HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Just reading the headlines in the newspapers for one week is enough to make a Solomon throw up his hands. Each day you are faced with headlines about a major war in Viet Nam. You may have a son, a husband, a brother, or a sweetheart in it, and you don't know what to think.

Then comes more news about a Mideast Crisis.

Next comes inflation. Different interests blame the other fellow for rising costs. Financial authorities state it is essential to restrict easy money policies. Then, we read that the country needs 2 million new housing units every year and that only getting 1.5 million and that high interest rates are retarding building.

Next, the individual is urged to restrict his spending to cool down the economy, while full employment is urged to provide jobs. And, to top the confusion, it is generally forecast that taxes on individuals and industry must be raised to bail out the official spenders. As a private citizen and taxpayer, you help foot all the bills.

These are but a few of the brain twisters that appear daily.

Troy McKnight was helping daughter Sherry in basic math. They were using the age-old "finger" method, but when Sherry would reach about 6 fingers, she would become confused. Father then would start all over again.

After several starts and stalls, Father became a little more exasperated. In desperation, Sherry said, "But Daddy, I'm JUST two years old!"

"I get the message," said Papa — and headed for the cotton patch.

Strictly Swiped: Many of us who grew up in the depression used to laugh at the two or three town characters who thought the world owed them a living. Now, thanks to "modern" thinking, they may have the last laugh.

If a man would do a favor for a youngster, let him experience the thrill that comes from receiving pay for a job done; the money then takes on a new and more satisfying texture—quite different from the "allowance" feel.

Some of the trash in the form of paperbacks and comic books now available could be described as "illiterate-ture."

How's this for guessing: Over an 11-year period, 1954-65, the total PREDICTED budget deficits came to $13.2 billion. The actual deficits totaled $43.1 billion—so the federal predictors were off by only about $30 million!

Candid — and Clipped: A fellow tells about Moses and his followers reaching the Red Sea. Moses became agitated. He turned to his public relations man and demanded: "Where are the boats?"

"But sir," the public relations man stammered, "I'm not a member of the boat committee. How could I know?"

"Well," Moses shouted, "what do you expect me to do, raise my hand and part the waters?"

"If you will," the public relations expert promised, "I can get you two pages in the Old Testament!"

Sweetwater Men Buy Local Grocery

Neal Oakes has sold his Piggly Wiggly super market to a Sweetwater grocer, it was announced this week.

Jere Lawrence, who with his father owns the Sweetwater Piggly Wiggly store, is the new owner of the Winters business. Transaction was completed Monday.

Lawrence said Walker Tatum, who has been associated with the Winters store since 1958, will be the manager of the local store. There will be no change in personnel at the store, it was announced.

Oakes, who is presently president of the Winters Chamber of Commerce, announced no immediate plans.

The new owner of Winters Piggly Wiggly is a native of Sweetwater, where he attended school. He is a graduate of McMurry College, and spent two years in the U. S. Army. He has been a partner with his father in the Sweetwater grocery business for eleven years. His father, J. M. Lawrence, has been in the business for 38 years in Sweetwater, and also is a director of the Texas Bank and Trust Co., and served several years on the Sweetwater school board. Presently, he is devoting his time to the Job Corps, covering a territory reaching all the way to El Paso.

TO WINTERS IN 1952
Neal Oakes has been in the grocery business for 39 years. He came to Winters from Santa Anna in 1952.

Oakes has been active in civic and community affairs; he is now president of the Winters Chamber of Commerce, elected to that position by the board of directors earlier this year. He is also a member of the Winters Lions Club, the First Baptist Church, and the Masonic Lodge.

Wayne Stone and Joannie McAdoo Are Men's, Women's Golf Champions

Considerable galleries strolled sun-sizzled links Sunday to watch final contests in the City Golf Championship tournament at the Winters Country Club.

Wayne Stone shot strong to the final hole to be named men's champion, and Joanne McAdoo took the women's division championship.

Two games in the men's division are yet to be played, but the ladies completed all brackets to finish their part of the tournament.

Trophies will be presented to winners and runners-up in each flight.

In the final 18-hole play-off for the Men's Championship Flight, Stone hit for a 73 with Clarence Shade nipping close with a 74. Mrs. McAdoo won over Lillie Heath to take the Ladies Championship Flight honors.

In the Men's First Flight, Eugene Mathis was to meet Richard Shade, but the contest was postponed and is to be played sometime this week. Also, the final contest in the Men's Second Flight will be played next week end. Pat Wood was scheduled to meet Jim Williams in the play-off, but was at National Guard summer camp this last weekend.

In the Ladies' Second Flight contests, Thelma Brock took the honors, going the scheduled 9 holes in 56 ahead of Zora Hicks, with 59.

NEAL R. OAKES Sells Piggly Wiggly

Mr. and Mrs. Oakes have one son, Don, of Merkel.

Oakes said he has no plans for the immediate future, but emphasized that he is not "retiring." He expressed thanks to friends and patrons of Winters Piggly Wiggly store for their confidence and support during the years he has been in business here, and also invites continued patronage and support for the new ownership.

PLANS INDEFINITE
Lawrence said he has no plans at the present time about moving to Winters from Sweetwater. He has been a director of the Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce for seven years, is a past president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a member of Rotary, and a member of the Methodist church.

He is married to the former Mildred Akens. They have two boys and one girl, Kevin, 9, Kyle, 6, and Kere, 8 months.

Latest Rains Bring Better Crop Prospects

Rains last week in this area tremendously improved prospects for a better crop. Even though the rains were "spotty" most every part of this area received some amount of moisture.

Several sources said that these latest rains have "about made" the early milo crop, and with just a little more moisture the late milo has prospects of doing fairly well. Cotton also is looking good in areas where rain fell, and conditions generally are considered "favorable."

In an area south of Winters in the Hatchel community more rain was received earlier than immediately around Winters. There, cotton looks very good and is heavily fruited. Also, milo looks good in that area, and it is anticipated that first cuttings of this year's crop will begin about July 15.

Last week's rains brought to 8.7 inches the total rainfall received thus far in 1967. This is below the amounts reported for the same period in the five previous years, as indicated in the following table. Amounts recorded are for Winters proper.

Quiet Fourth For Winters

For the rest of the state of Texas, it could be described as the "Fatal Fourth," with record numbers of persons killed in auto accidents, drownings, shootings and other fatal incidents.

But for Winters, it was a relatively quiet Independence Day.

Although there was some fireworks shooting—in violation of strict City ordinances—no reports of injuries have been received. The Winters Municipal Hospital reports that no "accident" emergency cases were admitted to the hospital.

Also, the Police Department has made no reports of holiday traffic mishaps or other disturbances. Police Chief Joe Stevens said this was one of the "quietest" Fourth's we've ever experienced. "We've had no reports of even a 'fender scraping'."

State Capital Highlights—

Governor Connally Vetoes Bills Considered Not Essential, Justified

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association
Exercising his veto power to cut appropriations, Gov. John Connally sliced off $3,214,121 of one-year general appropriation bill and killed 37 bills passed by the 60th Legislature.

Nine of the vetoed bills called for total annual expenditures of $12,819,760 beginning September 1, 1968.

By way of explanation of his line-item vetoes in the appropriations bill, Connally said, "I endorse the actions taken by the Legislature to provide the funds needed to meet the state's increasing services to its people. However, there are several items of expenditures for which I do not consider essential or justified."

Connally deleted a $600,000 appropriation which would have allowed the New Texas Research Institute of Mental Sciences at Houston to lease and operate hospital facilities. "This item was not requested by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation in its budget request, nor was it included in my budget recommendations or those of the Budget Board," the Governor explained.

A $300,000 appropriation for an additional Phase I construction at the Corpus Christi State School also was vetoed. Connally said it was not requested by the MHRM Department or in budget recommendations submitted by the Legislative Budget Board or by Connally. He pointed out that the 1965 Legislature appropriated $2,224,000 for the proposed school.

Connally slashed $800,000 off the appropriation for the University of Texas Medical School at San Antonio. "With construction of the medical school and teaching hospital and the recruitment of faculty and staff still in process, the number of students actually enrolled will be limited during the 1968 fiscal year," the Governor said.

"Even after vetoing this item," he continued, "the medical school's appropriation for the 1968 fiscal year will exceed my recommendation by $85,795 and will represent a 145 per cent increase over the amount appropriated for the current year."

Also vetoed was $325,000 earmarked to the State Department of Agriculture for expanding market outlets for Texas' agricultural commodities. Connally explained that "The appropriation of $325,000 duplicated in purpose a major portion of the $500,000 'special program' appropriation for marketing and market outlet research, quality research, statistical reporting and other programs relating to agriculture."

Other bills vetoed included those extending the curfew for alcoholic beverage drinking until 2 a. m. in the metropolitan counties, doubling retirement benefits for legislators and improvements in state employees' retirement benefits, prohibiting employment of youngsters under 21 in stores which sell beer and liquor, permitting broader powers for the State Soil & Water Conservation Board, allowing the State Comptroller to seize property for tax debts and sell it without court action, setting up special county boards to assess tax values on agricultural land near cities, and granting cities police powers on private property such as shopping center parking lots.

COSTLY OVERTIME
Extension of the federal minimum wage act to state hospital and school employees would cost state government in Texas at least $14,000,000 a year, according to Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin.

Martin says he intends to keep fighting inclusion of state institutions under the act all the way to the Supreme Court.

Three federal judges in Maryland recently handed down conflicting opinions on the issue but not a final order.

Under the new appropriations bill, all State employees will get more than the required federal minimum wage. Big catch financially is that the federal act also requires time and a half payment for overtime — or an hour and a half compensatory time off for every hour of overtime worked during the same pay period. Texas employees get compensatory time off (no cash) on an hour-for-hour basis.

Rio Grande carrot farmers may be able to develop a new outlet for their crop. Carrots as fish bait may be the answer.

A saltwater fisherman along the eastern seaboard has found that carrots make excellent lures for king and other larger offshore fish. Texas-size carrots should be most appealing.

Here's how they serve it. First the vegetable is frozen. When it thaws it becomes limp and easy to thread on a piano wire leader. By running the top end away from the hooks, there is little water resistance. Or, if the position is reversed, the end should be cut at an angle to reduce resistance in trolling or retrieving. I haven't tried it, so if it doesn't work, don't blame me.

But it sounds interesting. There are many other similar lures which have been used both in fresh and saltwater fishing.

For instance it has been known for years that cubes of Ivory soap make good catfish bait. Bream have been known to take small wild grapes. And there have been stories of bass striking small fresh onions impaled on hooks.

Other fishermen have used bananas or even banana peels successfully. These are all oddities, but if they work, they are well worth trying.

No doubt fish get tired of the same old diet of plastic plugs or imitation worms. So, it's easy to believe that they will fall for something else.

There is one thing for certain, fish sometimes have minds of their own. A group fishing on Sam Rayburn in East Texas recently were told a certain lure was hot. It had been producing big strings for about 10 days. Several in our party tried them. But apparently the fish had grown tired of that particular item.

Finally one angler put on a Rebel with a dark blue back. He tossed it alongside a log and right then and there a fast lure changing program began. We all went to blue baits and all caught fish.

Bass were found near logs where greenery was growing out of the decayed places which had been filled with silt. These bass just were not interested in green. But blue and purple on that particular day turned the trick.

Could be that the weather had something to do with it. There was a heavy overcast that day with dark rain clouds in the heavens most of the time.

We're anxious to get back to that same lake and try blue again. If blue doesn't work, we'll offer 'em brilliant gold, resembling a sunburst with feathered edges in red. They might be just the thing on a bright sun-shiny day. Who knows?

Fish have been known to hit on many improvised lures. For instance the beverage can opener, an old teaspoon or even a bottle cap sometimes will work.

A bass fisherman in Florida uses the snap-type clothespins. He puts a screw-eye in the heavy end and attaches a tail hook to the other end. He swears they beat any lure he has ever bought... especially when he adds an Alka Seltzer tablet to the clamp of the clothespin.

A well known fishing guide carries in his boat several cans of spray paint in six different colors. If weather or water conditions warrant, he will change the color of his lures in the middle of the lake.

A Texas manufacturer of spoons went to Florida recently to experiment with color. He found that one bass there consistently hit one of his spoons that had a purple plate. He went back to the factory and began turning out purple spoons by the thousands.

Despite all the talk about lures and the colors, the most effective fishing results from properly working the lures. Some fishermen go strong for the one and insist that the only way to consistently catch fish is to work the lure properly—slowly and life-like.

Then there's always the dub in the boat who gets a backlash. His lure rests on the bottom for five minutes while he straightens out the birdnest. Then the instant he moves the lure there is a walloping blast... and he comes up with the biggest bass. That's the way fishing goes.

Roger Babson Report—

1967 Promises To Be Generally Profitable For U. S. Farmers

Babson Park, Mass. Although not all farmers had a good year in 1966, by and large agriculture did very well. Farm income rose to new high ground and export volume was encouragingly large. This year the outlook for farmers is not quite so rosy; nevertheless 1967 promises to be good over all and generally profitable.

1967 Farm Output

The Agriculture Department reports that 257 million acres will be seeded to 17 major crops in 1967, if farmers stick to their planting intentions. This would be 3 percent above last year's acreage. In spite of expected heavy increases in corn and sorghum plantings, it looks as if total feed-grain production would dip some 7 million tons from the goals set earlier by the Administration.

Although farmers plan to up corn acreage this year by a hefty 7 percent, there is no guarantee that this would result in a proportionate output gain. Size of the final output will be determined by the rate of yield per acre. Our forecast is that total corn supply in the 1967-68 season (crop plus carryover) will be less than 5 billion bushels, and will top actual demand by only a nominal margin.

Cattle And Hog Markets

Assuming farmers persevere in their intentions to rebuild cattle and calf marketings later this year may just about cancel out expected heavier-than-year-ago hog runs. To put it another way: Whatever increase we see in hog output this year will not make for larger total livestock production. Over the next couple of months slaughter of steers and heifers will continue heavy, reflecting the large numbers still in feedlots. This will tend to limit cattle price upturns well into May at least. Even so, the bulk of factors suggests that cattle prices during the second quarter will average a bit higher than in the January-March period.

THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE

Friday, July 7, 1967

Prices And Net Income

It is widely expected that agricultural prices will be higher this year than in 1966, but close examination of supply-demand trends indicates this will not be so. Best bet is that the average of farm-product prices in 1967 will actually show a small decline. Much larger corn and soybean crops, and a sizable upturn at least in wheat output, will mean lower quotes for these items. Hog, poultry, and egg prices also promise to be down from last year. And these projected price declines are unlikely to be offset by higher quotes for cattle, dairy products, and perhaps some selected grains.

Of course the larger farm productivity in prospect will result in some increase in total receipts from agricultural marketings. A new record for gross farm income seems to be in the making. Realized net will be a different story, however, for farmers' expenses are rising rapidly. Labor costs, machinery prices, and taxes are all trending up. As a consequence, farmers' realized net income this year may be off from 1966 possibly by as much as 5 percent.

MRS. RICHARD LEE PUCKETT (Photo by Little)

Robbie Sue Davidson, Richard Lee Puckett Recite Marriage Vows Friday

Robbie Sue Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Prentiss Davidson, became the bride of Richard Lee Puckett, when they recited marriage vows at the First Baptist Church Friday evening.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Barney Cyrus Puckett of Winters.

The Rev. Harry Martin, pastor of the Pumphrey Baptist Church, officiated. Mrs. Kenneth Simpson was organist and accompanied Benny Brink, soloist.

Tall candelabras, entwined with greenery and white satin ribbon bows, formed the background for the wedding party. Floor baskets of white gladioli were at either side. Bows of white satin ribbon and greenery marked the pews.

Denise Howard of San Angelo and Greg Colburn lighted candles.

Virginia Ann Merck was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Burton of San Antonio and Mrs. J. W. Dunn of Pampa, sisters of the bride, Jacquelyn Sue Hall of Abilene and Mrs. Charles Bahlman of Austin.

Pattie Colburn was flower girl and Greg Colburn ring bearer. William Chester Puckett served his brother as best man. Groomsman were Ronald Colburn, Darrell Colburn, Bob Halbert of Abilene and Bill Cathey of Wingate. Ushers were J. P. Davidson Jr., brother of the bride, and Terry Rives.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line organza gown with pearl embroidered chantilly lace redingote front. Jeweled lace outlined the cage coat extending to form the chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a flat bow headpiece studded with pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, gladioli and stephanotis.

Attendants wore dusty blue lace cage gowns with blue peau de soie bow at neckline. Dior bows held brief veils of illusion bordered with lace medallions. Their flowers were corsages of gardenias with gladioli.

A reception hosted by the bride's parents was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Members of the house party were Mrs. Doyle Newcomb, Joanie Fuller, Mrs. Bill Jones and Mrs. Chester Puckett, both of Abilene.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Chester Puckett. The bride's table, laid with white linen, was centered with a tiered wedding cake surrounded by the corsages of the bridesmaids. Appointments for the table were of silver.

Miss Joanie Fuller, Mrs. Bill Jones and Mrs. Doyle Newcomb presided at the table and served punch and cake.

For her wedding trip to Houston the bride changed to pimento red linen street length dress, trimmed in beige lace.

A graduate of Winters High School, the bride attended Texas University and McMurry College. She is employed by West Texas Utilities Company in Abilene.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Winters High School and is a student at McMurry College in Abilene.

His parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Huffman House.

Mr. and Mrs. Puckett will live at 2534 South 19th Street in Abilene.

IN HOSPITAL

Bud Little who was a patient in the Winters Hospital has been admitted to the Veterans Hospital at Big Spring for further treatment.

As It Looks From Here

How can Governmental expenditures be substantially reduced?

One would think this is a question that could readily be answered by any Member of Congress, but a lot of us, including the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, remain in a state of real quandary as to just how it can be done.

Anyone, of course, would know that if we simply reduced the scope of the numerous Federal activities it would cost less money.

But the situation is simply this: There are 14 Departmental Appropriations, not including what we call supplemental. Supplemental are those funds voted for the over-all operation of all Departments when, at the end of a fiscal year, it is found that more money is needed.

Each of these appropriations is handled by a Subcommittee which sits for months, going over each item with a fine-tooth comb. When it finally reaches the point of debate in the House of Representatives, each becomes the most important appropriation, and the 13 others are not seen at the time. The over-all picture can not be seen until all appropriations have been concluded. This is usually near the end of a Session of Congress.

Unless substantial budget cuts are made in this new fiscal year, which just began this July 1, a gargantuan deficit must be faced.

Like the old soldier who never dies, so do obsolete Federal programs. New programs often come under attack because they have not been in existence long enough to build up a group of beneficiaries who will fight tooth and toenail to see that benefits continue to flow. Yet, older programs which may be well outmoded continue because of empire-building in the Executive Branch and the efforts of a select group of program beneficiaries.

In the late 1940's the Rules were changed to bring all appropriation bills under debate at one time. In other words, it was a packaged deal. This procedure was abandoned because it was found too difficult to handle them all at one time and careful consideration was lost. There is talk of returning to this system in the hope of establishing priorities to establish a balanced look at appropriations in their entirety.

There is proposed legislation to create a Government Program Evaluation Commission to analyze old and new Federal programs to determine whether they are cost effective, whether they should be continued, and what priority they should be assigned. The Commission would be composed of members from private life appointed by the President, the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate.

Many times the appointment of another committee, Commission or the creation of another Agency is a waste of time and money. On the other hand, a point of desperation has been reached as to how to better control the huge expenditures of the Government.

Aside from the fact we are having to finance a war in Viet Nam, Government costs continue to increase by leaps and bounds. Not only has the cost of Federal Government increased tremendously with all its new activities, but costs of government at all levels are adding to the burden of paying taxes, and unless better controlled, a point of no return is rapidly approaching.

Each Department of Government feels that what it is doing is the most important part of the Government's entire operation. This way of thinking extends to the individual Members of Congress in the various programs which directly affect their constituency and their area of the Country. There are those intensely interested in the conservation of natural resources, which is divided between the Department of the Interior and the Department of Agriculture.

There has got to be some limits, somewhere.

Suggestions For Cleaning Glass

Cleaning and stain removal are often major problems for owners of antique glassware, but the problem can arise even with everyday glass articles.

Joy Arrington, Extension home management specialist with Texas A & M University, suggests the following solutions to common cleaning problems in glassware.

Minerals in water often result in such cleaning problems as lime deposits and surface discolorations. To remove the lime deposits from the bottoms of pitchers, bottles, or decanters, put tea leaves on the stained surface and fill the container with a vinegar solution. For surface discoloration on decanters, rub the glass with half a lemon, or wash it with vinegar, or partially fill with uncooked rice and vinegar and shake vigorously.

Glass is never permanently stained, according to the Glassware Institute of America. It has a hard, smooth, non-absorbent surface that cannot be penetrated by stains, and the surface discolorations can be removed with these treatments.

Vinegar cruets often become stained and should be rinsed with diluted ammonia before washing. Stains in flower vases can be cleaned with a chlorine bleach solution. To brighten glass coffee makers, use a teaspoon of baking soda in the rinse water.

Each has its ardent supporters, health, education and welfare. The State Department, Justice Department and Commerce Department come in for their partisan support. Public works are important to every Congressional District in the United States. Defense and military construction is a must. The big cities are interested in housing and transportation.

There has got to be some limits, somewhere.

Mrs. Juanita O'Connor's Weekly Home Demonstration Agent's Column

The durable press cycle takes headlines in washer-dryer news this year. The new operation is basically the same as the "wash and wear" cycle in washing machines. The agitator and spin speeds have been slowed, and a cool-down cycle is also featured in the dryer.

Some dryer models have a warning device indicating the end of the durable press cycle so that garments may be hung or folded immediately.

Additional features on 1967 washer models include automatic dispensers for detergent and rinse activities, porcelain finishes that won't rust or stain, non-stick coated drums that won't snag garments, cold water wash cycles, water level adjustments for various size loads, and numerous combinations for wash and rinse water temperatures.

Not all of these features are new, but they are being incorporated into more machines at lower prices.

The use of electronic sensing devices (solid state) in laundry equipment is making possible a great variety of speeds and a reduction in sizes of machines without reducing the capacity. Some dryers are using these devices to measure moisture content and turn off when the garments are dry. The capacity of washing machines is changing in both directions. Many are building units to handle bigger wash loads, while others feature small washers for one or two person households. These machines are estimated to save about 3,900 gallons of water and 65 pounds of detergent for each family annually. With top-of-the-line features appearing in many lower priced washing machines, customers can expect good value in laundry equipment for 1967.

If the morning "line up" for the family bathroom causes unnecessary friction and inconvenience, perhaps you should think about expanding your bathroom facilities. Most busy families need more than one bathroom unless they have made special plans for use. Families facing the inadequate bath dilemma have several alternatives. They can seek other housing; regiment family members to a planned "use" schedule, add costly additional bath facilities, or find existing space in the house for an extra bath. For some families, the addition of a powder room wash room, or half-bath may be all that is necessary. Many owners of older homes have found it practical and convenient to install first — floor bathrooms or powder rooms at the end of a hall, a large closet, under a staircase, on in the "butler's pantry." Frequently the older bathroom is large enough to be divided or compartments-sliced for multiple use. Attics and basements in older homes often provide excellent locations for showers or full baths. An unused bedroom closet area in the master bedroom or in a child's room can easily be converted to a handy bedroom lavatory which can be closed from view. Manufacturers now produce small-scale fixtures — naturals for limited space. Some manufacturers have designed a glass-enclosed shower stall which covers little floor space, creating the effect of "no shower at all." Shower stalls vary in size from 30 by 30 inches to 32 by 48 inches. Measure the space available for additional bathroom facilities and select the type and size fixtures best suited for your needs.

"I Deal in Danger"

With Robert Goulet heading the cast, "I Deal in Danger" is a tense espionage drama in color from 20th Century-Fox which shows at the Fiesta Drive In Theatre Friday night only. Filmed mostly in and around Munich, the story deals with an American who accepts the brand of traitor in order to penetrate the Nazi High Command in World War II.

"A Funny Thing Happened On The Forum"

The great Gibbons spent the major part of his long life seeking the reasons for the fall of the Roman Empire. Too bad he didn't live long enough to see the Melvin Frank Production of "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum," the super United Artists comedy starring Zero Mostel, Phil Silvers, Jack Gilford and Buster Keaton, which shows Saturday night only at the Fiesta Drive-In Theatre.

Had he, the chances are he would have decided that the great empire died laughing.

For nothing, say the producers of the film, which is from the stage hit of the same name and which includes the famous Stephen Sondheim music and lyrics, has been overlooked to make this Color by DeLuxe attraction the funniest and most eye-filling picture ever put on celluloid.

"Easy Come, Easy Go"

If ever the term "sure-fire" may be applied in show business, it most safely belongs on the motion pictures which have starred Elvis Presley and been directed by Hal Wallis. "Easy Come, Easy Go" is the ninth and latest collaboration Wallis has produced for Paramount Pictures in Technicolor showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Fiesta Drive-In Theatre, and the lines are beginning to form.

In "Easy Come, Easy Go," Elvis plays a Navy frogman who accidentally locates what he believes to be a vast sunken treasure while he's in the act of immobilizing a vagrant mine. Waiting until his discharge from the service, he embarks on a treasure hunt.

True to the spirit of all Presley pictures, "Easy Come, Easy Go" is crammed full of songs, beautiful girls and zany characters in oddball situations.

"Inside Daisy Clover"

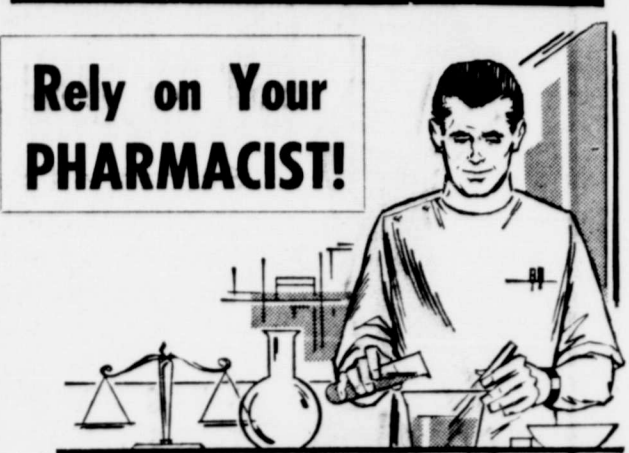

Natalie Wood, Hollywood's beautiful, much sought-after star, has pretty much been able to pick and choose her own roles for quite some time. Until now, however, there was one type of role she had not been able to play. Her current role in "Inside Daisy Clover," showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Fiesta Drive-In Theatre, represents the fulfillment of that wish. It is the achievement of a full-scale singing role which she was not able to carry out in "West Side Story" but which she did start in "Gypsy."
