The women's ensemble will present "Hear Us, O Saviour," and "The Child and the Lamb." Mrs. Orin Suffern will play an organ solo, "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring."

The public has been cordially invited to attend.

C of C Membership Drive Tuesday

A one-day membership drive will be conducted by the Winters Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday, May 7.

A membership committee, headed by Bill Bell as chairman, and made up of members of the board of directors, will canvass the entire community in an effort to increase the active membership of the business organization.

There are presently 112 active members in the Winters Chamber of Commerce, with a potential membership of approximately 165, it was reported. The committee will be working to increase the membership figures, contacting every business and professional man who is not a member.

In preparation for the membership drive, Bell pointed out the many services offered to the business community of Winters, by the Chamber of Commerce. The organization, he said, constantly is working on several projects for the betterment of the community. He pointed out that one of the major projects of the Chamber of Commerce has been the annual Christmas program. Last year succeeded in obtaining new Christmas street decorations, and plans are to continue to improve the lighting and street decoration program.

Bell pointed out that the Winters Chamber of Commerce is the central point of coordination for many programs to improve the city and community. Groups and individuals who wish to push for any improvements have a ready-made and organized force to assist in putting projects across, it was said.

In addition to sustaining programs and special projects throughout the year, the Chamber of Commerce provides office space for and assistance to several public and official departments. The secretary registers young men for the draft, works with the Salvation Army, American Red Cross and public welfare units. The Veterans Administration's service officers are provided with office space and assistance, as is the Social Security representative. The office also serves as an information center for tourists and newcomers to the city and community.

Bell and the membership committee have urged all non-members to become active in the organization, stressing the point that what helps Winters to succeed in turn helps individual businesses.

An attempt will be made to contact every business and professional man who is not on the active list, they said. However, if any are missed in this one-day drive, they are urged to call the Chamber of Commerce office and a committeeman will contact them.

Historical Sites Will Attract Tourists To Area

Tourism in Texas is coming our way! Through the efforts of the Winters members of the Historical Survey Committee of Runnels County, two historical markers have been awarded to the Winters area.

Medallions have been secured for the Cotton Oil Mill Site, sponsored by John Norman, and the Blue Gap Post Office Site, first post office in Runnels County, located 16 miles east of Winters, at Content. Both of these sites will be included on a Texas Tourist map of historic buildings and will be presented the medallions at a special program on May 12.

History is the top tourist attraction in Texas, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, and every area is seeking its share of the tourist trade. But, according to members of the Historical Survey Committee, our greatest potentiality for increasing tourist travel lies in improvement of historical sites.

Since the Blue Gap Post Office Site, located on the Roy Smith ranch, had no sponsor, Rankin Pace, a committee member, agreed to sponsor the building and has paid for the medallion. Highway signs are being painted and will be erected, to direct visitors to the site. Two clubs and one individual have contributed money to the work in progress; some have helped with the work; and others have expressed a desire to help.

The Blue Gap building is a one-room log cabin with hand-hewn cedar rafters, shingle roof and roughly hewn log walls, neatly joined at the corners. Built in 1878, the cabin is still sturdy but is in need of repair and the cost to restore the building will be in excess of $100. There are no funds appropriated for restoration, and the question is, the Committee said, "How much do we want to do?"

The committee is composed of Rankin Pace, Mrs. Loyd Roberson and Mrs. George Poe. They are asking for suggestions from the community, and explained that "there are others in the county who desire to sponsor and restore the building and remove it to another area. We would like to see the building remain on its original site." Those wishing to help in any way in restoring the Blue Gap post office may see any member of the committee, or make contributions at the office of the Winters Chamber of Commerce.

MASTER'S DEGREE: Benny D. Mayo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mayo, Route 2, Winters, will receive the Master of Religious Education degree from Southwestern Seminary, at spring commencement exercises May 17, in Fort Worth. He is serving as minister of education at First Baptist Church, Seminole.

"Swordsmen Of Siena"
Highlighted by one of the most spectacular horse races ever to be depicted on the screen, an authentic re-staging of the historic Palio Race run annually in Siena, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Swordsmen of Siena" is a swash-buckling drama, filmed in Cinema Scope and color, in the tradition of such romantic action stories as "The Three Musketeers" and "Scaramouche."
Stewart Granger, who scored a memorable hit in the latter film, is the swaggering, fighting swordsman of the new offering, in which he plays the role of a daredevil 16th century English mercenary whom gold and the chance of adventure lead to the North Italian city of Siena. Here he becomes involved in a daring plot in which an underground group of patriots seek to free the city from Spanish occupation.
"Swordsmen of Siena" shows Saturday and Sunday at the Fiesta.

"White Slave Ship"
Imagine 13 women and 13 men caged in a floating black pit of horror . . . all journeying to a hell of slavery in a wilderness land! That's the dramatic ingredients of one of the most unusual and most shocking sea adventure films of all time . . . American International's "White Slave Ship," filmed in beautiful and startling ColorScope.
Starring Pier Angeli and Edmund Purdom plus a cast of top international character actors and actresses, "White Slave Ship" shows Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

"White Slave Ship" is the fantastic story of beautiful women prisoners of London's Newgate Prison in 1675 who are sold into slavery to work in England's newly-developed American colonies. Caged aboard a sailing ship with them are male convicts, ranging from political prisoners to common cut-throats, who are also being shipped to involuntary servitude in the new land. How the men and women prisoners joined in a dramatic revolt against the inhuman conditions aboard ship forms the basis for the gripping story of "White Slave Ship."

"Incident in an Alley."
The explosive story of a devoted police officer who inadvertently kills a fourteen year old boy is brought to the screen in United Artists thrill packed drama "Incident in an Alley," which shows Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

With such bright young stars as Chris Warfield, Erin O'Donnell and Harp McGuire in the leading roles, the film deals dramatically with the events which occur after a policeman is found not guilty of manslaughter in the line of duty slaying of a young boy. The shooting occurs after the officer answers a woman's frantic screams for help. Although he is grief-stricken at what he has done, the policeman is convinced that the youth was involved with a gang of hoodlums suspected of committing murder and robbery.

"Two for the Seesaw,"
The story that warmed the hearts and tickled the funny-bones of playgoers is expected to do the same for local movie-goers when it shows at the State Theatre, through United Artists release. Filmed in Panavision, the romantic comedy stars Robert Mitchum and Shirley MacLaine.
The story of a slightly square lawyer from Omaha who, after a broken marriage, comes to New York City to find himself tells how he succeeds after a romantic fling with a kooky off-beat Greenwich Village gal. How both characters grow to understand some real truths about themselves from each other is the essence of the plot.

Weevil Repellent Extracted From Cotton, Report

A substance that repels boll weevils has been extracted from cotton plants by Department of Agriculture scientists. The repellent is one of three substances now taken from the cotton plant itself which has potential value in controlling boll weevils.
Scientists first isolated the substance that attracts the insects to the plant. Then the plant was found to have a feeding stimulant which encouraged the weevils to "eat heartily." But when the attractant extracted from the plant was warmed to room temperature, part of it vaporized. The part of the substance that remained proved repellent to the boll weevils.

The three chemical elements—attractant, stimulant, and repellent—are all taken from the cotton squares or flower buds. They hold possibilities for several ways of controlling boll weevils. A hopeful possibility, for example, is that plant breeders may be able to develop cotton varieties either with such a high content of the repellent that the plants will repel weevils, or with such a low content of the attractant that the plants cannot attract the weevil from any great distance.

The third element, the feeding stimulant, does not have the power to attract weevils but it offers the possibility of forcing them to starve on the wrong kind of diet. Weevils are voracious eaters of almost anything on which the stimulant has been poured—even cork and wood.
Agricultural Research scientists are continuing their work on the three substances to learn more about their properties and to identify them chemically. They are also searching for cotton strains that may have a high or a low content of the repellent, attractant and feeding stimulant.
To speed up this search for promising strains, test crops are being grown in the winter in Mexico and in the summer in Texas and the Southwest. If useful strains are found, they will be crossed with cultivated varieties in an attempt to develop cotton plants with chemical components that will help control the boll weevil.

Arrow Backdrop

An archer living in town is faced with a serious problem when target practicing. Too many times an arrow will miss the target and do great damage in a crowded neighborhood.

Eliminate the danger by stretching an old wool rug behind the target to catch stray arrows. To be most effective stretch it far beyond the four sides of the target.

Pheasant Shooting Suggestion

Now that pheasant shooting has become popular with Texans, it might help to tip off you Lone Star sportsmen as to the best spot to aim for when you press the trigger at a rising bird.
Texans, because of their unfamiliarity with this type of bird hunting, are apt to be fooled into dropping their lead by the pheasant's long tail. Always shoot for the head and mid-section, and you will get your bird.

Open House Being Planned For New Wingate Post Office

Open house for Wingate's new post office is scheduled for the near future, Postmaster C. L. Allen announced this week.
The new quarters at Wingate contain approximately 656 square feet of floor space, and were put into use Saturday afternoon.
The building was leased from James W. Allen to the department for five years, with renewal options for an additional five years.

Under the department's lease construction program, Allen will improve the building according to departmental specifications, furnishing refrigerated air conditioning, rest room facilities, modern heating equipment and adequate parking and maneuvering area.
The new quarters of the Wingate post office are located about one-half block east of Highway 53 where Allen is remodeling an existing building to improve postal operations in Wingate.

Brucellosis Tests Must Be Certified, Says County Agent

Stockmen of Rannels County this week were reminded by C. T. Parker, county agriculture agent, that herds must be re-certified to be free of brucellosis. This is a continuing program every three years, and the three years is about up, the county agent said.
Parker said the entire herd must be tested if there is a suspicion or reaction from the test. In herds where a reaction did not occur in the previous, at least 20 percent of the herd must be tested.
Stockmen may call the county agent's office and make appointment for the tests.

Removing Shot From Quail

If you've ever clamped your choppers down on embedded shot when eating quail, you will appreciate this hint:
After skinning a quail, hold the carcass up to strong light. Shot then will be silhouetted . . . much as in an X-ray . . . and can be quickly removed.

Small Borrowers May Pay 500 Percent Interest On Small Loans, If Bill Passes

Yern Sanford Press Association's final bill which would abolish the old 4th, and relocate it in South Texas.

Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall succeeded in delaying Senate committee action on the measure to May 7, so the opponents can come to Austin.

House passed the bill to the Senate, over protests from Rep. Don Hefton of Sherman. Delay on the hearing may put the redistricting proposal, authored by Rep. Rayford Price of Frankston, in jeopardy.

Governor Connally has said he saw no need for Congressional redistricting this session. He thought it could be handled in 1965.

Meanwhile, U. S. Congressman Ray Roberts, who now represents the old 4th, doesn't seem worried about losing his job. He's looking for a press liaison man for his Washington office.

At-Large Elections Suggested
Eighty Texas counties, in which two county precincts or more, represent a fraction of the total county vote, would be affected if a constitutional amendment by Rep. Lindsey Rodriguez of Hidalgo ever comes to a favorable vote by the public.

Under Rodriguez' plan, if the total number of votes cast in two or more commissioners' precincts amount to less than 20 per cent of the total vote cast in the election of all four commissioners, the commissioners in the small precincts would be required to run on a countywide-at-large basis.

Rodriguez described the most extreme example of a situation he's trying to cure—that in Kleberg County where two of the county's four commissioners' precincts "are behind locked gates" on the King Ranch, where 80 voters reside.

Witnesses from around the state appeared in favor of Rodriguez' proposal. But Gaines County Judge Charles Lawrence said the County Judges and Commissioners Association is opposed.

DOCTORS BEING CALLED
State draft boards have issued a call for 60 doctors for the Army, Navy and Air Force, according to State Selective Service Director Col. Morris S. Schwartz.

The 60 physicians would be the state's share of a national call for 1,350.

Physicians — either fathers or non-fathers — would be subject to call if they were born on or after January 1, 1935.

ONE-DAY SESSION
A special, one-day ($8,000) session of the Texas Legislature would be held on December 1, 1964, under a House-approved resolution by Rep. Bill Dungan of McKinney.

Purpose would be to swear in House members and elect a speaker. Aim is to enable the speaker to make appointments so the 1965 session could get underway immediately.

EIGHTH REPUBLICAN
When Charles R. Scoggins of Corpus Christi was sworn in to fill the vacancy created by the recent accidental death of Rep. James L. Lattimore of Corpus Christi, Texas had its eighth Republican member of the current Legislature.

The 31-year-old Scoggins, a geologist by trade, is the second Humble Oil Company employee in the House.

Rep. William S. Davis of Midland, a petroleum engineer, is the other Humble employee. He, too, is a Republican.

The memory selection for next Sunday's Sunday School Lesson is: The sacrifice acceptable to God is a broken spirit; a broken and contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.—Psalms 51:17. The following is by James R. Sewell—In the lesson the psalmist wishes to teach transgressors the truth in order to turn them to God rather than to cry out against them; to sing a song of thanksgiving for his deliverance from the death of sin; to offer that which God desires above all else—"a broken and a contrite heart."

When everything is thus restored, God will even be delighted once again to accept one's whole offering. We are told there is rejoicing in heaven over one sinner that repents. Why not an excess of joy in the heart of the sinner on earth who is forgiven?
