HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

April 1-7 is Texas Industrial Week . . . so proclaimed by Governor John Connally and to be duly noted by busy Texas industrialists, individually and through their organization, Texas Manufacturers Association.

Texas Industrial expansion reached an all-time high in 1966 and is expected to break the record again in 1967. An estimated 618,300 persons were working in the state's manufacturing plants on Dec. 31, 1966, representing a 6 percent gain over a year before, according to the Texas Employment Commission. Value added by manufacturers and employment in factories was a record $8.5 billion in 1966 and the figure is forecast by the U. S. Department of Commerce to reach $10.1 billion this year.

Gov. Connally in proclaiming Texas Industrial Week April 1-7, said, "In the years ahead, Texas industry will be required to create a far greater number of job opportunities for the young adults of our state. It is in the interest of every Texan to provide a favorable atmosphere in which new and established industry can expand to create job opportunities."

Industry and the productive workers of our State contribute to the material well being of all Texans. As shareholders in Texas industrial progress, Texans should recognize the material benefits of an expanding industrial development which is made possible by Texas industry and the productive workers of our State.

The foregoing is talking about the State of Texas as a whole, and the important place industrial presence, and future growth and development occupies.

But let's talk about the local angle . . . because it is all the "local" angles which combine to complete the state-wide industrial picture.

No figures are presently available on the number of persons working in Winters' several industries; nor are figures available on the amount of cash involved monthly or annually. But we can be sure that they are of such number and of such amounts as to be an important part of the state's total . . . a very important part, indeed.

If there is a question in any mind, it can be resolved instantly by talking to most any person in Winters . . . the food market operators, the department store operators, the hardware store owners, the druggist, the appliance dealers, the service station operators—the list would be impossible to compile.

Winters has been peculiarly blessed . . . having been chosen as a seat of operations by various and several industrial enterprises. And the impact they make on the economy of this community is of such magnitude.

Election Saturday For School Board

Two vacancies on the board of trustees of the Winters Independent School District will be filled at the school board election Saturday, April 1, and only two candidates are on the ballot for the offices.

Raymon Lloyd, incumbent member of the school board, and Willis Davis are the only candidates in this year's school Absentee voting in the school election ended Tuesday, March 28. Only one absentee ballot was cast, according to Johnny B. Smith, school business manager.

Audra L. Mitchell is the other member of the school board, and is completing 12 consecutive years of service as a school trustee. He is not a candidate for reelection.

Other members of the school board, and years in which their terms of office expire, are:

John W. Norman, 1969 (board president); Dr. C. T. Rives, 1969; M. E. Mathis, 1969; Jake Presley, 1968; and J. W. Bahlman 1968.

Gen. Davey Jones To Head Air Force East Test Range

Major General David M. Jones has been assigned as commander of the Air Force Eastern Test Range, and will move to Florida, it has been announced.

Gen. Jones has been deputy associate administrator for manned space flight programs at NASA headquarters in Washington since 1964.

The Air Force announced Gen. Jones' new assignment last week, but effective dates of transfer are unknown at present. Sources indicated the change may take place in July.

Gen. Jones will be responsible for all the military and civilian personnel and bases from Cape Kennedy to South Africa, including 29,000 personnel.

In addition to supporting manned space flight, ETR supports the Navy's Polaris program and its own Minuteman program with research and development flights.

Gen. Jones served as deputy chief of staff for systems at AFSC headquarters before joining the civilian space agency on a temporary basis. He was a member of the Doolittle Raiders in World War II, and calls Winters home. He and his wife, the former Anita Maddox of Winters, have three children, Mrs. Dennis (Jere) Yeager of New York City; David W. Jr., 20, a student at Texas Tech; and James M., 16, a high school sophomore.

Mrs. Jones' mother, Mrs. Roy C. Maddox of Winters, recently flew to Alexandria, Va., to visit her daughter and family.

PC Volunteer Sticks In River, Too Close To Zebras, Runs Out of Gas

BY BILL PUMPHREY

Africa's greatest treasure is its wild game. No other continent boasts such large numbers or varieties of animals. Although the major game parks are several hundred miles away, there are game reserves in nearly every part of the country. Our nearest reserve is Lake Rukwa, 45 miles away. Not long ago, we visited there.

The Land Rover arrived late at our school and we reached Mbeya just in time to buy a few supplies before the stores closed. We picked up another Volunteer and set off on our safari. We travelled what seemed hundreds of miles that night and slept in the Land Rover when the driver became tired. All that night we thought we heard lions growl, elephants trumpet and monkeys chatter.

The next morning though we discovered ourselves only a few hundred yards from a small village and cattle were the only animals in sight.

We continued down the road which had such fine dirt that we frequently had to use four-wheel drive to keep from getting stuck. We passed many villages and much interesting country. At last, after stopping at a White Fathers' mission for instructions, we found our trail leading up to the banks of a river which was about 150 yards wide and looked most forbidding.

The river looked like all the ones you see in African films and I almost would rather have taken a canoe than the Land Rover across such a dangerous-looking passage. Vehicle tracks led down to the water and on the other side, however, so we decided to take the plunge.

The hood and fan belt were removed and we three Volunteers rode in the luggage rack on top. We made it across the first half to a small island in the middle, then on the second half, to our horror, the Land Rover bogged down in the mud. There we were in the middle of a river with water swirling around us! The driver got out and attempted to dig us out. We were afraid to get in the water lest we get bilharzia, a tropical disease which destroys the stomach. When all else failed, we hired 10 men, who had been watching us from the shore, to help us out. At 2 shillings a head (28-cents) they were able to get us out.

A sign near the river warned against hunting so we knew we had reached the reserve at last. The missionaries had suggested a game scout whom we found at a village near the river.

Our first game was a herd of wildebeeste. We would never have found them but the scout discovered them immediately. They were behind some dead trees. We stopped and got down to walk near them to get close-

City Election Is Set For Tuesday

Only one race looms in the City election which will be held next Tuesday, April 4, with two candidates seeking the office of Mayor of the City of Winters.

Wade White, incumbent alderman, is a candidate for Mayor of Winters, and Harvey D. Jones is a candidate for the office.

There are only two candidates for the two vacancies on the City Council. E. E. Vaughan and Nelan Bahlman are seeking election as alderman, and have no opposition.

City election will be held in the fire station at the City Hall, with polls opening at 7 a. m. and closing at 7 p. m. Hans Gerhart will be election judge, and will be assisted by Mrs. Grover Davis, Mrs. Elzie Cox and Mrs. Jack Harrison.

Wade White, a candidate for mayor, is completing a term as alderman, and is a farmer-stockman and businessman. Harvey Jones, the other candidate for the office of mayor, is a former mayor and is manager of Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Co.

E. E. Vaughan operates Vaughan Oil Distributing Co. in Winters, and Nelan Bahlman operates Bahlman Cleaners.

City Far From "Busted"

Quarterly Financial Report Shows City of Winters' Condition Good

At the end of each fiscal quarter, Winters' mayor submits to the City Council, an interim financial statement which contains a complete picture of the fiscal posture of the City. The report is broken down for each of the several separate departments and funds, and lists bank balances for each fund and the amount of money from each fund which has been invested in interest-bearing securities.

(The City's fiscal year begins October 1.)

The mid-year report for the second quarter, with financial condition as of March 27, indicates that the City of Winters is in good shape, money-wise, with all current obligations being met as they come due and provisions made to meet known and estimated obligations as they come due, and to finance projects which were included in the budget for the year.

As of March 27, 1967, the mayor's report shows, there was a total of $448,736, in the bank balances and in certificates of deposit and government securities credited to each fund.

Of this total, the bank balance showed $119,429.29 for all funds, with $329,307.49 invested and drawing interest of from 2.76 percent to 4.1-2 percent. (Government bonds in the amount of $5,000 are drawing 2.76 percent interest, with some U. S. Treasury bonds in the amount of $35,000 drawing 4.1-2 percent. 90-day certificates of deposit, totaling $286,307.49, draw 4 percent interest.)

Mayor W. M. Hays said that current operating funds for all departments are included in the bank balance statement; operating funds which will be needed for the next fiscal quarter have been invested in certificates of deposit. In the general fund, for example, and in the tax fund, receipts are higher for certain periods of the year than for other periods, so amounts estimated to be needed during the current 90 days are held in bank balances for operating, with the remainder invested.

All known obligations, such as the light plant payments, waterworks payments, and tax bond payments, are anticipated and investments made to mature at the times the money will be needed, it was explained.

A large amount of the money shown in the bank balance statement as of March 27 will be withdrawn and invested in certificates of deposits, it was stated.

The statement as of March 27 showed the bank balance of the General Fund to be $28,952.75, the largest fund in this category. Next highest was the Tax Bond Sinking Fund, with $20,011.41.

Of the total $329,307.49 invested, the largest amount was for the Light Plant Sinking Fund, totaling $86,500, to meet obligations as they come up. There also is a total of $26,000 in certificates of deposit for the Light Plant Investment Fund. The Tax Bond Sinking Fund has $22,000 in investments. Most all active funds in the City's financial structure have monies invested.

Mayor Hays said the present fiscal condition of the City of Winters is one of the healthiest ever noted, and credited this condition to the economy-mindedness and cooperation of the City's department heads and employees, and to the City Council.

Fabrics Reflect Culture:

Fabrics from far-away places echo history and reflect the culture of their native lands. The environmental influences, the climate, and terrain are often portrayed in the designs of the fabric.

Paisley comes from Ancient Persia via India and is named after a small town in Scotland where Indian shawls were beautifully copied in the 19th century. Its characteristic motif is a highly stylized mango, though some insist it is copied after the pine cone.

Batik is a Japanese word meaning "wax painting." Designs and colors indicate the part of the country from which it comes and are based on objects in nature. Wax is applied with a pencil-like funnel to the areas where color is not desired. As the wax cools, tiny cracks occur, permitting the dye to make fine criss-cross lines of color. The wax is removed while the dyes are set by immersing the cloth in boiling water.

The beautiful islands of Hawaii influence fabric designs reflect the blue of the sky and sea and the colors of their native flowers. The use of these designs reflect the many-cultured population which includes Chinese, Japanese, Polynesian, Phillipians, Europeans and Americans.

The sun-drenched colors of Mexico come to life in colorful striped fabrics. The homespun appearance of the weave is reminiscent of the early looms and peasant handwork.

Clunylace was perfected by monks in the Abbey of Cluny in France. The bobbin lace is made of linen and cotton thread, characterized by wheat or wheel designs on a coarse mesh. Today the lace is machine made, but it retains its distinctive quality.

African prints sport geometric patterns found in tribal robes throughout the continent. The highly woven intricate borders, some think, are historical records woven into the design. As in primitive design everywhere, great attention is paid to detail. Here the environmental hues of soil and foliage influence color selection and motif.

Paint:

The common paint problems of wrinkling, cracking, chalking, blistering, peeling, and mildewing can be reduced to a minimum if a few simple precautions are taken. Wrinkling occurs when the paint is applied too thickly, especially in hot weather, or when too much oil has been used in mixing the paint, or when the paint is applied at too low a temperature. To correct this problem, sand the wrinkled surface smooth and apply another, thinner, coat of paint at a temperature above 40 degrees.

Cross grain cracking occurs when paint is applied too frequently and is allowed to build up an excessively thick, brittle coat. To stop the cracking, remove all the old paint down to the bare wood and repaint. If a coat of paint is allowed to weather for a normal length of nitide that without them the picture would not be nearly so bright.

In recognizing the important place Winters' industries occupy in this community, it is also most important to recognize that these industries do not attempt, as happens in many areas, to set themselves apart or ask to be set apart from the rest of the community. They are part of the community and the community is a part of them. Therefore, it would be most difficult to melodize a "Winters Salutes Its Industries!" slogan. They are too busy to begin saluting themselves.

Because of their nature, a good slogan for these combined and expanding industries could be, "Home Grown, and Still Growing."

Okay... so let's all get back to work—we'll probably be expanding again next week!

time before applying another coat, the removal of the old paint was improperly applied. To correct chalking, remove all the chalk and apply two coats of quality paint.

Blistering and peeling are caused by excessive moisture back of the paint film, moisture on the interior, or by the entrance of outside water. The amount of moisture may be reduced by proper ventilation and proper caulking and construction to prevent the entrance of water. Water repellents and blister-resistant paints may be used successfully.

Mildew usually occurs on painted surfaces where continuous warm and damp conditions prevail. Many paints contain a mildew inhibitor such as mildewcide or fungicide, and they should be used in places where mildew might occur.

As It Looks From Here

Omar Burleson, M. C.
17th District, Texas

In the days just ahead there will be news from Austin about the efforts of the Texas Legislature to change lines of present State Legislative and Congressional Districts.

Whatever is done in the re-shuffling of Congressional District lines, will never please anyone completely. The Legislature will do the best it can, and it has a tremendously difficult job.

The Federal Court in Houston retained jurisdiction over this matter when the Legislature re-districted two years ago, and now demands that the job be completed to meet the Supreme Court's decision on "One Man-One Vote."

Two years ago the State Legislature acted responsibly and met the requirement in the best possible way. They came as near to establishing Congressional Districts to provide equal population as was possible at the time. Of course, exact quality is an absolute impossibility, and the more nearly the Legislature approaches the requirement of the Court, the less community of interest there can be in a Congressional District. Presently, there are some ill arrangements, such as A&M at College Station being in the same District with T.C.U. in Ft. Worth, but, again, it was the best measure the State Legislature could pass. When the Legislature acts again, there likely will be even more conflicts, but unless they do, there is a danger of the 23 Members of Congress from Texas running at large. Obviously, this would be chaotic.

At present, our 17th Congressional District is approximately 9.5 percent under the average of 417,000. Other Districts are approximately 11 percent overpopulated, which makes a spread of a little more than 20 percent. It is assumed that the Federal Courts will demand a more even apportionment.

On the other hand, the court has refused to indicate to the Legislature just what it expects in this regard. It gives no guidelines other than to say that Districts must contain the same population. Matters are further confused by suggesting that instead of using the official 1960 Decennial Census, which it seems is clearly contemplated by the Constitution of the United States, the Legislature may determine the number of people in a District by using any official or unofficial population figures. This indicates that the Legislature must reapportion all representative Districts, both State and Federal, every two years and come up with equal population in each District.

The success of representative Government depends heavily on the contacts between the people and their Representative. Unless they know each other there can be no true and meaningful representation. If a County or a part of a County is shifted every two years from one District to another, it becomes completely impossible for the people to get to know the man who represents them as they should and for their Representative to know their problems, as it is his duty to do. The result is not better Government, but less effective representation.

The Supreme Court has indicated that not only must State Senatorial and State Representative and Congressional Districts be equal on the theory of "One Man-One Vote," but has now indicated that at every level of government, probably to include school districts, every District and Precinct must have an equal number of people.

The theory of such Representative Government is perfectly good, but as a practical matter, to be exact is impossible.

There is no question that this test should be met to the greatest practical degree, but the demands of the Federal Courts show how unrealistic things become when the Courts attempt to pass upon political matters.

In such a system as we have, if people and their local governments are left to their own devices, they will work out these problems in the most practical way. Theory is one thing, but workable solutions are another.

Community of interest in Legislative Districts should be maintained. Grapes, bananas and onions do not mix very well with apples, when we only want apples.

LBJ gave the governors a sales pitch on "creative federalism" that might increase federal aid four fold. The only cost to the states would be the elimination of states' rights.

Community Youth Choir Meeting Times Changed

A new meeting time has been announced for the recently organized Community Youth Choir.

The choir will meet for practice at the First Methodist Church at 6:45 each Tuesday. The first meetings were started at 7:30, but because of the late time of dismissal, the decision was made to meet earlier in the evening.

Eddie Humphries of Abilene is directing the choir, and the parents of the young people in the group are assisting.

At the second meeting of the choir Tuesday of this week, there were 77 present.

Even though there is no charge for joining the choir, it has been asked that children bring five cents each to the next meeting, to be used to purchase drinking cups.

The group sponsoring the Community Youth Choir have said that there is a need for "at least ten mothers to be present at each meeting" to assist in the program.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, April 4, with the following mothers helping: Mesdames Joe Stevens, Ellis Moore, Hubert Crenshaw, R. J. Bauer, J. D. Hyatt, Tommy Rougas and C. L. Winton.

Diversity Club Makes Tour Local Historical Sites

The Diversity Club met Thursday, March 23, at 3:30 in the home of Mrs. Paul Cozby. The hostess served delicious sandwiches, olives, assorted nuts and coffee to the members and guests. A short business meeting was held, after which the members and guests made a tour of local historic markers and monuments arranged by Mrs. Roy L. Crawford.

Lexie Dean Robertson, one time poet laureate of Texas, once said, "I am the land of peace and happiness and sky lines. I am the land of glowing sunsets and golden memories. I am Texas."

Rankin Pace, chairman of the Runnels County Historical Survey Committee, was the lecturer at each place visited. The first stop was the Blue Gap Postoffice, the first in Runnels County established February 14, 1878. It is 16 miles northeast of Winters and predated the organization of Runnels County by two years. The one room log cabin was built with cedar rafters, roughly hewn log walls neatly joined at the corners, and chinked with pine fillers, lime and sand.

It was restored by the Runnels County Historical Survey Committee, sponsored by Mr. Rankin Pace, postmaster at Winters. A State Historical medallion was placed on it in 1963.

The next stop was at the site of the old town of Content, two miles north of Blue Gap, and founded in 1881 by Daniel W. Hale who built a store. The postoffice was moved there. The town was named for the contentment of the valley. Michael Bright, 1882 settler and early county commissioner, had a store at the site. The town was renamed Token and was bypassed by the railroad in 1909. The postoffice was discontinued in 1916.

A historical marker was placed at the site in July, 1966, sponsored by Misses Sheila and Frances Allen of Fort Worth.

The third and last stop was at the lone grave of Alex Simmons by the side of Farm Road 382 between Lawn and Ballinger. He was a veteran in the Confederate army in the Civil War and died in 1901.

This concluded the tour. Club members going were Mesdames Roy L. Crawford, James Glenn, George Garrett, Sam Jones, C. R. Kendrick, Clarence Ledbetter, M. E. Leeman, John Q. McAdams, Earl Roach, J. E. Smith and Paul Cozby. Members of the County Survey Committee were Mr. and Mrs. Rankin Pace, Mrs. George Poe and Mrs. Lloyd Robertson. Other guests making the tour were Rev. Roy L. Crawford, Mrs. T. H. Worthington and Mrs. Robert Briley.

Basic color of a zebra is white; his stripes are black.

PC Volunteer--

tried to get near to them. We both found ourselves much nearer than we cared to be and beat a hasty retreat with visions of being trampled by stampeding zebras flashing through our minds. I think I could have gotten close enough to pet one but it's just as well that I didn't as they are related to the donkey family and bite quite viciously.

The rest of the day we rode on top of the Land Rover and saw antelopes, warthogs, zebras, impala, bushbuck, and lesser game. We failed to see the spotted zebra, however, and the elephants had gone to the river to cool off. The giraffes were many miles away at the other end of the reserve. For exciting moments we almost drove into a swamp once and we thought we had driven over a land mine when we routed a family of warthogs which took off like lightning through the tall grass.

On the way back to Mbeya we ran out of gasoline twice and had to spend another freezing night in the Land Rover. We hope to go back though and see the spotted zebra and elephants before we leave.

Tennis Courts At City Park Being Completed

Paving work will be completed this week on the new tennis courts at the City Park, it was announced this week.

It is expected that posts and nets will be installed within the next few days.

The new courts, a part of the City Park system, are located just east of the municipal swimming pool, and will be open to the public without charge.

The city administration announced that the two new courts will be available for use by the schools, to take care of overflow on the school courts.

Surface of the new courts are of a hot asphalt-rock mixture which is recommended for tennis courts.

Mrs. M. L. Dobbins Hosted Meeting of Nan Wright Circle

Nan Wright Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service met Tuesday morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Dobbins.

Mrs. Dobbins, chairman of the circle, presided and Mrs. Ed Ottwell led the opening prayer.

Mrs. H. O. Abbott was the program leader on "Spiritual Uplift" taken from the Methodist Woman. Mrs. E. W. Bridwell gave different versions of several poems.

Meditation was given by Mrs. Elmo Mayhew, taking her scripture from Phil. 4:6 and James 5:16, concerning communion with God.

Other members present were Mesdames Clarence Ledbetter, George Garrett, August McWilliams and Thad Traylor.

ATTENDED TEA

Texas Cities Have Won Half of Their Battle For City Sales Tax

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Texas cities now have won at least half of their battle for authority to levy a one per cent sales tax.

Both houses of the Legislature passed the bill. It's now ready for the Governor's signature. Final step is approval by local voters.

Failure of the bill to obtain a two-thirds majority vote of the Legislature means that the law cannot go into effect until 90 days adjournment. This means that it probably will be September before any city can hold an election on the subject.

Approval over heavy opposition was a major victory for Gov. John Connally and officials of the Texas Municipal League. Legislative presiding officers Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and House Speaker Ben Barnes also strongly backed the controversial measure.

These are important features of the bill:
Tax can be levied only on those items covered by the present two per cent state sales tax. (It will not fall on auto purchases.)

City governing bodies can submit the issue to election on their own motion or by petition of voters.

Voters also can petition to get rid of the levy after two years.

State comptroller will supervise collection (along with state sales tax) and refund one per cent, less administration costs, to the cities.

Passage of this bill, sponsored by Rep. John Traeger of Seguin and Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso, is viewed as having one effect not intended by some of the strongest backers: it likely will make any increase in state sales tax this year more difficult if alternate revenue programs fail.

000 in bonds to finance acquisition of land for state park sites was unanimously passed by the House.

A proposed constitutional amendment by Rep. Gene Hendryx of Alpine passed 149-0. It had been amended twice by the House Constitutional Amendments Committee. One amendment was minor. But the other cut from six per cent to four and a half per cent the maximum interest rate to be paid on the bonds.

Measure now goes to the Senate.

WILDLIFE WEEK

Bills strictly for the birds and the bee-keepers have been passed by the House.

One would remove pelicans and peregrine falcons from the unprotected bird list. Another would provide for branding and registration of bee-keeping equipment.

A Senate committee followed up by approving a ban on commercial exploitation of Texas tortoises and horned toads.

MOVIES

"Spinout"

Producer Joe Pasternak cornered the Hollywood market on pulchritude for Elvis Presley's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Spinout," and you never saw so many beautiful girls swinging to the catchy rhythms of Elvis' songs as are on display (most often in bikinis) in this romping, action-filled and laugh-loaded entertainment in Panavision and color.

Elvis really gets the works in a film that spells FUN all the way. This time, he has not one leading lady but—count 'em—four glamorous queens, Shelley Fabares, Diane McBain, Deborah Walley and Dottie Marshall, chasing pell-mell after the world's most elusive bachelor.

Shelley is the pert, spoiled daughter of a millionaire auto manufacturer, who always gets what she wants, and she wants Elvis, leader of a touring combo. Diane is a best-selling author, researching her next book, "The Perfect American Male," and when she meets Elvis, she decides she has found her subject. Deborah is the cute drummer in Elvis' band, whose heart is drumming for the boss. While Dottie Marshall ends up as the latest beauty to try to corral Elvis into matrimony.

In a series of hilarious and song-filled situations, our hero manages to eat his cake and have it, too. Does he marry any of these man-hungry beauties? Why, sure he does. He marries 'em all. How's that again? Well, you'll have to see "Spinout" to find out how Elvis pulls that trick.

Along with the story's romantic involvements, there's a high-light climactic sequence in which Elvis comes out the winner in an suspenseful and exciting auto race over mountain roads and turns as you have seen on the screen in some time. It is going to keep the viewer on the edge of his seat.

Three Have Essays Selected

Three WHS students will soon see their essays appear in print in a national publication by the National Essay Press Anthology of New York.

Delores Folsom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Folsom of Wingate, is a freshman student, as are the other two essayists. Her essay is entitled "Love." William Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Baldwin of Winters, wrote the essay "My Feelings on the Apollo I Space Test Accident."

"Why Vietnam?" is the title of Michael Emmert's essay. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Emmert of Winters.

To qualify the essays had to be original works and not more than 150 words in length.

The anthology in which these essays will be printed will contain essays written by students from all parts of the United States.

Mrs. Charles Kruse, the English teacher who submitted the essays, is now preparing to submit poems by her students to the National Poetry Press and art selections to the National Art Press.

Library Club Meets

The Blue Norther Library Club of Winters High School met March 21, third period in the library. Sylvia Tinney introduced the speaker, Mrs. Robertson. For the program she gave a review of the book, "Promise for Tomorrow" by Jeanne Williams. Jeanne Williams' husband is enlisted in the Air Force. Her husband's job has taken the family over much of the United States. Mrs. Williams often writes of the places where she is living. Her husband is now stationed at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene.

Love

What is love? Is it something you can share, or is it a selfish feeling about one's self? Love is something wonderful. I'm not talking about romantic love or parental love or any of that type of love. I mean the real, mature love that includes truth, understanding, willingness to do things for one another without returns. Mature love is a wonderful thing. It is not just having to be with someone constantly or always giving gifts and acting as though one could not do without the other. Why do people say they are in love when they really are not.

If one is in love, he feels it in his heart, whether he is with that person or not. He will know whether his is mature love or otherwise. —Delores Folsom.

My Feeling On the Apollo Test Accident

On January 28, 1967, at approximately 1:00 p. m., three astronauts, Ed White, Gus Grissom, and Roger Chaffee, entered the Apollo space craft. Five hours later a flash fire occurred in the Capsule, killing the astronauts.

By means of the modern communication systems, the tragedy was known throughout the nation in a matter of minutes. Upon hearing the news, everyone was stunned and felt great sorrow for the men's families.

As I heard the news cast, my first thoughts were that the space program should not go on; but then I remembered the great strides we have taken in the field of science. I believe that the program must go on because man must endeavor to conquer the unknown, no matter what the loss or obstacle. I feel that to stop now would destroy what these three men and others like them have worked so hard and sacrificed so much to accomplish.

"The essay entitled "My Feelings on the Apollo I Space Test Accident" is my own personal effort." —Bill Baldwin.

Why Vietnam?

In the swampy jungles of Vietnam are war-weary soldiers asking themselves, "Why should we fight for a people who can neither read nor write?" Why? Is Vietnam just another hot-spot? Will it ever become peaceful again?

This is a situation of extreme importance. If the Communists win here, where can we stop them? Can we get out now, and still be sure that the United States will not be attacked next? The United States is fighting a war against enemies who cannot be seen. Vietnamese, having heard Communist propaganda, are slowly realizing that communism is not really what they want.

Already other world powers are tiring of this conflict. Can the United States stop the aggression in Vietnam? In the eyes of countries now struggling for peace, is the United States setting the proper example? Aiding those struggling for freedom is always justified! —Michael Emmert.

FHA

The Future Homemakers of America held their March meeting on March 21, during 7th period.

Business was discussed. The Easter Lily Drive will be held March 25, 1967. Linda Maas and Sheila Kraatz will head the committee.

The "Girl of the Month" for March is Rhanae Hoppe.

The meeting was closed with the closing ritual and singing of the FHA prayer song.

FTA Meeting

The Alpha Chi Chapter of Future Teachers of America held its regular monthly meeting in the auditorium, second period, on Tuesday, March 21.

President Gary Pinkerton called the meeting to order. Business consisted of discussion of sponsoring a business college student in Tanzania and a discussion of the teacher Appreciation Tea. Reports of State Convention were presented as the program. Sponsors of FTA are Mr. David Ledbetter and Mrs. Charles Kruse, Jr.

NHS Inducts Ten Members

The Winters National Honor Society inducted ten new members Tuesday morning, March 21.

President Sylvia Moore opened the ceremony. She explained to the student body and faculty, the parents of both old and new members, and the new members themselves that membership in the National Honor Society is based not only on scholastic achievement, but on leadership, character, and service. The students are selected by the faculty of WHS and must have attained at least a 90 average.

Of the ten new members, two are seniors this year, Phyllis Awalt and Roselyn Kraatz. The other eight are juniors, Donna Benson, Martha Brown, Lenda Fuller, Dora Snell, Susan White, Danny Killough, Jesse McGallian, and Gilbert Minzenmeyer.

Following the induction, refreshments were served in the Homemaking Cottage to parents, teachers, and members. Sponsor of the organization is Mr. Joyce, principal.

The Annuals Are In?

It is amusing how a single word, annual, can put this school in an uproar at this time of year.

For instance, poor Mrs. Graham is seen leaving the business office carrying a large box. Flash! Like a prairie fire the word spreads; the annuals have arrived! No, it is not the annuals, only the decorations for the junior-senior banquet.

Or take the young lady who gets up at 5:00 in the morning to get to school before anyone else (even the janitor as it turns out) so she can be the first to tell the news. "I drove by the school last night and guess what! The annual staff was up here; that means the annuals are in and they were putting the names in them." But, no it was not the annual staff. Only the one act play contestants rehearsing for contest.

Yes, indeed, this is all amusing. But, I'm afraid not quite so amusing as the smiles on the Annual Staff's faces. Don't you wish there was some way we could put them on the outside looking in for a change?

Box Supper

A box supper was held for WHS students, Thursday, Mar. 23, at 7:30 p. m. in the school gym.

The girls took a decorated box, which was auctioned to the highest bidder. There was a $3 limit per box. Boys who purchased a box were required to eat the meal with the owner.

Highlights of the evening was the selection of Queen and King. Joyce Englert was chosen queen and Randy Pendergrass, king. Holly Middleton was chosen as having the most original box, and the prettiest box was decorated by Maria Shaw.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

Omar Burleson, M. C.
17th District, Texas

Edward P. Hoyt, writer on health matters, has recently authored a publication entitled, "Our Hospital Crisis."

In the opinion of Mr. Hoyt the United States is among the most medically deprived nations in the world today. We ordinarily think we have the best care of any place on earth but from what this author says fifteen other countries have more hospital space and at least eight others lower infant mortality rate than do we. Mr. Hoyt's contention is that in view of our size and place among the World's Nations, we are entitled to better hospital care than we are receiving.

Statistics otherwise available tend to support Hoyt's point of view. Although hospitals in the United States housed 1,700,000 beds in 1965 only 700,000 of these were readily available to general hospital patients.

In 1966 with the passage of medicare, the situation became even more acute as more people became eligible for hospital and nursing home care. Since World War II neither the number of hospitals nor the number of beds has risen in proportion to the costs which reached $12 billion in 1965 and continues to rise at the rate of ten percent per year.

Researchers on the subject also question the quality of American hospitals. Patients, assuming there is room for them to begin with, are harassed by red tape, subjected to incompetent care and unnecessary surgery in many instances according to reports. Mr. Hoyt says that many received padded bills, were alternately bullied and ignored and generally not taken care of.

Incidentally, in Washington, D. C. and other cities complaints are loud and long about facilities for emergency care.

This is the room or section of the hospital to which victims of accidents, sudden illness, etc. are taken. The complaint is that they are so cluttered up with patients who are really not in an "emergency" state that the real victims are unable to be admitted. It seems many are gotten into the hospital by their doctors classing them as "emergency" patients.

Like about everything else, there is another side to the coin. Writer Hoyt gives credit to first rate hospitals. "Our Hospital Crisis" is not merely a condemnation of the hospital system. It is, however, written from the patient's point of view but problems of the hospitals are recognized and taken into consideration.

Today the costs of building a new hospital or adding on to an existing one is extremely costly. Equipment becomes obsolete before it is paid for and qualified hospital help is not cheap. From all indications many hospital administrators believe that new approaches are needed for solving present day problems of hospitals. In many places, forward-looking administrators are doing something about it and improvements should soon come about.

Such things as efficient ambulance service is necessary if patients requiring emergency services are to survive. Here again is another bottleneck, not directly a part of the hospital operation but one which must improve if indeed there is a crisis. Ambulance operators have been brought under the Fair Labor Standards Act, which is causing many operations by funeral homes and other special services to be discontinued. No question that the most efficient service should include a physician, qualified attendant, proper medical supplies and a central dispatch service, all of which cost money and the overhead goes on whether used or not.

If reports are accurate, another problem related to health is the inefficiency of many private laboratories. Reports indicate that the number of mistaken laboratory findings have been alarming. This is another subject, but one of deep concern to the over-all well being of medical care.

LION AROUND on the beach is enough to insure privacy for Holly Schwartzmiller, 3, of St. Petersburg, Fla. Passersby were intrigued, but respectful.

You have heard the slogan, "Take a boy fishing." I go for that!

But, as in everything else, there's a right way and a wrong way to go about it.

A boy wants action. If he's fishing, he wants to catch fish. If he doesn't catch 'em often, he's going to tire of the inactivity real soon.

So introduce him to the bream—better known as the perch. It's a natural-born, boy-type of fish.

Bream are present in considerable numbers almost everywhere. They bite anytime of the day. They go for all kinds of bait.

Worms, of course, are the favorite bait for this kind of fishing.

Tackle should consist of the simplest ingredients... a pole, a line, a bobber, a very light weight and a small hook.

Select a light cane pole that the kid can handle. A 6-foot pole should be long enough to start with. Rig it up right for him and explain how and why you do it.

Tie on about a 6 foot cord and fix it to the pole with a series of half-hitches extending back a foot or so from the tip. At the end of this line make a small loop.

Into the loop tie some very light nylon leader, and let it extend to the other end of the pole.

The hook should be tiny, and a little split shot will do for a sinker.

Put a bobber on some three or four feet above the hook, depending on how deep the bream are.

If you're serious about this kid-fishing business and really want to succeed at it, you will have gone out ahead of time and discovered a good fishing hole where the bream respond willingly.

When you get there with the youngster, you'll have to bait the hook for him, at first. Show him how it's done. Be very patient.

Pretty soon he'll be wanting to do it himself, and you'll let him do it.

Caution him, of course, that the hook is sharp and will stick his finger if he isn't careful.

Now, here comes the big deal—he drops his bait in the water, at the spot you have previously selected for him.

Don't make light of it. This is a big-time operation for him. Pretty soon his bobber is going to start moving and maybe submerge. He'll want to yank the thing hard enough to toss the fish into the next county. Instruct him to take it easy. Just give a little yank to set the hook, and then bring the fish in gently.

So the boy has caught a fish. Listen, that boy is just as happy as if he'd set a new record for tarpon. His first fish!

Take it off the hook for him, demonstrating how that's done. If it's a fair-sized bream, so much the better. But the kid isn't going to want to toss it back regardless of its size.

If he won't go for the story that you should put him back to grow big for another day, and if you can't talk him out of keeping the little one for a pet (the fish will be happier in the creek)—why then, keep him. Maybe when the stringer is full he'll be willing to release the midgets.

By all means, make sure that those fish are fried and eaten for supper. Show your youngster how to pull out the back fin and get the little fillets from each side, dodging the bones.

Imagine what he's going to say when it comes time for show-and-tell at school next week:

"We had fish for supper, and I caught them myself." If you manage to get a picture of him and his string of fish, to go along with the story, you'll have the proudest kid in the block.

Now what happens? Nothing, as long as the boy gets a big bang out of catching bluegills the way you have taught him. But when he begins to lose the first blush of excitement, it's time to try something different.

My recommendation is that you remove the bobber from his line as the next step.

Explain that it's even more fun to feel the first nibble of the fish himself, by the tight-line method, rather than depending on the bobber to guide him.

So the next question is—how deep does he fish? Now here's where you get a little bit tricky.

Tell him that the big fish are sometimes down deep. Have him let his bait all the way down to the bottom, leave it there a little while, and then bring it up very slowly, jiggling it a little along the way.

He's still going to catch his share of bream, but you and I know what else is going to happen. One of these days he is going to snag something bigger—a catfish, a gaspergou, even a bass.

Don't forsake the bream all at once. Fish for them the way you have always done. But spend a little time casting, too, and thinking about bass.

Of course, you can fish for bream with the spin-cast outfit. Also you can use the old cane pole for a set line. Bait it with a gob of worms and let them rest on the bottom.

You and the boy have started out the simple, easy way. You have wandered no farther from home than the creek, and you have brought home a string of fish pretty regularly—mostly bream, with an occasional catfish. Soon you're going to be ready for a new thrill.

My suggestion for this one would be a fishing cove on the lake where the crappie and white bass are biting. Now the cane pole can be discarded. Or put away for another time.

Substitute minnow for the worm. Tell him how to hook the minnow through the lips and lower it, with his spincaster, down to the bottom. Have him reel in a few turns and wait a little while. Then have him reel up slowly, jiggling a little.

If you're in the right place at the right time, you're going to catch crappie and white bass, maybe catfish, too. Once that young sprout gets a two-pound

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

The dictionary defines "maverick" as an unbranded animal or motherless calf.

The word is derived from a Texas rancher known as Samuel Maverick (1803-1870). This good man took 400 cattle once in payment for a debt but, because he could not bear to brand or mark his cattle, they were soon stolen by rustlers.

The man and his problems became so well-known that any unbranded animal in any herd became known as a "maverick," and before long the term was also being applied to a person, who like the unbranded calf, belonged to no one and faced life on his own.

"Maverick," a popular western movie some time back, concerned a couple of gambling brothers who showed up at unexpected places and did not always do things in the traditional western way.

James Garner, as Bret Maverick, was the first "maverick" on television, and his brother Bart was played by Jack Kelly. The series was popular, but in time it broke up when mavericklike, brother Bret bolted the act.

Fish Hear With Bladder

Do fish hear? Experts say they hear through their swim-bladder, a gas-filled organ that amplifies sound waves. In some fish it is in direct connection with the ear.

OLD STONE FORT Nacogdoches

The Old Stone Fort standing on the campus of the Stephen F. Austin State Teachers College at Nacogdoches is generally believed to have been built during 1779 or 1780.

It has been held and garrisoned at various times by Spain, Mexico, the Republic of Texas, the Confederacy and the United States.

It was truly an outpost in the wilderness!

Nacogdoches itself, one of the four oldest civilized settlements in Texas, was named for the Nacogdoches Indians. Here in 1716 the Spaniards established Mission Nuestra Senora de Guadalupe around whose deserted buildings Nacogdoches was permanently established in 1779.

DON'T SCATTER YOUR SHOTS

People whose aim is to make the most of their money have discovered the wisdom of using a full-service bank . . . and using it for all it is worth.

A full-service bank (like ours) is allowed by law to offer services that you only find piecemeal at other financial institutions.

This includes everything from checking accounts and investments to all kinds of loans, not just a few, and you will find our financial help is as thorough as can be.

If you haven't discovered the time and money saving advantages of a full-service bank, why not come in and see us today.
