HOME TOWN Talk

March 20 is the first day of spring, traditionally a time when one supposedly can throw off the yoke of winter and relax, and look forward to a more pleasant time of year. A time of green-up and start of growth. But it also is a time of pressure — deadline pressure. Because there are several deadline dates which come along about this time of year to add a little more harassment and take some of the joy out of the change of seasons.

The end of March is the deadline for getting new automobile license plates and getting them put on the car.

April 15 also (if you'll pardon having motor vehicles inspected and inspection stickers placed on windshields. Many people put off this chore until the last minute, and then are faced with a hurry-up and a line-up at the inspection station.

April 15 also (if you'll pardon us for mentioning it) is the time to have income tax returns filed, and for those who must file 1966 quarterly estimates it is the time for the first estimate and payment.

All of which takes a little of the enjoyment out of the first days of spring.

And then spring is the time when a lot of parasites start to come out of the woodwork. We're talking about the kind of parasite which travels about the country, bilking the unsuspecting out of hundreds and thousands of dollars for one thing or another. These parasites sell everything from goods to service — if you can call it that — and then skip out leaving their customers holding empty bags.

Police Chief Joe Stevens informs us that these people have started to work in this community again. True, some of the goods they sell are of good quality, but investigation has shown that the same goods could have been bought, in many cases, from local merchants who stand behind their sales, and at a much lower price. The fly-by-night salesman won't be around to stand behind their products.

Taking care to prevent unintentional indictment of legitimate sellers of goods and services — and there are many, it is admitted — who visit this community regularly, Chief Stevens again warns all residents to be on their toes when dealing with unknown persons. Many of these people who travel about the country have police records, he says.

To prevent being "taken" by some of these people, the police chief says, local residents should investigate the background of everyone who approaches them to sell goods and services — unless they are known to the prospective customer. Legitimate salesmen and servicemen always are glad to undergo investigation; the others will skip out in a hurry when it is made known they are being checked out by the police.

Whatever may be said about The Thinkers who hang around the water trough at Harrison's Auto Parts on South Main St., they take care of their own.

Recently, following an accident by one of the members, others got together to help finance purchase of a new golf club to replace one which had been broken in the accident. The word went out, and soon donations of retail saving stamps started to come in; single stamps, a half-dozen stamps at a time, whole pages of stamps, and half-books of stamps, in all colors. From last count, it appeared that there would be more than enough to trade for a new golf club.

The recipient has expressed his humble thanks to those who cared . . . and figured that if the campaign had run longer and stronger, he would have been able to trade stamps for a couple more clubs — one in Texas and perhaps one in Colorado.

Billy M. Pumphrey, writer of the "Dateline: Tanzania" series now being run in The Enterprise, remarked in his last letter that he would enjoy receiving mail from interested people at home. A graduate of Winters High School and the University of Texas, he is now a member of the Peace Corps, stationed in Tanzania. His address is: BILLY M. PUMPHREY, P. O. Box 4, Chunya, Tanzania

City Completes Deal To Sell Barn Property

Negotiations were completed this week between the City of Winters and Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain Co. for the sale of the City equipment barn on West State Street to the milling company.

The City obtained the barn, formerly a part of a milling complex, on a lease-purchase agreement about five years ago. Cost to the City, less interest, at the end of a ten-year option period, would have been $9,000. Alderman-Cave will pay $11,000.00 for the property, with the City to receive the difference plus its equity in the property. Three departments of the City cooperated in the lease-purchase agreement.

The City Council is studying possible sites for relocation of an equipment barn and maintenance shops, which would be more suitable for City use. Agreement is for the City to vacate the premises on State Street on or before June 1.

Alderman-Cave plans to use the State Street property, which is adjacent to their present operation, in an expansion program. Built originally for milling and grain storage purposes, the site is ideally situated for the milling company's operation, with a railroad siding next to the building.

Absentee Voting Now Underway, School and City

Qualified voters who will be unable to be present for the regular school district voting may obtain absentee ballots and information from the school business office, according to Johnny B. Smith, business manager and tax assessor-collector. Absentee voting information for the City election may be obtained from Buford Baldwin, City Secretary.

Telephone Co. Explains Work Planned Here

More detailed information regarding updating of telephone equipment and offices in Winters, following an announcement last week that Southwestern States Telephone Co. would begin the project within the near future.

In the latest release from the telephone company, a part of the General System, was the announcement that Winters telephone users will be dialing their own long distance calls in 1968.

Southwestern States Telephone Co. will construct a new central office building to house completely new direct distance dialing (DDD) equipment for customer dialing of long distance calls. This new DDD system will require a minimum of operator assistance, it was stated.

Telephone officials pointed out that this new service was being coordinated with the relocation of the Winters toll center to San Angelo in 1968.

It was explained that the estimated cost figures on this project were in excess of two hundred thousand dollars, and that construction would be spread over a two-year period beginning in early 1967. Plans call for a major outside plant improvement, replacing aerial cable and distribution wire in most sections of Winters. In 1968 the new system will be cut into operation.

When this new system goes into operation, it will place Winters among those with the most advanced systems in service anywhere in the country, telephone company spokesmen said.

Brenda Cooper Elected Riding Club Sweetheart

Brenda Cooper, a junior student in Winters High School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cooper of Route 2, was named Sweetheart of the Winters Riding Club at a recent meeting of the organization. Miss Cooper succeeds Zola Crowley who has led the club in parades and rodeos for the past two years.

Other officers named for 1966 by the Riding Club include L. C. Fuller Jr., president; H. P. (Slim) Self, vice president; Mrs. L. C. Fuller Jr., secretary-treasurer. Fuller served as president in 1964, and Mrs. Fuller served as secretary-treasurer in 1964. They succeed A. N. Crowley and Mrs. Earl Cooper in those offices. Jim Williams is immediate president.

The club has acquired the tract of land just south of the City water plant for practice and activities. The grounds have been worked and cleaned and plans are being made to install lights for night activities. A few practice drills have brought out a good number of riders.

The Winters Riding Club meets over first and third Tuesday nights at 8 p. m. Anyone interested in joining the club is invited to attend these meetings. Next scheduled meeting will be Tuesday, April 5.

Members of the Riding Club participated in their first parade and rodeo for the year, going to San Angelo Friday, March 11, for the rodeo. Seventeen riders participated and were treated to a barbecue dinner through the courtesy of the San Angelo Saddle Club.

"Dateline: Tanzania" African Students Have Great Desire For Better Education and Future

(Editor's Note: Billy Pumphrey, a 1960 graduate of Winters High School, is a teacher for the Peace Corps in Chunya, Tanzania, Africa. This is the second of a series of articles he has written, describing the country in which he is stationed. This week he writes of the students in the government boarding school where he teaches.)

BY BILLY M. PUMPHREY

Chunya, Tanzania—The day I arrived at my Peace Corps assignment, Chunya Upper Primary School, I was amazed at the students swarming over the pick-up helping me to unload my luggage. Now, their discipline and training seem a common place thing. They stand whenever a teacher passes them on the school grounds, they always offer to carry their teachers' books, and they stand when called on in class and remain standing until told to sit down.

I teach the 7th and 8th grades at Chunya Upper Primary School. Our school is a government operated boarding school for 180 students although only about 80 students are boarders. The others—including 35 girl students—live on nearby farms or in Chunya, two miles away. The name "Upper Primary School" may be misleading as the school would better fit our American definition of a junior high school. There are two classes of both 7th and 8th grade with an average of 45 students in each class. Our staff consists of a headteacher, two African teachers, myself, and another Peace Corps teacher.

The day begins at 6 a. m. when a bell sounds and the students arise to do their early morning warm-up—a half mile run. Following sweeping of the school grounds and other clean-up activities, they eat breakfast at 7 a. m. and line up for the morning inspection. The students wear school uniforms—the boys, khaki shorts and white shirts; the girls, green skirts and white blouses—and they are responsible for the cleanliness of their uniforms. They wash, iron, and mend their own clothes. They stand at attention as the band, which features a

Lions Club Ladies Nite Tuesday

Warren Bennett, attorney for the Texas Highway Department, and expert handwriting analyst, will be the guest speaker at the annual Winters Lions Club Ladies Night banquet Tuesday, March 22, at 7:30.

Members of the National Honor Society at Winters High School will be guests of individual members of the Lions Club.

Harvey D. Jones will be master of ceremonies for the banquet program, and Ted Meyer will make the presentation of awards.

A right-of-way attorney for the Texas Highway Department, Bennett has a semi-career as a handwriting analyst. He has given lectures in colleges, universities, has appeared on radio and television programs, and before more than 1500 clubs and organizations from coast to coast.

"By studying handwriting, I can tell in one hour's time traits of personality, aptitude, way of thinking, emotional development and why a person has certain characteristics," Bennett has said on various occasions. To the expert, a person's handwriting analysis when he took psychology courses in college. "I call myself a psychiatrist without a couch," he laughs.

Graduating from high school in 1928 at Ellsworth, Kansas, Bennett went into the cafe business and enrolled as a freshman at the University of Houston at the age of 37. He graduated from the university at 40, with a bachelor of science degree and a permanent teacher's certificate. Then at the age of 40, he enrolled in the South Texas Law School and graduated with a law degree at the age of 43, with a bachelor of law degree.

During the time he was in college handwriting analysis was more of a hobby than a profession. "I have fooled around with it for more than 20 years," he said. He spent one summer semester at Springfield, Mo., at the Grapho-Analysis School, one semester with the Handwriting Institute at San Jose, Calif. After receiving a degree in Analytical Psychology, he has lectured at nearly all the seminars held over the country for the past ten years.

His expert knowledge of handwriting finds a place in the courtroom in some cases. About four years ago, he established the legality of a note for $2,000, thought to be forged, for a client in South Texas.

In handwriting analysis, the myriads of shadings, slants and directions in which letters are formed give the clues to the writer's personality. Basically, three strokes are the key—the forward stroke, the upstroke and the downstroke.

Doodling is another field which fascinates Bennett. He is compiling a scrapbook of doodles—the screws we make when we aren't writing any in particular. "Doodles have to do with your subconscious," he explains.

Some of the traits handwriting reveals to Bennett are self reliance, egotism, poise, selfishness, affection, timidity, sympathy, thrift, cleanliness, determination, imagination, caution, generosity, optimism, tenacity, jealousy, sense of responsibility, resentment, memory, loyalty, vanity, pride, temper, will power, mental patterns, emotional patterns and creative ability.

What about the changes in people's handwriting?
"It's like a person's face. It changes with age but the basic contours are the same. It's the same with handwriting — it changes constantly but the fundamentals remain the same," Bennett explains.

State Capital Highlights—

Integration of Faculties, Student Bodies, Aim of Federal Government

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Texas school districts are receiving speedup orders on desegregation.

Integration of faculties, as well as student bodies, is the aim of federal authorities in laying down new guidelines for compliance with the civil rights act of 1964.

Both the Texas Education Agency and the State Board of Education received the policy statements and promptly scheduled meetings over the state to post local school administrators as to the requirements.

Primarily concerned are 600 districts that submitted voluntary desegregation plans to the U. S. Office of Education for the 1965-66 school year to assure that they remained eligible for federal aid.

Districts already fully integrated, those whose assurances of compliance have been accepted by the revised policies.

U. S. Commissioner of Education Harold Howe II estimates that revisions will result in doubling integration in 11 Southern states.

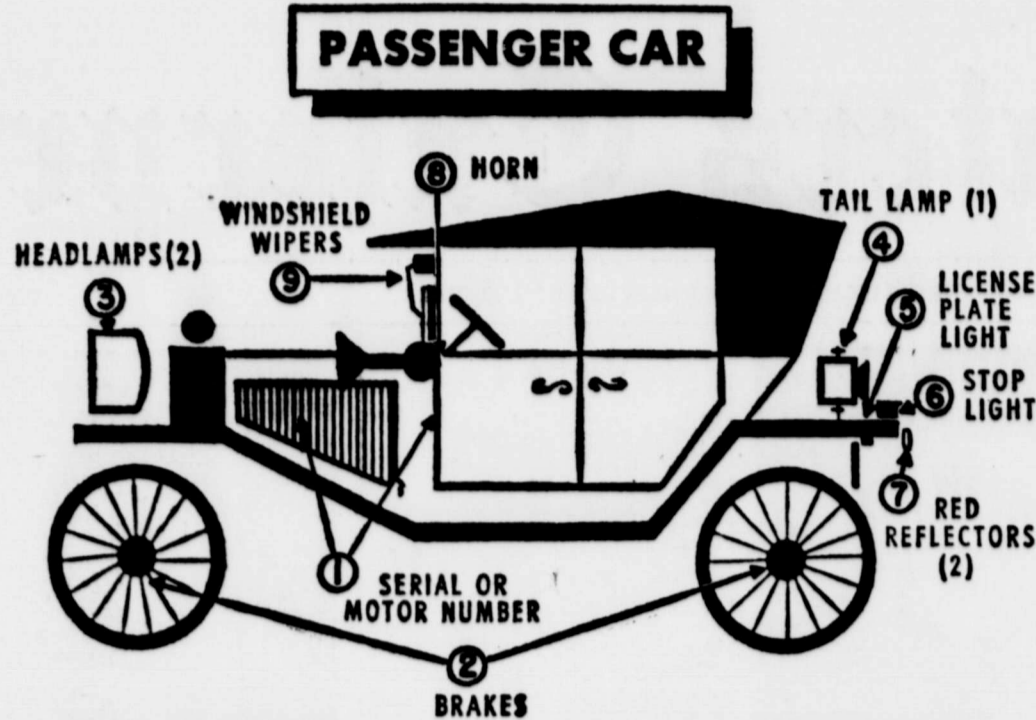

Guidelines provide that "race, color or national origin may not be a factor in hiring or assignment of teachers and other professional staff." State Education Agency officials said evidence of compliance with this requirement is expected to be shown by next September.

Districts which have submitted desegregation plans, including those with geographical school attendance zones, must file by April 15 a form agreeing to observe the new guidelines. Office of Education will review spring reports and schools judged to have shown no reasonable progress will be ordered to take further steps before fall.

School systems also must eliminate segregation in such programs as transportation, athletics and extra-curricular activities.

Where faculty members are displaced as a result of desegregation, staff vacancies later occurring must be filled by these ousted teachers if they qualify.

In other action the State Board of Education directed local school districts to raise their contributions to the foundation school program by $6,100,000 next year. Local fund assignment for 1966-67 is $138,000,000 compared with $132,500,000 for 1965-66. Total cost of minimum foundation education program for the state this year is estimated officially at $649,326,890. Legislature set local school districts' contribution for 1966-67 and thereafter at 20 per cent of the total cost of the preceding year's program. State puts up the other 80 per cent.

Board also approved investment of about $7,000,000 from the State Permanent School Fund. Some $3,000,000 will be placed in common stocks, another $3,000,000 in corporate bonds and an estimated $1,000,000 in short-term Treasury bills.

Investment money will come from maturing Treasury bills, bonds and the regular monthly deposit from school land, oil and gas leases, says Paul Mathews, chairman of the investment committee.

APPOINTMENTS

Gov. John Connally named John L. Hill as Secretary of State. He replaces Crawford C. Martin of Hillsboro who resigned last week to devote full time to his campaign for attorney general.

Hill is an outstandingly-successful Houston civil trial attorney. He has tried cases in district courts in most areas of Texas during the past 19 years. His term will run until next January.

Connally named L. D. (Red) Webster and reappointed Al Badger, both of Dallas, to the Texas Commission on Alcoholism.

Also reappointed were Robert B. Gilmore of Dallas and W. E. (Buck) Tinsley of Austin to the Water Development Board.

House Speaker Ben Barnes appointed Reps. Gene Fondren of Taylor, George Cowden of Waco, Ralph W. Scoggins of El Paso, Rayford Price of Franks-ton and Lee Duggan Jr. of Houston to serve on a key election law study committee.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith earlier had named Sens. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells, Don Kennard of Fort Worth, Ralph M. Hall of Rockwall, Jack Hightower of Vernon and Abraham Kazen of Laredo to that panel.

AG RULINGS

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr has ruled that a domestic corporation can't pay dividends out of its earned surplus to anyone not a stockholder; and that a life insurance corporation may pay dividends to policyholders from surplus funds — from profits made by the company.

In other action, the attorney general ruled that:

Under present state law, a Commissioners Court or qualified voters of a county may not create a precinct or multi-precinct Airport District and transfer a county-owned airport to such a district.

Ward County school trustees should be elected April 2 from commissioners precincts as they now exist rather than as they will be formed under the boundary change effective next January 1.

Texas courts may enforce child support order of out of state courts but extradition should be carried out only after bonafide civil attempts have been made to collect payments.

Public school-sponsored clubs which perpetuate their membership on the basis of decisions of their own members, rather than free choice of any qualified pupil, are prohibited.

Jury fee must be paid before a jury is allowed in juvenile cases.

BONDS SOLD

Texas Water Development Board has sold $15,000,000 worth of development bonds to the First National City Bank of New York City and associates, the low bidders.

Effective interest rate was 3.5 per cent of the 25-year issue.

First National City Bank was one of five bidders for the bonds. This brings to $85,000,000 the amount sold by the Board from an authorized total of $200,000,000. Another $200,000,000 authorization in water development bonds will be voted upon by Texans in November.

Bond money has been used to finance reservoir projects by the purchase of water storage space and in the purchase of outstanding development bonds of Texas cities and water districts.

Jerry Sadler, in testimony before a congressional committee in Washington, urged the creation of Guadalupe Mountain National Park in Culberson and Hudspeth Counties.

However, he stated that while he is interested in the creation of the 71,650-acre park, he also is interested in the 45,171 acres of oil and gas rights which the state school fund owns in the proposed park.

According to Sadler, the mineral rights should be retained by the state for the benefit of the 3,000,000 school children aided by the Public Free School Fund, which is financed from mineral rights.

Sadler said the state and federal government should work together as partners in the project. This would mean that Texas and the federal government each would get half the benefits of the mineral deposits in the area.

SHORT SNORTS

South Texas crops will be tested for pesticide residue during the next three to six months as the Texas Department of Agriculture moves its new mobile laboratory to Pharr.

Governor Connally announced approval of Community Action Programs in Beaumont ($21,364), Big Spring ($33,161), Houston ($33,955), Laredo ($50,550), San Antonio ($104,795), San Saba ($11,489) and Yorktown ($30,063).

Regional office of the Office of Economic Opportunity says Laredo will get a $2,000,000 grant as a demonstration city in the war on poverty.

Roger Babson Says—

Demand For Money and It's Scarcity Are On Collision Course

Babson Park, Mass. Every body knows that bankers deal in money. The price they get for their money is called interest. When demand for money is high and its availability is low, interest rates go up. As money is high and its availability is low, interest rates go up. As money gets scarcer, bankers offer higher and higher rates to attract more money which they, in turn, can loan to borrowers. What is news now is that money has been getting scarcer and scarcer and its cost to both banks and their borrowers has been soaring.

On Collision Course

The demand for money and its ever-mounting scarcity are now on a collision course. The last time our country felt a crisis in money it was the direct result of the great depression of the 1930's. Then, fear-stricken people rushed to the banks to convert their deposits into hard cash. The panic of liquidity followed. Banks closed in droves and the President of the United States had to close all banks in the nation for a few days. . . to restore sanity.

Today's lack of money is quite different from that of the early 1930's. The U. S. economy has been stimulated and nurtured by massive increases in the money supply, administered by government plan and by generous outpourings by the Federal Reserve and by the whole banking system. The developing money crisis is now the result not of depression, but of too much prosperity. The collision between zooming demand and skimpy supplies of money is more like what happened way back in 1907. Then, too, things were booming. But the boom got out of hand and the "rich man's" collapse and panic followed.

Squeeze On Bank Profits

Demand deposits, the kind that back up our checking accounts, have not grown rapidly enough in recent years to provide bankers with funds sufficient to meet the insatiable loan requirements. So the managers of our lending institutions, together with the agreement of the money managers of the country, raised repeatedly the rate of interest paid on savings deposits and on certificates of deposit. Some of the biggest banks even sold notes to the public. . . so great was the scramble.

As borrowing needs rose and rose, so did the interest rate which bankers were willing to pay to attract funds. Recent figures show that our biggest banks have been paying as much as 5 1-8 per cent to get time deposits. But they have been charging, on average, only around 5.30 per cent for their loans. This would indicate that the country's institutions will have to charge even higher rates for loans. . . or suffer a damaging squeeze on profit margins. Already, it is notable that prices of bank stocks have failed to keep up with the advance in the Dow Industrials during the past 18 months.

Trouble In Bonds Too

The Business and speculative needs of the borrowing public have been so great in recent months that our banks have been unable to add to their holdings of tax-exempt, U. S. government, or best-quality corporate bonds. Indeed, bankers have had to sell such bonds in order to make more loans. At the same time, the investing public has all but forgotten about buying bonds. . . so absorbed have they become in speculating in common stocks.

The net result has been that bonds have been neglected. Their prices have fallen and their yields have scaled historic heights. Some issues of U. S. government bonds — still regarded as the best long-term credit risk in the world — have fallen so low that they yield over 5 per cent.

Almost every week of late we have seen top-grade corporate bonds issued to yield 5 1-8 per cent, or more, and with no-call for five years. Of course, this has had a depressing effect on the bond holdings of banks; they have shrunk in value, facing management with potential losses.

Watch Savings And Loans

But the segment of our banking system that has most felt the searing wind from the heating up of money demand has been the Savings and Loan Institutions. For years, investors needing income could place their funds in the S&L's at highest rates. . . almost 5 per cent. Now. . . the far more liquid commercial-bank certificate of deposit is yielding as much or more than funds in S&L's! Even U. S. governments return more

Funeral Service In Bronte Sunday For Mrs. Johnson

Funeral service for Mrs. Theodore Johnson, 87, was held Sunday afternoon at 3 at the Bronte Methodist Church. The Rev. Robert Walker, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Winters, and the Rev. Roy Crawford, retired Methodist minister of Winters, officiated. Burial was in Fairview Cemetery in Bronte under direction of Spill Funeral Home of Winters.

Mrs. Johnson died at Winters Municipal Hospital Saturday at 9:15 a. m. following an illness of four months. She had been admitted to the hospital only a few minutes prior to her death.

Born Martha Louisa May, Oct. 19, 1879, in Williamson County, she was married to Mr. Johnson Jan. 22, 1896. In 1889 they moved to Coke County, settling at Bronte. They later moved to Robert Lee where Mr. Johnson was Tax Assessor until his death due to an accident while on a deer hunt in 1910. Mrs. Johnson replaced her husband as Tax Assessor and served four years in that office, after which she returned to Bronte where she bought a drug store which she operated for more than 30 years. Following her retirement in 1947 she moved to Winters to live near her daughter.

Mrs. Johnson was a lifelong member of the Methodist Church. She was a Sunday School teacher and was a member of the official board for many years. She also was a member of the Eastern Star.

Survivors are her daughter, Mrs. James (Angie) Glenn of Winters; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Paul Good of Stephenville; T. F. Sims, Norman Kiker, and J. B. Mackey of Bronte; J. S. Brown, O. J. Murray and Wesley Vogler, all of Winters, and Frank Strong of Menard.

As It Looks From Here

Omar Burselson, M. C.

References Are Often Made to the depression days when apples were a nickel apiece. It made little difference whether they were or not if you didn't have the nickel.

If Our Affluent Society Is To Remain Affluent, it is time to give more thought to what our dollar will purchase than how to get more dollars into circulation. In other words, inflation is our most serious domestic problem.

Given The Habits Of Our Government, even high taxes fail to spare us inflation. There is too much idea in Government that tax increases, bringing more money into the Federal coffers, is license for bigger spending. The productive person gets to spend less, the Government more, and that which the individual has to spend buys less.

As A Result Of All Of this it is obvious that the value of a whole flock of welfare programs, along with the essential necessities of living, is lowered. Thus, those whose plight is supposed to be relieved by Government help are also victims.

It Also Means That Those On Fixed Incomes, savings accounts, pensions of all sorts and kinds, have these lowered in value. Social Security payments buy less as prices creep up, and if the cost of living continues to rise it will be the same with Medicare and all the rest.

A Less Obvious Danger Is A Loss Of the sense of proportion in dealing with welfare problems. They will benefit no one if they bring on a political and social unraveling by productive people being pressed too far and the Federal Government grows too powerful in the process. There is already evidence that producers may lose hope and incentive leaving the responsibility to the Government.

It May Be Well Argued That More Time is needed to straighten out some of the glaring failures of many programs passed in 1965. A year and a half of experience with Anti-Poverty warring has produced more confusion, politicking and loose accounting than it has any substantial benefits. Some of them may go the way of the Urban Renewal bulldozer, which had to take on a new name and be greatly expanded to survive.

These Good Things Must Be Paid For At Some Time Or Other and their cost will spiral in the years ahead. The reasonable upshot is stiffer taxes.

Two Recent Official Reports Point Up what appears to be a significant inconsistency in our economic life. The rate of employment is higher than it has been in 12 years, and shortages of labor are appearing in many areas of the Country. The Cost of Living Index is at an all-time high and the upturn has been pronounced in the last year and a half. The Viet Nam war has not been the principal factor in these increases. The effect of a war-producing effort has not yet caught up to be included in these calculations. When it does, there is good probability that both these factors will increase and, in fact, as it affects the work force, it could have no other result.

At The Same Time There Continue Proposals to create work and plans for spending more tax money in programs not connected with the defense effort. It has just been proposed by Secretary of Labor Wirtz that more jobs be created by "make work." Supposedly this is to reach those who cannot qualify for jobs presently available.

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

When people become critical of an existing situation and agree that something should be done to change things, someone is sure to say, "But who is going to bell the cat?"

The expression stems from one of Aesop's fables. It made its first appearance in European literature in "The Vision of Piers Plowman," which seems to have been written between 1362 and 1399.

According to the fable, a great house cat was killing off all the mice in a particular mansion. The mice held a council and decided that something must be done about the cat or they would all be eaten alive . . . and soon.

One little mouse suggested that if they put a bell on the cat, the bell would jingle and they could hear the cat coming, and thus escape with their lives. The idea was greeted with much applause until a wise old mouse inquired, "But who's going to bell the cat?"

The expression "to bell the cat" is sometimes alluded to today as if it meant "heroism conquers all difficulties," but this is not the original intent. The moral our ancestors had in mind was this: It is easier to propose remedies than to put them into effect. The wise counselor today, before suggesting change, will first figure out a way to bell the cat. If this cannot be done, his suggestion is best left unsaid.

MOVIES

"Wild Wild Winter,"
There is an old show business joke about the actor who felt he wasn't suited for the occupation but couldn't quit because he was a star. Such might be the case with the Beau Brummels, featured in "Wild Wild Winter." Universal comedy release showing Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

"The Skull,"
Some psychiatrists claim that horror stories are a release for pent-up aggressions and emotions. There are many arguments pro and con about this subject. But one thing is certain, "The Skull," a Paramount release in Technicolor showing Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre, is a superb and thrilling shocker that's sure to be the hypnotic horror hit of the year.

"Never Too Late," showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre, brings to the Technicolor and Panavision screen all the love and laughter that enchanted audiences at the hit play for over 1,000 performances on Broadway.

Starring Paul Ford, Maureen O'Sullivan, Connie Stevens and Jim Hutton, "Never Too Late," is the story of a middle-aged couple about to have a child at an age when most couples are already grandparents. The effect on them of becoming parents, as well as on their daughter and son-in-law, provides some of the funniest and most tender moments ever to appear on the screen.

Medicare Blanks Available At Local Post Office

Winters Postmaster Rankin Pace has announced that application blanks for supplemental Medicare benefits are available at the local post office.

The application blanks are being made available as the Social Security Administration seeks to contact 3.1 million senior citizens before a March 31 deadline imposed by the Medicare law.

President Johnson has proclaimed March as "National Medicare Enrollment Month." He urged all federal agencies and all citizens to cooperate in enrolling senior citizens in the program.

Initially, some two and one-half million application blanks were distributed to nearly 34,000 main post offices throughout the 50 states. Addition forms are available as needed.

Through direct mailings and other means, the Social Security Administration has had contact with 19 of the 19.1 million citizens who will be 65 or over on July 1. Of the 16 million who replied, less than one million said they did not want to sign up for the supplemental program.

The supplemental program costs $3 a month and provides doctor bill and other benefits. Everyone 65 and over is eligible for the basic hospital benefits under Medicare.

A copy of the application blank is displayed on the lobby bulletin board of the Winters and Bradshaw post offices.

Senior citizens who reached 65 before 1966 face a two year delay if they do not sign up by March 31. The application forms

What Handicapped Workers Are Contributing To My Community

BY RAY D. BOATRIGHT

In my town of Winters, there are a number of handicapped people, who have contributed much, in one way or the other, in such areas as banking, cotton buying, farming and other public services. However there is one, in particular, who has contributed a great deal to my community.

This wonderful and exciting person is Miss Myra Glover, the Winters librarian. Although she, a spastic, has been crippled since birth, she has shown no signs of giving up.

It all started soon after Myra graduated from high school. In November of 1952, Miss Glover worked as a librarian in Abilene, Texas, at the Abilene Public Library for one year. Then in 1954, she opened her own library in the local Chamber of Commerce building, with the Winters Lions Club sponsoring her project. Even during the beginning weeks, Miss Glover checked out 15 to 20 books a day. Many realized the problems she faced and, desiring to help in her efforts, donated books and cash.

Approximately a year later, the library was moved to the old City office. Not only did Myra have to cope with fleas and mice but also with holes in the ceiling of the building.

Nevertheless, every day she went to the library, if the weather was bad and no one came, she would go home and cry. But she did not give up. One night during a torrential rain, nearly all her books were damaged beyond repair.

The library was moved again to the Old American Legion Hall, where an average of 50 to 60 books were checked out each day. More and more of the businessmen became interested in her and her work. They established a committee headed by Mr. Jerry Ward. This committee decided to move the library to the old West Texas Utilities building. They painted the building, both inside and out, and waxed the tile floor until it shone like a new silver dollar. She felt now that she could really help people; in fact, if she does not have the books she needs, she buys them with her money.

Last summer she sponsored a reading program for children of all ages. Between June 1 and September 1, 1965, 3600 books were checked out to the one-hundred membership families.

Because of this sudden growth, Myra needed help. She organized a club called Myra's Library Aids. The club is made up of volunteer teenage girls, whom she trains for library work during the summer months.

Although Myra has often been sick and has had numerous misfortunes, her life has been filled with happiness, for she loves her

Ray D. Boatright Won Fifth Place In Essay Contest

Ray D. Boatright, senior student at Winters High School, recently was notified that he had won fifth place in the 1965-66 State "Ability Counts" essay contest sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans, Department of Texas.

He will receive a bronze medal from the DAV, and a certificate of merit from the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, which will be presented in special ceremonies at a later date.

Boatright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Boatright of Winters, received a letter recently from Laurence R. Melton, chairman of the Governor's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped, notifying him of the award.

Entries in the contest were received from high schools throughout the State. In his letter to Boatright, Melton said, "The selection of your report as the fifth-place winner is in deed a tribute to your efforts and fine work, as well as to the instruction and guidance of your teachers at Winters High School. Boatright's essay is printed herewith.

African Students

much faith into them and are disappointed to learn the truth. African students have as much desire for a good education and better future as American students. The major difference between these students and American students is that the African students are being placed under much pressure at an earlier age. While American students fret about ever-increasing college requirements, their African counterparts are plagued by increasing entrance requirements for secondary school. All 8th graders must take a test to determine admission to secondary school. Only 12 students from a group of 80 from our school qualified to continue their education last year.

These students may be interested in cowboys and astronauts but that isn't all. They have asked me about Dallas and the death of President Kennedy, the war in Vietnam, and other important issues of the day. There is no television in Tanzania and newspapers are often three days old when they reach our part of the country. Students keep informed of world events through newscasts and educational programs of the Tanzania Broadcasting Corporation, however, and Africa is also the target of countless foreign broadcasts—Voice of America, British Broadcasting Corporation, Radio Peiking, Radio Moscow, etc.

Being a teacher in Africa is a great responsibility. The president of Tanzania, Dr. Julius Nyerere, is referred to as "Mwalimu" (teacher) and all teachers are greatly respected. Rewards of teaching are great too, however.
