HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The following remarks—from an address by Dr. Milford O. Rouse, president of the American Medical Association—are of transcendent importance. We have parenthesized a statement or two on our own to make a point:

To a society as large and diverse on this one, large government is a necessity. To a nation as strong as this one, strong government is indispensable. There are many things that can be done only by government and best by government.

There are other things, however, that can be done only by the private organizations and individual citizens working together and best by them.

There is a feature in the nature of government that keeps it from accomplishing many things that need to be done. An understanding of that factor both inside and outside of government would do much to explain the frequent frustration caused when well-intentioned programs do not live up to expectations.

The feature is that no matter how positive a government wants to be and no matter how positive the statements of its officials are, its efforts are often negative in execution.

Government can pass laws against theft, but no law can make a person want to be honest. Government can pass laws forbidding the abridgment of freedom of religion, but no law can make a person want to worship God. Government can pass laws against drunkenness, but no law can make a person want sobriety.

Government can and does try to stop people from doing undesirable things, but it cannot make them want to do desirable things.

The real danger to freedom today, as well as the cause of much frustration, anger and bewilderment, is that too many people are looking to the government to grant freedom, assure rights, build prosperity and create brotherhood—things no government in history has ever been equipped to do alone. Many people expect the government to do what only they can do for themselves.

Our nation faces an apparent widespread deterioration in personal integrity, seen in practically every segment and level of society, from the repairman who does shoddy work... to the factory worker who gives no thought to the quality of the product he is making... the clerk who takes office stamps... the salesman who pads his expense account... the manager who cheats on his taxes... the attorney who recommends an unjustified lawsuit. It also is seen at every level of government, from the legislative bodies to a city where national guard troops are mustered to keep order.

Government alone cannot solve this problem. There already are laws against all of these things. The solution can come only from a heightened desire by all people to be honest themselves and a willingness to insist on integrity in their neighbors, associates and elected officials.

Leaders in government understandably see it as their duty to do for the people of this country whatever they believe, or whatever they are told by citizen groups, is not already being done equitably, effectively and efficiently by the private sectors of society. (The West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene is an example in mind. Private sources have built it to become one of the largest of its kind... and private sources have stepped forward in a crisis to keep it going.)

When private citizens abdicate their responsibilities and ask the government to do a job, government responds in the only way it can: it passes more laws and usually appropriates more money. And every time another law is passed, it means another small or large restriction on somebody's freedom.

As citizens, in other words, we have this choice when facing a situation that needs correcting. We can do it ourselves; or we can ask the government to pass a law that saves us must fail to do it—and that sets up an administrative mechanism to enforce the prohibition. The former choice is by far the best way to meet a situation, at least from a standpoint of economy (Continued on page 8)

Several District And County Offices To Be Filled In This Year's Elections

Not since a few years ago, when terms of office for most county and district officials were changed to four-year terms, has there been a mass scramble for places on the ballot. Only a few of the elective offices are filled each election year, under the new system.

So county elections have become more or less a quieter affair, virtually due to the fact that only a few candidates are seeking election or re-election during any one election year.

In Runnels County this year, two district offices and three county offices will be filled, in addition to specific precinct vacancies.

Runnels Countians will vote for a Judge for the 119th Judicial District (Judge Glenn Lewis is incumbent); and a District Attorney for the 119th Judicial District (Royal Hart is incumbent).

In the county, the office of County Attorney will be up for grabs. O. L. Parish Jr., is incumbent County Attorney. Also, the office of County Tax Assessor-Collector will be filled this year. Pannell Leng Jr. is incumbent assessor-collector for Runnels County.

The office of Runnels County Sheriff also will be filled this year, for a four-year term. Don Atkins is sheriff.

Two County Commissioners will be elected this year, for Precincts 1 and 3. Clyde Chatman now represents Prec. 1.

Mary Lou Snow To Be Featured In Publication

Mary Lou Snow, granddaughter of Mrs. D. A. Dobbins, has been selected to appear in the 1967 edition of "Outstanding Women of America" which will be published in early March. The purpose of this publication is to recognize outstanding young women of our country and focus attention on their capabilities and their capacity for progressive action. Selections are made by local women's clubs, college alumni associations and military branches.

Mary Lou was accepted by Wellesley College for Women on a full scholarship from the National Merit Foundation, graduating in 1965 with a major in Chemistry.

For 15 months she worked as an assistant to a doctor in the research laboratory of the Institute for Muscle Disease in New York City, dealing with both muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis.

In September of 1966 she received a fellowship to Yale University in New Haven, Conn., to study toward her doctorate in chemistry. Now in her second year there, she is doing research in organic chemistry and teaching a laboratory class for freshmen.

Her parents are the Chester Snows of Altus, Okla. She has a younger sister, Betty, who will graduate in May from Southwestern State College in Weatherford, Okla., teaching the first grade in the fall.

and Pat Pritchard, Prec. 3. Two Peace Justice vacancies will occur this year, in Precincts 1 and 5. W. Turner was appointed to an unexpired term in Prec. 1 last September and his term will expire with this year. J. P. Prec. 5 also will see election of a Justice of the Peace: Ray Heathcott recently was appointed to complete an unexpired term.

Deadline for filing for these offices is February 5. First Primary will be held May 4.

E. J. Grindstaff Seeking Office Of Representative

To the Voters of Brown, Coleman, Comanche, and Runnels Counties:

It is a privilege to announce my candidacy for State Representative of the 64th District. As with each privilege in our society, I am not unmindful of the great responsibilities carried with this office. The State of Texas, with its varied and complex problems and its enormous and progressive growth, needs representatives of mature judgment who are able and qualified to cope wisely with these complex questions.

There is no substitute for experience and even though my experience has not been in this particular office, my background and experience have given me well rounded qualifications for the office. This alone would not be sufficient but for my long time interest in State Government and in all phases of community life of this area of West-Central Texas.

My primary concern when elected your State Representative is to represent the interests of the people of this District. This is a two fold responsibility which I believe can only be carried out in the following manner. One cannot escape the fact that you are primarily dealing with people in this capacity—first knowing the people of this District and having the capacity to determine the true desires and interests of these people; second, the proven ability to express these desires to legislators, State Agencies and other interested persons. Even though these objectives may vary and change in our changing society, these interests basically will revolve upon education at all levels, a vital and well-coordinated program of agricultural research and development, tourist development, continued development of our highway system and farm-to-market roads, preservation of our present water supplies and development of water sources for the future, industrial development, development of employment training and employment opportunities, continued improvement in law enforcement for the protection of person and property, and air (Continued on page 8)

Employer's Tax Returns Deadline

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 17.—Employers have an important tax deadline Wednesday, January 31, 1968.

This is the due date for reporting and paying withheld income tax and social security taxes for the calendar quarter ended December 31, 1967, according to Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for Northern Texas.

Employers who receive a pre-addressed Form 941 use this form to report their tax liability and should attach to the return the validated depository receipts for the months of October and November. If you made a deposit for December, that receipt should also be attached.

Employers who made deposits in a Federal Reserve Bank or authorized commercial bank sufficient to pay their full tax liability for the quarter ended December 31, 1967, have until Monday, February 12, 1968 to file Form 941.

January 31, 1968, is also the due date for reporting and paying Federal Unemployment Tax for 1967. Employers liable for this tax should file Form 940 for 1967.

Simplified Method For Claiming Medicare Benefits

By Ted F. Moellering

When medicare first started on July 1, 1966, there were two ways for older people to get their doctor bills paid under the program. The first called for the doctor's agreeing to claim the 80 percent payment direct from medicare, by filling out a very simple one-page application form. The other required that the beneficiary first pay the bill and then apply for the medicare payment, with or without the help of the doctor.

During the first year and a half of medicare, about half of the claims for doctor bills were put in directly by the doctors, while the beneficiaries had to apply, after paying the bill, in about half the cases. The system worked well enough—almost $1.3 billion was paid in benefits under it—but not without hardship to those older people who could raise the money to pay the bill only by borrowing or by depriving themselves of necessities while waiting for the medicare payment to come in.

Now Congress has changed all this to eliminate the necessity for the beneficiary's paying the bill first, in cases where the doctor decides not to make the claim himself. Beginning Jan. 1, 1968, all the beneficiary needs is an itemized bill—not an itemized, receipted bill as in the past. Of course, the assignment-to-the-doctor method is still the simplest method for all concerned. It requires the use of only a single sheet of paper (the "Request for Payments" form), with no attachments or enclosures that might become separated from the claims form and delay a payment. Also it has blanks for all of the kinds of information needed to pay a claim, thus preventing "write-

Direct Dialing To Begin February 4

Installation of central office equipment in Winters is progressing according to schedule and is now 95 percent complete, according to A. M. Chappell, division manager for General Telephone Company.

New dial central office equipment has been installed to replace the entire local exchange equipment that has been serving Winters customers since June 1956. The central office prefix will remain the same, but the last four digits of all Winters telephone numbers will be changed.

On February 4, customers will be changed to the new system and (EDDD) Expanded Direct Distance Dialing will be placed into operation. Long distance circuits will be re-centered and San Angelo will become the toll center.

Expanded Direct Distance Dialing is different from the conventional Direct Distance Dialing (DDD), in that it allows customers to dial person-to-person, collect, credit card, or special calls, as well as station-to-station calls.

Here is how EDDD works: On February 4, two new numbers—112 and 110—will become a part of the telephone long distance routine. Dialing one of these two numbers first connects you with equipment which permits you to dial your call. To dial a station-to-station call, you simply dial the access code—112, then the area code of the town you are calling—then the 7 digit number you are calling.

To dial a person-to-person or special call, you dial the access code—110, then the area code of the town you are calling—then the 7 digit number you are calling. Chappell noted that instructions for EDDD service will be in the front of the new telephone directory, which customers will receive at the time of the conversion. An EDDD instruction booklet will be mailed to all customers outlining how to use this convenient, modern telephone service.

When the project is completed, Winters customers will be able to dial most points throughout the United States and Canada.

Blizzards Lose To C-City In First District Game

The Winters Blizzards succumbed to a talented Colorado City outfit by the score of 72 to 51 in the first District 5AA contest for both teams last Friday night. Colorado City is expected to be the district champion and from the looks of their action Friday night it is all together possible that they will.

The Blizzards played well but the shooting and rebounding ability of the taller C-City Wolves proved too much. The Blizzards went out in front by scoring the game's opening basket, but the Wolves hit for six straight points and were never in serious trouble. The high point man for the game was Danny Kilough with 21 points.

In the B team game the Blizzards defeated the Wolves by the score of 51 to 37 as they played one of their best games of the season.

In other District 5AA play, Hamlin defeated Stamford 104 to 72 and Anson conquered Haskell 69 to 52. The district record for each team is Colorado City, Hamlin, and Anson with one win and no losses each and Stamford, Haskell, and Winters with no wins and one loss each.

Mrs. Juanita O'Connor's Weekly Home Demonstration Agent's Column

It is no grapevine rumor that we are now entering the season for the finest in grapefruit eating. That fact comes directly from the grapefruit tree, where the delicious fruit has been taking its own sweet time to achieve eating excellence. How can you tell when a grapefruit is fully ready? Actually, the taste or "spoon" test is the best measure of palatability. Only you can apply this method, as you enjoy the delicate citrus flavor at your table.

But research scientists and US Department of Agriculture inspectors have found other effective ways to measure grapefruit maturity. They consider juice content, sugar content, acid content and ratios of the three.

Here's how one noted horticulturist puts it:

As red grapefruit ripens, it becomes more melting (tender). Its color fades from ruby red to pink; the bitterish taste becomes much less pronounced; the acid content of the juice decreases, while its sugar content increases. Usually, by mid-December, the juice from South Texas red grapefruit is low enough in acid and high enough in sugars to have a 8 to 1 ratio between fruit sugars and citric acid. This kind of fruit is really good to eat. It will pass the most critical spoon test. It's the kind of grapefruit we find at local markets now. Also important in buying grapefruit, good fruits are firm, well-shaped and heavy for their size. Heavy fruits usually are thin-skinned, an indication of juiciness. Thick-skinned and "puffy" grapefruit are less juicy. Looking at it from the outside, a slightly pointed stem end on a grapefruit indicates thick skin. Don't let a russet or bronze color on the outer skin fool you. It is no indication of internal quality, according to inspectors, who grade much of each year's crop.

You can find fresh grapefruit at your local markets nearly all year long, but supplies are heaviest from January to May. And, the grapefruit coming in now is endowed with that delightful extra touch of sweetness. The fruits are firm, plump, and bursting with vitamin C-rich juice.

This year's harvest likely will be around 38.8 million boxes. That's 28 percent less than last year's huge harvest, but 1 percent more than average.

Joyce Kilmer saw beauty in the tree he personalized. Johnny Appleseed planted apple trees throughout the countryside. Another poet wrote, "For trees in poetry and art, our gratitude we voice."

The symbolic as well as the economic and beautifying significance of trees echoes through the nation, especially on Arbor Day. Color it green with trees as a motto as school children and citizens carry out Arbor Day traditions.

In 1949 the Texas State Legislature designated the third Friday in January as Arbor Day. "It is desirable to encourage the planting of trees throughout our Great State both for pleasure and use" read the resolution.

A historical review indicates that Arbor Day was born in the minds of a few people who understood the importance of trees, particularly the economic importance.

The day helped to finally bring about recognition of the need for forestry education and service in Texas.

as mountains serves as recreational areas, reduces erosion, protects watersheds and provides food and cover for wildlife. The pine-hardwood forests of East Texas provide the raw material for wood-using industries adding nearly $1 billion annually to the State's economy. In other areas they serve for shade or other ornamental purposes.

Arbor Day provides teachers and students with an opportunity to participate actively in the State's reforestation program, as well as to beautify their own school campuses. Any tree planted should be adapted to the area. Contact your county extension office of the Texas Forest Service for information.

Texas Governor James Stephen Hogg, whose request made the pecan the state tree in 1919, expressed, "I want no monument of stone or marble, but plant at my head a pecan tree and at my feet an old fashioned walnut. And when these trees shall bear, let the pecans and the walnuts be given out among the Plain people of Texas so they may plant them and make Texas a land of trees."

Long-Billed Cap

One of the biggest problems duck and goose hunters must overcome is covering the white of their faces turned to the sky. Incoming ducks and geese almost invariably flare away when they catch sight of a face down below.

Try wearing a long-billed fisherman's cap next time you are in a blind. It will help shield your face when you look up to shoot.

But be sure to dull any shine the long visor may have by scraping the visor cloth either with a penknife or a piece of broken glass.

Removing Skunk Odor

Sportsmen often have the misfortune to run over a skunk, or come so near to it that the animal sprays the car.

If the noxious odor is not removed soon, the odor will stay on the car for months.

Should this misfortune happen to you, dissolve a couple of cups of mustard powder in a bucket of hot water. Use an old mop, or an old rag tied around a broom, to swab car body, wheels, and other parts that may have been sprayed.

The sooner the cleaning operation is done, the more effective it will be.

Noise Lures Ling

When you're fishing offshore and have a school of ling milling around but not striking, try "noising" them into action. Ling are a very curious fish. They will come to a noise. Try bumping your foot against the side of the boat. Often you can make them strike by frothing up the surface with your rod tip, gaff or oar.

Know Where You Stand

Many business firms keep a day-to-day inventory of all items they handle. It shows what has come in, what has gone out, and what is left on hand. The advantages of this are evident.

The same plan may be used for your business or personal finances. A checking account here will provide a perpetual inventory of all money you receive, what you pay out and the balance which remains. Such a record protects you and makes for sound money management.

In this day, when taxes take much of your income, it is necessary to have good records and that is only one of the many reasons for having a Checking Account.

STATE Capital NEWS

By VERN SANFORD

Texas Liquor Control Board activities occupy a widening spotlight.

Complaints of wrong-doing by some board employees will be aired at a hearing before LCB members and Administrator Coke Stevenson Jr. here January 29.

Gov. John Connally has praised the board for firing of seven men over incidents involving questionable sale of a confiscated truck and alleged mishandling of 11 bottles of contraband liquor.

Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade called on the Texas Department of Public Safety to investigate the LCB after his staff came up with what he termed a "protection" scheme involving board agents. Grand jurors in Smith County also are probing a claim that one liquor license was so quickly granted that local law enforcement people had no chance to object.

Connally said he is confident the board itself will pursue every lead relentlessly and will call on DPS and the state attorney general to assist with the January 29 hearing.

"The board feels as I do," said the governor, "that any employee guilty of questionable conduct or misfeasance or malfeasance should be punished severely and quickly."

JUNIOR COLLEGE PROGRAM

Only minor objections were heard as the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, held a public hearing on its new plan for dividing the state into 52 regions. Plan would allow each region at least one junior college.

Project envisions basic post-high school education at junior colleges, with upper-division college work done at senior colleges and post-graduate work at the major universities.

Only objections to the plan were from Chambers of Commerce and similar organizations. Some did not like the way the board lined up the regions, leaving them with little hope of having their own junior college.

APPLICATION REVIEWS BEGIN

Texas Water Quality Board will begin considering applications for grants and loans to plan area-wide sewage treatment facilities on March 1.

Last year the Legislature allocated $2,000,000 for planning and feasibility studies for such facilities.

Board already has established a tentative priority system with ratings from "A" to "D". Top "A" priority areas are "almost assured of getting part of the funds available."

"A" areas are Bexar and Guadalupe Counties; Jefferson and Orange Counties; Galveston County; Brazoria, Fort Bend, Harris, Liberty and Montgomery Counties; Cameron County; and Collin, Dallas, Denton, Ellis, Johnson, Kaufman, Rockwall and Tarrant Counties.

APPOINTMENTS

Howard B. Boswell of Austin is new executive director of Texas Water Development Board. He succeeds Joe G. Moore Jr., who becomes commissioner of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration on February 1.

Robert L. Lewis, formerly of Ennis, succeeds retiring Talbot S. Huff as chief engineer of highway design for the Texas Highway Department on February 29.

John Myers Stokes of Lufkin is in charge of research services to candidates for the Republican state headquarters.

House Speaker Ben Barnes has named to the new Interim House Criminal Law Study Committee: Reps. James Nugent of Kerrville (chairman); Joe Shannon of Fort Worth; and Cletus Davis of Houston. Also El Paso District Attorney Barton Boling and San Antonio attorney Joe Frazier Brown.

Dr. Porter M. Bales Jr. of Tyler was appointed by the State Board of Education to fill the seat of Dr. B. E. Masters of Kilgore, who retired January 1.

Longtime State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer, Mark H. Hullings of Corpus Christi and Floyd J. Childs of Houston are the new executive committee members of the Texas Good Roads Association.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

County commissioners courts are not bound under the new open meetings law to permit live broadcasts of meetings or the taping of proceedings for delayed broadcast. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that: Anti-lottery laws are not violated by service stations which give away free cards entitling holders to win prizes.

A city can impose its building restrictions on public junior college districts and require them to pay regular building permit fees.

State Board of Examiners in Basic Sciences does not have authority to deny certificate of proficiency in chiropractic to an applicant otherwise qualified by law who presents evidence of having taken the required college credits.

State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers can employ an investigator to assist in performance of duties.

It is the obligation of the state to bury indigent patients who die in state hospitals or while on furlough from state institutions.

Local governments can bring suits to enforce water and air pollution controls without approval of state agencies.

Insurance companies subject to gross premium receipts taxes are also subject to sales taxes.

County commissioners have right to erect cattle guards paramount to that of landowner's right to erect gates, when in best interest of public.

Federal Bureau of Investigation cars are authorized emergency vehicles.

Texas Water Quality Board may adopt rules prescribing fees for copies of documents filed with it but has no authority to distribute free maps, papers and other documents to persons affected by proceedings.

Criminal trial witnesses are entitled to per diem compensation for the one day only regardless of the number of cases he testifies in that day.

Peace officers' fees in misdemeanor cases are governed by Article 5301 of Code of Criminal Procedure, felony case fees by Article 1029 and district clerks' fees in felony cases by Article 1064.

DALLAS FIRM'S BID LOW

State Building Commission awarded contract to R. E. McKee, General Contractors, Inc., of Dallas for $5,050,000 for new State Finance Building in the Capitol Complex. Legislature voted funds for it in 1965.

McKee was the low bidder among seven. Other bids ranged up to $5,328,000. It's the third big, new, modern office building in the complex.

Construction is scheduled to start on February 1.

STATEWIDE SCHOOL PLAN

U. S. Office of Education and the State Board of Education have given their approval to the Texas Education Agency's plan for developing a statewide program for coordinating the long list of federal, federal-state and local education programs.

Plan includes "integrating, coordinating and focusing presently diverse educational programs in the state on a limited number of high priority activities and populations."

Idea is that local school districts—after they've decided what federal and federal-state programs they want to participate in—file only one application, which would go through the state to the federal level.

Then, when it's time to report back what the grant money was used for, only one report for all the various programs would be necessary from each district.

FINE ARTS GRANTS DISTRIBUTED

First $23,109 in National Endowment for Arts grants has been distributed through the Texas Fine Arts Commission to help finance 11 cultural programs.

Money went to Midland Community Theatre, University of Texas Music Department, Texas Technological College in Lubbock, Victoria Civic Theatre, Dallas, Austin and Fort Worth Symphony Orchestras, Dallas Theatre Center, Houston Municipal Art Foundation, San Antonio's Texas Historical Theatre Foundation and Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos.

*68 TAGGED HISTORIC About 7,000 motor vehicles will be registered in Texas this year. State Highway Department says that's the largest number in Texas history. All license plates have been delivered to county tax assessor-collectors and will be issued during February and March.

Some 4,750,000 tags will go on passenger cars and 1,900,000 on commercial trucks and tractors. Balance is for trailers and motorcycles — where the biggest increase will take place. Motorcycle registrations are expected to be up 16 per cent this year as compared to a 3.5 per cent increase in cars and trucks.

Each owner must furnish the tax collector's office with the vehicle's title, 1967 license receipt and the owner's current address and zip code.

DRAFT QUOTA SET

February draft quota for Texas is 1,165 men. This is compared with 1,659 for January, 914 for December, 1,159 for November, 977 for October and 1,180 for September, says Col. Morris Schwartz, State Selective Service Director.

February figure is five per cent of the national call of 23,300.

The Local Selective Service Boards have been instructed to schedule 5,590 men for pre-induction examinations in February — a reduction from 5,455 ordered in January.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

Crisis In The Air
Air transportation — one of the nation's fastest-growing industries — is flying into a crisis which threatens to clip its wings temporarily at least. Airport facilities just aren't keeping pace with the demand. . . air corridor congestion is serious, especially on the East and West Coasts. . . and rapidly rising costs pose new problems of financing.

Inadequate Facilities
Our emergence into the jet age has broadened the horizons of air transport — both passenger and cargo — but it has also brought us face to face with the need for bigger and costlier terminal facilities. Air traffic has doubled since 1962. You can expect it to double again in the next 5 years. Most of the nation's airports are overcrowded —some dangerously so. A few are valiantly trying to handle far more planes than they have capacity for. In some airports, jet runways just aren't long enough for today's huge airliners; in others, radar installations aren't sufficient to do the job that true safety requires. Instrument landing systems seem not to be foolproof, at best. If not well maintained, they can contribute to accidents. Without question, pilots need the most accurate information possible to permit them to determine whether planes are coming in at the proper angle and altitude. . . but the development, installation, and operation of such delicate and sophisticated instruments will entail tremendous increases in the operational costs of airports.

Air Corridor Congestion
Airport congestion is getting worse by the week, with New York's Kennedy and LaGuardia fields, Chicago's O'Hare, and the Los Angeles International approaching saturation points. But there is also over-crowding of the air corridors themselves as passenger, military, and cargo craft take to the clouds in increasing numbers.

In such close quarters, speedy jets are a decided hazard, and the Federal Aviation Administration has set a new speed limit of 288 miles per hour for planes flying below 10,000 feet. Soon to come, perhaps, are regulations calling for wider spacing of aircraft in flight and when circling over airports awaiting opportunity to land.

Progress Must Be Financed
Meanwhile, the airlines are entering a critical period of very rapid growth during which their costs promise to rise sharply while their profit margins decline further. Pan American, which has $1.5 billion in new jets on order, has obtained long-term credit of $180 million to finance new planes. Trans World Airlines announced it had gotten $800 million in new money and re-financed mortgage notes. In today's high-cost, limited-availability money market, such sums must surely entail heavy burdens which will be a drain on earnings for some time to come.

Fare Boosts Due
Curiously enough, the Civil Aeronautics Board continued throughout 1967 to favor reduced airline fares. . . thereby whittling away their earnings base and making it more difficult for them to finance the purchase of new aircraft and new safety equipment. However, in December the CAB allowed four of the big airlines to increase somewhat their low "Discover America" discount fares on flights between the East and West Coasts.

and maintaining new and improved facilities to handle the great increase in air traffic and provide for the growth still to come.

Obviously, the airlines are also going to be faced with higher landing, storage, and maintenance fees as airports pass along the huge costs of installing

As the profits squeeze of the airlines intensifies, you can expect CAB to relent further by permitting selected fare increases so that those who fly will pay a bigger share of rising costs. And it's just possible the airlines may one day be collecting a federal head tax on each passenger ticket sold. . . to help pay for new airport facilities and safety devices.

If you are a morning bather, try scrubbing your feet before you climb into bed at night. Scrubbing them with a brush and not soapsuders stirs up circulation in the whole body. This will make you feel better.

The Family Lawyer

Divorce Bait

Janet and Ed knew that his mother was none too happy about their marriage. Yet they were both dismayed to learn, after her death, that she had left money to Ed strictly on condition that he get a divorce.

In short order they challenged the validity of this clause in court. There, the executor of the estate argued:

"It was the mother's money, to do with as she pleased. If Ed doesn't want to accept it on her terms, he is free to refuse it—and stay married to Janet."

However, the court ruled that Ed could collect his bequest without getting a divorce. The judge said that, as a matter of public policy, the law frowns on any device that is so clearly "hostile to the marriage relation."

It is a general rule that the law is biased in favor of matrimony. This kind of effort to break up a marriage, by using a bequest as "divorce bait," is usually held null and void.

Nevertheless, an anti-marriage clause might be upheld if, under the particular circumstances, its impact is relatively slight. For example:

A mother left money to her daughter, payable only if she got a divorce. But it also appeared that the daughter was already separated from her husband, and that a divorce suit was pending.

Upholding the terms of the bequest, the court pointed out that in this situation there was not much marriage left to preserve.

What if the bait has the opposite purpose: to keep the child married, rather than to get him divorced?

In one case, for instance, the will gave a son his bequest only if he remained married for a certain period. He sued to knock out this requirement, complaining that it would force him to stay married no matter how much his wife might misbehave.

But the court held that the son would indeed have to give up his right to divorce, at least for the specified time, if he wanted to collect the bequest.

The judge felt that society has less reason to protect the institution of divorce than to protect the institution of marriage.

You may wear a number nine shoe at home when pounding the pavements on a city street, but don't make the mistake of starting out on a 10 to 20 mile hike over rough terrain wearing your usual footgear.

The ancients called the cotton plant the "vegetable-lamb."

If you are an outdoors-column reader, you've undoubtedly, from time to time, heard the term "trap-shooting" mentioned.

But, surprisingly, many people don't know a great deal about trap-shooting. And many of those who actually have shot trap, or fired in competitive events, know little about the background of the sport. Being one of the uninformed, we decided to look into the subject.

It isn't a come-lately thing. In fact, the first mention of trapshooting as a sport was in 1793, in the English publication "Sporting Magazine." In an article the magazine referred to trap as a "well-established recreation" of the generation.

Today, trap is shot throughout Texas and the United States, as well as other countries. It is even an Olympic event.

Most large Texas cities have shooting ranges with trap facilities, and even a few small communities have their own trap ranges.

The world series of trapshooting is the annual national championships held at Vandalia, Ohio. Its official name is The Grand American Trapshooting Championships.

Basically, there are three different kinds of trapshooting events.

Most popular and most widespread is the standard 16-yard singles competition.

In this each competitor fires at five targets from each of five positions, all of which are 16 yards from the traphouse from which the clay bird is thrown. Each "bird" emerges from the house at a different angle and the shooter gets only one shot at each of the 25 targets. Idea of course is to break all 25.

When there is a tie, the champion is determined by a shoot-off of 25 more targets. Most single matches include four rounds, or 100 birds but some championship shoots involve 200 targets.

Another type is handicap shooting. This event is different from the 16-yard singles only in the distance the shooter stands from the trap. Minimum is 18 yards, maximum 27.

Annually each competitor is assigned a yardage handicap based on past performance. More proficient the shooter, the farther he will be stationed from the trap. Naturally the 27-yard shooter is rated the very best.

Doubles is one of the most challenging events, but not nearly as popular as the other two. All shooting is done from the 16-yard line, but a competitor must fire twice in succession at two targets thrown from the traphouse.

When any shooter wants a target released, he hollers "pull". This term came from the early beginnings of the sport, when a bird was placed under a hat with a string attached. At the shooters command, a puller yanked the string to release the bird.

Today's shooter still yells "PULL," even though the target is a clay bird released by mechanism inside the traphouse. Someone still has to trip the mechanism.

Records indicate that trapshooting first came to America in 1931, when it was introduced by the Sportsman Club of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Various birds like English sparrows, pigeons, and even quail were used for targets until about 1880, when glass balls 2½ inches in diameter, started to replace the live targets.

In 1880, George Ligowsky of Cincinnati came up with the idea of the "clay pigeon," an idea conceived by watching boys sail seashells over the water. Eventually the clay targets took the place of all other types of targets.

Today's clay bird is a concave disc slightly more than 4 inches across, 1½ inches thick, and weighing roughly 3½-oz. Normally it is black with a circular area of white or yellow in the center. It is designed to Cotton bolls normally mature from 40 to 50 days after the flower appears.

Rotating spindles in the mechanical cotton picker pull the open cotton from the boll.

In 1700, English wool growers had cotton's use outlawed.

Cotton can be made stretchable with a high twist of yarns.

Cotton's versatility is one of its outstanding characteristics.

Fabrics of cotton and wool do not pull apart at the seams.

I have a sincere belief that the voters of this District are capable and will determine that experienced and qualified leadership is a necessity for this office. We all have been most fortunate in having this type of leadership for several years as it has been an outstanding asset for the people of this district; however, it is now even more important that we place the responsibility of this office in experienced and qualified hands.

A resume of my activities will acquaint you with some of these facts although I will try to see as many of you as time will allow in the next few months. Being 36 years of age, I have been a licensed attorney of the State of Texas since 1954 and have practiced in Ballinger since 1956. During this time my legal time has been occupied as a partner in the firm of Grindstaff & Grindstaff and as City Attorney of the City of Ballinger since 1958.

I married the former Jeanette White, better known as Jay, of Fort Worth, Texas, in 1954, who graduated from Baylor University in 1953 and taught school in Brady one year prior to our marriage. We have two children, Jeff, 11, and Michelle, 9.

While in Baylor University, I was President of the Freshman Law Class, member of the Board of Governors of Baylor Law School, President of Phi Alpha Delta National Law Fraternity and Legislative and Cases Editor of the Baylor Law Review (legal periodical edited by the students). In 1954 I graduated with the BBA and LLB degrees. Immediately thereafter I served in the United States Army for two years in the Counter Intelligence Corps, one year of service being in Tokyo, Japan.

Past activities have included among others serving as:
President of the Ballinger Jaycees
President of the Ballinger Jaycees when they received Outstanding Project of the Year Award for the State of Texas.

backs" for missing data without which a claim cannot be paid. Under this method, the doctor agrees to accept the "reasonable charge" determined by the carrier, as his full charge, and the basis of the 80 percent payment made to him. The patient is responsible for the other 20 percent, plus any part of the $50 annual deductible that might be remaining.

But even if the doctor declines to accept an assignment, it can be to his advantage to use the "Request for Payments" form in lieu of his standard receipted bill in the case of medicare beneficiaries. Experience has shown that payments can be processed much faster when the form is used. This, in turn, will result in the beneficiary's receiving his medicare check sooner, with its proceeds passed along that much sooner to the attending doctor. All the doctor's office needs to do is complete Part II of the standard form. That will serve as the itemized bill which the patient can send in, to claim his payment. As before, medicare pays $4 out of every $5, after the first $50 medical bills in a year.

The government will be called on to help. Its resources and responsibilities certainly cannot and should not be overlooked. But the initiative, leadership and work should remain in the hands of the citizens.

(For instance, we have every right to expect government to allow us to qualify toward expression our opinion—such as at the ballot box. But we have no right to expect that government to "spoon-feed" us; we have a responsibility to display a little initiative on our own, such as registering to vote. It only takes a few minutes of our time, and if we can't display that much initiative then we should expect no alternative but to see even that right disappear.)

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By Vern Sanford
Texas has an astronomical fox population.

There are few places in the state where this familiar animal is not found. Gray fox predominate. But in a few places there are some red foxes.

Many times the fox gets blamed for something he didn't do. He is a handy scapegoat. He's charged with everything from a reduction in the quail population to a decline in wild turkeys.

But facts seldom convict the fox. Consider, for example, an incident which happened in New York state in 1947. There was a drastic reduction in the state's pheasant population and hunters were looking for something to blame it on. Unfortunately the fox got caught in the crossfire between the politicians and the hunters. Since hunters can vote and foxes cannot, the politicians concluded that the matter needed some serious study.

Two areas were chosen. In one area all the foxes possible were eliminated. In the other area foxes were protected and actually pampered. Each area had a comparable pheasant population.

After the study it was concluded that fox control had no bearing whatsoever on pheasant numbers. Despite claims to the contrary the fox was an insignificant factor as far as pheasant survival was concerned.

Actually the fox does more good than harm. One naturalist who studied foxes for 35 years, through observation of dens, stomachs and droppings, concluded that their main food was mice.

In "The Mammals of Texas" (published by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department), Dr. William B. Davis points out that the stomach of 42 gray foxes in Texas were examined, and the winter diet consisted mainly of small mammals like mice and gophers (56 per cent), with the rest being composed of insects (23 per cent) and birds (21 per cent).

During the summer the fox's diet changed somewhat, with the bulk of it (30 per cent) being persimmons and acorns, followed by small mammals, insects and birds. In only one of the 42 stomachs examined was there evidence of domestic poultry and quail.

"Consequently, as judged from these analyses, the usual food habits of the gray fox do not conflict much with man's own economy," Dr. Davis concluded.

Despite man's efforts to eradicate it, the fox not only has survived, it actually has multiplied and expanded its range. Much of this can be attributed to his adaptability. The fox can live under almost any conditions, and is clever enough to escape man's best efforts to do away with him.

Ernest Thompson Seton, the late American naturalist, wrote in 1910 of a remarkable fox that seemed to have unlimited stamina. His father's pack of fox hounds chased the fox over hill and dale. Soon the fox seemed to be ready to drop from exhaustion, but suddenly the fox was a spry as ever.

Finally it dawned on Seton and his companions that something was amiss. Every time the fox made a circle he went into a hollow log and out again. The hunters examined the log by banging on it. Out popped another fox.

The two foxes had been running in a relay. When one got tired he ran into the log and the fresh one scampered out the other side. Based on such evidence of survival, it is no wonder that the fox still is with us!

FROM CALIFORNIA
Visiting in the home of Mrs. Cordelia Alexander during the week end were her daughters, Mrs. Violet Archer of Los Angeles, California and Mrs. Hazel Glover of Odessa. They all visited in the Norval Alexander home during the week end.

The structure of cotton fiber has not been duplicated. The ancient Incas wove cotton.

In England, cotton was first used for candle wicks. Cotton linters are a source of cellulose for plastics. Fuzz from cottonseed is used in making synthetic fibers.

The unique twist of cotton fiber gives it many qualities. Cottonseed oil was shown at a scientific meeting in 1768. Cotton is the most popular fabric with teens, according to a recent survey.
