Cynthia Davis Honored At Party Saturday

The C. E. Huffman home was the scene of a party Saturday night honoring Miss Cynthia Davis, bride-elect of Lt. Leonard I. H. Stone of Grand Forks Air Force Base, North Dakota.

Miss Davis, wearing a white wool suit from her trousseau, was presented to the guests by Mrs. Huffman. Assisting in welcoming the 52 guests were the bride's mother, Mrs. Ladell Davis, her grandmothers, Mrs. G. C. Davis, and Mrs. R. B. Osborne, the bride-elect's aunt, Mrs. James Wheeler of Abilene, and the bride-elect's cousin, Paula Wheeler, also of Abilene.

Mrs. Sam Jones and Mrs. Marvin Bedford invited the guests to be served from the table which featured the bride's colors, berry and white. The cloth was net over taffeta, highlighted with handcovered velvet roses at the corners. Presiding at the silver service were Mrs. Clarence Ledbetter and Mrs. Floyd Sims. Other appointments were of china and silver.

The gifts were displayed in several rooms which were decorated with flowers in various shades of pink.

Other hostesses were Mrs. W. F. Lowe, Mrs. Emma Marks, Mrs. Pete Davidson, Mrs. O. D. Bradford Jr., and Mrs. Robert Gans. Hostess' gift was an electric skillet.

Miss Davis and Lt. Stone will be married Saturday, January 25, at the First Methodist Church in Winters.

SCREWWORM COUNT ZERO

Texas stockmen did not report a single case of screwworms from Dec. 20 through the first week in January, according to Dr. R. G. Garrett of the Texas Animal Health Commission.

Dr. Garrett said the 17-day stretch without a case reported was a record breaker, and recalled that 157 cases were reported in Texas last January.

At the same time, he urged Stockmen to inspect their animals carefully to make sure the screwworm doesn't get a new start.

CARD OF THANKS

Our heartfelt thanks to all who extended comforting sympathy and help in our recent sorrow. For the beautiful service, floral offerings, food and other kindnesses, we are deeply grateful. The family of Jim Lindsey.

CHEVELLE! by Chevrolet

One of the things you'll like best about it is 11 models to choose from.

MALIBU S.S. SERIES
These two Super Sport models are Chevelle's finest. Front bucket seats, door-to-door carpeting and an all-vinyl interior in seven colors. A wide choice of transmissions and extra-cost high-performance engines. Plus a whole host of other options.

MALIBU SERIES
Chevelle's middle-of-the-line series, the Malibu, retains many features found in the two Super Sport models. Like all Chevilles, it's a good foot shorter than big cars, making it easy to park and handle. Yet inside it's surprisingly spacious and comfortable.

300 SERIES
Chevelle's most economical series—but don't let its gentle price tag fool you. The 300 has all Chevrolet's traditional value and reliability. Full Coil suspension. Body by Fisher. Flush-and-dry rocker panels. Your Chevy dealer will tell you all the rest.

Joey Heatherton shows Richard Chamberlain a mark from a beating in this scene from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Twilight of Honor," showing Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre.

"It Happened At the World's Fair,"

Anyone who missed attending the Seattle World's Fair last year will have a chance to visit it vicariously in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new Elvis Presley comedy with songs, "It Happened at the World's Fair," showing on a Double Bill, Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

With much of the picture filmed off location at the Fair, scenes were photographed against such colorful attractions as the Monorail Ride, Skyride, Dream Car Exhibit, Bell Telephone Stair and Floating City of Tomorrow.

Other sequences take place at the Theme Building, the Science Exhibit, Filipino Building and the restaurant atop the Space Needle, where Elvis Presley and Joan O'Brien play one of their romantic scenes and Elvis sings "I'm Falling in Love Tonight."

"Twilight of Honor,"

Richard Chamberlain, who has become the idol of millions of television viewers as Dr. Kildare, plays his first starring role in a feature motion picture in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Twilight of Honor," showing Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre.

In this tense and absorbing courtroom drama, based on the best-selling novel by Al Dewlin, Chamberlain's role is a far cry from that of his famous doctor portrayal. He plays David Mitchell, a small town attorney who is appointed to defend a man accused of wantonly murdering the community's leading citizen.

Together with Chamberlain, the Perlberg-Seaton production, filmed in Panavision, stars Nick Adams as Ben Brown, who faces the murder charge; Claude Rains as Art Harper,

State Capital Highlights— More Than 4,334 Texans Learn To 'Do It Yourself' Till Doctor Comes

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

For the past three months, Texas has led the nation in the number of people taking a newly-developed, 11-lesson course in "Medical Self-Help."

Prepared by the U. S. Public Health Service, the plan is to train at least one member of each family in emergency do-it-yourself doctoring.

Thousands of Texans have been taught what to do until the doctor comes. But state health officials agree with federal officials that still more need to know what to do in case the doctor never gets there. Prime reason of course is in case of a disaster or attack.

Dr. J. E. Peavy, State Commissioner of Health, says more than 4,334 Texans have "graduated" in the pilot program of the Medical Self-Help project and others are studying now. He says that instructions complement rather than duplicate existing programs and has been endorsed by the Texas Medical Association.

Information or assistance in setting up a local program may be obtained from the State Health Department in Austin.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

THE ORIGINAL "PHILADELPHIA LAWYER"

Frequently, when a problem is particularly perplexing someone will exclaim that "this would confuse a Philadelphia lawyer." The term takes on special significance when it is remembered that it has a close connection with one of the most important cases in American legal history—the seditious libel trial of John Peter Zenger in 1735.

Zenger was the printer and publisher of a paper known as the New York Weekly Journal. Unfortunately he made the unhappy mistake of criticizing the administration of Royal Governor Cosby of New York in the public print. The tyrannical Cosby had Zenger jailed and thus began a dramatic and important event in American history.

Zenger had editorialized that the Governor had had to lands destroyed, judges arbitrarily displaced, new courts established without the consent of the Legislature and had denied the right to vote to certain landowners. All of these accusations were based on fact but truth was held to be no defense in a prosecution for seditious libel, which was defined as "a written censure upon public men for their conduct as such." Inconceivable as it is today, the English courts had taken the position that the greater the truth the more serious the nature of the libel.

Zenger was brought to trial for his published remarks and almost immediately his New York counsel were disbarred because of the resistance they offered in his defense. After disbarment they secured the services of Andrew Hamilton of the Philadelphia bar to continue the defense. Hamilton was the foremost lawyer in the American Colonies and the term "Philadelphia lawyer" was long used as a special compliment in his individual honor.

Hamilton offered his services to Zenger without fee. Displaying great moral courage he defied the judges who were controlled by the Governor and told the jury that it was not considering the cause of just a poor printer. Instead, it was considering the cause of "the liberty both of exposing and opposing arbitrary power by speaking and writing truth." At the conclusion of the trial the Chief Justice instructed the jury that the printed words of Zenger were libelous and that if the jury found he had published them, as he had, then Zenger should be found guilty. Under such circumstances it was obvious that Zenger would be convicted.

Fortunately, the jury, which was not controlled by the Governor, defied the court. Zenger was found not guilty. America had a free press and as Governor Morris, one of the members of the Constitutional Convention was later to remark, "The trial of Zenger in 1735 was the germ of American freedom, the morning star of that liberty which subsequently — revolutionized America."

CIGARETTE TAX REVENUE HOLDING

A federal study committee's report linking cigarette smoking to lung cancer and other serious ailments is slowing state tobacco tax revenues little so far, according to Comptroller Robert S. Calvert.

Calvert recalls that an earlier warning caused smoking and revenues to decline for about a month. An increase followed. Last year's cigarette tax take hit an all-time high . . . $90,300,000.

OIL ALLOWABLE RAISED

Railroad Commission set the highest oil production allowable in 12 months when it put the February allowable at 29 per cent of capacity. It's an estimated increase of 25,249 barrels a day over January.

CARD OF THANKS

This seems a very small way but I would like to express my gratitude, thanks and appreciation to all who helped in any way when God called my love one, Louis Heard. A special thanks to the entire hospital staff for their constant care. To the Church for the food for our nourishment, friends and neighbors. For the beautiful floral offering, memorial gifts, cards, letters and calls, I am grateful. To Bro. Elliott for all his nice visits and words of comfort, to Dr. McCreight for all his faithfulness in these last days, to the staff of Spills, and the ones who sat vigil. May God who has been so conscientious in all of this Bless each and everyone of you and let me be a helping hand when sorrow comes your way. Mrs. Louis Heard. 1tp

By VERN SANFORD

By Vern Sanford
There's not a fisherman alive who wouldn't love to catch a big bass.

A lunker largemouth is something special, and indeed he should be. You just don't take one every day.

But there are a select few fishermen who seem to score more consistently than others. There's probably such a person in your hometown, someone who makes it a maddening habit of bringing in the big ones. How often have you found yourself wondering what magic formula he uses?

I hate to disillusion you, but there is no magic formula, no shortcut to success.

This man has succeeded because he knows where to fish, when to fish, how to fish. And most important of all, he keeps a bait in the water more than the rest of us. If you go fishing enough and mind your ABC's of bass-fishing technique, then sooner or later that magic moment arrives. When it does, you'll never forget it.

Let's break this big-bass fishing down to the basics and take it step by step.

First, there's a matter of knowing where to fish. We all know that bass prefer some kind of cover. Perhaps around a stump or a submerged rock. They like to hang out where there is a combination of waters—shallow and deep. The shallows for feeding, the depths to retreat to for safety.

But it isn't this simple. There are some spots that are productive, some that are dead. Mostly it is a matter of moving around, trying one likely place after another until you chance upon the spot where the big ones hang out.

That is why the angler who fishes one lake regularly is going to have more success than the person who is continually changing around. You've got to stick with one area and get intimately acquainted with it.

Pretty soon you'll learn where the big ones live. And once you have learned this, half the battle is won. You'll always be throwing your baits in productive water.

Then, there is the matter of knowing when to fish.

Day in and day out, bass will hit better early in the morning, between dawn and sun-up, and again late, from sundown until dusk. Of course, there are exceptions to this, just as there are exceptions to any angling rule. But generally, you'll have your best success during these periods.

The average fisherman, who gets on the water around eight in the morning and quits in mid-afternoon, wonders why he never takes any of these big bass. Main reason, of course, is that he's fishing at the wrong time of day. The fish simply are not feeding when he is fishing.

And finally, there is the skill of knowing how to fish. This encompasses more than the average fisherman would ever imagine. It includes everything from the proper approach to the correct presentation of the bait.

The lunker fisherman comes upon the spot he intends to fish with the utmost caution. He cuts his outboard long before he reaches the spot and either approaches with the aid of a silent electrical motor or paddles. He makes doubly sure not to make any unnecessary noise, such as scraping a paddle against the boat or banging shut his tackle box.

He tosses out his bait and lets it sink deep, for he knows the big ones hang out right on the bottom. Sure, you can take them on top occasionally, but far more often you'll get the grand-pa bass right off the bottom. The big-bass angler either works his bait deep, near bottom, or right on the lake floor itself.

The bait comes in slowly, the slower the better. Blue ribbon fishermen have found it pays not to hurry. Far better to work a short stretch of shoreline thoroughly than covering a lot of water haphazardly. You can't hurry an old bass.

It is literally impossible to work a bait too slowly. Some fishermen spend several minutes on a single retrieve. If there is one common mistake most fishermen make in bait presentation, it is working the lure too fast.

The skilled fisherman thoroughly tests his tackle before he ever makes a cast. If he is using a reel with a drag device, he tests it to be sure it is set neither too hard nor too soft. He checks his knots to make sure they are secure. And he tests his line to see if it is frayed or nicked. When he drives the hook into a bass, he knows what his tackle can do. He knows exactly how much pressure he can apply without something giving.

Real good fishermen do all this checking the night before they head for the lake. Then they are ready for action as soon as they reach the water bright and early the next morning.

BANKS . . . Are For Every Person Who Uses Money . . .

Banks could not exist just to serve the needs of the rich. There are not enough rich people. Ninety-five per cent of all people who use banks are people of moderate means.

The man who earns his daily bread, every person who uses money, needs the facilities which the bank offers. For dollars enter into nearly every transaction, and dollars keep going back and forth to and from the bank like the bees of a hive.

Banks are as necessary as food stores, clothing stores, etc. They serve the needs of everyday men and women.

Buying Land In Florida
Land in Florida was then being sold by real estate agents in Spain. Land in what are now the other Atlantic Coast states was being sold in France and England. This land sold at prices which seem very low today. Much land in Florida could then be bought for 50 cents an acre which now sells for $500 with the moon. Russia was training her young people to be interested in space, for two reasons. First, because Russia believes that if World War III occurs, fighting will take place above the earth's atmosphere; and secondly, because space may be "good business" and the Russians will make a profit from it. Therefore, we must not feel that money which the United States Government spends on space will be wasted; in fact it may be very profitable.

This brings me to a final thought. I recently have been reading about the galaxies, which are great collections of stars or would-be stars scattered throughout the universe. There are millions of them. Some are great distances away. They apparently have no beginning, and no ending. I even believe that these stars, so-called, or portions of galaxies, will be speculated in by real estate agents in this country will be selling one of these stars, or certain parts, to people as a speculation. It will be possible to buy Star No. 1250, for instance, in Galaxy K, which a person can hold and then sell to someone else at a profit. The price, of course, would be very cheap and speculation therein would be very interesting. All this means that young people should give more study to space and to the celestial bodies which apparently have no beginning and no ending.

Buying Land On The Moon
Readers may laugh at me, but I think the same thing will happen in connection with land on the moon. I believe real estate agents will some day be selling land on the moon which may show a profit, as did land sold in this country 150 years ago. My reason for feeling this way is that land on the moon can be "viewed" by means of the new radio telescopes, which will enable real estate agents in the United States to show prospects what part of the moon they are buying and the particulars regarding it.

These radio telescopes will be available at many points so that real estate agents can use them with perfect safety. Many of the larger universities now have such radio telescopes and will probably soon allow real estate agents to use them.

When I Was In Russia
When I was in Russia, I found the Russian government very much alert to the possibilities of buying land in space, starting

Land in Florida was then being sold by real estate agents in Spain. Land in what are now the other Atlantic Coast states was being sold in France and England. This land sold at prices which seem very low today. Much land in Florida could then be bought for 50 cents an acre which now sells for $500

So much for my ideas on future real estate transactions. But what would my readers have said if, say, sixty years ago I had forecast the excitement over football between universities which exists today? Readers would have thought me crazy. Let me now forecast that our universities will be getting just as competitive over galaxies and stars.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

By Vern Sanford

By Vern Sanford
A pair of binoculars is invaluable to the outdoorsman. Yet few sportsmen know what to look for in binoculars. This whether the binoculars are used in hunting or boating or maybe just to watch a football game.

With telescopic sights coming more into vogue, you see fewer hunters lugging binoculars about the woods. But have you noticed that a great majority of the blue-ribbon hunters usually have a pair handy.

There is a good reason, of course. The top notch hunter is a meticulous individual. He spends more time looking and less time traveling.

Get on a knoll or hillside or even up in a tree—with a pair of binoculars—and just spend your time looking. You'll be surprised how much more you can see.

A high quality pair of binoculars has the ability to almost penetrate brush. The lenses capture and intensify the light, making it easy to see under feeble light conditions.

Today's binoculars come in many different sizes and price ranges. There has been an increased output from Japan. Most of Japan's binoculars are economical and acceptable. But like anything else, you get just about what you pay for.

The big idea is to know what to look for before you purchase binoculars. Most people simply wander into a sporting goods store, put a pair to the eyes, adjust the focus, look around for a moment, and then say, "I'll take them."

But later you might find that you can't look through the glasses for any length of time without your eyes protesting. Although everything may appear all right, the glasses may be out of alignment and put a strain on your eyes.

A quick check for alignment is simple. Focus the glasses on some distant object, such as the top of a building, and slowly push the binoculars away from your eyes. As the glasses get toward arm's length, if you see two distinct images, the glasses are not aligned properly. With good alignment, both images will merge into one even when the binoculars are at arm's length.

A pair of binoculars has many advantages over the scope-sight of a rifle for the job it is intended to do.

For one, it is tiring to hold a rifle up to your shoulder for any length of time. Binoculars are much lighter.

For another, binoculars have a wider field of view, thus permitting you to study a larger area at one glance.

For instance, a good six-power binocular will have a field of view at least 450 feet wide at 1,000 yards. A seven-power job won't be far behind, something like 400 feet.

Compare this to a six-power scope which has a view of roughly 200 feet at the same distance.

Contrary to popular belief, a number such as 6x30 and 7x35 does not in any way indicate the field of view of that particular glass. Instead, the first number indicates the power of the binoculars while the second is the diameter of the objective, or forward lens. The larger the number, the larger the objective lens.

A larger objective lens will permit the entrance of more light and consequently you'll be able to see better in weak light conditions. A 7x50 pair of binoculars, for example, will permit much more light to reach your eye than will a 6x30 glass. In a few instances, the field of view may be indicated on the binoculars. Usually it is indicated with a figure like 7 degree plus 12, which, of course, is an angular measurement. Since one degree field of view is 52 1/2 feet at 1,000 yards, you can compute the field of your instrument by some simple mathematics. In the above case, it would mean multiplying seven times 52 1/2, then adding 12 more feet.

Binoculars are focused to the user's eyesight in two ways. With the center focusing unit you can adjust both eye pieces at once. Individual focus is achieved by adjusting the focusing knob on each eyepiece.

There are several things which determine the price of any particular pair of binoculars.

Power of magnification and size of the objective lenses combine to make one. The stronger the power and the larger the objective lenses, of course, the higher the price.

Durability and type of construction also have a lot to do with price, along with the quality of the lenses.

Important to consider, however, is that the stronger the power and the larger the objective lenses, the more the instrument will weigh. A pair of 6x30 binoculars will be considerably lighter than the 8x50 size.

If you're going to carry a pair slung around your neck all day, it may be wise to sacrifice some power for lighter weight. This again is a matter of choice. So, pick a pair that suits your own individual needs and desires.

Paul McCowen Took 7 Applications For S. S. Benefits Wed.

Field Representative, Paul McCowen, of the San Angelo Social Security office, said he talked to about 15 persons this past Wednesday during his regular visit to Winters. He took 7 applications for monthly benefits.

Mr. McCowen meets at the Chamber of Commerce Building on the 2nd and 4th Wednesday of each month from 10:00 to 11:30 and invites anyone who has a social security question to see him.

Sterilize the soil for your seed flats.

Brush Control Changed for '64

Controlling brush under the Agricultural Conservation Program has been changed by the Texas State Program Development Group, according to an announcement by the Runnels County ASCS office.

For 1964 the County Committee has selected the applicable methods which apply to the varieties of brush growing in this area.

In order to qualify for cost-sharing at the maximum rate, generally 50 percent of the total cost, the farmer or rancher must agree in writing to defer grazing on the area on which this practice is carried out for a period of not less than three consecutive months during the period from March 1 to December 1 following performance of the practice.

The County Committee has selected deferred grazing for cost-sharing payment in 1964. It will be limited to pastures where brush control has been carried out as required under the brush practice. The deferral payment may not exceed the cost-share payment made for brush controlled in the same pasture.

Where the three-month deferral requirement is not met after brush control, the cost share payment will be reduced by 25 percent. The applicant must decide whether or not he will defer at the time he requests cost-share to control brush. If his decision is not to defer, the cost-share obligation will be reduced by 25 percent and may not be increased after the brush is controlled, even though he later meets the deferral requirement.

The spotted bass is sort of an in-between fish. It isn't a largemouth nor is it a smallmouth. Water-wise, it more closely resembles the largemouth since it prefers the warmer habitat. Appearance-wise, it looks more like the smallmouth.

It really is sort of a Johnny-come-lately to the angling scene. For many years it was confused with the other two species. It wasn't until 1927 that it was recognized as a distinct and separate species.

When the old Texas Game and Fish Commission transplanted some smallmouth bass into the headwaters of the Llano near the town of Junction, some years back, it encouraged fishermen to report if any of the alien fish were caught.

Right away, they heard anglers tell of catching the smallmouths. But in every instance, when the report was checked for authenticity, it was found that instead of a smallmouth the angler had in fact taken a spotted bass.

Sometimes it is very easy to confuse the spot with the more abundant largemouth bass. Especially in turbid waters which cause the color to be a milky instead of a vivid green.

But there is one surefire way to distinguish between the two. Run an imaginary line vertically down the bass' jaw, just at the rear of the eye. If this line bisects the back of the mouth, you've got a spot; on a largemouth the mouth goes beyond the line. Also, the spot has a red eye while the largemouth does not.

Spots prefer running water and you're most likely to catch one out in the fast-moving channels of a river.

On the Llano, for instance, Cabeza de Vaca crossed the Southwest in 1536 on the way to New Spain.

It isn't uncommon to hear some Texan say that he caught a "smallmouth bass."

In the true sense of the word, he hasn't caught a smallmouth although the fish is different from the largemouth bass which is most commonly found in our streams and lakes.

Actually what he caught is a spotted bass.

Smallmouth bass are not native to Texas waters. Perhaps the nearest spot where they are found in any numbers is Bull Shoals Lake in Arkansas. Smallmouths were introduced into the cool waters of the Llano River headwaters, but the transplant didn't meet with much success.

Spotted bass are quite common in some of our streams. Particularly in this true of fast-running rivers like the Guadalupe and Llano of Central Texas. A spotted bass never grows too large. But what it lacks in size, it makes up for with spirit.

On sporting tackle, a pound-sized spot fights like a fish twice that size.

Although the spotted bass is primarily a stream fish, some showed up in the lakes of Central Texas when streams were impounded. It isn't unusual to take a spot from any of the Highland Lakes. In this lake environment, one sometimes grows to three pounds or larger. But this is very rare. When you catch a two-pounder, you've got a good one.

Cub Scouts Of Den 6 Held Meeting Mon. In Jim Burnett Home

Cub Scouts of Den 6 held their weekly meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jim Burnett. Benjie Davis led the flag salute. The boys practiced a game, which they will lead at the next Pack Meeting, January 28.

Jim West became Denner and Jay Henderson assistant Denner. The boys then finished the project they had been working on.

Ricky Bentley served snacks to Tommy Burnett, Benjie Davis, Rusty Nichols, Jay Henderson, Jim West and Den mothers, Mrs. John Davis and Mrs. Jim Burnett.

The meeting closed with the living circle.

Junior Lutherans Regular Meeting Held Recently

The regular monthly meeting of the Junior Lutherans was held recently, with the president, Walter Spill Jr., presiding. Roll was called by the secretary, Nancy Ueckert, and the meeting was opened with the group singing several songs, accompanied by Sherry Wessels at the piano.

Sherry Wessels read Psalm 121 as the scripture lesson, and the offering meditation and prayer was given by Rhanae Hoppe. Tommy Miller and Randy Mabry took the offering. David Wilson gave the treasurer's report.

Four visitors, Ronnie Wessels, Mark Belitz, Billy Tichler and Mary Lue Wustinger, were welcomed. Billy Tichler and Mary Lue Wustinger joined the Junior Lutherans.

Refreshments of cupcakes and punch were served to the group by the hostesses, Mrs. R. Simpson and Mrs. E. P. Wessels.
