority to "appropriate" 840,700 acre feet of water per year from the Trinity River and to store 1,579,000 acre feet, or nearly a two-year supply has been received by the State Board of Water Engineers.

Hearing has been set for Monday, August 31.

The Trinity River Authority proposes to build a dam six miles southwest of Livingston in Polk County.

Tests Conducted At Sonora On Curly Mesquite Grasses

Since curly mesquite supplies much of the forage produced on the Edwards Plateau, studies were conducted during 1949-51 on the Sonora Substation by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station relative to rates of utilization, chemical composition, productivity and longevity of this grass. The studies were carried out by L.B. Merrill, associate in range management at the Sonora Substation and Dr. Vernon A. Young, head of the Range and Forestry Department of Texas A & M College. Copies of the publication MP-331 are available from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Curly mesquite and other species of the short grasses have increased on the Plateau while the more productive bunch grasses have decreased. This, said the authors, was due to little or no attention given to the degree of utilization which should be applied to desirable range plants to obtain sustained forage yields or to maintain a proper economical balance.

The dominant grass over large areas of the Plateau is curly mesquite, occupying 50 to 90 percent of the basal ground cover and furnishing a major source of livestock forage.

Three sites were set up on different soil phases where curly mesquite was the predominant grass. Plots one by two feet in size were established on each site to determine the effect of clipping frequencies and heights on the grass. The plots were clipped at intervals of two weeks, four weeks, twice yearly and once yearly at heights of ground level, one inch, two inches, and three inches for each frequency. Three replicate plots were established for each treatment, making a total of 48 plots on each site, the authors said.

Clipping at ground level twice yearly produced the maximum vegetative yields for all treatments, but the rather heavy reduction in vegetative yields for 1950 indicated that there might eventually be a loss of producing ability over a period of years.

Clipping at a height of one inch twice yearly produced the second highest forage yields. These yields might be expected to be maintained on a sustained basis, the Authors added.

RETURN FROM NEBRASKA

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Meadows returned home Tuesday last week from Lincoln, Neb., where Mrs. Meadows had been for several weeks visiting relatives and assisting with the care of W. D. Meadows who is confined to his bed at the home of his daughter in Lincoln. Mr. and Mrs. Meadows visited their son and daughter, in Galveston and La Marque before returning home.

Politicians, like show people, give the public some truth and some hokum.

Its request calls for 95,200 acre feet of storage devoted to municipal use; 672,600 acre feet for industrial use; and 72,900 acre feet for irrigation purposes.

Melon Production Is Increased By Disease Control

An 80 acre field of watermelons in Brooks County sprayed four times with Dithane D-14 and zinc sulfate and dusted once with Zineb dust produced over one million pounds, an average of 12,500 pounds per acre, according to Harlan E. Smith, extension plant pathologist.

Last spring Smith visited Brooks County and told a group of growers that they could expect greater yields from a watermelon disease control program. Results this year demonstrated such a program's value.

The melon crop on unsprayed fields nearby averaged only 8000 pounds per acre. Smith said a second field which was dusted only with Zineb had less green foliage on vines than the sprayed field and the last cutting had been made a few days earlier. In the unsprayed fields, said Smith, the foliage was nearly destroyed and the ground looked bare except for weeds.

In one 160 acre planting of Charleston Grays, where the farmer had followed a well planned spray program, there was little evidence of leaf spots or virus diseases. The foliage was still in good condition — 90 to 95 percent green, and the fifth cutting of high quality melons was being made at the time of inspection.

This grower used a high pressure sprayer with 500-600 pounds pressure, a 25-foot boom and a 400 gallon trailer mounted tank with tractor power take-off. He used Zineb spray (D-14 plus zinc sulfate) and an insecticide at 6-7 day intervals, wetting both bottom and upper leaf surfaces. Alternate spray applications were made by reversing the direction the spray traveled, Smith said.

This good grower had accomplished the following: he planted pimple-free seed, or seed nearly free of the pimple virus; by controlling insects he prevented the spread of the pimple virus, or had accomplished this by isolation from nearby sources of the virus; he produced a quality or superior quality melon—a better appearing, sweeter melon with fewer culls which hold for a 1/4-cent per pound and volume of marketable melons was increased by having less culls especially in the last cuttings. There were no culls because of pimpling, and size and quality were maintained in the late cuttings because of good foliage conditions.

GIANT'S "EYE" GLASSES—Man, lower center, is dwarfed to insignificance by the world's largest glass fiber radome. The huge shelter for a radar antenna is 68 feet in diameter and more than seven stories tall. Laminated plastic panels bolted together in a few basic panel groups can be erected or disassembled in about 80 hours by a six-man crew. The unit, shown in a hanger in Akron, Ohio, weighs some 30,000 pounds, all told. It takes up shipping space the equivalent of eight boxcars, but units are so light that they can be airlifted. The forerunner of radomes well over 100 feet in diameter, it was built for the Air Force.

STYLISH CHAP, THE DINOSAUR—The lumbering dinosaur passed into oblivion millions of years ago. But his remains have found their way into the jeweler's art. Gloria Pagano, secretary at Chicago's Natural History Museum holds 73 pieces of their fossilized bones that have been cut and polished for milady.

DEAD CENTER—Known as a good place to hunt rattlesnakes, these barren buttes in South Dakota now contain the geographical center of the United States with the addition of Alaska. Dominated by Two Top Peak, the area (44 degrees, 59 minutes latitude; 103 degrees, 38 minutes longitude) lies about 20 miles east of the point where the South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming borders meet. Despite the publicity, informed sources do not believe that the spot will blossom as a tourist resort.

BOTTOMS UP IN LONDON—Flopping on their tummies atop a wall, these three young ladies kick up their heels near London's Buckingham Palace. Spending a lazy summer's afternoon, they are looking for pennies in a fountain.

Shrimp Small for Opening Date

Shrimp in the bays along the Texas coast still will be too small for economical harvest when the season reopens August 15, according to the executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission. Coastal bay waters are closed to shrimping, to reopen on August 15. However, recent experimental drags of Commission biologists show the shrimp to be undersize. In one area a sample taken by the biologists showed 70 percent to be white shrimp, measuring only 105-mm. or approximately 4 inches. Another area showed the shrimp to be only 87-mm or a little more than 3 1/2 inches. "When these small shrimp are taken by netters and graded there will be a tremendous loss," the executive secretary said. "It also will seriously affect the entire shrimp harvest and be harmful to next crop."

Farmland sales financed by land contract, a device which bypasses credit institutions as a party to the sale, have about doubled since 1946, says A.B. Wooten, extension economist.

Texas' New Water Safety Laws Explained

(This is one of a series of three articles concerning Texas' new Water Safety Act. It is being published in the interest of safety for all sportsmen and others whose recreation interests include boating, swimming and skiing.)
Purely and simply: the intent of Texas' new Water Safety Act is the promotion of boating safety. This purpose is partially accomplished by the requirements, explained in Part I of proper and uniform safety regulations. What might be called a second phase deals with accidents, enforcement and penalties of the Act, to be administered by the Texas Highway Department when it goes into effect August 11.
PROHIBITIONS
Under the Water Safety Act it will be unlawful for any person to operate any class of motorboat, ski or similar contrivance, in a reckless or negligent manner that endangers the life, limb or property or any person. This is just about as specific as a law can get and still cover all situations.

ACCIDENTS
In essence, the Act requires the operator of any boat involved in an accident causing death, injury or property damage, to stop, render assistance, give his name, address and identification in writing to any person injured, or to the owner of damaged property.

In case where an accident results in death, injury or property damage in excess of $100.00, the operator of any motorboat must file a full description of the accident with the Texas Highway Department; such report is not admissible in court as evidence.

INTOXICATION
Any person who operates any vessel, or manipulates any water skis, aquaplane or similar device, while intoxicated will be guilty of a misdemeanor. Upon conviction, the person may be fined not less than $50.00 or more than $500 and or be imprisoned for not more than six months.

PENALTIES
A person who violates any section of the Water Safety Act is guilty of a misdemeanor. Upon conviction, such person may (where another penalty is not provided) be punished by a fine of not less than $10.00 or more than $50.00.

LOCAL REGULATIONS
Just as the Water Safety Act must be in conformity with the Federal Boating Act of 1958, so, too, local regulations must conform to this Act.

However, there is nothing to prevent local adoption of laws relating to operation (including zoning), equipment and other safety measures, if the provisions are consistent with the Water Safety Act.

Also municipalities may adopt ordinances limiting the horsepower of motorboats operating on lakes within its jurisdiction.

ENFORCEMENT
All of Texas' duly authorized peace officers are given authority to enforce the provisions of the Act. Furthermore, a violator may be taken into custody if he refuses to sign a promise (ticket) to appear in court within 30 days. Courts of the county in which the violation occurred have jurisdiction.

Usually what we do easily we do well. Crack golfers work no harder than ambitious duffers on their game.

Until someone thinks of a better way, let us stick with our present system of getting the most for the least effort.

To those who tell him that life's too short to worry about weight, Milton Widder retorts if you don't worry about it, life gets shorter.

Winters Athletes Make Showing At State Olympics

Winters athletes made a considerable showing in the Junior Olympic contests in San Antonio July 16-17, ending up in fifth place in the senior division.

Bill Miller, who has repeatedly set and broken records in different meets this year, set a new state AAU Junior Olympic record in the broadjump event, clearing 22 feet 10 3/4 inches. This footage was shorter than some of his previous jumps in other meets.

Miller also won third place in the 100-yard dash in the Austin meet.

In the senior sprint relay, 440-yards, the Winters team won third place. Team members were Miller, James Williams, William Grissom and Joel Butts.

James Williams won third place in the discus event, and Joel Butts placed fifth in the broadjump.

In the intermediate boy's event, Tommy Young placed 5th in broadjump competition.

Other boys who participated in the state Junior Olympic meet were Dan Roberts, Ray Clark and Roger Clark. Gary Young, who won the softball throw in the Abilene Junior Olympic meet earlier, was unable to make the San Antonio trip because of his Little League baseball schedule.

Winters Coach W. T. Stapler, who has sponsored the boys and worked with them during the summer, made the trip with the team. He expressed the team's thanks to the Chamber of Commerce, the Winters Lions Club and the Veterans of Foreign Wars for their help in financing the trip.

Uncle Sam Set For 1960 Census

By Congressman O. C. Fisher
Preparations for the 1960 census are advancing. The Census taker comes around once every 10 years. The information obtained is varied and interesting.

The census will reveal the total population, broken down by age groups, sex, national origin, etc. And the census of agriculture will give the number of farms, total value of land and buildings, farms with tractors, farms with electricity, etc.

The 1850 census covered those subjects. In our own 21st district the total population was 268,894, including 80,055 households.

There were 18,801 farms (and ranches), and 10,905 tractors in use 10 years ago. REA served 87.5 percent of all farms and ranches then.

The next census will contain information covering all of those as well as other subjects. 1960 will be a busy year for the census takers.

Brackettville is becoming quite a moving picture center. For two or three years now movie takers have been shooting pictures in that attractive hill country. And now comes the ALAMO, soon to get into production. Work will begin September 10, with hundreds of local people due to be employed for special scenes.

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council urges rural residents to include water safety in their family and community programs. Drownings, point out the Council, are increasing in number and only those who participate in water sports can cut the toll. Are you doing your part?

The subject for next Sunday's Sunday school lesson is: Why Do Good People Suffer? — Meditation: "It was a shattering experience for the young man to suffer failure and bankruptcy through no fault of his own. But if Abraham Lincoln had been a successful storekeeper he might well have spent his life measuring out molasses and cheese and yard goods, and he would long since have been forgotten. He went on to become one of our great American presidents because of the heartbreak and disappointment that had seemed so cruel. Sometimes disaster is the pathway to victory. It was because of calamity that Job found his perfect faith in God, a faith more imperishable than if it had been graven with and iron pen, for it has come down through the ages."

Special days next week are for: Zack West, Elmo Mayhew, Mrs. Clesby Patterson, Carolyn Scott

Hog Situation Is Analyzed, Can Be Expected To Go Up

In view of prospective supplies, prices of hogs in the winter of 1959 and early 1960 can be expected to be lower than a year earlier, said John G. McHaney, extension economist and T.D. Tanksley, Jr., extension animal husbandman. Production, they say, started upward last year, and may continue upward this fall and well into 1960. For this reason there is little room for optimism for hog prices in 1960.

According to the June Pig Crop Report released by the Agricultural Marketing Service, the 1959 spring pig crop totaled nearly 60 million head. This is 12 percent more than was produced in the spring of 1958 and is the largest spring pig crop since 1951, said McHaney and Tanksley. This means that we are going to have more hogs on the market in the fall of 1959. If producers' fall farrowing intentions materialize, the 1959 fall pig crop will also be large and will probably be exceeded only by the fall pig crop of 1943.

On June 15, 1958, the farmers of Texas received an average price of $20.70 per 100 pounds compared to $15.30 on June 15, 1959. This year's prices are expected to remain considerably below those for last year.

main considerably below those for last year.

This outlook information does not warrant the dispersing of commercial breeding herds as has been done in the past by many Texas producers facing similar price situations, they stated. But, it does mean that Texas hog producers should re-examine their individual hog production program for the possibility of improving the efficiency of their operation. The inefficient hog producer will be one, hardest hit as prices decline.

Producers should consider these points, say the specialists: Make sure that they can either produce or obtain the needed grain at reasonable prices, in view of the price outlook, sell market hogs at lighter weights (around 200 pounds as soon as they reach market top); cull down to the most productive sows and gilts. (But retain sufficient numbers to make most efficient use of equipment and labor); consider selling heavy sows and keep young gilts; and hog producers should examine their feeding program to be certain that the largest possible number of pigs per litter are being raised and the most efficient feed lot gains.

There may be more than one way to skin a cat, but we know of only one.

Most people assume that seeing stops at the brain, but actually it is almost a complete cycle.

To understand this, pick out some object, the dial of a clock for instance, and look at it. Light falling on the clock is reflected into your eyes. Keep in mind that the light reflectance from the face of the clock is the same for all people. No variation.

When the light reaches the eye it is modified by the various eye-lens surfaces and the way it strikes the retina, nerve layer at the back of the eye, will be different for different people according to their particular eyeballs.

The retina transforms the light into nerve impulses which pass at once into the brain—light itself does not reach the brain. Now the many physical and psychological experiences you have had with clocks and time are joined to this present experience of looking at the clock face.

In the higher brain centers you make whatever interpretation and decision are needed for your next (or following) action. But while this is going on you are also PROJECTING the clock dial BACK "OUT THERE" where you think it is located. People are seldom aware of this return projection, yet when you stop to think, it is entirely necessary to answering important questions such as "where is it?" "is it still?" "is it moving?" "in what direction?" etc.

The whole concept of space and spatial manipulation, involving hands, arms, body, and legs, develops as a composite first, of seeing, and then reaching, and we learn the answer to "where is it" by experience.

This is really depth perception. People who are born with congenital cataracts which later are removed, thus restoring eyesight, have no visual concept of space and have to learn it just as a child learns.

Without knowing the "where is it," you would find it extraordinarily difficult if not impossible to make use of most of the articles that enter into our daily lives—the hot water faucet, the doorknob, the steps down and up from the curb are simple illustrations of knowing where it is. Even more important, in driving a car you have to know where you are in your car, where the road is, where the turns come, where the other cars are, how fast they are going, and on and on through a million details which you learn to manipulate or adjust to without ever thinking of them.

Hence it is essential that we realize that seeing is a cycle, started at the object of regard "out there," going through this marvelous and miraculous transformation into nerve energy into identification and interpretation and into location "back out there" where we think we see it.

IN COLORADO

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Johnson and daughter La Frances returned recently from a vacation trip to Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Researchers Develop New Wheat Uses

Seeking to broaden markets for wheat, the USDA has modified wheat flour into products having potential uses as thickening agents, adhesives, and coatings and sizes for paper and textile manufacture.

USDA's Agricultural Research Service has demonstrated that chemically modified flour mixes readily with water to form a free-flowing paste—a property desirable for such industrial processes as the continuous machine-coating of paper.

Thus far, chemists at the ARS Northern Utilization Research and Development Division, Peoria, Ill., have investigated only two of a series of wheat flour modifications.

One team of scientists reacted wheat flour with ethylene oxide to produce "hydroxyethylated fluols."

The modified flours are similar to each other, and differ from ordinary wheat flours in that they mix more readily with water to form pastes, and in that these pastes have less tendency to thicken and gel, thus flow more freely. They can also be stored satisfactorily at a moisture content of 5 percent or less.

Northern Laboratory scientists believe that this and other research with wheat will result in wider use of this crop, which currently is produced in excess of market demand. Their specific research interest in wheat flour is based on such inherent advantages as: availability of flour as a raw material in large quantity and at

TO OKLAHOMA

Mr. and Mrs. Elsie Cox spent the week end in Midwest, Oklahoma visiting in the home of her sister Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dodson. They visited friends in Lawton, Oklahoma.

An 80-acre field of watermelons in Brooks county on which a disease control program was carried out produced over a million pounds of melons this year. The field was sprayed four times with Dithane D-14 and zinc sulfate and dusted once with Zineb. The demonstration was supervised by County Agent J. L. Murphy. The average production per acre was 12,500 pounds of high quality melons compared with an 8,000 pound average for neighboring fields, said Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist.

Present price outlook for hogs does not warrant the dispersal of commercial breeding herds as has been done in the past by many Texas producers when similar price situations have been faced. But, it does mean, say extension specialists at Texas A & M College that every practice which will increase efficiency of production must be put to use.

Wildlife Populations On The Rise

Quail, deer, squirrel, turkey, dove, and cottontail rabbit populations in the Possum Kingdom Game Management area show an increase for this year. Field biologists' reports indicate that in some cases they are over 100 percent above the 1957 population figures for the same area, according to the director of wildlife restoration, Texas Game and Fish Commission.

Early 1959 survey figures show a 36.04 percent higher breeding population of bobwhite quail now than at this same time in 1957. A bird dog census on selected areas conducted in late fall of 1958 indicates a 160.31 percent increase in the total quail populations over that for the fall of 1957.

A deer census in the same section of state showed a fall population of one deer per 19.75 acres compared to one deer per 13.71 acres in 1957 in Bosque County and similar increases in most of the other counties in the Possum Kingdom area.

Regular field observations indicate a higher turkey hatching success but only a slight increase in turkey populations over those for the previous nesting season. Squirrel populations were much higher and cottontail rabbit numbers continued high. Dove numbers were comparable to those for the preceding year.

Sixty-five roadside quail counts were made in 15 counties during the survey, while 5,643 acres in Clay, Wise and Young counties were censused with bird dogs. Methods for determining the population trends for turkey and squirrels included field observations, contacts with game wardens, landowners, and other field workers.
