Lions Hear State Rep. Ben Barnes

In a talk before members of the Winters Lions Club at noon Tuesday, State Rep. Ben Barnes of DeLeon, representing this District, described the 58th session of the Texas Legislature as the "most harmonious and productive in many years," and then took issue with the Kennedy administration's proposed civil rights bill.

Rep. Barnes was a guest of Mayor Harvey D. Jones at the weekly service club luncheon.

The "harmony and cooperation between the State Senate, the House and the Governor's office" during this session was indicative of the determination of most of the lawmakers to get something done by working together, Rep. Barnes indicated.

Reduction of the industry-crippling sulphur tax, reduction of the corporation franchise tax and reduction of the bank franchise tax were some of the results of the cooperation, he said. Rep. Barnes also touched on reorganization of the state government, and the redistricting problems facing the State of Texas.

Then, taking the same route recently opened by Gov. John Connally, the big red-haired representative from Comanche county blasted the civil rights bill advocated by President Kennedy. He said that these proposals were the "most dangerous ever introduced since 1776."

He said that it is dangerous to attempt to destroy the property rights of everyone just to grant the wishes of a few. He recognized the fact that the Negro should be given an opportunity to better himself, but advocated a local approach to the problem. This is the same stand that Gov. Connally took in a televised speech recently.

Rep. Barnes told the Lions that Texas must seek out and establish industry for the good of the state's economy. He also said that the power of organized labor in Texas is growing, and said that he believed that the Texas right to work law was the "finest on the books," contrary to the beliefs of the heads of organized labor.

Touching on the subject of higher education, Rep. Barnes said that the number of students enrolled in

Milo Harvest In North Runnels At Season Peak

The milo picture in North Runnels County still is bright, despite the fact that rains have not come at the right times within the past few weeks to benefit growers.

This is the consensus of grain handlers and growers in the area, who still are optimistic over the overall production for the area.

Much of the grain now being cut is premature, but must be harvested, it was pointed out. Lack of surface moisture has caused the grain to mature before it is ready, and stalks are falling, it was pointed out. However, moisture content of the harvested grain still is high, elevator men said. This is caused by the natural tendency of the grain to demand every drop of moisture which can be reached by the root system. Sub-surface moisture is said to be fairly high.

Although it is late in the season, rain at the present time would help the grain to a large extent, it was stated. However, it was pointed out, production will be above the average for the past several years.

Some local production has gone to 3,000 pounds per acre, with an average of between 1,500 and 2,000 pounds, grain men said.

Phillip Pettus On Dean's Roll At Okla. State

Phillip Pettus, Winters, has been cited on the Dean's honor roll for outstanding scholarship during the summer session which ended July 25 at Southwestern (Oklahoma) State College.

The recognition is given students with grade point averages of 3.0 or better in a full summer schedule of classes.

First Bale Ginned Here

A bale of cotton grown by Ralph Teten on the J. S. Tinkle farm, nine miles southeast of Winters, was the first bale ginned in Winters this year. The Winters Chamber of Commerce has awarded a $50 premium to Teten for producing the first bale of cotton.

Teten was badly burned in an accident July 2, and the cotton was brought in by Raymond Cortez Monday. It was pulled by Cortez and his brother-in-law, Manuel Pena of Floresville. Teten has been in Winters Municipal Hospital 35 days and was due to be released Thursday of this week. He was burned on the arms and face in an explosion while cleaning an oil tank near Norton July 2.

Also burned were Mike Patterson and Johnny Hopper, who are being treated at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston.

The first bale for 1963 weighed 2,250 pounds, and ginned out 950 pounds of seed and a 560-pound bale. The cotton was ginned by Davidson Gin.

Water Department Will Flush Main Lines Next Tuesday

W. D. Waggoner, superintendent of the City Water Department, said his department will flush all water mains in Winters next Tuesday.

Residents and water users are reminded that water pressure will be low in certain sections of town while lines in those areas are flushed.

FFA Will Sponsor Rabies Vaccination Program Thursday

The annual program to vaccinate dogs and cats for prevention of rabies will be sponsored by the Winters High School chapter of the Future Farmer of America.

Pet owners may take their animals to the vocational agriculture building on the school campus next Thursday to receive the vaccinations. Hours will be from 8 a. m. to 12 noon, and from 1:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Dr. Robert Miller, Winters veterinarian, is working with the FFA chapter in this rabies vaccination program.

A fee of $2.50 will be charged for each animal vaccinated, Lon McDonald, FFA advisor and agriculture teacher, advised. A certificate and tag will be issued for each pet, he said.

This is an annual program participated in by the local FFA chapter in the attempt to prevent rabies in this vicinity.

L. G. Wilson Named Coach of the Year By Ex-ACC Coaches

L. G. Wilson, head coach of Winters High School, who guided the Winters Blizzards to Class AA state semifinals last year, was named Tuesday as the first recipient of the ACC Exes' Coaches Association's Coach-of-the-year award.

Wilson, a 1949 graduate of Abilene Christian College, received a plaque for the award at the annual meeting of the Exes' Association in Houston, being chosen over four other nominees.

Wilson's Blizzards won 13 straight, including an upset of state-favorite Denver City in the quarterfinals, before losing to eventual-state champion Jacksboro, 6-0, on a pair of last-half field goals.

Wilson, along with other members of the Winters coaching staff, is attending the coaching school at Houston this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Aschen of Port Lavaca are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Uecker.

Winters High School Blizzard Football Team Picked To Lead In District 6-AA

The 1963 edition of the Winters High School Football team has been picked to lead the pack again this year in District 6-AA.

This is the opinion of the coaches of the six schools making up the district.

In a poll taken recently among the coaches, five coaches picked the Big Blue team to take first place in the district, while one coach picked them for third place. Pre-season ratings, as seen by the coaches, were:

Winters: 5 first, 1 third.
Ballinger: 1 first, 2 seconds, 2 third, 1 fifth.
Stamford: 3 second, 2 third, 1 fifth.
Haskell: 1 second, 2 third, 2 fifth, 1 sixth.
Anson: 4 fourth, 1 fifth, 1 sixth.
Hamlin: 1 fifth, 5 sixth.

The coaches of District 6-AA feel that if a team survives the district race in good physical condition, they will be hard to handle in the stampede for state playoffs. This is a well balanced district, with a tough game every Friday night, they pointed out. Every team can offer good, tough players for just about every position. Last year Winters won their five district games with scores of 14-6, 14-6, 12-7, 12-0, and 26-0. Coaches indicate that they expect the same kind of balance this year.

This is the image, tinged by pre-season speculation, as conjured up by the mentors of the "little Southwest Conference" district for 1963:

The public is invited to hear this man of God speak, announces the Rev. B. L. James.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith left Wednesday for a visit with relatives in various points in Georgia.

The Winters City Council Tuesday night approved the establishment of a school to train Licensed Vocational Nurses at the Winters Municipal Hospital.

No definite date has been set for the start of the school, but it was anticipated that all preparations could be made in time to begin October 1 of this year.

A continued critical shortage of trained personnel for work in the local hospital, and the fact that many women in the area have expressed a desire for such training, prompted the Council to take action in establishing such a school, it was announced.

The LVN school, conforming to requirements for state accreditation, will be designed to accommodate eight students per class, it was pointed out. Each class will be of 52 weeks duration, at the end of which students will be qualified to take the State examination to receive their licenses as Licensed Vocational Nurses.

The superintendent of the Winters Hospital will be the instructor, assisted by members of the staff and local doctors. Mrs. Tommy Rougas, superintendent, is in the process of setting up the school, and she said that as soon as additional information is received, the first class will be formed. The school must be in operation prior to submitting a request for state accreditation, Mrs. Rougas said, but she felt sure that once the school is established all state requirements will be met.

Mrs. Rougas said that she has ordered materials and applications, and as soon as they arrive applications will be taken.

The Winters LVN school will be patterned after the Abilene Hendrick Hospital School of Vocational Nursing, it was stated, with some changes in admission requirements. A small registration fee will be required from each student, to be used to purchase text books and other materials for use in the school.

As tentatively planned, the LVN course will extend over a period of 52 weeks, of which the first 16 are the pre-clinical period, and the last 36 are the clinical period. During this year a total of 444 class hours will be given, plus a total of 1705 hours of supervised practice.

Students will be paid a stipend after the first 16-week pre-clinical period. There will be no stipend for the pre-clinical period. Pay will be $25.00 per month for the second period, $50.00 per month for the third, and $75.00 per month for the fourth period.

Mrs. Rougas said that although many women have indicated interest in the establishment of an LVN school in the Winters Hospital, each 52-week class would be limited to eight students. This number is based on the average daily census, she said.

Although full details have not been worked out, requirements for admission to the LVN school will include: good moral character, good mental and physical health, high school graduate or its equivalent, satisfactory scores of pre-entrance examinations, ability to work the required hours of duty in the program. Others may be added before final registration of the first class begins, it was stated.

Mrs. Rougas said that as soon as full details are known, and necessary materials have been received, an announcement will be made to prospective students.

John Davis Makes Hole-In-One At Local Country Club

Mrs. Davis and Russell Mote were present when the once-in-a-lifetime golf shot was made.

Trinity River Development Plan Wins First Round In Bitter Fight

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Supporters of the proposed billion-dollar Trinity River development plan won the first round in the opening day of hearings when the Texas Water Commissioners turned down the railroads' motion to delay the Austin hearing.

Gov. John Connally's approval of the commission's proposed plan was expected. He had long since pledged his support.

Connally called the navigation project "a major step in one of the most important water conservation, flood control, and navigation projects in the history of Texas."

Texas Highway Department's 60-seat capacity auditorium overflowed during the two-day hearing as every community in the vast Trinity watershed was represented.

Spokesman for the railroads was Walter Caven, counselor for the Texas Railroad Association.

Plan of the U. S. Corps of Engineers calls for development of the entire watershed for navigation, flood-control, water conservation, water quality control, drainage, irrigation, hydroelectric power, fish, wild life and recreation.

Thirteen reservoirs are included in the long-range plan, 1,022 and other features to make the river navigable from the Gulf to Fort Worth would claim more than $15,000,000. That's more than a million dollars a mile for the 50-mile project.

Barge-line navigation of the Trinity from the Gulf to Mexico to the Dallas-Fort Worth market was the target of railroad objections.

Railroads claimed that army engineers "greatly overestimated" traffic potential, minimum growth and benefits to be derived. Caven said the 20 railroads would have to spend more than $20,000,000 to relocate lines and bridges in the Fort Worth area. Then they would lose $6,500,000 annually in freight business to the barge lines.

NEW SPEED LIMIT IMPOSED
Some 4,000 miles of state-maintained highways will be under the new 70-mile per hour speed limit when the law becomes effective on August 21.

Texas Highway Commission approved the definite maximum for passenger cars for more than two-thirds of the state's highway system.

Department has received only four reports of cases so far this year.

That needed for the state last year was only 14. Credit for the decline of the epidemic is given to such as Sabin vaccines.

But health officials continued to warn Texans not to be complacent. People of all ages are urged to know up with booster shots.

Civil Rights Get Attention of Senate Committee

It is the use and enjoyment of private property, freedom is to be respected, then what's the difference between the right of an innkeeper to refuse to rent a bed to Mr. X, and the right of Mr. X to refuse to rent the bed from the innkeeper?

That question was tossed into the lap of the Senate Commerce Committee last week by Governor Farris Bryant of Florida. And none of the Senators present could answer it. The Committee was holding hearings on Bobby Kennedy's bill to force the Innkeeper to do business with Mr. X—but not to force Mr. X to trade with the Innkeeper.

Any traveler can decide not to stay at a certain motel because he doesn't like the owner, his moustache, his accent, his prices, his race or his other customers, Bryant said.

The motel owner should have exactly the same right, the Governor said, to refuse to serve the traveler.

"That's simple justice", Bryant added. "The wonder is really that it can be questioned."

MASONS START BUILDING FOR LITTLE CHILDREN

The cornerstone of a building for pre-school children at Masonic Home and School in Fort Worth was laid recently by George K. A. Montgomery, a Fort Worth high school senior, and other Masons.

Shown putting mementos in the cornerstone box are several three-to-six-year-old children who will benefit from home-like facilities of the new building. On the left is Hugh M. Craig of Fort Worth, Masonic Past Grand Master and member of the Masonic Home Independent School District.

A substantial part of the building cost came from the May 2, 1962 issue. The building is the first addition to the Masonic Home and School.

Peace Precincts Puzzle

State County Commissioners' Court had to puzzle over the location of the new county courthouses to be completed early in 1964.

That was to recognize the four peace precincts that all would intersect at the new courthouses. Current justice would keep their present offices.

But Atty. Gen. Waggoner said that cannot be done that way. If the commissioners' court alters the boundary lines of any justice precinct, Carr commented, "a vacancy exists in the office of justice of the peace and constable which the court must fill by appointment until the next general election."

LEGISLATIVE 'RIDER'
A legislative "rider" on the 1962 state budget to cut physical training programs in 20 State colleges to little more than "mass calisthenics" was declared invalid by the attorney general.

Carr said that while "riders"—i. e., restrictions on legislative appropriations—usually get by, this one went too far. It would have kept colleges from spending all their allotted budget if compulsory physical training programs were offered.

Commission on Higher Education asked for the attorney general's opinion, after physical training directors claimed the "rider" would have crippled their work.

INDUSTRY GAINS
Gov. Preston Smith is a staunch defender of local-versus-state programs for bringing in industry.

He said Kwanis, Texas does not have to rush headlong into any unwise scheme to bring industry to the state. And as long as we can do this locally there will be less unemployment.

Smith said the privately-supported Texas Industrial Commission had done a "commendable job."

Last year Texas was third in the nation in attracting new industries.

The Commission provides support, advice and materials to local industrial development groups.

HEALTH LETTER

When Texans are looking for fun, they are very likely to head for the water. And it should be no surprise to anyone that swimming tops the list of participant recreation. A recent Gallup Poll of sports participation of United States adults puts swimming first on the list. At least a third of the adults swim each year. No less than five million Texans use aquatic facilities annually.

Addition to the water apparently extends from coast to coast. More than 57,800 pools were built last year and 70,000 is the expected figure for 1963, an indication that pool construction is fast becoming a major industry. Some are complete with artificial sand beaches. Others have adjoining tennis courts and playgrounds.

Throughout all this accelerated interest in swimming runs hazards of life and limb and possibilities of disease transmission through contaminated water. That's why the State Department of Health stepped in with a plan for schooling swimming pool operators in the various skills of their jobs. The voluntary plan works like this:

Any pool operator may register for "short courses" being held according to announced schedules. The schools are sponsored by the Department's Division of Sanitary Engineering and the Texas Beach and Pool Association. Operators who successfully complete the instruction and pass a written test will be awarded certificates of competency. Ordinances in some cities make attendance mandatory for its pool operators.

During the first part of 1963, 25 swimming pool operator's short schools were held in Texas. The total attendance hit the 1,350 mark; and 850 operator's certificates were issued. The schools first began in 1958. The ever-present possibility of drownings (there were 1,000 in 1961), accidents and other hazards in the popularity of water recreation are compelling reasons for the Department's program of schools for pool operators.

Swimming pools, pool developers are finding, are houses and buildings that the well know hot cake court owners have found to be an attractive draw. Even during periods of tourist flow, the courts fill up first.

Although much is being done to prevent hazards of the final burden rests on the individual. Swimming is a swim where it's safe.

The subject for next Sunday's International Sunday School Lesson is: People of the Covenant. The following is by Amos John Traver—A covenant is a solemn compact. Two parties are involved: in this covenant God and Abraham with his descendants. The conditions of the covenant must be fulfilled by both parties or it will be broken. God's wonderful promise to Israel required obedience. The sacrifice of animals had no value unless it represented the sacrifice of self. Human pride could defeat the immediate purpose of God and bring punishment, though God's ultimate purpose would be fulfilled in Christ.

God's covenant was not man-made. It was not an equal partners God offered His covenant to Abraham. Revealed religion begins with God and is not the capstone of man's research and achievement. True religion is not man's search for God but God's loving search for man. Even the conditions that represented Israel's part in the covenant could not be met without God's constant aid. Only the response of faith in every generation could open the way for God's promised blessings.

Tuesday afternoon of last week Mrs. A. T. Williams of Drasco was hostess to her Sunday School Class, the Esther Class of the First Baptist Church, Winters. The gathering was in Mrs. Williams' home. Read The Label On The Can

If the family food budget is a matter of concern in your home then cultivate the habit of reading the labels on the cans and boxes. It could mean better nutrition for your family as well as savings on the pocketbook.

The average supermarket carries some 8,000 items. Most of them are packaged or processed to some extent and must comply with various federal and state laws. In complying with these laws, the label offers valuable clues to content, weight and sometimes nutritional value inside the package.

A recent study by United Press International showed that food labels of the 1890s and 1900s had very little information to help the shopper. The labels usually told the name of the product, often with a picture, and phrases calculated for buying appeal. But few specific facts were offered.

Today, laws govern and regulate food labels. All foods sold or shipped across state lines must list specific information. This includes the common or usual name of the product; name and address of the manufacturer, packer or shipper; an accurate statement of quantity contents in terms of weight, measure or numerical count. When a product is not standardized, it must also show a list of ingredients if two or more foods go into it.

Regulations also govern information on these ingredients. The use of artificial coloring, flavoring and preservatives must be correctly stated and dietary properties if the product is for specific dietary use.

It is also a good idea to shake the box, oddly enough. Some "giant size" boxes calculated to appeal to the shopper at a saving often have been found to be only partially full—well below the normal "settling" of the product.

Here are a few guide lines for saving on the food bill:

Examine food packages carefully, checking net weight and degree of fill; buy brand names that give the product accurate and useful label information; do not be influenced unduly by adjectives or colorful pictures on the package; know the cost of the food purchases; compare the cost per unit; and register complaints with the store manager.

HATFIELDS VS MCCOYS—TEXAS STYLE

'Tis not only the mountain boys who have their feuds. Texans have had their share too.

Between 1841 and 1844 there was great loss of both life and property of warring factions around the town of Shelbyville, in Central East Texas near the Louisiana border.

End of this long and destructive, unorganized feud, known as the Regulator-Moderator War, came when the President of the Republic of Texas, Sam Houston, sent Texas forces under the command of General James Smith to restore order.

After such a long feud, it is surprising to note that General Smith ended the hostilities without ever having to fire a single shot.

COFFEE MILL CHURCH

Texas is well known for its German settlements. Of all the German settlements, the town of Fredericksburg in Central Texas perhaps has been the most frequented by tourists.

If you stumbled into Fredericksburg by accident it wouldn't take long for you to learn that you were in a German-styled, German populated township.

Sights along its long, wide main street are varied and many. Perhaps best known is the Vereins Kirche.

It is called the "Coffee Mill Church" because of its octagonal shape.

"Showdown"
Kathleen Crowley, a strawberry blonde who hails from the East, but has gained fame in the West, doesn't mind being heroine to a screen cowboy star as long as she doesn't have to give a true-life portrayal of some of the famous gals of Gold Rush days.
"From what I've learned about them from books about the Early West, they were as charming and romantic as a bucket of axle grease," says Kathleen, who is currently costarring with Audie Murphy as a fictional Early West beauty in Universal's "Showdown" at the State Theatre, Friday and Saturday.

"Diary of a Madman"
"Diary of a Madman," the terrifying suspense thriller showing

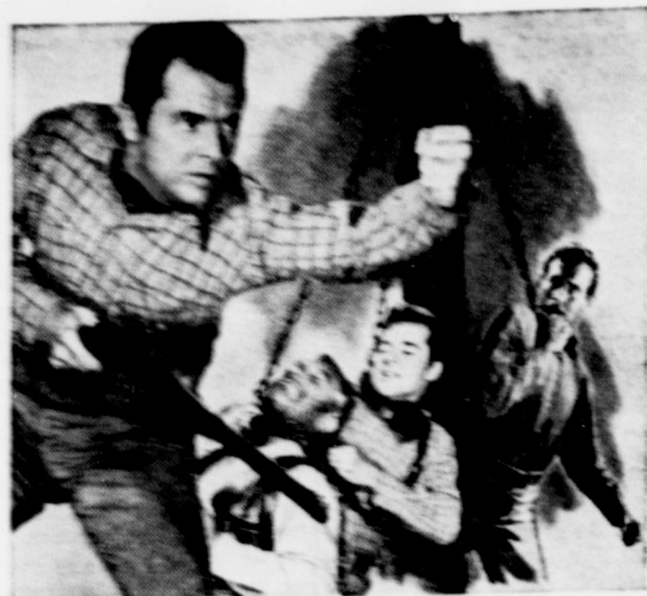

Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre, through United Artists release, stars Vincent Price in one of the most evil portrayals of his career. The Technicolor film, based on stories by Guy DeMaupassant, co-stars Nancy Kovack and was directed by Reginald LeBorg. The screenplay was written and produced by Robert E. Kent.
Set in Paris in the 1880's, "Diary of a Madman" tells the strange tale of a respectable Magistrate, Price, who becomes possessed by the Horia, an invisible evil being. The Magistrate's diary relates the series of almost incredible events and the grotesque crime which lead to his violent and untimely death.

"State Fair"
A gifted performer, whether acting, singing or writing a new novel, Pat Boone joins Bobby Darin, Pamela Tiffin, Ann-Margret, Tom Ewell and Alice Faye in giving life to the wonderful music and lyrics of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II in 20th Century-Fox's CinemaScope-Deluxe Color extravaganza, "State Fair". The musical-romance shows Sunday only at the State Theatre.

"Follow That Dream"
"Follow That Dream" will only appeal to movie fans who like to laugh. Starring Elvis Presley, the romantic comedy shows Saturday only at the State Theatre, through United Artists. Cast as a naive, girl-shy singing yokel, the type of role he played so successfully in his earlier films—and a change of pace from his recent dramatic parts—Elvis sings five new songs in "Follow That Dream," which is shown in Panavision and Color by De Luxe. Co-starring with him is two-time Academy Award nominee Arthur O'Connell and screen newcomers Anne Helm and Joanna Moore are the two dreams who follow Elvis.

"Savage Sam"
In "Savage Sam," the fast-moving story of a blue tick hound dog and a crew of relentless Indian hunters, Walt Disney has his best feature motion picture in the high-action field to date, excelling anything he has done before with the possible but unlikely exception of this story's predecessor, "Old Yeller."
Both pictures are based on best-selling novels by Fred Gipson. "Savage Sam," shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Fiesta Drive-In.

"Savage Sam" boasts a top, hard-riding cast that includes Brian Keith, Tommy Kirk, Kevin Corcoran and Dewey Martin, plus a comely newcomer on the distaff side, 18 year-old Marta Kristen.
Filmed almost entirely on location in California's San Fernando Valley, the tale is about six rugged Texans who follow the bugle music of a hard-to-stop hound dog across the Southern Plains to rescue white youngsters from renegade Apaches. It is action of the highest, fastest type, produced with all the pains-taking care that Disney has become famous for.

The camera catches Audie Murphy against an artist's representation of a scene in "Showdown" showing Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre. Kathleen Crowley and Charles Drake are co-stars in story of West's cruelest chain gang.

LEADING THE CHASE, Brian Keith hardly slows down to pick up a passenger as he pursues a band of Apaches in Walt Disney's "Savage Sam." Showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Fiesta Drive-In.

"The Main Attraction"
The many fans of Pat Boone and Nancy Kwan are in for a surprise when they see MGM-Seven Arts' "The Main Attraction" showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Fiesta. For in this exciting emotional drama, set against a backdrop of a small traveling Italian circus, both Boone and Miss Kwan make a complete about-face from their previous characterizations.
Boone abandons his scrubbed-face roles to play a cynical young American drifter in leather jacket and jeans, while Miss Kwan leaves behind her Oriental roles of "Suzie Wong" and "Flower Drum Song" to portray an Italian gamine who rides bareback in a truck horse act.
While "The Main Attraction" features the famed Boone vocalizing in four songs, offers the color and vitality of circus life, and is highlighted by a spectacular avalanche in its climactic scenes in the Italian Alps, it is primarily the story of the love of a boy and girl complicated by the interference of an older woman and the girl's brother-in-law.

SINGING EACH SATURDAY
Regular community singing is held each Saturday evening at the Pentecostal Church of God, it has been announced. The public is invited to attend.

SWISS MISS—These sheep seem undisturbed as an unexpected guest drops in on them in Switzerland.

What is the best size hook to use? This question invariably comes up wherever fishermen gather. Actually, there is a wide tolerance in the sizes of hooks. The average fisherman knows them best by sight... but rarely by numbers.
Sizes are rather easy to remember, however. Generally the big hooks are given the low numbers and the higher the number the smaller the hook.
For instance the No. 1 hook is the largest. Generally it is of the O'Shaughnessy style. It has enough strength built into it to handle a 100-pound fish.
Numbering system set forth above, however, does not apply to all hooks since hooks are made by different manufacturers.
For instance some catalogs list trotline hooks as 6-0 for the largest size and grade them down to 2-0 and 1.
Many salt water treble hooks also are numbered down. In other words, the largest size may be the 8-0 and the smaller hook the 2-0.
Actually, metal hook-making is a comparatively new industry.
Although most of the present hook manufacturers are located in England, the first metal hooks were made in China. Then the idea was taken to Germany where machines were developed for manufacturing hooks. From there the industry spread to France and England. A tremendous output of hooks now comes from Norway, a original home of the famous Mustad hook.
Mustad's hook-making industry came from the decline of the horse. Mustad and Sons made horseshoe nails. They started producing hooks after horseshoe nails were no longer in heavy demand.
Our hooks now are singles, doubles and trebles. They are made of carbon steel with from 0.45 to 0.95 carbon content.
There are many special-purpose hooks.
Most everyone is acquainted with the old trotline hooks. Perhaps the most popular hook, however, is the plain fishing hook. The one used by pole fishermen who bait up with worms or minnows. Usually such hooks are purchased from open stocks with the choice determined by the individual fisherman's desires.
One man may like the Irish Limerick hook, with the turned down eye. The next may want a long-shanked Carlisle hook, especially for perch fishing. Others lean toward the gripper-type hook that has two or more barbs on its shank.
For everyday fishing the No. 6 to No. 10 sizes seem to serve best. They are good sized hooks for use with either worms or minnows in fresh waters.
Coastal fishermen will find sizes 6 and 8 good for trout. But heavier hooks will be required for reds and larger fish. Again, it is best to pick your hooks by inspection because of the variable sizes.
Fly hooks usually run in sizes between 4 and 14. Plain small perch hooks range between 10 and 16. Long shanked, snelled hooks—sizes 12 to 14—are excellent for perch.
Treble and double hooks for bait casting plugs customarily run in sizes 6 to 10, depending on the manufacturer and the market.
There are many trick-type hooks. Some are spring-type. They are supposed to snap tight for a stronger grip on the fish. But more fishermen than fish are caught on these hooks.
Every fisherman should take good care of his hooks. It is best to keep a small whetstone handy to hone the point after each hook is used. They become dulled by long use. Since hooks are cheap, the wise thing to do is throw the old hooks away, and buy some new ones.
Incidentally, some of the top

Runnels County Has Vital Position In Economic Picture With Huge Oil Income

With oil and gas production worth about $13.3 million a year, Runnels County citizens have a financial stake in the worldwide demand for energy and the complex economic and political problems involving the petroleum industry, according to statistics compiled this week by Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

"We have pulled together some figures from the most authoritative sources so residents of Runnels County can see how local pocketbooks are affected by some of the issues which involve our industry," said J. Clyde Tomlinson, Association president. "Issues of current concern include the proposals to cut percentage depletion rates, extension of federal controls over prices at which Texas producers sell their gas, and development of laws and production methods that will help Texas compete with other states and nations for markets."

The latest year for which U. S. Bureau of Mines figures are available (1961) shows Runnels County producing more than 4.7 million barrels of crude oil, valued at about $14 million; and 10 billion cubic feet of natural gas, with a value of almost $1.3 million. Runnels ranks 73rd among Texas counties in value of oil and gas production. In 1961 there were 1,292 producing wells in the county—1,271 oil and 21 gas, according to the Texas Railroad Commission.

Although its first field was discovered 36 years ago, Runnels County is the scene for the industry's continued search for oil and gas. Some 142 wells were drilled in Runnels County last year, with 53 being wildcat exploratory wells, according to the Oil & Gas Journal. The Association estimated that more than $7 million was spent on drilling in the county this past year and that some $3.2 million of this went for dry holes. Close to $51,000 was spent last year on geophysical crews using seismic devices to probe the underground formations of Runnels County for possible drilling locations.

Leasing adds many thousands of dollars to the county's economy. Royalty payments to Runnels County farmers, ranchers and other landowners are running at more than $1.9 million annually, the Association calculated.

Runnels County producers and royalty owners also make a sizable contribution to the support of state government, with production tax payments of about $735,000 a year—some $645,000 from oil and $90,000 from gas.

Industry taxes likewise are important to the county government.

and school districts in the county. For instance, 20 per cent of the local property taxes collected for the Ballinger Independent School District comes from oil and gas operators; 59 per cent at Winters.

A sizable impact on the Runnels County economy has been registered by petroleum industry payrolls. About two out of every five payroll dollars in the county are derived from employment in oil and gas work, according to figures from the Texas Employment Commission. The industry payroll is almost $1.8 million a year, with the average employee receiving more than $4,800 annually.

Three natural gasoline plants are operated in the county, handling some 56 million cubic feet of gas a day.
