

Girl Scouts Plan Carnival For Saturday, Oct. 28

The six Girl Scout troops of Winters are planning a Scout Carnival for Saturday, Oct. 28, with all events usually held at carnivals to be featured. Mrs. J. H. Crenshaw is general chairman for the carnival, and Mrs. Jack Roe is co-chairman.

The Girl Scout Carnival will be held at the Scout Hut beginning at 7 p. m.

Promoters of the carnival are asking boys of the community to enter the donkey races which are planned. Boys between the ages of 12 and 15 who are interested in entering this event are asked to call Mrs. Roe at PL4-1305.

Other contests planned for the carnival include a rope jumping contest for girls 8 to 10, and a gunny sack race for boys and girls. Also, there will be a bubble gum blowing contest for contestants aged 6 to 8.

A public address system will be furnished by Mead's Bakery. The Old Time Fiddlers will play for donations for the Girl Scouts.

Horace Fry, trainer at the Lazy N Stables, will present the Shetland pony, snow King, in several special acts.

There will be no admission charge for the Girl Scout Carnival.

Blizzards Rest This Week; Coleman Next

The Winters High School Blizzard football team takes a rest this week, after opening conference play with a win against Ranger Friday night. Other teams of the district have a go at one another, however.

By reason of their 27-6 win over Ranger here last Friday, the Blizzards now are top dog in District 7-AA, on points scored against opponents. Ballinger also won their conference opener last Friday, beating Cisco 16-14. Coleman had a night off last week, and as yet have a 0-0-0 standing, districtwise.

While Winters relaxes, and sends out scouts, Ballinger will meet Coleman at Coleman, and Ranger will go to Cisco Friday night.

This will be the last year for the present district set-up, with the re-arranging of districts, and all teams of the district will be fighting to the wire to capture the 7-AA for the last time. Ballinger and Coleman will come along with Winters next year to 6-AA, but Cisco will be out of the old district. Ranger will be in a single A district next year, according to reports.

Council Preparing Fight Against Damage Suit

Mayor Harvey D. Jones said Thursday morning that he and members of the City Council have conferred with a law firm in connection with engaging them to handle the $2,500 damage action filed against the City of Winters in behalf of A. L. Crockett.

No final action has been taken in employing the attorneys, the mayor said. The case was presented to them for further study, and the City Council will be notified within the next few days of their action, he said.

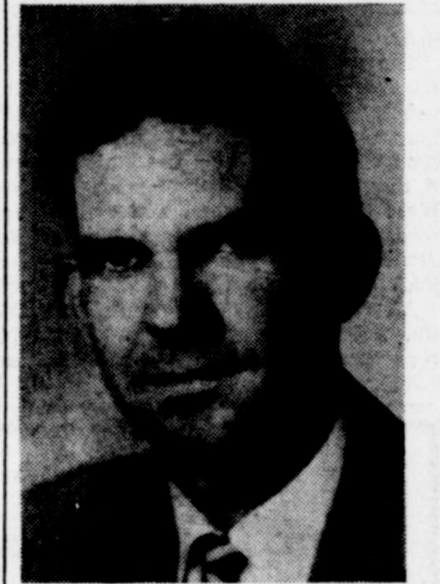

The case has been called for Oct. 26 in Runnels County District Court for 119th Judicial District. Crockett has charged that the City discontinued his utilities, water and lights, upon his refusal to pay for garbage hauling service. He further contends that the city lacks legal authority for the requirement of the sanitary service charge, and that the city lacks authority to disconnect other utilities in the event of non-payment of the sanitary service charge.

He further contends that he is entitled to recover all money paid for the sanitary service and $2,500 damages claimed as a result of the service disconnection. Crockett's suit names the City of Winters, Mayor Jones, Ralph Lloyd, John G. Brown, O. B. Raper, J. E. Smith, Wesley Hays and Charles W. Hester as Defendants. Besides Jones and Hester, others named in the suit are City aldermen. Hester is the city secretary. The law suit notes that the city council adopted a sanitary service charge $1 for residents and $2 for business places and residents in the fringe areas on May 16, 1960.

Originally this was adopted as a voluntary program, it was explained. Council action on May 16, 1961, converted the program from a voluntary plan and made it compulsory. Later, on June 26, 1961, the council adopted the position that no partial payments "without payment of the garbage charge" would be accepted on payment of city bills. The city's billing system includes the costs for electric, water, sewer and garbage pick-up charges on one bill.

Mayor Jones has said that this is "really a suit against the people of Winters."

Boy Scout Drive Kicked Off At Dinner Tuesday

The annual drive to raise funds for the Winters Boy Scouts got off to a good start Tuesday evening with a kick-off dinner at Pierce's Cafeteria. Several out-of-town guests were present along with workers who will conduct the campaign in Winters.

W. M. Hays introduced J. T. Randolph, chairman of the Southern District, and O.K. Reynolds of Abilene, Southern District Scout Executive, who spoke on the reason and need for a Boy Scout drive, and explained what the funds received through the drive would be used for.

Hays also introduced Bobby Sayles of Tuscola, the finance chairman for the Southern District, and the guest speaker. Sayles expressed appreciation to the workers on behalf of the Boy Scouts.

Ted Meyer is general chairman for the drive in Winters. He told the workers and guests that Winters had "always met its quota for the Boy Scout drive," and that he hoped that the workers would "push the drive to an early completion." He asked that when workers call at the businesses and in the residential sections that everyone have their donations ready; that through this method considerable time can be saved in completing the drive and at the same time reach the quota.

Billy Lynn Little Writes of Johnson's Trip to Bergstrom Air Force Base

By Billy Little

The sleek silver jet cruised to a halt in front of the long walk-way jutting out onto the mass of paved landing strips. Across its side, in navy blue letters above the gleaming row of windows, read "The United States of America. From the gangplank stepped a tall, robust figure—Lyndon Johnson had arrived.

The scene was Bergstrom Air Force Base—but it could have been anywhere—anywhere trouble has brewed for the United States this year.

The vice president, hated and scorned by some loved and respected by many more was here to tour the Aerospace Medical Center at Brooks AFB in San Antonio. A day earlier he had been on the West Coast. Less than a week before, he was riding in a funeral procession for Dag Hammarskjöld.

After spending the night in Austin, Johnson, accompanied by 22 reporters, took off for the Medical Center.

Shortly before take off, he was given the first of three cups of coffee he was to receive during the trip.

The vice president unbuckled his safety belt, and sat on the arm of his chair. His coffee cup was on the table across the aisle. His desk was covered with the day's newspapers.

Johnson started by recapping the night, and asking his guests if they had a good rest. He said he awoke in Austin after spending the first night in almost a week in bed, with a word to his wife, "Let's start all over." One wonders if he might not have been half-serious. In three days he had covered 6,000 miles. He had spent every night in his plane—flying to Sweden and back before the mile-age total was ever begun. After that he spent a day in Washington getting ready for this tour of space installations, then to the West Coast, and finally home to Texas. Here he intended to rest—fate was to keep him from it.

When he talked the nation's business, the vice president talked fast, and he talked big. He expressed concern over the small number of PhD's coming from the southwest. He rattled off the purpose of the National Aerospace Council—of which he is chairman. He talked about the things he had seen—and the things he had not.

Rifles which can fire bullets at a rate of 30,000 miles per hour, but which are still inadequate to all the needs of outer space research—the fantastic size, cost and complexity of equipment required to solve even minor problems—the infinite care and patience which highly trained minds must exercise on details which, in comparison to the overall program, appear minute.

But the people impressed Johnson most.

At Brooks, the party was briefed on the firing of the latest discoverer satellites. Radiation test were revealed. Then he toured the center.

He walked. He watched. He talked. But most of all, he listened. He watched and listened when films of chick embryo heart cells that had been miles above the earth were shown—and he listened when talk of pressure chambers, and simulated capsules arose.

He questioned things about height, strength, pressure. Through the halls he walked, speaking to ladies behind desks, entering rooms to talk with workers, and just being Texan.

And the people were awed—even those who despised him, were awed. He was no longer the man who they thought had weasled his way into the senate—he was no longer the man in Washington whom they could gripe about—he was here, talking to them—and he was the vice president of the United States.

On his way out of the building, he met and talked with the wife and parents of one of the boys who had emerged that morning from a 17-day stay in a space cabin simulator. Johnson insisted that he must meet the boys. He thanked the people for what their son and husband was doing.

Later, the Vice president met the two Air Force Academy graduates who had been in the tests. He told the boy he'd talk to his parents and wife, and what fine people he thought they were—politician's lingo? Maybe—but coming from the vice president, a compliment.

Johnson boarded the plane for his ranch around noon. He was giving a barbecue for the press. After holding a brief conference about what he'd seen, he settled down to his third cup of coffee (he'd had the second at the briefing at Brooks.)

As the plane neared the ranch, the vice president's eyes seemed to brighten. The longing was obvious—it was the longing of a man for his home. HE looked anxiously out of the window of the plane, and as it touched down, it was a Texas farmer-rancher talking about crops and cattle.

As if unnoticed, he commented about the clearing of the land—the planting of new grain, and his prize cattle.

"Those are the finest cattle in the country," he boasted. And they indeed might well be.

At the ranchhouse, in the 80-degree temperature, the vice president immediately climbed into a pair of swim trunks and splashed into his pool. He furnished suits for reporters, whom he almost begged to join him.

After the refreshing swim in the heated pool, barbecue was served. Johnson's staff had provided every beverage for the guests.

Looking out from the front porch down the sloping bank toward the Pedernales River and across to the picturesque pecan trees, one could almost feel as if he were in the clutches of one of the giant dynasties of the early America.

The vice president laughed and talked with his guests. Looking around, one could see scratched in concrete the names of famous visitors to the ranch. John Kennedy, Adenaur, Sam Rayburn.

Sam Rayburn—the man who had helped Johnson to the second highest office in the land—was gravely ill. Johnson heard the news that Rayburn had cancer—incurable—over the radio. He said nothing. He went into the house, and when he came back he asked not to have to make a statement. His guests questioned him no further.

After lunch, he took some reporters around to see his cattle.

The happy ole sun climbed higher into the Indian Summer sky, and Johnson drove his Lincoln convertible up to the ranch house.

He showed his guests to the plane which would take them back from their western holiday to the roar of the big city—or University, in one reporter's case.

The vice president bade us good

"The Young Savages,"
Burt Lancaster's first acting chore since winning the coveted Academy Award for Best Actor is portraying the dynamic prosecuting attorney in "The Young Savages," now showing at the State Theatre, through United Artists release.

Co-starring another Oscar winner, Shelley Winters, Dina Merrill, this filmization of Evan (Blackboard Jungle) Hunter's novel concerns the problem of teen age violence in New York's Spanish Harlem where it was partly filmed. Members of teen gangs were recruited to play featured and supporting roles in the picture, which was directed by John Frankenheimer in the "realistic" style earned him his fame. Harold Hecht produced "The Young Savages."

"Underworld, U. S. A."

Said to be a hard-hitting motion picture revealing the inner workings of today's organized crime, whose tentacles reach into every part of the nation, Samuel Fuller's "Underworld, U. S. A." stars Cliff Robertson, Dolores Dron and Beatrice Kay Saturday only at the State Theatre. Featured in this new Columbia release, a Globe Enterprises production, are Paul Dubov, Robert Emhardt, Larry Gates and Richard Rust.

Robertson plays a confirmed criminal determined to revenge himself on four top-ranking members of the syndicate's hierarchy who years earlier had rubbed out his father. While working to get close to the infamous quartet, he saves Miss Dorn, a pretty young woman who knows too much, from being killed by a syndicate "gun."

"The 3 Worlds of Gulliver"

In Columbia Pictures' "the 3 Worlds of Gulliver," the world's most amazing adventure reportedly is brought to amazing entertaining life on the screen by that modern miracle motion picture process, Superdynamation. Kerwin Mathews, Jo Morrow and June Thorburn star in the screen version of Jonathan Swift's famous story, "Gulliver's Travels," starting Sunday at the State Theatre in Eastman Color.

"The 3 Worlds of Gulliver," as lived through Superdynamation, has enthralled and delighted screen audiences of all ages wherever it has been shown. Moviegoers who remember the marvels of "The 7th Voyage of Sinbad," filmed in the same motion picture process, can only guess at the new delights in store for them.

"Parrish"

Centering on the romantic entanglements of a restless young man with three extremely different teenage girls against a background of bitter family rivalries, Warner Bros. Technicolor production of "Parrish," starring Troy Donahue, Claudette Colbert, Karl Malden, Dean Jagger, Connie Stevens, Diane McBain and Sharon Huguely, opens Wednesday at the State Theatre.

Delmer Daves wrote, produced and directed the screen adaptation of Mildred Savage's best selling novel, filming it on location in Connecticut's famous Tobacco Valley, against the historic setting of the 19th Century whaling village at Mystic and at the luxurious Terra Mar Boatel and yacht club at Old Saybrook.

Donahue is top-cast in the title role of "Parrish"—as the restless young aviator who displays all of the resourcefulness and determination of his pioneer forebears in setting out to conquer the crop blights and grower rivalries endemic to the verdant Tobacco Valley.

"Flaming Star"

Race war, pitting brother against brother, neighbor against neighbor, sparking the conflicts which torture a halfbreed boy—these are the elements in a new, action-packed "singing" production, "Flaming Star," 20th Century Fox CinemaScope DeLuxe Color drama of old Texas, starring Elvis Presley, Barbara Eden, Steve Forrest, Dolores Del Rio, Saturday only at the Fiesta Drive Inn Theatre.

"Flaming Star" is the tragic saga of a half-Indian youth, Pacer (Elvis Presley) son of a white man, Burton (John McIntyre) and Neddy, a full-blooded Indian beauty (Dolores Del Rio). When the Indians launch a series of massacres on white settlers in Texas, the wrath of the entire town turns upon the Burton family and especially on young Pacer. Even Pacer's half-brother Clint (Steve Forrest) feels prejudice and the cooling of trust begin in his sweetheart Roz Pierce (Barbara Eden).

Recent Changes In Social Security Are Important To All

One of the recent changes in the Social Security Act is important to all persons who work between the ages of 62 and 72, according to Floyd B. Elington, Manager of the San Angelo social security office.

"This change concerns the 'earnings test'—the amount one may earn and still receive some payments," he said. "Earned income of $1200 or less in a year has no effect on the benefits. Now, however, only $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 earned between $1200 and $1700 in a year.

"When earnings are more than $1700, one dollar of family benefits is withheld for each dollar earned in excess of that amount," he continued.

"This means that in some cases where a man and wife are both of retirement age, he can earn as much as $3,000 a year and still receive some old age insurance. Where there are three or more beneficiaries in one worker's family, it is possible for him to earn a much as $4,000 and receive some family payments for the same year."

After age 72, there is no retirement test. Mr. Elington believes that there are many workers in this District between age 62 and 72 who should apply for the benefits to avoid any possible loss. Claims may be filed with the Social Security Administration office at San Angelo, Texas.

Even when annual earnings are too high to permit any payments, benefits are payable for any month in which a beneficiary does not work in his own business or earn wages of more than $100.

How many times have you caught an unusually large fish, or bagged a limit of greenhead mallard or dropped a 12-point buck?

Not very often—most likely. These coaches, or kills are events that linger long in memory.

They are also news—the kind of news that your local newspaper wants to publish. Unfortunately your newspaper may never hear of your feats unless you, or a friend, advise them.

Chances are your newspaper will publish a picture of your catch or your bag of game if the photo is suitable for reproduction.

With just a little effort you can take pictures that the editor wants. You don't have to be a master photographer to do it. But there are a few simple rules you must follow.

For ideas on how to plan and take printable fish and game pictures, thumb through some of the national hunting and fishing magazines. You'll note that the pictures usually are closeups, with backgrounds that don't detract from the main subject.

Suppose you catch an eight-pound bass. That's certainly a newsworthy feat, meriting both story and picture. If you have your camera along, and you should on every outing, have a friend snap the picture of you as you admire the fish—preferably while you're in the boat or near the water.

By holding the fish at chest or eye level, and having your friend snap the photo from a low angle, you'll get the sky in the background. That way you automatically eliminate cluttered backgrounds and objects that detract from the subject matter. If you're lucky enough to have beautiful clouds in the sky—so much the better.

When your friend snaps the picture, however, be sure to look at and admire your fish. A picture like that is of greater value than one of you looking right into the camera lens. After all, the fish is the center of interest!

You could snap the same picture at home, but consider for a moment how a background of the garage door or the front porch detracts from the photo.

How about photographing that big buck?

Shoot such a photo on location. Suspend your deer from a tree. Drape it across the hood of your car, or the tailgate of your station wagon.

Again good lighting is a must. If the deer is suspended from a tree, be sure there are no confusing limbs or bushes in the scene, to give a poor background effect.

The hunter's car is always a good prop, if for no other reason

Academy Award winner Burt Lancaster and Dina Merrill star in "The Young Savages" now showing at the State Theatre.

Fall Is Rat-Control Time of the Year

Rat killing season is here again. During the summer months the rat population is not too noticeable because they stay in the fields, close to their food supplies. They also stay close to their food supplies in the fall, but these supplies have been moved into barns and cribs, thus concentrating the rat and mouse population around the farmstead.

This concentration presents quite a problem to the farmer, but it also affords him the best opportunity for controlling these pests, say rodent control specialists of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The first necessity in an effective rat control program is sanitation. All debris, loose grain and any other sources of shelter or food should be removed from the premises. After this has been done, poison baits should be placed in all areas likely to be frequented by rats or mice. The specialists recommend the use of anti-coagulant type poisons, although others may be used.

Once the rodent population is under control, continued sanitation and the placing of a few poison baits will reinfestation. These poison baits should be checked occasionally to make sure they are still in place.

This type of rodent control is effective on a single farm, but it is much better when employed by every farmer in the neighborhood. You, your neighbors, your local county agent and rodent control specialists of the Fish and Wildlife Service can organize a county-wide control program that will benefit everyone. Talk to your county agent about such a program that will benefit everyone. Talk to your county agent about such a program—he will be glad to help in any way he can.

Keep this thought in mind in taking pictures. Don't just snap one and let it go at that. Film is cheap! Shoot several shots from many different angles. Second or third shot very likely will be far superior to the first one you snap. After you catch that big fish, or drop that deer, the incident is just a memory. With camera and film you can record it for a lifetime and keep that memory alive. Besides that—it's fun to take pictures!

Crop Insurance Expanded In Texas And New Mexico

Federal crop insurance in 1962 will offer an improved cotton insurance program to both dryland and irrigated growers in Texas and New Mexico, according to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

For the first time a new irrigated grain sorghum insurance plan will be offered in Lubbock, Bailey, Castro, Crosby, Floyd, Hockley, Lamb and Swisher counties. Dryland grain sorghum will be added in Wilbarger, Williamson, Nueces and San Patricio counties, and cotton in Denton and Wilbarger counties, according to the Secretary's announcement.

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, already offering a new citrus and cotton program in Cameron, Hidalgo and Willacy counties, expects to improve its protection to rice farmers in the coastal counties of Ft. Bend and Wharton.

Under the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, farmers in counties where the insurance is available pay premiums for protection of designated crops from loss from causes beyond their control such as weather, disease.

"This self-help plan of protection against crop loss will be expanded to other crops as rapidly as it should be utilized by farmers who have available," Secretary said. "Due to the high costs necessary to produce crops, it takes more years than ever before in our history to build up a reserve fund for protection on money spent to produce crops, and a sharp increase in 1962," tary said.

W. F. Minzenmayer Named Chairman Of Runnels SCD

William F. (Bill) Minzenmayer of Winters was elected chairman of the Runnels Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors at their regular meeting last Friday.

Jake Presley, also of Winters, was named vice chairman, and Pete Giesecke Jr., who ranches east of Ballinger, was elected secretary. Two other members of the board are Authur Eggemeyer of Miles and Kirby Robinson of Norton.

The board approved conservation plans submitted by six farmers and ranchers on 2,501 acres. These were for Ed Kasberg of Rowena on 2 farms; Homer Tubbs Rt. 1, Winters; B. J. Colburn, Rt. 4, Winters; Clarence Tharp, Rt. 1, Winters; and Oran Bigby, Rt. 1, Ballinger.

Woodrow Hoffman, of the Soil Conservation Service, in a report to the board, said that for the period of June 15 to September 30, SCS technicians have assisted 38 farmers and ranchers develop a conservation plan for their places on 8,110 acres.

Minzenmayer said, "It is the goal of the Runnels SCD that every landowner develop and apply a conservation plan on his place."

The Board of Supervisors holds its regular meeting the second Friday of each month, at 2 p. m., in Ballinger.

Kirby Robinson Is Re-elected to Board For the Third Term

D. E. Forgy, Election Secretary of Route 2, Ballinger, announced today that, landowners of subdivision 3 of the Runnels Soil Conservation District met at the Norton School October 3rd and re-elected Kirby Robinson, Route 3, Winters, to the Board of Supervisors. As a result of the election Robinson will be serving his third term as a supervisor. He has been a board member since the District was organized in 1949.

C. T. Parker, County Agent was in charge of the arrangements for the election. He told the same 30 landowners, and their wives, that he was well pleased at the way the election turned out. He reminded the group that a Soil Conservation District is a local unit of government, much like a county or school district. He said that it is important for local people to vote for their choice of a fellow landowner to represent them on conservation programs for the District.

Parker stated that the group nominated two landowners from the floor to vote on. These were Floyd Mackey of Norton and Robinson. After the election Parker reviewed the characteristics of the same 36 varieties of grain sorghum that were tested this year in the country. He also told the group that he was pleased with the progress being made in the salt water pollution problem by his work with a group of oil operators in the country.

Guard Against Stored-Grain Insects

A large portion of Texas' 1961 grain crop is now in storage throughout the state. This represents a large investment on the part of many people, but in some instances this could turn into large losses if the storer is careless about insect damage, say F. Garner and R. L. Ridgway, extension entomologists. Proper care on the part of the storer can prevent such damage, however. Periodic inspections at about two week intervals should be made to determine whether or not injurious insect infestations are present. By taking probe samples at various areas and depths, and then sifting the grain through 10 to 12 mesh screens, the owner can determine if insects are present. If one granary weevil, rice weevil or lesser grain weevil, or as many as five insects of other species such as flour and grain beetles, cadelle or grain moths, are found per quart sample of grain, the storage bin should be fumigated, say the entomologists.

Before fumigating the bin, the owner should remove any wasted grain that may have accumulated outside the structure. A recommended residual spray should then be applied to the outside walls and any other areas around the structure that may harbor insects.

There are several precautions that should be taken before and during the fumigation process. All electrical equipment should be checked and any defective wiring repaired. No one should be allowed to smoke near the building or equipment during fumigation. Any hose used should be long enough to allow the equipment to be placed a safe distance away from the structure, and all hoses and connections should be checked for leaks. In most cases, especially if they are working inside the storage masks. A mask with a full faceplate and a United States Bureau of Mines approved canister should be used. No canister should be used after it has had 30 minutes continuous exposure to the fumigant. Any fumigant that comes in contact with the user should be washed off immediately, the entomologists warn. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service publication L-217, "Control of Insects in Farm-stored Grain" contains additional information concerning the control of the major stored-grain pests. This leaflet can be obtained from the local county agent or from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Roger Babson Says

Christmas Buying Throughout the Nation Probably Will Be Good

Babson Park, Mass. There are many reasons why we should be greatly interested in Christmas business,—whether we are clerks, storekeepers, manufacturers, or consumers.

The feelings of the nation are the temper of Christmas buying.

We Are Pleased To Announce . . .

JERRY HOLLE

Formerly of Way Truck & Tractor Co.

Is now Associated With BALLINGER TRUCK & TRACTOR CO. In their Service Department

He joins Ballinger Truck & Tractor in inviting Winters area farmers and ranchers to visit their service department. As announced in August in The Winters Enterprise, and by letter to new tractor and combine owners, Ballinger Truck & Tractor has been authorized by International Harvester Co. to provide warranty service for tractor and machinery sold by Way Truck & Tractor.

We again wish to announce that we will provide warranty service on all tractors and combines sold by Way Truck & Tractor that are still in the warranty period. Should any problems arise, please feel free to call on us.

Your International Harvester Dealer BALLINGER TRUCK & TRACTOR CO. Ballinger, Texas

usually revealed in the volume and a number of years ago I was of the opinion that statistics dictated the nation's business, particularly as regards credit available and workers' wages. But now I have come to realize that business is ruled not only by figures, but also very much by feelings. It is encouraging to note at this time that an impartial study of the probabilities for 1961 Christmas business indicates that people throughout the country are feeling good.

Even at a time when the world situation is dark, our people seem ready to honor Christmas in traditionally happy style. Let us all do whatever we can to encourage this attitude. Let us make gifts to those in need. Let us keep in mind what joy and happiness we can bring to others, instead of what profits the gifts may bring to us. To help guide my footsteps in this direction I have erected a sign near the Great Babson Globe (the largest revolving globe in the world) that reads: "For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

Purchasing Supports Employment
There is, of course, more to Christmas buying than immediately greets the eye. When you select a present for a relative or a friend, you actually begin an individual business cycle. Not only do you give pleasure to the person receiving the gift, but you give material help to the retailer, providing him with the cash that he requires to conduct his important distributing operations. Remember, too, that your money not only gives him his small profit (a few cents out of your dollar) but it also moves along in part to the producer, the clerks, the landlord, the advertising outlets, and others directly or indirectly involved.

Of special significance is the fact that the storekeeper's payment to the manufacturer permits him to employ more people. The manufacturer's workers tend to spend their wages at the store, thus completing the all-important cycle. When the cycle described works smoothly, the entire nation enjoys prosperous times. If the cycle breaks down at any point, business and employment decline (they are two barometers that always move together). Then, unless something is done to repair the break, we are likely to slide into a depression.

Holiday Buying, 1961
All signs thus far point to a good Christmas buying season for 1961, even though it is always possible for some last-minute occurrence to change the outlook. Readers will get my detailed "Outlooks for 1962" in this paper the

Graveside Rites For Pedro De La Garza Held Saturday

Pedro De La Garza, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Melton De La Garza, of Ballinger, passed away at birth, in Winters Municipal hospital, Friday afternoon at 2:30. The family home is 1005 15th in Ballinger.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 1:30, at Baby Land in Lakeview Cemetery in Winters. The Rev. Robert Nabelsburger, pastor of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church, officiated.

Survivors include the parents, seven brothers: Arthur, Cerja, Ralph, Rubin, George, Richard and Jose all of Ballinger; four sisters Mrs. Alesia Meralis, Mrs. Josephine Medrano, Miss Anita De La Garza all of Ballinger, and Mrs. Lupe Drana, Winters, and one grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Melindez of Winters.

last week of December. It will treat of Business, Inflation, Retail Trade, Wages, Employment, Politics, and the Stock Market. From what I see now, this forecast should indicate a Merry Christmas for you.

All sections of the country, of course, will not be equally happy this Christmas. The thousands of families in Texas and other areas which have suffered damaged and lost homes from hurricanes and floods cannot be expected to forget their losses. On the other hand, states which have been drought-ridden are rejoicing over recent rains. The weather could still be a big factor in this year's Christmas buying. In fact, we are inclined not to attach enough importance to unmovable forces such as weather, floods, epidemics, threat of war, etc.

The present rush to build fallout shelters poses another question for business. Too much talk along these lines could hurt general trade. Manufacturers may ask, "If this fallout is coming, why work so hard? Why bother?" And workers may give more thought to the problem of finding shelter than to doing their jobs or spending their Christmas bonuses. Worry about the future could conceivably have a darkening effect on the outlook for retail trade this approaching Holiday Season.

Clyde A. Wheeler, Toolpusher, Died Of Heart Attack

Clyde A. Wheeler of Abilene, an oil field worker, died Sunday afternoon while working on an oil lease east of Bradshaw. He suffered a heart attack.

He had been an employee of J. B. Drilling Co. for the past two years, having worked 10 years previously for the Lamar H. Drilling Co. Mr. Wheeler moved to Abilene from Wheeler 10 years ago.

Born June 29, 1921, at Ranger, he was a member of Elmwood Baptist Church.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 3 p. m. in Elliott's Chapel of Memories with the Rev. Morgan Thompson, pastor of Elmwood Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Elmwood Memorial Park.

IN ALL, 7,700 TOOK THE TWO PER CENT, BUT 1,300 SAID THEY WOULD WAIT AND SEE.

The current Rural Areas Development program being conducted by the USDA is an expansion and reorganization of a program started in 1955, explains W. N. Williamson, assistant director of Texas Agricultural Extension Service. A major change is the departmental reorganization, which will allow the USDA to bring all of its resources to bear on specific problems. Each USDA agency has been given definite responsibilities under the program, which has as its purpose helping local people mobilize their total resources in an overall economic development effort to improve levels of living in rural areas.

Winters Wallops Ranger 27 to 6 Friday Night

In their first conference game of the season, the Winters Blizzards met and beat the Ranger Bulldogs here Friday night, 27-6, racking up their fourth win.

The locals allowed Ranger only one touchdown, which came in the last few seconds of the game.

Winters now leads District 7-AA in conference play, with a 1-0 record.

In Friday night's game, the Blizzards got off to a good start with Denny Aldridge, 150-pound half, carrying on first call of the night for a ten yard gain, to Winters' 45. Still in their own end of the field three plays later, Quarterback Johnny Caskey punted to the Ranger 25.

The Bulldogs called on Joe Barker, halfback, for two carries, and then attempted a pass. With fourth down and 4 from their own 31, they also punted.

Winters, taking the ball on their own 40, made three first downs, moving the ball to the Ranger 20. In this drive, which took seven plays, Steve Grissom carried for 23 yards; Tommy Young for 11, and Aldridge, 6. With first down and ten from the Ranger 20, Caskey kept the ball to the 11. Grissom moved to the 7, but was hit hard, and the ball tumbled loose into the arms of Jerry Jones, Ranger tackle.

Their backs to their own goal line, the Bulldogs ran three plays for three yards, then punted to the Winters' 29.

In ten plays, with Aldridge claiming 18 yards for 4 carries; Grissom, 16 yards in four carries, and Young, 10 yards on two, the Blizzards moved to the Ranger 26. With third down and 2 needed, Tommy Young rolled off left guard for the first touchdown of the game. However, a penalty against the Blizzards nullified the play. With third and 17 needed, Young again was given the ball and moved down the field for a first down. With first and 10 Caskey pitched out to Adolpho Arroyo, who passed to Young—good for the TD, with 10:01 left in the second quarter. Caskey kicked for he extra point, as Winters went ahead of the Bulldogs 7 points. They were behind on the scoreboard. This is the third week in a row that the Blizzards have kept ahead of their opponents on the board.

The Big Blue team threatened again late in the second quarter as they moved from the Bulldog 44 to 11 in nine plays, but were held by the Ranger team to lose the ball on downs.

After the halftime activities, Ranger kicked to the Winters 44, setting up another touchdown for the Blizzards. With Tommy Alfrey quarterbacking, and Caskey in the halfback slot, left vacant by Young who was shaken up, they moved to the Ranger 27 in 11 plays. With third down and 11, from the Ranger 27, Alfrey pitched out to Caskey, who passed to Arroyo for the TD. The try for extra points, a pass from Caskey to Jerry Dunn was incomplete, and with 8:22 left in the third quarter, Winters led 13-0.

Late in the third quarter, after Ranger was forced to punt on fourth down, the Blizzards started their offensive rolling again from their own 42. A pass, Caskey to Aldridge, fell incomplete. Denny Aldridge carried for the first down on Ranger's 42. A keeper and an option were good for only two more yards. With third down and 8 from the Ranger 42, Grissom took a delayed handoff and moved 20 yards to the Ranger 22, as the third quarter ended.

The first play in the fourth quarter was by Aldridge, who carried to the 19. Grissom made three yards to the 16, and Caskey, in the HB position, went wide around left end for an 11-yard gain to the 5. With 11:07 left in the game, Caskey rolled off right guard for the TD. His try, a kick, for the extra point went wide, and Winters led 19-0.

After the after-touchdown kickoff, Ranger moved only three yards in three plays from their own 33, and punted to the Winters 26.

Dan Roberts, now playing the fullback slot, carried for 8 to the 34. Caskey finished the first down yardage with five, up to the 39. Aldridge netted 4 on two carries and Roberts, two, as again Caskey completed the needed yardage to the 48. A keeper, by Alfrey, was good for four. Caskey, back as QB, handed off to Aldridge, who passed to Arroyo for 15 yards. From the Ranger 33, Grissom moved to the 20. Caskey carried for 4. Grissom called for 5. With third down and one from the 11, Arroyo moved to the five, but again penalties plagued the Blizzards, and the ball was moved back to the 25. Caskey carried for 16 in two tries to the 9. Again Caskey was the man, down to the 6. Grissom was stopped with one, but Caskey was good with 4. With fourth down and goal, from the one, Grissom claimed the 6 points, with 1:03 left in the game. The try for extra points was a pass, Alfrey to Arroyo, and completed, giving Winters a 27-0 lead.

Taking the ball from their own 43, QB Terry Twonzen, of the Bulldogs, took to the air, shooting a long pass to the Winters 39. The pass, intended for Donald Ray Lewis, fell incomplete, but interference was ruled, giving Ranger first and ten from the Winters 39. Again Twonzen passed, this time to Johnny Wells on the Winters 4. With 17 seconds left, Barker carried for no gain, and a Townzen-Lewis pass fell incomplete. With 3 seconds left, Twonzen connected with Wells for the only Ranger TD. The try for extra points was a pass, Twonzen to Jesse Tenteria, but fell incomplete.

The game ended with Ranger kicking off to Winters, just as it had started some two hours earlier. Final score, Winters, 27, Ranger, 6.

Growth in Christian Relationships is the subject for next Sunday's Sunday School Lesson. The following is by Amos John Traver: Relationships are the fruit of attitudes. If the love of Christ possesses the heart, His way of life will find expression. Self must be dethroned and Christ enthroned before we begin to grow more Christ-like in our relationships, in our homes, in our communities, in every situation where we must get along with others. As love for Christ grows, love will grow for all for whom He lived and died and arose again. Paul's root recipe for growth in Christian relationships is "let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts."

TIPS for OUTDOORSMEN

By VERN SANFORD

If you want a barrel of fun and a boat full of fish . . . try gar fishing!

Curtis Carpenter of the Game and Fish Department joined me for an early-morning expedition on Lake Austin, on a recent weekend, seeking the wily black bass.

About three hours and no strikes later we decided that the blacks were smarter than we were.

Suddenly Curtis spied some fish breaking water on the far side of the lake, so we revved up the 25hp Gale and sped to the area.

Sure enough there was plenty of activity. But it was a school of those long-nosed gar.

"Might as well have some fun," said Curtis, as he tossed me one of the many home-made gar-tangling lures he had stowed away in the bottom of his big tackle box "just in case."

A few casts in the area and — WHAM—a three-foot-longnose grabbed the lure, spun over a few times and took off for deep water.

Five minutes later I had the saw-toothed critter alongside the boat.

"Grab the camera and take a pix of it," I yelled to Curtis.

He was just about to eye-level the camera when the subject took off like a rocket. Snap went the 10 pound line, the lure and the gar. I had loosened the drag so as to relieve the tension considerably, but not enough.

No pix. No gar.

All I had left was a Zebco rod and reel . . . and I was lucky to have them.

First move I made was to loosen the drag some more. I had learned my lesson. Then I strung the line again . . . or what was left of it . . . tied on another lure . . . and cast out for more gar.

Suddenly there was a tug on my buddy's line. "I've got a good one this time," said Curtis. And he did. Some 10 minutes later he had subdued the dread-naught and brought aboard a five-footer. It stretched from gunwale to gunwale, across the wide beam of the Boston Whaler boat.

That's when we went ashore and did some picture taking.

But what about that lure?

It was nothing but a piece of rubber-covered, white-nylon clothesline with most of the rubber removed.

Want to know how to make your own?

First buy a 50 foot roll of No. seven rubber covered nylon clothes line (cost $1.45). Be sure it's all nylon inside—no wire.

Next get a dozen No. three size snap swivels, or some double swivels with eyes large enough for the clothesline to go through.

Then obtain some fishing line or fine wire. Actually almost anything will do . . . 8 to 20 pound monofilament or 45 pound braided squidding line. Makes little difference. Get whatever you can wrap and tie easiest.

Finally buy some steel leaders, about 12 to 15-inches long.

Now you're ready to go to work.

Cut off a 20" strip of the clothesline. Run the clothesline through one eye of the swivel (or through the snap end of the snap swivel) until the swivel is in the center of the 20-inch strip of clothesline.

Bend the strip of clothesline in the center so that you have half the line (10") on each side of the swivel. Next wrap the fishing line or wire tightly around the clothesline, close to the swivel, and tie it good and tight.

This will serve to hold the swivel in position in the center of the "lure."

Final act is to trim about 8 inches of rubber off the two ends of the clothesline. Exercise great care so that you do not cut into the nylon as every strand you sever reduces the size and appeal of your lure.

Do NOT add a hook.

When you're ready to fish, attach the steel leader to your line, snap on the swivel and lure, then cast right into the middle of the school. And don't forget to loosen the drag!

Let the lure sink to the bottom, or if in deep water let it down about 10 feet. Then start a slow retrieve. Give the rod a slight twitch, ever so often, to "fluff up" the lure.

The soft, silken looking lure, as it moves slowly through the water quickly attracts the gar's attention.

When he attacks, you feel only a slight tug. Don't try to set your hook. Remember, you don't have a hook. Let the gar roll a couple of times, then you will soon get the sensation you seek.

What happens down there in the deep blue water is this. The gar gets his sharp teeth entangled in the silken threads of nylon and as he rolls over and over he wraps the nylon around his nose. Then he's had it.

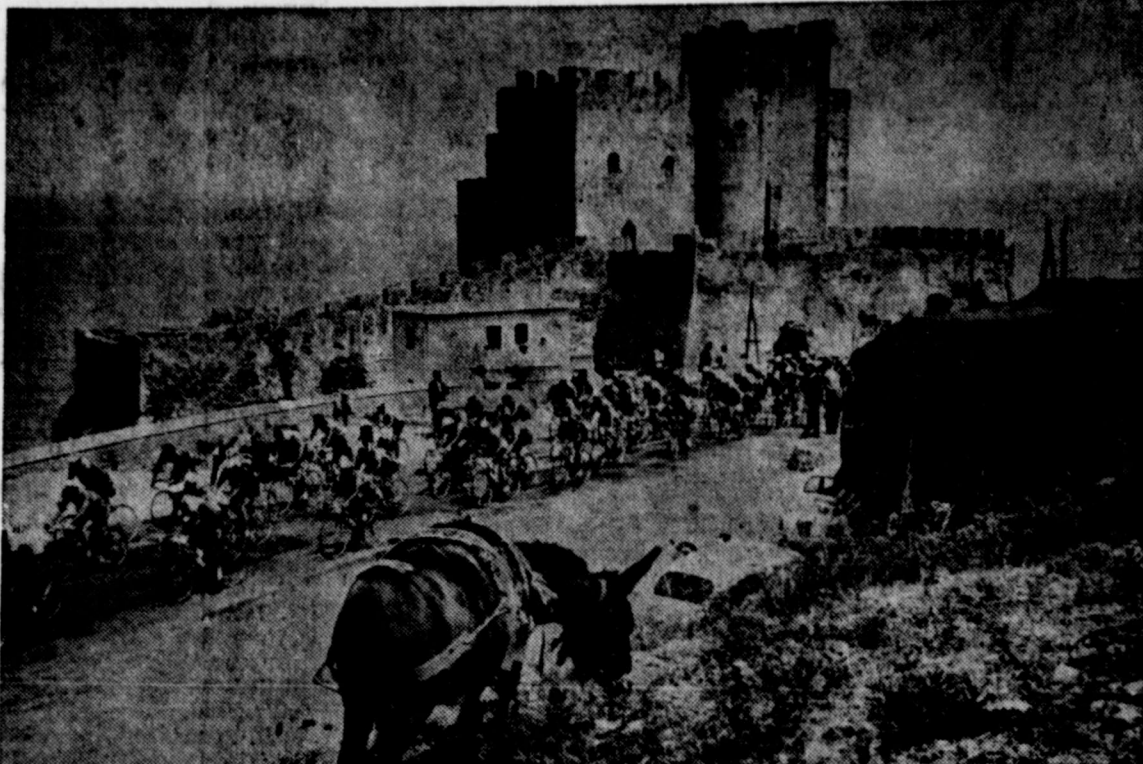

But he's not through. Not by a long shot. He won't give up willingly.

After a good battle you'll have him beside the boat, providing he hasn't broken the line, or the swivel, or the rod.

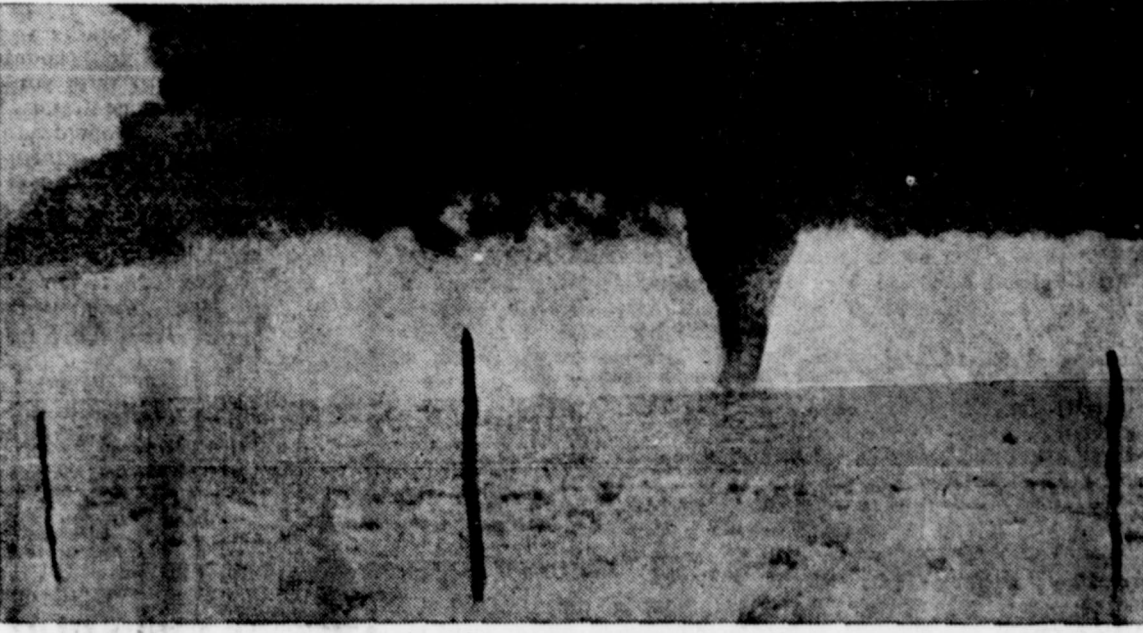

Don't swing him into the boat until you're sure you have plenty of flopping-around space. Then be mighty careful. His scales can cut like a knife. His teeth are sharp and vicious.

Above all, don't pick him up in your bare hands.

Some fishermen, with gloves on, grasp the gar's beak, if they are sure his mouth is tied tightly with the nylon. Then pull his head over the gunwale and apply a pac-

PEDAL PUSHING THROUGH TIME—Hard-riding cyclists on the "Tour of Italy" bike race classic fail to distract a mule grazing on the slope near an ancient Norman castle. The scene is at Cosenza, at the "toe" of the Italian "boot."

BIG, WILD AND DANGEROUS—This giant tornado funnel was photographed by Mrs. Bud Brown, using a Brownie box camera. The twister swept past her home in northeastern New Mexico, but did little damage in the thinly populated area.

NO VISIBLE MEANS OF SUPPORT — Bell Laboratories engineer Harold Graham becomes the first man to fly a back-pack rocket. He rose 30 feet into the air in Buffalo, N.Y., and wooshed over the ground for about the distance of a football field.

Oil Operators Form Pollution Advisory Group

Oil operators in Runnels County have formed a committee to work out oilfield salt water disposal methods in the county.
