

HOME TOWN

Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

They're at it again . . . or yet. It is to say, the droves of itinerant peddlers and so-called "service" people, who will sell you anything from a magazine to a new building, or will paint your house, clean your rugs, kill your flies—you name it, they'll sell it or do it.

There have been several of these "photographers" in town these past few days, according to Police Chief Stevens, and they always leave their mark of irresponsibility in the way of shoddy merchandise, poor workmanship, and broken promises. One group, according to the police chief, contacted some sort of material which they said appeared to be a little salt mixed with some highly inflammable liquid, which might have been gasoline. They were arrested, and were made to pay the money they had taken. Magazine salesmen have been coming on doors, too. And others have been selling door-to-door. These people will promise anything, to make a sale. They are out of this world, because they know they will not stay this way again.

Stevens said that in addition to getting money from unsuspecting residents, there are times when these people may be only "casing" the place to which they may return at some later date to burglarize homes and businesses.

There is an ordinance against soliciting within the city limits of Winters without a permit. When licenses apply for a permit, they are checked out by the police before the permit is issued. Stevens said many are ex-convicts. If they are investigated by the police, they usually are glad to leave town in a hurry.

The police department has asked at everyone report the presence of any stranger who is making door-to-door sales, or offering to work around homes. Only in this way can the police weed out the undesirables, and protect the public.

This is not necessarily an indictment of the legitimate salesman or service people. The honest ones most always check with the city hall about obtaining permits before they start canvassing. If they fail to do so, because of ignorance of the ordinance, they do it mind being investigated.

All residents will be doing a service to the community if they immediately report the presence of any strange salesman.

If you have not already paid your poll taxes, you have only five more days in which to get them done. You will not be able to vote at all-important poll tax receipts after January 31. Without a poll tax receipt, or an exemption, you will not be allowed to express your choice at any election in the state of Texas this year. And there will be elections in which you will want to take part.

This may be the last year in which you will have to pay a poll tax. In a referendum recently, the people of Texas expressed a desire to do away with the poll tax requirement, and use some other system of registration. The Texas legislature may pass and present to the people a constitutional amendment outlawing the poll tax.

Whatever your thoughts on the matter of the poll tax, however, the fact remains that at present, there is no alternative—you must pay the tax to vote. That poll tax receipt is your permit to voice your opinion on all public matters to officials.

If you don't get it, then your only choice is to sit back and watch someone else run things. Under those circumstances, you have no excuse except that you were caught in the draft.

Only 5 More Days To Pay Poll Tax

Voters—or those citizens who wish to be voters this year—have only five more days to get their poll tax receipts. Deadline is Jan. 31, and people who want to exercise their privilege of voting in any election during 1963 must have a poll tax receipt, or have an exemption because of age.

Travis Jordan, deputy tax collector for Winters, said Wednesday that about 235 poll tax receipts had been issued from the Winters office.

The Winters tax office is closed on Saturday, but will be open from 8 to 5 each day, with one hour out for lunch.

Jordan also said that property taxes must be paid before Feb. 1 in order to escape the penalty. Automobile licenses will go on sale Feb. 1.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

Governor Connally Off To Good Start After 12 Months Hard Campaigning

By Vern Sanford
 Texas Press Association

Serving as Governor of Texas should be a snap for John Connally.

Any man who can wage a rigorous, 12 months campaign for Governor, such as he has done, reorganize the state government, plan and participate in all the ceremonies he has been through since his election and inauguration, and assume all the allied responsibilities related thereto . . . should find the task of being governor a cinch.

It seemed like half of Texas was in Austin to see the first mass turnover in state government since Jimmy Allred took over from "Ma" Ferguson in 1935.

Man of the hour was, of course, John Connally! Bus loads of people, both from his old hometown of Floresville and his latest hometown of Fort Worth, came to Austin for the festivities that surrounded his inauguration as governor.

Most of them were here by inauguration eve when nearly 5,000 people packed Austin's Municipal Auditorium for the Democrat's "Victory Dinner," rated as the biggest seated dinner in the state's history. It was sponsored by the State Democratic Executive Committee. At $25 a plate, it netted the party $100,000 and put it on its feet, well-heeled.

Inauguration Day led off with an interdenominational prayer breakfast and the dignity of the day carried over to the high-noon swearing-in ceremony in front of the State Capitol.

Some 5,000 people clustered on the capitol lawn as Governor Connally and Lieutenant Governor Preston Smith solemnly took their oaths of office from Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert of the State Supreme Court.

Both Connally and Smith expressed a sincerity of purpose and a real desire to work with the 58th Legislature in pushing progress for the state . . . while holding down spending.

Throughout Inaugural Day, Texas' two top men kept popping up in unexpected places—arriving early for ceremonies and dropping in at events related to the inauguration. They shook every extended hand and signed as many autographs as time allowed.

At seven in the evening they took their places, alongside their wives, in a Capitol rotunda receiving line and shook thousands more hands with unrelenting enthusiasm.

When Governor Connally presented his plan for progress to a joint meeting of Senate and House members, on the following day, he was met with applause that many legislators felt never had been equaled.

Majority of the legislators said that they felt they could support him "most of the way." All praised his "tremendous grasp of state government," and said if there were differences between the governor and the legislature, such differences could be worked out.

Many were pleased to see Connally urge the strengthening of family sanctity laws. He recommended: an end to common-law marriages; a 90-day waiting period for divorces, prohibiting remarriages until six months after a divorce; and requiring both parents to appear in court when a divorce involves children.

His views on upgrading higher education were approved almost unanimously. But there was quite a bit of disapproval of his proposal to combine the Game and Fish Commission and the State Parks Board. Opposition was based largely on the idea that the Game and Fish Commission would suffer.

VOTE AGE TARGET
 Rep. V. E. "Red" Berry of San Antonio wants the minimum voting age in Texas lowered to 18 years.

Berry has filed a bill which would propose a constitutional amendment allowing the Legislature to make the change.

Present law requires voters to be 21 years of age.

SMALL-TOWN BOOST PROPOSED

U. S. Congressman Wright Patman's worry that an "overwhelming percentage of the smaller towns and rural areas of East Texas are going downhill" is shared by at least two legislators.

Reps. Joe Cannon of Mexia and H. G. Wells of Tulai spread their concern over economic ills in East Texas to rural areas all over the state. And they have come up with a scheme to bolster the moral and economy of rural counties.

Under their plan, counties with less than 45,000 population would receive a two per cent refund of the sales tax collected by them. This money would go to county judges who in turn would distribute it to city councils to be used to advertise for new industries and offer incentives to industry.

Wells estimated that 200 counties would be eligible to receive a sales tax rebate, and that $1,000,000 would be distributed the first year.

Main object, Wells said, was to save counties which had some prosperous small towns but which have suffered from an exodus of citizens who have moved to metropolitan areas.

STOCKMEN RAISING FUND
 Texas Livestock Auctioneers Association is sponsoring a drive to help raise the $1,000,000 still needed to meet the Southwest Health Research Foundation's 1,000,000 goal to stamp out screwworm.

Texas' screwworm eradication program will come to a halt March unless the million is raised.

Governor Connally recommended that the legislature quickly determine whether the screwworm eradication program is in trouble.

Result was a hurriedly called hearing, attended by about 30 legislators and as many livestock producers and animal health officials.

MARCH DRAFT 404
 Texas' March quota for draft is 404 men.

"This is more than double calls of recent months," says Selective Service Director Co. Morris S. Schwartz.

February quota was 173 and January call was for 163 men.

Former Resident Died At Hendrick Memorial Hospital

Boyd Holbrook, 55, of Abilene, former resident of Winters and brother of Mrs. G. C. Byers and W. Holbrook, died at 2:30 Wednesday morning at Hendrick Memorial Hospital after an illness of several weeks.

Funeral service was held at 4 p.m. Thursday at Elliott's Chapel of Memories in Abilene, with burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery. The Rev. Roger Butler, pastor of Elm Dale Baptist Church, assisted by the Rev. E. G. Peak, pastor of the Corinth Baptist Church, officiated. Nephews were pallbearers.

Mr. Holbrook moved to Abilene from Winters 22 years ago. He was born April 5, 1907 in Hill County and had owned a cafe here and also operated the Winters Auction Barn. At the time he became ill, he was manager of a gas station in Abilene and had previously operated a cafe at the Abilene Live-Stock Commission.

He was a member of the Elm Dale Baptist Church in Abilene. Survivors include his wife; one son, Boyd Holbrook Jr. of the home; four brothers, Richard of Dayton, Wilson of Winters, Paul of LaHabra, California, R. M. of Compton, California; five sisters, Mrs. G. C. Byers of Winters, Mrs. F. A. Tutt and Mrs. W. C. Cooley, both of Abilene, Mrs. A. G. Erskine of Santa Anna, California, and Mrs. M. M. Campbell of Dallas.

IT'S THE LAW- IN TEXAS

While driving around a lake, John and Mary saw a "For Sale" sign on a piece of lake property which they thought they could afford to buy.

They made inquiry of the owner and agreed on a price. They inquired about title and the owner assured them that he would give them an "Abstract." They took the abstract, which was a fat book of papers, and the deed, filed the deed at the courthouse and thought no more about it, assuming, as many people do, that an "abstract" is an assurance of good title.

Some years later they went to sell to a buyer who was better informed. He insisted that either the abstract be examined and an opinion given by an attorney that the title was good or that the sellers must provide title insurance. When they sought an opinion as to whether the abstract showed good title, they were dismayed to find that the title was not in good order, and that there would have to be a quiet-title law-suit to dispose of some flaws in the title before the buyer would accept it. Neither would a title insurance company write a policy of insurance for them without legal action to clear up the title.

John and Mary were astounded to learn that they were wrong in assuming that an "abstract" was an assurance of good title. An abstract is merely a record of every document which has ever been filed of record at the courthouse affecting the title to a particular piece of property. It may show good title or bad title, or no title at all. It is only a bundle of papers, as John and Mary discovered, which summarizes the state of the title. Its possession does not in any way assure good title.

Thus while one may be able to get possession and peacefully occupy a property with an unsalable title, difficulties will arise when the property is to be sold or mortgaged. To do so is only to postpone and perhaps increase the trouble and expense of clearing the title. It makes good sense to correct any title defects when you buy a property.

Texas produces about 80 per cent of the nation's sulphur.

ROGER BABSON

Success of Small Business Is Result of Imagination and Ambition

Now and then I hear someone say that the day of small business is over. That seems foolish to me. Is this really so? To be successful does an operation have to be vast, enormous, colossal? The answer is no . . . in spite of the growing numbers of "mile-long" supermarkets and giant industrial complexes. Like thousands of others, I have always liked the personal touch, the "Good morning, Mr. Babson, I have saved your papers for you." So long as you and I want this kind of neighborly, friendly service, we must be optimistic about the future of small business in this country.

"Small" Can Be Durable

Size does not necessarily mean huge success. This fact reminds me of that fighter of earlier days, Bob Fitzsimmons, who became famous for his quotation, "The bigger they come, the harder they fall". Philosophers might even point out that bones of extinct and childless prehistoric monsters decorate our museums. But take a look at the tiny insects, the microscopic microbes, for instance. They have done very well down through the ages, and their descendants are still keeping busy and fit,—and may one day exterminate man himself.

I do not mean by this that the small businessman can just coast along without a worry. The mark of the successful independent in business is his industry, his absolute determination to give his utmost in personal consideration and service. He must present himself as an individual that the buying public can rely on completely. This is surely not easy. But it is encouraging to realize how many thousands of small businessmen throughout the country have the imagination and the ambition to succeed and do succeed in this way.

Always A Future For Small Business

I have watched with much interest the development of electronics and aerospace business over recent years. While the big boys might have been expected to hog the field, countless small producers have also done a tremendous amount of the experimentation, research, and actual production of new, complicated items. Analysis of available figures proves that most smaller concerns are getting along extremely well, not just in civilian production and trade, but also in the booming aerospace, defense, and other electronics fields.

Some time ago I heard of a perfect example of what can be done by a small businessman with get-up-and-go. A large prime contractor bought and installed in his tiny plant costly machine-tool equipment. The proprietor of this almost one-man shop was of course a highly trained expert. He put in endless hours of overtime, operated the complex machines personally, and turned out finished work, on schedule.

Talent Is Capital

This incident reveals how success can be attained by businessmen who may rate very low in number of employees and dollar assets, but who rate very high in personal industry, stick-to-itiveness and talent. If you look around, you will find similar examples in your own locality. They prove better than statistics and the most logical theories that the roots of economic success go far deeper than dollar capital. It is true that you cannot operate a business without capital, but I am sure that the White House does not measure capital only by bank balances. The White House desires that any man or woman should be able to "capitalize" on skill, diplomacy, patience, good taste, and other intangible resources. Too many think only of going to the bank for the needed capital, and never think of tapping their own reserves of mind, energy, and spirit.

Large business concerns feel that Robert Kennedy, the Attorney General and the President's brother, treats big business unfairly, and I am sympathetic to their position; it would be impossible to build up foreign trade without "big business" to fight for us.

GARY CROSBY finds his breakfast interrupted by vivacious Jerri Lynne Fraser while Joey Dee glowers in the background, in this scene from Columbia Pictures' "Two Tickets to Paris," also starring Kay Medford with Lisa James, Charles Nelson Reilly and The Starliners. "Two Tickets to Paris" shows Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

Geo. Norman Small Died Monday In Canyon Home

He was the brother of Mrs. O. Jolly and Mrs. H. A. Mitchell, both of 1902 Sycamore St. in Abilene.

Mr. Small was buried at Canyon.

Buckner of Burkburnett, Texas, formerly of Winters and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Eli B. Packer of Fort Worth, Texas.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this method on my behalf of acknowledging and expressing thanks to all the neighbors and friends who expressed their sympathy and tender kind words during the bereavement at the death and loss of our beloved sister, sister-in-law and brother-in-law, Vester and Bessie Burroughs.

To all those who sent so many beautiful flowers, the ladies who served the food and to the members of the American Legion for the use of their hall and special thanks to Arthur Bates for his thoughtfulness, to Ted Meyers and the staff at Spill Funeral Home for their help and kind services. To Rev. Virgil James and Rev. B. T. Shoemaker for their kind deeds and well-spoken sermon from the scriptures of the Bible in behalf of the bereaved family. May God's greatest blessings be with you always in my prayer. J. J. Love. Itc

Reloading In Cold Weather

Reloading your gun in cold weather can be speeded up if you will carry two spare shells in loops sewn to the back of glove or mitten worn on your left hand. You can snatch loads from the glove or mitten much faster than fumbling around clumsily in a game pocket.

IT'S THE LAW—IN TEXAS

Our courts work with two sets of principles in meting out justice—those of "law" and those of "equity."

Under "law" a court declares the parties' rights and duties and sets money damages for harm already done—as when someone goes back on his contract with you, or injures you in an automobile crash.

But under principles of "honesty, equity, and conscience", for example, a court seeing harm on the way, may forestall it and enforce its orders by fines or join terms.

England used to have two kinds of courts to hear cases under law and equity. But today both England and America use the same judge to hear both kinds of cases. How did these two systems arise?

Long ago the English king called upon the "chancery"—then largely made up of churchmen, (the keepers "of the King's conscience"), to give "relief" where the older Common Law courts, grown rigid, might fail.

Unable to use the Common Law, the chancellors applied certain rules and maxims, sometimes borrowed from ancient Greece and Rome—"He who comes into equity must come with clean hands." Sometimes this is stated: "No one can take advantage in a court of equity of his own wrongdoing."

This maxim denied a suitor "relief" if he himself has done wrong in the transaction at issue.

A scale maker had advertised that his scales would count fractions of a cent against the customer and in favor of the storekeeper.

He had asked a court in equity to stop a competitor from revealing that his scale was cheating customers. But the court threw the case out: Not having "clean hands", the scale maker had no standing in equity. He could not seek fair treatment when he himself was dishonest in the particular situation at issue.

Abigail Adams, President Adams' wife, is supposed to have hung the family wash in the White House.

"The Savage Guns"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Savage Guns" is an explosive drama of outlaw tryanny, set in the Mexico-Arizona border country shortly after the end of the Civil War.

No punches are pulled in this hard-hitting picture, filmed in Metrocolor and Metroscope, with Richard Basehart, Don Taylor, Alex Nicol and the lovely Spanish actress, Paquita Rico, in the leading roles. The latter, who has won five acting awards abroad, is introduced to American audiences in the new film.

The story of "The Savage Guns" concerns Mike Summers, a former major in the Confederate Army who, sickened by the senseless slaughter he has seen, settles down to what he hopes will be a life of peace in a remote Mexican valley not far from the Arizona border. There, vowing never again to draw his gun in anger against his fellow men, he tries to forget the horror of war. But he finds his pacifist principles savagely tested when a gang of bandits takes over the valley, terrorizing the farmers into signing over their ranches and killing in cold blood all who refuse. When an itinerant adventurer, Steve Fallon, joins the household, he aids Summers in facing a decision which is to have its effect on both himself and his courageous wife.

Showing Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

"Two Tickets to Paris!"

Harry Romm's production of "Two Tickets to Paris!" said to be a light-hearted rhythm-and-romance cruise aboard the big, beautiful luxury liner, SS France, shows Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre. The stellar cast of the Columbia Pictures release includes Joey Dee, who helped to make the Twist an international dance craze, Gary Crosby and comedienne Kay Medford. Jeri Lynne Fraser makes her screen bow as Piper and dancer Lisa James, Charles Nelson Reilly and The Starliners are featured.

In "Two Tickets to Paris!" Dee plays a young singer going to Paris for a nightclub engagement. He takes his fiancée, Miss Fraser, along with Miss Medford as a hat-check girl turned conscientious chaperone. Aboard ship, Dee is temporarily made the amorous target of exotic dancer Lisa James and Crosby is encouraged to make passes at the jealous Miss Fraser.

"That Touch of Mink"

Put Cary Grant and Doris Day together, add the ingredients of the richly humorous laugh-lines by the fabulous writer of hilarious successes, Stanley Shapiro, sprinkle freely with deft direction by Delbert Mann, and you have "That Touch of Mink," the most refreshing, rib-ticking comedy ever to adorn the screen of the State Theatre.

The Granley production, in glorious eye-pleasing color and Panavision, being released by Universal-International, showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre, with such top performers as Gig Young and Audrey Meadows aiding and abetting Cary and Doris in their rollicking romantic romp that carries them from New York to Bermuda and back again.

The story deals with a wealthy and charming bachelor (Grant) who becomes intrigued with a luscious blonde (Miss Day) from a small town who is so attractive males just naturally make passes at her. Grant certainly isn't one to break this tradition, so he suggests they make a trip to Bermuda. Naturally, Doris turns him down, but then has a change of mind and decides she'll go after all—only to have another change of mind after arriving at the romantic island. From there on things really start building toward a most surprising climax, which it really wouldn't be fair to reveal in this review.

Decoy Range Finder

Even experienced hunters find it difficult to accurately gauge shooting range, especially from a duck blind.

Overcome this difficulty by setting out one decoy some 40 or 50 yards from the duck blind. Gauge your shots at incoming ducks by their relation to this decoy.

This way you won't waste shots blasting away at ducks over in the next county. Furthermore, the incoming ducks will pay no attention to a lone decoy range finder. They will come on in to your setting of decoys the same as usual.

HEALTH LETTER

Each winter brings its toll of deaths from carbon monoxide, the killer gas loosed wherever fuel is used to power cars, cook meals or to dull the chill edge of weather. It claimed the lives of 42 Texans last year, and will undoubtedly strike again and again at the unvarying winter season, just as it did in the small North Texas garage one day last week.

The temperature was in the high 30's and a brisk north wind was blowing when the head mechanic reported for work that morning.

Chill had permeated every corner of the open shop, and had seeped into the concrete floor. No wonder the mechanic's helper pulled closed the sliding door when he came in a few minutes later.

That single act was the instrument of one death and one near-death from carbon monoxide (CO) that built up in the unventilated garage.

State Health Department industrial hygiene engineers report that CO is a very real occupational hazard among garagemen this time of year. Why was not the North Texas garage equipped with a vent pipe leading to the outside to which the exhaust of idling cars could be attached? The question can't be answered. It is a fact that this very sensible practice is common in northern garages, but rare in Texas despite the extremes in weather.

Carbon monoxide does its damage with lightning speed. Industrial hygienists report that a car running for a mere five minutes in a garage 20 x 30 x 10 will release enough CO to cause serious physical effects.

Any fuel containing carbon can produce CO. This is true of solid fuels such as coal or charcoal or wood. It is true of liquid fuels such as oil, gasoline, and kerosene. It is true of gaseous fuels such as natural or manufactured gas.

Unvented space heaters in homes are particularly hazardous. They work well when the room is properly ventilated, but in closed rooms they quickly burn up the oxygen which in turn permits a build-up of the lethal gas.

Kitchen stoves are another potential source of CO. Top-burning gas ranges can produce it, especially when the flame is turned on under a old cooking utensil. Cold metal "chills" the flame and results in complete combustion of the gas.

Ventilation is the natural enemy of carbon monoxide. Thinking Texans will keep that in mind this winter season.

Stop Door Scratching
If your hunting dog has the run of your house there probably are many ugly marks on the door where he scratches to get in.

These can be eliminated if you will tack a heavy sheet of sandpaper over the spot.

Not only will it protect the door, it also will file down the pooch's claws at the same time.

Most bass fishermen spend too much time changing baits. Drawbacks to the try-one-now, a different-one-later, system are many. But the primary objection is that the lure doesn't get a fair enough test to actually tell whether or not it will produce.

It is much better to stick with one or two lures, letting them have the time to make a true test. But what lures? That's the perplexing problem. Today there are so many artificial baits in different sizes, shapes and types that it confuses the average fisherman.

Most of the better anglers have one thing in common. They concentrate their efforts either on the top, or at the opposite extreme, right on the bottom.

There's a good reason for this thinking. Much of the bass' food supply is concentrated in these regions.

Probably the one big exception is small bait fish like minnows and sunfish. But a hungry bass usually will come to the top to take a frog-looking popper or a worm crawled along the bottom, as readily as he will a perch-type lure.

A lure that operates either right on top or right on the bottom has an advantage over the other lures in that it can be worked at the ultra-slow speed needed to tempt big bass.

Most lures which show up in sporting goods stores have a definite place in fishing. But they are specialized tools and work only in certain situations. Knowing how to recognize these situations requires much experience.

Most weekend anglers simply haven't encountered enough situations to pinpoint clues which will tell them which lures to use. In this respect water depth is very important. Lures with metal lips are designed to run at certain depths. A lure built to run 10 feet beneath the surface will, for example, be half-way down in 20-foot water, but close to the surface in 40-foot water.

Unless the angler knows the depth of water he's fishing, this type lure will be practically useless.

But if he sticks with the top-water bait or the bottom-bumper, the water depth is not as important. He'll still have his bait in the vicinity where bass hang out.

Only within the past few years have fishermen been able to apply this formula successfully.

It used to be that the only baits which dug deep down, where the big bass are most apt to be found, were those with long metal lips. These baits require a fast retrieve to make them dig deep, too fast to make them really effective on a lazy old bass.

Also they are not too effective behalf of its 76 member dailies and 432 weeklies, has presented "Top Texan" awards on two previous occasions. In 1961 the honor went to Paul Richards of basehall fame, a native of Waxahachie, who at the time was manager of the top-ranking Baltimore Orioles. Last year the "Texan of the Year" award went to Van Cliburn, world renowned pianist from Kilgore, Texas.

Selection of the "Texan of the Year" is made from nominations by Texas editors and publishers. Nominees must be well known Texans, outside the field of politics, now residing beyond the borders of the state, but bringing fame to the state by outstanding accomplishments in their chosen fields of endeavor.

ped with a top-water lure, the other with a bottom-bumping bait. They try one for 25 to 30 casts, and if by then they haven't inveigled a strike, they switch to the other outfit.

Often it pays off to try the top-water baits for the first couple of hours after daybreak when bass migrate into the shallows to feed on things found along the surface; then use the bottom-bumping bait during the remainder of the day when the fish have drifted back into deeper water.

As to the color of a lure it has been proven that the color shading is more important than the actual color itself. If a person stays with two basic type lures—topwater and bottom-bumping—and two basic colors, light and dark, he'll be right 99 times out of 100.

IT'S THE LAW—IN TEXAS

Alice was taking an afternoon nap. She and her husband Joe had spent all last week moving into their new apartment. Today, with Joe back at work, Alice had been trying to do the ironing while chasing after their young son, and she was tired.

A noise from the front room woke Alice. She went to investigate and saw a man standing in the middle of their living room. Alice was about to call the police when she recognized the man. It was Mr. Irving Snoop, their landlord. He explained that he had let himself in with his pass key to make a routine inspection.

Alice was quite upset and asked Mr. Snoop to leave. She said that he could come back another time, but asked that he get permission before entering their apartment.

Mr. Snoop informed Alice that he owned the apartment building, and that he needed no one's permission to come and go as he please.

Is Mr. Snoop correct? Can he enter the apartments of his tenants without their permission?

Mr. Snoop is wrong. A tenant has the sole and exclusive right to the occupation and control of his apartment during the existence of his term. Therefore, as a general rule, a landlord has no right to enter the apartment of his tenant without the tenant's consent, unless the landlord has reserved such a right in the lease. An unauthorized entry or intrusion by a landlord on his tenant's premises constitutes a trespass to the same extent as an entry or intrusion thereon by a stranger.

DAN BLOCKER
... Texan of the Year

Hoss Cartwright named Texan of the Year by TPA

Dan Blocker, a really "big" man, will be the recipient of the Texas Press Association's 1963 "Texan of the Year" award.

Announcement of his selection was made by George Baker, president of the newspaper association and publisher of the Fort Worth Pioneer.

In his presentation to Dan Blocker, co-star of the NBC-TV show Bonanza, will be made TPA's Mid-Winter Meeting at El Tropicano Hotel in San Antonio on Saturday evening, January 26.

Blocker, known on TV as Hoss Cartwright, was born in Bowie County, Texas, on December 10, 1917. He grew up in the Texas Panhandle and received his education in Texas.

Weighing 14 pounds at birth, he reached the scales to 105 pounds the time he entered grade school. He became known among friends as "The Big 'N". At 10 he worked alongside grown men at grain elevators and could lift any of the local toughs, regardless of their age.

Despite his extraordinary strength, Dan Blocker had other than pushing his weight around as a strong man. When 12 years old he enrolled in the Texas Military Institute at San Antonio, that time he weighed 200 pounds and stood six feet tall.

From the military institute he went to Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene for a semester, then to Sul Ross State College at Pecos, on a football scholarship, majoring in physical education.

He changed his major to drama and he was graduated in 1950. From Alpine he went to Boston to work in the summer stock. Then, as did many young men of his time, Dan Blocker received greetings from President and went overseas as a soldier in Korea.

When he finished his army hitch, he came home with the stripes of first sergeant, to further impress his college friends, he went to Philadelphia to work at the University of Pennsylvania. He was promoted to sergeant major and went overseas as a sergeant major in the Korean War.

They were married on August 25, 1952. They now have four children, twin girls and two boys. Blocker returned to Sul Ross State after his marriage to work as a teacher. He left Sul Ross after one year to teach in a high school at Sonora. Upon receiving his Master's degree in drama and English, he taught drama at Carlsbad, New Mexico, from 1954 to 1955. He went to Los Angeles to work at UCLA. All of this time he was chosen as a feature role in a Gunsmoke episode, where he made more money in four days than in a month of teaching.

Since that time his rise to stardom has been rapid. He has played many significant TV roles and has top billing with Bonanza. The Texas Press Association, on are printing a most account of a trip to Jerusalem which was written by Blackberry Watson, daughter of Blackberry Goetz and the late Blackberry Rowena. Mrs. Watson is the niece of Mrs. W. F. Goetz and has many relatives in this section of Runtels County.

Everyone was up early to see the city. It was "walking day" and our guide was one Hasan. We left the Y and went to the Damascus Gate. In entrance to the Old City are seven gates, four of which are the Damascus Gate, St. Stephen's Gate and the Dung Gate. The other three are the Golden Gate, the New Gate, and the Jaffa Gate.

are further remains of the Roman pavement, of Pilate's Praetorium marked with the games which the Roman soldiers used to play to pass away the time, and equipped with huge stone cisterns to catch the rain water. These cisterns still hold water today.

The Church of the Holy Sepulchre: This church is erected upon the traditional site of the crucifixion, burial, and resurrection of Jesus. The site stood outside the city walls at the time of Jesus and included Calvary, where Jesus was crucified, and the garden of Joseph of Arimathea, where He was buried. The church is occupied by the Roman Catholics, the Greek Orthodox, and the Armenians. In the Armenian section are four graves—supposed to be the tombs of Joseph of Arimathea and three of his family. The Moslems are in charge of the keys to the Holy Sepulchre. When the Moslems took over, Caliph Omar respected Christianity and would not pray in this church for fear that the Moslems would make a mosque out of it; so he went to pray a short distance away and the Mosque of Omar was built on that spot. The church has much gold used in all forms throughout, many lovely old olive oil lamps, and hundreds of steps leading in every direction. The entire building is supported by scaffolds because of age and earthquake tremors.

MAN ON THE MOON—Louis Michel, graduate student from Ann Arbor, Mich., is a man on the moon at the University of Michigan these days as he builds a display model.

The Grotto of Gethsemane: This is believed to be the cave where Jesus spent the nights with His disciples when He was in Jerusalem. It was here in the garden that Judas betrayed Him, and here the soldiers of the Sanhedrin arrested Him.

The Church of All Nations or the Basilica of the Agony: This marks the site of Christ's prayer and agony on the night of His betrayal. The Garden of Gethsemane, adjoining the church, is one of the loveliest spots in all Jerusalem. Eight ancient olive trees since the time of Christ still stand and bear fruit.

The Church of St. Mary Magdalene: It is located above the Garden of Gethsemane and is a Russian Church with several onion-shaped cupolas—we did not enter this church.

The Tomb of the Virgin Mary: Situated in the Kidron Valley and the Church of the Assumption stands upon the site of the Virgin's resting place.

The Church of the Ascension: Upon the summit of the Mt. of Olives is the Chapel of the Ascension believed to mark the spot from which Jesus ascended into heaven—inside is a footprint, believed to be that of Christ.

The Church of Pater Noster: It stands near the chapel of Ascension and marks the traditional site where Jesus taught His disciples the Lord's Prayer. The prayer is translated into 47 languages on beautiful glazed tiles. This church was built by Princess de la Tour-d'Auvergne and she is entombed within.

The Church of the Dominus Flevit or Chapel of Weeping: Also upon the Mt. of Olives—the traditional place where Jesus wept over Jerusalem during the time before he started His entry into the city on Palm Sunday. The path He trod is enclosed by a narrow stone fence leading from this chapel down through the Golden Gate.

Cleaning Your Dog's Nose
During quail season, dogs often get chaff and dust in their noses. This lessens their efficiency as hunters.

Before taking to the field, slip a small bottle of diluted boric acid in your hunting jacket. Now and then insert a few drops of the stuff in the dog's nostrils.

This will cause the dog to sneeze and blow out any foreign matter.

Mrs. Jim McMillan Died Saturday In Winters Hospital

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Spill Memorial Chapel for Mrs. Jim McMillan, 90, who died Saturday at 2:15 p.m. in the Winters Municipal Hospital. She had been ill for two months and had been hospitalized since October.

Born Ellen Riley Harvey on November 15, 1872 in San Saba County, she was married to Wilson Henry in Tom Green County in 1890. Mr. Henry passed away in 1928.

On November 30, 1898, she was married to James McMillan at Bryan and later moved to McLellan County, then to Port Arthur. They came from Port Arthur to Runtels County in 1928, settling in the Wilmet Community where they lived for over 20 years. They then moved to the Crews Community where they maintained their home until the death of Mr. McMillan on Sept. 28, 1958. She then went to live with her son in the Moro Community.

Mrs. McMillan was a pioneer member of the Baptist Church and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. L. Rogers of Waco, and five sons, John Henry of Cristoval, Albert McMillan of Norton, Reed McMillan of Moro, Henry McMillan of Port Arthur, and Wilburn McMillan of Abilene; nine grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren.

Burial was in the Wilmet Cemetery with Rev. B. L. James, pastor of the Assembly of God Church and Rev. Jack Bedford of the Moro Baptist Church officiating for the services. Pallbearers were Chester McBeth, Russell Grun, L. B. Watkins, Jess Wetzel, Bruce Webb and Ed Poehls.

Inexpensive Archery Target
You can buy elaborate and expensive archery targets, especially the kind that is stuffed with hay and covered with bright oilcloth. But hard shooting soon fills any target full of holes.

So why spend a lot of money when an equally effective target can be made at home from an old tire, rags, and two pieces of tough corrugated board.

Fit tire opening with cardboard—one to each side—then draw on bullseye, pack inside target with rags. Then start shooting.

Rules Change Is Designed For Voter Appeal

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

While the House was getting organized, the Senate began the session with its usual battle over civil rights. The radical-liberals in the Senate want to change the rules so they can force through bills designed to appeal to the Negro and radical voters.

That prompted Senator Dirksen, the Senate's Republican leader, to do the revolutionary thing—he urged that the Senate put all non-essentials aside, including long, dreary, filibustering speeches, and get on with its important business!

If the Administration has its way and if the budget message of last week is followed, the public debt will skyrocket upward this year to $315 billion—about a $15 billion jump. Hopes that the President (after pleading for a tax cut) would favor a reduction in non-essential spending were dashed when the budget was released. It called for increases in practically every branch of the government. He asked for 36,000 new federal employees, a half dozen new federal programs, and an expansion and continuation of all the old ones. The budget—if the $13 billion tax cut is approved—contemplates a series of ten-billion-dollar annual deficits.

The Congress may balk at this unprecedented spending program, but liberals and free-spenders are present this year in considerable numbers. In my judgment it would be a mistake to approve new and expanded programs that are not related to national defense. Many of the old programs should be reduced or eliminated. Then, and only then, would it be wise and prudent to reduce taxes.

Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, Attorney General Bobby Kennedy hit the headlines. Members of the Kennedy family—12 in number—rushed to the Supreme Court to hear Bobby take part in an argument about a civil rights case from Georgia. But the nature of the case was not what attracted the attention. It was the first time in his life the Attorney General had ever argued a case in a courtroom—not even in a Justice Court—and the family turned out to hear and see Bobby in his first venture into active courtroom practice.

4 Day Civil Defense Survival Course Termed Success

More interest than he has seen in most towns in the state, is the way William T. Nelson, consultant on Civil Defense from Austin described the three-day Civil Defense survival course just finished in Winters.

An average of 66 persons attended the course, which was held Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights at the Winters High School. This big attendance was in spite of the cold weather.

The course was offered free to all adults of the Winters community. Four three-hour classes were held, covering effects of radioactive fallout, protective measures against nuclear devices, tornadoes, fires, floods, and decontamination procedures.

All persons who completed the course will receive completion certificates.

The course was sponsored by the local Civil Defense Unit, under auspices of the Texas Education Agency.

SP4 Elmer Nelson Writes of 65 Mile Trip With Boy Scouts

SP4 Elmer Nelson, son of Mrs. A. M. Nelson, who is stationed at Izmir, Turkey U. S. Missile Base, was one of the Assistant Scout Masters who took Boy Scout Troop 24 on a 65 mile hike to win the "Historic Trail Award."

Eight members of the Izmir Boy Scout Troop 24 completed the 65 mile hike to Ephesus. The group left the base December 26 and followed the Izmir-Ephesus trail in Turkey. There were 14 boys who started the hike, all trying for the "Historic Trail Award" and the "50 Mile Trail Award." In completing the hike the boys also gained three other scouting awards.

The Army Sergeant George W. Shaw, scout master of troop 24 stated, "This is one of the most outstanding feats I have witnessed and I believe this is one of the first historic trail hikes ever accomplished in this area."

After five days and nights on the trail the boys had completed the 50 miles to qualify them for the award, but they chose to hike the remaining 15 miles to Ephesus. In making the hike the boys were required to carry a weeks supply of food. If they bought anything along the way they were disqualified for the award. To make things worse, it rained every night and hail and rain made hiking a chore.

At the end of the hike the boys returned to Izmir by bus.

and supplies were purchased out of that fund. The balance will go toward the clean up campaign now in process.

A cleanup day will be announced when the weather is favorable, Mr. Burnett said the boys would varnish the supply boxes on that day. He also stated that the flag pole would be established in time for the flag ceremony training offered during April.

Mrs. Ward asked Mr. Burnett to assist her in arranging for some type of first aid training offerable to all program levels. If they are successful it will be announced later.

All leaders were urged to begin some projects, in their troop, that might be put on display for public interest during Girl Scout Week.

The goal for 1963 is "Let's Scout Together" and the theme "To Serve the Future."

"Let our focus be on the role of the scout leader," Mrs. Ruth Hoyle, district executor from the Brownwood council urges, "It is the leader that brings the meaning and richness to scouting to our children. Girl Scout service to the future begins with the leaders service to the girls now."
