HOME TOWN Talk

It is widely agreed that controlled driver education, programmed through the public schools, is well worth the effort—and money—expended. Even to the point that insurance companies recognize the importance of proper driver instruction in the early years, before personal habits become so developed that they could be contributory to accidents.

This area of educational preparation was long ignored, and until a comparatively few years ago was an oddity. (The same thing was true regarding the merits of the automobile seat belt. Twenty years ago a driver with a seat belt in his car was considered by the public to be a person apart, and suspected of being a hot-shot or reckless driver.) But driver education has taken its rightful place in the public conscience; it has matured, and continues to grow.

But there still is a long way to go in driver education, and the costs are increasing. There just doesn't seem to be enough time or money available in the schools to give the program the attention it deserves. This is true in all schools.

But there may be a glimmer of light in the darkness. There is talk that schools may in the near future be permitted to set up accredited driver education programs using non-degree instructors. If conducted properly and the same careful consideration used in selection of instructors as is now used, this system would help some to relieve the teacher-shortage log jam. The program could be more thorough, and could give each driver-student much more actual experience instead of a top-heaviness of classroom theory.

In this nation, where ownership of a car has long been thought of as a right to be questioned by no one, and operation of an automobile has been second only to the basic first steps of walking, and where every boy has been expected to be able to drive by the time he cut his permanent teeth, we've taken too much for granted. The car was here, so we drove it. And we have accepted it until some who expressed the belief that something should be done about better instruction were looked upon as strange. But that idea is fading fast, as more and more cars hit the streets and highways.

It has long been an accepted rule that those people who fly airplanes must be well educated in the role before they are allowed to take over the controls of their craft. We think nothing about such a requirement, because we have been brought up that way. The same thing is happening in driving instruction. A good thing. And the new idea of non-degree driver instructors will help it along.

It would be a lot more fun, in relating the following incident, if it were possible—(practical is the word)—to use the name and time and place. But we do not believe this would really come under the Freedom of Information code, and a bit of "censorship" in this instance is called for; in fact, it is of supreme importance.

A citizen of our town recently (in fact, within the last week) was scheduled to meet with a certain board. He hurried home after work, grabbed a few minutes rest, a bite to eat, and then, announcing to his Better Half that he probably would be late returning home, left in a cloud of dust for his appointment with the board.

Arriving at the appointed place, he discovered he was early. He stood around a while, waiting for the others to show up. He even went so far as to arrange things—tables, chairs, etc.—so that the rest of the group would find everything ready to go and the business at hand could be brought up immediately.

He waited a while . . . and he waited a while longer. Finally, about half an hour after the appointed time had come and gone, he restlessly began reading the notice of the meeting again. Sure enough, he had arrived at the proper place . . . just seven days before the meeting was scheduled!

Mrs. Gayle Gardner, Winters Artist Wins Top Honors At Annual Exhibit

Mrs. Gayle Gardner, Winters artist, returned this week from Graham, Texas after winning top honors at the Graham Art Guild Annual Exhibit held at the Woman's Forum there. Long a social event of the fall club season this year's show was bigger and more colorful than ever.

Mrs. Gardner, a blue ribbon winner, won first place in the Pastel category with a portrait of her son Jon that she painted in beautiful pastels on velvet. The Winters artist won the third place honor in the watercolor category with a lovely and exquisite Victorian looking painting "Spray of Roses" that she painted in watercolors on charcoal paper and framed in an oval shaped gold frame and non-glare glass. It was very elegantly exhibited on her gold and white antique French provincial floor easel.

Mrs. Gardner also took the third place honor in oils with "Ringtail," a picture of a horse running through water in the moonlight. The beautiful and handsome picture was painted in brilliant colors of oils on canvas with a limited palette. The artist captured the look of a very spirited looking animal with a lot of rhythm.

The 177 entries in the competitive exhibit included the three that Mrs. Gardner submitted, and were judged by Mr. Gaitha Browning of Brownwood, Texas. Mr. Browning is an outstanding artist and well known throughout the states for his judging ability.

"Empression of Soft Beauty," a watercolor picture of pale yellow roses painted by Mrs. Gardner was one of the two lovely paintings given as door prizes. Mrs. Gardner is a self taught artist and has been painting for ten years or more but painting professionally and exhibiting her works for the past four years under the name of L. Gardner. She has won numerous other awards in exhibits around the Big Country area and several of her pictures are hanging in public buildings and in private collections.

High Interest Shown In Street Bond Election Saturday, 440 People Voted

What has been described as a "very satisfactory" turnout of voters in Saturday's street improvement bond election has been credited to the high degree of interest in the issue on the part of Winters' property owners.

The City Council met to officially canvass the election returns Monday night, and also approved a resolution calling for the use of interest being received on investments in paying off the bonds. A total of $14,000 was received in interest on certificates of deposit during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, city officials said.

Mayor Wade White said Tuesday that the bonds will be issued "45 days from Monday, Nov. 13," and that "work on widening Winters' Main Street should begin within a short time." The bonds authorized by the voters in Saturday's election will be used to pay for the City's one-half of the cost in providing additional right-of-way for the widening project. The State Highway Department will pay the other half of the cost for right-of-way, and also will do all construction work, rebuild curbs and sidewalks, and will pay for damages where damages occur if buildings are moved.

The voters authorized issuance of bonds in the amount of $120,000 to pay for the project.

Blizzardettes Win Over Coleman In First Cage Game

Leading the scoring for the Blizzardettes were Eileen Faubion with 26 points, Dora Snell with 19, and Carla Walker with 15. Outstanding on defense were Mary Lynn Pritchard, Babs Tatum, and Judy McNeill. The leading scorer for Coleman was Pam Wood with 18 points.

Blizzards vs. Pampa

The Winters Blizzards open their basketball season against the Pampa Harvesters on Friday, November 17, at the Blizzards gym. Invading Blizzards territory will be one of the outstanding 4A High School basketball teams in the state of Texas. Pampa is traditionally one of the elite of school-boy basketball having been state champions four times. The Harvesters have been in the State Basketball Tournament eight times in the last fourteen years. In past years they have rolled up winning streaks of 72 games, 55 games, and 45 games with losing streaks consisting of few games breaking the skin. The quality of basketball that is played by the Harvesters is evidenced by the fact that 75 boys from Harvester teams have gone to college on basketball scholarships in the past 14 years. None of the boys making the team play football enabling them to practice basketball the year around. Pampa will be running the same type offense and defense that will be employed by the Blizzards this year. While the Blizzards will definitely be outclassed they will have an opportunity to see what can be done with their type game. They will be running against a team that has returning four starters from a team that won 22 games and lost 6 last year. They will be further handicapped by the fact that they have been working out only one week since all but two boys on the entire squad play football. Probable starters for the Blizzards will be Larry Cook, 5'11" Senior Guard; Randall Boles, 5'9" Senior Guard; Sam Scott, 6'1" Junior Forward; Danny Killough, 6'2" Senior Forward; and Ronnie Reel, 6'2" Senior Post. Probable starters for the Harvesters will be Alvin Alford, 5'9" Senior Guard; Jim Cornutt, 6'1" Senior Guard; George Bailey, 6'3" Senior Forward; Carl Lang, 6'5" Senior Forward; and Beau Bond, 6'7" Senior Post. Game time will be 6:15 for the B team game and 8:00 o'clock for the A team game.

Winters Blizzards Won Last Game Of Season, Edging Anson 8 to 7

The Winters High School Blizzards closed out their season on a winning note by taking a hard fought 8-7 victory from the Anson Tigers last Friday night. Winters moved the ball well and threatened to score on their first possession. Fred Wilder circled left end for 55 yards before being brought down on the 4-yard line. Anson, however, held at that point and the Tigers took over on downs.

Anson moved out to the 8-yard line where they were jarred loose from the ball. Blizzards Arlon Barnes recovered. Once more the Blue failed to score in four attempts, and Anson took over. The Tigers could make no yardage and were forced to punt. Mike Kozelsky returned the ball to the 20-yard line in Anson territory and once more Winters had good field position.

With only 37 seconds left in the first quarter, Mike Kozelsky hit James Greer on a quick pass for a touchdown. The extra point attempt by Sam Scott was wide.

Anson came roaring back after receiving the kickoff. A pass put them on the Blizzards end of the field for the first time of the game. A second pass from Quarterback Faulks to Back Myers carried for 22 yards and a TD. Their extra point try was good and suddenly the Blizzards found themselves trailing 6-7.

Winters came back strong, moving the ball with determination down to the Tiger 1-yard

Mrs. Juanita O'Connor's Weekly Home Demonstration Agent's Column

Hats Off To Consumers:

Everyone is a consumer: the little girl grasping a nickel to buy candy, the elderly gentleman shopping for a second limousine and the young homemaker deciding whether to buy canned or fresh pumpkin for Thanksgiving.

This week salutes them with Hats Off to Consumers during Consumer Education Week, Nov. 6-10, in Texas.

Each constantly is struggling to stretch his dollars for the best, safest and most adequate buys. The week, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, aims to help him.

The successful dollar-stretching begins with a spending plan fitted especially for your family and reflecting its values, needs, ways of living and wants. It is impossible to set a budget for a family of four, for example, because each family is individual. Extension specialists say. Your plan must be tailor-made.

But budgeting need not be a drudgery, itemizing every penny spent and balancing weekly. Use a spending plan for a year for best results, Mrs. O'Connor advises.

After a plan allows more-better spending, the consumer then chooses, uses and maintains his purchases. State and federal laws, businessmen, government agencies, teachers, Extension workers, and researchers work for the consumer to protect him and make him more aware and informed to help himself.

The county Extension office serves as a consumer center for each consumer. Laws protect him with clean, fit food; safe effective drugs and therapeutic devices; safe cosmetics; and honest, informative labeling and packaging. Laws also protect clothing, fabric and some furniture buyers, specifying that certain information about textile products be provided to the consumer. An aware consumer takes advantage of these aids for better buys for better living.

It begins with a plan and has a happy ending. But does it? We take for granted many consumer services such as grading, standardization, inspection of foods, laws and labels. But the informed benefit most. This leaves much up to the consumer. To inquire and report misleading advertising and labels, improper labeling, poor quality which do not meet standards, misrepresentation of credit. Manufacturers benefit from your suggestions and complaints. They want to satisfy you. The dollars will go further and happier for all if you bone up your shopping know-how.

With continuing mutual support among consumers, business, manufacturers and service agencies, products and selection will continue to improve. The little girl's candy will be clean and safe; the gentleman's automobile will be safe and the dealer give him fair, honest service; and the homemaker will know how to choose to fit her family-or know where to find out.

Individuals who sew always are looking for ways to make their job easier. Mrs. O'Connor offers these tips about thread to make your sewing easier.

1. Use mercerized thread for most of your sewing; it is smoother and stronger than other types.
2. Select a color slightly darker than the fabric. Thread looks lighter when stitched in the fabric.
3. When sewing with a multi-colored or two colored check or plaid, use two colors of thread, one on the top and one on the bobbin.
4. Check yardage on spools before you buy. You will need two spools of 125 yards each for a dress. Buy enough, she advises.
5. When sewing by hand, use about 20 inches of thread to prevent tangling. Don't use a double thread.
6. To completely conceal knot in hand sewing, pull the first stitch inside a fold.
7. For ease in threading, place a piece of white paper behind the eye of the needle.
8. Fasten loose ends of thread to the spool with a small piece of cellophane tape. This saves wasted minutes untangling the thread box.

Dowel Strengthens Rod

Much rod tip breakage can be avoided if you'll insert a dowel in the butt section of your rod and cut it off to make this section the same length as the tip. It can be removed when you take the rod from the case.

No Shortage Of Perch

Ever wonder why there are so many perch? A female bream will produce some 60,000 eggs at a single spawning. So just a few bream in any body of water means a big population.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

"Be a two-season hunter," is the slogan of a large manufacturer of archery equipment.

Fred Bear, president of Bear Archery Company, explained the philosophy of the slogan. "We don't want or expect the gun hunters to give up their rifles for the bow-and-arrow, but we feel the rifleman is missing lots of hunting if he doesn't try bowhunting to take advantage of the special archery seasons."

Practically every county in Texas now has a special season. In general the season is the month of October. But a few counties in central Texas are open for 30 days immediately preceding the regular season. The large Aransas Wildlife Refuge near Austwell is opened to bowhunting only, with a special season of Oct. 1-31.

So simply by taking up bowhunting the hunter can get in a month more of hunting.

There are several advantages to this.

In the first place, bowhunting is a great challenge and lots of fun. When you bag a deer with bow-and-arrow you can be justifiably proud. It is quite an accomplishment! Another advantage is that by getting in the woods during the special season you can learn where the best concentrations of deer are found on your lease and you'll know where to direct your efforts during the gun season.

Don't let the idea that bow-and-arrow shooting is "too difficult" scare you off. With the right equipment, you can become fairly proficient with the bow with just a little practice. But notice that the accent is on "right equipment." Even a person with average skill can become fairly accurate with the proper equipment, but the best of archers cannot learn to shoot with mismatched tackle.

Biggest mistake made is in getting a bow that is too heavy. A bow is rated by the number of pounds of pull required to draw an arrow full length. A bow of 45-pounds pull is plenty strong for deer hunting.

A bow of this strength is about the maximum the beginner should get for learning. Trying to master a bow that is too strenuous to pull only invites bad habits that are very difficult to overcome.

The beginner should practice only a few minutes each day, shooting perhaps five to eight times, until he gets his muscles conditioned. The archer who is tired and his muscles fatigued will spray his shots and such practice does more harm than good.

But the bow is just part of it. Equally important is the arrow. It should be matched in weight with the bow and should be of a length to fit the individual archer.

To gain proficiency with a bow, each arrow should be pulled full length on every shot.

For a quick check on the length of the arrow you need, take an arrow from the stock at your favorite sporting goods store, place the feathered end on your chest and extend your hands full length on either side of the arrow. Ideally, the outstretched arms should be exactly the length of the arrow, with the fingers straight. The average length of an arrow is 28 inches.

Other than the bow and arrow, all the equipment you'll need is a shooting glove, which protects your fingers when grasping the string, and an arm guard, which straps on the inside of the arm holding the bow. This way should the released string accidentally slap your arm, it won't take flesh with it. Some sort of quiver to hold extra arrows also is needed. Most hunters prefer a quiver that attaches to the bow.

Don't wreck the family budget on your first bow-and-arrow. Get a moderately priced job and learn with it. Should you like the sport, you may want to invest in more elaborate equipment later.

Get someone familiar with the sport to give you some tips on the proper fundamentals as you get started. It is very important to begin right, to avoid bad habits that are difficult to overcome later.

Basic fundamentals are five in number: stance, draw, anchor, aim and release. Each is important to accuracy.

With the anchor, for example, it is important that the feathered end of the draw arrow be held against the face. This should be at the same spot, on every shot, where the archer can best aim down the arrow (instinctive shooting) or aim through a sight attached to the bow.

The release must be clean, where the arrow won't be pulled to the left or right.

Once you get the fundamentals down pat it is simply a matter of practice.

Any archer who can consistently hit a six-inch circle at 20 yards is proficient enough to kill a deer.

Granddaughter Of Mrs. E. H. Baker Lost New Home By Fire

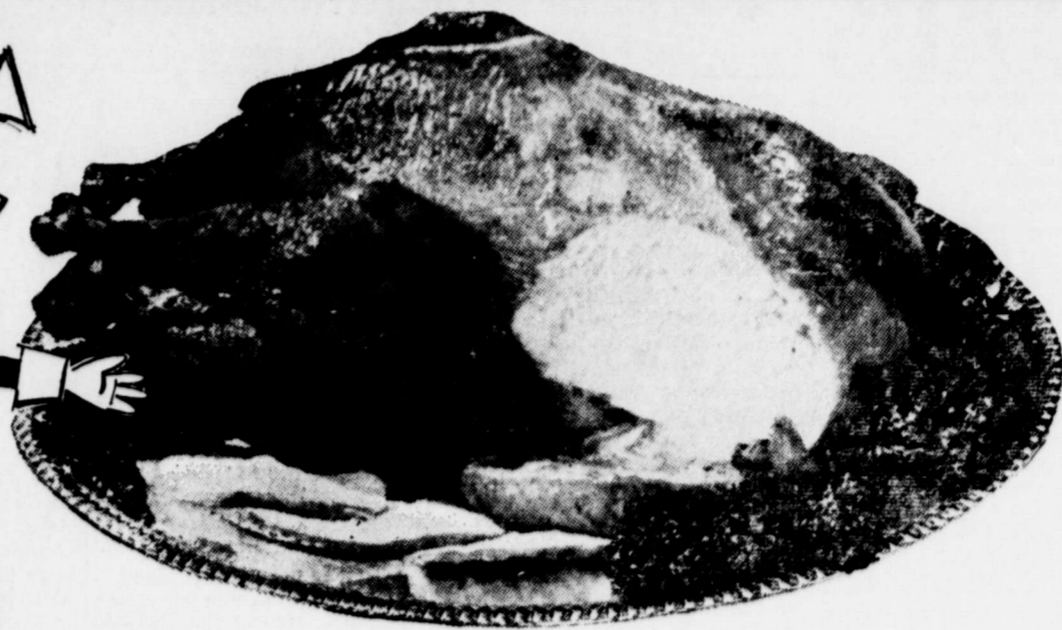

Mrs. E. H. Baker has received the information that the new home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Ott of Poway, a suburb of San Diego, was destroyed by the recent forest fires which swept through parts of California.

Mrs. Ott, the granddaughter of Mrs. Baker, will be remembered here as Janice Slaten who has visited in Winters on numerous occasions. Mr. and Mrs. Ott have two girls and two boys, all of school age except one small son.

The Ott's home, completed about 4 years ago, was in the Green Valley section of Poway, a hilly area of expensive homes tucked in among groves of dark green leaved avocado trees. The homes in Green Valley ranged in price from $25,000 to $50,000 and many have swimming pools. Mr. and Mrs. Ott had just completed building a swimming pool which was the only thing undamaged.

"A thousand firemen could not have saved our home," said Ott, who is a pilot for Pacific Southwest Airlines. "It came with a rush and from a direction we did not expect. We were lucky to get our cars and our selves out," according to a news release dated November 1.

Library Board Will Begin Next Monday On Drive For Expansion of Library

The board of directors of the Winters Public Library will begin a campaign Monday, Nov. 20, to raise funds to enlarge and expand the library, and to do some remodeling work on the library building.

Board members have said that about $3000 will be needed to remove a partition wall which will increase usable floor space to almost double present space, cover the floor of the proposed added space, finish the walls and to lower the ceiling.

Residents of the area serviced by the library will be contacted and asked to help in this drive. This is the first drive of this type for funds to be conducted by the library board since the new library was completed in 1963. At that time, the present building was opened, with a dedication service Oct. 13, 1963. Regular maintenance costs, librarian's salary, and purchase of books and material is done through regular membership dues. Many of the books have been presented to the library through memorials and direct gifts.

Several civic and social organizations in Winters contribute regularly to the operation of the library, and have representatives serving on the board of directors.

At present, there are more than 4600 books in the library, according to Miss Myra Glover, librarian. These books are used by a big percentage of the people in this area, she said. The library is open from 2 to 6 p. m. on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Several organizations help in the operation of the library, and help to conduct special reading programs, such as the summer childrens reading program.

State Capital Highlights—Governor Connally Surprised Experts In Deciding Not To Run

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Gov. John Connally did what very few people in your capital city expected him to do when he announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election in 1968.

About the only person who really felt that he would not run, and said so, was Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, an already-announced candidate for Governor.

Gov. Connally's declaration brought forth many reactions. Republicans felt it would add impetus to their 1968 campaign plans, which seem to include former attorney general Will Wilson in the governor's race.

Liberals listened for word from Sen. Ralph Yarborough, Houston lawyer Don Yarborough and other potential gubernatorial candidates. Conservatives began a sudden guessing game, with former attorney general Waggoner Carr apparently high on their potential list. But not all have given up on Connally. They point out that the filing deadline is not until February 15.

Anyhow, 1968 promises to be one of those years when cowboys and Indians both may bite the dust. Things are pointing in that direction.

SCHOOL FUND FATTENED

State permanent school fund gained $4,100,000 as a result of the last oil, gas and sulphur lease sale of 1967.

Bidding averaged $45.27 an acre on 54,950 acres of oil and gas lands. Sulphur leases averaged $547.25 an acre on 3,005 acres.

Nueces County Gulf of Mexico oil-gas lease totalling 1,440 acres brought the top bid of $129,787 from Cities Service Oil Company. Top sulphur lease bid was $1,056,323 by W. C. Tillett for 555 acres in Culberson County near Van Horn.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler reported that the permanent school fund now totals $742,338,369.

WAR ON POVERTY PROJECTS

Nearly $120,000,000 in federal anti-poverty funds have poured into Texas the past two years.

Annual report by the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity shows $98,900,000 authorized for spending on war on poverty projects during the fiscal year which ended August 31.

Voters Being Apprised of New Rules On Registration, Deadline January 31

County tax collectors again are calling attention of the voters to the new regulations covering voters' registration, and are urging that registration be completed before January 31, 1968, the deadline for persons wishing to vote in 1968 elections.

A state constitutional amendment provided for new regulations for annual registration, and abolishing the paid, or poll tax, system of registration.

Deadline for voter registration for all 1968 elections will be January 31, 1968, registration began October 1, 1967.

Mrs. Ted Meyer, deputy in the Winters office of the Runnels County Tax Collector, said her office is prepared to provide information of qualification and eligibility.

Under the new laws, all persons over 60 years of age must register to be eligible to vote in 1968 elections. In the past, persons over 60, in towns of less than 10,000 were not required to pre-register in order to vote. However, persons over 60 years of age, even though they are not registered, may vote in elections through February, 1968.

Also, Mrs. Meyer pointed out, an otherwise qualified voter must register in person. No one except husbands, wives, sons, daughters, or parents, may register for another person. This is one provision of the new regulations which has drawn fire from liberal organizations and individuals over the state, who advocate group or bloc registration.

Heretofore, the law provided that a voter applying in person would supply the necessary information orally, and the registrar would fill in the certificate and issue it immediately. The amendment allows the registrar to require applicants for registration in person to fill out a written application form, and the registrar may complete the registration certificate and mail it to the voter at a later date. "Whenever the registrar deems it desirable to do so, he may require persons who are applying for registration in person to fill out and sign an application form meeting the same requirements as the form used in applying for registration by mail, and may defer preparation of the registration certificate until a later time, to be mailed to applicant or held for delivery to him in person if the applicant so directs," it was pointed out.

The amendment also restores in modified form the provisions permitting new residents of the State and persons becoming 21 years old to register at any time during the voting year, with the requirement that they must have registered at least 30 days before any election at which they wish to vote. A person who was not a resident of the State on the first day of the regular registration period, or a person who has not reached 21 years of age on the last day of the period, may register at any time during the voting year.

Under the changes made in the voting laws, persons in military service and related services who are stationed outside Texas may vote without having registered through the regular registration procedures administered by the tax collector.

The official post card application for absentee ballot for each election is treated as a declaration for registration for that election, and the county clerk, or other officer handling the absentee voting for the election, attends to the details of the registration, which are effective for that election only. However, they may register in the usual manner.

"You Only Live Twice"

"You Only Live Twice," fifth of the James Bond films released through United Artists, shows in Technicolor and Panavision Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre, again starring Sean Connery as super-agent 007. In addition to the "stock company" of British agents (Bernard Lee, Lois Maxwell and Desmond Llewellyn), Donald Pleasence appears as this film's Spectre villain.

"You Only Live Twice" is set largely in Japan, and Connery's co-stars are that country's leading actors: Akiko Wakabayashi (that's a girl, of course), Mie Hama (another girl—still of course) Teru Shimada (a villain) and Tetsuro Tamba as Tiger Tanaka — Bond's contact in Tokyo.

Sean Connery again stars as 007 in Ian Fleming's "You Only Live Twice," showing in Panavision and Technicolor Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre, thru United Artists release. In this, the fifth

James Bond movie, the dauntless hero proves that even death and marriage cannot quell his lust for life! Lewis Gilbert directed the movie, in which Bond prevents World War 3!

"Dateline: Czechoslovakia" Enterprise Correspondent Looks Behind Iron Curtain; In Denmark

(Our Man About Europe this week "datelines" from behind the Iron Curtain, and indicates that although those places may be okay to visit, he wouldn't want to live there. He mailed his dispatch from Copenhagen, Denmark where he was visiting, and plans to visit several other European countries before his return to the United States.)

BY BILL PUMPHREY

To go behind the Iron Curtain is like stepping into a time machine which takes you to the days before World War II. There appears to be little, if any, progress since those days. The progress of the Western nations, by contrast, seems like fantasyland.

The most modern thing we saw during our brief visit behind the curtain was the Soviet-built Czechoslovak Airlines jet which carried us from Vienna to Prague. It's wings stuck out less from the sides than those of western built jets. It's interior was almost as comfortable and modern but somehow it appeared to be only an imitation of a Capitalist-built plane. The cabin insulation was definitely inferior and the whine of the jets was most irritating.

At Prague Airport we had to purchase visas ($5.60), the first country we've visited requiring them. And the visas could only be purchased with American dollars. The communist countries which have opened their doors to Western tourists are out to get as many dollars as they can so they can buy some products of our capitalist technology and industrialization. The official exchange rate is 7 crowns to one dollar, but the government gives 125 per cent bonus for dollars so we received 16 crowns to the dollar, and of course, countless people encountered us wanting to buy dollars at 3 or 4 times the government rate. It was tempting but the memory of the American boys in the Russian jails made us keep our exchanges official.

The airport bus into town rattled over a street full of holes. Through the fog we could catch glimpses of Russian and Czechoslovak flags hung in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the Russian Revolution. Big signs in red and gold told of the accomplishments of the Russians in only 50 years. Every window in every store had some display about Lenin or the Revolution.

We didn't have reservations but found room at the Hotel Paris. The Paris was formerly a grand continental hotel but it too offered little to prove that this was 1967 not 1937. It was comfortable and quaint.

The people we met on the streets were dressed in very dull clothes—shabby, I should say. The fashions displayed in windows were simple and ordinary. The people themselves seemed a little ill-at-ease, very different from the fun-loving Germans and Austrians we had just left. I think that even today people in communist countries live in fear although not so much as say twenty years ago. The Communist Party has life and death control over its people and they don't want to offend it.

Our trip wasn't all devoted to observing the plight of the communists though. We took a tour of the city and saw many interesting sites. Prague was once the seat of the Holy Roman Empire and as a result, it has its share of towers, castles, and churches. The city, as a result of its little modern progress, does have a special charm about it. It was nice visiting "yesteryear" when we knew we could return to the land of "today."

From Prague we flew on an East German plane to Berlin. There, at the East Berlin airport, we were delayed by the usual red tape. Our border crossing, however, went quite smoothly. The Soviet guards checked our passports while others looked under the bus for escaping East Germans. Then we drove across a no-man's land into West Berlin, a showcase of the 20th century and the greatest possible contrast to under developed communist countries behind the Iron Curtain.

Winters Archers Won Trophies At San Saba Meet

Ten members of the Runnels County Archery Association were entered in the San Saba Archery Invitational Tournament Nov. 5, and brought home four first place trophies, two second place, and one third place trophy, or approximately 50 percent of the trophies awarded in the meet. About 100 archers from throughout Texas competed.

Individual winners from Winters were Mrs. Marvin Clark, first; Marvin Clark, first; Tommy Chambliss, first; Mrs. J. B. Whitlow, second; Mrs. Bob Wilson; and Mrs. Don Vinson third.

The local archery association has set up an indoor archery range in the old Winters Variety Store building on West Dale Street, the first indoor range in the area. This indoor range will be used when adverse weather and short days during the winter prevent use of the big outdoor range at the Winters City Lake.

F. T. A.

By Susan Grantz
Saturday, November 4th, the twenty-four members and one sponsor of the Alpha Chi FTA attended the District XI Convention in Comanche. Immediately upon arrival everyone was registered and received a folder containing necessary articles for note taking. Also, there were refreshments served.

During this time, representatives from the various towns were busy campaigning for their candidate for a district office. Winters candidates were Cheryl Beard, who ran for president, and Randy Pendergrass, who ran for Parliamentarian.

Following registration, everyone assembled in the auditorium for the opening assembly. This began with a greeting from District President Gale Carpenter and followed by the presentation of colors and pledge of allegiance. After the invocation, Jerry Ellis, Superintendent of the Comanche school system, welcomed the Future Teachers. R. G. Parkinson, minister of the Church of Christ spoke on the theme of the convention — Invest, Innovate, Improve.

Entertainment by the various chapters followed and then the assembly was dismissed for the workshops to begin.

There were various workshops that one could attend. Some of these were Better Chapter Programs, Financing FTA Chapters, Qualifications of an Officer, and Ethical Code Practices for Future Teachers.

While the workshops were in session, the Mr. and Miss FTA speeches were being given. Winters representatives for Mr. and Miss FTA were Susan Grantz and Gene Templeton.

After the conclusion of the morning session, dinner was served in the Junior High Cafeteria.

The afternoon session opened with a general assembly. The workshop reports were given and the Mr. and Miss FTA winners were announced. The winners were Susan Wessels and Pat Holden, both from San Angelo Central.

The House of Delegates convened and amendments were adopted. Also, District officers were elected for the coming year.

The 1967 session of the District XI convention was then adjourned.

Mrs. W. W. McIver Dies At Age of 95, Rites Held Monday

Mrs. William W. McIver, 95, died early Sunday morning in the Winters Municipal Hospital, widow of a Civil War veteran and a long time Winters resident.

She was born Mary Fannie Ford, on February 2, 1872 in Dallas County and was married in 1891 at Palestine, Texas, to Mr. McIver. In 1905 the family moved to Buffalo Gap and in 1909 they moved to Bluff Creek in South Taylor County, where Mrs. McIver lived until 1942 when she moved to Winters, and had lived here until her death.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 p. m. at Spill Memorial Chapel with the Rev. Chester Wilkerson, a retired Methodist minister, officiating. Burial was in the Bluff Creek Cemetery in South Taylor County.

Surviving are three sons, Roger F. McIver of Abilene, Elmo McIver of Temple, Clay McIver of Winters; three daughters, Mrs. Gladys Gambill of Winters, Mrs. Sybil Powell of San Antonio, Mrs. Avis Cagle of San Antonio; two step-sons, George McIver of Abilene and John McIver of Hereford; one brother, Hugh Ford of Forestburg, Texas; 26 grandchildren and 41 great-grandchildren. Grandsons were pallbearers.

Representative Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee—the Committee which levies taxes and raises revenues—disregards this sort of back and forth challenge and goes to the heart of the question. He warns us to pause in headlong rush towards ever bigger Government and to establish priorities of what is essential and what is not. He points out that spending cuts in this fiscal year or in 1969, as welcome and as desirable as they are, is really not the central objective. He seems to believe that there is no solid indication of where we will be on Federal spending in fiscal 1969 through 1975, simply by resorting to piecemeal efforts. History in this regard indicates that cuts made this year will likely be matched by spending outbursts next year or the year after.

If these stops and goes are to continue we must go through the same tortuous, time-consuming and inefficient procedures we are now experiencing. Worst of all, from the long-range point of view, the major objective would not be accomplished.

Keep Rods in Tubes

Safest way to care for your fishing rod is to pack them in a metal or heavy fiber tube carrying case. They should not rattle around loosely inside the case, since this may result in breakage of the rod tip.

As It Looks From Here

Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th District, Texas

During the last two months the Congress and the Administration have been playing "High Noon" with one another. It is a sort of "You draw first" and when you do, you lose.

The President tells the Congress that if expenditures are to be reduced they should say where and how much. Some in the Congress want the President to make the cuts. Which ever makes reductions, the other wants the credit but no blame for programs and activities curtailed.

Chairman Mills says that our focus should be on controlling the growth of Federal claims on the Nation's production capability over the years and on making sure that the kinds of things the Federal Government does—the nature of its claims on the economy—conform with the Nation's changing preferences.

We all know well enough that the present budget contains programs that may have lost their justification and that we are called upon to approve others and vote vast sums for their operation, without having adequate information about what their current objectives are and how well they are performing or are likely to perform in the future.

The present emphasis is on curbing expenditures this year. This is desirable, but it is not enough. When Administration officials insist that it is Congress' job to cut appropriations and spending and insist that the President can not act until appropriations have been curbed, they are concentrating only on this year's expenditures. This sort of course of action will not, in the long run, curb outlays nor bring them under better control. This kind of buck passing makes it all the more difficult to come to grips with the real problem.

What is essential is a change in spending programs. The Congress and the Executive must focus sharply on what the Government is to do, as well as how much it is to spend.

To establish this kind of control and make it work, requires the active cooperation of all who have a responsibility in fiscal policy. The first step should be the Administration's recommendation for basic changes in Federal Programs. Only the Executive Department is in a position to undertake this policy and to do it properly. The Congress' job then would be to evaluate and to act upon these recommendations, and modifying where deemed desirable.

It must be understood that bringing Federal spending under control is the exact opposite from a broad ax spending slash approach. Any realistic approach should make it clear that Federal expenditures are going to increase through the years. This prospect should not be frightening if such expansion is properly constrained and such increases meet the demands necessary.

In sum, there should be clear purpose of what we want Government to do, the way we want it, when we want it, and as much as we want it to.

Your congressman won't know how you feel about restrictive gun legislation unless you write him.

Keep Essentials Handy
One of the handiest ways to fish is to keep a fairly large plastic box, say with a half-dozen compartments, on the boat seat beside you. It should have your most used lures, so that you don't have to open the big tackle box every time you change baits.
