Winters Will Observe Public School Week

To paraphrase, if springtime comes, winter can't be far behind. After a weekend of nice spring-like weather—a Sunday afternoon of creek-bank fishing temperatures—Wednesday's snow and cold wind came as a shock for most of us who had prematurely spring-conditioned. Garden-spading pains and northerly chills do not make a happy mixture. We've been tormented by garden-aches and pains for several days, and along comes the cold weather again. Don't think we could have made it if we'd had to watch the Little Woman push another wheelbarrow load of dirt.

The winter's chill seems to have affected things on the city political front, too. Although there will be three vacancies on the city council this year, there seems to be no concern over the fact that the filing deadline is only a short time off. It's an American phenomenon that little attention is paid to supposedly unimportant elections until after the balloting has taken place, even when the majority of people are directly affected in their daily living. The city election is basically one of the most important facets in our democratic scheme, and yet most of us rarely give it the attention it deserves.

We sincerely hope the chill departs in time for serious thought to be given the slate of candidates for the city election before the deadline of March 5 arrives.

Just reading about a newspaper which, by mistake, printed a death notice of a prominent citizen. The next day the citizen showed up at the newspaper office mad as a wet hen and demanded an explanation. The Editor told him: "Mister, if the paper says you're dead, then you're dead. The only compromise we can make is to print your name in the next issue under birth notices."

C. R. Kendrick has come to the conclusion it just don't pay to be cultured and refined. The other day he had lunch at a restaurant in another town, and hung his hat on a hook on the wall. When he'd finished his meal, his hat was gone, and he had to buy another one.

In observance of Texas Public School Week, the Winters schools plan open house events during the week of Feb. 29 to March 4.

Many activities have been scheduled at the school during the week. The Winters Lions Club will have lunch at the cafeteria Tuesday, and will visit the new shop building.

Principals have invited parents and other interested persons to visit the schools at the following times:

- Grade 1, Thursday.
- Grades 2 and 3, Wednesday.
- Grades 4, 5, 6, Wednesday.
- Grades 7 and 8, Friday.
- Grades 9 to 12, Friday.

This schedule has been suggested since in the past such large numbers have visited that chairs are not available in all buildings every day, school administrators said. Parents are also invited to eat in the cafeteria any day at the regular adult charge of 35 cents per meal.

Special interest has been focused on the new shop building, and school heads expressed a hope that many visitors will take this opportunity to visit this new department.

The Homemaking girls are holding open house from 9 o'clock to 3 o'clock Friday, March 4. Parents of all the girls taking homemaking are urged to remember this date and all patrons visiting the school on this day are invited to make a tour of the Homemaking Cottage. Coffee will be served during the hours of open house.

No Candidates For Local City Council

Although little more than a week remains until the deadline for filing for the Winters City Council, no names had been filed with the City Secretary up to Thursday morning. Terms of three city councilmen will expire this year.

Election will be held April 5, but the filing deadline is March 5, according to the City Secretary's office.

The terms of Elzie Cox, A. B. Spill and Lee Harrison will end this year. Elzie Cox, who is ending his second term on the council, said last week he is "definitely not a candidate for re-election." Spill, also finishing his second term, said he is "not a candidate for return to office." Lee Harrison, whose first term on the city governing body ends this year, has said he has no "intention now of filing for re-election."

TO BE DEDICATED — Winters' new post office building which will be dedicated Saturday at 1:30 p. m. Open house will be held immediately after the dedication. In case of bad weather, the dedication services will be held in the Methodist Church. (Photo by Little)

P. O. Dedication Saturday Af'noon

Dedication of Winters' new post office, which was completed late in 1959, will be held Saturday afternoon at 1:30. A full program for the dedication services has been planned by a steering committee headed by John W. Norman.

Dale Buckley, post office field service officer of Fort Worth, will represent the Post Office Department, and will present a new 49-star flag to Postmaster Rankin Pace.

The dedication will be held at the new post office building, and will be followed by a short open house hosted by the postmaster and post office employees. In case of bad weather, the dedication ceremonies will be held in the First Methodist Church.

Mayor Harvey D. Jones will be master of ceremonies, and the Winters High School Band, under the direction of Robert Gans, will present musical numbers before the program. The Rev. H. K. Flathmann, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, will give the invocation, and the Rev. L. E. Ellison, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will give the benediction. Many postmasters and post office employees from this area are expected to attend the dedication services.

The new post office building was started in July, 1959, with L. V. Bradford Construction Company of Fort Worth doing the building. The new building provides 3,504 square feet of floor space, and ample hard-surfaced parking lot. The building offers open patron service counters, a separate service lobby, and a lobby for box holding patrons.

The post office moved into the new building the first part of last December.

The new post office building remains under the private ownership of Floyd S. Harris of Fort Worth, but is under long-term lease to the Federal government.

Nevins Named As Local Top Citizen

James B. Nevins, superintendent of Winters schools, was honored as "Man of the Year" Thursday night at the annual Winters Chamber of Commerce banquet.

J. W. Bahlman, of the board of directors, made the presentation. A plaque was also awarded to M. D. Johnston, former president of the chamber of commerce, who moved to Fort Worth in June. He was not present to receive the award.

State Sen. Dorsey Hardeman, substituting for House Speaker Waggoner Carr, blasted the amount of foreign aid the United States is now allocating and a movement to repeal the Connally amendment.

Hardeman criticized groups seeking special legislation, explaining that "special legislation is the cause of most of the confusion" now in the government. Hardeman said group, or special, legislation infringed on the rights of others.

Regarding foreign aid, the state senator said, "we haven't bought any firm and lasting friends" with the billions of dollars the United States has put into the foreign aid programs. As an illustration he pointed to the pact signed recently between Cuba and Russia.

Hardeman attacked attempts to repeal the Connally amendment, warning "we can afford neither legal disarmament nor military disarmament."

The six words, "as determined by the U. S.," is the only thing standing between a world court's telling a state, county or town how to run its affairs," Hardeman told his audience, estimated at 200 to 250.

The Connally amendment is attached to a resolution which calls for the United States to give up its jurisdiction to a world court. Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon proposed the resolution in 1946 and the Connally addition (which lets the U. S. decide what U. S. affairs may be decided by the court) was made by a 52-12 senatorial vote.

Hardeman said the recent move to repeal the amendment is being made by Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Wisconsin, an avowed candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. He warned that "we must not have treaties which would override constitutions and city charters."

A. W. Libbe, president of the chamber of commerce, was presented a gift in appreciation of his work.

The Rev. Leslie E. Ellison, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation. John W. Norman was toastmaster, and introduced out-of-town guests.

Mrs. J. N. Clark Jr., a former Winters resident and now of Abilene, provided entertainment, accompanied by Robert Gans.

Table decorations, arranged by wives of members of the board of directors, consisted of miniature oil derricks, cotton bales and air conditioners.

Mrs. A. D. Lee and Kenneth G. Mansell Will Celebrate Leap Year Birthdays

Although many years separate them in actual age, Mrs. A. D. Lee and Kenneth Gerald Mansell of Winters share a uniqueness in the fact that they only get to celebrate a birthday every four years.

Both are "Leap Year" babies, born on February 29, and both born on a Sunday.

They share a still further common bond. Mrs. Lee was born Levie Huntsman in 1892 in an era of restlessness, when a young nation was flexing its muscles and anxious to be on the go, spreading out across an undeveloped country; a time of pioneering. Kenneth Mansell was born in 1948, likewise an era of restlessness, on the threshold of space exploration; a time of latter-day pioneers.

Mrs. Lee was born in Kentucky, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Huntsman. When she was only seven years old, but had celebrated only three birthdays, her family moved to Texas, settling in Stonewall County where her father engaged in farming. Her first home in West Texas was a half dugout with rock walls and a shingled roof. After the death of her mother in 1904, her father moved his family into Aspermont, where she attended school and studied music. She entered a subscription selling contest for The Aspermont Star, and won a piano as a prize.

After completing her study of music, she accepted a position of music teacher in the public school in O'Brien. She taught school for two years, and moved with her father to Winters in 1918. She was married to A. D. Lee on Nov. 7, 1923. Mr. Lee died in 1958.

Mrs. Lee has owned and operated the Winters Flower Shop for several years.

Kenneth Gerald Mansell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mansell, was born Feb. 29, 1948. Although he will be twelve calendar years old next Monday, he will celebrate his third birthday.

Kenneth is in the fifth grade in the Winters school, and has played on Little League baseball teams. He played first base for the Pirates last year. His favorite sport is football, however, and he is looking forward to high school so he can play his favorite position, right end. Kenneth also plays bass horn in the fifth grade band.

Kenneth has expressed a desire to attend Hardin-Simmons University and study chemistry following his graduation from high school.

BIRTHDAY PARTY — Although their official birthday does not come until next week, Mrs. A. D. Lee and Kenneth Mansell figured that being "Leap Year babies," they were not bound to any one date to celebrate. So they got together for a birthday celebration this week. Mrs. Lee says she will celebrate her "sixteenth" birthday, and Kenneth will observe his "third" birthday next Monday, Feb. 29.

Roger Babson Says

"Remember That Congress Will Vote For Labor, Whether or Not Claims Just"

Babson Park, Mass.—In previous columns I discussed hedging against inflation. I said that the best "hedge" is land:— that the government can print more bonds; that corporations can print more stocks; but that only God can make more land. This means that as population increases, as woodland grows, or as more minerals, oil, gas, etc., are discovered, properly located land will increase in price as inflation increases.

Taxes Must Be Paid
 Of course, either the corporation owning the land or the investor must pay the annual taxes. As investors do not like to do this, even in the case of orange groves, then it is better to buy stock in a corporation like Minute Maid, which will pay the taxes and which, when fruit is plentiful and sales are good can also pay a dividend on the stock. Taxes, however, must be paid by some one and taxes are sure to slowly increase each year.

Big companies like the Weyerhaeuser Company (largest timber owner in the U. S.) do this by selling lumber, corrugated paper and containers of all kinds through their manufacturing divisions. Even the great owners of woodland are subject to strikes in their manufacturing divisions, but the timber continues to grow while the labor is on strike. The steel, iron, and coal supply, however, does not increase when a big strike is on.

Wages Will Continue To Rise
 I have recently been reading an Economic History of England. The frightful long hours and low wages of the coal miners of 150 years ago seem almost unbelievable. Even little children were obliged to work in the mines for a few cents per day. The coal miners have been forced to continual struggle during these 150 years up to the present time. The same is true of the wageworkers of most every great industry.

ANIMALS — A displaced Russian, 66-year-old Konstantine Tscherepanow, liked animals. While walking his dog in a Chicago park he tried to stop three 15-year-old boys from throwing rocks at ducks in a pond. One youth turned on him, striking and killing him. Here, his daughter identifies his body, while his dog keeps vigil.

Investors must not think that labor troubles will ever be over. After securing the highest wage that the traffic will stand and the shortest practicable working hour labor leaders will fight for representation on boards of directors and ultimate government ownership. Only competition from European and Asian countries can check price increases or higher tariffs. High tariffs work for a while but ultimately will "kill the goose that lays the golden eggs."

Wise Investors Watch

Labor Leaders

Some industries are more vulnerable to labor troubles than are others. This means that investors should constantly watch the labor trends and switch their investments from the more vulnerable industries such as the steel, coal, motor, electrical, railroads, bus companies, etc., into the less dangerous ones where labor is not yet in such a powerful position that it does not care whether or not stockholders get any dividends. Moreover, remember that Congress will vote to help labor, whether or not their claims are just.

The labor leaders find it most difficult to organize the more intelligent workers, especially sales forces working on a commission; also merchandising companies—such as variety chains—where there is a large turnover among the sales clerks. This now applies also to drug stores.

Be Prepared To Switch

Insurance companies may temporarily be free from labor troubles. The insurance premiums would continue to be paid into the home office whether or not a strike should occur. Settlement of claims would be delayed until the State Insurance Commission forced an agreement and granted higher rates to offset any wage increase. The same protection could apply to the owners of bank stocks.

There will always be some group of stocks that will at least be subject to dangerous labor demands; the groups may, however, change from time to time. There are always some stocks which, for a time, are free from labor troubles; but to hedge against such troubles investors should constantly be willing to switch out of one stock into another. This means that wise investors will employ an experienced investment counselor to watch these changes or else will invest money in Mutual Funds which do not have to fear legislation.

More Hunters Buy Licenses During 1958-59

Texans bought 448,184 hunting licenses and 825,729 fishing licenses in the 1958-59 season, according to figures just released by the fiscal director of the Game and Fish Commission.

This was an increase of 22,640 hunting licenses, and an increase of 55,862 in fishing license sales over the previous year.

Harris County was in the lead in the sale of both hunting and fishing licenses, and more than a million population in the Houston area bought 59,942 hunting licenses, and 99,672 fishing licenses. Dallas County was second with 34,546 hunting licenses and 54,82 fishing licenses. Tarrant County showed the greatest percentage of increase in both hunting and fishing license sales, jumping from 7,858 in 1957-58 to 19,669 hunting licenses in 1958-59, and 53,776 in 1957-58 to 56,893 fishing licenses in 1958-59.

A breakdown of the total sales shows that approximately 42 percent of all hunting and fishing licenses in Texas were bought in the nine top population counties. The lowest sale in the large population counties was in El Paso, where 3,251 hunting licenses were bought in each of the two years. On fishing licenses the number decreased from 844 in 1957-58 to 695 in 1958-59.

Borden County had the fewest hunting licenses, with only 8 sold in 1958-59. King County reported no fishing licenses sold in 1958-59.

Licenses are required for all persons between the ages of 17 and 65 hunting or fishing outside of their own county, or fishing with a winding device. The resident hunting license sold for $3.15; non-resident, $25.00. The fishing license sells for $2.15 for

JUST ANOTHER CONVENIENCE

The night depository which we have provided includes a screw-door safe, a steel chute and what is commonly called by the safe company a "depository head." The screw-door safe is a very good one, of sufficient mechanism and strength to allow the burglary insurance people to protect the contents of this safe along with other funds which are covered by our insurance. The steel chute from the depository head to the safe is made of heavy steel and allows letters and depository bags to slip safely into the safe. The depository head is also made of steel and is composed of a large door which may be opened with a key to be used by those who have large accumulations of money and checks by obtaining from us a locker bag and a pass key. The depository head has been provided with a mailing slot similar to those which are found in the post office; this slot may be used by those who may want to make a deposit or write us a letter simply by enclosing both, or either, in an envelope containing the proper instructions as to disposition.

We want the people of West Texas to use this night depository with freedom and confidence.

If you think we're enthusiastic about Corvair, leaf through the leading automotive, sports and science magazines and see what the experts are saying. Then, by all means, drive one yourself.

"Corvair's steering is so light that at parking speeds it feels power assisted; it is so precise as to be absolutely without play, and it is fast enough to allow complete control over every situation."
 —Karl Ludvigsen, Sports Cars Illustrated

"Steers like a feather and is extremely quick. . . This is a beautifully designed automobile, engineered by real pros. . ."

"Most surprising thing to me outside of the excellent handling characteristics was the feeling of roominess inside. . . I didn't have the sensation of driving a small car and the headroom was greater

 —L. H. Houck, Automotive News

"So far as shopping goes, the Corvair is a housewife's dream. It's small and easily maneuvered without any power steering, and so easily parked. . . it's a lot easier to unload a cart full of groceries into a front trunk at the supermarket than it is into a rear one."
 —Rosemary Francis, Popular Science

"I want to state as firmly as I can that the Corvair handles as beautifully and is as safe as—if not safer than—any family car on the road today."
 —Jim Whipple, Car Life

"There is none of the typical whine normally associated with rear-engined vehicles. Inside the car, the effect is quite unlike anything we have ever experienced. It almost seems that there is no engine, and the general effect is so quiet as to be almost uncanny."

MRS. MILTON WINFORD CAREY (Photo by Little)

Jerrye Helen Deike and Milton Winford Carey Repeat Wedding Vows Saturday

Marriage vows were repeated at the St. John's Lutheran Church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, uniting Jerrye Helen Deike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Deike, and Milton Winford Carey of Abilene. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Columbus Carey of Abilene.

The sacred double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Henry K. Flathmann, pastor of the church. White gladiolus and pom poms in tall baskets were at either side of the altar and the arrangement of white glads on the organ was later used as floral decoration at the reception.

Wedding music was played by Miss Emma Henniger, organist, who also accompanied Erwin Henniger to sing "The Lord's Prayer." For the processional she played "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" and the recessional "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn. During the ceremony the organist played very softly "Meditation."

Virginia Webb was maid of honor and Don Carey served his brother as best man. Ushers were Edwin Carey, brother of the bridegroom and F. O. Deike, the bride's brother.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length princess style bridal gown of white lace and net over taffeta. The lace inserts in the skirt came to a point over net ruffles. The lace bolera was fashioned with a pointed standup collar and long sleeves coming to a point at the wrist. Her waist length veil of illusion fell from a rhinestone tiara and she carried a bouquet of white carnations encircled with net and ribbon puffs and long streamers of ribbon tied in love knots.

Miss Webb wore a ballerina length dress of beige taffeta and net fashioned similar to that of the bride. She carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli and leather fern with white ribbon streamers. The reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the church parlor. The houseparty included Mrs. Stanley Canada of Abilene, Mrs. R. C. Kurtz, Mrs. Gladys Wilson and Mrs. Raymond Kurtz and Mrs. Robert Paschal of Dimmitt.

The bride was reared here and is a graduate of Winters High School and attended North Texas State College. The bridegroom is a graduate of Cisco High School and attended Odessa College and Ranger Junior College.

The couple will make their home at 1924 Hardy Street in Abilene. Mrs. Carey is employed by R. L. Young Insurance and her husband is employed by Oglesby Surveying Company.

Hardin-Simmons A Capella Choir Here March 4

Hardin-Simmons University's 40 member A Capella Choir will present 17 concerts in 13 communities during its annual spring tour Feb. 28 to March 4. The concert in Winters will be at the First Baptist Church Friday, March 4, at 7:30 p. m.

The choir will sing in Colorado City, Big Spring, San Angelo, Junction, Kerrville, San Antonio, Uvalde, Crystal City, Eagle Pass, Del Rio, Sonora, Eldorado and Winters, in that order. Concerts will be given before high school, church, college and civic groups, according to Edward H. Hamilton, director.

Two types of programs are planned. A complete service of sacred music is scheduled for the church appearances. At the other gatherings, a mixture of sacred and secular music will be sung, Hamilton said.

The sacred music program will consist of anthems, unusual Christmas compositions including the first American carol, Negro spirituals, and devotional responses. The features will be the Magnificat, by Charles Pachelbel, one of America's earliest prominent composers. The work was composed for two choirs and was inspired by the portion of the first chapter of Luke, "My soul doth magnify the Lord."

Secular selections will include folk song arrangements, patriotic songs and excerpts from George Gershwin's musical, "Porgy and Bess."

Soloists will include Nancy Hearn of Nashville, Tenn., Carolyn West of Dallas, Mary Truly of Wichita Falls, Sammy Scifres of Rule, Audrey Rasco of Odessa, Tom Mosley and Lloyd Priddy of Fort Worth, Jim Pfafflin of La-Crosse, Wisc., Thurman Pylant of San Angelo, and Charles Pierson of San Antonio. Instrumentalists who will accompany the choir are B. F. Risinger of Shamrock, flutist; Dale Bench of Amherst, organist; June Kenemer of San Angelo, Lynda Lynch of McAllen, and Karen Swartz of Heber Springs, Ark., pianists. Also on the program will be the H-SU Men's Quartet, made up of Sam Beam of Abilene, Bob Bilbreth of Frederick, Okla., Scifres and Pfafflin.

Hamilton, the conductor, is associate professor of voice in the H-SU School of Music.

Mother of Adopted Wright Children On Queen For a Day

Mrs. Eldon Holley of Wellington appeared on "Queen for a Day" television show originating in Dallas January 12, and placed second with her heartwarming story. She was one of the four finalists selected from interviews with Jack Bailey.

Mrs. Holley is the wife of Eldon Holley Lone Star Gas Company manager at Wellington and in the February issue of the Blue Blaze published for employees of the Lone Star Gas Company, appeared a picture of the couple, their only daughter, Dena, and the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Pud Wright, deceased, Dennis 11, and Brenda 8. The Holleys have adopted the two children whose parents and one child, were killed in an automobile accident and buried on Christmas Day 1958. Dennis and Brenda were also in the wreck and were seriously injured.

The Wright family were residents of Winters at the time of the fatal accident. She was a sister of Mr. Holley. All three are buried in Lakeview cemetery here.

Mrs. Holley's unusual wish on the "Queen for a Day" program was for a triple tombstone for the three graves and a horse for Dennis to replace the one his father had bought for the children a few months before the wreck. Mrs. Holley received several consolation gifts, including a dozen percal sheets in pastel colors, a steam iron and an air purifier. In her story Mrs. Holley said that the accident victims had no life insurance and little savings and that she and her husband had been unable to buy a tombstone which they wanted to do more than almost anything.

Friends of the family here will be glad to know that Dennis is president of his sixth grade class and is a Boy Scout. Brenda is a Blue Bird in the Camp Fire Girls and a member of the Junior Choir.

Traveling Science Teacher Will Spend Week In Winters School; Talk To Lions

A science program of unusual content and interest will be presented at the Winters High school during the period of March 7-15. The program will be presented by Charles Compton, traveling science teacher, who has a repertoire of lecture materials designed to inform and stimulate teachers and students in the areas of science and mathematics and is equipped with a station wagon loaded with unique science demonstration apparatus.

He will speak to the Lions Club Tuesday, March 8, at the regular weekly luncheon.

Compton is one of 20 traveling science teachers who have been trained and equipped at Oklahoma State University with the assistance of a $335,000 grant from the National Science Foundation. The 20 teachers are serving an eight-state area composed of Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas. "Nearly a quarter of a million students will benefit directly from the Traveling Science Teacher Program during the current school year," says Dr. Robert C. Fite, program director.

By the end of the spring term each traveling teacher will have visited approximately 30 schools, a total of 600 altogether. Winters High school is fortunate to have been selected to receive this program this year since twice as many applications were received as could be scheduled.

"In addition to 12 to 15 lecture-demonstrations to science and mathematics classes and to student assemblies, Mr. Compton will be available for presentations to teacher's meetings, science clubs, civic groups, and PTA meetings," Dr. Fite explains. The program is quite flexible and requires a minimum number of disruptions or irregularities in the school schedule. "Schools of all sizes are scheduled, but the program presented in a large school is quite different from that in the smaller schools," says Fite, who is also director of Oklahoma State's Arts and Sciences extension activities.

Mr. Compton, a native of Oklahoma, has been teaching mathematics and physics at Andrews, Texas. He was selected with the 19 others from about 200 teacher applications received from the eight-state area by a committee of scientists working with the program. At the end of this school year Mr. Compton will return to his regular classroom duties.

The program will also be available to other civic organizations. For information call Rodney Catey, high school principal.

Outdoor Paragraphs—

Hunting and Fishing Is Of Significant Value To Texas', Texans' Economy

Did you ever stop to consider the economic value of hunting and fishing in Texas?

Some people think of these two great outdoor sports as significant only to tourist courts, camp operators, marine services, and similar businesses located along the coast or near our lakes and streams.

Not so. It doesn't matter where you live, if you are in business you'll benefit, as some of the two hundred million dollars that hunters and fishermen spend in Texas every year comes to you, directly. Maybe you've got a business statistics expert handy who can tell you, offhand, the indirect benefits. I didn't pick that two hundred million dollar figure out of the air. A few years ago the Texas Game and Fish Commission employed the Crossley pollsters to make a survey. Results showed that the total expenditure for hunting and fishing in Texas was $165,054,000. That was in 1955. This total has increased by 35 million dollars, or more, since that time.

If the total figure doesn't impress you, consider this fact. Texans spend twice as much money to hunt and fish as they do for admission to all football, baseball, and basketball games, all other spectator sports, all movies and all other stage attractions combined. I mean the sum total of all of them!

Research also reveals that the hunting and fishing bill of Texans is greater than the total amount spent for medical care, plus dental care, plus hospitalization insurance.

Here is another interesting fact . . . 27 percent of all Texans twelve years of age and older go fishing or hunting every year. The biggest group is fishermen — 15 percent.

Here's how the angler's dollar was spent: 65 cents for the trip; 12 cents miscellaneous; 32.6 cents for equipment; and 1.2 cents for licenses.

The hunter's dollar went like this: 35 cents for the trip; 15.5 cents for miscellaneous; 4.5c for equipment; and 4.5 cents for licenses.

Take your town—any town. In every other household there is at least one hunter or fisherman, or both. When these men and women start for the outdoors, they must have supplies, food, clothing, equipment, gasoline, and many other necessities, for the trip. Your town may be far from the river, lake, or coast, but there are hunters and fishermen in your town, by the hundreds. Not only that, but other hunters and fishermen pass through your town on the highway. They eat at the cafes. Sometimes they spend the night at your hotel or tourist court. They buy ice, fish-hooks, flashlight batteries, refreshments, cigars, cigarettes, chewing tobacco, playing cards, artificial lures, ammunition, sunglasses, aspirin, and who knows what else?

Now, just to be sure that we're not placing too much emphasis on one survey, let's turn to another and see what we find. This one was taken by Beldon Associates of Dallas. It has to do with salt water sport fishing in Texas.

Over a period of one year three-quarters of a million Texans fished in the salt waters of the state.

They caught 37,024,000 pounds of speckled trout, red fish, flounder, and drum. They also captured 3,090,000 pounds of shrimp.

If you value their catch at 40 cents per pound, the total was worth $16,009,600—and that, my friend, is economic value.

You can eat it, too.

Most of the salt water fishermen went to the Galveston-Freeport area (28 percent) or the Corpus Christi - Aransas Pass area (36 percent). But all sections of the coast had their visitors.

Out of every one hundred persons, 22 traveled 99 miles or less to reach their favorite fishing spot. Six percent toured 100 to 199 miles. Four percent moved 200 to 299 miles. And 3 percent wandered miles or more from home base.

Fishing from a boat is the most popular method along the coast, with pier and jetty fishing next, and wading or surf fishing third.

Fishing continues all year round in Texas. Here we're not as concerned about closed seasons as are other states. While hunters are shooting deer, turkeys, doves, quail, ducks and geese—in their respective seasons—there also are many fishermen pursuing the fresh or salt water fish, at the same time.

Serious hunters make theirs a year round sport too. When it is out of season for some species, they may go for rabbits, squirrels, crows, or varmits. They may unlimber the gun for a little trap shooting or they may take the trusty twenty-two rifle out for a bit of target practice.

Hunting and fishing are high on the list of attractions that lure tourists to Texas.

Our hunting is excellent. We can point with pride to the Hill Country deer and turkey; to our fine dove and quail shooting; and to the duck and geese hunting along the coast.

Our fishing is unsurpassed. "They bite every day" on the coast—is no exaggeration. In our lakes, rivers, streams, and farm ponds, there are unlimited bass, crappie, bream, and catfish.

Summing it up—Texas has hunting and fishing resources galore, economic values that hardly have been touched.

Crop Rotation Plans Should Be Made To Reduce Water Loss

"Now is the time to plan for and carry out that conservation crop rotation," stated Arthur Eggenmeyer, Chairman of the Runnels Soil Conservation District. He said that the modern conservation plan should include a cropping system that will reduce soil and water losses, improve the physical condition of the soil and aid in the control of weeds, insects and diseases. Eggenmeyer said as far as he knew, this was the cheapest and most practical method of controlling cotton rot.

"A conservation crop rotation for this area is more complex than one for the higher rainfall sections of the state," says Cecil Drake, local soil conservationist. He stated that the unpredictable rainfall and high wind and summer temperatures, all intensify the problem. For these reasons, the cropping system should be flexible and adapted to the climate.

High residue producing crops such as sorghums, small grains, and grasses should be used in the crop rotation. They will provide maximum protection to soil, if they or their residues are managed during the seasons of the year when erosion hazards are greatest from wind and water.

To maintain or improve the soil fertility, Drake said that about one-sixth of the acreage of cropland should be planted each year to a soil improving crop. Good legume crops for this area are cow peas, Austrian winter peas and Williamette vetch, small grains, sorghums and grasses can also be used for this purpose. If these crops are used, they should either be turned under green or have nitrogen applied, if soil moisture is adequate, to the stubble after the grain is harvested.

Do women purse men, or do men purse women, is the question.

Cotton Growers Urged To Study Legislation Changes

Agricultural legislation passed by Congress last year has real significance for cotton producers in 1960, and future seasons. The law establishes new provisions which cotton producers must follow if they are to maintain their allotments.

First, according to C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist, if a farm allotment is under a Soil Bank contract or the Great Plains Conservation Program the allotment will be preserved. A limited number of producers are involved.

The next provision is likely to affect many cotton growers. Operators of farms not under Soil Bank contract or the Great Plains Program have two choices. They must plant at least 75 percent of the allotted cotton acreage or, release sufficient acreage to meet this 75 percent requirement to the county ASC committee for re-apportionment to other growers in the county. For example, a farmer with a 50-acre allotment may decide to plant only 38 acres since this is over 75 percent, or he may plant 30 acres and release as few as 8 acres to be distributed to others.

Bates explained the release is made for one season only and will not reduce the future allotment of the producer releasing the acres. Also, it will not help the producer planting the acres to get a larger allotment next year and finally, the released acreage cannot be used to set up allotments for new growers.

The third stipulation of the new law requires that cotton must be planted on the farm holding an allotment one year in three. This means that a producer could release his cotton allotment for two successive years, but the next year must plant at least 75 percent of his allotment in order to preserve the full acreage.

Cotton production is a good "multiplier" in the local economy, said Bates. By this he means the more cotton that is produced, the greater will be the amounts of fertilizer, petroleum products, labor and other items needed to service this production. After it is grown, the ginning, hauling and processing of lint and seed provide employment and require other services in the county, district and state. It benefits a large number of citizens.

Cotton producers should do their part to hold county allotments. They can be lost to other areas. Cotton growers who plan to plant only a part or none of their allotment should release the acreage not to be planted before the dead-line dates. This is done by notifying the county ASC office in the county holding the allotment records.

Some people have no more respect for a date than they have for a circular letter.

LAST MILE — A mighty steam engine which once powered crack passenger trains such as the Norfolk & Western's Powhatan Arrow and the Pocahontas, now is confined to this Cincinnati, Ohio, junk yard. Weighing over 300 tons, it will be cut up for scrap, now that diesel engines have replaced the old steamers.

THAT'S HOW IT GOES—What's going on in the mind of this disgruntled motorist is anyone's guess, as he stands in silence next to a policeman writing him a traffic ticket on New York's Fifth Ave.

Farm Bureau To Begin Drive For New Members

County wide drive for new 1960 members in the Runnels County Farm Bureau will be staged March 7 in Runnels County. The 50 workers will be held at 7:30 a. m. annual 'kick-off' breakfast for some m. at Loftins cafe in Ballinger on March 1. Those attending the breakfast will hear guest speaker, Millard Shivers, organizational director of the Texas Farm Bureau explain the structural growth and analysis of the progress of the Farm Bureau. The workers will canvas the entire county to solicit the support of all those who derive their income directly or indirectly from agriculture in this county which does include practically every resident of the county. The Farm Bureau has long been recognized as the "Voice of Agriculture" in Texas and over the nation. It has earned the respect of the American people because it is fundamentally a "grass roots" organization which reflects the true desires and philosophy of the farm families of this nation. Farm Bureau is a free, independent non-governmental organization of farmers and ranchers, united for the purpose of achieving collectively that which they cannot secure as an individual. It seeks solutions to agricultural problems on the basis of the issues involved — not partisan policies. Farm Bureau is organized on the county, state and national levels. The 700 farm families holding memberships in Runnels County Farm Bureau are among the 79,414 families making up the membership in the Texas Farm Bureau. The Texas Farm Bureau, now fifth largest state Farm Bureau in the nation, is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation largest farm organization in the world with 1,602,117 members in 49 states and Puerto Rico. Farm Bureau policies are made at the "grass roots" level with each member given an opportunity to participate in policy development. Policies are made after discussions, debate and exchange of ideas at county, state and national conventions. The Runnels County Farm Bureau's potential for a 100 percent organized county is 1100 members and according to recent reports from the state office this county is 61 percent organized.

State Okays Gas Rate Increase; Now Rests With Cities

L. T. Potter, president of Lone Star Gas Company, this week said that the Texas Railroad Commission's reported order of Feb. 15 authorized Lone Star Gas Company to raise its intra-company city gate charge for gas for Residential and Commercial customers by 5.4 cents per one thousand cubic feet. "This order has the effect of increasing the cost to Lone Star's Distribution Division, but the level reached is still 4.6 cents below the cost in effect prior to 1942.

"Lone Star's Transmission Division will begin charging the Company's Distribution this additional 5.4 cents on the effective date of the Commission order. Although the increase is not as large as requested, the Company is accepting the Commission order because of our Transmission Division's immediate need for additional funds with which to continue to obtain adequate gas supplies in today's highly competitive market.

"On Dec. 10, 1958, I wrote the mayors of the cities served by Lone Star and informed them that we were asking the Railroad Commission to authorize the Company to increase its city gate charge. In this letter I stated that "Lone Star, in carrying out its public service obligation, may be required in the future to file an application for an increase in residential and commercial rates." "It now appears that our Distribution Division will probably be required to seek authority from each council to increase the charge to our residential and commercial customers in an amount sufficient to offset this increased cost of gas. This will average slightly more than 1 cent per day per residential customer."

IN OSBORNE HOME
Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Osborne and family of Midland and Mr. and Mrs. James Wheeler and family of Abilene spent the weekend visiting in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Osborne and with other relatives.

BRADSHAW NEWS

"Our mood has so much to do with our might." —John Henry Jowett.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Cox and three children of Sonora and Mrs. Clyde Harding of Novice attended the Church of Christ services Sunday morning.

Monday of last week the WMS ladies met at the Baptist Church in an all-day session. Mrs. Mansfield Foster gave a book review on Reaching Rural Churches. Others present were Mesdames Lena Reid, A. D. Jackson, Cora Fine, Ramon Hudson, Billie McCasland, Dock Aldridge, Barney Gibbs, Joe Saunders, Bud Harrison and Vicki Aldridge. Wednesday night after prayer meeting the church gave Pastor and Mrs. Jerry Henson a pounding. Coffee and doughnuts were served. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hicks of Abilene were at the night services at the Moro Baptist Church.

Visitor at the Drasco Baptist morning services was Larry Webb of Moro. The Juniors, Claudia Browne, Donna England and Randall Conner, of the Sunday School sang the hymn, "Did You Think To Pray," with Mrs. W. I. Taylor at the piano, as a special for the morning services. The same three with the addition of Pastor W. I. Taylor, without the piano, sang "Whisper a Prayer" for the special for the night services.

Paul Thorp of Wilmeth was a visitor at the night services at the Drasco Methodist Church.

A Prisoner for Christ is the subject for next Sunday's Sunday School Lesson. Meditation: "There is only a fine line that separates bravery from foolhardiness. No man in his right mind would go swimming in the rapids of a river during the spring floods, but if a child were drowning, he would plunge in at the risk of his life to save it. The difference between folly and courage would be the occasion or the motive. If there is a cause at stake, the risk is worth taking.

"Paul went to Jerusalem at the risk of his life, knowing that dangers beset him on every hand and that there was a good possibility that he might never return alive. He did so because he believed that the Holy Spirit was leading him to do so, and because he had a duty to fulfill toward the church in carrying to them the offering that the Christians of the Gentile world had collected for them. The things that happened to him in Jerusalem brought out the resoluteness and courage in his heart as he endured them for the sake of Christ."

Special days next week are for: Bill Talley, Quenton Sneed and Mrs. C. T. Conner the 28th; a wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Rex Redell and a birthday for Linda Sneed the 2nd; Shirley Mackey, Virginia Horn Beachamp, Lois Little Woolsey, Lee Little and Jo Olive Saunders Hancock the 3rd.

Next Legislature Will Be Faced With Demands To Raise Salaries, Taxes

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

With an eye on the growing cost of government and need for new taxes, a committee from the Texas Senate has launched an economy study.

Overall state budget for the present two-year spending period is $328,000,000 more than for the previous two-year period. It was an increase of about 11 percent. There is every indication that the next Legislature will be faced with demands to raise salaries and expand and improve state services in approximately the same proportion.

Some of the cost increase is attributed to sheer quantity. With Texas population increasing an estimated 26 percent from 1959-60, there are more youngsters to educate, more patients for state hospitals, more cars wearing out the roads.

More significantly, the percentages of oldsters and youngsters is increasing faster than the percentages of middle-aged people. Older and younger people generally up revenue needs—for welfare benefits and schooling—but contribute less in taxes than income-earning middle-agers. Some of the increase in costs results from a drive for quality—better schools, hospitals and highways.

With undeniable money needs so great, the Senate committee was set up to seek out any indications of extravagance or waste and "see if we are getting our dollar's worth for the money we're spending."

As a starter, the committee, headed by Sen. Ray Roberts of McKinney, agreed to hold its own expenses to a bare minimum.

BRIDGES TOO LOW

State High Department Engineers are faced with the task of re-designing bridges for the interstate highways to conform with a U. S. Defense Department requirement for a 16-foot clearance. Texas has 254 bridges in the interstate system which do not meet the newly announced overhead clearance requirement.

U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, which works with the Highway Department in planning the joint federal and state road system, has specified only a 14.5 foot clearance since.

Bridges cost approximately $140,000 apiece, and re-designing to meet the new standards would cost about 55 percent of the original cost. By-passes for transport of missiles and other defense equipment are being considered.

MARATHON WATER HEARING

When the subject is water development, Texans always seem to have a few million well-chosen words to exchange.

Hearing before the State Water Board over whether Houston and the Trinity River Authority shall receive a permit to build a new Trinity reservoir is one of the longest ever held. It has been in progress off and on since November.

Main opponent is the San Jacinto River Authority which wants Houston to use its money developing the San Jacinto rather than the Trinity.

SJRA witnesses contend the Trinity water will be inadequate in amount and unsuitable for domestic use.

OIL FLOW CUT

Texas Railroad Commission set the March oil allowable at 2,900,568 barrels a day.

This is 120,496 barrels a day less than the February allowable. It continues February's 10-day production pattern.

Most of the industry testimony before the Commission was gloomy. There is an over-supply of oil now, said some spokesmen, and another month of over-production would be "disastrous."

CITIES DUE RECOGNITION

Cities of Harlingen and West University Place (Harris Co.) are to receive awards for their water and sewage plants on March 2.

Dr. J. E. Peavy, state Health Commissioner, will present cups to representatives of the cities at a banquet sponsored by the Texas Water and Sewage Works Association.

Harlingen will be recognized for having the "most attractive water treatment plant in the state" and West University Place for the "most attractive sewerage treatment plant."

Presentation will be made during a short course for city water and sewage plant personnel to be held Feb. 28 to March 5 at Texas A & M College.

CARE FOR OLDSTERS

Texas' need for more mental hospital space has focused attention on the number of state mental hospital beds occupied by persons not mentally ill.

In a talk before the Texas Association for Mental Health, Gov. Price Daniel said, "One of our toughest problems now involves those 5,000 hospital patients whose only illness is advanced age."

"Senility is not insanity," said the governor, "and a concerted effort must be made to enable these aged citizens to be cared for in nursing homes or in their own homes."

State Hospital Board Chairman French Robertson called it "a sad thing that people send their old people to mental hospitals when they don't want to take care of them."

PATROL EXAMS SET

Young men between 2 and 35 years of age will have an opportunity in April to seek admission to one of the nation's most highly regarded law enforcement agencies.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Department of Public Safety, announced that entrance examinations will be given April 2, 13 and 14 for candidates for the State Highway Patrol.

Applicants must be high school graduates, in good physical condition of high moral character. They must be not less than 68 inches nor more than 76 inches tall and weigh not less than two pound nor more than three pounds per inch of height. Applicants should contact regional or district DPS offices or write the Texas Department of Public Safety, Austin.

GAS HIKE OKAYED

Texas Railroad Commission has granted Lone Star Gas Co. permits to 35.4 cents per 1,000 cubic mission to raise its rates from 30 feet.

Lone Star, which sells to 328 Texas cities, had asked for an increase to 40 cents.

Twenty-eight cities vigorously opposed the company's request, keeping the matter in heated controversy before the Commission for more than a year.

What isn't clearly remembered might as well be forgotten.

House Prepares For Civil Rights Fight In March

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

While the Senate argued over the issue of Civil Rights of Civil Wrongs, the House coasted along with annual appropriation bills last week, and maneuvered for a test on the civil rights issue in early March.

The House debate will begin on March 10, and a bill is certain of passage, though probably milder than the Senate version. It all boils down to the big battle for the Negro vote in 1960. While all sorts of pretensions are advanced, every one knows what the real objective is. In calmer, more objective moments most politicians will admit that special laws are not needed for any minority group, racial, religious or otherwise. But not so on election years.

Spring Best Time To Catch Crappie

You can catch crappie anytime, but it's easier in the spring.

At this season of the year the crappie, notably a roamer, settles down closer to home . . . with thoughts of spawning.

They swim in tight groups, all at the same depth. Find one of these schools, and you can get your limit before breakfast.

Crappie abound everywhere—in rivers, lakes and streams. But it was with the advent of big dam building in Texas that they really came into prominence. Dammed up water submerged many a tree and that is the kind of habitat crappie like most.

All you have to do is locate such a spot.

If you're on the lake, look for a stump sticking out of the water. Go there and tie your boat to the stump. If it's the top of an old submerged tree, you're in business.

For bait, use minnows, or any bait that resembles a minnow. Small spoons, spinners, or jigs will get results.

While the lure or bait must be small, the hook should be large. The crappie's mouth is big, but tender. So he must be handled with care to avoid tearing the hook out.

A small hook will work through the delicate structure of the crappie's mouth. On the other hand a big hook grabs more of the light gristle, therefore holds better.

A good rule to follow is to figure that the crappie is just off the bottom. So let the minnow down until it touches, then pull up a couple of turns of the reel.

Stay right there for a couple of minutes. If nothing happens, start reeling up very slowly. It won't hurt to jiggle the bait lightly because a crappie loves a slowly moving target.

It's important to note the depth where the first crappie takes hold. That's where all his brothers and sisters are. Also it's a good idea to put a blue or red pencil mark on your line to indicate where to stop letting our line.

Spinning gear is ideal for crappie fishing. To begin with, the crappie is a small, sporting type fish. He requires no big rig. He wants his food presented in a natural way, and a spinning outfit is tops.

Although a big hook is recommended, it can be the wire kind — light, without restricting the minnow's movement.

If there is room, the angler can let his minnow swim free, without any sinker. But if necessary or desirable, he can put a split shot in the line, say a foot and a half above the minnow. That gives the live bait a little room to move around.

Some crappie fishermen use bobbers. That's all right, provided the rule is observed that the bait must get down to the depth where the fish are.

A bobber will mark the distance and you can rig up your crappie outfit so the bobber will keep track of the depth.

My preference is to get the crappie by feel, not by movement of the bobber. A crappie strike is very light, very gentle. He may even touch the minnow or lure a couple of times before he decides to take it. When he does, he often swims up with it, so that you have to reel in to find out if he's on there.

Once you feel his weight on the line, don't set the hook as you would be likely to tear the hook out. Simply pull up, reel in enough to keep the tension on, and you'll get him.

Somewhere between the depth where he's hooked and the place where you are, he'll offer a little resistance, but not much. Nobody ever called the crappie a fighting fish.

He makes up for that deficiency by being a willing feeder and by his excellent flavor when properly cooked.

The crappie, like most fish, lives where he finds the most cover and the most food. In his hiding place, such as an old sunken tree, he is in the midst of branches where you're going to foul and lose hooks, sinkers, and line.

That's part of the game, and is to be expected.

So when you go crappie fishing, take plenty of equipment, because you're going to lose part of your rig now and then. If you don't, you are in the wrong place for crappie.

But the loss is small compared to your gain, if you get a string of these silvery beauties.

Winters Unit of Salvation Army Reorganized

Two Wingate men were named to the board of the local service unit of the Salvation Army at a meeting Tuesday afternoon in the chamber of commerce office. Two new members from Winters also were named to the board. Other representatives from Winters were retained on the board, and officers remain the same.

Henry Adcock and A. Dooley of Wingate were named to the board. Two new members from Winters were appointed. They are the Rev. Leslie Ellison, pastor of the Winters Presbyterian Church, and Lawrence Hennigan, Winters Chief of Police.

Chairman of the local service unit is Rodney Cathey, Winters high school principal. W. M. Hays is vice chairman, and Mrs. B. B. Bedford, secretary. William H. Craven was reappointed treasurer of the unit.

The local service unit met with two representatives of the Salvation Army from Abilene, and reviewed the financial and activity reports of the Winters organization. In the drive conducted last fall, a total of $663.35 was collected in Winters and Wingate. Sixty-six percent, or $436.37, was forwarded to national headquarters of the Salvation Army. According to officers of the local unit, a total of $280.55 remains in the treasury at the present time. Since the drive, $113.55 has been spent in helping needy families and individuals, the chairman said.

The chairman of the local service unit pointed out that although 66 percent of the total collected in the drive was forwarded to national headquarters, the national organization of the Salvation Army will return as much or more to the local unit in the event it is needed here.

No Sharp Break In Cattle Prices Likely In 1960

A sharp break in cattle prices is not likely in 1960 but we are entering a period which calls for wariness, is the latest word from John McHoney, extension economist. The small increase in cattle slaughter expected for 1960, together with a large hog slaughter, will take the bloom off cattle prices.

Prices of cows and feeder cattle will likely show greater declines than fed cattle, said McHoney. Seasonal price changes will likely be evident in these lower grades and a major part of the year's expected decline will probably be felt during the late summer and fall. Fed cattle prices in the spring of 1960 may average a little below a year ago with little prospect for price advances before summer.

On January 1, 1959 there were 96.8 million head of cattle in the United States and during 1959 cattle producers probably added over five million head to this number — setting a new record on January 1, 1960. McHoney said some economists have estimated the January 1960 figure at somewhere between 101 and 103 million head. This expansion in numbers will result in an increase in slaughter and a decrease in prices; however, the increase in slaughter and the decrease in prices is expected to be moderate in 1960 unless a drought should occur causing heavier marketings.

If cattle numbers expand at a fast pace, there is a possibility numbers will reach 115 million head by 1964 — making available 94½ pounds of beef per person. McHoney emphasized that an output of this size would demoralize beef prices.

Imports also added much to the large beef supplies. Net imports

No Earning Limit After Age 72, Still Can Draw S. S.

Floyd B. Ellington, manager of the District Social Security office in San Angelo, states that age 72 and social security benefits have a great deal in common. Beneficiaries throughout the nation are receiving monthly benefits regardless of the amount of their annual earnings, simply because they have passed their seventy-second birthday. However, there are restrictions in the law as to how much these individuals can earn and still receive their monthly social security checks as long as they are under age 72.

Something you may not be aware of is the fact that once an insured individual reaches age 72, this earnings restriction no longer applies. There is one word of caution, however, and that is in the year in which the individual becomes 72. If this person continues to work all year long and his earnings are over $1200 in that year, his benefits will be payable only from the month he reaches age 72 on. Here is an example to illustrate this point. An insured individual is continuing to work for $300 a month, but he comes into the social security office in January and files his application at that time. He will be 72 years old in April. It will be explained to him that as long as he continues to work, there will be no monthly benefits paid to him until April, in 1959 probably reached the billion pounds mark (carcass weight equivalent). This was enough meat to provide 5 1-2 pounds more per person in our civilian population. Imports of live animals and meat accounted for about nine percent of our meat supply in 1959. However, McHoney said imports are not expected to be quite as large in 1960.

but from then on his benefits will be paid monthly regardless of his earnings the rest of the year. He works all year long and his earnings are $3600 for the year. Consequently, this individual will not receive benefit checks for the first three months of the year.

Demosthenes was the greatest orator of Greece at twenty-five and at the same age Cicero was Rome's greatest speaker.

Home Town Talk—

Then there is the one about the truck driver who kept stopping his vehicle every few miles, and hitting the side of the box with a stick. A motorist following him was curious and after the umpteenth time, approached the driver and asked, "Why do you keep stopping the truck, and hitting the side with a stick?"

The truck driver replied, "My load limit is 1500 pounds. I'm hauling 3,000 pounds of canaries, and if I can keep half of them flying, I won't be fined for overloading."
