

HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

A few short years ago Winters' economic stability was locked to agricultural conditions alone. Judging from the changes which have taken place in many other towns throughout the country which were entirely dependent upon agriculture, if things had remained as they were the picture for Winters would not have been to bright.

However, several things happened which changed the course of the town. Production of oil suddenly became a major economic factor, and shared with agriculture the hope for the future of the community. And then certain individuals decided to enter the industrial scene; they grew and made a place for themselves. Others followed, one after another, until today the industrial complex of Winters is one to be envied by many, many other cities of like size, and larger.

These enterprises, though not industrial "giants," have taken their place alongside what many of us consider the "big boys" and their growth and influence have become something to be considered. They're not "small town industries" by any sense of the imagination, but pull their weight throughout the country.

Winters is fortunate to have been the spot where all this has happened. So, it is up to every one of us to recognize the importance of our local industry and business... and work together with them for further advancement. It is also important to realize that each facet of the community... agriculture, oil, industrial development, business, or what have you... goes to make up a diversified fiscal position which would be hard to beat.

When the doors of The Winters State Bank opened Monday morning, it immediately became apparent that "something new" had been added! Each one of the girls working behind the windows and at the desks was wearing a uniform—a dress with little stripes—all dresses were alike. Made a right attractive picture, and we understand they will wear them again during the two-day industrial exhibit Friday and Saturday. In fact, there is some talk of a regular "uniform" for all the girls. Other banks over the country have tried it, and response has been good. We've heard quite a bit of favorable comment on the girls' new uniforms.

Think television has no effect upon the minds of the young? We observed two little boys about to settle their differences the other day, and one warned the other, "Okay, but you have to promise not to hit below the belt. You might shatter my stomach."

Along about midnight a few nights ago, John Waddell heard his dog, Old Dan, uproaring in the back yard. So John bounced out of bed and headed for the back yard to see what the commotion was all about. He found out right away, because there was something in the wind... a polecat had decided to visit Old Dan, and being brought up the way he was, Old Dan was having none of it... he still prefers to pick his own friends.

John grabbed a stick and lit in after the polecat, but the dirty skunk turned on him. John landed a good blow, knocked Mr. Skunk winding, and then beat a hasty retreat... only to be back into a plum bush. As he regained his feet and composure, so did the cat, and started after him again. John fell back to the house to regroup and bring up his heavy artillery... in the form of a shotgun... and quickly dispatched the visitor.

As was to be expected, the air was quite heavy for some time... but that's not the end of the story. About two o'clock in the morning, Old Dan hollered again. Mrs. Skunk—or maybe it was the Mr.—came over to find the mate. So John had to go into action one more time. John says it's all over, that time and a lot of fresh air should have erased any after effects... and says, please, fellows, don't avoid me any more!

All kidding aside, anyone finding skunks or other wild animals in their yards should be extremely cautious. That skunk tried to attack John Wad-

Six-Way Track Meet In Winters On Saturday

Utilizing the new cinder track and field facilities of Winters High School, the Winters Blizzards will host five other schools Saturday, April 4, in a six-way track meet. Coach L. G. Wilson announced this week.

Schools competing in Saturday's track and field events will include Ballinger, Coleman, Fredericksburg, Stamford, Sweetwater, and the host school, Winters.

The new cinder track north of the football stadium, said to be one of the finest in this area, is being used extensively for the first time this year. Construction of the facilities was completed early last year, from funds received mainly from post-district football games the season previous, but was used very little during last year's track season. Coach Wilson is said to be exploring more possibilities for greater use of the track.

Track fans are invited to attend this track event, which promises to produce a lot of action. Preliminaries will begin at 10 a. m., with finals to start at 2 p. m.

Two School Board Members To Be Picked Saturday

Regular election to name two members to the board of trustees of the Winters Independent School District will be held Saturday, April 4, in the Chamber of Commerce office.

No contest is seen in this election, with only two announced candidates for the two vacancies on the school board. Raymond Lloyd and Audra L. Mitchell, incumbent members of the board, are up for reelection. Terms of office are three years.

School district patrons also will vote for a member of the county school board. Only one vacancy occurs, with one incumbent member up for reelection. E. E. King of Ballinger is a candidate for re-election.

Polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. Election judge is Travis Jordan, with Mrs. Elzie Cox and Mrs. Grover Davis, clerks. To qualify for this election, voters must have lived in the school district for a period of six months, and have a paid poll tax receipt or age exemption certificate.

Winters Teacher Receives Science Scholarship, TCU

Clifford Erwin, math and physics teacher of Winters High School, has been selected by the National Science Foundation to participate in the 1964 summer institute for high school teachers of science and mathematics.

The school making the selection is Texas Christian University and the six weeks institute will begin June 8 and end July 17.

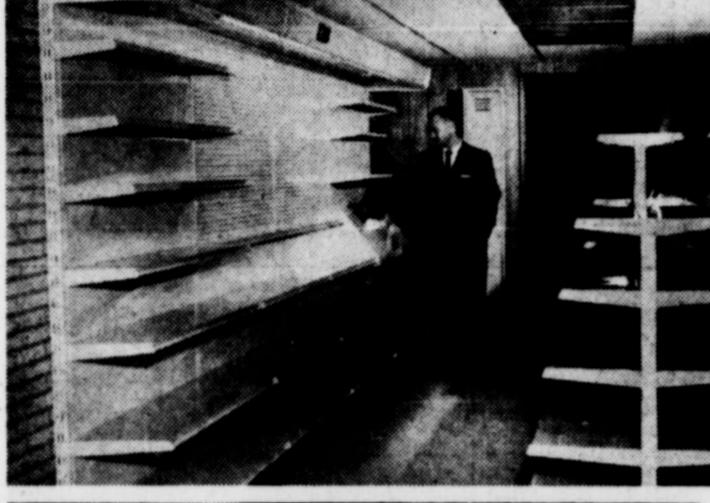

Erwin has been teaching math and physics in the Winters High School the past two years, and will enroll in the physics section at Texas Christian University. The course he will study will be Advanced General Physics for High School Teachers. A detailed study will be made in the areas of heat, sound, light, electricity, and the modern and nuclear physics.

VFW and Auxiliary Begin Year With Easter Egg Hunt

Winters Post 9193, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and its Ladies' Auxiliary began their new organizational year Sunday by sponsoring an Easter egg hunt in the City Park for children of veterans.

Prize eggs were found by Sandy Bates, daughter of Mrs. La Dola Bates, first place; Sherri Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Collins, second place; and Monty Guy, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Guy, third place.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Lewis were in charge of arrangements.

A PROCLAMATION

Recognizing that from day to day industrialization is becoming more and more important to our Nation, our Community and our Town; and

In keeping with a resolution of the State Legislature and by Official Memorandum of the Governor of the State of Texas declaring the week of April 1-7 of each year as Texas Industrial Week; and

Being fully aware that Industry and its allied businesses has been of immense benefit to Winters and Winters Community and has virtually saved our Community from the economic failure that has befallen many communities not so fortunate as we who have no industry;

NOW THEREFORE, I hereby proclaim the Week of April 1 to 7, 1964 as Industrial Week in the City of Winters and I encourage all citizens to pay particular note to the many advantages Industry has offered us, including Manufacturing, Oil, Livestock and Agricultural Industries. I ask that you visit the Industrial Displays arranged this week and learn more of the Industry and products of our community. I urge you to give due recognition to this very necessary economic aspect of our community life and express appreciation to those responsible for the unusual industrial development of our town and community.

Proclaimed this the 25th day of March, the Year of Our Lord Nineteen Hundred and Sixty Four.

(SEAL) HARVEY D. JONES, Mayor

Cancer Crusade Starts April 6; Volunteer Workers To Canvass Area

Volunteer workers in the local Cancer Crusade are scheduled to meet on Monday, April 6, at the City Hall at 4:00 p. m. to receive materials and instructions for their work in the residential canvass.

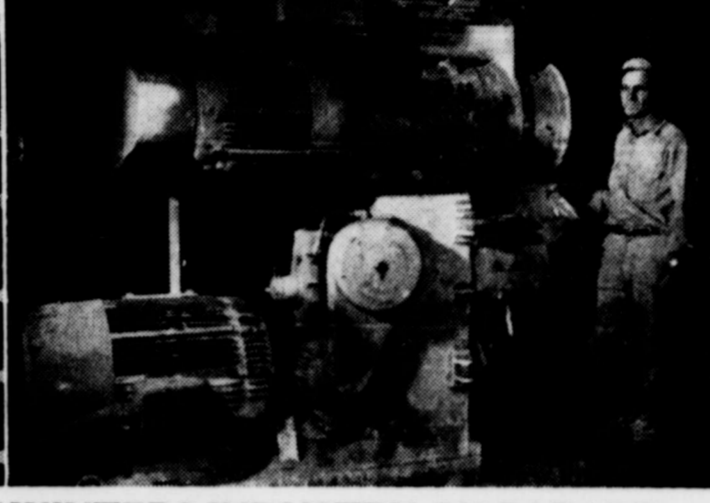

The Crusade in the business area will be conducted next week, beginning April 6. J. W. Bahman is in charge of this part of the drive and he will be assisted by J. C. Wilkerson, Bill Parish, George Briley, Ed Roller, Roger Robinson and Harry Herman.

East Side Church of Christ To Hold Week-End Meeting

Leon Bahlman of San Angelo will be the speaker for the week end meeting which begins Friday April 3, at the East Side Church of Christ and continues through Sunday April 5, it has been announced.

Services will begin at 7:30 p. m. on Friday and Saturday. Sunday services will begin at 10:30 a. m. and at 7:00 o'clock in the evening.

Mr. Bahlman is a devoted preacher and the members of the church extend a cordial invitation to every one to come hear him and worship with the congregation.

Blizzards Storm Over Opponents At San Angelo Relays Friday, Saturday

Winters High School Blizzard track team members swamped competition in their division in the San Angelo Relays Friday and Saturday of last week, with one member of the local group receiving the outstanding individual vote in Division II.

The Winters boys chalked up a team total point score of 35, outdistancing the second-place 27-point Eldorado team in High School Division II.

Also, Winters' Steve Grissom, who seemed to be every place at one time, took both hurdle events and ran a lap on the third-place mile relay team, and was voted outstanding individual in Division II.

Big Richard Shade, who during the 1963 football season was nicknamed "Big Daddy" and "Bull Moose," put the shot 49 feet 3 1/2 inches Saturday to take first place in that event, giving the locals three first places.

Leroy Kettler soared 11-0 to win the pole vault event.

SUMMARIES
120-yard hurdles: 1, Steve Grissom, 15.1. (Grissom set record of 14.7 in preliminaries.)

Boy and Girl of Month Named By Student Council

Johnny Mathis and Barbara Beltz, junior students in Winters High School, were picked by the Student Council as "Boy and Girl of the Month" for March.

Miss Beltz is treasurer of the local chapter of the Future Teachers of America. She has been a member of the FTA three years. She also has been in Authors Anonymous Club for three years, and is serving as secretary-treasurer of the German Club. She has played basketball and volleyball two years.

Mathis is president of the junior class. He has been a member of the Student Council for two years, and was treasurer of his class for two years. He played football and is a member of the track team.

Industrial Exhibit Friday, Saturday

State and area attention will be focused on Winters Friday and Saturday when many "Made in Winters" products are put on public display in the lobby of the Winters State Bank.

Coinciding with Texas Industrial Week, the exhibit will include several of the products which are manufactured locally and a salute of recognition by the community to the several companies in Winters which make up the industrial complex.

The public is being invited to visit the bank lobby Friday and Saturday and see for themselves just what position these companies occupy in the community, and what products they are manufacturing for use throughout the United States and in many foreign countries.

The bank lobby will remain open from 9 a. m. each day until everyone has had a chance to visit the displays, bank president John Q. McAdams said.

Visitors will be asked to register when they visit the exhibit, and a drawing will be held at the close of each day. Two $100.00 U. S. Savings Bonds will be given away, one on Friday and the other on Saturday. Winners in the special drawing do not have to be present—all that is required is that they register.

GUIDED TOURS PLANNED
Persons who wish to tour some of the plants of the Winters industrial community will have a chance to do so Friday morning.

Guided tours have been planned by Dry Manufacturing Co., Pan-American Industries, and Alderman - Cave Milling & Grain Co.

The first tour will begin promptly at 9:45 at Dry Manufacturing Co. Visitors will be given a complete explanatory tour of the plant. At 10:45, Pan-American Industries will have a guided tour of their plant. Alderman - Cave will hold their tour at 2 p. m. Friday.

Tours will start promptly at the announced time, and everyone is invited to visit these plants.

McAdams, who is promoting the industrial exhibit with the cooperation of Chamber of Commerce members and company officials, said that he has forwarded invitations to state officials, bankers and others from over a wide area to visit Winters and the exhibit during the two-day event.

Firms participating in the industrial exhibit will include: Dry Manufacturing Co. — Makers of louvers, grilles and diffusers, the Porta-Heat portable canned heat heater, and other metal products. These products are shipped to distributors and dealers all over the United States. The company has undergone expansion several times within the past few years, and continues to expand.

Pan-American Industries—Formerly Winters Manufacturing Co., producers of Evaporative air conditioners in sizes to meet the needs of homes, offices, factories, mobil homes, and portable models for many uses. These coolers are shipped to all parts of the country, and big shipments are made to many overseas distributors.

One product manufactured by Pan-American is a line of metal merchandise display shelves. A definite departure from the usual shelving, these metal shelves are said to be more sturdy and more adaptable to different positions than anything on the market.

The company also builds desks, component parts of audio education booths, metal lockers and other metal products.

Alderman - Cave Milling & Grain Co.—One of the largest and most modern plants in the area, producing livestock feed for a wide area. The mill is equipped with push-button machinery, enabling one man at a control desk to move raw grain from any location in the mill block into the grinding and mixing machinery where it is processed into livestock feed. The mill offers custom grinding, besides selling their own brand of livestock feed. A fleet of trucks services livestock feeders throughout a wide area. This company has undergone considerable expansion within the last year, and there are plans for further expansion.

A. B. Spill Machine Shop—Manufactures forced-cast metal pulleys, in a variety of shapes and sizes, and other molded metal objects. Their products are used by local manufacturers, as well as being sent to other buyers over the state. Machine shop equipped to handle a wide variety of work in the machine line, from the smallest metal objects to giant oil field and industrial machinery.

Commercial Feeders, Inc.—One of the largest livestock feeding companies in this area. Taking advantage of the availability of locally-grown grains and locally-raised livestock, the company is providing a facility to combine the two for finishing beef cattle ready for market. Much expansion has been made since the beginning of the enterprise less than two years ago, and plans call for further building.

Sparkle-Lite, Inc.—Using a new and different type of sign material, Sparkle-Lite has taken a very important place in the field. A small plastic bubble placed in holes in a metal background reflects lights behind the background. The sign system is said to be unharmed by hail and windstorm, unlike neon tube signs. Products of this company are being shipped to many foreign countries, in addition to being well-received all over the United States.

Kozelsky Cabinet Shop—Joe Kozelsky, owner of this business, maintains that individual attention to each operation in building of cabinets and allied products, spells the difference in run-of-the-mill woodwork and handcrafted products. His work is seen in a majority of the cabinet work in new homes in this area, where he fits the cabinets to the home. He also does other woodwork.

Bill Wilson Fiddle Shop—Wilson specializes in rebuilding of string instruments, and repairing instruments. He also makes fiddles and other instruments, and parts. His shop also is equipped to do gem cutting, and examples of his work will be on display at the industrial exhibit Friday and Saturday.

Madrigal Singers From H-SU Will Present Program

The Madrigal Singers, a 12-member vocal group from the Hardin - Simmons University School of Music, will present a special program at Winters High School Friday morning, April 3.

The program will be held in the high school auditorium beginning at 9:15.

The Singers will be under direction of Mrs. Grace Kline Morrow, who is assistant professor in the H-SU School of Music. Sam Beam, H-SU graduate and now minister of music and education in the First Baptist Church of Ballinger, will assist.

The Madrigals will present their program around a candle-light semi-circular table in the manner of Elizabethan performers. Mrs. Morrow said they will present programs at Ballinger and at Lakeview following their appearance at Winters.

Young Farmers Hear County Agent Parker Tuesday

Winters Young Farmers organization met on Tuesday at the agricultural building and heard a report by County Agent C. T. Parker.

Mr. Parker presented results of test plots on sorghum and cotton and described different varieties used in the tests.

P. O. Calls for Bids On Air Conditioning

The Post Office Department announced invitation for bids on March 30, 1964 on the proposed additional air conditioning to be installed in the Winters post office. The contractor will furnish all labor and materials necessary for installation of air conditioning equipment in accordance with plans and specifications on Post Office Department Drawing No. 1-64-7 dated 3-23-64. The work is to be completed within 35 days from date of acceptance of bid by the Government. These sealed bids will be received at the Winters postoffice until 3:00 p. m. on April 30, 1964. See the Postmaster, Winters for bid forms.

Roger Babson Says— New Developments Mean More Ease, Convenience In Telephoning

Babson Park, Mass. Many investment advisers complain because the portfolios of investors, especially women, have so much telephone stock. At the present time there are only two large telephone companies—American Telephone & Telegraph Co. with its manufacturing subsidiary Western Electric, and General Telephone & Electronics Corp. with its progressive electronics manufacturing subsidiary Sylvania Electric. But readers must not think these two control the entire telephone industry of the United States. There are seventeen different telephone companies in Florida alone, and several thousand "independents" in the entire United States.

New Telephone Developments
Many things are being developed for ease and convenience in using the telephone. For instance, there is the newly introduced "Rapidialer." This works somewhat as follows: The Rapidialer enables a telephone user to record on a revolving magnetic tape over two hundred and fifty phone numbers (including long-distance numbers frequently called). I understand this represents the different stations the average person calls. Telephone numbers can be added or erased in a matter of seconds. This is a time saver, making references to the directory less necessary.

I have already referred to my friend "Jay" Freke-Hayes of Babson Park, Florida—father of the telephone answering service calls when he is away from the office through a small machine which he can carry in his pocket. Many other developments are on the drawing boards and in the laboratories. This leads me to believe that women who are buying telephone stock may be showing more sense than the investment advisers who claim they have too much. As long as the Federal Government does not take over such companies, their efficiency and earnings should continue to improve.

More About Computers
The telephone industry will gradually profit from the use of computers. When I am asked what will be the next big industry, I suggest that the computer industry should lead the list. Among companies now in the forefront of this field are International Business Machines, Minneapolis - Honeywell, R. C. A. Sperry-Rand, and Control Data Corp. Do not write me asking which of the five is the best bet. Nobody knows. You might put an equal amount of money into each of these five.

I am told that one of the newer models now being offered works 30 per cent faster than the one presently in use. The computer manufacturers claim that in one second their new machines can do 357,000 additions and subtractions, 178,500 multiplications, or 102,000 divisions.

What About Lasers?
One of my M.I.T. friends, Professor Charles Townes, is a pioneer in this field. Laser technology endeavors to harness light and sound waves and concentrate these into "coherent" beams. The greatest immediate probable application lies in communications. A laser beam can be the carrier of millions of telephone messages all at once. Or, it can transmit simultaneously many different TV programs, instead of requiring a single carrier for each program.

THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE Winters, Texas Page 2-A Friday, April 3, 1964

Laser technology may become very valuable for space communications and distance measuring. These powerful beams can also be used for cutting, such as in surgery, industrial cutting, welding, etc. Laser technology is definitely forging ahead.

Information Revolution

Let me close by summarizing a recent talk at Tampa, Florida, by Dr. George L. Haller, Vice President of General Electric. "The primary human need for the next 20 years will be for machines to help us organize and handle great quantities of information without being swamped by it. We will need machines and systems to help us think, to solve problems, to store information in a small space..."

Dr. Haller also added that the machines will help retrieve any particular information. "Home computers" would keep track of everything—grocery lists, appointments, anniversaries, etc. They would take care of your finances, bank balances, even pay household bills!

April 15 Deadline For Filing Annual SS Annual Report

It is almost that time again—April 15, 1964—a date which has a double meaning for over 18 million people who are receiving social security benefits. Yes, April 15, 1964 is the deadline for filing your 1963 Federal income tax return, but it is also the final date for social security beneficiaries to send their 1963 Annual Report of Earnings and Estimate of 1964 Earnings to the Social Security Administration. Did you receive social security benefits for even one month in 1963? Then this article is meant for you. Take a minute or two to read it—it may save you time and money later.

If you received social security payments in 1963, unless receiving them as a result of disability, you are required to make an annual report of earnings if:

1. Your total earnings from employment and self-employment amounted to more than $1200 in 1963. And,
  2. You were under 72 in any month last year.
- An estimate of what you expect to earn in 1964 is also required.
- The deadline for filing this report is April 15, and failure to report your earnings on time may cause you to lose extra social security payments.

Safety Urged In Household Use Of Pesticides

A little common sense and a lot of caution should keynote the use of house and garden insect sprays this spring and summer, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Sales of pesticides will increase about 200 percent in the next few weeks as the annual insect invasions get underway, White noted. "And accidental poisonings are an annual occurrence," he added.

Commissioner White pointed out that modern chemicals are a boon in the fight against household and garden pests when they are properly used. But, careless spraying can result in serious consequences of pets and even humans.

"We tend to forget that those aerosol cans or powders which are so effective against bugs are actually poisons—and they should be treated as such," said White. The Texas Department of Agriculture and U.S.D.A. are responsible for seeing that all pesticides are labeled properly, and that all information needed to protect the user is contained on the label. But, once these products enter your home, safe use becomes your responsibility.

"Read the labels first when the products are still on the dealers' shelf," White advised. "There is a large variety of pesticides, and many of them have specific uses so a hasty selection could be an unwise one. Then follow the directions and use all precautions that are included on the can or package."

"It is wise to wash your hands after using household pesticides and, above all, store them out of the reach of children, just as you do with medicines, lye or other poisons."

A few other pesticide safety "Don'ts" from Commissioner White are as follows:

Don't save or re-use empty pesticide containers.

Don't use a pesticide inside the home if a gas mask is required in using it.

Don't use your mouth to blow out clogged sprayer lines or nozzle tips, or to siphon a pesticide from a container.

Don't smoke while handling pesticides.

Don't spray or dust outdoors when the wind is high.

Don't apply pesticides near open water or food containers for birds or pets.

Soil Saving Practices Profitable To Local Farmers, Ranchers

Progressive farmers of the Runnels Soil Conservation District, who are also good managers, have demonstrated that more net income can be made by using a good conservation cropping system than ones who do not, according to H. Giesecke chairman of the District board. He said soils are depleted to a degree every time plant food or organic matter is removed by cropping if these elements are not replaced. Soil tests show that most cropland now contain less than half of the organic matter found in the same soils in their virgin state.

Woodrow Hoffman, of the local Soil Conservation Service, said that experienced yields of farmers throughout the Runnels SCD have been collected. He said yields per acre are closely associated with the kind of cropping system being used. For example, those who included and managed high residue producing crops in their system invariably netted more money per acre. He said some of the systems compared and evaluated were: System 1 - Continuous cotton netted $11.00 per acre. System 2 - one third sorghum or small grain and two thirds cotton netted on the average of $16.00 per acre. System 3 - one half sorghum or small grain and one half cotton netted $24.00 per acre. System 4 - one third cotton; one third sorghum and one third small grain on the average netted $28.00 per acre. After studying these four systems, it is apparent that the difference is the frequency and acreage of high residue producing crops grown.

Hoffman said the most practical way to maintain and increase the level of organic matter in the soil is to include high residue crops in the cropping system and, if needed, fertilize them to produce a high yield. Then return all crop stubble to the soil. Cotton burs, barnyard manure and other residues should be applied when available. Research has shown that an average of 4,000 pounds of above ground residues are required to maintain soil organic matter. Thus, the average must be higher to add to the organic supply. Hoffman said that grain sorghum producing 3,000 pounds of grain per acre will return about 4,000 pounds of residue per acre. And too experience, he said, has proven that organic matter cannot be maintained when cotton is grown continuously, when grain yields are too low or when the residues are grazed or burned.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN by Vern Sanford

If you're a deer hunter, try slipping a hacksaw blade into your knife sheath prior to going afield. It will come in handy for cutting the pelvic bone of your deer.

When you tie a monofilament leader to your nylon line, put a drop of clear fingernail polish on the knot. When it dries, put on another drop. You'll discover that this will cause the line to slip easily through the rod guides, just as if there was no knot at all.

An old Khaki shirt and trousers can be transformed into an effective camouflage suit by applying streaks of black and brown shoe dye to the material.

To keep toilet tissue dry in camp, put a roll in a discarded two-pound coffee can. It fits the roll and serves the purpose. Use the cans with the transparent plastic caps for easy identification.

I'll bet you didn't know that: The horned toad is not a toad. It is a lizard. It does not lay eggs, but gives birth to living young.

Cheerful songs of tree frogs are heard most often during damp weather and before a storm. Thus the frogs have been given an undeserved reputation as weather prophets. But really it is only because they are stirred to life by unusual moisture in the air.

New Guinea's Greater Bird of Paradise, noted for its magnificent and multicolored plumes, is a cousin of the common crow.

The barn owl, or screech owl, often is called the "feathered cat" because it is a great foe of mice.

Ornithologists have found that birds sing an average of 18 1-4 hours daily most of the year.

Smallest known insect is a tiny wasp about one ten thousandth the size of the common housefly. Yet it is equipped with six articulated legs, complete nervous, respiratory and blood systems, and compound eyes of hundreds of faceted lenses.

Loons have exceptional diving ability. Their legs are placed so far back on their bodies that they can't walk erect on land but move by sliding on their breasts.

Road runners, famous for their ability to kill rattlesnakes, also are known as the "snake-eaters."

Tail of the jumping mouse is six inches long or about two-thirds of the total length of the animal.

Australia's mistletoe bird feeds its young while hanging upside down.

Only wild mammal in the world with four horns is the four-horned antelope of India and Burma. Only the males have horns.

Rhinos breed only once in every two or three years and usually have a single calf.

An elephant's brain weighs ten pounds.

Only two types of mammals lay eggs: the duckbill and the spiny anteater.

Elephants do not drink through their trunks, as people sometimes suppose. Actually they suck water up into their trunks then squirt it into their mouths.

Maximum time between drinks, for the average camel, is eight or ten days. If it was not required to work during this period, it probably could get by longer.

Although there are over 500 different species of hummingbirds, the only one you are likely to see east of Texas is the ruby-throat.

The African Gray Parrot is famous as a talking bird. In captivity this bird has been known to live as long as 80 years.

A frog's tongue is fastened to the front of its mouth. This oddity gives his tongue the advantage of added length.

Leopards do most of their hunting by night. They are perhaps the most silent of all the larger hunters, being able to make their way through the most dense vegetation without a sound.

More Fertilizers Being Used By Agriculturists

More and more farmers and ranchers throughout Texas are recognizing the importance of adequate fertilization of crops and improved pastures, says Charles D. Welch, Extension soil chemist at Texas A & M University. This is reflected in numerous reports which show that proper fertilization and liming mean more profit. For example, Elmo Cook, Travis County, agricultural agent, recently reported that an investment of $5.40 gave Milford Olsen of Elroy a net return of $14.97 per acre on grain sorghum in 1963. The fertilizer increased the yield 784 lbs., valued at $1.91 per bushel.

Welch points out that proper fertilization has been shown to increase the capacity of a crop to use soil moisture. Some of the highest returns from fertilization have been realized under conditions of below normal rainfall.

A soil test can provide valuable information about the lime status and fertility level of your soil and serve as a guide for adequate fertilization and liming. Your county agricultural agent can provide additional information about soil testing.

Roger Babson Says— Spiritual Revival Necessary If We Realize Civilization's Blessings

Babson Park, Mass. — With the rebirth of spring and the hope of Easter still in our hearts, it is a good time to ask what is wrong with this world, —and with ourselves. Why is our nation so beset by scandal and injustice, the international scene so blackened with tension and distrust, and even open hatred?

Where Has Religion Gone? I have long predicted that we would never be able to realize fully the great blessings of civilization unless we all worked for real spiritual renewal. Religious faith is the driving force of our very existence; without it there can be no true or lasting peace on the earth. Why are not the words of Jesus put into practice in our everyday life, both social and political? He preached repentance and forgiveness; His prayers were not those of habit, but petitions springing from His deepest inner impulses.

The followers of Jesus during His lifetime were taught to lead lives of service and self-sacrifice. His one basic principle of action was that men must love one another; He believed in the intrinsic worth of every human being. In His day He was looked upon as unconventional and uncompromising, with His immutable faith in God and His concern for the ultimate goodness of mankind. Every devoted religious person is supposed to agree to this doctrine,—and act and live accordingly. But the condition of even the Christian world does not bear this out today.

Looking Toward Elections It seems to me, as we move toward voting day in November, that the most important questions for us to answer are: "Is the religion of Jesus something for us to live by? Is it worth being kept vitally alive? Is it something to guide a Presidential Candidate?" Many people who do not as a rule concentrate much on religion are starting to wonder how many of our political troubles come from neglect of the Spirit.

Louisiana Farmer Gets CARE Package

By Congressman O. C. Fisher
A Louisiana farm family received a CARE package in their mailbox the other day. It came from Europe. Somehow, the sender had obtained the farmer's name, heard the U.S.A. was poverty-stricken, and decided to practice some reserve-foreign aid.

CARE is an abbreviated description of packages for needy abroad; and millions of Americans have responded to the call for helping the underprivileged in foreign lands by contributing clothing, food, medicines, etc., which are distributed to the unfortunate.

Now, for the first time, maybe our foreign friends are at least willing to reciprocate. If the idea would catch on, then perhaps kind of snowball, we might get a good thing going and get back some of the $100 billion we have sent out in foreign aid. It would not only help our poverty-stricken, but would help our taxpayers who are now being asked to fork up a billion dollars to use in the war on poverty.

The new drive against poverty reminds us that FDR, 29 years ago, said: "The Federal Government must and shall quit this business of relief." He seemed to think it was essentially a local responsibility and Uncle Sam should get out of it. But times have changed. More and more the federal government has become involved on a scale reminiscent of depression days. Plugging for the President's billion-dollar anti-poverty package, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman last week told a congressional committee the war should include the farms where he said half of America's poverty is now found. He deplored the "thousands of weather-beaten, inadequate farms that still mar this lovely countryside of ours." He advocated outright grants of up to $1500 per farmer to help him or nearly a fourth of Americans pay each month through taxes for education. Most of the federal dollars for welfare goes to young children and their dependent parents. Relief for this purpose has jumped up 140 per cent since 1955. In New York it is reported that 40 per cent of the children on relief are illegitimate.

This would indicate that because of the problem is attacked, the government need do well to step up its birth control program.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

In Contemplation Of Death
Uncle Joe, a widower, had more money than he would ever need. This enabled him to make generous gifts over a period of years to a number of friends and relatives.

When Uncle Joe died and his estate was probated, the heirs were shocked when the federal Treasury Department levied estate taxes on all the gifts made during the past three years. How could this be?

The tax law is clear: Any transfer of property within three years preceding the date of death—except on a bona fide sale for adequate and full consideration—is presumed to be in contemplation of death and taxable, unless shown by the donor's estate to the contrary. But any gift or transfer more than three years before death is not taxed as part of the estate.

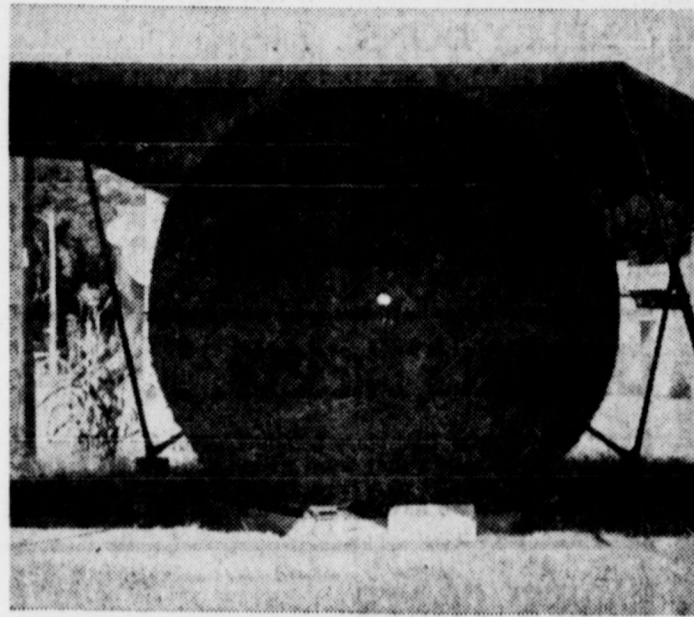

This law has a valid public purpose. It is aimed at preventing people from avoiding estate taxes by giving away their property before they die. Of course, one seldom knows exactly when he will die, but an older person or one with an illness may reasonably know that his years are limited. Thus the law raises the presumption that any transfer within the three-year period is in contemplation of death.

Anyone can make gifts of his property at any time. Those gifts other than purely nominal ones must be reported for gift tax purposes. Sizeable tax exemptions are allowed for gifts, but the tax laws are so contrived as to prevent a wealthy person giving away all his property before death tax-free.

In Uncle Joe's case the gifts will be taxable unless the estate can rebut the presumption that they were made in contemplation of his death so as to avoid the estate tax or as a substitute for a will.

TWO YOUNGSTERS—Rona Von Arts from Bonn, West Germany, whose father is employed at the German embassy in London, makes friends with a calf at Crystal Palace zoo.

STRING ALONG—The businessmen of Cawker City, Kan., are stringing along with Frank Studer. They provided a shelter for his two-ton ball of string.

Teach Children To Dial "0" For Help

Small children should know and trust the telephone operator as much as they do the corner policeman, and should turn to the operator in the event of an emergency.

Extension Service specialists at Texas A & M University say that although preschool youngsters can't be expected to memorize long telephone numbers, they can be taught one rule: If an accident happens, dial zero, tell the operator what is wrong, and she will help you.

A child should be taught, however, that he is to dial zero only in emergencies, say Bobby Riney, Extension rural civil defense specialist, and Patsy Reynolds, family life education specialist.

One five-year-old's plaintive message to the operator was "My Mommie's asleep and won't wake up—and there's a fire in our house." After a little prodding, the operator learned the boy's name and address and called the fire department. Firemen rushed to the address, found the house on fire, and the mother knocked out by sleeping pills. Both survived, thanks to the child's action and the operator's help.

Another youngster whose mother fell through a floor and was trapped, went directly to the telephone and dialed zero. He couldn't remember his daddy's name or where he lived, but he rattled off the name and address of his grandparents. The operator called them, got the child's address and had a doctor on the way in minutes.

Many Cities In Three States Were Represented At Wilmeth Homcoming

More than 500 residents and former residents of the Wilmeth Community were served at the noon hour Sunday at the Community Homecoming and many came to greet old friends in the afternoon. Before the day was over it was estimated that as many as 600 people attended.

W. R. Kennedy, 89, was the oldest person present and Chick Smith of Needles, California came the longest distance to attend the homecoming. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gooch, who came to the community in 1906, and are still living there, were present at the celebration. Among others who were early day settlers were the parents of Howell and Humphrey Bowen, the Joe Bulsterbaum family, the Lee Atkins, parents of Sheriff Don Atkins and Mrs. A. W. Hancock, and the Sid Olivers, who came to the community in 1905. Some of the members of these families were present.

People were present from almost every church, Baptists, Methodists, Church of Christ, Church of God, Assembly of God, Catholic and possibly others.

Flowers were sent from many far away places including Colorado and California and hundreds of former residents telephoned to express their regrets that they were unable to attend. Many sent flowers to the cemetery in memory of loved ones buried there and the Baptist Church where the program was held was practically filled with flowers every where.

Representatives from the many towns were registered including Amarillo, Swenson, Iraan, Bronte, Rankin, Wingate, Sweetwater, Gorman, San Angelo, Ballinger, Christoval, Lubbock, Plainview, Brownwood, Muleshoe, Midland, Hillsboro, Dallas, Houston, Littlefield, Tuscola, Wilson, Duke, Oklahoma; Big Spring, Killeen, Vega, Belton, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Norton, Winters, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Smith from Needles, California.

TIPS for OUTDOORSMEN

By Vern Sanford

Down in that rugged, hilly country of Texas north of San Antonio, around Boerne and Bandera, there ranges a strange kind of animal. Scant few humans ever have seen one of these elusive critters. Indeed, many find it difficult to believe that they exist at all.

But they do exist, all right, and you can take the word of Bob Snow for that. Bob has killed more than 100 of the wild creatures and in the process has had some hair-raising experiences.

This animal of which we speak with awe is the Russian wild hog, a lean and muscular animal with the speed of a race horse, unbelievable stamina and a viciousness when cornered that has left many pursuing dogs bloodied and dead.

Despite man's best efforts to eradicate the Russian hog, its numbers continue to rise. According to Bob, there are more today than ever before. So many in fact, that landowners openly are soliciting hunters to come to their ranches to hunt the hogs.

Snow, who is from Kerrville, is a hunter of wide and varied experience. For many years he was with the Texas Game and Fish Commission. But today he is retired to a life of hunting.

He has traveled to Mexico after jaguar and mountain lion. He has hunted about everything Texas has to offer. But he states unequivocally that the Russian hog is the meanest, most vicious critter on four feet.

And coming from Bob Snow, that's saying something.

Snow recalls a vivid incident which gives an inkling as to the character of the Russian boar. His pack of dogs cornered this large and mean specimen and Bob got in close enough to blast the hog in the head with a .45 automatic.

The boar only shook its head, brushed the dogs aside and took off again. Sometime later the dogs bayed the hog once more and the scene was repeated. Again the hog shook off the effects of the .45 slug and continued to fight.

Five times Snow brought the hog to bay and five times shot it with the .45. The boar never did go down and soon escaped into the brush when Snow ran out of ammunition. Later, some deer hunters found where the hog had crawled under a brushpile and died. In all, the hog ran for something like 10 miles and killed a couple of Snow's prized hounds in the process.

Yes sir, that Russian hog is a tough one, all right.

This hog got an inglorious start in Texas. Legend has it that many years ago a man with a traveling exhibit came to San Antonio. He was down on his luck and wished to get rid of his animals. Included in the lot were several Russian hogs.

A rancher bought the hogs and transported them to his ranch in the Bandera area. He hoped to crossbreed them with domestic stock. But soon thereafter the Russian hogs escaped and vanished into the underbrush. They all but disappeared for several years. Then ranchers started seeing the elusive hogs. Their numbers had increased appreciably.

Hunters like Bob Snow have found the Russian hog to be a sporting big-game animal. A few are slain each year by deer hunters. But in most instances the hogs have to be pursued by trained dogs which trail them in the dense oak and cedar brush characteristic of this part of the state.

There are no special dogs used in hunting the Russian hogs. Just about every kind of breed imaginable might be represented in a typical pack. Snow usually carries a new dog along on a hunt and if it shows any aptitude for hog hunting, it becomes an official member of the pack.

Bob follows along on horseback as the dogs take off into the underbrush, noses laid against the ground, trying to pick up the fresh scent of a hog. The porkers leave telltale evidence of feeding by ground burrows where they're rooted along the side of draws or along ridges. Sometimes they even kill young goats and sheep. This is one reason they are causing some concern among ranchers. Another is that they tear up fences.

The Russian hog has a long snout for digging. It also carries two imposing tusks rising from the corners of its lower jaw. When engaged in a close-in fight, the hog will sling its head back and forth, swishing these tusks through the air like sabers.

A Russian hog might bay immediately. Or it may take off and run for miles. Snow says it isn't unusual to trail one an entire day. One thing for sure, when it does come to bay, it is spoiling for a fight.

As Bob puts it, this is no place for the timid. An angered Russian hog will attack with the slightest provocation, and when it comes a-running, it means business.

dell, and he figures it was rabid. To emphasize the point, a rabid skunk bit a camper at Fort Phantom Lake a few days ago. So it would be a good idea to give them all a wide berth, and call the police.

When we were about two years old, we lived up in Albany. On nice days we were allowed to play in the front yard, and one of the next-door neighbor's kids, slightly older, had a habit of "borrowing" our toys . . . as kids will do . . . and from what we can learn from the oldsters there was sometimes a pitched battle.

We moved away from there a little later, and not being one to bear a grudge, had about forgotten all about the incidents. Until the other day we were comparing notes with E. E. (Blondie) Dodson, who hails from Albany . . . and learned after all these years that our altercations had been with his brother, Leon. Blondie is leaving Winters soon, returning to Albany . . . and we would like to point out that those old incidents have nothing whatever to do with his leaving.

Time For Native Grasses To Begin New Growth

Native grasses on our rangeland in the Runnels Soil Conservation District are about to begin their new growth, according to H. Giesecke, Jr., Chairman of the Board of Supervisors. He said, now is the time to determine how well livestock numbers and grass were balanced during the past growing season.

If numbers and grass were balanced, at least half of the grass grown last year should now be on the ground, according to Maynard Hill, Soil Conservation Service, Ballinger.

Hill said management such as this is basic for providing a grass reserve which yields a number of benefits. Grasses, like all green plants, live and grow on food manufactured primarily in their own green leaves. Ranges, pastures, lawns, or other grass crops can flourish and conserve soil only as the individual plants have an opportunity to make food for their own growth.

Plant food is manufactured in the leaves, and not, as many people suppose, drawn from the roots or the soil. The plant gets the "raw materials" to make food from the soil and the air. Because the plants "food factory" is above the ground, grazing, mowing, or clipping promptly stops production to the extent that green foliage is removed.

Research shows that many grasses will not reach their maximum vigor and growth when more than half their leaf surface is removed by frequent grazing or mowing.

Repeated removal of green foliage causes a corresponding reduction in the plant root system. Top growth that is kept small cannot feed a large root system; supply enough raw materials to support a large growth of stems and leaves.

Thus, the man who values grass seeds to it that his "food factory" is large enough. Everywhere, grass plants must have adequate green leaves to survive and grow.

Six Candidates On Ballots—

City Elections Next Tuesday

Four aldermen for the City of Winters will be elected in the regular and special elections next Tuesday, April 7. Three aldermen will be named in the regular voting, and one in a special election to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of another member of the City Council who had one more year to serve.

There are five candidates seeking the three places on the City Council in the regular election. Two-year terms of office for three members of the city's governing body expire with this election. The candidates are Homer Hodge, Paul Gerlach, Roy Austin, James Colburn and R. C. Thomas. Thomas is the only incumbent member of the council seeking re-election.

No contest is seen in the special election to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Alderman E. E. (Blondie) Dodson. Wesley M. Hays, incumbent alderman whose term of office expires this year, is the only announced candidate for this unexpired term, which has one more year.

J. W. Bahlman, the other alderman whose term expires this year, is not seeking return to office.

Election will be held in the City Fire Station, with polls opening at 7 a. m. and closing at 7 p. m. Hans Gerhart will be judge for the regular election, and Buford Owens judge for the special election, which will be held at the same time and place. Election clerks will be Mrs. Elzie Cox, Mrs. Grover Davis and Mrs. W. L. Collins.

Two separate ballots will be given to each voter, one for the regular election, and one for the special election. To vote, citizens must meet normal voters' qualifications, six-months residency and have paid poll tax receipts or age exemption evidence. The unpaid poll receipt will not qualify a person to vote in this local election, it was explained.

THE CANDIDATES
Roy Austin is plant superintendent at Dry Manufacturing Co. He is married and has a family, and is a member of the Methodist Church.

Homer Hodge is owner of Sparkle-Lite, Inc., and the State and Fiesta Theatres. He is married and is a member of the Church of Christ.

Paul Gerlach is a rental property owner in Winters. He is married and has a family.

James Colburn is an employee of G. W. Strake, oil operator, and is married and has a family. He is a member of the Methodist Church.

Winters Teachers To Observe April As "Teaching Career Month"

April is Teaching Career Month throughout the United States—in the cities, the towns, the villages, and the rural areas. Robert Christian, Winters High School principal, announced today.

Teachers of Winters schools, plus members of the Winters Chapter of Future Teachers of America will take part in the observance, Christian said.

These local individuals and groups will join with the National Education Association, which established Teaching Career Month in 1958, to focus public attention on the need for getting and keeping the best possible instructors in elementary and secondary schools and colleges.

The theme this year is "The Teacher Molds the Future"—as educator of our children from kindergarten upwards, as a builder of free and democratic citizens, as an advisor who may guide a student toward a worthwhile career, and as a friend who may help a worried student solve a knotty personal problem, or persuade a student not to become a dropout.

The men and women teachers in the teaching profession, including those in colleges, make up a working force of more than two million. They form the largest professional group in the United States, outnumber the Federal Post Office Department about four to one, and just about match the number of civilian employees in the Federal Government.

Even with so large a number, however, more qualified teachers are needed to fill vacancies now and in the future, NEA Research studies show.

In the public elementary schools, adequately trained instructors are urgently required to handle the increasing number of pupils. These pupils now total nearly 27,000,000. Their teachers, says NEA Research, have the largest class loads, are responsible for the background upon which further education depends, and often lack adequate professional preparation.

In the public high schools, with a current enrollment of nearly 15,000,000, the situation is different. The problem is not the number of teachers available, but one of distribution.

There is an excess of instructors in some fields. There is a shortage in special fields, including science and mathematics, technical and vocational education, English and foreign languages, physical and health education for women, and home economics.

Taking note of the national picture, the high school principal noted that in Winters, more than 60 teachers and school administrators are at work educating the community's children. He continued that Winters High School has shown a small but steady increase in enrollment and the same is expected during the next few years. Some areas of instruction are overcrowded such as business education and homemaking, but plans to increase the staff will be executed when sufficient count has been achieved in student enrollment.

Recent physical improvements that have been completed in the last few weeks in the high school building include the following: All new fixtures and mirrors in restrooms and new fluorescent lights in all high school classrooms.

In its campaign for better schooling where needed, the National Education Association is using Teaching Career Month:

1. To show that for our nation's survival, teaching must be the pre-eminent profession in American life.
2. To improve our nation's schools by providing increasing numbers of fine teachers.
3. To do this by encouraging qualified young people to consider teaching as a career.
4. To urge topflight teachers to remain in the profession.
5. To inspire teachers to speak out for their profession and encourage others to enter it.
6. To inform parents and other citizens of the opportunities and rewards the teaching profession offers today's youth.

Funeral Saturday For George W. Palmertree, 56

H. M. Franke Dies, Funeral Rites In Rowena

Herman M. Franke, 67, former Runnels County resident, died at 5 a. m. Monday at his home at Wall after a heart attack.

Mr. Franke was the father of Mrs. Joe Kozelsky of Winters. Rosary was said at 8 p. m. Tuesday at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Rowena. Requiem mass was said at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday at the church.

Burial was held in St. Joseph Cemetery under the direction of Spill Funeral Home.

Born April 30, 1896, in Lockhart, Mr. Franke came to Runnels County in 1906. On Jan. 31, 1921, he married Mary Feist at Rowena. In 1924 they moved to Wall in Tom Green County, then to San Angelo in 1943 and to a farm west of Ballinger in 1946.

Three years later they moved to Alma, Ark., where they lived until returning eight years later to Rowena. Last January they moved to Wall.

Mr. Franke was a charter member of St. Ambrose Catholic Church in Wall and a member of the church's Men's Society. He was a veteran of World War I and was a past commander of Veterans of WWI Barrack 1541 at Ballinger for two terms.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, Landis of Slaton and Bernie of San Angelo; one daughter, Mrs. Joe Kozelsky of Winters; 10 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; four sisters, Mrs. Leinhold Hoelscher of Norton, Mrs. Alfred Jost, Mrs. Ben Glass and Mrs. Gerald Lange, all of Rowena; and two brothers, Anton of San Angelo and Rudolph of Rowena.

Pallbearers were Kelly Feist, Leroy Schuhmann, Kenneth Feist, Willford Franke, Steve Lange, Mike Franke, Marvin Hoelscher and Elton Glass.

RETURNED HOME

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the urgency and magnitude of the educational tasks before us are increasing daily; and

WHEREAS, the enrollments of our schools are growing annually and making huge demands upon the teaching profession and those preparing for it; and

WHEREAS, teaching is one of the pre-eminent professions of American life; and

WHEREAS, it is imperative that all of us do our utmost to select, prepare, and retain the best possible teachers for our nation's schools and colleges and to encourage our most talented youth to consider teaching as a career;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Harvey Dale Jones, Mayor, declare April 1964 to be Teaching Career Month in Winters, both to honor those dedicated to the teaching of our youth and to recognize the achievements and the programs of the teaching profession.

BRADSHAW

The truthful man carries a lantern which others will see and follow on unknown trails, in the darkest nights—Selected.

Some 40 were in attendance at the Sun Rise services Sunday in the Wayne Hunt pasture where four Churches were represented, the Baptist and Methodist Churches, the Shep Methodist Church and the Moro and Drasco Baptist Churches. The program was as follows: Amazing Grace and What a Friend We Have in Jesus sung by the congregation lead by Mrs. Jerry Spurlin. Opening prayer by Pastor Bob Griffith of the Moro Church. Scripture read by Pastor Charles Ashby of the Bradshaw Baptist Church. Were You There When They Crucified My Lord, sung by Mrs. Spurlin accompanied on the trombone by Pastor Spurlin of the Bradshaw Methodist Church. The Easter message by Jerry and the benediction by Pastor Bob. Coffee and doughnuts were served. Billie McCasland is the expert coffee maker.

It was estimated that 400 or more attended the Home coming at the Wilmeth Baptist Church where Rev. Lester Carter is pastor.

Eddie Harrison was responsible for the lovely Easter Lilly arrangement for the altar table at the Bradshaw Baptist Church. At the base of "The Old Rugged Cross" Eddie arranged white artificial lilies with a bronze ribbon bow. Several of the lilies stemmed on the upright piece of the Cross. The Cross was fashioned from the mesquite tree.

Attending the morning services were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mayfield of Anson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mayfield and Douglas and Lynn King of Abilene, Mrs. Beulah McCartney of Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis McCartney and Arlena of Big Spring.

For the night special at the Methodist Church pastor and Mrs. Jerry Spurlin sang Ivory Palaces with Mrs. Spurlin at the piano. Jerry delivered his morning message at the Shep Church.

FLYING HIGH—Taking a different kind of ride at the Royal Windsor Horse Show is horsewoman Susan Fowler, 21. She sails through the air after taking off from a parachute training device.

The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof, the world and those who dwell therein, is the memory selection for next Sunday's International Sunday School Lesson. It is taken from Psalms 24. The following concerning the lesson has been selected: "Freddie was surprised when Miss Elsie, the kindergarten teacher, explained to him that this is God's world and that it was God who made it. Freddie had thought that it belonged to his daddy and mama.

Do we not sometimes find ourselves, perhaps unconsciously, following Freddie in our thinking regarding the world? There is a danger that we may be guilty of living as though we accept as valid Freddie's kind of philosophy.

The world does belong to God, and we belong to Him. God calls us to build noble lives and high ideals. We are under divine compulsion to use His beautiful world as being sacred unto the Most High."

An Easter Egg hunt and weiner roast was held Saturday afternoon at the Baptist Church grounds here for the intermediate, junior and primary departments of the Sunday School of which Mrs. Charles Ashby, Mrs. Dock Aldridge and Mrs. Odas Claxton are in charge. HELPING HANDS—Michael King, 5, cheerfully pitches in to help speed the construction of the Festival of Gas pavilion at the site of the New York World's Fair. He heard it will house a puppet show, fun house, magic show and other attractions.

Fishermen have made a startling new discovery within the past few years.

Although often the fastest fishing is to be had up near the surface, anglers have learned that frequently the biggest fish are to be found deep, right near the bottom.

This is true of all our scaled species, from white bass to black bass, and occasionally the only place you can find any action is within proximity of the bottom.

One of the best baits for this kind of fishing is the ordinary silver spoon. Conventionally, an angler casts out a spoon and starts the wobbling chunk of convex metal back the moment it touches the surface. This makes it travel in a level plane a few inches under the surface.

The new twist is to allow the spoon to plummet to the bottom on a limp line, then take up the slack and sort of jig it along the bottom, raising and lowering it. This serves a two-fold purpose. It puts the spoon in a strata of water where there is apt to be more fish; and it simulates the crippled action of a minnow.

It makes good sense to change your retrieve periodically, to give your lure more lifelike action. A minnow swimming naturally through the water won't draw as much attention from a hungry fish as will one that is obviously wounded, struggling up and down. It stands to reason, then, that a lure with this crippled action will entice the most strikes.

Sometimes this bottom bumping a spoon pays off in the most unlikely situations.

Take schooling white bass, for instance. It would seem that a lure pulled through a school of feeding fish, right near the surface, would bring the most strikes. Perhaps it will. But often bigger fish are to be had by going deep, right to the bottom.

What happens is the larger whites hover below the younger, more eager whites which have trapped shad near the surface. The older fish wait patiently until the young whites kill shad and they feed leisurely on the dead bait fish which sink to the bottom.

Bottom bumping also is quite effective on whites in early spring, when the fish are congregated in the deep holes prior to their annual migration upstream to spawn. And it isn't unusual for black bass to be associating with the whites, to feed on shad that the whites have crippled and missed.

It frequently happens that the unsuspecting angler is jigg-ing a spoon for whites when he ties into a real trophy black bass. That happened to my old buddy Russell Tinsley, outdoors editor of the Austin American-Statesman, last spring. He was jigg-ing a spoon for whites along a deep sandbar where the Pedernales River enters Lake Travis when he had a walloping strike. His catch turned out to be a six-pound black bass.

Bob Hill, another Austin fisherman, had an unusual experience, also on Lake Travis, when he was spoon jigg-ing for whites and instead tied into an 18-pound catfish.

Hill is one of the foremost advocates of spoon jigg-

ing. He recalls a time on North Caddo Lake, near San Angelo, when he was cleaning up on whites by jigg-ing a spoon along bottom while all around him other fishermen were trolling shallow-running baits without any strikes.

"People just don't realize that they catch more fish by going to bottom," he explained. "They persist on trolling shallow when casting deep would be much more effective."

ward off the germs. Yet these two highly contagious diseases kill more good hunting dogs each year than all other diseases combined.

In fact, the average reader would be surprised at the number of expensive purebred dogs struck down every day by these omnipresent diseases. Carelessness of dog owners is the direct cause of most of these deaths. Lack of information is another reason.

Some people don't know the true facts about vaccination; others keep putting off the immunizations until it is too late. Distemper is the No. 1 killer of dogs.

A dog owner may recognize the symptoms of the disease in the morning and by that afternoon his pet may be dead. Death is a frequent end result of this highly contagious disease.

Even should the dog recover, it is apt to have permanent nervous symptoms which cannot be cured.

There is nothing new about distemper. Scientists have been researching it for ages. An effective vaccine was discovered more than two decades ago. A European named Carre isolated a virus which he believed to be the actual cause of distemper. Other scientists discovered that dogs with the symptoms of distemper often were infected with certain bacterial germs which they declared were the true causes of distemper.

First concrete findings to back up Carre's discovery came from two English scientists, Laidlaw & Dunkin. They studied distemper for several years.

Although they confirmed Carre's findings, they proved that true virus distemper is a relatively mild disease and the more serious complications usually are the "secondary bacterial invaders" of the disease.

Some general symptoms of distemper are sleepiness, dopedness, high fever, sometimes with diarrhea, and periodical vomiting.

Occasionally an animal will appear to be completely recovered only to have a relapse. He may develop convulsions or fits 14 to 30 days later.

This is the most serious stage of distemper since the virus by that time has penetrated the nervous system.

Leave the dog alone during these fits and don't become alarmed. The pet isn't "mad" and it won't bite.

Should the dog recover, prognosis is apt to be poor. The animal may be paralyzed, retarded or develop a permanent muscle twitch.

For preventative protection your dog should be immunized while it is still young. Distemper is most prevalent and severe in puppies. Most vets prefer to vaccinate dogs at the age of six to eight weeks.

Infectious hepatitis is most prevalent in dogs from six weeks old to a year. It is highly contagious.

"To Catch A Thief"
"To Catch A Thief" is the relentlessly exciting tale of the notorious man of mystery the French underworld called "The Cat," and the restless thrill hunting American heiress who shocked even the blasé international set with her pursuit for his love.
Filmed on the French Riviera in the gorgeous spectacle of Vista Vision and Technicolor, "To Catch A Thief" promises to be a thrilling as well as beautifully scenic film.
Starring Cary Grant and

Grace Kelly, showing Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.
"The Misadventures of Merlin Jones."
Walt Disney had the young-at-heart, especially teen-agers, in mind when he set cameras to rolling on his latest comedy venture, "The Misadventures of Merlin Jones," shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre, starring two favorites of the smart set, the versatile comic Tommy Kirk and the talented and glamorous Annette.

will delight audiences preferring their movie fare on the mad-cap side.

One preposterous situation follows another as Merlin Jones, a young absent-minded collegian with a frighteningly high I. Q. shakes the foundations of a staid university with his wildly funny laboratory lunacy.

This teen-age mental marvel is not content to stop here, not when he discovers the uncharted realm of hypnotism. What happens to cats, dogs, chimps and especially people, shouldn't, but joyfully does.

"Marilyn"
Nothing could be a more fitting tribute to Marilyn Monroe than the incomparable MM herself. Convinced of this, the studio which saw her rise to world-wide acclaim, 20th Century-Fox, is presenting a giant entertainment tribute made up of sequences from fifteen of her films. The picture is called "Marilyn" with Rock Hudson narrating. It shows Saturday and Sunday at the Fiesta Theatre.

"Marilyn" traces the star's rise from bit roles to international popularity in such movies as "The Seven Year Itch," "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," among others. Included in the production are scenes from the star's last picture, "Something's Got to Give," in which she was appearing with Dean Martin at the time of her death.
