

HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

To fill this space, many times we resort to clipping and copying from other newspapers and publications, a practice which is well-established throughout the country. Many times we make a few changes, and then sometimes we run the article exactly as it appeared.

The following article was clipped from an exchange newspaper, and we decided it could be used in total, without change, even to the name of the town, because it is very appropriate, even to Winters. It is taken from the Winters (Calif.) Express—the other of the only two "Winters" in the United States.

"Between now and Christmas thousands of dollars will be spent by people of the Winters community for a wide variety of gifts in all sizes—from the 10 cent toy to 1965 model automobiles.

"Winters merchants have put forth extra effort this year into stocking their stores to offer the widest selection possible in Christmas merchandise. During the past several years, most have modernized their stores to make them attractive places in which to shop. (This also is true in Winters, Texas.)

"We suggest that you try your hometown stores first—no traffic jams, or parking problems, and a chance to visit with your friends and neighbors while shopping. The Winters merchants will be right here for a long time to service whatever you buy for Christmas.

"Much of the money spent at home stays at home, in the form of taxes for better education and better city services; or in the form of support for our churches and community organizations. Merchants not only support such drives as the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Heart Fund and others, but provide the leadership for these endeavors.

"We don't question the clamor of the big cities at Christmas time, but if you have to make that trip to the city, just make it a "looking" trip, and do your buying right at home."

There probably are a lot of toys and other useful items in most every home which have been outgrown or otherwise discarded, which could be put to use and enjoyed by others. If you have something of the sort around your home, you probably could make some less fortunate child's eyes shine with a little more joy on Christmas if you shared a little. The high school library club is collecting toys and other items to fix up and distribute on Christmas. They could use your help.

We've never paid much attention to the naming of members of "All-This-or-That" team outside the local level. But one instance a few days ago served to amplify just how simply ridiculous this practice can become, if carried to extremes. (It's probably happened all the time, but this is the first time we've noticed it.)

One television sportscaster made a big thing of naming members of university and college squads to "his" team, but there was one hitch: It seemed that where he liked one player who filled a certain spot on a given team, and the "All" team was already filled, this sportscaster simply named his favorite to another spot. For instance, if he liked a certain tackle, and the "All-Team" tackle spot was filled, this player was named as "All-Team" fullback! This practice was used several times, until he got his "team"—both offense and defense—complete. We figure that if this sportscaster had liked the work of some waterboy real well, he'd named him "All-American Quarterback." It's action of this type which shows up just how thin the veneer really is!

Young Men May Enlist For Abilene Army Nike Unit

Captain David C. Weaver, Commanding officer of the U. S. Army Recruiting Main Station, Abilene, Texas announced today that the Army will accept young men for enlistment in the Nike Hercules Missile Unit stationed in Abilene. Under this limited enlistment option men who enlist for the Abilene Unit will be assigned there directly after basic training.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for young men interested in Military Service," the Captain said. "They will gain technical training in the unit, as well as fulfilling their military obligation at the same time." If they wish they may continue their civilian education during off duty hours under the Army's educational program at one of Abilene's three colleges.

"The importance of enlisting for the Abilene unit is that the individual will serve right here, near their homes, Captain Weaver said. I am sure there are many young men who would like to serve in the Abilene Missile Unit, and play an important part in the security and defense of the Abilene area."

First Written Report On Winters' Development Plan Received Monday

The first written report prepared by the engineering firm employed to prepare a comprehensive development plan for Winters was presented to the City Council Monday night of this week.

The first report, in the form of a 92-page book, was entitled "Base Studies," and contains the basic information from which planning engineers may build the complete development plan. Engineers preparing the report are from Bryant-Curington, Inc., engineers and planners of Austin.

The Base Study report, prepared through the cooperation of the Texas State Department of Health, contains many of the findings of a team of experts from the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. This team visited Winters several months ago to obtain information for their part of the report.

This first report contains all basic information which must be compiled before a comprehensive plan may be developed. For example, the booklet has 35 different tables, including Population by Age and Sex, Percent Distribution of Population by Race and Sex, General Housing Characteristics, Years of School Completed, Employment by Industry Group, Estimates of Employment and Labor Force, Employment and Wages, Summary of Economic Characteristics, Crop information, precipitation and many others. There are also 14 illustrations and maps in the booklet.

The book is divided into eight chapters, with a complete analysis of historical significance and other important information. Chapters are devoted to the People and Their Livelihood, Population Trends, Housing, Education, Employment; Agriculture; Manufacturing and Mining (Oil); the Urban Pattern, local government, utilities, retailing, wholesaling, banking, transportation, hospitals and cultural and community facilities.

The book, as presented to the City Council Monday night, is incomplete. Engineers told the council members that another chapter will be added to the Base Studies book, to contain a projection of the Future Population of Winters. This addition will be made to the book prior to the next regular council meeting the first part of January.

Only a limited number of copies of the book will be available on completion, it was understood. These will be distributed to members of the council, a planning commission to be appointed by the council, and others. They also will be made available to present to anyone contemplating establishment of industry or business in Winters, it was explained. This is one of the main reasons for compilation and publication of the information, it was pointed out.

Adequate Water Necessary For Uniform Grazing

Adequate livestock water is a necessity for conservation ranching, says Glen Green of the local Soil Conservation Service. He said properly distributed water will help bring about uniform grazing of a pasture. The desirable distance for livestock to travel for water is one-half mile in rough country and no more than two miles in relatively flat areas.

Green stated, a pond should not serve more than 50 animal units or cows on a yearlong basis. Usually, more than this number watering at one location will cause trampling and damage near the pond. The storage capacity of the pond should be sufficient to provide 20 gallons per animal unit or cow per day in addition to the expected losses from evaporation and the seepage. He said evaporation alone accounts for at least six feet loss each year.

Green says when selecting a site for a pond, there are several factors to consider. First, to offset the high loss from evaporation in the Rannels Soil Conservation District, a pond should have a small surface area in relation to its depth. A pond should have at least 25 per cent of its water at a 10-foot depth. Second, the drainage area should be large enough to provide an adequate runoff in order to insure a supply of water for the pond. And third, the spillway must be properly designed to protect the life of the pond. The spillway should be on soils or material which will not erode or be protected with a good grass cover. Slopes of the dam, on all ponds, should be seeded to grass so as to prevent erosion by rilling. When possible both the spillway and the pond should be fenced and water piped from pond to water trough. This Green said, will help prevent overuse of the grass around the pond and spillway and then prevent erosion.

Mr., Mrs. C. G. Meeks Honored At Open House On Anniversary Sunday

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Meeks on their 50th wedding anniversary open house was held Sunday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Davidson, 200 East Pierce Street.

Hosts for the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bedford, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Irvin, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson greeted the guests at the door and introduced the honored couple, Mr. and Mrs. Meeks.

Mrs. Ralph Lloyd presided at the register where approximately one hundred guests were registered.

Gold and white colors were featured in decorations for the tea table laid with gold lame cloth and centered with an attractive arrangement of gold spider mums and sprigs of golden wheat in silver container. White candles were at either side and table appointments were silver.

Mrs. Joe Irvin served cake squares decorated with gold rose buds. Mrs. Marvin Bedford and Mrs. Jack Harrison alternated at serving coffee or spiced tea from a silver service. Mrs. C. C. Benson showed gifts.

Mr. Meeks came to Winters from Lee County with his parents in a covered wagon on October 14, 1894. They located on a farm near town until they could get possession of a farm they had bought. His father was in the real estate business and also served as Justice of the Peace for many years. He was chairman of the committee that purchased a right-of-way from Hatchell to Bradshaw for the purpose of building a railroad through town.

Mr. Meeks owned and operated a confectionary business and he recalls there were only four business firms in Winters at that time, a grocery store, a drug store, dry goods store and a blacksmith shop.

Mrs. Meeks was born Lora Conlee in Williamson County on April 17, 1896, and came with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Conlee to Rannels County in 1906. They lived on a farm near Winters for many years before moving into town.

Mr. and Mrs. Meeks were married December 9, 1914, in Winters. He began operating a tailor shop in 1907, and after selling the business he owned and operated a men's furnishing store until 1933. Since that time he had been employed in the men's department in local stores until his retirement a few years ago. He spends most of his time in recent years looking after farming interests.

Mrs. Meeks was employed at the post office during the terms of O. D. Dillingham and Frank Flynt and for a time she was employed in the ready-to-wear department of a dry goods store.

Mr. and Mrs. Meeks are members of the First Baptist Church and she is active in class work of the Sunday School. She was a member of the Winters Garden Club for 15 years.

Guests attending the Golden wedding anniversary open house from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Holbert Boone; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mabray, and Miss Jo Mabray, Walter Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gladden, Mr. and Mrs. John L. King, Mr. and Mrs. David Burton from Abilene; Mrs. O. H. Hearn, Miss Helen Hearne, Mr. and Mrs. Dock Hearn, Seagraves; W. B. Meeks, Melvin; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Harrison, Littlefield; Mr. and Mrs. Estin Miller, Colorado City; Mr. and Mrs. Doc Johnson, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Poe, San Angelo; Mrs. John Cauthorn and Mrs. L. E. Labenske, Sonora; Miss Marta Davidson of Austin.

It's Time To Plan Christmas Menus

Poultry products continue in ample supply at attractive prices in many supermarkets, as homemakers begin planning the menus for the Yuletide holiday.

Market conditions are in a transition stage following the Thanksgiving holiday, yet there are many good buys, say Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

Egg prices are low for this season of the year, so plan to use them generously in holiday baking. There's a variety of kinds and sizes of turkey and other poultry available for pre-Christmas entertaining.

Beef is still a bargain, with various cuts serving as special features in many stores. Ground beef also is a popular choice, and is economically priced and versatile to use.

Pork counters are well stocked with a variety of cuts. Loin and rib end roasts, shoulder steaks and sausage are among the more popular cuts.

Good vegetable selections are turnips, greens, collards and mustard. Other good buys are eggplant, cauliflower, carrots, celery and sweet potatoes.

Grapefruit is now in relatively good supply, and is being sold by the bag at slightly lower prices. Apples, cranberries, bananas, tangerines, tangelos and grapes are good fruit choices.

December marks the beginning of the eggnog and boiled custard season. These two favorites are easy to serve and are sure to please the family and guests, regardless of the occasion.

Try A Live Tree This Christmas

Would you like to keep your Christmas tree for a long time after Christmas?

You can, according to Bill Smith, forester of the Texas A. and M. Agricultural Extension Service, provided you select a live tree that will grow in Texas.

"Live trees, with the roots wrapped in a ball of soil, are sold to be planted outdoors after Christmas," Smith points out.

Trees that may be expected to live in most areas of the state include arborvitae, Arizona cypress, eastern redcedar, and shortleaf pine. Other trees, such as Douglas fir or Scotch pine should not be expected to live when planted in the Lone Star State.

To help the live Christmas tree survive after planting, he suggests these rules:

Do not move the tree indoors before it is to be decorated.

While the tree is in the house, be sure its roots do not dry out. This may require watering every day or two.

Plant the tree outdoors in a hole several inches larger than the bundle of soil around the roots. Plant as soon as possible after Christmas.

It may be desirable to plant the tree outdoors in a location where it can be used as an outdoor Christmas tree in the following years.

For further information on the proper species of live Christmas trees for specific areas of Texas, Smith suggests that interested persons contact their local county agent's office.

Listen more than you talk, and see how much better you feel after almost any meeting or gathering.

Ladies' Aid Circle Held Meeting December 3

St. John's Lutheran Ladies Aid held its regular meeting last Thursday in the church basement with the president Mrs. Herman Frick presiding. Mrs. E. E. Thormeyer, led the opening devotions, reading from Ezekiel 34: 15-16 and Luke 2: 8-9.

HEALTH LETTER

Is it true that cherries help arthritis... that honey prevents muscle cramps... that oysters increase fertility... are harmless. But when garlic pills are promoted for high blood pressure, or grapes for the treatment of ulcers and cancer, the price of ignorance may come high.

Claims may range from a specific food being a cure-all to the myth of overprocessing modern day foods.

Health authorities are especially concerned about the promotion of "food supplements" as cure-alls for conditions which require medical attention. Although a quick food remedy may not cause harm itself, the delay in securing proper medical attention could be serious, or perhaps even fatal.

Beware of any product - food or patent medicine - advertised as a cure-all, whether you hear about it in an advertisement, from a door-to-door salesman, over the back fence, or in a book.

Be skeptical if you hear or read the myth of modern-day overprocessing of food. This claim is usually followed up by a sales pitch for a food supplement or special cooking utensils sold at greatly inflated prices.

By the time a family has acquired a nest egg these days, inflation has turned it into chicken feed.

Gov. Connally Sets December 13th As "Safety Sunday"

Sunday, December 13, has been proclaimed "Safety Sunday" in Texas by Governor Governor John Connally, it was announced today by Quincy V. Tuma of Houston, President of the Texas Safety Association.

In making the announcement, the Association President praised Governor Connally for his interest in the welfare of the people of Texas.

"The Governor's interest in the welfare of the people of Texas is evidenced by this action," Tuma said. "The purpose of 'Safety Sunday' is to focus public attention on the moral obligations and responsibilities of vehicle drivers to protect their own lives and the lives of others."

"Safety Sunday" is observed each year during one Sunday in December to give further emphasis to the need for accident prevention during the Christmas-New Year's holiday season.

In his proclamation, Governor Connally said — "It is essential that every Texas driver realize that safety for himself, his loved ones and his friends, as well as other drivers and passengers is a matter of moral responsibility, and that useless infliction of human injury is an abuse of God's most precious gift—life itself."

Most people return small favors, acknowledge minding ones and repay great ones with ingratitude.

When a man gets to talking about himself, he seldom fails to be eloquent and often reaches the sublime.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

STOP FOR SCHOOL BUSES

Thousands of school children are now trooping back to school throughout Texas. Many of them will be transported by school buses. Most people are careful when approaching a school bus which may be standing beside the road or school to pick up school children or allow them to alight.

However, we have already had some very bad accidents this year because a child or a motorist, or both, were careless at that very time. Most Texans are aware of the law which requires a driver to come to a complete stop when overtaking a school bus which has stopped to receive or discharge school children. After stopping immediately behind the bus, he is then allowed by law to proceed just same at a speed "which is prudent, not exceeding ten miles per hour, and with due caution for the safety of such children."

What may persons do not realize is that the very same rule applies when MEETING a stopped school bus. While everyone is interested in protecting our children, unthinking violators of this simple safety rule greatly outnumber those who comply. Failure to follow the law in this case can lead to fine up to $200, even when no accident occurs. Following an accident in which some child is injured or killed, the penalties are naturally more serious.

Although the above rule does not always apply when passing a stopped school bus in a business or residential district of a town, the necessity for extreme caution even in those locations is obvious. When it comes to overtaking and passing moving vehicles, exercise of ordinary common sense will generally keep a driver within the law. For instance, when passing a car it is only common sense to proceed on past it a safe distance before cutting back to the right side of the highway. Also, any driver would realize the danger of increasing his speed while another is attempting to pass him.

In the same category is the prohibition against passing on the right under most ordinary conditions. Of course, you may legally pass on the right in a few specific instances, such as when the vehicle overtaken is making or about to make a left turn, or upon a one-way street with two or more lanes, or upon a four-lane highway.

However, our traffic laws state that even when passing on the right is allowed, it shall be done only under conditions permitting such movement in safety. And, in no event should such passing be accomplished by driving off the pavement or the main-traveled portion of the roadway.

Familiar to all are the no passing zones designated by yellow lines placed to one side of the center line on our highways. Not so well known are the restrictions against crossing the center line when approaching within 100 feet of or when traversing any intersection or railroad grade crossing.

Beauty is only skin deep but it's a valuable asset.

Farm Outlook for 1965 Remains Generally Unchanged, Says A. and M.

The overall agricultural outlook for 1965 takes on a complexion pointing to an increase in demand as well as an increase in supply of farm products. Farm prices and incomes however, are expected to remain relatively stable.

Markets for farm products on the home front will continue to expand due to economic growth, rising consumer incomes and population growth, reports John McHoney, Extension economist Texas A and M University.

Looking to the foreign market, agricultural exports in fiscal 1964-65 are anticipated to continue at a high level, though somewhat below the record-setting total of $6.1 billion last year. This total was 20 per cent above the previous two years.

Producers of agricultural commodities, however, will still be confronted with large supplies of farm and ranch products, says the economist. Both livestock and crop production are expected to increase slightly, while carryover stocks remain large, particularly for grains and cotton.

With the large supply of farm products, little hope prevails for an increase in average prices received by farmers. While little change is foreseen in livestock product prices, crop prices will probably be slightly lower in 1965. McHoney estimates the total gross income realized by all farmers and ranchers will maintain the level of the past two years. This income includes cash receipts, government payments and non-money income. Furthermore, only small increases in production expenses are in prospect as compared with increases in recent years.

Farm assets during 1964 are anticipated to increase more than three per cent due mainly to rising land values. Farmers' debts, though, continue to rise, says McHoney and there will be a greater need for farm credit for acquiring land and capital goods in the coming year.

For the U. S. as a whole, the farmers' liabilities are likely to increase to about 16.4 cents per dollar of total assets on January 1. This compares with a rate of 15.7 cents a year earlier and 9.5 cents in 1950.

Bethany Class Had Annual Christmas Party Tuesday Nite

Annual Christmas party of the Bethany Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church was held Tuesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Briley, with Mrs. Briley as hostess.

The Yuletide season was noted in the decorations and color scheme for the party details including a gaily decorated Christmas tree.

The table laid with linen was centered with a lovely arrangement of red and white carnations with red candles in silver candelabra at either side. A salad menu was served by candlelight.

Mrs. J. B. Whitlow gave the invocation and following the dinner hour the group gathered around the Christmas tree.

"Christmas is Always" was the title of the story given by Mrs. Marvin Bedford.

Mrs. J. S. Tierce, teacher of the class, was presented an arrangement of pink roses and hyacinths in a lovely container. Gifts were exchanged and the benediction was given by Mrs. Tierce.

Present were Mesdames Bill Hamilton, Joe Irvin, Jim Marshall, Gene Virden, L. H. Hendlee, Jack Harrison, J. F. Priddy, W. H. Burleson, Marvin Bedford, Olen McGregor, J. B. Whitlow, J. S. Tierce and Mrs. Briley.

Texas has more metropolitan centers of 50,000 or more population than any other state in the county — 22 urban areas. The Texas Highway Department is now engaged in transportation studies in each of these urban areas to meet traffic needs of even 20 or 30 years from now. These include studies designed to analyze land use, population trends, traffic flow, economic impact and other vital highway and urban information.

Every University of Texas student majoring in business administration is required to add to his storehouse of knowledge a basic understanding and use of that new business tool, the electronic computer. The College of Business Administration reports that it has as many students using its small IBM 1620 computer in their course work as any college of business in the country. "Ride the Wild Surf"

"Ride the Wild Surf," thrilling story of the surfers from all over the world who challenge the giant waves of Oahu Island, in Hawaii, shows Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre. Starring in the Columbia Pictures release, a Jana production in color, are Tab Hunter, Fabian, Shelley Farrares, Barbara Eden, Peter Brown, Anthony Hayes, Susan Hart and James Mitchum as Eskimo.

"The Chalk Garden" role she plays in Universal's "The Chalk Garden" and what appears on the screen proves the wisdom of his patience. Combining a memorable cast co-starring Deborah Kerr, Hayley, her father, John Mills, and Edith Evans, superb direction by Ronald Neame, tasteful writing and beautiful photography in Technicolor, "The Chalk Garden" is a consummate dramatic triumph, showing at the State Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The screenplay carefully develops the theme that when love and understanding replaces hate and sordidness, life can flourish even in the bleak barrenness of chalk. It gets its title from the chalk cliffs in Southern England where Miss Evans and her grand-daughter live.

When the picture opens, Miss Kerr becomes governess-companion to Hayley. To the governess, her own childhood is mirrored by the circumstances surrounding Hayley — of being raised by her grandmother even though the grandmother's daughter and her own mother, Elizabeth Sellars, now wants Hayley back.

Yellowstone Park is the world's first national park. Oceans cover almost three-fourths of the world.

Deborah Kerr's concern for Hayley Mills, who seems to be emulating the older woman's tragic past, makes for tense drama in the Ross Hunter production in Technicolor, "The Chalk Garden" showing Sunday and Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre.

Less than one-tenth of the sunlight falling on the moon is reflected. Nine-tenths go to heat its surface.

The Russian explorer Bellinghausen first circumnavigated Antarctica in 1819 - 21.

We see only half of the moon's surface because it always turns the same face toward the earth.

Roger Babson Says — UNESCO Is One of Most Valuable Agencies of the United Nations

Babson Park, Mass., One of the most valuable of the 14 agencies associated with the UN is UNESCO — the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization. Its aim as expressed in its charter is "to contribute to peace and security by promoting collaboration among the nations by education, science, and culture, in order to further universal respect for justice, for the rule of law and for the human rights and fundamental freedoms that are affirmed for the peoples of the world, without distinction of race, sex, language, or religion by the Charter of the United Nations."

Universal Education
The Universal Declaration of Human Rights asserts that everyone has the right to education. Yet, half of the world's population cannot even read or write. To meet this challenge of illiteracy, UNESCO has undertaken major problems in Latin America, Asia, and Africa. The problem is not one that can be solved quickly. Before education of the illiterate can begin, teachers must be trained and schools constructed. The technical and vocational education is needed at all levels. Also, after one learns to read one has to have the materials to read — books, pamphlets, etc. UNESCO has planned a program also to help solve this problem. It has sent out more than 200 international specialists to work in national systems of education.

Natural Sciences
A nation's economic, social, and cultural life is directly related to the level of its knowledge of the basic sciences — mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, geology — and the applications. Offices in Latin America, the Middle East, South and Southeast Asia advise UNESCO of the scientific needs in the different regions. For example, the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission is advancing the knowledge of marine science. The Indian Ocean Expedition is a five-year venture for study of the world's least-known ocean.

Social Sciences
The principal objectives of the programs in the field of the social sciences are to contribute to the social and economic development of countries, and to study and promote such legal, political, and economic aspects as will lead to greater extension of human rights. UNESCO assigns social scientists to various areas, and also maintains research centers in South Asia and Latin America and a clearing house in Paris for exchange of information among members states of the United Nations.

Short Span Of Crappie Is Revealed
Leonard Lamb, fisheries biologist for the Parks and Wildlife Department, revealed that 9,296 crappie have been tagged and released since the beginning of a project eight years ago. Of this number, 2,472 were processed last year.

Already, he said, 399 of the tagged crappie have been caught with 92.78 per cent of the tagged fish recovered having worn their identification tags less than one year.

Eighty-eight and nine tenths per cent of the recovered tags were on crappie at liberty 120 days or less. The shortest period of freedom was one day and the longest was 589 days after tagging.

The report according to Lamb shows no definite patterns of direction or distance of movement by the individual fish. They moved up the lake, down the lake, and across the lake at random. Some specimen were removed from the point of capture and were re-tagged and released to determine if a homing instinct was involved. But the returns from these fish also failed to indicate a definite pattern of movement as some returned to the capture area, some moved the opposite direction and some remained at the release site.

Lamb said the incomplete study implies that crappie do not necessarily set up a movement pattern, are caught again within a reasonably short period of time and do not live very long. As a result, they should be fished hard if they are to produce the maximum amount of recreation for the avid crappie fisherman.

Water Commission Reveals Plan To Develop State Water Program

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association
Officials of State and Federal water agencies and of river authorities and cities, heard the Texas Water Commission outline the procedures by which it will develop a statewide water plan for Texas.

They gave it their warm endorsement, and pledged to help the state agency in its job of putting all the many regional and river basin plans into a unified whole.

However, spokesman for cities disagree sharply over the vital issue of diverting water from areas of surplus to areas of need.

In conferences called by Texas Water Commission, city officials and river authority and district leaders heard eight objectives of statewide water planning outlined. In a third third conference on December 10, industry representatives reviewed the proposed program.

TWC Chief Engineer John Vandertulip lists these goals for the planning program:
An adequate water supply for all purposes — flood control, water resources for fish and wildlife, water quality management, ground water recharge, and provisions for navigation, drainage and hydro-electric power;

Coordination of proposals of state, local and federal agencies with a view to statewide and area needs;
Determination of feasibility of converting sea water and brackish waters into fresh water;

Determining and specifying dams, conduits and other physical facilities needed;

Establishment of a timetable for construction;

Determining agency coordination necessary in operation of projects for maximum benefits; Division of responsibility among federal, state and local interests in financing, building and operating water facilities; and Recommending means of carrying out these responsibilities. Rights and property in basins of origin must be protected and assurances given that only surplus waters will be exported, Vandertulip said.

Representatives of areas with rich water resources warned against penalizing their growth and prosperity by tapping their supplies to aid less fortunate regions. Areas of shortage urged consideration of their needs.

John Sommons of Orange, the general manager of Sabine River Authority and president of Texas Water Commission, warned against inflexibility and called for a "living plan" that can be brought up to date regularly.

ONE-HOUSE LEGISLATURE
Latest of the proposals being prepared for the 1965 Legislature is one from Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont to abolish the State Senate and establish a one-house Legislature, such as the one in Nebraska.

Smith's unicameral plan, he says he'll introduce shortly after the Legislature convenes on January 12, includes proposals to reduce the House of Representatives' membership from 150 to 100, and raise House members' pay from $4,800 a year to $10,000 a year.

The lieutenant governor's job of presiding over the Senate also would be abolished. This is one bill that likely will not make it through either house of Texas bicameral Legislature, much less both.

POLLUTION
Texas Water Pollution Control Board, set back in court in its efforts to prevent pollution of West Texas ground supplies by oilfield brine, announces that it will appeal the decision to the higher courts.

But the board will continue to supervise disposal of oil and gas brine after it leaves the producer's hands.

MENTAL HEALTH REPORT
Texas ranks 39th among the states in services to the mentally ill, the Committee for Mental Health Planning reports.

Committee's report to Gov. John Connally emphasizes the need for consolidation of all state mental health services. Early detection, early treatment and a tremendous saving of time and money on the part of the patient and the taxpayers were listed as some of the prime benefits of the community care center program the committee recommends.

COURTS SPEAK
Third Court of Civil Appeals agreed with trial court that El Paso Electric Company must pay occupation tax to the state for electricity sold in Texas, though generated by its New Mexico power station. Company had argued that the tax would violate interstate commerce clause of the federal constitution and create risk of multiple tax burden on interstate business.

Third Court also declared unconstitutional an amendment to state liquor laws aimed at regulating export businesses operating along Texas' border. Decision upheld Austin district court decision that state could not regulate the exporters handling liquor customs bonded warehouses.

A Pecos County farmer, J. T. Slaughter, won a five-year battle for water rights on Barilla Creek when the State Supreme Court endorsed a ruling that his water rights were secure under the 1895 Irrigation Act, and had not been diminished by passage of a 1913 law.

SMALL TRACT VICTORY
Ten operators of 22 wells in Port Acres Field of Jefferson County were granted bigger special gas production allowances by Texas railroad Commission. Commission order sets allowable of 325,000 cubic feet daily for 382 days, 238,000 cubic feet a day afterward, instead of 150,000 cubic feet previously established. Commission agreed the earlier allowable set on November 14, 1963, would not permit them to recover their investment. Operators had asked allowable of 350,000 cubic feet a day.

WELFARE ROLLS INCREASE
Texans on welfare rolls increased from 260,781 to 264,639 during the last year, Texas Department of Public Welfare reports.

DPW's annual report shows public assistance payments of $221,100,000. Biggest share, $159,400,000, went to old age assistance for an average of 230,005. Grants ranged from $5 to $83, and averaged $58.16 a month.

Aid to families with dependent children came to $18,700,000; aid to needy blind to $4,000,000; and aid to permanently and totally disabled to $6,200,000. Administrative and service costs were $10,100,000.

Federal government provided 74 per cent of all funds, or $164,600,000.

SLANT WELL JUDGMENT
Total judgments in slant oil well cases reached $1,055,595 — with recovery of $8,000 in a Rusk County case.

Austin District Judge Herman Jones entered the new judgment against J. K. Maxwell of Kilgore. Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr alleged Maxwell's Rusk County well had been deviated and operated in violation of Railroad Commission rules.

FINAL BAY STUDY HEARING SET
Spokesmen for newspapers, radio and television have been invited to testify before the final hearing of the Committee for the Study of the Bays of Texas.

Testimony on municipal, industrial and recreational pollution of bay waters has been heard in five previous sessions.

Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo, chairman, said the committee's chief concern is to determine if any legislation is necessary to cope with problems arising from multiple uses of bays.

SHORT SNORTS
Texas State Committee for Public Education reported signs of progress and plans for program expansion in its anti-drop-out program . . . Attorney General Carr ruled that the Veteran's Land Board may use the funds after December 1, 1965, to pay the purchase price on lands it agreed to purchase prior to that date . . . Parks and Wildlife Department authorized December 11, 12 and 13 as open season on aoudad sheep, for the second straight year . . . Terrell Blodgett, Ranger native, who has served as city manager of Waco and Garland and assistant city manager in Austin, was appointed to Governor Connally's staff as coordinator of the U. S. Economic Opportunity Act in Texas . . . Cotton and peanut crops were speeded along by mild weather, U. S. Department of Agriculture reports.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

Most hunted animal in Texas, except the deer, is the ringtail. For two months hunters will take this animal any way they can — with lights, dogs or traps. Afterwards, the fur will wind up on some woman's back in the form of a beautiful coat. Only fur-bearing animal left in Texas that commands a worth while price on the market is the ringtail. In recent years the pelts have held steady at about $1.25 each for the better ones. Many Texans never have seen a ringtail. This sly diminutive creature spends most of its life in the dark. It beds down in a den during the day. And it will not venture into the open until well after dusk.

Then, unlike most nocturnal prowlers, it retires before daylight arrives. Only on very rare occasions will you see a ringtail during daylight hours. Although the ringtail ranges over much of the dry Western half of the United States, the biggest population is found here in Texas. There are more ringtails in the Edwards Plateau of Central Texas than in any other comparable region. This animal is mistakenly called the ring-tailed cat. But it isn't a member of the cat family. It's a carnivore closely kin to the common raccoon. Average ringtail is about 20 inches long, including tail and weighs between two and three pounds. Its tail and round eyes which appear much too large for its meek-looking face are the ringtail's most notable characteristics. The tail has alternating black and white rings, hence the name ringtail. In all, there will be 14 to 16 rings which don't quite come together on the underside of the tail. Overall coloration is a tawny or grayish hue. Its tail-tips glow brightly when caught in the beam of a headlamp or flashlight. Despite the fact that thousands of ringtails are killed each year, it is remarkable how little is known about this animal. "There isn't much available information of the ringtail," says Al Springs, coordinator for wildlife restoration with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission. "We've run a study on its food habits, but other than that I can't tell you too much about it. Frankly, I doubt whether a majority of Texans even know it exists."

A dietary analysis made of more than 100 ringtails revealed that about one-fourth of its total intake is composed of tiny mammals like mice and rats, including carrion. Otherwise, it feeds upon fruits of native plants, birds, snakes, lizards and various insects like spiders, scorpions, and centipedes. Believe it or not, one of its favorite foods is the common mistletoe which grows in mesquite trees.

It isn't unusual to have a ringtail answer a predator call. But considering this diet composition, it sort of makes a person wonder what motivation could possibly prompt the animal to be attracted by the dying-rabbit cries. Perhaps it is curiosity more than anything else. Usually ringtails live along rocky ledges where they den in crevices.

Females hatch their young in the spring and average between two and four offspring. Young ringtails are almost helpless at birth and don't open their eyes until 31 to 34 days later. At about four months they have the same overall look of adults. But, of course, they are smaller in size. One reason the ringtail isn't better known is because very few exist in captivity. Unlike coons and other similar animals, the ringtail doesn't show up around farm houses as pets. Seldom are they caught when young. This because the young rarely venture out until they are grown. Also the very nature of the ringtail's living habits, in the narrow and confining rocky crevices, make the young difficult to capture alive.

It isn't unusual for several adult ringtails to den together.

But when you find them out prowling at night they almost invariably will be traveling all alone.

Most hunters seek them simply by walking slowly through the woods, swinging a bright light through the treetops, searching for the glow of eyes.

Many ringtails also are trapped. A few are treed by packs of trained hounds. Regardless of the method used, the Texas hunter finds great pleasure in seeking the animal.

QUICK CAMPFIRES

Many suggestions are offered for quick campfire starting. Perhaps the simplest is to cut out both ends of a large fruit juice can, then place can upright on the corners of two flat stones. Be sure can is high enough to clear the campfire underneath. Fill can with small kindling, then ignite. Open can acts as a natural draft to help kindling start fire.

SAVINGS SECURITY SUCCESS

There is a definite relationship between these three words. In countless cases, security is gained and success is attained through saving. Saving is not doing without the things you really want. It is the surest way to get them. After you start to build a reserve fund, you will weigh values with greater care. Less money will slip away for things that do not count. Things you most desire will be yours — when you want them.

To be able to save is, in itself, a success — and one that will likely lead to bigger successes. Make 1965 a year of financial progress. Build up a substantial reserve in an account at the bank. Your business is cordially invited.
