Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

January marks the beginning of the ninth year for the Winters Library. As a special anniversary offer, and as an invitation to everyone who has not been taking advantage of what the library has to offer, special memberships are being offered this month.

Ordinarily, a family membership is $2.00 a year. However, during the month of January, a special rate of $1.50 per family for a year's membership is being offered.

From a lowly beginning in the City Hall building on North Church Street, where during rainy weather tarpaulins were spread over the few books to keep out water, the Winters Library has grown until at present there are 3,681 volumes on the shelves. Last year, a total of 8,385 books were checked out. Last summer children in the Winters area attended the vacation reading club sponsored jointly by the State Library, and 61 of them received reading certificates.

This phenomenal growth of the library has not been by accident, but by design. It is largely the result of determination and hard work on the part of Miss Myra Hoover, who, in the beginning, was aided by many that it would be impossible to build a library from nothing. She did not realize that it was impossible, however, and today this community is all the richer because of her efforts.

Several organizations, including the Junior Culture Club, the Jaycee-Ettes, Diversity Club, Literary and Service Club, Home Demonstration Club, the Lions Club, and the VFW and VFW Auxiliary have stepped in and given assistance in many ways, extending financial aid and purchasing books for the shelves. Many individuals donate books to the library, also.

Recently, when informed that there was a great need for a check-out desk for the library, employees of the Winters Manufacturing Co. set about to remedy the situation. On their own time, using facilities of the company, they built a steel check-out desk. There is talk of trying to build more desks for the many volumes being accumulated.

One handicap facing the library is lack of suitable space, and a desirable location. There is need for more shelf space, which is not available in the American Legion building where the library is now located. What is needed is a central location, close to traffic so that more people will become aware of its existence and take advantage of it. There are locations in Winters which would be ideal; that is needed is the step in the right direction, and a combining of effort on the part of a few people.

There has been much talk of late regarding the need for a "cultural growth" of this country. Hundred-dollar-a-plate dinners have been held, with proceeds to be used to help finance what will be called "cultural centers." Millions of dollars are being asked to build these centers in such locations as Washington, D. C. Perhaps this is good, but we can't seem to grasp the idea that a multi-million dollar project hundreds of miles away from most of the people of the country is going to make any great gain in that direction. And, after all, we don't believe that the spending of millions of dollars is going to buy very much "culture."

Far better, it is believed, is the "grass roots" approach . . . as much as we dislike using that overworked phrase. Give the people an opportunity to read . . . to find the information they are seeking . . . and you won't have to go to search for "culture." A good place to begin, locally, is at the Winters Library.

The Winters Volunteer Fire Department is about the only organization we know of that could give us attendance. At the meeting Tuesday night, during which the annual election of officers was held, every member of the department was present.

During the past 12-15 years, according to Fire Chief Marvin Bedford, the department has realized an average of about 80 percent in attendance.

Good Weather Helped Attendance At FFA-4-H Livestock Show Saturday

The annual Winters FFA-4-H Livestock Show Saturday has been termed a success by promoters and exhibitors. Encouraged by good weather, a large crowd of visitors turned out for the event, held in the Winters school livestock barns.

Richard Schwartz, 10, a member of the Winters 4-H Club, showed a 200-pound Hampshire barrow to the grand championship of the swine division. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schwartz, and fed under the supervision of C. T. Parker Jr., Runnels County agricultural agent.

The grand champion crossbred lamb of the fat lamb division of the show was exhibited by Randall Sprinkle, 15. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sprinkle of Winters, and a second-year vocational agriculture student and member of the Winters Chapter FFA. He fed under the supervision of Lon McDonald, Winters VA teacher, and also won the lamb showmanship award.

Champion finewool lamb, a Southdown, was shown by Bob Colburn, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Colburn. He is a 4-H Club member, in his third year of lamb feeding. His lamb was bred by Bobby Penny, one of Winters' all-time great lamb feeders as a 4-H and FFA boy, now in the sheep raising business.

The grand champion trio of lambs was exhibited by Eugene and Johnny Mathis, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Mathis. They are VA students, and Eugene is vice president of Area IV FFA.

The hog showmanship award was won by Rickey Boles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Boles. He exhibited three hogs in the show.

In the swine division, all breeds gilts, Robert Lehman exhibited the champion and reserve champion gilt.

Jerry Mills exhibited the reserve champion trio of sheep in the lamb division.

a group of lambs for members of the FFA, and McDonald bought it. Cindy raised it on a bottle, and won a fifth place in the Southdown class.

Monte Griffin, swine breeder at Lamesa, was judge of the swine division. Douglas Colburn was superintendent, assisted by Willie Green, FFA member.

The lamb show was judged by Edwin DuBoise of San Angelo College.

Following are results of the show:

Important Meeting Of Booster Club Next Monday Night

The Winters Booster Club will meet at Pierce's Cafeteria at 7:30 next Monday night.

An interesting and important program has been planned for the meeting, spokesmen of the club announced.

School Athletic Fund Coffers Filled To Overflowing By Winning '62 Team

In addition to bringing much prestige and publicity to the Winters High School and to Winters, the high school Blizzard football team for 1962 has succeeded in placing the athletic fund in a much more favorable financial position.

Even though the Winters school's share of gate receipts for football games during the regular 10-game season were far above the receipts of former years, receipts for the four extra games played by the team this year almost doubled that of the regular season.

According to figures released by school authorities this week, Winters school's share of gate receipts for the regular season totaled $8,833.22. The four extra games this year added another $16,973.37, bringing the total for 1962 to $25,806.59, far above that of any previous year in the history of the school.

Winters' share of gate receipts for the Winters-Ballinger game amounted to $1,814.65, the biggest gate for the regular season. After the team went into the playoffs, gate receipts increased until the semi-final game with Jacksboro, when a total of $7,260.60 was received by the Winters school as its share of the $16,082.75 gate. James B. Nevins, superintendent of Winters schools, said that "until 1961 and 1962, the athletic fund deficit has varied between $2,000 and $4,000 per year for all sports played." This deficit has been apparent since 1952 until 1961, he pointed out.

Supt. Nevins said that all financial receipts and disbursements for all athletic events are carried in a separate athletic fund and audited annually during the regular school audit. The athletic annual budget is usually between $10,000 and $14,000 per year, he said. The average year will take receipts from one football game to pay insurance premiums alone, and other equipment, laundry, traveling expense and other incidental expenses remain constant during regular play, he said.

In discussing the athletic budget, Supt. Nevins said that expenses for lights, water, fertilizer, maintenance of athletic fields, additions to stands, and painting of stands and facilities are financed outside the athletic budget, with the money coming from the school maintenance fund.

The athletic fund includes all sports for all grades with football receipts carrying the major part of expense for other sports, school authorities said.

In comparing the figures for the many games during the past several years, it must be noted that Winters' share for each year or game does not equal half of the total receipts, it was pointed out. This is due to the added expenses accumulated at home games, it was explained.

Gate receipts for football games since 1954 are shown in the following tabulation, with the total money received and Winters' share:

	Total Rec'd.	Winters' Share
1954	$13,103.73	$ 5,979.03
1955	11,023.00	5,001.18

Auditor's Report Shows City Business In Good Condition

Continued improvement in accounting and administrative procedures and in the financial picture of the City of Winters is reflected in the recently released Report of Audit issued by the firm of Cherry, Eckert and Story, certified public accountants of San Angelo, who made the audit for the year ended Sept. 30, 1962.

Many discrepancies which had been pointed out in audit reports of previous years apparently have been corrected, inasmuch as they did not again appear in this last report.

Examples of the few discrepancies which were found in accounting procedures, and recommendations regarding corrections, included: "Periodically, the accounts receivable should be examined and uncollectible accounts should be charged off by appropriate action of the Council." (Mayor Harvey D. Jones said that accounting procedures used by the City of Winters, and cooperation on the part of all City employees have contributed greatly to the continued improvement of City business.

Financially, the City ended the year Sept. 30, 1962, in better financial condition than for the same period ending Sept. 30, 1961. (should be corrected). In their comments regarding the annual audit, auditors pointed out that "utility revenue bond covenant requirements concerning reserve funds to be accumulated and held have been met as to the total requirements of these reserve funds." Mayor Jones said that these requirements mean that the City must have on hand money enough to pay the current bond requirements and interest, plus money enough for two additional years. He said that to his knowledge, and from all evidence which can be gathered, this is the first time that this condition has been met. Bond covenant requirements also permit the reserve funds to be invested in "direct obligations of the U. S. Government." Earnings of the utility funds on investments during the year reported on totaled $1,286.16. Other invested funds of the City of Winters totaled $2,557.58.

Mayor Jones said that accounting procedures used by the City of Winters, and cooperation on the part of all City employees have contributed greatly to the continued improvement of City business.

ment of revenue and expenses, for last year, the report shows an excess of revenue over expenses in the amount of $91,662.73. For the same period ending Sept. 30, 1961, the report showed an excess of revenue over expenses of $74,801.03. Higher and higher bond and interest payments, however, require that this increase continue, it was pointed out by Mayor Jones. Where principal payments alone require $36,000.00 for fiscal year 1963, for all departments, this requirement will be increased to $55,000.00 within a few years. This makes necessary an increase in the accumulated monies, in order to meet future requirements, it was stressed.

Revenue from ad valorem taxes for the year ending Sept. 30, 1962, was increased by $11,016.88 over that of the previous year. Ad valorem taxes for the year ending Sept. 30, 1961 totaled $37,461.10; for the following year, $48,461.10. This increase is attributable to an increase in building and addition of taxable property, collection of delinquent taxes in some instances, and a "better collection year," officials said. Several other items in the general fund also increased, to build the total receipts higher than in the previous year. (Continued on last page)

From the Files of the Winters Enterprise

30 YEARS AGO

January 13, 1933

A hearing for the men who held up the Wingate Bank in 1932 was set for that week in Ballinger.

For the months, January and February, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation allotted Winters and Ballinger $3,000 as an aide to unemployment in 1933. Street work was being done by the men employed under this plan.

The Chamber of Commerce banquet was set for January 24 of that year. Speakers and entertainment planned for the night were to be a surprise and were not announced until that night.

Winters was advertised over a San Angelo Radio Station, KGKL, that week. John Q. McAdams and Lanham Brown were in charge of the 15 minute program. It was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Firemen held their annual meeting that week and selected their new officers. John W. Norman was selected president, and Frank Williams, Chief.

A United Service in the interest of the 18th amendment and Christian Sobriety was held in the Methodist Church that Sunday. Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne College, was the speaker.

An unusual story in our paper then was one of a small town wishing to be a principality within a state. The town was Kristendstad, located on the border of Hood and Johnson Counties in Texas. They were self supporting, including food and clothing. I wonder how it turned out?

First regular meeting of the year by the firemen was held that week. J. S. Bourn was named president.

A special service was held at the Methodist Church honoring the football team, pep squad and high school band that week. The entire service was devoted to music and a special sermon by the Rev. C. H. Cole.

Ralph Burns announced he would run for Precinct 3 Commissioner that week.

Winters Hatchery and Feed Store, was opened that week for business. It was located on West Dale. Joe V. Hinds and D. J. Kirkham were the owners of the store.

A music aptitude test was to be given in the schools here. It was to find students who had musical talent so they would be able to work and develop this natural gift.

Fifty new books were given to the Winters Free Library in 1938. Date for the vocational agricultural project show and rodeo was set for February 18 and 19.

Walter Lee Will announced that he would run for Commissioner of Precinct 2 in 1938.

The annual football banquet was held that night at the Methodist Church. Gerald Mann was the speaker for the affair.

Surgical dressing classes, sponsored by the Red Cross, started that week in 1943. They had an order for 16,200 sponges and dressings to be shipped by Jan. 25. Twenty new workers registered that week.

High school first aid classes gave a demonstration for the Lions that week.

Seventy-seven men got a call for the military service Jan. 25. This notice was released by the Runnels County Selective Service Board.

The rationing board made an announcement that only a few more days were left to apply for more mileage.

The Band Mothers were sponsoring a contest that year, open to any member of the Junior or Senior band. They would be judged on many points other than the music played. A beautiful trophy was to be awarded the winner.

Dedication services for the Presbyterian Church were set for Sunday January 24 that week in 1943. The speaker and program were to be announced at a later date.

Salesmanship One Of Most Important Jobs In American Business Setup

Babson Discusses Selling

I was amazed, and even shocked, the other day when I saw the results of a survey of college students and their job preferences. Of those polled who had made a definite decision, only 5 per cent intended to take up selling as a vocation. Worse yet, many of the students made it clear that they looked down upon salesmanship as an inferior occupation, and some even felt that it is hardly "decent".

Salesmen Are Today's VIP's

Few seemed to realize that there are vast areas of sales activity besides counter clerking and door-to-door canvassing. Most of these youngsters would be astonished if they knew that those salesmen who call at their homes to sell life insurance, books, household goods, etc., comprise only about 1 per cent of the total sales force of this country. The great mass of salesmen—the other 98 percent—are selling to the nation's millions of retailers and corporations. These people are kingpins in our free economy and, along with those who sell advertising, they create and sustain enough new wants to keep our economy in high gear. The salesman is a mighty powerful person.

It should be made clear to our young high school and college students that sales work has a special appeal to those with persistence and ambition, because their earnings will be in direct proportion to ability and hard work. An experienced salesman gets a tremendous kick out of his job because he realizes that everybody's standard of living can be raised by his efforts. He also learns that if only a thousand customers buy a product, without salesmanship, it may cost $10; but that, with imaginative selling and the consequent mass production, the consumer may get the same article for perhaps $2, or even less.

Answer To Overproduction

One of the major fears of business right now is overproduction. The naturally, the Number One problem is how to dispose of the enormous volume of both heavy and consumer items our industrial complex is capable of turning out. The answer is live-wire salesmen. I am not referring to the few get-rich-quick bony who only want to make a fast buck. They are here today and gone tomorrow. I do mean those talented salesmen who learn how to get close to a prospect, how to gain his confidence, and how to give him real service. It is such men—and women too—who make up the great and important backbone of our merchandising empire.

A top-notch salesman has the true spirit of a missionary,—boundless courage, complete honesty, unlimited energy, firmness, and outstanding adaptability. The good salesman must be able to rise above extreme frustration, to organize his own work program, and to operate under relentless pressure. No salesman is a clock watcher; he only wishes his working day were a bit longer. In view of the wonderful qualities that a good salesman must have, you can't blame me for being shocked that only 5 per cent of the college youngsters in that survey seriously considered this glamorous field in their job preferences.

Sales Incomes Exceptionally Good

Whether a young man begins as a manufacturer's representative, wholesale marketer, specialty salesman, sales engineer, or retail merchandiser, his opportunities will be exactly what he makes them. If he is a good worker, he will probably want to work on commission. Then it will be entirely up to him whether he makes $1 a week or $250. Whatever the starting guarantees offered to college seniors, the average after five years is about $8,000. The average in sales management ranges between $12,000 and $15,000 in middle-sized companies, with some earnings reaching well above that level.

Salesmen as a group need no labor unions, since their hours and their earnings are dependent upon their own ambition. Young people should be aware, however, of the fact that salesmen are often the ones who work up to the top executive posts. Looking ahead over the next decade, I believe that an enterprising young man entering the sales field at this time will have an excellent chance to get ahead rapidly, and at the same time to make an all-important contribution to our economy.

Lee Davis Died In Big Spring Hospital From Stroke Dec. 13

Robert Lee Davis, 76, retired automobile dealer and a long-time resident of Winters, died Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Big Spring Veterans Hospital. He suffered a stroke on December 13, was taken to the Winters Hospital and later transferred to Big Spring.

Funeral services were held in the Spill Memorial Chapel Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with the Rev. Edgar Graham, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment was in Fairview Cemetery.

Mr. Davis was born September 13, 1886 in Whitewright. As a child he moved with his parents to Hunt County and in 1904, he moved to Winters. He was a Ford dealer for several years prior to World War I.

He served in the Army almost a year and after discharge he returned to Winters and bought the Nash franchise. For the past 20 years he had been working for the Loyd Wilkerson Domino Hall.

Mr. Davis was a member of the American Legion Post here and had served as Post Commander for several years prior to World War I.

Survivors include one brother, Eual C. Davis of Houston and two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Dry of Winters and Mrs. Mattie Harville of Los Angeles, California.

Pallbearers were Bill Robinson, W. E. Waggoner, Wesley Hays, Herman Baker, Dr. Z. I. Hale and Harvey Dale Jones.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to our friends and neighbors for all the kindness shown us during the illness and at the death of our loved one, Le Davis. For the food and ladies who served it, the lovely floral arrangements, the entire hospital staff, Dr. C. T. Rives, to Rev. Graham and Spill Funeral Home for their kindness, we are grateful. Your friendship made it easier to bear. May we be a comforting friend to lend a hand when sorrow comes your way. Mrs. W. A. Dry and family, Mrs. Max Howell and Faye, Mr. and Mrs. Eual Davis and family. ltp

Our heartfelt thanks to all who extended comforting sympathy and help in our recent sorrow. For the beautiful service, floral offerings, and other kindnesses, we are deeply grateful. May God bless each of you in our prayer. Mrs. F. E. Krempin and family. ltp

Nancy Janel Gerhart, Morris Dan Brown Married At Methodist Church

Marriage vows were recited at the First Methodist Church Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock uniting Miss Nancy Janel Gerhart and Morris Dan Brown. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Gerhart and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Brown.

The Rev. W. Cecil Taylor of Belton, officiated for the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with branched candelabra holding cathedral tapers to form the background with baskets of white gladiolus at either side.

Mrs. Tommy Russell, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Deanna Kozelsky, soloist.

Candlelighters were the ushers, Johnny Hopper and Lyndon McBeth. Groomsmen were Neil Brown, brother of the groom and Jimmy Simpson. Best man was J. W. Aley.

Lisenell Brown, cousin of the groom, was flower girl and ring bearer, was James Ernest Brown, cousin of the groom.

Maid of honor was Sandra Cowan of Abilene and the bridesmaids were Judy Smith, cousin of the groom and Ginger Gerhart, sister of the bride. The attendants wore identical dresses of blue nylon satin, fashioned with fitted bodices, round neckline and three-quarter length sleeves and full pleated street-length skirts. Their hats were circular net with large bow at the back, matching the dresses, and their accessories were white. They carried Colonial bouquets of white carnations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length bridal gown of white lace and taffeta, designed with fitted lace bodice, square neckline featuring scallops in front and back and long sleeves. The full gathered skirt was styled with alternate panels of lace and taffeta. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown studded with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations atop a white Bible belonging to her sister, Mrs. Wesley Sanders.

For traveling the bride changed to a two-piece blue wool suit with slim skirt and boxy jacket. She wore a small beige hat and beige accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Winters High School and is employed by the City of Winters. The groom is also a graduate of Winters High School and is engaged in farming.

A reception was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Don Roach of Austin, ladeled punch, Miss Kleta Gerhart of Houston served the cake, and Mrs. Wesley Sanders of Abilene, assisted in serving. Janel Brown, sister of the groom, registered the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will make their home at 912 State Street.

meets-West romances of our time, "The World of Suzie Wong," comes to the screen of the State Theatre Wednesday and Thursday as a major Technicolor film starring William Holden and introducing Nancy Kwan.

A tremendous best-seller as a novel, Richard Mason's story of a Hong Kong beauty and her love for an American artist was later translated into a hit Broadway stage play by Paul Osborn. Following a record-breaking run of close to two years, the property was assigned by producer Ray Stark to Pulitzer Prize-winner John Patrick to be adapted to the screen.

Right from the beginning, producer Stark was sure of 2 things: William Holden had to play the handsome young artist and production had to be done on location in Hong Kong, scene of the story.

Because there had been no mention in the contract, of a cornerstone for the Texas State Capitol, Gus Wilke, the contractor, paid for it out of his own pocket.

Don't know how it is out your way, but fishermen on Lake Austin are having a ball. Chances are that what's happening elsewhere, too.

Don't have to put in much time either. You fish for a couple of hours and that's it. You either fill your stringer or come back empty handed. No use devoting any more time to angling than that, 'cause they just aren't biting before 4:00 a. m., or after 6 p. m.

We're speaking, of course, of those big, lunker-size bass. That's the kind they're bringing in, too.

Get to the lake about an hour before daybreak and you may land a "Lulu" well before dawn. But more than likely, you'll latch onto your best bass just as daylight comes. Sometimes you'll take a good one within an hour after daybreak.

From then on, however, it'll be a dry run—so you may as well go home. And that's what Austin anglers do.

Favorite lure? They're hitting black topwaters, such as the Jitterbug, 'til dawn. Then a silver-colored topwater—either a Jitterbug or a Heddon Spook, after the light begins to show.

Some results have been achieved with jigs, especially the flipper type, like the Extractor.

Right now the greatest success is with topwater-lures. How do they work them? In the first place, fishing is from a boat, usually a 14 foot aluminum or fiber glass. Generally it's equipped with a 25 or 35 h.p. outboard—to get to the "spot" in a hurry.

Once on location, the big motor is stopped and an electric trolling motor takes over.

Casting is done in almost total darkness, of course to a spot as close to the bank or the edge of the moss as possible. Lure is allowed to rest four or five seconds then started on its wiggly, gurgly way to the boat.

Strikes usually occur just as the lure goes into action.

Man, there's nothing more exciting or surprising than a big black bass hitting a top-water-lure in the pitch darkness of night. And that thrill lasts until you net him safely into the boat.

Without a quiet running, smooth a boat's speed immeasurably. But bottom-fouling of boats occurs in fresh water, too.

Engineers at Johnson Motors found that a 16-foot boat with a 40 h.p. motor lost almost 10 mph of its normal speed and would not plane with a six man load after only 30 days storage in a boat stall.

Cause was simply the normal fresh water scum accumulation. Performance was restored after the hull was thoroughly cleaned.

To stop bottom-fouling you must thoroughly clean the bottom of the boat. Sometimes it's a tough job. If the scum is thick, try using a Chore-girl or some fine-wire mesh cleaner such as you'll find in Mama's kitchen.

Betcha many motors have undergone a tune-up or over-haul when a simple wash job or bottom scrubbing might have sufficed.

It's not often that sinkers make news. But the Water Gremlin Co. of White Bear Lake, Minn., has fractured the sinker market with an outstanding new development.

They are making "Rubbercor" shot and sinkers, specifically designed for monofilament line.

Inside is a hard rubber insert. When you want to add weight to your line, simply lay the line in the groove in the sinker and twist the rubber insert. This automatically centers the line into the lead weight, and holds it firmly.

There's no biting, pinching, tying, lead cutting or tooth busting and best of all, no damage to the line.

For the Cowman—

At last the rewarding moment has arrived for the cowman . . . the care given the mother cow has paid off!
From now until calving time is a critical period for the cow. She is not only maintaining her own body, but building the unborn calf, too.

Results on range are harder to measure than in the feedlot — but just as important. In the feedlot daily gains can be weighed — cost of gain determined.

Purina Dealers have demonstrated Purina's superiority in the feedlot with public feeding demonstrations. The same research formulates Purina Range Checkers — and for the same reason — results. From now until calving time feed Purina Range Checkers. Don't be misled by "chin music" and cheap prices.

Get Purina Range Checkers NOW at our store with the Checkerboard Sign . . . prove to yourself Purina feeding can cost you less!

Gov.-Elect Connally Picks Men To Fill Key Spots In His Administration

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association
Governor-elect John Connally has picked seven men to fill key appointments in his administration. Oldest of the seven is Crawford Martin of Hillsboro, who will be Secretary of State. And he is only a year older than the 44-old future governor.

Youngest appointee, 27-year-old Larry Temple of Austin, will be an administrative assistant. Teamed with Temple are 32-year-old Bill Fowler of Dallas, 38-year-old Frank Miskell of Austin, and 34-year-old Scott P. Sayers of Fort Worth.

Howard Rose, 32-year-old Midland attorney, will be Connally's executive assistant. Bill Cobb, 38, will be budget director. He's an Austinite.

Two of the appointees are carryovers from the Daniel administration, to some degree. Martin served as state senator from Hillsboro for 14 years—through 1962. Cobb was chief examiner for the Legislative Budget Board from 1951 until 1962, when he became assistant executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission.

Fowler, Miskell and Sayers worked on Connally's staff while he was campaigning for governor.

BOARD REPLACEMENTS ANNOUNCED

Governor Price Daniel made numerous gubernatorial appointments at term's end. He has stated he will make no more appointments unless death creates a vacancy.

He named Milton Potts of Livingston, manager of the Sam Houston Electric Cooperative for the past 22 years, to the Texas Water Development Board, and he reappointed Marvin Shurbet of Petersburg to that board.

Daniel also appointed: Dan Melton, Lufkin insurance man, to the Neches River Conservation District board; Fred Mercer of Silvertown and Arville Setliff of Turkey to the Upper Red River Flood Control board.

Jack Douthit of Sterling City, Dale Leddy of San Angelo and L. T. Youngblood of Bronte were reappointed to the Upper Colorado River Authority; J. W. Mullins of Coleman and Isaac S. Pate of Voss were named to the Central Colorado River Authority, and O. L. Cheaney of Santa Anna reappointed.

Mrs. James P. Hart of Austin (wife of the former chancellor of the University of Texas), W. R. Beaumier of Lufkin, and Vann M. Kennedy of Corpus Christi were named to the Texas State Historical Survey Committee.

gram, initiated last January, cost an estimated $12,000,000. The federal government was to pay $6,000,000, the livestock producers, $3,000,000, and the State $3,000,000. But so far the farmers and ranchers have donated only $2,000,000.

Scruggs said, "The plan was based on 100 per cent participation, and this has not been the case, although there have been commendable contributions in a few of the counties."

ECONOMIC HEALTH
Texas Bank Deposits are continuing to set records almost everywhere.

A survey of major cities was made after the state banking commissioner and the U. S. comptroller ordered condition reports as of December 28.

The December 28 date caught many banks by surprise. They were anticipating the call date to be December 31.

Some bankers said the difference in dates prevented them from reporting even higher figures. Last day of the year usually is a high mark for bank deposits.

TARGET FOR NEW AG
Texas' new attorney general has pledged a positive campaign against juvenile delinquency as one of his major projects.

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr addressed an overflow crowd at his swearing-in ceremonies in the Courts Building.

He said that delinquency is neither normal nor universal among our juveniles. "On the contrary, a respect for the law is far more common among young people than is disreputable," Carr stated.

Carr also pledged to "continue vigorously" investigations begun by his predecessor, Will Wilson, into the East Texas slant-hole oil well scandal and the Billie Sol Estes case.

Although pledging no encroachment on local responsibility, Carr warned that in any instance where local officials "fail in their trust to this state," he will not hesitate to step in "to correct the situation within the boundaries of power and authority."

TAX TAKE GROWS
Receipts from sales of cigarette, liquor and wine stamp sales totaled $8,414,358 during December,

State Treasurer Jesse James reports. Receipts totaled $7,300,000 cigarette stamp sales; $1,000,000 from liquor stamp sales; and $414 from wine stamp sales. December, 1961, receipts totaled $7,925,997.

CARR NAMES AIDE
Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr named Albert Jones of Austin as his first assistant.

The University of Texas professor has been directed by Carr to completely reorganize the attorney general's office. Carr said he has asked Jones to head up the reorganization "in order to secure the utmost efficiency in its operation."

Carr noted that Jones, a Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers and a former president of the Texas State Bar, will give the office the services of an outstanding and prominent trial lawyer.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By Vern Sanford

Although the horsepower race isn't over, it has slowed a bit.

This was evident to those attending the International Marine Show held in Fort Worth recently for dealers and members of the press.

During this unveiling of 1963 equipment we found more things of interest than just horsepower ratings. We found that prices were coming down. Many of the boats, similar to those in last year's show, were down 10 to 25 percent.

Apparently this is due to more than just plain economics. It is largely due to the changing pattern of buyers.

There were plenty of big boats on the show this year. But there were a great many more smaller boats. Practically all the major manufacturers in the south, and some of the others, were there with prams, john boats and ordinary 14-foot fishing boats.

Another trend seems to be toward the comfortable family boat. Large boats with big pontoons and the water and a fringed top ahead for protection against sun drew the most interest. Without a doubt you'll see more boats on every lake during the coming year that are moving slowly but with more comfort.

Even the fast boats are indicative of more comfort. Seats are better and the boats will take the high water with greater ease.

Most of the motors were pretty much the same, except for minor improvements. Every year it appears possible to make a better motor, but manufacturers continue their improvements. Certainly there never has been a better motor than those you'll see in '63.

The manufacturers' reps talked a lot of the trend. A representative of one of the largest firms commented at length about his company's attitude.

"In recent years we went all out for fast motors for fast boats," he said. "People were willing to pay the price. Many thought nothing of making the down payment signing a note for $2,000 for boat and motor. There still are many in that class."

"However, today we find the majority just as happy with a complete rig in the $1,500 class."

"Then there is the family group. They want pontoon boats, with ordinary horse-power, to move them slowly about the lakes."

"Still another group is that fast moving crowd that's interested in the bottom or john boats for fishing, or even just for fun."

Great many new aluminum boats are being readied for '63. In the past there had been a definite turn from aluminum to fiberglass. There still are many fiberglass boats. But you're going to see more good aluminum boats the water next year. There will be big ones and little ones, lots of them of the lapstrake design.

Boats are being made simpler and safer. It is pretty difficult to find a boat without adequate flotation. Boatmen generally are more safety conscious. They take on an ample number of life preservers.

This undoubtedly accounts for the fact that fatalities in boating are low by comparison with highway motoring. But both are high than necessary.

Also at the show were a number of new designs in the skipper-type of hulls. These are fast little boats, made of fiberglass, with skin over the water apparently with the greatest of ease.

Many fishermen like them because they can get into the shallows.

And the racing crowd goes for them like they do a sports runabout.

One thing is for sure, boating has become a way of life in Texas. There are more boats among Texas families today than there were automobiles just a few years ago. In recognition of this the Boating Trades Association, which sponsored the Fort Worth show, is working with its dealers to provide capable merchandising.

Boat manufacturers in Texas have gone through the wringer. A dozen different plants sprang up in a hurry when the boating craze first took hold. Most of them were under-financed and failed to survive. Others went through several reorganizations. But there were a few that remained solid, by making good boats and doing a good selling job.

It is expected that something like 20,000 new outboard motors will be sold in Texas during 1963. New York will sell only 32,000; Michigan 26,000; California 25,000; and Florida 19,000.

These states all have abundant water. Texas generally is not recognized as a state with too much water. In fact, every ounce of boating water in Texas is behind a dam that has been built to impound it. There is no natural lake among the 400 in Texas.

But then there is the wonderful Texas coastline on the Gulf. You'll enjoy looking over the new boat and motor crop for 1963. Call on your local dealer at the very first opportunity.

Mrs. Thormeyer Elected President L & S Club Thursday

New officers were elected at the meeting of the Literary and Service Club held Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dorsett. Mrs. Floyd Sims, president, presided for the business session. Mrs. E. E. Thormeyer was elected president.

Winters Girls Win Over Bronte But Lose To Coleman

The Winters girls' A and B basketball teams played Bronte recently at Bronte, with the A team winning over the Bronte girls 39-38. Su Deaton was high pointer for Winters, with 18 points. Florence Rodgers was second with 13 points. Marla Rus was top scorer for Bronte, with 20 points.

The B team also won their game over Bronte, 54-21. Nancy Grisham was high scorer for the Blizardettes, netting 27 points. Shirley Lindsey and Helen Simpson tied for second with 10 points each. Joy Kay Moore was high pointer for Bronte with 11 points. In their game against Coleman girls Monday night at Coleman, the A team lost to the Coleman girls 42-32. Su Deaton was high pointer for the Winters team, netting 25 points. Jan Byrd was second with four points. Joyce Turner was top scorer for Coleman sinking 20 points.

The B team won over the Coleman team 26-25. Nancy Grisham was high pointer, netting 19 points. Shirley Lindsey was second high, sinking five points, Janis Morris was top scorer for Coleman, with 12 points.

BRADSHAW NEWS

"I perceive that the simplest things are the most difficult, the plainest things, the darkest, the commonest things, the rarest." David Grayson.

The Lord's Supper was observed Sunday night at the Baptist Church.

Mary Jonas of Colorado City was a visitor Sunday morning at the Methodist Sunday School. The special for the Sunday School was "If You Only Knew Him" sung by Kay Orr with her mother, Mrs. Grover Orr, at the piano.

Visitors at the morning services at the Drasco Baptist Church were Dwayne Anderson, Pete and Mike Sosebee all of Abilene and Connie Wilborn of Winters.

The morning special for the Moro Baptist services was "There's Power In The Blood" sung by Mrs. Russell Grun, Mrs. Calwyn Walters and Mrs. J. W. Allmand with Mrs. Allmand at the piano. Visitors for the night services were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Harris of Midland and Buck Harris of Tuscola. The specials for the services were "Won't It Be Wonderful There?" and "How Beautiful Heaven Must Be!" Singing were Pastor and Mrs. Jack Bedford, Clyde Reid and Buck Harris with Mrs. Allmand at the piano.

The subject for next Sunday's Sunday School Lesson is, "Jesus Begins His Work." The memory selection; The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He has anointed me to preach good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim release to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord. Luke 4:18-19. Thus Jesus preached the first sermon of His public ministry in just two sentences and then sat down. What brevity, and yet what power! No wonder that "the eyes of all in the synagogue were fixed on Him." He was quoting Isaiah, but He dramatically made the message His own by adding: "Today this scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing." James R. Webb.

Special days next week are for: Lee Ora Foster, Mrs. Albert Hurt, Clarence Ledbetter, James Owen, Christine Hicks and T. J. Middleton Jr., the 13th; Leroy Middleton the 14th; Scotty Belew, Mrs. Juanita Hill and a wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Newt Brewer the 15th; Mrs. Henry Webb, Marsha Mayfield and A. A. Russell the 16th; Mrs. Albert Lewis and Clifford Reid the 17th; C. T. Conner and Cassie Foster the 18th; August McWilliams Sr. the 19th.

Pastor and Mrs. Lester Carter had Sunday dinner and supper with Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Tekell of Wilmeth.

Diary of a Trip

Now we are printing a most interesting account of a trip to the Middle East which was written by Rodney Watson, daughter of Henry Goetz and the late Goetz of Rowena. Mrs. Watson is the niece of Mrs. W. F. Penmeyer and has many friends and relatives in this section of Rannels County.

By Emmalene Watson

Saturday, 6 October, 1962
We left Incirlik Air Base, east of Adana, Turkey early on Saturday morning to drive to Jerusalem, in the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan. We had planned the trip for some time and, of course, the last minute "red tape" kept us wondering if we could or could not leave Turkey. Our route lay along the coastline of the Mediterranean Sea, and we drove east to the city of Iskenderun, once called Alexandretta; and on to Antakya, Antioch and then to the Syrian border. There we spent an hour leaving paper work with Syrian customs. While Sgt. Black and Sgt. Watson took care of the paper work, we women had Turkish coffee with the wife of one of the customs officials. She spoke no English and we, no Syrian, but she was very cordial and invited us to the balcony. Her husband explained that she got quite lonely at this isolated spot and enjoyed visitors whether they could speak the same language or not. The couple had two lovely little girls and their father explained as their names meant 'Sunbeam' and 'Loyalty' in English. He thought that I was Arabic, and I was delighted that he didn't think I was Turkish. He spoke excellent English and asked about the situation in Mississippi. Since we get almost no news at all in Turkey, we were at a loss to enlighten him on the matter. When the paper work was finished and Customs had relieved us of a carton of US cigarettes plus a substantial entry fee, we said goodbye, smiled, waved, and drove into Syria.

Rocks, rocks, and more rocks—Syria is full of them. We drove for miles without seeing trees, and then we came upon fields of olive and fig trees. The olive trees were heavy with fruit. Our first large town in Syria was Latakia where we had to buy stamps for our visas.

Our next stop was to be the "Karak of the Knights"—just outside the border of Liban or Lebanon. As it turned out, all the road signs were in Arabic; so we stopped to ask which road led to the Castle. After a half dozen stops plus going one direction only to find it was the wrong one; we finally saw the well preserved castle on a hill—a most beautiful sight. As you approach the castle, you forget you are living in the space age. You even feel on passing the narrow stony bridge, the stairs, the gate, which was reached by means of a flying bridge, the passages, towers, and tunnels, that you are transferred further back to the Middle Ages when the heavy sound of the horses' hooves, the rattle of swords and weapons, the knights' shouts were often heard.

The citadel was an Arab fortress in 1031. The Crusaders then called it "Karak des Chevaliers" and enlarged it afterwards by adding towers and fences. The Arabs also did more work on it, which explains the variety of architectural styles. The citadel is well enough for a garrison of 4,000 men. From the tower, we could see the plains and hills of Syria, the land of Liban, and the Mediterranean, far away in the distance.

We arrived at the Liban Border at 8:30 p.m., and again the men were involved for an hour and again were relieved of more American dollars. Finally we were cleared to enter Liban and we stopped to eat our picnic supper, but rain and unwelcome visitors caused us to depart quite soon and we discovered that we had stopped in "No Man's Land"—this was not at all wise.

On our way into Tripoli or Tarabulus, we were repeatedly stopped by armed soldiers and had to show our passports. Each time we were asked if we had anything to declare. Before our return, this "anything to declare" got to be our private joke. Liban is under martial law at this date.

All of our day's trials and experiences were well worth the trouble when we entered Tripoli—what a wonderful, clean, modern town—stores of all kinds, American foods and drinks, neon lights—just 369 miles from Adana, and it was a different world. Six people started with open mouths at this glimpse of something very nearly like our United States. The end of our first day of a wonderful pilgrimage.

Sunday, 7 October, 1962

From our balcony of the Al Montezah Hotel, we gazed upon the green beauty of the hills of Lebanon early on Sunday morning. We regretfully left Tripoli on our way along the coast to Jebail or Byblos, 24 miles north of Beirut. We saw the many salt patches where salt was being taken from the sea and dried, then sacked.

Byblos, where the Bible got its name, is 6,000 years old and today is only a small agricultural and fishing village. The castle there is a Crusader work of the 12th and 13th Century. It is still in good repair and the cannon balls are still embedded in the walls from one of the sea bombardments by the British in 1840. From one of the towers, our guide pointed out the excavated ruins of Egyptian temples and we saw huge pillars of pink granite brought by ship from Asway, Egypt. Phoenician ruins cover partly the ruins of earlier Egyptian temples. Byblos is still untapped and each year the Department of Antiquities purchases a house or two to uncover other ruins beneath. We saw seven stone sarcophagae which have been uncovered from the deep stone tombs. The stone coffins of the kings were lowered into the deep graves by filling the graves with sand. Then the sand was removed a little at a time to lower the coffin to its resting place. The entire Byblos area is literally cluttered with fallen columns, marble capitals, sarcophagae, carved cornices and lintels and blocks of classic masonry.

The Crusaders' Church of St. John still stands proudly in its original form in the center of the mediaeval town a few blocks northwest of the castle. A convent is across from the church. A young Lebanese man asked us into his home to view the seas from his balcony, while his modern record player blared forth songs by Elvis Presley.

As we drove into Beirut, we saw the world's third largest Casino on a high hill just out of this modern, wild city—Beirut, Liban—the "land of milk and honey." Our first stop was the Grotto of "Jeita," the principal source of the Dog River, which supplies Beirut with water. This grotto gave us the opportunity to take a 40 minute boat ride on its subterranean lake to see a replica of Carlsbad Caverns in water. The water is 50 meters deep or about 162 feet, and the effective lighting transplanted us into a fairytale adventure.

Beirut looks just like any large city in America. We saw the American University—the largest American University out of the United States, founded in 1866. It has the schools of Arts & Sciences, Medicine, Pharmacy, Nursing, Public Health, English and Agriculture. It also has a big hospital, the most modern and best equipped in the Middle East. We didn't see one horse and buggy in Beirut—there were cars everywhere and all going as fast as possible. We wanted to see the city but decided it would be safer to walk; so walk we did. Sgt. Black, a real Texan, led the way and after miles, it seemed, he finally gave up—Mrs. Black and I were a few blocks behind—pooped. We had heard of a place called "The Little Chef" with the "best hamburgers this side of the States" To get there, we took a taxi and the driver gave us a ride we will never forget—he delighted in speeding and aiming at pedestrians only to come to a screeching halt a few feet from them. We naturally screamed and this only added to his delight. Finally we reached "The Little Chef" and thoroughly enjoyed hamburgers, American cokes, french fries, and banana sundaes—Emlyn's first since she left Texas. Surprisingly none of us got sick. During the night it rained and rained—our hotel was lovely and it had a Cinebox downstairs—a jukebox which showed the performers singing—almost like TV—we had reached the height of living outside of Turkey. APPRECIATION

To Library Members: Early in 1962 I had as my goal for that year to check out 8,000 books. I told many of you about this and asked you to help prove what can be done in a small library in a small town. By the end of the year, 8,385 books had been checked out. I want to say thank you for making the year 1962 such a happy year to work with you. I would also like to thank the club members for their aid and the people who did volunteer work in the library. Your help is deeply appreciated. Myra Glover, Librarian
