HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The coming of September... the time for millions of young people to return once again to tens of thousands of school-rooms across the land.

In today's world, the sum total of man's knowledge is exploding upward at an accelerating pace. It takes many more years of schooling to become well trained in any field and further to become a well educated human being with the established, permanent desire and ability to continue the learning process throughout life.

The cost of education today is much more than it used to be, and with this in mind, many of the "older generation" sometimes voice the doubt that "all this schooling is really worth it." They wonder what kind of a crop of young people we are raising. Protestors, sit-inners, rioters and school dropouts get a great deal of publicity, but they are a tiny proportion of our school population and would probably be in trouble wherever they were and whether they had any education or not.

The real promise of the future lies in the vast majority of hard-working young people who look forward to school days opening again this fall—not only for the social companionship, excitement and fun of activities, but also, because they feel the stimulation of learning about their heritage and opportunities and exploring the vast fields of knowledge now being unfolded to man's mind. As the school bells ring again, we all should wish them well.

One of the most important departments of our school is the library. Not only a well-stocked library, but a place where students can find, immediately, the information they are seeking, in adequate and appropriate surroundings. This should be in the back of all our minds when looking at the school and future planning.

Labor Day is coming up. The symbolism of the day has been lost to many in the enjoyment of the good life. Never in history has such a high level of well-being been the lot of so many people. For most of us, the struggle and deprivation of the centuries have faded into the limbo of history and are no longer comprehensible.

Since this is the case, it may be the better part of wisdom to consider some of the practical aspects of Labor Day as it is now observed. This means countless millions of us will take to the highways and byways, to mountains, lakes and the sea. An army of attendants, maintenance crews, firemen, police, first-aid and rescue personnel will be on hand to minimize the casualties. Their task is formidable at best, and unless holiday throngs cooperate, it becomes a hopeless rearguard action.

So this Labor Day, drive carefully, put out your campfires, handle firearms with care and use common sense precautions around "the old swimming hole." Above all, remember there will be other holidays and other trips. Don't leave the countryside a no man's land of litter. There are millions of litter receptacles around the country. They are there to help preserve the beauty of the land—so let's use them.

The following has been kicking around in the "future use" file for quite a while. If it should help just once, it will be worth the printing:

"A few seconds ago, he was full of wonder and excitement. His first day of school, and his fresh-scrubbed face had been flushed with the thrill of it. His new cap had bounced on his small head, and coat and trousers—newly purchased—could hardly contain the delightful thrill that ran through him as Mama had let him out of the car.

"Mama had brushed a sudden dampness from her eye and had thought, 'my, what a handsome young man we've raised!'

"She thought, too, of how the night before Dad had told his wide-eyed youngster how he must behave and mind the teacher and eat all his lunch and not get into fights but not to dare back out of a fight, and all the things he could read in just a little while. And how nice they had thought it would be for him to be able to read to the

1075 Register In Winters Schools

Winters Independent School started the 1967-68 school year Thursday, and pre-date estimates indicated that there would be 1075 students enrolled at the start.

This figure is based on pre-registration numbers and comparisons with last year's totals. Carroll Tatom, superintendent of schools, said.

The superintendent said that enrollment probably would increase following the Labor Day holiday, and for a few days afterward. Many students, from some migrant families, do not enroll until after the school year is underway.

Broken down for the three schools, estimates indicate the following enrollment: High school: 328; Elementary: 449; Primary: 300.

1966 ENROLLMENT

A report on Sept. 2, 1966, showed that 1025 students entered school on the first day for the 1966-67 school year. Breakdown was: high school, 309; elementary, 437; and primary, 279. By Sept. 12, 1966, the enrollment figure had more or less stabilized for that year, with 1054 enrolled.

These 1966 figures were below the 1120 reported for the previous school year.

Good Supply of Doves Reported In Runnels County

Dove hunters who plan to open the hunting season can look forward to a good supply of birds in Runnels County.

Phil McBee, Game Warden for Runnels County, told the Winters Lions Club a couple of weeks ago that this county and Coleman County are reportedly the heaviest dove populated counties in the area.

For the north hunting zone as a whole, according to information from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the supply is good, but hunters may have to look a little harder to find concentrations.

Dove call or coo counts, released in early July for the zone, indicated virtually no change in the breeding populations from the previous year, according to Ted Clark, statewide dove project leader for the Department.

Since the mourning dove is migratory, populations and concentrations depend on weather and the available food and water supply.

Recent general rains over much of the state could have changed the complexion of this year's hunt according to the amount of rain and whether or not it filled stock tanks and other dove watering sites.

Drought conditions which existed over most of the state until the middle of August caused many hunters to look forward to a fine season of tank shooting.

FHA Will Help Communities Get Recreation Sites

Credit for financing well planned community-backed outdoor recreation centers is available in this area through the Farmers Home Administration supervised program.

John G. Curry, the agency's county supervisor, with offices in Coleman, this week described some of the various kinds of projects that have been financed by Farmers Home Administration loans in rural areas. He said these loans are proving to be one of America's most effective rural areas development tools. Some communities have been able to attract new industry because of their new recreation projects.

Community recreation projects financed by Farmers Home Administration include fishing and boating and swimming facilities; sports, camping and picnicking areas; vacation farms; travel trailer parks; vacation cabins and cottages; hunting preserves; and golf courses.

"Rural Communities," he said, "that can boast a new swimming pool, an attractive public park, a golf course or other such recreation facility have a very important asset in the fierce competition to attract new businesses and industry."

"One rural community in eastern North Carolina that borrowed $100,000 to build a golf course, swimming pool and tennis courts in 1963 attracted two industries that now employ 450 people. The plant managers have frankly stated they chose the community because of the recreation facilities it provided their employees," he pointed out.

Any group who applies to the Farmers Home Administration for credit assistance will have available to them the knowledge that the agency has gained financing approximately 1,100 recreation projects throughout the country.

N. D. Waggoner Named Electrical Inspector For City

N. D. Waggoner, superintendent of the Municipal Light Department, has been appointed City Electrical Inspector. The appointment is made in compliance with an electrical code ordinance which was adopted by the City Council recently.

Also named to an Electrical Board were Ray Alderman, a member of the City Council, and Buford Baldwin, City Secretary.

The Electrical Inspector will have authority to issue permits for installation of electrical wiring, appliances and other apparatus, and to inspect such installations for compliance with the electrical code.

Persons or firms in the business of electrical wiring and installation will be required to have licenses, and permits will be required on all new installations, alterations or additions of wiring.

The City Council Monday night also appointed Johnny Dry to the Housing Board. Other members of the board are Jake Joyce, Neal Oakes, Gattis Neely and Ralph Lloyd. The board will investigate the possibility of providing low-cost housing units for the elderly in Winters, financed with a federal grant or loan.

The City Council also approved resolution voiding all parking tickets which were issued prior to the new Parking Meter Ordinance which was adopted recently. All tickets issued prior to August 15 will be voided, it was stated.

City officials also said that attention will be paid to enforcing provisions of the new parking meter ordinance.

Livestock Assn. Sets Date For Show: Jan. 6

Directors of the Winters Livestock Association, in a meeting Tuesday night, set Jan. 6, 1968, as the date for the annual Junior Livestock Show, and named show superintendents and assistants for the affair.

The livestock show is an annual event in which members of the Future Farmers of America and 4-H Clubs exhibit their livestock projects.

Directors also announced the opening of the annual membership drive of the organization, and stated plans for the membership barbecue to be held Monday, Oct. 23.

Presiding at the meeting, held in the Winters High School agriculture building, was N. G. Crowley, president. Other officers present were Weldon Mills, vice president; F. R. Anderson, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Raymond Schwartz, reporter, and Mrs. Willis Davis, corresponding secretary.

Paul Michaelis distributed cards to each present encouraging them to donate livestock to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center Cattleman's Round-up. Livestock is sold each year in Abilene and Coleman with benefits going to the Abilene rehabilitation center.

Weldon Mills was named superintendent of the Livestock Show in January. Frank Antley will be assistant. Ed Donica will be superintendent of the Swine Division, with Hollis Dean assistant. Superintendent of the Steer Division will be B. J. Colburn, with R. O. Marks as assistant. Jerry Priddy will be superintendent of the Lamb Division, assisted by Jackie Richards.

Jimmy Smith, Crowley, Jim Williams and Paul Michaelis are serving as a committee to study the needs of additional show space which it is anticipated will be needed to handle a larger show this year.

The membership drive of the Winters Livestock Association is now in progress, with memberships at $5.00. This membership fee will entitle the family to attend the annual barbecue Oct. 23, in addition to supporting the work of the association.

Expect First Bale Of Cotton Within Next Two Weeks

Cotton men are expecting the first bale of the 1967 cotton crop to be brought in within the next two weeks.

The two gins in Winters and others in the area are poised and ready to go when cotton does begin to come in, but it has been hard to find anyone who would predict just what this year's cotton production would amount to. Some say it is below average, some say average, and some stick to the "pretty good" estimate.

Winters Bank Sees No Problem In "Encoded" Check Rules After Sept. 1

If you are a writer of checks in payment of your bills and in making over-the-counter purchases—and virtually everyone is these days—new regulations issued by the Federal Reserve Banks probably will affect you.

Beginning Sept. 1, checks cleared through the Federal Reserve Banks (at Dallas for this area) must be properly "encoded" or they will not be processed as "cash items." And you could end up paying extra just to have your check cashed and returned to your bank, if not "encoded."

"Encoded" checks are those with the strange-like numbers printed on the bottom margin, left-hand side. Those are "MICR" numbers identify the bank upon which the check is drawn. "MICR" stands for "magnetic ink character recognition." The numbers, printed in special magnetic ink are recognizable by a specially constructed computer and sorting machine which can read the characters and route them to the proper destinations.

"Cash item" refers to checks which can be cleared immediately by the Federal Reserve Bank, with the proper amount credited to the bank which deposits them and debited immediately against the bank upon which the check is drawn.

The new regulation will mean that blank "drafts" no longer will be accepted through the Federal Reserve, nor will checks be accepted which have had the name of the bank changed. It means that if you go out of town it would be more advisable, if you plan to write

Men Eligible For Induction In Marine Two-Year Program

Men who have already taken their pre-induction examinations for their local draft boards and many who have received orders to report for induction are still eligible for the Marine Corps' "Two-Year" enlistment program.

IST-Sgt. Johnson, Marine Recruiter for this area, explained that men enlisting in the Marines for two years are eligible for the "Buddy Plan" and "120-Day Delay" enlistment programs.

Persons joining under the "Buddy Plan" are assured of spending at least the early part of their enlistment together. The "120-Day Delay" program allows a man to enlist and then delay his departure for active duty for as much as 120 days.

IST-Sgt. Johnson emphasized that men who join the Marines for two years will have complete utilization of the GI Bill which includes assistance for college education and vocational training.

For additional information on the Marine Corps' "Two-Year" enlistment program call OR4-8946, area code 915 in Abilene.

First Football Game Changed To Friday, Sept. 8th

A change in the date for the first football game—Winters versus Lakeview—was announced this week.

Originally scheduled for Saturday night, Sept. 9, the game has been re-scheduled for Friday night, Sept. 8, on Blizzard Field.

Superintendent of Schools Carroll Tatom said that the original two-year contract with Lakeview had set the game for Saturday night, but that circumstances had caused an alteration of the schedule.

Reserved seat tickets for the Winters-Lakeview game, and schedules and publicity for the season, have the game to be played on Saturday night. Fans and ticket holders are asked to note the change of date for this first game.

City to Ask State Aid For Winters Airstrip

Winters is going to seek some help from the State in developing its airstrip or airport.

The City Council is applying to the Texas Aeronautical Commission for assistance in preparing land recently purchased for a landing strip. Applications are to be forwarded to the commission this week, and it is not known just what type of assistance will be forthcoming.

The City recently purchased a strip of land southwest of town to be used as an aircraft landing strip. Plans are to eventually blacktop a runway surface and provide limited facilities for visiting aircraft.

"Long" Season For Milo Harvest

This has been an "unusual" year for milo production, according to farmers and grain men in North Runnels County. In most years, there has been a "peak" harvest season; this year, however, the season has stretched out over almost the entire summer, and seems likely to extend to frost time.

Reason for the "unusualness" of the year is being laid to the lack of rainfall, the spotty rainfall, lateness of rainfall. Irregularity of planting has caused a drawn-out season, in addition to production. Some fields which were planted at the "right" time, according to grainmen, have abundant crops, while in a field adjoining the crop will not be worth the harvesting. The grain is in all stages of maturity, and there have been reports of some 3000-pounds-per-acre production.

The biggest run of harvested grain is beginning to come in to Winters elevators, with expectations of gathering strength in the first 15 days of September.

This year's milo is of good quality, and dry, grainmen said. Even with adverse conditions for this year, it is estimated that production will be from 60 to 70 percent of some of the "better" years.

As It Looks From Here

Omar Burlison, M. C. 17th District, Texas

Too often the Congress rushes in with "crash" programs in an attempt to solve problems after they have reached the crisis stage.

America has been undergoing changes more severe than occurred when it entered into the industrial age. The leap forward in scientific development and social evolution since the end of World War II have had staggering effect. With all the factors involved, one result, if not a cause itself, has been the influx of people from rural areas into urban settlement. A brief 25 years ago Texas, for instance, was approximately 75 percent rural and small towns. Today, the reverse is true. The same is true generally all over the United States. It is pretty obvious this accounts for some of the social, political and economic upheaval which has resulted.

People are not likely to be happy in the big cities standing on one another's shoulders. The problems of crime, traffic, wretched housing, health and education are not likely to be solved under such conditions. Billions of Federal dollars are being spent on sort of a scotch-tape, baling wire and twine string approach, but it is already proved the patch can not stand the strain.

Riding along a city street, looking at the teeming thousands living on their front steps, in the alleys and on sidewalks, one wonders why these people would not seek some wide open spaces, but it is what they know and the way they want to live.

There are others, however, who, for economic reasons, are being driven from the farms and rural areas to the larger centers of population, seeking opportunity to make a living. Probably no incentive would be large enough to bring some of them back to the farms and the country, but there is a need for jobs in many of our small towns and those from farms who need to supplement the family income.

Legislation has been introduced to offer certain incentives for small town industries. The measure provides a tax incentive for plants to locate in rural small towns. It is proposed to increase to 14 percent the normal 7 percent investment credit on machinery, and give a 7 percent investment credit on the cost of constructing quarters for housing business. It provides for a stepped up depreciation of two-thirds of the normal life of machinery, equipment and buildings. It proposes to allow 125 percent deduction for wages paid to newly hired low income workers for a period of three years. It also permits what is known as a carry-back for three years and a carry-over for ten years for all credits and deductions.

To guard against unfair treatment in other parts of the Country, the incentive are applied to a new operation so as not to induce a business already in operation to leave one community to go to another. The idea also proposes safeguards against coming into an area in competition with local business, but, rather, to engage in an enterprise not competitive and one which would furnish jobs for people not employed. The proposal also carries a provision for training for new jobs.

These proposals are not viewed as simply benefiting a rural population. Rather, they should be viewed as a major effort to revitalize rural communities, with hith residual benefit to our national economy. One of the most beneficial features of such an effort is the fact that only people with roots in a community will have a pride and a dedication toward making that community what it should be. The rural people, in their independence, have been one of the greatest factors in making our Nation great. People's interest in their local institutions—their churches, their schools, their concern for the welfare of their neighbor, recreation and cultural improvement—is the foundation of good government and good living.

There is little encouragement to believe conditions will get better before they get worse. A more solid and long-range approach should hold the greatest prospect for solutions not now in sight.

This past week the House of Representatives passed the Civil Rights Act of 1967.

It seems now that any session of Congress is not complete unless something under the guise of "Civil Rights" is enacted into Law.

As has been said many times in this space, there must be very few people who would not be willing to give everyone his "rights," regardless of color, creed, religion or any other circumstance. The sad part of it is that so-called "Rights" are so often confused with some special privilege. There is no such thing as conferring by law last week, with the erroneous title of the Civil Rights Act of 1967, contains a special criminal provision against any person who "interferes" with other individuals who claim to be engaged in certain Civil Rights activities. This provision carves out a special group of people, not by who they are, but by the type of action in which they claim to be engaged, for special protection of Federal Law. This is assumed to mean the protection of those lawfully and peacefully engaged in demonstrations or meetings of any kind, but will also further tie the hands of legal authority to control disturbances.

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

One hot day in August I went with my family on a guided tour of Hoover Dam. For a moment we stood over the largest water pipe in the world and listened to the guide explain how the dam had been built.

We were more than 500 feet underground, and the natural breeze that came off the water was especially cool and soothing. When we walked up about 64 steps, however, the temperature began to change and there was grumbling about the crowded condition and the elevator which could not hold everyone to make just one trip back up to cooler temperatures.

"You'll just have to be patient," the guide explained. "This elevator doesn't operate on a cable; it runs on government red tape."

The expression "red tape" originated years ago before the days of filing cabinets. In those days, valuable papers were put in bundles and tied with red string or tape so they could be easily identified. Even so it took a great deal of searching to find specific governmental documents.

Today, when routines are so involved that it takes a complicated procedure to change them, the process is called "going through red tape."

Happiness is like perfume. Spray it on others, and you are bound to get some on yourself.

One big trouble with doing nothing... you can't stop and rest!

The easiest way to sell that "white elephant" of yours is to advertise it in The Winters Enterprise Classified Column.

Roger Babson Report—

There Will Be No Income Tax Hike Unless In Best Interest of Country

Higher Income Taxes

Babson Park, Mass. Chairman Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee is now working day and night on President Johnson's proposed 10 percent surtax. Mr. Mills is a man of great intelligence, boundless energy, — and is a skilled parliamentarian. Prodding here, delving there, he probes witness after witness. . . to satisfy his own mind and the minds of his Committee members. You can be sure there will be no tax jump unless Chairman Mills is convinced it is in the best interests of the United States.

Smoke Of Battle

Back in July we told you in this column that the great tax battle would soon begin. Then there was growing belief that both the President and the Congress were going to pass up a new tax. But Mr. Johnson was just waiting until his economic advisers told him that a business upturn was reasonably well assured. When they did, he fired off his 10 percent tax-hike message forthwith.

Just as the long lull in any tax action prior to August led many to think that there might be no Presidential insistence on higher levies. . . so the din and smoke of battle in the Ways and Means Committee obscures the final outcome of the big tax set-to. Listening to the sharp questioning directed at top Presidential witnesses one might conclude that the Administration is losing, that Congress would vote no tax. But the opposite may well be the case.

Horse Trading And The Patient's Health

Two major points are at issue: (1) Is the federal budget deficit going to be big enough to require raising additional revenue? (2) Is the national economy strong enough to stand a tax boost without being thrown into a tailspin?

In grandpa's day, horse trading was a necessary art. The first rule for success was: He who names his last price first is lost! There is a lot of the horse trader in all politicians. That is why we feel that the President's first-named budget deficit of $29 billion may not be his last. But even if he comes down to $24 or $25 billion, an awful lot more tax revenue will be needed. We doubt if he or the Congress can slice it thinner.

And, as for the health of the business patient, our staff is convinced that the worst of the 1966-1967 business slowdown is now over. The country should be able to take the surtax in stride.

Inflation The Alternative

What, you ask, would happen if no surtax were voted? With hardly a shadow of doubt, your Uncle Sam would go on spending. . . for war, for foreign aid, for farm support, for veterans, for anti-poverty, for slum clearance, etc. And, without new taxes, he would have to cover ALL the deficit by issuing additional bonds of U. S. bonds. These would have to be sold to either (a) investors and investing institutions, or (b) commercial banks.

With business picking up and selling bonds to raise funds, there is little room for heavy competition from U. S. bonds. So probably Uncle Sam would have to meet his deficit by selling his bonds to the commercial banks. History has proved this to be highly inflationary. Hence, if we fail to tax ourselves in this year of soaring war and welfare costs, we will surely run the risk of becoming swamped by surging prices. Better the yoke of a bigger tax becoming bogged permanently in an inflationary morass.

Softening The Blow

We are betting that Mr. Mills will finally come to the conclusion that a tax increase is better than a rip-roaring inflation. Of course, he and the Administration may do a little horse trading too. . . cut the personal levy to 8 percent, let the corporations pay 10 percent. When? The October date is touch and go. January 1, 1968 than in 1967.

What can you do to soften the blow? Not much if you're on regular pay, but businessmen and professionals can get relief by postponing expenses to next year and moving all income possible forward to this year. Plan in advance. Consult your accountant now, before the year-end rush.

Department of Public Safety Estimates 45 To Die On Labor Day

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Texas Department of Public Safety has issued a grim warning that 45 people will die in state traffic accidents during the Labor Day weekend.

DPS will make an all-out effort to curb wrecks and to stop reckless and illegal driving on the highways, says Col. Homer Garrison Jr., veteran director of the law enforcement agency.

Approximately 150 uniformed officers from other services will supplement the regular highway patrol force for the long holiday period — Friday, September 4. In addition, a coordinated effort involving several state agencies and private organizations will be directed toward holding down the fatality and injury list.

Texas Safety Association will conduct a public information program stressing the need for courtesy and caution on the road and urging drivers to remain alert. TSA Vice-President W. E. Leonard will coordinate efforts of 12,000 Junior Chamber of Commerce members operating 200 rest stops which will

SMITH IS RUNNING
Lt. Gov. Preston Smith broke open the 1968 political season by telling reporters he will run for governor next year regardless of whether Gov. John Connally plans to try for a fourth term.

"I want to make it clear once and for all that I am running," Smith said. "I have absolutely no idea what Governor Connally will do, and it doesn't make one iota of difference."

However, the Lieutenant Governor insisted that he would not make a formal announcement of his candidacy, complete with definition of issues, until Connally returns around Labor Day from his African Safari.

House Speaker Ben Barnes has indicated he will run for lieutenant governor if Connally seeks a fourth term.

Former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr also expressed some interest in the lieutenant governor's race. But he emphasized that he had not made a definite decision.

Another prospective candidate for lieutenant governor is State Sen. Murray Watson of Waco.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED

Lieutenant Governor Smith has named these committees:

Poverty Study—Sens. Joe J. Bernal of San Antonio, chairman; Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi, vice-chairman; James S. Bates of Edinburg; Joe Christie of El Paso; and A. R. Schwartz of Galveston.

Oyster and Shellfish — Sens. Schwartz and Jack Hightower of Vernon.

Land Use and Environmental Control—Sens. Criss Cole of Houston, Charles Herring of Austin and George Parkhouse of Dallas (who died shortly after appointment).

Westmoreland Portrait—Sens. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo and Bill Patman of Galveston.

House Speaker Barnes named to the Texas Legislative Council Reps. Ralph Wayne of Plainview, James Slider of Naples, Grant Jones of Abilene, Gene Hendryx of Alpine, Menton Murray of Harlingen, George Hinson of Mineola, Paul Floyd of Houston, Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth, Don Cavness of Austin and R. H. Cory of Victoria.

ELECTION LAW CHANGES TOLD

Secretary of State John Hill has provided Texas election officials details of all changes in state election laws enacted by the 60th Legislature.

Major changes include:

Voters may mark ballots with "x" or check marks rather than scratching names of candidates they oppose.

Counties may use electronic voting machines on approval of the secretary of state.

Those who have not yet met state voting residence requirements may vote for president and vice-president.

Those who have moved from county to county within six months before an election can vote for statewide officials.

Some city election dates will be changed from the first Tuesday in April to the first Saturday in April.

Election officials will get a pay raise from $1 to $1.25 an hour.

Voters in bond elections will be required to sign affidavits they own property and to identify the property.

Write-in votes will be outlawed in primaries except for party offices, like county chairman.

Only opposed candidates will have to file campaign expense statements.

Voters again must register between October 1 and January 31. All voters must sign up (including citizens over 60 in cities of less than 10,000 population).

COOPER DAM

Texas Water Development Board is moving to end a squabble delaying the $24,000,000 Cooper Dam development on the Sulphur River near Texarkana.

Argument has been over a federal requirement that 63,000-acre-feet of water annually be discharged from Lake Texarkana below the proposed dam. This to curb pollution in Red River.

TWDB has proposed that Cooper Reservoir provide about half the pollution control water, with reductions permitted if water quality improves.

LABOR DAY—Are you prepared for Labor Day?

Just about every American celebrates the first Monday in September. The first Labor Day parade was staged in 1882 by the Knights of Labor in New York City. Since then it has grown into a national, almost international, holiday. And all in the interest of the working folks. Maybe you think you have been working a little too hard lately. But there is no end in sight for the poor homemaker who has to combat the surge of relatives and guests. Labor Day may mean a toil over the hot stove for hours on end. There is one easy answer—a picnic. And judging by the number who crowd to the parks and recreation areas at this time, you had better plan to leave for your favorite spot early. How relaxing it is to have the menu already planned—all you have to do is enjoy yourself with the rest of the guests. Turkey is a real time saver and an excellent picnic favorite. Turkey salad really makes a hit with all ages. Just make it the day before and you are all prepared for the holiday. Make sure that the salad is good and cold before you leave and that your cooler will keep it at a fairly low temperature. For the next item on the Labor Day feast, why not utilize some type of seasonal vegetable? How much you can do with cabbage, sweet corn, onions, cucumbers or carrots? Green peppers and potatoes are also ideal. For entertainment, you could have everyone roast his own ear of corn. With all of the fixings out on the picnic table, even the kiddies can get into the act. Fresh salads are crisp refreshers. And they are so easy to make. Just clean and cut up your favorite salad makings. A lettuce and tomato salad is always a tasty one to serve. For a little more color and flavor, add onions, cucumbers, carrots and green peppers. If you really want to go fancy with the tossing, you might like to throw in a little bit of cheese and spiced meat. What a great chef's delight! Peanuts and peanut butter are among the plentiful items for this month. Peanut butter sandwiches can really come in handy if your picnic spot is quite a way from your house. They are packed with quick energy in addition to a host of vitamins and other nutrients. The best thing about the sandwiches is that they keep the younger ones from getting too impatient—and they leave you time to enjoy the scenery. Frozen orange juice or lemonade finishes the meal off with a tangy sensation. Why not have both mixed up so your guests can take their pick? If water is available at the picnic sight, you can save space by diluting the concentrated drinks after you get there. With the Florida orange concentrate pack reaching an all-time record price

Preserve branches of magnolias, oaks, maples, and some woody type flower in glycerin and water. Stand freshly cut branches in 2 inches of equal parts of glycerin and water for about 2 weeks. Branches will have a glossy, fresh appearance and remain pliable. Place leaves, ferns and grasses between sheets of newspaper and press with flat boards. Spray dried materials with plastic wax aerosols for prolonged keeping qualities.

Education makes people easy to lead but difficult to drive. Easy to govern but impossible to enslave. Our doubts are traitors, and make us lose the good we oft might win by fearing to attempt. Nature offers the best materials for dried arrangements, and now's the time to collect them. Dried plant materials are ideal for creating designs for fall and winter with an outdoor or nature theme, the home agent says. She suggests collecting rain, weeds, flowers, tree branches and driftwood and drying roses, marigolds, zinnias, salvia, pansies and carnations now in a box of dry sand. "Place an inch of sand in the box"—carefully place the flowers on the sandy surface, and slowly pour additional sand over the flowers until covered. Put only one layer of flowers in a box, and allow two weeks for them to dry. At the end of this time, pierceholes in the bot-

The following is in part, from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, dated Aug. 26: Marine Cpl. Robert A. Middleton, 21, (Aug. 17) son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Middleton of 4908 Ohio Garden Road, Fort Worth, now lies in a ward at Carswell Air Force Base Hospital. His right leg is in a cast; his left leg is bandaged and stiff, but the spirit of the young Marine seems uninjured. Early in 1966 he volunteered for two years in the Marine Corps. He was eventually assigned to Mike Company, Third Battalion of the Third Marines. It was on July 22 this summer that snipers' carbine fire and mortar shrapnel slashed Middleton's leg and shoulder as he helped guard a truck-tank convoy moving near Da Nang north of Da Nang. The convoy had passed the outpost where Middleton was assigned. It encountered scattered sniper fire and the commander called for security guards. From the camp, Middleton and two other Marines, composing a machine gun crew, were ordered to go. "We didn't think anything about it," he said. "We thought we'd just go down the road a way and then come back."—Sniper fire became more intense. The trio set up a machine gun and started spraying the area. They couldn't determine where the ambushers were. The squad leader was hit. Middleton took the machine gun, then he was hit too. Both injured men rolled to one side, took up their M16 rifles and continued firing. The three marines decided to try to relocate the machine gun for a better firing position. They pulled up and began running. Twice more Middleton was hit by rifle fire. He lost his own rifle but held on to a grenade. A mortar round fell 10 feet in front of the running men. Another mortar fell closer. The blast killed the squad leader and blew Middleton to one side, into some bushes. "He said he thought his right leg was gone, but looked down and saw it jutting off at an angle. With his other foot he straightened the wounded leg and lashed his belt around it. For 2 1/2 hours he lay, playing dead, while enemy soldiers milled around just across the road, setting up an ambush. Middleton said he thought of pulling the pen on the grenade on which he lay to "end it all." But then he decided things were going "to be all right." He clasped the hand grenade to use if the enemy came closer. His lips parched, and he wondered how long it would be until night. Before dark, however, an American platoon came up the road. Middleton said he had difficulty getting the attention of the point man. When he did, he was able to signal that an enemy ambush was waiting. Middleton said the point man signaled back, took a few steps forward and was shot. The platoon regrouped but the encounter fizzled. After receiving emergency care, Middleton was taken to a hospital at Da Nang where Shrapnel was taken from his legs. He was awarded two Purple Hearts. "Later he was airlifted to the United States, first to California, then to San Antonio, and Thursday (Aug. 24) he was reunited with his parents. Military doctors have told Cpl. Middleton he will recover. He is expected to be hospitalized for three months.

Only a few seconds ago, he had spotted a small friend, had waved and screamed a greeting, and, to his Mother's dismay, had dashed from the car to join the happy throng of small ones for a day of days.

"And only a few seconds ago, Mama had smoothed the cowlick for the last time and carefully placed the cap which had been left off until their arrival at school. The cap, she had thought, didn't quite fit, but then Lord knows it wouldn't be on long if she knew her boy.

"And she was right. There it was—just a few seconds later, lying there in the middle of the street. And she thought abstractedly, as she slowly picked it up from the dust, that she'd never get the stains out—for the realization hadn't yet fully penetrated her numbed mind.

"And she thought, 'Why is that man looking so shocked? It isn't real, after all. It can't be.' For there he was, still as handsome as ever, she thought; the baseball glove he had carried could never be repaired. But it couldn't be true... only a few seconds ago...

"But just a second or so ago, she hadn't seen the car, with the now-shocked looking man on his way and late to work. And only a few seconds ago her boy—their first—had been on his way to school. But now, only a few seconds later, he would never even get spanked for bad grades or not eating all his lunch... nor even for fighting.

"It was the end of school already."

School's taken up, you know—so please drive carefully. Slow down at the "Slow" signs; stop at the "Stops;" and be extra watchful. Please?

"Rough Night in Jericho"

Spine-tingling suspense climaxes Universal's action-loaded, highly dramatic adventure story, "Rough Night in Jericho," a Martin Rackin production in Technicolor starring Dean Martin, George Peppard and Jean Simmons. It shows Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday nights at the Fiesta Drive-In Theatre.

Martin, in an abrupt change of pace for him, portrays an ex-lawman turned town boss who stops at nothing, even murder, to enforce his despotism. In imposing his one-man rule, he is thwarted by Jean Simmons, who, as the owner of a stage-coach line, has the only enterprise left for Martin to acquire to complete his economic stranglehold.

In one dramatic sequence, Miss Simmons fights Martin off in a bitter hand-to-hand struggle and in another confrontation, he slaps her to the floor when she spurns his advances.

Against his better judgement, Peppard, a one time deputy U. S. Marshall now turned professional gambler, decides to cast his lot with Miss Simmons in attempting to restore law and order to the frontier settlement of Jericho. Peppard's partner in the venture is John McIntire. In the dangerous process of overthrowing the despot, excitement reaches a fever pitch.

Don Galloway, as the sheriff, vainly tries to uphold order but is thwarted by Martin and Slim Pickens, the leader of Martin's henchmen. All efforts of the decent townspeople to oppose the boss are crushed almost at their inception.

Arnold Laven directed the many-faceted story with emphasis on the dramatic excitement, suspense and thrills inherent in the well constructed screen-play by Sydney Boehm and Marvin H. Albert. The movie is based on Albert's novel "The Man In Black."

Producer Martin Rackin has embellished the whole film with an excellent cast, beautiful scenery and top production values throughout. And he even collaborated with Phil Zeller in writing the lyrics to Don Costa's

When in Southern California visit Universal City Studios.

Who says they don't make Westerns like they used to?

Remember what was so great about the Westerns you used to see as a kid? It was the action, wasn't it? Plenty of action. And entertainment you didn't need an analyst along to explain. You were given a Good Guy, a Bad Guy and a Pretty Girl. And action.

Well, we at Universal Studios miss that kind of Western, too. That's why we made "Rough Night in Jericho."

They don't make Westerns like they used to? We just did.

George Peppard's the Good Guy. He only draws when drawn on. But if he carved notches, he'd have no handle.

Jean Simmons is the Pretty Girl. She once loved the bad guy but waits for the good guy.
