

HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Winters' Volunteer Fire Department and the Ladies' Auxiliary held their open house at the fire station Tuesday evening. All the rolling apparatus was pulled out of the station and tables set up to display the portable equipment used by the department — such as oxygen tanks, smoke masks, gas masks, inhalators and the like.

The fire station was scrubbed down and the fire trucks were polished to a high sheen — as they always are, but extra effort was expended for this occasion.

The ladies prepared punch and cookies to be served to those people who would visit the fire station to see what kind of department Winters has. Firemen were dressed in their special shirts for the occasion.

The open house was held to exhibit all the equipment in the department, and especially to show off the department's pride and joy — the big new fire truck which was added just a few days ago.

But attendance at the open house left something to be desired. As one observer aptly put it, the public stayed away in droves.

Perhaps it was the weather — it was hotter than blazes — but the firemen are used to blazes, and practically the entire department was on hand at one time or another. Perhaps it was a schedule of interesting re-runs on tv. Or perhaps it was because most of us have reached the point where we don't want to be bothered with anything which is not directly concerned with us. This is probably the main reason, because it is becoming more and more difficult to assemble people for any kind of occasion.

In days gone by before tv got such a strangle hold on the spare time of most everyone, and before highway travel became so much of an easy thing, and before air conditioners weakened our resistance, and before the ever-increasing press of labor to keep body and soul together and provide where-withal for half the rest of the world — anything out of the ordinary run-of-the-day would have been cause for a big get-together. For instance, how many of us in this day of comfort-cushioned living would sit for a couple or three hours in a brush arbor or revival tent to hear a speaker tell us we'd better mend our ways? Or how many of us would load the kids in the car, pile on sleeping and camping equipment and attend a camp meeting for three or four days, to renew old acquaintances and make new ones, and to enjoy life to the hilt. (Those days had their drawbacks, too, of course, but we sometimes wonder if those drawbacks were traveling as fast as they are today?)

Somewhere along the way we've lost the knack of enjoying one another. Perhaps the world is getting too small and elbow room has become so scarce that we don't like to be jostled so much. Somewhere along the way the personal touch has been lost; the importance of occasions has lost its meaning. For instance, why do we now celebrate the Fourth of July? It would seem, from all indications, that it is only a day set aside to close up shop and get out on the highway and slaughter one another — the real meaning has been lost or has become unfashionable for one reason or another.

Winters has one of the finest volunteer fire departments in the country. The pride of accomplishment is deeply rooted, and a call to duty or practice or meetings is answered with more enthusiasm than any other organization we can think of. They're individuals, of course, but as a group the department and its reason for existence come first. They're dedicated men — to a man — and pleasure or business or anything else takes second place when they are called to action.

The next time you talk to one of these men, don't stop with thanking him for yesterday's ready response to call for help — perhaps from you — but thank him in advance for the response you'll get tomorrow.

883 Have Land Conservation Plans In Runnels County Soil District

Eight hundred and eighty-three landowners and operators as of March 29, 1964, had conservation plans for their farms and ranches with the Runnels Soil Conservation District, according to H. Giesecke, Jr., Chairman of the board of supervisors. Giesecke said the objective of conservation planning by farmers and ranchers is to get sound soil, water and plant use. This is done with technical help furnished by the local Soil Conservation Service where the physical, economic and human resources of the farm or ranch are coordinated into a plan. This plan will then be used to meet the goals of the landowner and operator, to benefit the community and to meet the long-time needs of the nation. Giesecke said a conservation plan charts a sound and practical course of action for the cooperators. It is much like a blue print for a building, he pointed out, in that it sets forth, step by step, what conservation practices are needed to come out, in the end, with a sound conservation program applied to the entire farm.

Association For Retarded Children Met In Ballinger

Constitution and by-laws were adopted by members of the Runnels County Association for Retarded Children in a meeting July 2 at Ballinger.

Dr. Bill Tatum reported that he had contacted the Ballinger School Board regarding assistance offered by the organization for the special education class at that school. The board was informed that free audio, visual and speech testing were available to the school. At present eight children are enrolled, he said, and a survey shows there is a need for more classes.

A survey committee reported that there are in Ballinger 26 children who need the special work. In Winters, the committee reported 27.

The committee also reported that many parents are uninformed about the program, and therefore feel reluctant to have their child tested or registered for testing.

The purpose of the organization, it was pointed out, is to educate the parents and the public of the needs of the retarded. Henry Guevera reported that Spanish language literature has been obtained for use of the organization.

Neurological tests will be given the second week in July at the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene.

All members will be called Monday to remind them of the meeting. Mrs. B. B. Bedford, acting manager and secretary said.

Appropriate awards will be given to each contestant. The county winner will compete in the district contest and expenses to the district contest will be paid by the Farm Bureau.

C. of C. Directors Discuss Possibility Of Holding Diamond Jubilee In 1965

The year 1965 has been selected as the 75th anniversary of the city of Winters, and members of the board of directors of the Winters Chamber of Commerce have indicated a desire to do something about it.

In their monthly breakfast meeting Tuesday morning, promotion of some sort of celebration some time during 1965 was discussed. It was pointed out that such an undertaking would require a great deal of work on the part of everyone. Gattis Neely, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the cooperation and work of the whole town would be needed if such a celebration was planned and put over.

Photographer Authors Major Feature For Professional Photographer Mag

Photographer Eddie Little, Winters, is the author of a major feature on photography of the "Neglected People," in the June issue of The Professional Photographer magazine.

The Professional Photographer is the official journal of the Professional Photographers of America, Inc. Little points out in the article a growing number of the "Neglected People" — people ranging in age from 40 to 70, are having photographic portraits made to satisfy requests from family and friends — and to flatter their egos a mite. Little notes that at least 30 per cent of his photographic studio customers come from this group of individuals.

The article is illustrated with dramatic photographic portraits of mature citizens — including a photograph of a man made just prior to his 100th birthday, a well known woman author and a handsome 80-year-old gentleman who insisted on wearing his ten-gallon hat during the sitting.

FROM DALLAS
Harley Ryan of Dallas spent the past week end visiting in the home of his mother, Mrs. J. E. Ryan.

Winters' City Council Monday night adopted an ordinance establishing a Corporation Court for the City of Winters, and appointed a judge for the court.

Mord Tucker was appointed as judge of the Corporate Court. His term of office will run concurrently with that of the mayor, as established by state statute.

Effective date of the newly activated Corporate Court will be July 16, and the new judge will hold court at his home on South Church Street.

The Corporate Court will handle only cases which come under the jurisdiction of the ordinances of the City of Winters. These will include minor traffic cases, disturbances and other similar offenses. Under state statute, according to city officials, corporate courts established in cities operating under the General Laws, are restricted in their authority to levy fines not to exceed $200.00 upon conviction of any single violation of city ordinances.

The City may, however, establish a fixed rate as "court costs," in this case to be $5.00, as ordered by the City Council.

Prior to the establishment of a Corporate Court by the City of Winters, all trials of violations of local ordinances filed by the police department were handled by the mayor.

Creation of a Corporate Court in Winters has been needed for some time, it was pointed out by city officials. By having such a court with a judge presiding, the police department will have some backing in their attempt at enforcement of local ordinances, it was stated. This has been lacking in the past, to some extent, according to officials, because it has been impossible for the mayor, with an already heavy schedule of city business and the necessity to take care of his own private business, to hold court at specified times and hours.

Court hours for the new Corporate Court will be announced in the near future, it was said. In establishing the Corporate Court, members of the City Council explained, it is not the intention of City officials to create "speed traps," or to harass anyone. Rather, they pointed out, it is to enforce some of the ordinances which were set up to protect the health and welfare of everyone in the community.

The judge of the new Corporate Court will not be on a "fee" basis, it was explained. In fact, it was emphasized, it is not expected that court costs and fines in cases brought before the court will bring in much more money than the actual expense in operating the court. Monthly salary for the Corporate Court will be $80, with no other fees or assessments involved.

More Parking At Post Office

Winters' City Council Monday night authorized the installation of two 12-minute parking meters on the north side of State Street in front of the post office.

The parking meters — to be installed in a space which has been a "no parking" zone — are expected to relieve some of the congestion on the regular post office parking lot. Also, the council said, the 12-minute parking privilege immediately in front of the post office door will be an added convenience to post office patrons who have bundles and packages which must be mailed.

Council has asked the co-operation of the public in observing the 12-minute regulation in the two added spaces. If the spaces are used indiscriminately for quick stops at the post office without putting money in the meters, the purpose will be defeated, it was pointed out. Council also said that the police would keep a close check to see that the 12-minute regulations are not abused.

Home Town Talk--

According to the article in the magazine, Texas ranks second only to Alaska among the 50 states in the volume of its inland water. The state has 4,499 square miles of lakes and streams. Lake Texoma, on the Red River between Texas and Oklahoma, is the largest reservoir in the state or on its border with a capacity of 5,530,300 acre feet. It ranks tenth in capacity among the artificially constructed reservoirs in the United States.

West Texas is accepted in stories of fact and fiction as being a dry barren wasteland — but the article in the magazine refutes this, and presents facts and pictures to back it up. Although many of the lakes of West Texas are not mentioned or shown in the article, the list reads from Amarillo to Winters. There is a picture and a few facts about the Winters' lake — four miles of shoreline with 360 acres of surface storage, containing 3,050 acres feet of water. So we're not lakeless out here in this "wasteland!" (Though most of the lakes could stand some rain right now!) And they are not used entirely for water supply, either. So there is a reason that kid told his dad, "When you buy us a new car, get the kind with the boat and trailer built in!"

Co-Op Members Will Receive Dividends

Tangible results of cooperative effort will soon be available to those members of the Coleman County Electric Cooperative who received electric service from the Cooperative during 1954. The patronage refund checks will be mailed July 15, 1964. The checks, totaling $11,489.67, will be mailed to 3964 consumer-owners of the Cooperative.

These savings representing 24.45 per cent of every dollar received from the sale of electric energy and the cost of supplying it to these members. This will bring the total savings to date to $317,334.51.

The consumption per Coleman County Electric member has grown from a monthly average of about 35 kilowatt-hours in 1939 to 286 kilowatt-hours in 1963.

This widespread use of electricity, in addition to improving the standard of living of people in the rural areas, has had far reaching effects on other segments of our economy. Studies have been made which indicate that, on the average, rural electric consumers have spent $5.00 for appliances, plumbing, wiring, and electrical equipment for every $1.00 spent for line construction.

This would mean that the Coleman County Electric Cooperative has created a sales market for downtown businessmen in and around the Cooperative's service area worth over $21 million dollars.

Tractors, Drugs Targets Of Rural Safety Campaign

July 19-25 has been proclaimed National Farm Safety Week. President Lyndon B. Johnson called on all persons and organizations in the nation "to unite in a strong and purposeful effort to reduce farm, home and rural highway accidents to an irreducible minimum."

The 21st annual farm safety program, sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the National Safety Council is built around the theme, "Safer American Families Everywhere."

In his proclamation, the President said that despite the effectiveness of safety programs among farm residents, "accidents still cause thousands of deaths and nearly a million disabling injuries to farm people each year."

"This loss of human and economic resources causes a significant adverse impact upon the economy of the entire nation and must be viewed as a matter of national concern."

Primary concentration of the 1964 campaign will be on safety with farm chemicals, preventing home poisonings, and tractor safety.

Farming remains the nation's third most hazardous occupation according to Howard Pyle, NSC president.

"While our farm population is declining, the total number of deaths to farm residents each year remains almost unchanged," Pyle said.

"In the past the death rate from farm accidents was only slightly higher than the national average," he asserted. "But in recent years the difference has grown and in 1962 it was more than 16 per cent higher."

"For the family involved, every farm accident is a personal tragedy. Every step possible must be taken to reduce this toll."

Emperor Hadrian of Rome passed laws in 125 A. D. regulating the supply of hot bath water for miners and making the baths available to the women while the men were working underground.

During the famine of 1315 one-tenth of the inhabitants of Ypres in Belgium died of starvation.

Screwworm Fight Aided By Mexico Stock Raisers

Livestock producers in Northern Mexico are so pleased with the reduction in screwworm infestations, because of the screwworm eradication program, they are making personal contributions to keep the project going.

A local cattleman's association in Nuevo Laredo in the Mexican State of Tamaulipas is contributing $60 a month and the state association of Nuevo Leon is collecting $10 from each of its members to help finance ground survey and inspection activities and control of screwworm infestations.

Sterile screwworm flies are being released in an area of Northern Mexico encompassing nearly 250,000 square miles to prevent a buildup of fertile flies that could migrate into the areas of the U. S. where the insect has been eradicated. The action has reduced screwworm problems for Mexican ranchers as well.

Civil Rights Bill To Change Life In America

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

The Civil Rights Bill was steamrollered through the House last week by a solid Republican and liberal Democratic coalition. Described as "the most liberal single measure ever enacted by the American Congress," the hodge-podge measure will undoubtedly change the pattern of American life in many respects.

As the measure goes into effect, we can only hope for the best but be prepared for the worst. Many observers believe the passage of the bill will trigger more racial unrest, more clashes, more mob action and riots, than ever. Already, the civil rights racial agitators have set in motion reactions that have caused the bombing of a Negro church in Birmingham and the death of several innocent Negro children. Martin Luther King was the chief agitator down there. These civil rights exponents have caused a civil rights leader in Jackson to be shot from ambush. In addition, on the wave of the agitation there has been a noticeable increase in crime by Negroes in many areas. Encouraged by this preferential treatment, law enforcement officials fear an increase in rapes, murders, robberies, and other crimes by the supposed beneficiaries of this new and radical civil rights legislation.

Many rights and privileges, always considered sacred under the Constitution, will be subverted.

Mrs. Murphy, for example, with a small rooming house, will no longer be permitted to choose her own patrons. If she has a vacancy and a Negro, whose appearance may frighten her, knocks on her door at 2 o'clock in the morning, and is denied a room, she may eventually be sent to jail for refusing to admit him.

At least she would be subject to court action, at the behest of the rejected room-seeker, and the latter would be entitled to a government attorney, at no cost to him, in the prosecution of his claim that Mrs. Murphy refused to rent the room to him because he was colored.

This is but one of the many booby traps in the bill. America will feel the whiplash of the police state on a scale never believed possible under our Constitution. Federal enforcement agents will increase by the thou-

Bureaucracy will thrive. Lawyers will have a field day. The court dockets will be jammed. This will all unfold gradually, the seeds of a New Order or New Society having been sown.

All of this because of an insatiable craving for Negro bloc votes by the politicians who engineered the passage of the bill. It is feared by many that progress in the field of race relations may have suffered a severe setback with the enactment of this bill. Progress in this field must be come by evolution, not revolution.

Rose Best and Sam Partee Repeat Marriage Vows In Best Home Friday

Marriage vows were repeated Friday evening July 3, in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Best, at Bradshaw, uniting Miss Rose Best and Mr. Sam Partee, both of Odessa.

The Rev. Virgil James, pastor of the South Side Baptist Church, officiated for the double ring ceremony.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jerry Morgan of Austin, sister of the bride, and Jerry Morgan, served the groom as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of blue lace. Her

See Increase In School-Age Marriages

School-age marriages may not be wise, yet after one becomes a fact, adults working with the couple have a responsibility to help them succeed. Indications are that they will continue to increase in numbers.

So says Patsy Reynolds, Extension specialist in family life education at Texas A and M University.

Marriage is always a time of adjustment, she explains regardless of the age of the couple. "Add to the normal problems of this period the disapproval and often bitter incriminations of parents and the load becomes almost impossible for the young couple to carry."

According to a study made by Dr. B. J. Fallon, Executive secretary of the West Texas School Study Council, school-age marriages have a divorce rate two to four times greater than for those who marry at age 20 or older. Dr. Fallon directed the survey in 238 Texas schools in 1962.

Conclusions of the research indicate that schools should educate for a "balanced social perspective" if these school-age marriages are to be reduced or those which occur are to succeed the specialist says.

PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS

A Community Survey can chart the road to community development

Community development is one of the fastest growing activities in America today. Many communities, both large and small, are attacking the problems with new vigor and vitality.

While there is no easy road to success, no simple formula to follow, one thing is certain... a community must start with a thoughtfully planned and soundly developed Community Survey. It assesses and evaluates both favorable and unfavorable economic and civic factors which affect community growth, and discloses factors which can be used to solicit new business and industry.

To be fully effective it must be a continuing study, since conditions change as economic handicaps are eliminated and economic advantages multiply. The survey has the added value of helping to clarify a community's aims and objectives in the field of improvement, growth and development.

Such a community survey then becomes the PATTERN FOR PROGRESS.

WTU's area development representatives will assist growth-conscious communities in planning a continuing community survey for economic development. This service is available on request through your WTU local manager.
