

HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Within the next three weeks there should be a firm answer to the question, will Winters have annual rodeos?

The deadline date for organizing and financing an organization for an annual rodeo is July 12—60 days from the date a drive train was started to collect money with which to finance such a program. At that time, 60 days ago, a group of residents met and decided to go ahead with a campaign to raise money to purchase or lease land and to build facilities for the rodeo. They said they needed 105 people to invest $100 each in the project, the money to be deposited in the bank.

The group decided that 60 days should be enough time to find out if the people of Winters wanted such an event each year to help keep the community in step with others of the area—larger or smaller. If the amount of money agreed upon was not on hand by the deadline date, all monies would be returned to subscribers.

As of the middle of this week, 34 people had said they would be interested in helping to promote an annual rodeo. That leaves 71 to go—if the goal is to be reached. Time is running out, but there still is enough time to get over the hill if such is the desire of the community.

We would not attempt to guess the outcome of this proposed project. Nor would we hazard a guess as to the attitude of acceptance by the community. In about three weeks, though, we will all know the answer.

Full circle: One of the proposals made by a group making a study of the battlefield prior to the opening of the so-called "War on Poverty" is that utility lines—telephone and electric—be taken down from poles and buried in the ground. And the work of digging ditches be done, not by machinery, but by hand, thus cutting down a mite on unemployment.

About three or four years ago George Briley donated use of his land on the east edge of town for a Little League baseball field. There now is a well-lighted and well-kept baseball diamond there. Now, according to reports, he is being "repaid" by having groups of young thugs and hoodlums destroy trees and shrubs on his place adjacent to the baseball field, and tear up irrigation equipment. How appreciative can you get?

With both Democratic and Republican National Conventions much in the news these days, and dead ahead, as the sailor says, it might be interesting to note some of the comments about conventions by persons of note in years gone by:

"A rigged Convention is one with the other man's delegates in control. An open convention is when your delegates are in control." — James A. Farley.

"The Convention keynote address is a combination of oratory, grand opera, and hog calling." — Mark Sullivan.

"A Convention is a chess tournament disguised as a circus." — Alister Cooke.

SW Telephone Merges With General Company

Common stockholders of The Southwestern States Telephone Company and California Water & Telephone Company today approved proposed mergers with General Telephone Electronics Corporation. The balloting, which took place at special meetings in San Francisco, indicated that 90.4 per cent and 90.3 per cent of the respective companies' shares entitled to vote favored the proposals.

In New York, stockholders of General Telephone Electronics Corporation also met today and approved the merger proposals. On Friday, June 12, 1964, stockholders of two other companies, Western Utilities Corporation and West Coast Telephone Company, sanctioned the merger with General Telephone. Stockholders of the four affiliated San Francisco based companies will receive shares of General Telephone's common stock in exchange for their holdings.

UNUSUAL SIGHT: This is an unusual sight for Denmark, and would be in America except maybe during the Democratic convention publicity. Anyway, the kids in Denmark seem to be having fun!

Former Winters Man Is Serving As Mayor City of Richardson

The brochure entitled "Remarkable Richardson" was a 12-page spread devoted entirely to the growth of the civic-minded city.

Mr. Ryan was appointed to his first term as mayor and defeated an opponent for the second term.

Funds Have Been Appropriated For Growth and Development Planning

The Enterprise was notified this week by the office of Senator Ralph Yarborough that the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency has made available to the Texas State Department of Health $12,615.00 to aid in preparation of comprehensive planning for the growth and development of Winters.

This amount is two-thirds of the total cost of planning work which was approved by the City Council some months ago.

The remainder of the cost for the development planning program will be borne by the City of Winters.

Winters' Mayor Harvey D. Jones said this week that the money appropriated by the FHHA will go directly to the Texas State Department of Health, under which the planning program is being instituted. No direct communication is necessary between the City of Winters and the Federal agency, it was said.

The money will be used to make a comprehensive study of water supply and facilities, the sewer system, street system, zoning for industrial use, housing surveys, and other facets of a complete plan for the future.

Rodeo Association Meeting Set For Friday Night

A meeting of the committee organized to promote an annual rodeo for Winters has been scheduled for Friday night at 8 in the City Hall. All committee members and others interested in the project are urged to be present.

The committee was set up several weeks ago to study the possibilities of re-organizing an annual rodeo celebration for Winters. Plans were to sell participation and backing shares in the organization, with a goal of 105 shares at $100 each. A deadline date was set for collecting the money, with the final date to be July 12.

To date, according to Harvey D. Jones, chairman of the organization committee, a total of 34 shares have been bought by local people. This leaves 71 shares to be sold before the deadline date. The money collected thus far has been deposited in the bank, and if the quota of 105 shares is not reached by the deadline date, all money will be returned to subscribers.

If the drive to collect the given amount of money is successful, the funds will be used to purchase or lease a suitable location for a rodeo arena, and to construct stock pens, stands and other structures necessary for promotion of a rodeo.

The organization which had promoted an annual rodeo for the past 16-17 years was disbanded recently, with the result that there was no rodeo planned for this year.

Local Boy Is At ROTC Camp In Oklahoma

More than 1,500 ROTC cadets from the five-state Fourth U. S. Army area have invaded the rolling, tree-shaded artillery post at Fort Sill, Okla., to begin six weeks of intensive summer training which will put them one step closer to commissions as second lieutenants in the Army.

Included in this group are 65 upperclass students from Texas Tech College, among whom is James W. Little of Winters.

During the six-week training session, the cadets will get practical application of their classroom instruction during their college ROTC school year. Night problems, weapons firing, weapons demonstrations, and two standard Army bugaboos—guard duty and KP—plus plenty of inspections lie in the immediate future for the budding officers.

When this summer camp ends, the senior cadets who have completed both the ROTC program and their college degree requirements will receive commissions as second lieutenants. The junior cadets will meet only to complete their final year of ROTC on campus and satisfy individual degree requirements to qualify for their shiny gold bars.

Directors Named For Runnels Co. Retarded Children

Directors for one and two year terms were named for the recently organized Runnels County Association for Retarded Children at a meeting of the organization last Thursday night in Ballinger.

Elected for one-year terms were Gene Keel, Frank Jernigan, Odell Howard, Buddy Caser and Frank Haines. Two-year directors will be Henry Guevera, Mack West, Charles Hambricht, Gene Heidenheimer, the Rev. Fred Campbell, all of Ballinger, and Walter Adams of Winters.

Directors accepted and adopted the Constitution and By-Laws for the county organization.

The organization was represented in a parade during the Junior Rodeo in Ballinger Thursday, and was to have a booth at the Fat Stock show in order to distribute literature to help inform the public of the needs of the retarded child and help his family to educate the child to the extent of his abilities.

Mrs. Sidney Horton, executive vice president from Winters, who has received a scholarship for special education training from the West Texas Rehabilitation center in Abilene is now attending a work shop there. Mrs. Horton presented a ray of hope for parents of retarded children. She said that it has been found after thorough examination and evaluation of retarded children at the Center that 60 per cent are not retarded, but suffer dislexia—an inability to read or spell. It was found, she said, that this 60 per cent had an IQ of 172.

It is for this reason that the association is interested in evaluating all retardees and helping those of established handicaps, it was pointed out.

The Runnels association is interested in working with and rendering aid to the already established special education classes in the Ballinger and Winters schools, it was stated.

Organization officers pointed out that enrollments in the county association up to July 2 will be considered charter members.

Content Reunion Set For July 5th

June 30 Final Date To File For 1965 Wheat

The final date to file an application for a new grower wheat allotment for 1965 is June 30, 1964, according to a bulletin from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, ASC office in Ballinger.

The new wheat program provides that producers with a wheat allotment and a feed grain base can plant wheat on both wheat allotment area and feed grain base acres, provided the producer diverts the minimum from each of the commodities, the ASC said.

A producer can also request an oat-rye base he established on a farm with a wheat allotment. This acreage may also be seeded wheat provided the minimum acreage is diverted, it was pointed out.

Price support will be eligible on all wheat produced if the producer complies with the program regulations. An application for price support must be filed by each producer covering each commodity for which he wishes price support. A fee of $3.00 will be charged for each application filed, it was said. Once the application is filed and the fee is paid, a producer may make loans (farm stored or warehouse stored) or deliver next spring to the Commodity Credit Corporation at the applicable settlement price without making a loan.

According to the bulletin, land diverted under the 1964 feed grain and wheat diversion program cannot be grazed between April 30, 1964 and November 1, 1964.

Cover crops planted on the diverted acreage may not be harvested at any time regardless of what the cover crop is without being penalized, it was said. If any of the substitute crops such as sesame, guar, etc., are seeded for harvest there will be a reduction in payment.

Officers In FHA Met In Cottage On June 16th

Officers of the Future Homemakers of America met in the Homemaking Cottage on the morning of June 16, to plan their program of work for the coming school year.

Those present were Kathy Shaw, Linda Lloyd, Floretta Jones, Louise Adams, Jeanie Hood, Donna England, Dana Bishop, Sarah Brown, Shirley Heath and their sponsor Mrs. Cecil Hambricht.

Floodwater Retarding Structures Are Almost Finished On Valley Creek

Last Thursday, the semi-final construction inspection was made on two floodwater retarding structures in the Valley Creek Watershed Project. The two structures inspected were site 3, which is on Frank K. Antilley, Jr.'s ranch north of Wingate, and site 18, on Ralph Burns' farm in the Wilmeth community. Those who made the inspection were Hugo Voglesang, representing the Valley Creek Water Control District as contracting officer, and Soil Conservation Service technicians Bill Bruce, watershed construction engineer of Brownwood and Woodrow Hoffman, Work Unit Conservativist, at Ballinger.

Voglesang said that the inspection revealed that the construction on these two structures was about 98 per cent complete. And, the contractor, T. F. Free, should complete them in about two weeks. When these two are finished, he pointed out that construction on four structures will be completed. Structures at sites 7 and 8 on W. L. Murphy's farm near Shep were completed last of May.

Voglesang said that before construction can begin on any site, all of the necessary easements must be secured from the landowners whose land will be effected by the works of improvement. At the present time he reported the District has 60 per cent of the needed land rights instruments. Since the

All parking on Winters' Main Street will be parallel to the curb, effective Wednesday, July 1. City officials announced this week.

This change in parking regulations has been made by the City of Winters in compliance with a request from the State Highway Department in order to provide more traffic space on the street, which is also a part of U. S. Highway 83.

Workmen will begin Tuesday night to remove extra parking

Water Lines To Be Flushed Tuesday

All main lines of the city's water distribution system will be flushed and cleaned next Tuesday, according to W. D. Waggoner, city water superintendent.

Residents are warned to take precautions on this day in order to prevent inconvenience and possible damage to laundry.

Blizzard Bandsters To Band School At McMurry College

Four youths from Winters have been accepted as students to attend the 17th Annual McMurry College Band and Twirling School July 12-25.

The students to receive specialized training are Gayla Beall, saxophone, and twirling; Lanny Bahlman, baritone; Jimmy Vaughan, french horn; and Linne Cheryl Barron, Twirling. More than 200 students have enrolled for the two-week summer band school with over 400 students from all over Texas expected to attend the band school for specialized training.

Dr. Raymond T. Bynum, director of the band school and director of the McMurry College Band, and several other band directors and twirling specialists will be the instructors for the school.

Classes will offer specialized training in individual instruments, conducting, marching, stage band, theory, concert band, twirling and drum majoring.

Besides the band training, several other sponsored activities will be held for the students attending the school. Many of the students will live on the campus of McMurry in dormitories during the two-week school.

The school is still open to students interested in attending the specialized school, according to Dr. Bynum. More information about the band clinic can be obtained from Dr. Bynum.

eters which are now in use for angle parking. Parking areas will be painted on both sides of the street, and no one will be allowed to park except parallel beginning Wednesday.

The new parking regulation, which was announced several weeks ago, will cut in about half the present parking spaces, it was pointed out, but should provide a safer traffic area for the several blocks of Main Street. Presently, parallel parking is in force on several blocks of the street, in the residential area and on the south end of the street.

Notices will be posted regarding the new parking rules, and Chief of Police Joe Stevens said police personnel will be on hand to remind motorists of the parking requirements. Motorists will be required to park so that their vehicles are no farther than 18 inches from the curb on the curb side, it was said.

By removing every other one of the present parking meters now installed, the police chief said, parallel parking areas will be about six inches longer than the usual 22 feet areas.

There may be some places along Main Street, in the business section, where high curbs may cause some inconvenience in parallel parking, city officials said. In these cases, studies will be made and correction of curb height made where necessary.

The new parking regulations are in line with the improvement program involving U. S. 83, it was said. The State Highway Department now has plans for widening and reconstructing the highway from Hatchel north to the intersection of FM 53 on the south of the city. In order to continue a widening project for the rest of the highway, from Winters to the Taylor County line north, and to prevent a re-route loop from becoming necessary, to bypass Winters, the traffic area of 83 through the city must be enlarged, it was pointed out.

Army Privates Finish Training At Fort Polk

Private Ronald M. Mapes, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Mapes and Private Jimmy Simpson, son of Mrs. B. L. Beaty, have returned home from Fort Polk, Louisiana, where they have completed their eight weeks basic training.

Upon their return to Ft. Polk on June 26, Pvt. Mapes will enter NonCommission Officers Academy for two weeks before he begins his advanced Infantry training. Pvt. Simpson will enter into the Advanced Infantry training upon his arrival.

Both boys have been on leave since their graduation on June 12. Returning also to Ft. Polk to complete six-months training period are Pvt. Dean Maas and Pvt. Glenn Young.

Nature has a way of taking care of her own problems. If you take a tract of land and never touch it, the balance of nature to available habitat will remain fairly stable all the time. Nature has many devices for such control — predators, disease, starvation. None of them are very pretty, but nonetheless they are quite effective.

The real trouble starts when someone begins tinkering with this delicate balance of nature.

As things now stand in Texas, there are no lands left which haven't, in one way or another, felt the presence of civilization.

This, of course, compounds the problem. When a rancher chains the brush off his land, he destroys much of the wildlife habitat. As some of the predators are killed, it also knocks the balance out of proportion.

The more this balance is altered, the bigger the need for competent wildlife biologists to try and get things back in some semblance of order again. Perhaps heavier hunting pressure is desired, to compensate for the lack of natural predators.

But despite all the work of man, nature still makes her presence felt, quite dramatically at times. Experience has shown us that there are cycles of wildlife, diminishing populations in lean years, booming populations in years of plenty. Nothing we can do will alter this natural cycle.

A drastic die-off of deer in Llano County a couple of years back was a dramatic example of this. It was, simply, nature's way of balancing the deer herd to the available habitat.

Contrary to popular belief, game can not be stockpiled. Only so much wildlife can survive on any given number of acres.

A covey of quail, for example, never will get any larger in numbers no matter how much it is protected. It may diminish in lean years, but even during good years it will go only to a certain level and remain there. This, whether the birds are hunted or not.

Natural attrition annually takes care of about 80 per cent of the birds. This means that 80 of every 100 quail each year will be young birds.

This also is true of deer. Many ranchers, upon seeing a drastic increase of deer on their lands, attempt to resort to artificial feeding. According to James Teer, with the wildlife management department at Texas A.M., this only compounds their troubles.

"Such feeding programs only prop up and aggravate the problems," he said. "Such programs only treat the symptoms, not the disease. The symptoms are poor deer; the disease, poor range."

Teer points out that deer are increasing in numbers, despite the fact that more have starved, annually, than legally were taken by buck hunters. Parasites also take a heavy toll. Yet we still have more deer today than ever before.

"Removing surplus deer is a vital part of deer herd management," said Teer. "And common sense tells us that harvesting both sexes is sound and practical on some ranges."

He asked landowners to look at the problem like this: Selling only bulls, rams or billies from herds of domestic stock is impractical management.

THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE

Unless both sexes of livestock are marketed, the pastures soon become so overstocked with females that the range can not produce enough forage to feed them. The number of deer generally is determined by carrying capacity of rangelands, not by the annual harvest of deer by hunters.

This, then, points up some of the problems encountered when man starts tinkering with nature.

"Most deer never reach what is considered a ripe old age for whitetails," Teer went on. "Although some deer do live 20 years, a buck that escapes hunters and the toll of nature for five years is considered old. As far as the total deer production is concerned, deer over 7½ years are not common members of the herd. About 95 per cent never see their fifth birthday."

So it readily can be seen that the sport of hunting is vitally necessary, not only for the economic value, it brings to the various communities and the fun it provides for people of all ages, but also for the role it plays in wildlife management. Man has taken much of the control of nature away from the Old Lady herself.

But nevertheless, the Old Lady Nature still makes herself felt quite dramatically and strongly in our everyday scheme of things, particularly in the great outdoors.

Bet you didn't know that: Bats are not attracted to lights because of the illumination. They zoom in only to catch the insects which are drawn to the light.

The "song" of the tiny cricket, an insect which is less than an inch long, sometimes can be heard a mile away. Mister Cricket is the only vocalist. Mrs. Cricket is mute.

The bald eagle is an exceedingly loyal and affectionate parent. It will not desert its young even if the tree on which it nests is in flames.

Bats are not "blind as bats." As far as naturalists can tell, they have fair day-time vision.

Rattlesnakes, contrary to belief, do not seek to avenge the death of a mate. They probably are attracted to the death scene by scent.

When the Pacific horned lizard is frightened, it squirts blood out of its eyes.

The skeleton of the ant is on the outside of its body.

The so-called silver eel is just a common green eel with a date. When they are six to eight years old, eels stop feeding and change to a silvery color for their long trip into the ocean to spawn and die.

The kangaroo rat is neither a kangaroo nor a rat. He is a near relative of the pocket mouse which shares his desert haunts.

Three common myths are the bats snarl themselves in women's hair, falling cats always land on their feet, and elephants are afraid of mice. All are untrue!

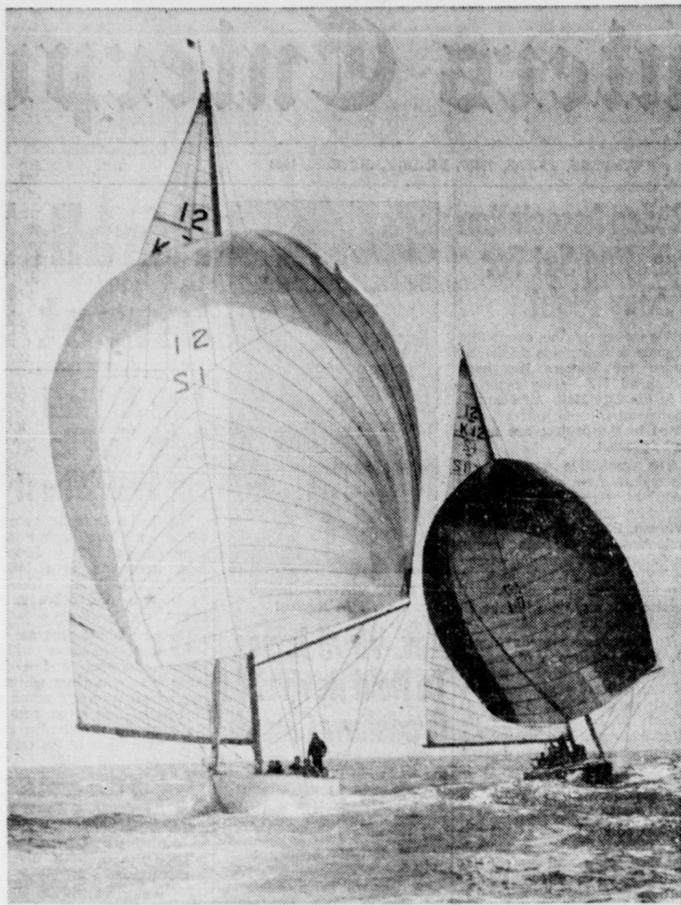

Surprisingly enough, the small Ruddy duck lays the largest egg of all wild ducks.

Regardless of his name, the main diet of the sparrow hawk is grasshoppers.

Frogs are able to sing under water because they normally sing with their mouths and nostrils closed.

Except for vultures and parrots, wild geese live longer than any other birds. Authentic records give them as much as 70 years.

The bald eagle was adopted as our national emblem by Congress on June 20, 1782.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Protecting Rod Handles

To prevent cork handles on fishing rods from drying out and splitting, coat the cork with glycerine before putting your rods in lay-away for any length of time. The liquid easily will wash away and your rod handle will be as good as new.

Chain As Sinker

A piece of chain of several links makes a practically no-snag sinker for rock fishing. Use as many links as are needed for the correct weight.

Magnet Hook Holder

A small magnet in your tackle box makes a neat holder for fishing hooks. It prevents them from rattling or spilling and keeps them right handy.

Keep Worms Alive

Worms can be kept crawling and lively until it's time to put them to work if you keep them in a container filled with peat moss instead of dirt.

Plastic Protector

A 9 x 12 piece of plastic makes a vital contribution to your camping gear. It can be used as a lean-to shelter, put underneath sleeping bags, or used to cover food left on the table.

Salt Box Bait Box

A one-pound salt box makes a perfect container for carrying crickets and grasshoppers. Punch in a few breathing holes, pull out the spout and slip in the insects. When you are ready to fish, open up the spout and drop 'em out, one at a time.

Wire Brush Scaler

To aid in scaling fish, use a painter's steel wire brush instead of a knife. Even when fish are dried, the scales come right off.

Use Safety Tape

If you use the same jacket for hunting both deer and ducks, you've got a problem.

Wear a red or yellow jacket and you'll spook ducks two miles away. Wear an olive drab one and you're apt to get blasted by a cross-eyed deer hunter.

Here's the solution: Buy the olive-drab jacket for duck hunting, then when you go after deer, mark the back and sleeves with industrial adhesive tape.

These stripes of bright yellow will distinguish you from the deer.

Casting Practice

Got an old hula hoop lying around the house? It makes a perfect casting target, floating in a swimming pool.

Wrap Pork Rinds in Foil

Here's a way to carry pork rind without having any bottles to break. Simply place some pork rinds in petroleum jelly and wrap in aluminum foil. There's nothing to spill and a lot less weight to lug around.

Cuts Line With Staples

To snip off your nonfilament line simply take out your cigarette lighter, insert the line toward the hinge, close the case cover and give the line a short tug toward the hinge. Works better than a knife.

Solid Tent Anchor

To anchor your tent on soft ground, get a log about the length of the tent, fasten the ropes to it and bury the log

LONE STAR AGRICULTURE

The general opinion in some political circles today is that the farm vote as a power at the polls is a thing of the past. And on this election eve, the question on farm vote strength is a timely one.

It is true that the farm vote now represents only about 9 percent—and maybe less—of the registered voters on a national scale. But this figure does not present a true picture of agricultural strength or importance.

Actually, a total of 63 percent of our population is directly connected with the buying, selling, manufacturing or processing of our farm products. Legislative matters important to agriculture are also vitally important to all these persons.

If everyone who buys the raw products of the farm would vote with the farmer, the strength of the rural vote would increase to 14 per cent. If those who pass these products through the channels of trade were counted, the total goes up to 24 per cent. The processors and manufacturers of these goods would swell the total to 37 per cent.

Retailers of the ultimate product increases the strength to 56 per cent. And finally, those who sell the farmer only those tools and materials needed to produce his crop brings the grand total to 63 per cent of our voting strength. Of course, all of us rely on agriculture for our daily needs. Hardly another single industry affects the entire population so directly.

VFW and Auxiliary Win Awards At State Convention

Winters Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Auxiliary, and several members of the organizations, received service and achievement awards during the State VFW convention last week.

The post was awarded fifth place for Community Service; the Ladies' Auxiliary also received fifth place award for Community Service. Winters' VFW Post also received a Graves Registration Citation in acknowledgement of the work the post has done in compiling records of all deceased veterans in Rannels County.

Personal awards were presented to several members of the post and Auxiliary.

J. L. Morrow, immediate past commander, received a VFW tie clasp, "Star for 64"; W. L. Collins, VFW tie clasp, "Eager Beaver" award, outline of Texas award, and "Star for 64"; Max Lewis, immediate past post commander, Ted Connell award, silver VFW tie clasp and cuff links, "Eager Beaver" award, outline of Texas, "Star for 64"; C. H. Harrell, "Eager Beaver," outline of Texas and "Star for 64"; J. A. Henderson, "Star for 64."

Mrs. W. L. Collins, of the Winters VFW Auxiliary, received a personal citation from the National VFW commander for Community Service reporting and record book. Golden Anniversary honor award from the

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

Law Is Adaptable

We are all familiar with the fact that there have been a multitude of changes in the past few years which have altered the course of industry and science—in fact, the course of human history. Naturally, these changes also have called for changes or modifications in the law of the land.

Fortunately the original makers of law knew they couldn't possibly foresee all that the future held, so they provided methods of changing the law in this way, if a law became outdated it could be modified or even scrapped. A body of inflexible laws could be worse than no law at all.

Some persons feel the law is too rigid even with the changes permitted. However, most will agree that the entire body of law should not be changed overnight or without some thought. For instance, when you make a will you want to be certain that its terms will be carried out national president for membership work, key pin from the State chairman of Community Service for detailed monthly and yearly reporting on Community Service, and second place in the State for "Outstanding Publicity Chairman."

Other awards going to the VFW Auxiliary, in addition to the Community Service award, included a loving cup for membership quota achievement, graves registration citation, and second place in the State Press Book contest.

Attending the State convention from the local post and auxiliary were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Collins, J. A. Henderson and W. E. Arnold.

after you are gone. When you buy a house you certainly don't want your ownership upset overnight by an abrupt, ill-conceived change in the law.

An example of adaptability concerns a familiar object, the airplane. Years ago, a farmer in one state believed his property rights continued straight up—to outer space. Then came the airplane. It flew through what he considered his property.

The law had to adapt to the airplane and specify just how high was "up" when it came to property rights. Conceivably, if the farmer owned the air, he and other property owners could charge a toll and air travel could become fantastically expensive.

In this case, not only were existing laws modified, but an entire body of new law was set down to cover air travel, etc. The overall process took much time and research. In fact, the changes are still being made in this area.

The advent of the atomic age also has created a new set of laws. Modern maritime navigational methods have called for changes in the admiralty laws to mention only another area where the flexibility of the law has been at work.

With all these changes, new laws, etc., it is little wonder that the attorney's office is jammed with law books, periodicals and special materials. However, if it were not for the flexibility of the law, the world as we know it might not exist.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

growth of the community, and encouraged the City Council to take steps to have such a project undertaken. At a subsequent meeting, the Council passed a resolution to go ahead with the program.

This is not "urban renewal" in the sense that phrase has come to be known, it has been explained, even though the FHHA is connected with the Urban Renewal Administration. There will be no construction, no tearing down of present structures or any physical changes made whatever. Rather it was pointed out, it will be a blueprint which future councils and development groups may use in promoting the progress of the community. Neither is it mandatory that the plans be followed to the letter — or followed at all, it was explained. Such a plan for development will help to prevent "blind" growth which might result in uneconomical as well as unsightly expansion of different phases of the community, it was said. The development plan also will help to point out what can be done to encourage growth of present industrial and business members of the community, as well as recommending steps which may be taken to present a more favorable climate for additional industrial growth.

The City of Winters employed the Marvin Turner Engineering Firm to plan future water distribution facilities and sewer system about four years ago. The firm made recommendations on changing existing systems and on installing new facilities. As a result, all new water lines installed, and relocation or renewal of existing water lines are made according to the recommendations of the engineers. Much water line work has been done this year, with all of it following the plans of the engineers, it was pointed out.

"Island of the Blue Dolphins"

A book that is fast becoming one of literature's modern classics, "Island of the Blue Dolphins," will show as an exciting and memorable motion picture at the Fiesta Drive-In theatre. From Universal, and in color, it was produced by Robert B. Radnitz, and entirely photographed among breathtakingly beautiful sites.

Moviewgoers will find in this beautiful color adventure film the same type of appeal they found in "Treasure Island" and "Robinson Crusoe" — both likewise classics read by children which became very enjoyable screen fare for adults. "Island of the Blue Dolphins" is matchlessly written, directed and photographed.

"Island of the Blue Dolphins" will show Friday and Saturday at the Fiesta Drive In.

"Donovan's Reef"

Husky John Wayne returns to the screen in a comedy - adventure set and filmed in the South Seas in Technicolor called "Donovan's Reef," which shows at the Fiesta Drive - Inn Friday and Saturday. Directed by John Ford, who is famous for his work in outdoor adventure films, the cast includes Lee Marvin, Elizabeth Allen, Dorothy Lamour and Cesar Romero.

"Sunday in New York"

During filming of MGM - Seven Arts' screen version of Norman Krasna's Broadway comedy, "Sunday in New York," Rod Taylor, co - starred in the film with Cliff Robertson and Jane Fonda, spoke about comedy and other facets of the movie business.

"I'm for making more comedies like they used to make — those wonderful Cary Grant-Carole Lombard combos, the William Powell - Myrna Loy frolics, or the Spencer Tracy - Katherine Hepburn comedies. They were movies with and about attractive, amusing people. These are the kind of people audiences are interested in watching. I think 'Sunday in New York' is definitely of this genre. It's sophisticated and its about characters you laugh with rather than at. I was tickled ink to play in it."

This movie shows Monday and Tuesday at the Fiesta Drive-In Theatre.

MGM-Seven Arts screen version of Norman Krasna's Broadway comedy hit about a small town girl who comes to the big city to learn the facts of life. Rod Taylor helps to instruct Jane in the art of romance, with Jo Morrow and Robert Culp co-starred in the Metrocolor attraction.

Roger Babson Says—Stock Market Has Been Marching Upward Since Big Break In 1962

Babson Park, Mass. — Most readers of this column are aware that since the panic-like stock market decline in the spring of 1962, the Dow-Jones Industrial Average has been marching upward, with only short halts, to successively new record highs.

Business Backbones The Stock Market

The rapid shrinkage in stock values in the dark days of 1962 undoubtedly had its beginnings in distrust of the politico-business outlook. Then, as paper profits began to vanish, selling pressure rose to a crescendo, with investors hurrying to preserve what profits they had left, or to limit their losses. The market did regain its composure when investors realized that a business decline of the proportions indicated was not imminent. By that time, too, the "water" had been pretty well wrung out of the glamour and speculative stocks.

Thus it has been the sustained well-being of general business, powerfully assisted by consumer spending and residential building, which not only righted the stock market but launched it on a two-year advance, virtually uninterrupted, during which time the Dow-Jones Industrial Average rose from a low of 536 to a high of 830.

Are Inflation Fears Justified?

As I view the market now, many of the blue-chip stocks which have largely accounted for the two-year market advance seem fully priced, and real bargains are harder to find. This is understandable, since the Dow-Jones Industrial Average's climb of nearly 300 points outdistanced the gains of industrial activity and business profits in the same period of time. Business and profits may rise further over the near term, to be sure, but such additional gains are probably pretty well discounted. Hence we must look to another element to propel the stock market upward. This may well be speculative enthusiasm stemming from fears of inflation. It has been said that a whiff of inflation psychology can stir investor buying impatience.

Those who feel we are in for more inflation have many arguments in their favor. Since the last business recession, U. S. monetary authorities have been pursuing a policy of keeping money and credit plentiful. To the extent this has exceeded the legitimate credit needs of business, the surplus represents an inflationary potential. In addition, consumers have been expanding their borrowings, both for installment purchases of durable goods and for new home mortgages. Such borrowings are inflationary to the extent that purchasing power is boosted above the levels of earned incomes. The deficit operations of federal, state, and municipal governments are also inflationary; and we must not forget the steady inflation of labor costs.

On the other hand, President Johnson's economy drive in government spending is an attempt to prevent inflation from getting out of hand. The most effective barriers against inflation in recent years, however, have been the surplus of most commodities and the excess of productive capacities in many industries.

Hedging Against Inflation

The danger of inflation is most acute during and following wars. Under normal conditions, deflation is more likely to prevail. In today's "semi-war" economy and prolonged prosperity, therefore, the tug-of-war between inflation and deflation leaves the situation in doubt. Conceivably, this stalemate could continue with neither side gaining a clear advantage, even though over the long run rising government spending and the unreasonable demands of labor suggest further inflation.

It has been my experience that the best time to hedge against inflation is when the stock market and real estate prices are depressed. Hence, although the current bull market may yet penetrate higher ground, the "real gravy" is largely behind us and the risk factor greater from here on in. It might therefore be better to have patience and "hold your fire". Profitable hedging against inflation requires careful timing and selection. When the prices of stocks and real estate are depressed, and when deflation rather than inflation is the watchword of the day, then investors

HEALTH LETTER

Who does cancer hit hardest—men or women? What part of the body is most vulnerable? Can cancer be cured?

Medical scientists know the answers to these most frequently asked questions about cancer, but do you?

Does cancer hit men or women hardest? The race is close, but records show that younger women fall victim to the disease more often than men. In 1963, over 11,500 people died of cancer, the number two killer, in Texas. More older men than older women die of cancer, but between the ages 30 to 50, there are more cancer deaths among women than among men.

Between the ages of 35 and 45, more women are killed by cancer than by any other disease. About 17 percent of all women's deaths are attributable to cancer; about 14 percent of all men's.

What part of the body is most vulnerable? At the top of the fatality list is cancer of the digestive organs, which alone accounts for about 35 percent of cancer deaths.

Among women who die of cancer, the breast and the uterus are the most frequent sites, while cancer of the lung and of the stomach take the greatest toll among men. More than twice as many men die from lung cancer as from all forms of tuberculosis.

Can cancer be cured? There is no cancer cure-all, but early diagnosis and treatment saves lives. The rule that saves countless cancer victims and that could save countless more is "find it early." Yet without periodic examinations this is hard to do in cancer, since first symptoms usually come some time after the disease has gotten a start.

Pain and fever, those two alarmists of most other illnesses, do not appear until much later in most cancer cases. The only way to be on the safe side is to go at regular intervals—at least once a year—for a complete checkup.

In between regular physical examinations watch for the seven danger signs of cancer: unusual bleeding or discharge, a lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere, a sore that does not heal, persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing or a change in a wart or mole. If any of these signs continue for two weeks, see your doctor to find out if this means cancer or not.
