HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Mr. "Anon" really gets around to writing a lot of material. Here is a little item, entitled "A Prayer," attributed to him, which is worth a few minutes reflection.

"Lord, thou knowest better than I know myself that I am growing older and will some day be old. Keep me from the fatal habit of thinking I must say something on every subject and on every occasion. Release me from craving to straighten out everybody's affairs. Make me thoughtful but not moody, helpful but not bossy. With my vast store of wisdom, it seems a pity not to use it, but Thou knowest, Lord, that I want a few friends at the end.

"Keep my mind free from the recital of endless details; give me wings to get to the point. Seal my lips on my aches and pains. They are increasing, and love of rehearsing them is becoming sweeter as the years go by. I dare not ask for grace enough to enjoy the tales of others' pains but help me to endure them with patience.

"I dare not ask for improved memory but for a growing humility and a lessening cocksureness when my memory seems to clash with the memories of others. Teach me the glorious lesson that occasionally I may be mistaken.

"Keep me reasonably sweet; I do not want to be a Saint—some of them are so hard to live with—but a sour old person is one of the crowning works of the devil. Give me the ability to see good things in unexpected places and talents in unexpected people. And give me, Lord, the grace to tell them so.—Amen."

Our old friend out on Bluff Creek believes he has come up with a solution to the problem of student take-over of some of our universities. He suggests that we pick out a block of land—preferably in a location which would be downwind from the decent people—and present that block of land to those so-called students of unscrupulous minds and bodies, and tell them that if they really want to run a university their way, as they claim to go ahead and build themselves one. Tell them they can stock it with all the Reds, near-Reds, Pinks, and other misfits and malcontents they please. Give them to understand they will have to furnish the wherewithal it will take to build themselves a university of their own liking. (They can pick the money off the trees they imagine it grows on.)

One thing the rest of us should be willing to do, however, according to the Red Bluffer: We should be willing to furnish the "dipping tank" and the fumigating equipment which would be needed for any one of them who might slip into decent society.

CORRECTION

In the article last week about the release and presentation of the Glacier, Winters High School yearbook, the name of Dick Jon McNeill was inadvertently left off the list of those students who had been honored during the year at the school. McNeill was FHA Sweetheart, and a page in the annual was devoted to him. The Enterprise regrets this oversight.

City Calls For Bids On Moving North Water Tank

The City of Winters is issuing a call for bids on moving the water storage tower on North Main Street, in preparation for the work which is expected to begin within a few months on rebuilding US 83 through Winters.

The water tower must be moved 48 feet east of the present location.

Decision to make the call for bids was made by the City Council during the regular meeting Monday night.

The Council also is calling for bids on enough 8-inch water pipe to be installed from the Novice Highway south to Wills Street in the southeast section of town. Wills Street marks the City Limits on the south. Plans are to run the line in alleys, and to connect with the north water tower in its new location. This 8-inch line will be installed in accordance with a master plan for looping the city with big-capacity lines to take care of present and future demands for water.

The City Council also is planning to employ an engineer to study construction of an addition to and renovation of the present City Sewer Plant.

In other business, the Council approved a resolution calling for annexation of a portion of US 83, south from the City Limits to a short distance south of the Chick Inn drive-in. A public hearing will be held at the City Hall May 20 for discussion of this proposal.

City officials explained that no private land would be included in this annexation proposal—only the highway and right-of-way is being included. Annexation of the highway is necessary for health and police protection, it was explained.

Cong. Burleson Names Campaign Committeemen

Congressman Omar Burleson, who recently spent the Easter Recess in this 17th Congressional District, speaking to Chamber of Commerce banquets, and touring soil conservation Service Watershed projects in the south part of the District, has announced his campaign coordinating committee for the year. The Committee will be Larry Adamson, Taylor and Jones County farmer, Maurice Brooks, Abilene Attorney, Walter Johnson, president of the First National Bank of Abilene, Morgan Jones, Jr., Abilene Investments Firm, and Si Addington, owner and operator of Conroy Armored Car Service. City and County chairmen from over the District again include those leaders who have in the past been active in Burleson's campaign activities.

Congressman Burleson, who was unopposed in the Democratic Primary, has announced that he again plans to campaign in as many cities and towns in the District as possible, and pointed out the difficulty in getting around to each county as often as he would like to. Referring to the last redistricting, which added seven additional Counties to the 17th Congressional District, the Congressman pointed out that the District now includes 31 Counties, spreading from Big Spring on the West to Mineral Wells on the East, and from Haskell on the North to within 30 miles of Austin on the South. The District also stretches from Hamilton County on the Southeast to Garden City in Glasscock County on the Southwest. The new District, including the 7 new Counties of Mason, Menard, McCullough, San Saba, Lampasas, Llano and Burnet, will be effected in January 1969, and consists of approximately 440,000 people covering a larger area than six of the states in the New England area, in which approximately 16 million people reside.

The Congressman said, "with the Congress remaining in session so long each year, it is very difficult to get around over the District just using holidays and during the short period of time the Congress is adjourned between sessions." He continued, "I feel it incumbent upon me to visit in as many counties as possible as often as possible in order to keep in touch with the people and have some idea of the feelings back home, if I am to adequately represent this vast, wonderful big West and Central Texas area in the U. S. Congress."

Burleson will spend the last weekend this month in the District, at which time he will be honored at Coleman, give the commencement address at Anson High School, and speak at the annual Jaycee Installation Banquet at Haskell. This will probably be his last visit to the District until the Congress recesses for the two National Conventions in August, according to a Spokesman in his Abilene office.

Winters Voters Went All Out For Ebb; Helped Send Preston Smith To Runoff

Voters in Winters' two precincts went the way of a heavy majority of Rannels Countians in Saturday's Democratic Primary, showed favoritism toward Everett J. (Ebb) Grindstaff in the State Representative race, and helped the Rannels County candidate top-out in the four-county area for a place on the runoff ticket.

Wintersites also showed preference for Preston Smith, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, although a close second choice for that nomination was Dolph Briscoe. Local voters also showed a slight preference for Waggoner Carr and Eugene Locke over Don Yarborough, the so-called liberal from Harris County who will be on the runoff ballot with Smith for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Of the total four-county unofficial count of 6,036 for Ebb Grindstaff in the 64th District Representative race, Winters provided a substantial 604, 392 in Box 6, and 212 in Box 7. In the three referendum propositions, Winters voters went "against" all proposals. The three propositions were only an expression of public opinion and have no force or effect as law.

The "liquor by the drink" proposal received 223 For, and 457 Against.

Pari-mutual betting was not favored by Wintersites, 254 For, and 423 Against.

"Enactment by the Texas Legislature of a law creating the Texas Dairy Commission with the power to regulate and fix the retail and wholesale price of milk" 185 For, 409 Against, in Winters' two boxes.

In Precinct conventions held in Winters' two voting precincts, adopted the unit rule resolution, and also the Connally-for-Favorite-Son resolution.

Omar Burleson, who had no opponent in his bid for re-election as U. S. Representative, 17th District of Texas, polled 622 in Winters' two boxes.

Other candidates for re-election on a district and county level had no opposition. They include Glenn R. Lewis, District Judge, 119th Judicial District; Royal Hart, District Attorney, 119th Judicial District; O. L. Parish Jr., Rannels County Tax Assessor-Collector.

Winters voters went along with the rest of the state in their choice of Ben Barnes for nomination for Lieutenant Governor, with 683 in his favor. Gene Smith received 29, and Don Gladden, 21, in Winters.

Flavorful Cheese:
Say cheese! No wonder this word provokes such a nice smile for the camera. Just the thought of cheese brings on remembrances of happy eating. Cheese represents such a variety, it's hard to realize that one word describes so many different flavors.
Cheese of one kind or another is a universal food. It's made wherever animals are milked and produce more milk than people can use in fluid form. Although no one knows exactly how cheesemaking began, one ancient legend credits it to the happy accident of an Arabian merchant. The merchant set out on a long day's journey across the desert and put his supply of milk into a pouch made of sheep's stomach. The rennet in the lining of the pouch combined with the heat of the sun and caused the milk to separate into curd and whey. At night, the merchant found that the whey satisfied his thirst while the cheese (curd) satisfied his hunger and had a delightful flavor. So, according to legend, began the making of one of our most useful foods.

One of the most popular cheese varieties in this country is Cheddar or American cheese. This cheese is well-suited for a multitude of tempting snack and mealtime dishes, mainly because it comes in many flavors and textures. Both flavor and texture are governed by the length of time the cheese is aged.
Mildly flavored cheddar is aged less than 30 days and is gently firm in texture. Flavorful cheddar has a medium firm texture and more flavor, the result of ageing up to 3 months. The robust, full-flavored cheddars are aged six months or more—have a very firm texture and are suitable for grating as well as slicing.
Color of cheddar ranges from white to the deepest orange. However, the color does not indicate either flavor or texture. Americans continue to increase their consumption of cheese, says Mrs. O'Connor. During 1967 we ate on the average of 2 1/2 pounds more cheese than we did 10 years ago.

Here are some tips on cheese storage. Keep soft cheese as you do milk, in the refrigerator in a tightly covered container. Because soft cheese is quite perishable, it should be used within a few days after buying. Other cheeses keep well in the refrigerator for several weeks, if kept in airtight packages.
Refrigerate packaged cheese in its container, also using additional covering of waxed paper, plastic bag or laminated foil to enclose cut surfaces of the cheese. Wrap unpackaged cheese with any of the aforementioned wrappings. Or place in a glass jar that has a tight fitting cover and refrigerate. When planning the family menu, remember cheese ranks as a top quality protein food—a nutritious alternate for meats. It's also a good source of such important nutrients as calcium and riboflavin.
New York City is speeding up downtown traffic by towing parked cars to the police pound. They also tow ships out to sea.
Tasty halibut offers a real eating treat. With warm days ahead, plan to cook halibut steaks on the outdoor grill.
Cotton lintners are used in making shatterproof glass.

RUNNELS COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Texas Liquor Control Board is heading for an early showdown test of its new get-tough policies on subterfuge private clubs.

In a surprise order, the Board outlawed cash sales in all bottle clubs.

Some club operators, who already were complaining mightily about an earlier LCB directive prohibiting manager-members from issuing guest cards to walk-in customers, were hard hit. One promptly filed a lawsuit here to enjoin the board's regulations.

Net result of the cash sale requirement will be to eliminate the casual guests, since operators wouldn't want to run the risk of granting total strangers a month's credit for a highly-perishable commodity.

Hotel-motel clubs who expect to solve the problem by putting club charges on room tabs may find the Board's definition of a cash sale quite restrictive: "It shall be deemed that a cash sale has been made if payment for a service or commodity is made on the same date or within eight hours after the occurrence of such service or the delivery of such commodity."

Clubs also received a long list of new instructions for keeping records and running their affairs according to by-laws and through boards of directors.

More rules are expected to be forthcoming from the LCB. Times may be hard for all but strictly private and proper clubs in the near future.

LCB Attorney Lynnwood Elliott said he thinks the cash sale directive will restrict clubs: "I feel, quite frankly, that when you prohibit a club from making a cash sale it will be less inclined to serve the public at large and will start serving properly - screened members."

Situation is expected to bring new pressure for liquor-by-the-drink legalization. Club owners claim they are being made political footfalls.

RIOT CONTROL TRAINING: All Department of Public Safety officers have undergone an intensive, accelerated riot control training program. Plans are drawn for maximum assistance to local authorities. State also is buying $200,000 worth of anti-riot equipment for use of National and State Guards.

DPS reported it stands ready to make "major commitment" of personnel and equipment on request from a local law enforcement agency—although it hopes none will be necessary.

COURTS SPEAK: Supreme Court held taxable natural gas used as fuel for engines that pump oil.

In a variety of other opinions, High Court ruled as follows: Lower courts were right in concluding that a Houston fireman was suspended improperly for buying two mink stoles and a color tv set (believed to have been stolen) from another fireman. (Suspended firefighter denied any knowledge of stolen goods.)

Texas veterans land bonds worth $30,000,000 sold for an average interest rate of 4.33 per cent.

First National Bank in Dallas, Harris Trust and Savings Bank in Houston, and First National City Bank of New York and Associates were successful bidders on bonds.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, chairman of the Veterans Land Board, said the sale was necessary to continue purchase of land for the Texas program recently revived by constitutional amendment.

Before used for buying veterans land, money will be invested in short-term government securities to offset any interest costs accruing against the Veterans Land Board. Sadler said AAA bond rating and the excellent pay record of the Veterans Land Board made it possible to sell bonds below market.

State Liquor Control Board named Homer M. DeGlandon of Austin as its chief of staff services and Donald R. Fishel of Boerne its director of special investigations. Texas veterans land bonds worth $30,000,000 sold for an average interest rate of 4.33 per cent.

First National Bank in Dallas, Harris Trust and Savings Bank in Houston, and First National City Bank of New York and Associates were successful bidders on bonds.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, chairman of the Veterans Land Board, said the sale was necessary to continue purchase of land for the Texas program recently revived by constitutional amendment.

Before used for buying veterans land, money will be invested in short-term government securities to offset any interest costs accruing against the Veterans Land Board. Sadler said AAA bond rating and the excellent pay record of the Veterans Land Board made it possible to sell bonds below market.

Literary, Service Club Visited H-SU Fine Arts Dept.

"Every work of art has as much reason for being as earth and sun," was the theme for The Literary and Service Club meeting on Thursday, May 2, in the Fine Arts Department of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene.

The Club President, Mrs. J. S. Tierce opened the meeting and Mrs. Homer Hodge gave the opening prayer. Mrs. E. E. Thormeyer introduced the speaker for the evening, Miss Suella Lacy, faculty member at the University, to 22 members and guests.

Miss Lacy gave a most informative lecture on the art of today, giving seven points to remember in evaluating any form of art. She challenged each one present to study and become informed enough to understand the new forms of art expression.

Her lecture was followed by a tour of the Department where a new outdoor gas kiln is being built. An art student demonstrated throwing a lump of clay and molding it into a vase on the potters wheel with explanations of different methods of pottery formation.

Paintings and crafts done by students were also on exhibit. Miss Lacy explained the detailed sketching which their students are required to do, and the several types of paintings that the students had on display.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

A hunter steals into the sullen woods as daylight is just becoming a promise. He finds a good spot to sit down and wait.

As light leaks through the canopy of treetops overhead, he suddenly hears a squirrel barking from a nearby tree. Slowly he eased a tiny thin-rubber ball with a perforated diaphragm over a nipple on one end and, holding the contraption in one hand, he taps on it with the forefinger of the other.

The short puffs of air pushed through the diaphragm make a sound that resembles a frisky squirrel greeting the new day. Almost immediately one of the arboreal animals answers. The hunter talks to it again. From the crown of the nearby tree it bounces into the open. The hunter raises his rifle. . . .

To me this is one of the most fascinating ways of all to hunt the ubiquitous bushytail, luring it into the open with the aid of a call. And it is one of the most productive, too.

Squirrel calls of different shapes and designs are available in most sporting goods stores. Anyone with a little practice can become proficient enough to fool one of the curious squirrels.

Best time to hunt is that magic hour from daybreak until soon after sun-up. Best season is the fall when the bushytails are most loquacious and most susceptible to a call.

This is perfect sport for the 22 rimfire rifle, because a squirrel brought out by a call will be set up for a standing shot. Also, the mild report doesn't greatly alarm the critters and often the patient hunter can bag several by never moving from one position.

Calling squirrels is nothing new. Hunters have been using various sounds for fooling bushytails since almost the beginning of the sport of hunting squirrels.

There is no set rule on how the call should be manipulated. Sometimes a steady, incessant call works best; on others an occasional bark, followed by a period of silence, is more effective. The hunter who works his call every time a squirrel actually barks won't go wrong.

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

We can be very proud of our colleges and universities where no "sit-ins" and "lie-ins" have taken place.

In fact, it is beyond the imagination that students who respect and enjoy the opportunity of getting an education would permit a small, militant, disruptive minority to completely paralyze the institution to which they are devoted.

Here in Washington, some 60 odd students were able to totally close down Howard University of 8,000 enrolled students.

This University is largely supported by Federal funds and out of which have come able men and women who have contributed greatly to the Negro race.

Maryland University at College Park was paralyzed by "student power" until the greater part of vague demands were met.

Until the police were called in and arrested the ringleaders, a comparatively few students forced the closing of Columbia University, continuing their defiance even after some of their demands were met.

Winner's Tops Club Held Regular Meet Monday Evening

Members of the Winner's Tops Club held their regular weekly meeting Monday evening at the Den. The Club met early so that they were able to go to Wingate to have dinner with the Gater Tops.

Their menu consisted of barbecue hamburger patties, tossed salad, slaw salad, bean salad, deviled eggs and a fruit salad. The table arrangement was very appropriate, having a salad in a pig's trough and other salads were arranged in buckets, placed around the trough, which was very original.

Those attending were Mesdames Wes Hays, D. W. Williams, Bert Humble, Marvin Bedford, Ed Donica, Boyd Bedford, Bill Millhorn, Carl Pendergrass, Tommy Burton, W. L. Colburn, Walter Graham, R. W. Owens, James Williams, Bill Hamilton, Alpheus Hill, Birl Holleman, E. J. Albro, George Cave, Joe Bryan, Pat Pritchard and Mrs. Beck.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Bequeathing Your Body

Since time immemorial, men have been making bequests of their money or other worldly possessions. But suddenly, just within the past few years, a new kind of bequest has come into being.

Today a person can bequeath not only his wealth but also various parts of his own body. This has become possible because of a series of scientific breakthroughs. Doctors are now able to transplant, from the dead to the living, everything from eyes to kidneys, from skin to bones.

One result of this development has been to focus attention on the unusual legal problems that are involved.

Offhand it might seem that it should be just as easy, legally, to donate one's body after death as to donate one's blood during life.

But there is a stumbling block. In matters of burial, the law has traditionally given consideration not only to the wishes of his surviving family. And even though the deceased may have wanted to donate all or part of his body, the widow or other relatives might well feel differently about it.

In many states, relatives do have a legal right to say no. The doctor who defies them, removing organs or tissue without their consent, may be exposing himself to a damage suit—and perhaps criminal liability too, for tampering with a dead body.

Even if the rights of relatives are in doubt, the mere delay caused by a dispute may make the whole question academic. For the transplantation of most bodily parts must be done swiftly, within minutes of death, to be successful.

To clear away these difficulties, a special committee has gone to work under the auspices of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. It is drawing up a model statute, to be recommended for adoption by the various state legislatures.

The committee is seeking to insure, to every person willing to be a donor, that his wishes will be carried out. It is seeking to devise a modern mechanism for a new kind of gift—and to transplant it into the body of the law.

with enough people, sooner or later the Government would step in to force it to a halt. "At that point," he said, "revolutionaries will have to fight to survive."

The assistant professor of philosophy, Larry Caroline, was further quoted as saying that political and cultural revolution was necessary because legislative reforms had proved unable to cure society's ills. "Abolition of private property is necessary for a just society and legislation won't go that far," he is quoted as saying. He said until people are convinced that "property is theft," that little justice can be attained in America.

Perhaps we should not wonder at the conduct of a few radical rabble-rousers who come under the influence of such teachings.

On March 12, 1964, in this space, attention was called to the power and influence of university students in foreign countries, the implication being that it could not happen here, but it has and it is.

Just as was the case at Berkeley, there is reason to believe that a pattern of Communist influence is present in these actions.

In our area students loyal to their school and grateful for the opportunity of an education, would likely save college and university officials the trouble of disciplinary action by throwing these elements off the campus themselves.

Visit in Kansas

Drs. C. R. and Lois Bellis, Lisa Dawn, Mrs. DeAnn Green and son Roy Allen returned from a week end at Topeka, Kansas where they attended a family reunion and the 83rd birthday celebration for Mrs. Della E. Beach who is the mother of Dr. Lois Bellis. They also visited another daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Cooke and family in Belvue, Kansas.

Further, merely by taking on such a job in the first place, an umpire assumes a certain amount of risk.

In one case a college student, volunteering to umpire in a practice game, took up a position close behind the netting of the batting cage. A fast foul ball thudded into the netting and struck the student in the eye.

In due course he sued the school for damages, complaining that there was too much slack in the netting. But the court ruled that this was a risk he himself had assumed by standing in such a vulnerable spot.

Still, umpires do have the consolation of wielding vast power within the game itself. According to Section 9.02 of the Official Baseball Rules, the umpire's call, on almost every question, is the final word on the umpire has the kind of authority that a judge on the bench might well envy.

One umpire displayed a keen sense of baseball law when he said:

"They ain't strikes, they ain't balls, they ain't nothin' 'till I call 'em!"
