Phone Co. Asks For Big Rate Increase

A substantial increase in rates is being sought by the Southwestern States Telephone Co. for services provided in Winters.

If granted by the city, the cost for some classes of services, as suggested by the company, would be increased by almost 38 percent.

Representatives of the company met with the Winters City Council Thursday night and made their request for the rate increases. The City took no action on the requests, but accepted the proposals for study.

Requested increases involve only local telephone service, and would not affect the cost of toll service.

The company has asked for increase in all types of service which are being provided here, which include telephone service for business and residences. One party, business, class would account for the biggest increase—an increase of $3.00 per month—while a residence extension would account for only a 15 percent increase.

Members of the City Council said that absolutely no action will be taken on this request for a rate increase until a thorough study of the situation is made. Mayor Harvey D. Jones, speaking for the council said, "Our foremost interest is the welfare of the citizens of Winters." Some members of the Council expressed the thought that "this is a big increase, and all angles of the proposal must be investigated before any action can be taken on any amount of increase."

Present and proposed rates for the different classes of services are:

- Business, one party, from $8.00 to $11.00.
- Business, two party, from $6.50 to $9.00.
- Business, extension, from $1.50 to $1.75.

Residence, one party, from $5.00 to $6.00.

Residence, two party, from $4.00 to $5.00.

Residence, four party, from $3.00 to $4.25.

Residence, extension, from $1.00 to $1.15.

All rates are monthly.

The last rate increase granted to the telephone company was effective July 16, 1956.

Representatives of the telephone company, in making their request for an increase in rates, said that since the last rate increase, "the company has continued to make improvements and to expand its facilities, and the investment continues to increase." And that the work involved in "effecting the improvements and expansion of the service was necessarily performed at price levels reflecting higher material, equipment and labor costs. It, therefore, develops that the rates and charges for telephone service authorized by the City in the prior ordinance do not produce sufficient revenues to meet the increased cost of operations and maintenance, and are inadequate to afford the company a fair and reasonable return on its present investment." The company said the rate of return amounts to 4.32 percent.

The proposed increase in rates would raise the rate of return to 7.28 percent, the company said. State statutes prescribe that a showing be made on the basis of (for such utility companies) "a fair return upon the fair value of the property used and useful in rendering its services to the public, but which return in no event shall ever exceed 8 percent per annum."

The company reports a total investment of $296,001.11 in Winters. They also report a net operating revenue for the year 1961 of $76, (Continued on page 7)

New Gulf Station Under Construction On North Main St.

Construction was begun this week on a new Gulf service station in the 100 block of North Main Street. Roy Young, owner of the present Gulf station, is building the new station.

The new station, being built on the lot immediately south of the present service station site, will be of concrete tile, and will boast of many modern conveniences, Young said. For instance, there will be three "bays," with two lifts and one wash rack, to be located on the south side of the building.

A larger merchandise display room will be included in the building, in contrast to the limited amount of space now available in the present station, Young said. The gas pumping section will have one row of six pumps, all under an awning. The driveway will be more readily accessible from the street, with plenty of parking space in the service area and also at both sides of the building.

The building proper will contain about 2200 square feet.

Wesley Wade is doing the building. The new service station is being built on the site occupied by the old City Hotel, which was torn down a few years ago.

E. Y. Buckner, Light Plant Head, Resigned Thursday

E. Y. Buckner, superintendent of the Winters Municipal Light Plant for the past 11 years, submitted his resignation to the City Council last Thursday night.

In accepting the resignation of the light plant head, the Council expressed regret at the loss. Mayor Harvey D. Jones said that he hated to see Buckner resign, adding, "He has been an effective and capable plant superintendent." Buckner did not make public his plans for the future. Mrs. Buckner is a teacher in Winters High School.

The City Council discussed the possibility of a study to change the position of plant superintendent to city engineer. The city does not have an engineer at the present time. Nothing definite was decided on this, however.

Other business discussed at last Thursday's special meeting of the City Council included opening of bids from pipe manufacturing companies. No definite action was taken concerning the purchase of pipe.

Representatives of the Southwestern States Telephone Co. also met with the council to discuss a request for a rate increase in Winters.

VFW Buddy Poppy Sale Scheduled For Saturday

The annual Buddy Poppy Sale, sponsored by the Winters post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held here Saturday, May 26, according to J. A. Henderson, post commander.

Joe Cortez is chairman for the Poppy Sale. Aiding the local post again this year will be the VFW Ladies Auxiliary, under the leadership of Mrs. J. A. Henderson, Auxiliary president.

These ladies are the backbone of our entire Buddy Poppy program," the post commander said. "They have done a consistently outstanding job of going out on the streets with the symbolic little red flowers. All the people of the community can help them to do a better job by buying and wearing a Buddy Poppy."

Approximately two-thirds of the proceeds from the Poppy sale will be used to give direct aid to all disabled and needy veterans, Cortez said. The money also aids the dependents and survivors of veterans who need funds to meet emergency. On the national scale, the Poppy proceeds are used to help maintain the VFW National Home for Orphans and Widows.

Buddy Poppies are made by disabled veterans in government hospitals.

Lloyd Woodley To Meet With Rodeo Directors Friday

Lloyd Woodley of Lampasas, who will furnish the stock for Winters 16th Annual Rodeo, will meet with members of the board of directors of the Annual Round-Up Ass'n. at 1 p. m. Friday in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Dr. H. H. McCreight, president of the Association, said that this meeting is very important to the production of this year's rodeo, and urged all directors to be present.

This year's rodeo has been scheduled for June 21, 22 and 23. It will be the sixteenth annual performance, and will be in Blizzard Stadium, as in the past.

Directors of the Association, which produces the rodeo, and others have been busy lining up extra feature attractions for this year's performance. Speciality acts will be presented, along with all the regular features of a rodeo.

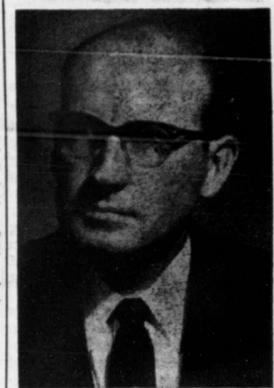

C. T. Parker, agricultural extension agent for Runnels County, will be the official rodeo announcer this year. He has had several years experience in this type of announcing, appearing at rodeos in several towns of the area, and also announcing a stock show in Fort Worth. Rodeo clowns for the three days show have been contracted, also.

The Winters rodeo, an open event catering to amateur performers, usually draws contestants from all over West Texas. It has become known as one of the biggest of its kind in the area.

They reportedly asked the federal government to dole out $2 million to help build it. When the government offered only $750,000, the idea was scrapped. Evidently, as a case of "if there ain't gon be no shell-out, why worry about the fall-out."

ROGER BABSON SAYS—

To Make "Big Money" Investor Should Put Money into New Developments

Babson Discusses "Gambling". A recent weekly column of mine has created considerable criticism. My point was that both "speculating" and placing funds for safety and income can make "big money." What I stressed was the danger of attempting to mix the two forms of "investment."

What Is Gambling?
 I am not referring to horse or dog racing—not to "betting" of any kind; but rather to buying into new ideas, new discoveries, and new scientific developments. In short, I would think that 80 per cent of your stockholdings might be in dividend-paying issues quoted in your daily paper; and 20 per cent in companies working on new scientific developments.

To make "big money" you should subscribe to such magazines as "Scientific American" or my own favorite the "Technology Review" put out by Massachusetts Institute of Technology of Cambridge, Mass. There are columns entitled "Trend of Affairs" which are especially helpful to a layman. I repeat, "big money" comes from "gambling"; and successful gambling comes from successful forecasting.

What About Drug Stocks?
 The best way is to make friends of scientists and chemists and share your profit with them. They know about the wonderful new discoveries on the horizon—such as light rays—fuel cells—harnessing gravity—and bacteria. Invite such professors for lunch; beware of timid brokers and bankers who are always advising caution.

Successful drug companies are the bit gamblers. Therefore you can invest in these companies and let them gamble for you! They are now all watching for a cancer cure. Some one of them will find the vaccine to prevent the "common cold", another will discover the bacteria which will help young people mentally. What has been done for smallpox, diphtheria, and polio, can be done for almost everything else.

Just look back a few short years and see what has already been accomplished. Over two-thirds of the prescriptions which you and your neighbors take to the drug-gist this year will be for drugs and antibiotics that were not even in existence at the end of World War II. But what I want to "shout about" is tomorrow. The ethical drug industry last year spent over $214 million for research; that was four times larger than just 10 short years ago; and the amount spent annually by the drug companies has doubled since 1956. Tomorrow's big profit "killings" lie hidden in this mass of research!

Don't Select Any One Drug Company

To my knowledge there are a dozen or more companies who are gambling the above large sums on research. Let me mention these: Abbott Laboratories, Lilly (Eli) Company, Pfizer (Chas.) & Co., Parke Davis & Co., Lederle (Division of American Cyanamid), E. H. Squibb (Division of Olin Mathieson), Smith, Kline & French Laboratories, Inc., Searle (G. D.) & Co., Schering Corp., Richardson-Merrell Inc., Merck & Co., Inc., and Sharpe & Dohme. It is impossible to know who will win the "big money"; but any reader who prefers not to "gamble" for himself can buy the shares of each of the above companies. But if you omit one, the one you omit could be the winner.

Wake Up! Look To Future Earnings, Not Only To Past Earnings!

The great discovery may not come from the human brain alone; but from the very earth upon which you are now walking, or from the cobwebs in your attic, or the bacteria in your cesspool, or from anywhere in the world—a wilderness in Borneo, a plantation in Brazil, a ranch in Kansas, a backyard in the U.S.A. From such places come thousands of soil samples that are sent to the drug research laboratories. By using new bacteria from these samples, they try to create antibiotics to combat the infectious diseases still rampant.

For example, in one year, drug scientists isolated and worked with 34,000 cultures of microorganisms. With these, they produced a few antibiotics which came excitingly close to making "big money", but none made the grade. Perhaps 34,000 to 0 seems like poor odds, but twice in recent years drug research work has beaten these odds.

Wake up! The whole thought arouses me emotionally. We know what has happened during the past 50 years; well, I believe an equal number of wonderful things will happen during the next fifty. A handful of earth may save your life and it may come from Russia, China, or India.

Babson Discusses Making Money From Ideas

So many young people seem to feel that it is necessary to have some capital or a college degree or an important relative in order to start a business of their own. This week I wish to write about some acquaintances who started with only an idea; but who, with persistence, made a great success.

Curtis Publishing Company
 My first job was with George Horace Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post. He told me that Mr. Cyrus Curtis paid $10,000 for the Post, but could raise only $100 as down payment. I saw its circulation grow to over 6,000,000 copies, and—including the Ladies' Home Journal—the Curtis Publishing Company stock sold for over $1,000,000,000.

Among the important people Mr. Lorimer sent me to interview was Thomas A. Edison. Mr. Edison told me that he had only five years of schooling and only $100 of capital when he started in business. With the help of Sydney Z. Mitchell and my cousins he built America's great electrical industry, based upon the incandescent light, the phonograph, the storage battery, etc., which Mr. Edison invented. All these came from ideas, as neither Mr. Edison nor my cousins had any money.

Other Well-Known Names

I remember interviewing John Deere, who founded the farm machinery. I also interviewed Henry Ward Jones, of the Johns-Manville Company. He became interested in asbestos, believing that it had a great future as a building material. Clarence Birdseye, founder of the great frozen-food industry, was a personal friend of mine—a Gloucester boy, and later one of the trustees of the Gravity Research Foundation in which I am much interested. He asked me to buy some of his stock, but I didn't later he sold out to General Foods for over $20,000,000. If I had bought his stock at $100 per share, I could have got $1,000,000 for each share. Bill Walker of Thermo Bottle fame, and Elisha Otis, who, with no capital and after many failures, founded the Otis Elevator Company, taught me lessons. I remember the Walter Baker story—how his family started their famous chocolate business in the kitchens at Dorchester, Mass. Charles Goodyear's idea of vulcanizing rubber was a similar "kitchen" illustration. Their only assets were a new idea and the persistence to develop it.

My father kept a drygoods store in Gloucester, Mass. Manufacturing and engineering did not interest him, though I was an MIT graduate. He urged me to go into merchandising; he would tell me the story of Rowland Macy, who started his great retail venture with a little "thread and needle" shop. Today, 175,000 shoppers a day visit Macy's in New York! His new idea consisted of elaborate window displays and original ad-

Working far Texas

Meet a fellow Texan: Preston Smith.

Preston Smith's story is in the best Texas and American tradition—a farm boy who worked his own way to an education and a place of honor in his business and community life.

Born in the heart of Texas, at Georgetown, he moved with his family to Dawson County in 1923 when he was 10 years old. He went to school at Sunset, Lamesa, and Texas Tech. In his adopted home town of Lubbock, with his wife Ima and their two children, he now carries out the full responsibilities of a typical Texas business and civic leader.

A steward at St. John's Methodist Church—member of the Salvation Army Board, the Kiwanis Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Texas Farm Bureau—these are some of the activities close to the heart of Preston Smith, citizen.

He did not stop there. In his daily pursuits Preston Smith came to realize that business and government are closely related in the American system—and that without good government we cannot have a favorable climate for good business. A man of direct action, Preston Smith went into the business of government. He served six years in the Texas House of Representatives and six in the Senate.

Senator Smith has supported sound statewide legislation for better schools, roads, welfare and conservation. He took the lead in establishing a permanent building program for state colleges. He had the integrity to support necessary state spending and the courage to oppose extravagance and waste. In government, as in business and at home, Preston Smith believes in meeting our obligations and paying our bills.

Having proved himself as one of the best-rounded, best-equipped, best-informed and most highly respected Texans in both his private and public careers, Preston Smith was a logical candidate to succeed Ben Ramsey as Lieutenant Governor of Texas.

Voters in 102 counties gave Preston the lead over his opponents in the First Democratic Primary. Now he is in the runoff. He got there without the support of any self-serving group or power bloc. His opponent has the endorsement of labor leaders and other special interests who want to dominate our state government.

Preston Smith asks only for the votes of individual Texans who want a Lieutenant Governor without any strings attached. He is depending on independent-minded Texans everywhere to vote for him on June 2.

vertising, always marking the price of goods in the window and in the advertisements. The other drygoods merchants thought this was undignified and would have nothing to do with it.

The Henry Ford Story

Mr. Ford himself told me that he was seven years in raising $1,000,000 after making his first Ford car. He had only one idea, but he stuck to it, without education or capital. However, those who invested $100 in the first Ford Motor Company stock ultimately were able to take out $1,000,000 for each $100 they invested—all from an idea and perseverance. Opposite my father's drygoods store was a "Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea" store. My father would tell me about George Hartford, who opened the first A & P. His one idea was to cut out the middleman. He went to the wharf, where the ships from China came in, and bought his tea. Then he took it to New York in a horse and cart and sold it at retail, proving it was fresher and cheaper than any tea that could be bought elsewhere. From this one idea the company now operates over 4300 stores and employs 145,000 clerks, grossing over $4,000,000,000 from tea and groceries annually.

I could tell of Mr. Patterson and his wooden cash register; Whitcomb Judson and his "crazy" zipper; Mr. Borden, who made condensed milk; Mr. Gillette and his razor; and that humble pharmacist of Atlanta, Ga., who started the Coca-Cola Co. I ought to mention Minute Maid and the frozen juice products, and John M. Fox, who last year left this company to become Vice President in charge of sales for United Fruit and "do for bananas what was done for oranges!"

Birthday Breakfast For Junior Culture Club Held Thursday

Members of the Junior Culture Club met Thursday in the home of Mrs. James Colburn for the Club's Birthday breakfast and installation of officers. Hostesses were Mesdames Colburn, Cecil Hambright, Weldon Minzenmayer, Dennis Rodgers, Bobby Rogers and L. G. Wilson.

Mrs. W. T. Billups gave the opening prayer. Mrs. James Colburn and Mrs. Weldon Minzenmayer presided at the serving table which was laid in white linen and milkglass. The centerpiece featured an arrangement of red roses and styrofoam letter GFWC. Brandy sniffers with floating red roses centered each breakfast table.

Mrs. James Hinds introduced Mrs. W. T. Billups, club mother, who conducted the installation ceremony. Using the GFWC emblem, Mrs. Billups had each new officer pin the part of the emblem which represented their duties for the coming year. In speaking to the group she said "The white band encircling the black center of our shield is symbolic of eternity. The circle has no beginning and no end. All parts are fused together to form one perfect and harmonious whole. It is our sincere hope that throughout the coming year the president, officers and members of the club will work together in one perfect circle of accomplishment".

New officers installed were Mrs. James Hinds, president; Mrs. Bobby Rogers, vice president; Mrs. Weldon Minzenmayer, secretary; Mrs. James Colburn, treasurer; Mrs. Tommy Russell, communication secretary; Mrs. B. J. Colburn, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Douglas Cole, historian.

Mrs. B. J. Colburn, retiring president, presented Mrs. Hinds with the president's gavel and thanked the members for their work and help in making this a successful club year. Mrs. Dennis Poe presented gifts from the club to Mrs. B. J. Colburn and Mrs. W. T. Billups.

Projects for the coming year were discussed and a committee was appointed to look into the possibilities of helping the public library.

Other members present were Mesdames Lynn Billups, Edward Bredemeyer, John E. McAdoo, Wendell Holmes, Jerry Ward, and Melvin Ray Williams.

Screwworm Program Results Noted

"Though we are just getting started, I believe we are now on the road toward eradication of the screwworm in the Southwest." This statement by R. L. Murphree, DeWitt county, expresses the feeling of officials of the Animal Disease Eradication Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Texas Animal Health Commission and Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation.

"I have had only one screwworm case up to mid-year," Murphree continued. "Normally I would have had 15 to 20 cases. Though part of this may be due to the winter freeze, I have found several blots or egg masses which have not hatched. They have just dried up and indicate the release of sterile flies in the area is helping now."

Gillespie County ranchman Clint Hardin, Willow Springs, described now be found a baby calf with its navel covered with screwworm eggs. It was not doctored but the eggs did not hatch. This section has been a hot spot for screwworms in the county, according to County Agent C. A. Stone.

USDA officials explain the apparent leveling off of screwworm cases in many counties during the past week is just a preview of results that will be obtained once the new 75-million-per-week sterile fly production plant at Mission goes into operation. Production has been increased to almost 30 million flies per week at the temporary facilities at Kerrville, but this has not been sufficient to do the job.

Progress of construction at the Mission plant is another reason for the favorable outlook, the officials explained. Work is ahead of schedule, and the plant should be completed by mid-June. Fly production will be underway by July 1.

Eventual eradication of this costly livestock pest will come from a combination of the release of sterile flies and work by livestock owners. Stockmen should adhere closely to good screwworm management practices to protect their herds and help reduce screwworm populations in order that maximum results can be obtained from the sterile fly releases.

"We hope that no one had the idea that there would be no screwworms in Texas this first year," commented Claude McCan, Victoria county ranchman and a member of board of trustees of the SWAHRF. "Although we have had fewer cases than in the past in many areas, it is a question of each individual stockman staying with the fight."

McCan added that they had just dehorned and castrated the third round and have had only two screwworm cases. Normally, at this time of the year, they expect 100 to 150 cases. "Since Victoria county is in real screwworm country," he said, "you could normally expect almost 100 percent infestation when working or dropping calves at this time of the year."

Every case of screwworms put out of commission now prevents thousands of cases three to five weeks later. In turn, this helps make more effective use of the limited supply of available flies and will speed up eradication, explained the officials.

Officials stressed that stockmen should now follow a regular preventive spray program using Cor-Ral or Korlan, following closely the instructions on the labels. These sprays give protection for two to three weeks.

Cattlemen in Texas are due praise for the support already given but officials of the cooperating agencies stressed that no one should let up in his responsibilities to the program now, the officials said.

These responsibilities include the regular spray program, close and frequent observation of all animals, pre-treatment of all wounds before they become infested with screwworms, early and intensive treatment of screwworm infested animals and frequent re-treatment. Also the collection of

Protect The Wood And Improve Appearance with Paint

A good paint job on exterior woodwork improves the building's appearance and protects it from the weather. Bill Smith, extension forester, says a good coat of paint can greatly increase the service life of wood used above ground.

Two of the more common types of paint are the pigmented oil type and the water-base coatings. The water-base type, for use outdoors, is a fairly recent development. It is designed to have increased moisture permeability, and when applied over special oil primer it will give good protection to wood.

A successful paint job depends on the purchase of a good grade of paint and careful adherence to the manufacturer's instructions, points out Smith. Preparation of the paint surface, mixing, prime coat application and method of application are steps that require special attention.

When painting new wood, the best wood protection and longest paint life is obtained by applying three coats, says Smith. This would call for one prime coat and two finish coats. For previously painted surfaces which are in good condition, a single application may be sufficient.

The Forest Products Department of the Texas Forest Service recommends that you select a good quality paint of the proper type for each job and paint when the temperature is between 40 and 90 degrees. You should repaint before the old coating has worn enough to expose the wood, and you should make sure the surface is completely clean and dry before painting.

Exterior woodwork pretreated with a good water repellent preservative may also be effectively painted, explains Smith. One good preservative, penta with the water repellent additive, may actually increase the efficiency of some paints. The penta should be mixed with mineral spirits and not an oil solvent, however. If pressure treating is done, the treating plant should be informed that the wood is to be paintable.

Under the sales tax law's prepayment plan, a businessman can increase his allowable discount from one to three per cent. He can do so by rendering the tax for each quarter to be reported. In other words, he can pay the tax in advance on a logical estimate.

Prepayment was conceived by the Legislature, Calvert said, as an incentive, with some consolation to the business that is forced to collect and report the tax. But today prepayment has been the most neglected section of the sales tax law.

WHY BANK AROUND

There is no necessity for "here and there" money transactions—no need to go to one part of town for one thing and some other part of town for another. This bank, sometimes known as the "financial department store," has provided, under one roof, almost every known financial service.

We make loans on liberal terms—we have a real estate loan connection in New York, the terms of which are most liberal and under certain conditions payment may be made at any time without penalty. We issue bank money orders; these evidences of transfer are sold over our counter at considerable saving, in many instances. Often our saving is considerable in the financing of automobiles — we have sufficient vault room to take care of all private papers within the area — we issue Travelers Cheques, the kind which are self identifying at a nominal cost — a convenient and safe method of carrying money, or its equivalent, when traveling abroad or in this country.

Yes, with one stop every known financial need may be taken care of here in our bank. If you have not tried our service within recent years you may be surprised to find, by personal contact, all the things this bank has provided for the convenience, the comfort and the safety of those who favor us with their business.

$48 Billion Voted By Congress For National Defense

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

Disarmament is a subject of current discussion on many fronts. For years our government and our allies have conferred with the Communists at Geneva and elsewhere about a reduction in the arms race. No progress has been made because the Russians have steadfastly refused to agree on a definite plan which would entail inspection to insure conformity with any mutual agreement.

It has been evident, of course, that the Soviets have never acted in good faith in such meetings, and there is no reason to anticipate that their attitude will change in the foreseeable future. That was well illustrated last year when, even during the time disarmament talks were going on, they suddenly announced the unilateral resumption of nuclear tests—a direct violation of an existing agreement.

The policy of our government for years has been against any sort of unilateral disarming on our part. That has been the attitude in the Congress. As evidence of the thinking of the Congress on the subject of armaments, only recently the House passed a bill, unanimously, to substantially increase funds for national defense. An all-time peacetime high figure of $48 billion was voted, for the next fiscal year.

Last year the Congress approved an Arms Control Act, designed to strengthen our negotiators at such conferences by coordinating all information pertaining to weapons, and providing a research program that should enable our representatives at such talks to more fully protect our interests that might otherwise conceivably suffer from any lack of technical information in this age of science and technological advances.

Any plan for international disarming is unthinkable unless made in good faith, with appropriate inspection privileges to see to it that any agreement is fully complied with. There appears no likelihood that such an agreement will be forthcoming.

Seven years of progress in the fields of missiles, rockets and spacecraft is depicted in a most dramatic fashion in a 20 minute 16mm. film recently prepared by the Air Force. It is undoubtedly the best film ever assembled on this subject. I have borrowed one of the films and will be pleased to send it to any clubs or groups that are interested in showing it.

natural backgrounds which have the authentic look of the very lands terrorized by Geronimo's declaration of war against those he felt had robbed the Indian of land and dignity.

The locale used for filming Geronimo's war was Durango, Mexico, not far from the sites where the actual combat took place. In order to reach the picturesque locations, which have never been used for a previous motion picture, a number of engineering accomplishments were necessary.

Two bridges had to be constructed, 18 miles of roads needed to be built or repaired, and a man-made lake was designed and created.

Appearing with Connors in "Geronimo" are Pat Conway, Adam West, Armando Silvestre, Lawrence Dobkin, John Anderson, E-nid Jaynes and Ross Martin. An exotic new screen beauty is introduced in the film, which was produced and directed by Arnold Laven. She is Kamala Devi, who is seen as the woman who becomes Geronimo's wife.

Even if you can trace your ancestry back 300 years, you probably don't know where your children were last night.

He is accompanied by three men and two women unaccustomed to jungle life. They are pursued and constantly harassed by the criminal's killer father and equally murderous two brothers, who are determined to affect their kinsman's release even if they have to slaughter Tarzan and all his companions to do so. "The Sergeant Was A Lady" Off the launching pads will come the laugh-rocket of the year when "The Sergeant Was A Lady" shows Friday and Saturday on the screen of the State Theatre.

This unusual service comedy should have uproarious appeal to former G.I.s who had unfulfilled dreams of such a situation when they were in the military forces—as this is the story of one handsome G.I. who gets stationed on a lonely Pacific missile base with several hundred Wacs, while the Pentagon blows its stack!

Headlining the cast in "The Sergeant Was A Lady" are Martin West, Venetia Stevenson and Bill Williams. Blonde and beautiful Miss Stevenson is cast in the title role.

"Geronimo" The heroic and stirring story of one of American history's greatest Indian leaders is "Geronimo," the Laven-Gardner-Levy presentation, filmed in Panavision and Technicolor, a United Artists release showing Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre. Appearing in the title role is the popular television star, Chuck Connors.

The swift-paced action of "Geronimo" has been filmed against
