HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Quite frequently readers will stop and ask when the next article in the "Dateline: Tanzania" series will be published. It has been several weeks since the last was published.

Interested readers will be pleased to note that in this issue is another of the "Tanzania" stories—written by Bill Pumphrey of Winters, who is a Peace Corps Volunteer stationed in Chunya, Tanzania, on the East Coast of Africa. Other articles, and photographs, will follow during the coming weeks.

In a letter which accompanied Pumphrey's latest manuscript, he said that he is "currently in Dar es Salaam, capital of Tanzania, doing some writing for the Peace Corps. The city is very interesting and I hope to have some good stories for you about sights here. Zanzibar is a short distance away but I don't think I will get over there this time."

"The trip to Kilimanjaro (about which the article in this week's Enterprise is written) was my only encounter with snow on the African continent. At Dar es Salaam where I am now staying it gets up to 115 degrees during December."

Bill continues, "I would also appreciate your telling readers that I send everyone 'Merry Christmas and New Year' greetings."

The Enterprise is fortunate in that it probably is one of very few community newspapers in the country to have its own exclusive "foreign correspondent." Bill is writing these articles because of a deep love of writing and a desire to tell his fellow townpeople about the country in which he is working. So if you enjoy the articles, let us know. Better still, readers might be interested in writing to Bill—and we're sure he'd appreciate hearing from the folks at home. His address: Bill Pumphrey, P. O. Box 4, Chunya, Tanzania. Air mail is the fastest—surface mail would go by boat and take perhaps six to eight weeks reaching him.

We like to get out of town once in a while, if for no other reason than to see how the other half of the world is getting on. Too, it is important to have some relative point against which to make comparisons; if not for that, one could reach a point of stagnation, believing the crest had been reached, only to suddenly and sorrowfully discover he still travels the valley. We're speaking of towns as well as of men.

Then, after traveling around and making comparisons, we come to the conclusion that the old home town is getting on pretty good and can stand toe-to-toe with about any and ahead of many. One does not have to spend much time in a town in order to feel the tempo—slow or on the upswing. Just passing through most places can tell an out-of-towner a lot about what is under the surface. (We here in Winters should always keep that in mind.)

We were presented a graphic demonstration of some of the advantages of living in THIS home town a few days ago. Snooping around in a big super market in a large city on the coast, we got to examining the price tags on some of the items. The person we were with happens to read this paper, and periodically makes comparisons of prices as advertised here and there, and helped to point out a few differences. For instance, a five-pound bag of grapefruit was on "special" in that big store—five cents higher than the local markets have been offering the same item; oranges were the same—higher in the big town. Other items were comparably priced, too. Then there is another reader who droolingly checks the prices Winters merchants advertise against what is available there; meat, for instance—from ten to fifteen to twenty cents per pound more expensive there than here.

So this business of pointing out the advantages of shopping in Winters—pricewise and service-wise—is not a lot of hog-wash.

PC Volunteer From Winters Climbs Africa's Kilimanjaro Mountain

(This is one of a series of articles written by Bill Pumphrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Pumphrey of Winters, A Peace Corps Volunteer stationed in Chunya, Tanzania, Pumphrey is a graduate of Winters High School and the University of Texas, where he received a degree in journalism.)

BY BILL PUMPHREY

Only one word can describe Mt. Kilimanjaro—majestic. Rising above the grassy plains just below the equator, it looks like something you would dream up on a hot afternoon. There with clouds hanging about its summit soars the snow-capped mountain, a challenge to man since its discovery in 1848. Small wonder that Europeans laughed at the report of a snow-capped mountain so near to the equator. I can verify the snow, however, as I answered the challenge and climbed the world's 22nd highest peak.

Our party of 11 PC Volunteers arrived at Moshi, Tanzania, on August 4 to begin our ascent of Africa's highest mountain (Mt. McKinley, America's highest mountain, is only 755 feet higher than Kilimanjaro's 19,565 foot altitude). On August 5 we left Marangu Hut (altitude 4,500 feet) with 20 porters and four guides. We hiked to Mandara Hut (9,000 ft.), 10 miles away, where we spent the night. The country on the lower slopes of the mountain is green and fertile. Fields of banana plants, coffee and tea bushes and other tropical fruits were everywhere along our path. Streams of cold mountain water also rushed along side our path. The hut, maintained by the Kilimanjaro Mountain Club, was cozy with its nice log fire. As soon as we arrived that afternoon, a cloud had moved in and shut out our view of the valley below, causing us to retreat to the inside of the hut.

The next morning we left Mandara Hut and headed for the second one, Horombo (12,335 ft.). The first part of the trip was through a dense, damp rainforest where climbing canes were a necessity if we were to keep from falling. The path was narrow but well marked.

The forest ended abruptly and across a field we could see the two peaks of Kilimanjaro, Kibo and Mawenzi, towering against a blue sky and seeming only a few, instead of 20, miles away. After much picture taking, we continued on across the fields and hills which were now barren of trees. The trip was long and exhausting as we were undergoing our first major altitude change. We stopped on the way and had a picnic lunch. Around 3 p. m. we reached Horombo. The huts there are newer and nicer but there are no fires. They are on a barren hill and, as they are above the clouds, it looked like a great sea of whipped cream stretching to the horizon. That night we needed all our blankets on our sleeping bags. I ventured outside once and thought I'd freeze to death. If Kilimanjaro was that cold, I was ready to turn back.

The next morning was clear and the sunshine dispelled the previous night's chill. From the huts we could see Mawenzi Peak (16,890 ft.) with its snow-filled crags and ridges. Although not as high as Kibo, it is more difficult to climb.

After breakfast we started the 10 mile hike to the next-to-last leg of our journey—Kibo Hut (Continued on page 5)

IN AFRICA—Mt. Kilimanjaro, Africa's highest mountain, raises its snow-capped peak only five degrees south of the equator. Natives raise bananas, tea and coffee on its fertile slopes. Price of lunches served in the Winters School Lunchroom will be increased beginning January 3, Superintendent of Schools Robert F. Christian announced this week.

Price of School Lunches Will Be Increased Jan. 3

A decrease in government commodities received for use in the lunchroom, the increase in the cost of food, and an increase in operational expenses at the cafeteria were given as a reason for the increase.

Beginning January 3, the following prices for school lunches will be effective:

Grade 1 through 6	35c
Grade 7 through 12	40c
All adult employees	45c
Visitors	75c

Livestock Show Set For Jan. 7

Approximately $1,000 in prize money is awaiting place winners in the annual Junior Livestock Show scheduled here Saturday, January 7. Show will be held at the livestock barns on the north edge of the Winters School complex.

The Junior Livestock Show is open to all members of the Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members in the Winters and Wingate school districts.

This annual show is sponsored and produced by the Winters Livestock and Agricultural Association. The association holds a membership drive each year to promote the livestock show and to raise money for awards.

Directors of the show are planning for approximately 98 lambs, 95 pigs, and 24 calves.

Judges for the show will be Obert Sagebeil of Wall, lamb division; J. G. Healt, Anson, swine; and Larry Osbourn, Abilene, calves.

No Rainfall For Last Two Months

If no moisture is received in Winters during the next two days—and prospects are slim—the last two months of 1966 will be recorded as the driest November and December for this area in several years.

No measurable amount of rain has been recorded for the two months, although there was a visible trace once or twice each month.

Total moisture record for 1966 will be the lowest annual rainfall since 1963, when only 24.5 inches was written down. This year's total will end up at 27.7, below the 28.4 and 33.1 recorded for 1964 and 1965 respectively.

Rainfall in 1966 for the surrounding North Runnels County area has been comparable to that recorded in Winters proper. Some farmers and ranchers report a fair amount of sub-moisture, but winter crops and pastures are badly in need of rain.

First Grave In Crews Cemetery Marked By People

A marker has been placed at the first grave to be opened in the Crews Community Cemetery, erected by citizens of the area after a meeting December 3.

Little is known about the person buried in this first grave, but it is known a child of Lee Kersey was buried there sometime in 1902.

Realizing that before long there will be no one present who could give information on this grave, the Crews residents thought it wise to place some kind of marker on the first grave.

The marker was paid for by gifts from Crews Community residents, and was placed December 21.

Adequate Water Supply Sought For Two Towns

A county lake, with a capacity larger than the Winters and Ballinger lakes combined, is being proposed by the Runnels County Water Authority and other leaders who see the necessity of making plans to meet future water needs in the area.

The proposal will be discussed at a meeting, under the auspices of the Water Authority, to be held at the courthouse in Ballinger on Thursday, January 12, beginning at 7:30. The Water Authority is inviting every interested person in the county to attend the meeting to discuss the proposal.

J. S. (Slats) Bourn of Winters, a member of the Runnels County Water Authority, is asking everyone in the area to attend the meeting and to study the proposition, which if developed could provide water for Winters, Ballinger, Miles and Rowena for a long time in the future.

Mayor W. M. Hays of Winters said that the Winters City Council would be represented at the meeting. The City of Winters has been for several years studying several proposals in regard to water supply.

The preliminary proposal, as sketched by the Runnels County Water Authority, would place a dam on Elm Creek, below the intersection of Bluff and Elm Creeks in about the center of Runnels County. The proposed dam site would be east and slightly south of Hatchel.

Such a dam would confine water from the two main creeks in this section of the county, with backwater reaching to the area of the Winters Country Club on Bluff Creek, it was pointed out. Winters' lake is located on Elm Creek several miles above the point where the proposed lake would be. Ballinger's old lake also is located on the south end of Elm Creek, just before the creek enters the Colorado River.

According to reports, from 35 thousand to 38 thousand acre feet of water flows down these two creeks each year.

Members of the Runnels County Water Authority from this area include Pete M. Davis, A. L. Mitchell and J. S. Bourn from the Winters area; George Cathey of Wingate and Cecil Roper of Norton.

Employment In County Fell 1 Percent In One Year, Says U. S. Census Bureau

The Employment in Runnels County fell 1 percent between March 1964 and March 1965, according to one of the nation's economic indicators. "County Business Patterns, 1965—Texas," issued recently by the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census.

County Business Patterns, now published annually, uses payroll information gathered for the first quarter of each calendar year by the Social Security Administration covering employment in most kinds of business and industry, but excluding notably agricultural and government workers and the self-employed.

Number of employees in the county, in businesses covered by the report, for March 1965 totaled 1833 against 1851 for the same month a year earlier. First quarter payrolls for the two years were $1.5 million and $1.6 million respectively.

Retail trade, the largest group of employees in the county, reported a March 1965 total of 622 employees and a three-month payroll of $396,000. Mining (the oil industry), the county's second largest group of employees, had a total of 294 employees and $332,000 in quarterly payrolls.

More detailed data for the state, counties and metropolitan areas by type of industry and employment-size are shown in "County Business Patterns, 1965—Texas," for sale ($1.50) at the U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, or at any U. S. Department of Commerce field office. State reports will be reassembled into a set of five volumes and will also be available on tapes and punch cards. Questions should be addressed to Business Division, U. S. Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C. 20233.

Persons Who Damage or Destroy Mail Boxes Subject to Heavy Penalties

Mail boxes are protected by Federal law, and pranksters or vandals who damage or destroy the boxes and their contents may be in for a heavy fine or imprisonment, Winters Postmaster Rankin Pace has warned.

The postmaster noted that some 25,000 mail receptacles were damaged or destroyed in the past year. It was also noted that 2,641 persons were arrested in the year ending June 30 for damaging or destroying mail receptacles.

Postmaster Pace quoted from the Law: "Whoever willfully or maliciously injures, tears down or destroys any letter box or other receptacle intended or used for the receipt or delivery of mail on any mail route, or breaks open the same willfully or maliciously injures, defaces or destroys any mail deposited therein, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than three years."

This applies to all mail receptacles and the mail in them, even though the boxes are bought by citizens and are their personal property, the postmaster said.

"Pranksters—especially children who do not know any better—should be made to realize the seriousness of their actions," the postmaster said. "A $1000 fine or a term in jail is enough to take the humor out of any prank."

Often the mail box damage is the work of youths, who do it for "kicks." And the courts have shown little sympathy for this youthful means of expression. In Michigan, a justice sentenced two 18-year olds to 10 days in jail, including two on a diet of baby food. The diet specification, explained the judge, was because the youths "acted like babies." They were also fined $25 each plus $15 costs.

In New York state, five youths were fined $25 each plus restitution or restorations, plus no driving for an indefinite period, plus an 8 p. m. curfew, plus a written analysis by each of a magazine article entitled, "A Judge Gets Tough on Hoodlums."

Two Iowa youths who damaged 39 mail boxes were required to personally apologize to each boxholder in addition to making repairs or providing a new box.

In Missouri, three 17-year olds lost their driving privileges, were given a 9 p. m. curfew, and had to report twice weekly to juvenile authorities. They had damaged 63 mail boxes.

And in Arkansas, four juveniles faced the following: (1) no driving until further notice; (2) a 10 p. m. curfew; (3) return to court in a month with letters from their school principals reporting on grades and attitudes; (4) full restitution of all damages; and (5) wear a sign for 30 days stating "I have not learned to respect the property of others."

Babson Predicts: "Boom" To Ease In 1967

By ROGER W. BABSON

The close of 1966 marks the seventieth consecutive month in the life span of the longest business boom of all time for the American economy. However, "trees do not grow to the sky." Already, signs of deterioration in the expansive vigor that characterized the earlier phase of the business upswing have been increasing in 1966. Hence, the outlook for business in 1967 is of greater-than-usual importance.

Let readers of this column be tempted to "push the panic button," however, let me state that it would be unwise to expect a major depression in 1967. Our greatly expanded economy still has a considerable degree of momentum. The spotlight on 1967, therefore, should focus upon those factors which are likely to cause a breathing spell in economic activity. Politicians and labor leaders have a phobia against even a hesitancy in business, and rush headlong into measures designed to treat a case of pneumonia when cold pills would be more appropriate.

1. Although business and financial problems look large in the prospects for 1967, I must first warn readers that the greatest danger for the year ahead does not exist on the domestic front. Surely it will be developments abroad that will hold the gravest threat to our country. These could be economic as well as military or political.

2. I foresee no war between the United States and Russia in 1967. However, tensions between the two world leaders may seem to reach the breaking point as the Kremlin "goes all out" to create diversions to our efforts in Vietnam. Look for Moscow to throw salt on festering wounds in the Middle East, Africa, and Germany.

3. I am also hopeful that a direct clash between Red China and the U. S. can be avoided in 1967. Internal dissensions are rampant throughout Mainland China, and a great scramble for power is in full swing. Sabre-rattling may help to unify the people; but pressing problems of low productivity, plus the demands of her nuclear program, should restrain Red China from direct attack upon the United States.

4. The struggle for leadership of the Communist world camp will continue unabated throughout 1967. Full political attack will be mounted by the Kremlin against Peking. It would be touch and go, however, whether Russia can persuade her wavering satellites to sign a final manifesto reading Red China out of the Party.

5. Recent elections in West Germany have fanned the embers of nationalism into a tiny flame. This has surely thrown a scare into Russian leaders. I predict that they will take a harder line against Germany in 1967 than in some time, I feel that we should particularly watch General de Galle, who is playing closer and closer to Moscow from month to month.

6. Heavily armed with Soviet weapons, the Arabs of the Middle East—squared off against Israel—present a grave threat to world peace. Nevertheless, I do not believe that Russia or the United States can afford a direct confrontation at this time; hence my forecast that the smoldering conflagration there will not erupt into World War III.

7. While all reasonable people are hoping for a genuine peace in Vietnam, I predict that the issue will not be resolved in 1967. Though the tide of battle is swinging in our favor, we may be forced to increase our commitment in order to retain this upper hand.

8. I predict, therefore, that military spending will be raised in 1967. This can help soften the impact of any easing in the private sector of the economy.

9. Turning now to domestic conditions, I foresee a definite deceleration in business activity in 1967. The fantastic boom is in need of a rest. Instead of the strong upturn of recent years, I look for a high level of industrial production early in the year; but unless some new stimulus is introduced, I fear that a cresting-over pattern is likely to develop as 1967 progresses.

10. I forecast a continuation of the tug of war between inflation and deflation in 1967.

Tight credit, and increased productive capacity resulting from the flood of business capital expenditures in recent years, are deflationary. However, I can see no substantial relief from the inflation in labor and other operating costs. In short, we can have "cost-push" inflation co-existing with deflation.

11. A key factor in the business and financial outlook for 1967 is taxes. With defense outlays climbing, I look for a rise in corporate and personal taxes in 1967. Moreover, I forecast that various levies at the state and local levels will continue to increase.

12. The tightening tax squeeze on all fronts will worsen as the year advances. And there will be rising complaints from both businessmen and employees that social security taxes are becoming unbearable.

13. Results of the recent elections indicate that the headlong run of the Great Society Program must take a breather along with the economy. Gains scored by the Republicans have altered the balance of power sufficiently to force a more sober look in public spending.

14. One of the primary reasons for expecting a deceleration in the economy is the likelihood that business capital expenditures may ease. Tight credit, suspension of accelerated depreciation guidelines, and suspension of the tax credit on business capital outlays will be tough obstacles to surmount.

15. Except in defense industries, I look for an abrupt switch during 1967 from a business policy of inventory accumulation to one of inventory liquidation.

16. I forecast that scarcity of credit will continue to be a problem with which business must contend in the early part of 1967. The money managers should keep enough credit available for legitimate business needs, but I expect no early radical easing of credit.

17. However, I do foresee enough of an easing in credit to permit more orderly monetary conditions. If the economic situation falters badly, money rates will, of course, move down sharply.

18. I predict that commercial and industrial building will trend lower in 1967, reflecting the tapering off in capital outlays.

19. Mortgage money should remain scarce in 1967. Hence, residential building should see another disappointing year.

20. 1967 opens with the building of single homes in a state of crisis. Starts are down over 40 percent from year-earlier levels. As a result, I forecast that the Administration will leave no stone unturned to stimulate construction of houses as soon as possible. At best, however, it may be midyear or after before this important part of our economy can contribute much strength to over-all business.

"Tarzan and the Valley of Gold"

Batman can step back. The Green Hornet can go. The Shadow can fade out. The original superman comes to the screen of the State Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday in American International's new action adventure "Tarzan and the Valley of Gold."

For almost half a century in more than 25 revivals, Tarzan has been the hero of adventure lovers and nothing can change that although dozens of different film stars have portrayed the character.

Now following in the footsteps of such jungle heroes as Buster Crabbe, Jock Mahoney and Johnny Weissmuller is former Los Angeles Rams football star Mike Henry who knows and understands the Tarzan character as well as any of his predecessors.

"Tarzan is the original superman," Mike says, "fighting for the rights of the underdog. He's a terror to all villains, whether man or beast. He has never gotten into politics and he ruled the jungle with a minimum of spoken words and a few well-thought yells, hence he's understood by all."

But the Tarzan of "Tarzan and the Valley of Gold" is no primitive man awed by modern weapons and unfamiliar with women. The new Tarzan, according to Producer Sy Weintraub, has learned plenty in the 48 years since Elmo Lincoln first played "Tarzan and the Apes."

"Frankenstein Conquers the World"

Masters of illusion whose daily work is making fancy into fact and making what seems impossible look true and realistic are filmdom's special effects men — truly modern miracle men!

Governor's Study Indicates Nothing Can Be Done About Food Prices

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Austin, Tex.—Grocery bills of Texans are increasing. And there isn't much anybody can do about it except shop more thrifly.

That's Gov. John Connally's conclusion after studying a special committee's report on food prices.

While the cost of market-basket items is going up faster here than for the nation as a whole, food still is a bargain, the committee advised.

Connally requested the study by representatives of the University of Texas, A. & M. University and Texas Technological College.

These conclusions highlighted the report: —Consumer food costs in Texas during the last two years jumped 10.5 percent, compared with 8.7 per cent for the nation. Retailers' market-basket costs rose 6.8 per cent here, compared with the U. S. average of 6.4 per cent.

—Today the average Texas family of four spends $1,134 a year for groceries. This is $108 more than two years ago. Nationwide food-basket cost rose $89, for a total expenditure of $1,116 a year.

—An overall price increase of 12.5 per cent for Texas farm products the past year (September to September) contributed to 71 per cent of the hike in retail food prices.

—Net profit levels of food retailers actually declined fractionally from 1.91 per cent of gross sales in 1964 to 1.63 per cent this year. Increased labor and equipment costs were cited as major contributing factors.

—Farm prices, which lagged for 17 years, began to move forward the last two years, and consumer demand exceeded the farm supplies.

—National growth and economic development, together with inflationary price rises in all items, were held basically responsible for the long-term upward trend in food prices.

Connally found no special legislation or executive action warranted. He pointed out that "A lot of food costs depend on the individual tastes of people and wise shopping on the part of the housewife."

$100 MILLION TAX BILL POSSIBLE
Governor Connally acknowledged the tax bill required to balance his spending recommendations to the Legislature next month might well range over $100,000,000.

In addition to his budget ($911,400,000 general revenue), the governor will recommend separate spending items, possibly including a teacher pay raise.

Connally and mayors were unable to get together on emergency aid for cities. Mayors want his backing of a one-percent local option sales tax.

Governor prefers a penny-a-gallon gasoline tax boost with three-fourths of the revenue (about $40,000,000 a year) earmarked for city street building, maintenance and policing purposes.

Mayors are not satisfied with the latter. They fear they would be required to argue each application for aid separately before the State Highway Commission.

CONNALLY BUDGET

More of the Governor's proposed budget for the 1968-69 biennium has been released.

Some recommendations are: —$51,000,000 more for the construction of interstate highways, state highways and farm-to-market roads. He suggested $1,073,535,894 for the total program for the two years, of which $749,948,061 would be for construction. (The Department asked $1,081,431,236 — only $7,895,342 more than Connally recommended. Current budget is $987,607,621.)

—Doubling the current appropriation for the General Land Office's supervision and regulation of exploration, leasing and development of state-owned land in Gulf of Mexico. (Currently, it is getting $75,000 and, if Connally's recommendation is adopted, it would get $150,000, as compared to the $200,000 requested.) —$2,800,000 for a tourist development project to help the Alabama-Coushatta Indians. The cost of the program would be split equally between state and federal governments.

INAUGURAL INVITATIONS OUT

Some 50,000 invitations to the governor's inauguration (Jan. 17) already have been sent by the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Chairman Will D. Davis reports that the bulky invitations, which cost 15 cents each for postage alone, already are in the mail. He points out, however, that written invitations are not necessary for admission to a reception at the capitol and at state agencies, to the high-noon inaugural ceremony or to the downtown parade. "Everyone's welcome!"

On the evening before the inauguration, the SDEC will hold a $25-a-plate Democratic victory dinner here. Tickets to the inaugural ball will be $10 a couple.

PRESS SECRETARY NAMED

William F. Carter, longtime public information officer for Texas Department of Public Safety, is the new press secretary to Governor Connally.

Carter, 47, succeeds George Christian, with whom he worked in the old International News Service Bureau at the state capitol.

Christian was recently named press secretary to President Johnson.

MARTIN PICKS AIDS

Atty. Gen.-elect Crawford C. Martin named two more aids who will take office with him next month. They are Austin attorneys Bill Wells, 31, and A. J. Carubbi, Jr., 34.

Wells will be Martin's administrative assistant and Carubbi his legal staff assistant. Carubbi formerly lived in Pampa. Wells is from Houston.

ACTIVE TRAINING CERTAIN

Those 3,400 Texas National Guardsmen who haven't undergone their six months of active training will do so after Christmas.

May. Gen. Thomas S. Bishop of the Texas National Guard said the intensive training program is necessary because for the past year there have been no vacancies in training centers in which to place the Guardsmen.

"The Defense Department then programmed 60,000 men during the months of January, February, March and April into which all guardsmen nationwide would be given their basic training," Bishop said.

Texas sent only 57 into basic training in December, but 826 will be sent in January.

"A man who goes for six months now will return and serve his 5 1/2 years of ready reserve with his own Guard unit," Bishop said. "If the unit is called to active duty, though, he will have to go with it."

Unwillingness of Parker County to underwrite maintenance expense for the Kickapoo Watershed Project has no bearing on the legal capacity of Erath, Hood and Palo Pinto counties to contribute to district flood control and drainage facilities.

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr held Carr asked Dept. of Public Safety Director Homer Garrison Jr. to arrange lie detector test for cancer-stricken Jack Ruby—if his condition permits reliable results. This Ruby repeatedly has requested to prove he was not part of any conspiracy in the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald.

The American fruit pie has a long history, according to Mrs. Juanita O'Connor, Home Demonstration Agent.

Early Romans filled their pies with pheasant, peacock or wild boar. Europeans filled their pies with meat, too.

We sometimes use the term today, "eating humble pie." The original meaning of the phrase was a small pie made of the less appealing cuts of meat and served to the lowly members of the household. The master, his guests and those of higher rank were served pies filled with the choice meat cuts.

When European pie recipes were brought to America by the colonists, they were soon adapted to the local produce. Wild fruits and berries became popular fillings for pies. Since apple pie dates from the early days of American colonization, the old saying "as American as apple pie" is right.

Pies are popular desserts all year round, but some pies are seasonal. Pumpkin, mince and sweet potato pies are fall and winter favorites, while fresh fruit and chiffon pies are more in keeping with summer menus.

Desserts are a part of the meal and should be considered in the number of calories and amount of food value. The sweet and rich pies go best with a light main dish.

Black-eye peas must pass a "swimming test" before they come to your table as "Grade A, Fancy"—the top grade of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture for these legumes.

For the New Year's "good luck trade," thousands of pounds of black eyes are frozen or canned every year—a big industry in many parts of the South.

To meet the standards of the top U. S. -A grade, the hard, over mature peas have to be eliminated, so they pass through a rotary screen grader that sizes black eye peas according to young, mature or old.

However, some shriveled up old peas get in with the immature peas. To get them out, scientists put the peas into a 3 percent brine solution. And so then comes the swimming test. The immature peas float while the old ones sink and are discarded.

This grading service, performed by the Consumer and Marketing Service, is voluntary and paid for by the processor. It is becoming increasingly popular as more people find out that black eye peas are more than just a "good luck" dish.

They're a real delicacy. You may discount folklore, but who is going to risk his good luck in 1967 without eating generous helpings of black eye peas on New Year's day?

To make your black-eye peas as potent as possible, with luck, be sure to cook them with a hog jowl. If you can't find this item, then use salt pork. What flavor pork imparts—if not luck.

There are the purists who insist that the black-eye peas must be cooked in a black pot, the kind that once hung over the flames in the fireplace.

These black pots have become quite the vogue, coming to the table just as they are, steaming hot — an interesting conversation piece.

If you select frozen or canned black eye peas, follow the directions on the label for cooking. If you prepare dried black-eye peas, wash them and then cover with water to soak overnight. Or you can soak them in luke warm water for 5 or 6 hours.

In any case, this soaking is necessary to restore moisture to the peas, so that they will have the right texture and a true flavor.

When you are ready to cook them, add 1 teaspoon salt to 2 cups of dried peas. Boil gently for about 3 hours, then add garlic powder, onion or dried red chili as you prefer. Some cooks add canned tomatoes or catsup.

What happens if the peas boil dry? Add just enough water to cover them.

Many southern cooks prepare large pots of peas so that they

Airman Johnson Selected For Technical Training

Airman Larry L. Johnson, son of A. D. Johnson of Wingate, has been selected for technical training at Keesler AFB, Miss., as a U. S. Air Force communications-electronics specialist.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base. His new school is part of the Air Training Command which conducts hundreds of specialized courses to provide technically trained personnel for the nation's aerospace force.

Airman Johnson is a 1962 graduate of Winsboro High School. His wife is the former Charlotte Osbourn of DeBerry, Tex. His mother, Mrs. Grace M. Johnson, lives at Winsboro, Texas.

can prepare another delicacy for Jan. 2 black eye pea sausage. Here's the USDA recipe: mash 3 cups of cooked peas. Mix well with bread crumbs, 1 beaten egg, 1 teaspoon of sage, salt & pepper to taste. Moisten with milk or pea liquid. Shape into sausage, dip in raw egg beaten with a little water. Then roll in bread crumbs. Brown in melted fat. This is a good main-dish.

A 25th Anniversary Salute to the 500,000 star-spangled Americans who work for this country's security without pay

The U. S. Treasury Department sells about $4 1/2 billion worth of Savings Bonds every year.

Yet no one ever tries to sell you Bonds on the phone. Though you rarely see them, there are about 1/2 million patriotic Americans who will help you buy Bonds. Have been, since the first Series E Savings Bond was issued 25 years ago.

Your banker, for instance. He'll give you folders and facts, issue your Bonds, make certain they're properly registered, cash them when the time comes.

Your employer and thousands of other employers who have set up the Payroll Savings Plan are also on the team. So are the officials of your union who have endorsed Bonds.

There are many others. Like your neighbor, the advertising man, and the radio, TV, poster, magazine and newspaper people he works with.

All of these volunteers work for the Bond program without pay. You can do your part, too. Buy U. S. Savings Bonds.

Holiday Mail In Winters Up From 1965

Mail flowing through the Winters Post Office during the 1966 Christmas season, according to Postmaster Rankin Pace, surpassed that handled during the same period in 1965 and above the average for recent previous years.

Also, even in the face of the heavier load dispatching of mail and handling of incoming mail went smoother than in any previous year, the postmaster said. He said that the local post office experienced no difficult jams at any time during the rush period, and that less overtime was expended in handling the peak loads than in previous seasons. Pace laid the smoothness and efficient handling of the record mails to the hard work, cooperation and devotion to duty of the postal employees in the Winters post office, and the cooperation of the public in mailing early.

The real Christmas rush season was considered to be from December 8 to December 22, the postmaster said, with December 19 being the biggest day. On that day, Pace said, 600 sacks of parcel post was dispatched from the Winters office, and from 800 to 900 sacks of parcel post received.

December 19 and 20 were the big days for letter mail, with about 12,000 letters dispatched on each of these two days and about 20,000 received on each day.

Postmaster Pace also said that indications are that dollar business volume for the last quarter of 1966, which will include the Christmas season, will be up about two percent over the previous year.

Handling the mail in the Winters post office are the postmaster, assistant postmaster, four rural route carriers, three city carriers and substitutes, four office clerks, and one building custodian.

The Winters office also is responsible for the Bradshaw post office, now a rural station with a contract clerk. The local office also handles dispatch for the Hatchel post office.

HOPING 1967 BRINGS PEACE
Buford Owens

PC Volunteer--

(Continued from page 1) (15,520 ft.) right at the foot of Kibo Peak. Not far from camp we passed a spring still covered with ice which was our last chance for drinking water. The porters would have to bring water and fire wood for use at the last hut.

We circled around Mawenzi and suddenly from atop a hill we saw the saddle, a barren, boulder strewn plain between the two peaks. It was eerie, like something from the moon. Kibo Hut could be seen across the saddle but it was still several miles away. Kibo Peak was hidden in clouds which occasionally parted to reveal our snow-capped goal.

The trip across the saddle was one of the most exasperating. The change in altitude was now affecting us. We had to stop and rest every 100 yards. When we reached the hut we went right to sleep and only woke up for dinner—soup and stew. Here above the timber line it was freezing and desolate and we were only too glad to go to bed early.

At 2 a. m. on August 8th our head guide awoke us for the final assault. Tea and soup warmed us but even our load of clothing couldn't shut out the cold for long. I wore three pairs of socks, boots, three pairs of pants, a T shirt, a shirt, a wool jacket, an all-weather coat, two pairs of gloves, a woolen head mask, a hat, a neck scarf, and special goggles. Needless to say, it was difficult to walk.

The climb started slowly with everyone complaining of freezing feet or hands. It was still but the temperature must have been around 10 degrees. Before long, we began to have people turning back. At the half-way point cave, only 6 of the 11 were still attempting the climb. After we left the cave the sun broke over a sea of clouds and we could see Mawenzi across the saddle and Kibo Hut seemingly directly below us.

It soon became warmer but the altitude was exhausting our energies. From the cave on we had to take zig-zag trails much like roads going up steep mountains. This mountain side is covered in gravel and it is hard to climb on as it constantly shifts. Before long, we were taking 10 minute breaks every 50 feet. We began to doubt that any of us would make it. The four men in the lead became separated and I saw the head guide and a PCV from Malawi pass me and disappear behind some boulders. After a lengthy rest, I was the second person to reach the summit and was I happy!!! I felt certain that it would be another mile higher and I would not make it. Two other Volunteers joined us and we wrote our names in a book at Gillman's Point (18,635 ft.) which is recognized as the top.

Although it was summer and some of the ice cap had melted, the crater was full of weird, beautiful ice formations. We spent much time taking photos. Then came the moment I had waited for. I planted the Lone Star flag and the Seal of The University of Texas atop Africa's highest mountain. Mission accomplished!

On the way down we passed a woman from our group who was continuing the climb. She was the fifth person in our group to reach the top. The trip down took only about an hour vs. 7-12 hrs. up because we could descend straight without following the zig-zag path. Also, oxygen became more plentiful lower down and my energy picked up. At Kibo Hut we rested for a couple of hours then we walked to Horombo Hut for the night. The next day we completed the 20 mile trip to the hotel.

What are the rewards for such efforts? After lunch at Mandara Hut on the way down our guides made wreaths of everlasting flowers from Kilimanjaro for those who had succeeded in reaching the summit. And besides that, I gained the distinction of having climbed Africa's highest mountain. How many other Kilimanjaro climbers do you know?

LaRoss Sheppard "Paints" Word Pictures of School

LaRoss Sheppard of Winters spends much of her out-of-class time helping paint pictures of Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos. Miss Sheppard isn't an art major. She doesn't even paint as a hobby. Like eight other students she makes use of journalism training to draw verbal scenes of campus life.

As editor of the Pedagog, the SWT yearbook, she is charged with the partly serious, partly sentimental recording of the college year in photographs and sentences. Along with the business manager she makes it possible for students to dust off the Pedagog "picturebook" and relive their campus whirl many years after they leave their alma mater.

A senior majoring in English and journalism, Miss Sheppard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hancock of Winters. She is a member of Delta Zeta social sorority and has served as publicist of that group, in Sigma Tau Delta English fraternity and Alpha Chi scholastic fraternity. She has served as editor of Dimension and is in the Press Club.

Presentation of Life Membership In Wesleyan Guild

On Sunday evening, December 18, Mary McKiel was presented a Life Membership in the Wesleyan Service Guild. The presentation was made by Reverend Edward Otwell, pastor of the Winters Methodist Church and Mrs. Sam Jones, President of the Winters Wesleyan Service Guild. The Life Membership was made possible by the Wesleyan Memorial Methodist Church of Cleburne. Mrs. McKiel lived in Cleburne for many years where she worked with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, and attended the Anglin Street Methodist Church (now the Wesley Memorial Church). While there, she was an active member in the Wesleyan Service Guild. Twelve years ago she moved to Winters.

In a letter from Mrs. Mabel Gregory of Cleburne, she stated that the Life Membership was being given to Mrs. McKiel because of "her great love for Christ and His Church, her many years of service to the Guild, to the Church, and to others, and because of her great love and devotion to God's work, we give her this membership."

BELL'S CASHWAY GROCERY EXPIRES SATURDAY, JAN. 7TH

Babson Predicts-

21. Although new housing starts may remain in the doldrums for most of 1967, I confidently forecast that the year will see the beginning of a great boom in the construction of new, modern nursing homes.

22. Despite President Johnson's request for cutbacks, public construction should enjoy a fairly good year; the emphasis will be on bridges, dams, and water and sewer systems.

23. The expected declines in residential building and in commercial and industrial building notwithstanding, I forecast that waterfront property will remain a good inflation hedge.

24. Labor stands at the crossroads as the new year opens. Things never looked better for peeling down record wage and fringe gains; however, neither the public nor the Congress is in any mood to tolerate long, costly, and inconvenient shutdowns. I freely predict that there is more likelihood in 1967 of restrictive labor legislation than at any time since Taft-Hartley was put on the books. Union chiefs are aware of this, and they may act with more strike restraint than most people now expect.

25. 1967 promises to be a year in which many managements will be fighting a "rearguard" action to control climbing labor costs. The defense buildup will maintain hiring pressure in some industries; but ever more activities will be wielding the paring knife. I forecast that the net result will be a rise in unemployment next year.

26. I do not look for price and wage controls in 1967, unless our defense expenditures rise far above what is now contemplated.

27. An encouraging aspect of the 1967 outlook is the affluence of consumers. I forecast a further upward trend in personal incomes, due to higher wage rates. However, if taxes are raised, take-home pay may not show a rise commensurate with the gain in gross pay.

28. Retail trade held up well in 1966, but there was a note of lethargy throughout the year. The pattern is not expected to show much change in 1967, with gains in dollar volume largely reflecting price inflation. Though consumers will have more money to spend, tight credit, high borrowing costs, and higher price levels could cause some tightening of purse strings. 29. Spending for food, apparel, and general merchandise should be greater in 1967. Also, consumers will devote a goodly portion of their spending budget for leisure activities, vacation, and travel.

30. Durable goods may not fare so well. Demand for home appliances, color TV sets, and furniture may be hampered by tight credit and high borrowing costs, plus the lethargy in new home building.

31. I forecast a decline in new auto sales. However, with the increase in the population of driving age, and with the record rate of personal income, new car sales could hold within 10 percent of 1966's.

32. Soaring living costs will hit the headlines more often in 1967. Ire will be directed most strongly at runaway service expenses—especially medical—and at advancing red meat prices.

33. Despite new highs in the cost of living, I predict there will be many signs of deflation in the midst of inflation. Chief among these will be sliding profits, rising bankruptcies and foreclosures.

34. Industrial commodity prices should be firm to slightly higher. Selective price markups will be necessary to offset wage hikes.

35. Profits began to wobble in the final half of 1966. I am convinced that hesitancy will give way to decline during the year ahead. Big squeeze on margins will come from soaring costs, especially labor.

36. But profits results will also vary widely from one company and one industry to another, as sales volumes sag, hold, or advance. For example, I am willing to "stick my neck out" and say that oil companies will enjoy a sales rise, but that the auto makers will be struggling with a volume slump all year.

37. The combination of less vigorous business, pinched profit margins and stringent credit conditions points to an increase in business failures, shaking out the financially weak and inefficient.

38. Collections may be more difficult in 1967 on business accounts, consumer installment and mortgage debt. I forecast a further rise in nonfarm real estate foreclosures.

39. Barring crop failures, I forecast another good farm production year. Farm prices should rule firm to slightly higher in 1967, but higher costs may result in a slight drop in net realized farm income.

40. Nevertheless, farm equipment manufacturers should enjoy good business sales of fertilizers and insecticides should post gains.

41. 1967's stock market promises to be one of vicious selectivity. I am expecting the old aristocracy of the blue chips based on past performance to be replaced by a new aristocracy of super-able management based upon hopes of good future performance.

42. I forecast, however, that 1967 will still hold many dangers for the speculator. I urge readers not to borrow money to buy stocks, and I urge investors to buy for growth and basic investment values.

43. The safest kind of long-term bonds are available now at prices affording very close to the highest income returns of the century. It is a good bet that there will not be so many top-grade issues on the bargain counter at the end of 1967. Should the 90th Congress boost income taxes, tax-exempt bonds will put on the best performance.

44. World opinion on the future price of gold has blown hot and cold many times in recent years. Though lately in the shade, I predict that gold will again be in the spotlight before 1967 is out.

45. I forecast that the dollar will not be devalued in 1967, but the pound will continue shaky.

46. Certainly, Congress will become more and more critical of the looting going on under cover of the Administration's War on Poverty. The whole program will be subjected to tighter supervision.

47. As 1967 wears along, the high hopes for more constructive conservative action by the 90th Congress will give way to increased doubts as a legislative stalemate develops. Republicans will have enough strength to stop the most liberal Administration bills, but not enough to launch a program of their own.

48. There will be a lot of talk in 1967 about the economy's "still growing". But I warn readers to examine carefully the advance in Gross National Product which I am forecasting here. Biggest part of the increase will come from higher prices and wages.

49. I foresee that a breathing spell in the economy can prove helpful. The prolonged prosperity has bred waste, laxness, and inefficiency. These can be corrected only by a return to fundamentals. Just as the human body requires adequate rest in order to enjoy proper health, so too the economy, and the stock market as well, must undergo periodic resting phases.

50. As the economy cools off in 1967, readers should beware of reassurances that our problems are only temporary and will soon be followed by a decade of boom conditions. The promised land may be only across the river, but it is always wise to test the depth of the water before wading in. That is behind my forecast that 1967 will be a good year for business men and investors to have strong confidence for the future, but to proceed with caution and restraint until the uncertainties just ahead have been resolved.
