Overseas servicemen have too often been the victims of shameless loan sharks.

The Defense Department has now agreed to issue a directive establishing and encouraging credit unions on military posts. This is the thing that many of us have been insisting on for months. Too often, military men overseas, for one reason or another, find themselves in a "bind" and turn to whatever credit agreement is available for immediate relief. The loan sharks know their predicament and take the advantage.

Last year investigations were conducted on these operations and disclosed that in some cases military people were required to pay 100 per cent interest on a two-year loan. This new Directive should stop such practices. Surveys made by leading pollsters and studies indicate support for President Johnson's policy in Viet Nam. A poll just completed by a group of sociologists from Oregon University says to the contrary. They use a figure as high as 80 per cent opposing the bombing of North Viet Nam and the denial of the Viet Cong to any control in South Viet Nam.

If the sociologists are correct, they must have picked out the people they interviewed to agree with them. Their percentage would not have been nearly as high if they had contacted the 6th Grade Class in a school near Washington. Here, they were going to have a discussion with each side assigned certain students. They could find no one to take the side against the Administration's position. It may not have been a matter of their making up their own minds but they must have heard some discussion at home around the dinner table.

New help for Cancer and Heart Research may come through the sale of the Treasury Department's supply of silver dollars. Legislation has been proposed which will permit the Treasury to sell silver dollars to the American Cancer Society and the American Heart Association, who, in turn, would auction them off to collectors.

There is now on hand approximately 3 million silver dollars which are collectors' items with a numismatic value several times that of the actual value.

Ombudsman is the name given to a special government official in Sweden who is designated as the champion of individual citizens or citizen groups against the gigantic and overwhelming power of the State. When the bureaucratic machinery of government is arbitrary, slow, legalistic, or just plain inconsiderate, the Ombudsman takes the ball in an effort to get the citizen's red tape unraveled.

Each member of Congress is somewhat of a practicing Ombudsman—ready, willing and able to help his constituents obtain through expeditious consideration what may be otherwise ignored.

Crockett, Vada Babston, Garland Shook, Alfred Rose, Paul Gerhart, Carl Baldwin, M. E. Lee, W. T. Nichols, D. W. Williams, H. O. Abbott, M. L. Dobbins, Peal Whigham and M. G. Middlebrook.

ON DEAN'S LIST Floyd W. McMillan, senior, is among the twenty-six Hardin-Simmons University students who were listed on the Dean's list for the fall term. This means a student has a 4.0 grade point and that students must carry a minimum course load of 12 semester hours and earn a grade of "A" in all courses.

With so many agencies, commissions, bureaus, regulating about everything imaginable, a lot of Ombudsmen are needed, and even the Ombudsman may find himself, at times, wrapped up like an Egyptian mummy. Again, those who are over sixty-five and are interested in enrolling for Medicare are reminded they must do so on or before March 31, 1966. If you are not living near a Social Security office, and will mail a postcard postmarked on or before the 31st, advising the Social Security office that you want to enroll, then it will protect your rights to enroll when you can get to a Social Security office. March 31, 1966 is the DEADLINE for enrolling in the Medicare Program.

You get two Elvis Presley's for your money in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's litting new backwoods comedy, "Kissin' Cousins," in which Elvis plays a dual role as a Tennessee hillbilly and an Air Force officer. Pam Austin, Cynthia Pepper and Yvonne Craig are three of the girls with whom the two Presley's get romantically involved in the song-filled entertainment, filmed in Panavision and Metrocolor.

"Cheyenne Autumn"

James Stewart has etched a memorable series of biographical portraits on the screen including that of bandleader Glenn Miller, baseball-player Monty Stratton and famous aviator Charles A. Lindbergh. Now, in "Cheyenne Autumn," the new John Ford film epic which shows Saturday night only at the Fiesta Theatre, Stewart contributes a further portrait, that of wily Wyatt Earp, the peace-officer and gun slinger of frontier days.

"Kissin' Cousins"

Elvis Presley in a dual role—a flock of bikini-clad girls—litting new songs and exuberant dancing—all within the framework of the story of a Tennessee hillbilly family who fight off an attempt by the government to obtain their mountain for an ICBM missile base—these are the elements of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's rousing new comedy, "Kissin' Cousins," showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Fiesta Drive-In.

"King Rat"

A motion picture audiences are sure to feel good about, and one which is bound to be talked about for years to come. "King Rat," shows Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre with George Segal in the title role and a cast that includes some of the finest character actors and stars of England and America. "King Rat" is a Columbia Pictures release, based on an international best-seller, produced by James Woolf and directed by Bryan Forbes from his own screenplay. Start with the novel, a story of the notorious Changi Prison camp outside Singapore in World War II, where some 10,000 young British and Australian servicemen, with a handful

Post Office Will Increase Cost of Some Services Effective March 26

Increases in cost of money orders, insurance, registry, certified mail and COD rates will become effective March 26, Winters Postmaster Rankin Pace said this week.

The cost of operating these five special services now exceeds revenue by $60 million annually, it was stated. The fee increases will narrow the cost-revenue gap by $36 million, based on business handled in fiscal year 1965.

Fees for money orders, registry and COD were last changed in 1961; insurance and certified mail rates were changed in 1957.

THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE
Winters, Texas
Friday, April 1, 1966

The fee changes, announced in the January 11 Federal Register and confirmed in the register on February 25, are put in effect under the existing administrative authority of the Postmaster General, postal officials said.

The increases include:
Mail Order Fees: Domestic and international money order fees will be increased by 5 cents.

Insurance Fees: The minimum fee bracket will be increased from $10 to $15 and the minimum fee will be 20 cents instead of 10 cents. The revised insurance fees will be as follows: 1 cent to $15, 20 cents; $15.01 to $50, 30 cents; $50.01 to $100, 40 cents; $100.01 to $150, 50 cents; $150.01 to $200, 60 cents.

Registry Fees: The present 60 cents and 75 cents fees will be combined into a single fee of 75 cents for values up to $100. Registry fees for articles valued in excess of $100 will remain unchanged.

COD Fees: The present 40 cents and 50 cents fee brackets will be combined into one fee bracket at 60 cents for amounts up to $10. There will be no change in the fees covering items valued above $10.

Certified Mail: The fee will be increased 10 cents from the present 20 cents per item to 30 cents.

Losses incurred in the operation of special services are paid from funds drawn from the Federal Treasury. The fee increases will shift a substantial portion of the service cost now born by the general public to the users of these services.

Future Homemakers
Of America Observe
National FHA Week

Winters Future Homemakers of America will be even busier than usual from March 27 to April 2. This is the week 600,000 teenage members of this organization hold National FHA Week.

The FHA Chapter at Winters High School has scheduled a number of activities for the week, according to Ann Gottschalk, FHA president. The plans include: Sunday, attend church with family; Monday, wash car windows at school; Tuesday, color day (FHA colors, red and white); Wednesday, Teacher Appreciation Day; Thursday, Good Deed; Friday, Slumber Party and Saturday, Easter Lilly drive.

Future Homemakers are home economics students in junior and senior high schools. The organization, founded nearly 21 years ago, has for its motto, "Toward New Horizons." The motto refers to the extensive program of work FHA members and chapters undertake to further their goal of helping individuals improve personal, family, and community living.

The nine projects of the current program of work are titled Individually Count: Good Health—A Valuable Asset; Jobs, Careers and You; Morals and Manners Matter; Good Family Relations Through Communications; Citizenship Challenges You; Your Neighbors Near and Far; Make Your Money Behave; and Leisure Time—Constructive Time.

Next on the schedule after FHA Week, Ann Gottschalk, president explained, comes planning for celebration of FHA's 21st, coming-of-age birthday. Marking this important milestone will be a gala, year-long campaign to be launched at the FHA national meeting in St. Louis in July.

Roger Babson Says—

Trend Is Upward For State And Local Taxes Over the Nation

Babson Park, Mass. In a recent column we discussed living costs, —emphasizing the increase in consumer prices that has occurred. Today we give attention to taxes—especially to those levied by state and local governments.

Trend Is Up

Right at the moment, the federal tax burden on individuals and corporations is less than it was a few years ago, in spite of the January increase in social security taxes. But our state and local levies are rising at the rate of about 9 per cent per year. 36 states and the District of Columbia have income taxes. 39 states and the District of Columbia tax retail sales. Virginia is about to collect a 2 per cent sales tax, and a 3 per cent limited sales tax becomes effective in Massachusetts April 1.

Mayor Lindsay of New York has attracted national attention by sponsoring a proposal for a graduated income tax on those living or working in that city that would take an amount equal to 50 per cent of what they are paying in taxes to the state of New York. It is not widely known that 10 American cities already have municipal income taxes—among them Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and St. Louis.

Why So Much Need?

For the most part, the need of the states and cities for additional revenue is pressing. Since World War II, the federal government has been siphoning off a much larger share of individual and corporate earnings than in earlier years. This has forced the states to adopt sales taxes, often in addition to state income taxes. It has also forced the cities and towns to depend on real estate taxes for the bulk of their revenue.

Why do state and local governments still need further large amounts? Partly because federal fiscal policies have led to higher government costs generally. Partly because there are so many more Americans to provide government services for than there were 30 years ago when our population was only 127 million compared with today's 195 million,—an increase of more than 50 per cent. And partly because we are demanding a broader range of services than ever before.

Crisis In Fiscal Responsibility

Obviously, the states and cities will not be able to provide all of the government services requested. Their resources just are not large enough to permit them to follow the paternalistic pattern set by the federal government. But, goaded by special interests, the states and cities do tend to bite off more than they can chew.

There is, fortunately, very little deliberate fiscal mismanagement at state government levels. But there is a good deal of actual mismanagement because the states do not always take the trouble or go to the expense of hiring the best-qualified personnel to handle services and projects involving the expenditure of large sums of money. And there is a very great deal of fiscal irresponsibility in the matter of directing state government policies into channels that will provide real economic growth for all the people.

Higher State Taxes Coming

Costs for police and fire protection, for education, and for health and welfare services are mounting. Hence state and local government costs will certainly be upped further in the years ahead. But many state and local government projects are either ill-planned or unnecessary. A closer watch by citizens on their state houses and city halls would curb such boosts in local spending.

Also, it is very much to the advantage of citizens—especially businessmen—to keep informed as to what is going on in local government. Big business has its lobbyists who often succeed in forestalling heavy imposts on its operations. Small business has its trade associations which also perform good service in this regard. But the average citizen has no such watchdog to look out for his interests and to keep him informed of what's coming up next by the way of new spending and new taxes. He must knuckle under and pay—UNLESS he gets up gumption enough to make his views known and his influence felt.

State Capital Highlights—

Senate Seat Is First Objective of Demos, GOP in 1966 Texas Elections

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Both Democratic and Republican state party leaders have emphasized that victory in the U. S. Senate race is their top objective of 1966.

"We are ahead and we plan to stay ahead," Sen. John G. Tower told the GOP state executive committee.

"I am told the Senate election in Texas is the No. 1 race in the nation this year," said Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, one of the top Democratic senatorial nominees, at a meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Democrats selected Austin for their September 20 state convention, at which control of their party for the next two years will be decided.

Republicans, who have no serious convention controversy in sight, will meet in San Antonio.

Both party executive committees will return to Austin on May 17 to canvass first primary elections, and Democrats will certify run-off candidates, if any.

Democrats rejected a proposal by gubernatorial candidate Stanley C. Woods of Houston to hold a May 7 referendum on whether Texans prefer "annual" or "permanent" registration.

SDEC Chairman Will D. Davis held that a group petitioning for a referendum on a constitutional amendment to legalize pari-mutuel horse and dog race wagering did not have its papers in order by deadline.

A Democratic committee resolution was designed to bring delegate strength in district caucuses at the 1966 state convention in line with new senatorial reapportionment. Another would discourage manipulation of county convention voting strength of new and recently-altered precincts.

Republicans named John Golsbee of Jacksonville and Roy I. Jindra of Alice to the GOP committee to fill vacancies.

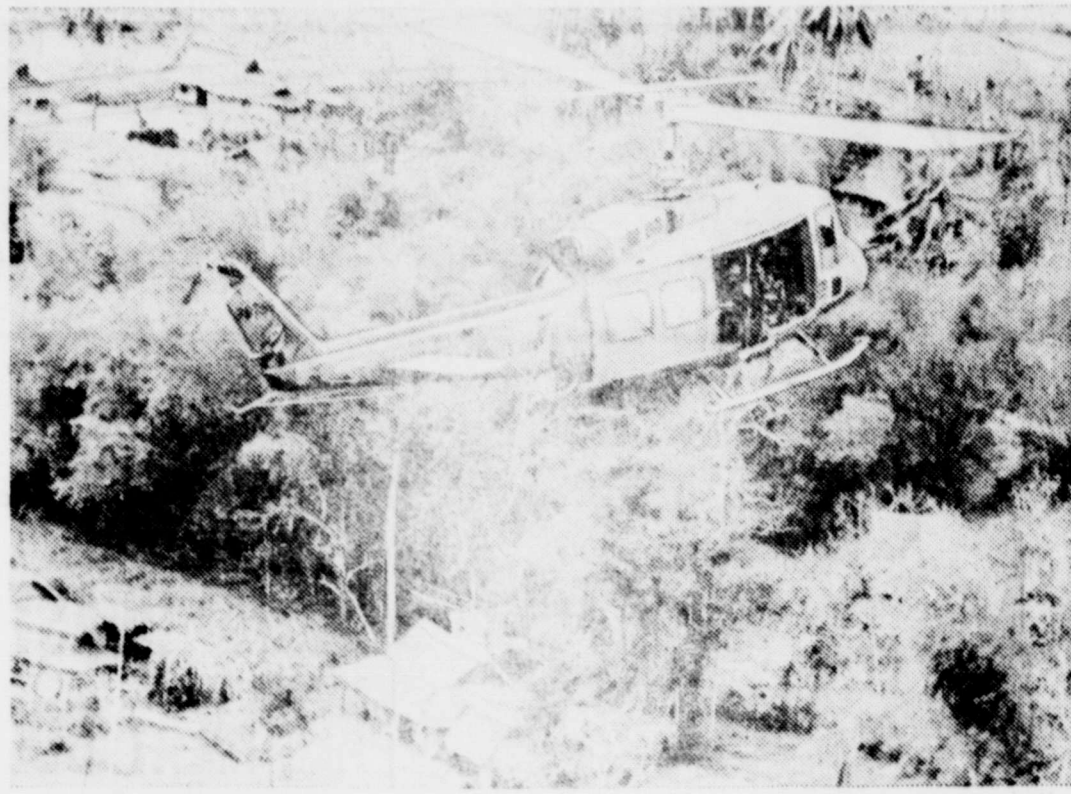

Democrats picked Mrs. Gilbert Theriot of San Angelo to succeed Mrs. S. St. George Tucker, also of San Angelo, on SDEC.

OIL INDUSTRY ON UPSWING

Texas Railroad Commission, concerned as to how industry would operate in a national emergency, postponed setting statewide oil allowable until it can evaluate "the escalating market demand and underproduction."

State reached 33.2 per cent of potential factor this month, highest since May, 1959, and the sixth straight increase.

Major oil company spokesmen painted a bright picture for the industry at the proration hearing, predicting demand for petroleum products will go up three to 3.5 per cent this year.

LOOKING THINGS OVER—First Cavalry troops in an Army helicopter fly over a small Vietnamese village during Operation Eagle's Claw in South Viet Nam. All was quiet in this village, but Viet Cong troops weren't far away.

Those who complained a year ago about surplus oil and gas stocks emphasized need to build up reserves.

MINING BATTLE

A Houston-based firm claims Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler is wrong in rejecting its sulphur mining claims in West Texas area (Pecos County) and has asked State Supreme Court to enjoin further action under a scheduled sale of state leases on May 3.

Duval Corporation says a 1919 law gives it the right to stake claim on land to which the state has sold surface rights on payment of 50 cents an acre annual rental plus one-sixteenth royalty if minerals are produced.

Sadler claims the 1931 sealed-bid law nullified the 1919 act and that to allow leasing under the 1919 act might deprive the state permanent school fund of millions of dollars.

Sadler said he carefully considered all aspects of law and rights of three million school children before refusing to file mining claims of the Duval Corporation.

APPOINTMENTS

Gov. John Connally named Randall C. Jackson, Abilene attorney with ranching and banking interests in Callahan County, to State Securities Board. Jackson succeeds Everett Fulgham, former Houstonite who moved to Arkansas.

Connally appointed Clifton W. Cassidy Jr. of Dallas, feed mill and savings and loan association official, to Texas Public Safety Commission. He succeeds W. E. Dwyer Jr. of Houston.

Joseph A. Potts of San Antonio will succeed Don Marshall as director for San Antonio River Authority.

Dr. R. C. Jordan, Austin, has been appointed director of medical care administration services (medicare) in the state. Dr. Albert C. Randall has been named director of the state's consolidated tuberculosis control services; and Dr. Robert B. Skinner has been appointed director of tuberculosis hospitals at Sanatorium, Harlingen, San Antonio and Tyler.

CATTLE QUARANTINE

A cattle scabies outbreak resulted in quarantining of interstate shipments of cattle from six Northwest Texas counties.

Counties under U. S. quarantine effective March 8 are Floyd, Briscoe, Castro, Hale, Lamb and Swisher.

Epidemiology work and trace-backs on cattle involved are under direction of Texas Animal Health Commission and U. S. Department of Agriculture animal health division. A U. S. inspector has been assigned to each county.

AG RULES

An attorney appointed to represent indigent defendants in criminal trials is entitled to full compensation, whether or not he appears in court for a full day or part of a day, and he is entitled to compensation for each court appearance he makes for his client, Attorney General Carr held. However, if the attorney represents more than one defendant on the same day, he is entitled to compensation only once on that day.

In other opinions, Carr concluded that a county judge or clerk can't collect, impose or record costs assessed by a corporation court in criminal cases and a court can't tax any costs against a defendant in a criminal case. Writs fees must be filed with the Controller's Office within 12 months after they become due and payable and, if they aren't filed, the fees are barred. Also, the Legislature has the authority to appropriate funds for the fees.

County attorney of Matagorda County does not have duty to act as "prosecuting attorney" under uniform reciprocal enforcement of support act.

A surety will be considered in default on a bail bond after judgement of forfeiture has been made final and is unsatisfied.

WATER COMMISSION BACKS DOWN

Texas Water Rights Commission backed down on a proposed new rule withholding water bond approval in unprotected coastal areas.

Instead, future bond approval orders relating to such areas will include a warning of possible danger from high water or hurricane storms. These warnings will become part of land abstracts within such districts.

Opponents of Commission's proposed new rule claimed it would discourage real estate development along coast.

RETARDATION OBJECTIVES SET

The Texas Plan to Combat Mental Retardation has been drawn up and some 200 recommendations have been made to help the mentally retarded.

In accepting the recommendations, Governor Connally said the plan "represents a massive attempt by all levels of government and the citizens of the state to help the mentally retarded find greater purpose to their lives."

According to the Plan, more attention must be paid to more effective prevention, treatment and amelioration of mental retardation methods.

Also, better care, education, training, habilitation and employment for mentally retarded citizens should be provided.

Connally said the recommendations would be handled on a priority basis.

SHORT SNORTS

Attorney General Carr says 500,000 more citizens now will be able to vote as a result of the 15 additional days of voter registration authorized by the special legislative session after a federal court held the Texas poll tax invalid.

A mass of testimony now is

"WHAT WINTERS MAKES, MAKES WINTERS"

During the past few years, Winters has "graduated" from total dependency on an agricultural economy, and has moved ahead to a favorable position among other progressive cities to contribute much to the industrial picture of the State of Texas and the Nation. Situated as it is as what could be termed a crossroads area of the country, Winters is in a position to serve the entire nation with "MADE IN WINTERS" products—which it does; and though comparatively far from seaport facilities, "Winters, Texas," for some time has come to be recognized in many foreign countries as the source for quality products.

It has been no accident that Winters has gained this favorable position. It is the result of a progressive attitude on the part of the management directing the local industries, and the workmanship of the many people who are connected in any way with the manufacturing processes here. Not content to accept the status quo as the ultimate, these industrial leaders and factory personnel keep setting their sights further ahead, toward the future, as they meet and accomplish each goal. There is no limit to the progress which can be realized with this kind of foresightedness and determination and management, coupled with a favorable industrial climate which is in evidence on all sides.

"MADE IN

(WINTERS) U.S.A."

Products manufactured in Winters continually are finding their way to all sections of the United States . . . and big steps are being taken to increase already-large shipments to foreign ports, thanks to the initiative and foresight of local industrial management. Each added shipment adds to a growing economy for this immediate area, with the result that "WHAT WINTERS MAKES, MAKES WINTERS."

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By Vern Sanford

Probably the fastest-selling artificial lure on the market today is the plastic worm.

These colorful, soft plastic imitation worms have been around for years. But they have gained universal popularity only in recent years.

Much of their new-found success can be attributed to modern engineering techniques. So limp and lifelike is today's plastic worm that it actually looks alive in the water.

At first, most plastic worms were manufactured in basic black and red colors. But lately they've been showing up in fishermen's tackle boxes in off-beat, vivid colors. And, surprisingly, most of them work.

One of the hottest worms in Central Texas is fluorescent orangish-red.

At Caddo Lake along the Texas-Louisiana border, the blue worm is very popular.

But at Lake O the Pines in Northeast Texas, purple seems to get the best results.

Most anglers experiment with different colors—black, brown, red, yellow, polk-a-dot—until they find one that appeals to the bass.

Worms can be fished in many different ways.

Some fishermen use worms sans any weight. They cast them with spinning tackle and work them slowly through moss beds and other vegetation close to shore.

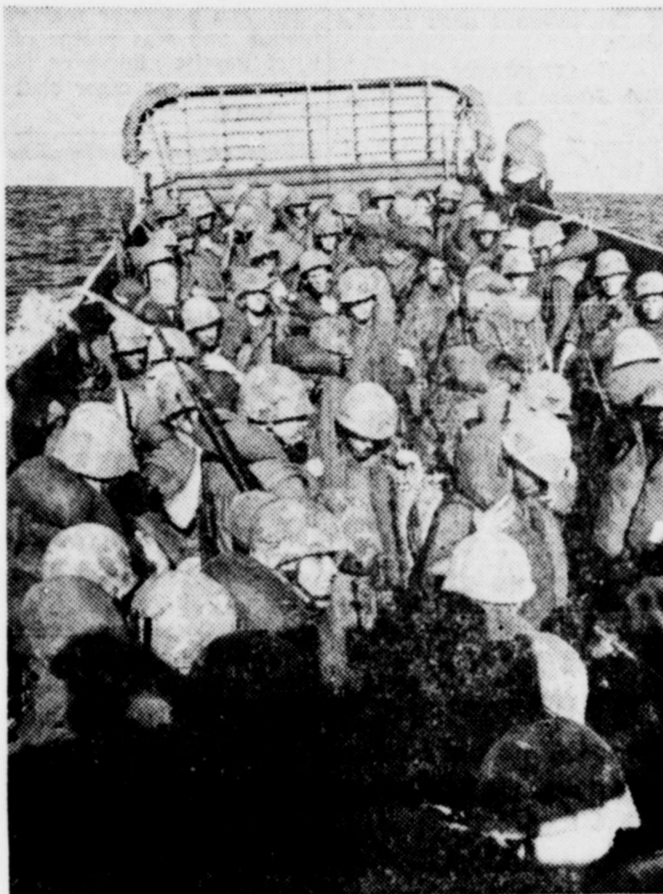

Others use a weight to put them right down on the bottom, retrieving them in slow, stop-and-go jerks.

Like any other angling method the proper technique in worm fishing on any particular body of water requires experimentation.

There are many ways to rig worms for bass fishing. Some fishermen simply thread a hook through the head of the worm and attach it to the business end of their lines and use it without jar the hook loose. If it doesn't then wiggle the line, making the weight rise and fall, and soon the worm will come free.

Just because you're fouling up occasionally, doesn't mean you should move to another spot. Usually, the more obstructions on the bottom, the better are your chances of catching bass.

Fouling up is just one handicap you learn to accept in this kind of fishing.

EASY PLUCKING

Ducks are hard to pick clean. So, when plucking your birds, ease the job by using an ordinary rubber stall on your finger. Stall helps in gripping the little feathers and inner down.

SAVES LINE LOSS

Lots of live bait fishermen use a sinker at the tip end of the line. Most attach the sinker to a weaker line than the regular line. This way if the sinker fouls you can break the leader line off and not lose the entire rigging.

BOTTOMS-UP FOR WORMS

Can't get a worm out of your bait box? Then turn it over when you need one to bait a hook. These little rascals always work their way to the bottom of the container.

Competition didn't stand a chance in the low-price 8-cylinder standard size class as Impala finished first with 19.87 MPG, followed closely by Caprice and Bel Air in second and fifth spots. What's more, our thrifty Biscayne took first place in the standard size 6-cylinder class over those other thirsty cars, getting a money-saving 21.04 MPG. Since we're in business only to sell automobiles that keep our owners satisfied, we don't want them to empty their pockets into gas tanks. Why? It's the Chevrolet way.

any weight. Others buy weighted worms with the lead concealed inside the worm head.

Some prefer a worm with a lip. This gives it a seductive wiggle in the water. Others simply add a small, split-shot sinker to the leader just above the worm.

Another method is to thread the hook in the worm head, attach the hook to a piece of monofilament about 15 inches long and add a swivel on the other end of the leader. Above the swivel, on the main line itself, a sliding sinker is added. This main line of course must be run through the sliding sinker before the line is attached to the other end of the swivel. Sinker provides weight for casting and for carrying the worm to the bottom. But should a fish pick up the worm, the line will slide through the sinker and the fish will detect no hindrance.

Anglers adopting this method let the bass run with the worm. When the fish stops to turn the bait over in its mouth (in order to swallow the worm head first) the fisherman sets the hook hard and then the battle starts!

Some fishermen prefer two or more hooks in their worms, one up front and the other back close to the tail. This tail hook is added because fish sometimes strike short of the head hook.

A simple method of "hooking up" for this type of worm fishing is to thread braided line almost the full length of the worm with a needle. Then attach an extra hook near the tail. This braided line then is tied to the head hook and the main line.

Idea is that braided line is so limp that when threaded through the worm it will not change the action of the bait. But the braided line must always be just the right length or the action will be aborted.

Much of the present-day success of the worm also can be attributed to new concepts in bass fishing. A modern-day discovery is that most grandpa bass hang out near the bottom. So, to successfully catch the big ones, you must put a bait in this vicinity.

Most popular method of working the worm is to cast out and allow it to sink to the bottom. Then taking up slack in the line, you barely lift the bait, make a couple of turns on the reel handle then allow the worm to flutter back down. Repeat this procedure slowly, letting the worm go up and down to really make it flutter.

When a fish first takes the worm, the tendency is to immediately set the hook. Don't do it! Instead, keep the line tight, but not taut. Let the bass move off with it. After a few seconds, to allow the bass time to get the worm entirely inside its mouth, lay back on the rod and drive the hook home.

As you work a worm along the bottom you'll continually be fouling up on obstructions. This is to be expected. But to catch bass you must work your bait where the fish habitually hang out. Many worm fishermen use a weedless hook—one with some type of weed guard above the point of the hook. This prevents a lot of snagging.

One way to free a snagged hook is to use a simple device made from an old sparkplug. Attach a paper clip on one end of the plug. When the bait fouls, tighten your line, clip the pin on the line and drop the sparkplug. Let it run down the line until it falls against the bait.

Usually, the falling weight will

FB to Sponsor "Meet Candidate" Program April 14

Runnels County Farm Bureau will again sponsor a "meet the candidate" program at the county courthouse April 14, Marion Hays, president of the county organization, announced this week.

The "meet the candidate" program will be open to the public, Hays said, and two candidates for Congress have indicated they will be present to participate in the meeting. Congressman Omar Burleson, who is running for re-election to represent the new 17th Congressional District, and Eldon Mahon of Abilene, candidate for that office, will be present.

Hays emphasized that "one of the activities of Farm Bureau's citizenship program which is designed to help voters select the best possible candidate for each office, thereby strengthening our form of representative government." He stressed that the Farm Bureau does not endorse any candidate for any political office.

Winters Couple Back From Tour 15 States And Visit With Son

The Eddie Little's returned home Sunday from an extended vacation trip during which they covered 15 states, visiting numerous points of interest as they traveled.

Longer visits were made at several points. In New Orleans they attended the Southwest Photographer's Convention and in Georgia visited with Charles Patton, president of the Georgia Professional Photographers Association.

A week of the time was spent in Philadelphia where the Littles visited their son, Lt. Harvey E. Little, who is attached to the commandants staff at the U. S. Naval Base. He serves as a legal officer there.

Accompanied by Lt. Little, the couple spent a week end in New York, where they saw the stage presentation of Hello Dolly.

On the return trip the Littles visited Major General David M. Jones and Mrs. Jones in Washington, D. C., better known to Winters residents as Davey and Anita, the Joneses took the Winters couple on a delightful tour of chief attractions in Washington.

In Lenoir City, Tennessee, the Littles spent several days visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Al M. Boeman. Boeman is president of the Bank of Lenoir City.

The last stop was in the home of their children, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Little and Bobby of Austin.

Daughter of Former Resident First Girl To Win Designer Competition

Suzanne Monk, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Monk of Dallas, took one of the top three awards in architectural designs by Dallas and Dallas County high school students participating in the fifth annual Young Designers Competition. She placed third in the first level to become the first girl winner in advanced architectural drawings competition, sponsored by the Dallas Home Builders and the Dallas Public Schools.

The architectural designs of the winners were on display during the 20th anniversary celebration of the Southwestern Builders Exposition and Home Show in Market Hall in Dallas open to the public last week end and earlier in the week to industry only.

Suzanne, who is a junior in Justin F. Kimball High School in Dallas, has had three and a half years of drafting and this is her first time to enter the contest. Her home plans were quite modern and pointed to the future in home building. After graduation she plans to attend North Texas University and study Fashion Design.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Monk are well known here. Mr. Monk is the grandson of Mrs. J. R. Harris and the late Mr. Harris, who were early day settlers of this section of Runnels County. Mrs. Harris still maintains her home in Winters. Mrs. Monk will be remembered here as Sue Hinds. She received her high school education from Winters High Schools and is deeply interested in school activities here as well as a host of old friends. The couple has two sons and the daughter.

Arion Barnes also won two blue ribbons, plus running on the relay teams. His blue ribbons came in the broadjump, 17-1 3/4, and a 15.3 in the low hurdles. Dwayne Smith took home three blue ribbons, getting two of them on the relays and winning the 100-yard dash in 11.4 seconds.

Winters Junior Hi Teams First In Tri-County Meet

Winters Junior High boys' track teams took the top scoring spot with 81 points, and the Winters girls placed first and second, in the Tri-County Junior High Track meet held in Winters March 24.

Other schools entered in the meet were Miles, Paint Rock, Ballinger and Novice.

Winters' eighth grade placed first in every event except the shot put, 220, discus and 50-yard dash. There were several Winters boys who were double winners. Rex Harrison led the meet with a high jump mark of 5-8, and won the 330-yard dash with a time of 42.6, plus running a leg on both of the winning relay teams.

Arion Barnes also won two blue ribbons, plus running on the relay teams. His blue ribbons came in the broadjump, 17-1 3/4, and a 15.3 in the low hurdles. Dwayne Smith took home three blue ribbons, getting two of them on the relays and winning the 100-yard dash in 11.4 seconds.
