Around 200 students are enrolled in the summer migrant program in the Muleshoe School System, said Elizabeth Watson, coordinator of the program. Thursday morning, 200 children, ranging from pre-school through the eighth grade checked in at school for the activities, which range from oral language, personal experience and discussion, swimming and field trips. Mrs. Sanders is teaching a class of 15 non-English speaking children during the special summer session. Assisting with the program are eight teachers; six aides from the National Youth Corp; three teacher aides; a nurse; Mrs. Manuel Balderas as liaison worker and volunteers from the high school home economics department.

The volunteer workers from the home economics department who have undertaken the program as a summer project include Jeanette Ball, Kay Campbell, Cynthia Chandler, Christi Ford, Barbara Harper, Donna Lambert, Sharon Martin, Kim Milner, Dagmar Poteet, Regina Poteet, Vowery Throckmorton, Danita Throckmorton, Pati Nickels and Sharon Wrinkle.

They are supervised and coordinated by Mrs. Jay Harbin, teacher with the MHS home and family living department of the home economics division of the school. Each Thursday, Shirley Dickson, consultant with the Region XVII Center of Lubbock attends the session in Muleshoe and assists with training in the migrant program. Classes are held from 8 a.m.-2 p.m., and emphasis is placed on 'catching up' the migrant student to those who have previously been enrolled in the schools. Migrant children were specified as being a child who moved with his or her family from another school district since January 1, 1967, and whose parents are either farmers, or in other agriculture or food related types of employment. Textbook List For Next Year Arrived Here

A list of proposed textbooks for possible adoption for the Muleshoe Independent School System has been received in the office of Muleshoe School Superintendent Neal B. Dillman.

Superintendent Dillman said the book list may be checked by interested persons at his office at 514 West Avenue G. The textbook list is sent to all schools by J. B. Golden, textbook division of the Texas Education Agency prior to their meeting at 9 a.m. on September 14. At that time, the State Textbook Committee will hear petitions regarding any of the books offered for adoption.

The Textbook Committee will then make its recommendations from the list on September 15 and the final responsibility for giving approval to the State Textbook Committee's recommendations rest with the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education.

For books to be adopted within a local school system, selection committee's and local boards will make the decision. Local school officials will be allowed to choose one or more of the textbooks adopted by the State Board of Education and the books will be available for distribution for the school year beginning September 1, 1972.

Superintendent Dillman said any interested persons can check the list of books offered for adoption and if they object to a particular textbook or books, they may file a petition protesting adoption of the book.

Grain Contracts To Be Discussed At NFO Meet

A meeting of the National Farmers Organization has been called for Tuesday, June 22, according to Leldon Phillips.

He said the meeting will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Muleshoe State Bank Community Room and urged all NFO members and interested grain producers to attend the meeting. Phillips said the discussion will center around contracting 1971 grain sorghum.

It is possible that out-of-town speakers will also attend the meeting, which Phillips said was 'most urgent.'

After-Tax Income Increase Boosted

In an effort to increase after-tax income and to create an alternative to general revenue sharing, Panhandle Congressman Bob Price has introduced the Individual Tax Sharing Act of 1971.

Under the Price proposal, the Internal Revenue Code would be amended to allow individuals to each year deduct 20 percent of their state and local taxes from their federal taxes. This tax credit would be easy to compute and would be available to all taxpayers.

The Act would also increase to 80 percent the present allowable credit for state death taxes. Current rates, which were established in 1926, provide a credit of only about 10 percent of present estate tax rates.

Another key provision in the Price proposal would exempt servicemen who die as a result of injuries sustained in a combat zone from paying federal estate taxes. Price said this provision was based on the principle that those who sacrifice their lives for their country should not have to surrender part of their legacies to the federal government as well.

Price commented he believed

Sheriff Warns Of Solicitors

Sheriff Dee Clements has issued a cautionary note to business and professional persons who receive telephone calls from solicitors for law enforcement magazines purporting to aid law enforcement agencies through their magazine.

Sheriff Clements said he would like to remind merchants that when the one locally supported law enforcement magazine, The Texas Lawman, is represented in Muleshoe for one day a year, either he, or one of his officers accompany the representative throughout the day. He added that with The Texas Lawman magazine, many benefits are made to law enforcement agencies, and said that it is the only law enforcement magazine backed by local law agencies.

BOOSTERS FOR FOOTBALL--A number of Lubbock boosters were greeted by the red coat division of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce, members of civic clubs and private citizens Wednesday morning when they were visiting boosting the Coaches All-American Football Game which will be played in Lubbock Saturday, June 26. At left, Jeff Peeler is pictured visiting with one of the boosters as Jerry Hutton, center, listens in. At the right, Harvey Bass, second from right, carries on another conversation with another member of the touring group.

SUMMER TIME FUN--Part of the training program in the Summer Migrant School activity is swimming. Here, just a portion of the 200 students are pictured, along with aides and life-guards as they enjoy some fun in the sun at the city swimming pool Thursday morning. The students go to the swimming pool for an hour Monday through Thursday and are beginning swimming lessons. Getting acquainted, bridging language barriers and learning to study and play together is part of the plan for the students. Coordinator of the summer school is Elizabeth Watson.

New Cucumber Now Developed For Greenhouse

LUBBOCK -- A "distinctly different" cucumber that should satisfy every vegetable connoisseur's tastes may find a place in the developing West Texas greenhouse vegetable industry.

"The European forcing cucumber has a mild melon-like flavor and is seedless and burpless," explains Dr. Bill Lipe, research horticulturist at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock. "It has gained wide acceptance in both eastern and western markets."

Research findings at the A&M Center indicate that the European "cukes" could make a profitable contribution to the greenhouse vegetable business. "These cucumbers come into production in eight to ten weeks from seeding and may be harvested over a two-to-three-month period," says Lipe. "In our tests, yields have exceeded 225,000 pounds of marketable cukes per acre. Of six varieties, Factum and Fabulous, two of the European types, were the most outstanding."

Greenhouse cucumbers are grown similar to greenhouse tomatoes, points out the researcher. However, since the seedless cucumber does not require pollination, this expensive hand operation is omitted. Also, pruning and training of the cucumber plants is less requiring than with tomatoes.

The cucumbers are set out at 10,000 to 12,000 plants per acre and are trained on vertical strings eight to nine feet high. Pruning and tying are necessary to insure that the vines will ascend the strings properly.

In describing the cucumbers, Lipe says, "They are longer than field grown slicers, usually averaging about 12 to 14 inches and weighing just under a pound. Most varieties are

Rotary Hoe Use Can Improve Melon Stands

LUBBOCK--Timely use of a rotary hoe can improve a poor stand of melons or cucumbers by giving partially buried plants a new breath of life.

This practice can also save the cost of replanting, points out Dr. Roland Roberts, area vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Some replanting is now underway because recent rains, hail storms and blowing sand have partially covered some plantings and have also caused crusting of the soil. This operation may be unnecessary in some cases, contends the specialist. Roberts cites a situation in Hale County where a stand of cucumbers was about one plant per five feet of row and other plants were partially buried. Emerged seedlings were still in the cotyledon (first leaf) stage. A rotary hoe set to penetrate about one-half inch of soil was used, exposing at least one formerly buried plant per foot of row. Only an occasional plant was damaged by the rotary hoe.

According to the specialist, the grower will not have to replant since he doubled or tripled his previous stand. And the prospects for a profitable crop are good.

Planning for the future is the only way to improve the future.

Have you notice any old eye sores around that have looked bad for years; and all of a sudden have been cleaned up and painted up? Sure you have! We appreciate everyone's work on clean up campaign; especially the ladies auxiliary for the posters and flowers; also the clean up committee for getting everyone to thinking about how much nicer and cleaner Muleshoe could look. The tourist committee headed by R. A. Bradley tells us the litter bags are in and have already been stuffed with literature and are being passed out to tourists. Monday will be a treat for Muleshoe tourists as they will receive tourist information and free lemonade from the Rainbow girls. But Monday is only the first day, the project will continue on a five or six day basis throughout the summer. We would like to thank John Fried for the use of the chuck wagon, Eli Northcutt for setting it up, and especially the Rainbow girls for their work.

Farmers Ponder Spotty Grain Sorghum Stand

Spotty grain sorghum stands in High Plains fields are plaguing both area farmers and scientists at the High Plains Research Foundation.

The spotted stands can be attributed to a number of factors, such as drought, cold weather, seed germination, herbicide residue damage, etc. Scientists at the High Plains Research Foundation have visual demonstration of damage from herbicide residues in minimum tillage plots at the Foundation.

According to Dennis Mooney, agronomist, in plots where Treflan was disk incorporated, last year, sorghum stands have been reduced as much as a third compared to plots where the herbicide was incorporated with a rolling cultivator.

"It is easy to notice the difference where these plots are side by side," Mooney said. "We got better weed control from the disked method last year, but as can be expected, we have a greater problem with herbicide residue," he said. Similar problems were noted in off-station minimum tillage tests.

The many reports of herbicide residue this year is probably due to the extremely dry winter along with the cold weather during the month of May. Herbicide residue problem can be expected under these adverse conditions, particularly with minimum tillage.

In minimum tillage practices under study at the Foundation, Mooney said the land preparation before planting time was limited to a chisel operation to open the beds to allow moisture to penetrate the beds. Mooney invites area farmers to come by the Foundation and observe first hand the herbicide residue problems encountered in the research work being done there.

Too many geniuses make for inefficiency.

SPAG Awarded Federal Funds For Planning

AUSTIN--South Plains Association of Governments, Lubbock, was one of 21 regional councils awarded criminal justice planning grants for Fiscal Year 1972 by Governor Preston Smith Friday. The amount is $20,000.

The South Plains grant will be used in implementing action projects outlined in previous plans and in updating the comprehensive five-year criminal justice plan for the 15 counties of the South Plains State Planning Region.

Professional criminal justice planning services will be furnished to each unit of local government in all 15 counties, with the association serving as a regional clearing house.

These counties are Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Motley, King, Dickens, Crosby, Lubbock, Hockley, Cochran, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn and Garza.

To supplement the $20,000 grant, the association will contribute $2,222 to the criminal justice planning budget.

Miss Tanner Weds Sgt. Robert Coker

MRS. ROBERT COKER, the former Miss Glenda Sue Tanner

Miss Glenda Sue Tanner became the bride of Sgt. Robert E. Coker at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, June 6, in the Progress Baptist Church with the Rev. J. M. Jordan, Dallas, officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Tanner of Muleshoe. The bridegroom is the grandson of Mrs. Clairice Boyd, and the late Luke Boyd of Gadsden, Alabama.

The couple married on the bride's parents' twenty-third anniversary.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the church amid lighted white candles and greenery highlighted with two large baskets of gladiolas and daisies. A white velvet kneeling bench was used for both the exchanging of the rings and a symbolic candle ceremony.

The bride was dressed in a floor-length gown of Peau D'ange. The high Victorian neckline was enhanced by applique of Guipure silk lace with the motifs strown throughout the dress. A deep banding accented the hemline. She wore a full length veil of French illusion edged in the lace and carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath atop a white Bible.

Completing her ensemble of tradition, something old was her grandmother's wedding ring; something new was her wedding gown; something borrowed was her white satin wedding shoes worn by her sister, Brenda, in her wedding; something blue was a lace garter trimmed in pearls made by her aunt. A lace handkerchief her father brought back after the war from Belgium added the finishing touch.

Miss Jo Chambers, Rule, was maid of honor. Miss Marilyn Barron, Lamesa, and Miss Karla Lovelady, Muleshoe, were bridesmaids. They were attired in floor-length dresses of mint green dotted swiss trimmed in white lace and green satin ribbon at the empire waistlines. Chokers of the same lace and short white gloves accented the ensembles. They each carried nosegays of daisies and baby's breath. Flower girl was Twila Downing, Muleshoe. She was dressed identical to the other attendants. Ring bearer was Steve Tanner, Lawton, Oklahoma, cousin of the bride.

AIC Clinton Stoddard, served as best man. S/Sgt. Ronald McClendon and AIC Frank Hoffner were groomsmen. All are from Cannon Air Force Base.

Seating guests were Brent and Bill Tanner, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. W. T. Watson provided the wedding music. Soloist was Jerry Neuenschwander, Muleshoe, who sang "Love Story" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Karla Tanner, cousin of the bride, registered the guests. Other members of the houseparty were Charlotte Davis, Muleshoe, Sherry Cozart, Lamesa and Diane Fugitt, Brownfield.

The bride's mother was dressed in a pale pink lace suit with white accessories. She wore a pale pink cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's grandmother wore a blue lace dress with black accessories and a pale blue cymbidium orchid corsage. They were both presented roses as tokens of love by the bride.

Following the ceremony the couple greeted guests at a reception in the church. The bride's table was laid in white satin and featured a three tiered white cake topped with white doves, a crystal punch service, and a centerpiece of the bride's and bridesmaid's bouquets. A two tiered white cake also an attraction which was cut by the bride's parents to celebrate their anniversary.

After a wedding trip to Six Flags and other points of interest in Texas, the couple are at home at Route 2, Muleshoe.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Muleshoe High School. She is a junior at West Texas State University majoring in medical technology.

Sgt. Coker attended Eastern New Mexico University and is presently stationed at Cannon Air Force Base, Clovis, New Mexico.

Governor Proclaims Nursing Home Week

Governor Preston Smith has proclaimed June 20-26 as a "fuller life" for senior citizens.

The proclamation reads as follows:

"Licensed nursing homes and related facilities for the care of the aged and the convalescent in Texas now number 894.

These facilities offer not only medical, nursing and personal care, but also provide rehabilitation, restoration, recreation, physical, speech and occupational therapy, and spiritual programs designed to provide a "fuller life" for senior citizens.

Licensed nursing homes not only have broadened their potential for service and have taken on an increasing role in the health care of the chronically ill, the aged and the convalescent of all ages.

The Texas Nursing Home Association and its members have provided leadership and made important contributions to raising the quality of care with modern facilities and new techniques, the dedication of its people has earned this progressive and rapidly growing profession our confidence and respect.

The nursing homes in this State are participating in National Nursing Home Week, June 20-26, 1971.

Therefore, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the week of June 20-26, 1971, as Texas Nursing Home Week and urge our citizens to visit a nursing home and acquaint themselves with the patients, the staff, the facilities, the services rendered, and the progress and potential for the future."

June 7, 1951
Hail and heavy rain Tuesday put a different aspect to the best crop prospects that have been obtained in this county in the memory of the oldest residents as thousands of acres of young cotton and many hundreds of acres of wheat were wiped out by hail that in some places fell like chunks of ice as large as a baseball.

The hail, falling in a strip some 20 miles wide, not only wiped out crops, but damaged many houses and buildings and even injured livestock.

Men who have lived on the plains a long period of time said it was the worst hail storm they have ever seen here.

Jack Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tye Young, is home from the University of Texas where he is enrolled in the law school.

Grocery specials for the week included: Coca Cola, 19 cents; 10 pounds Gold Medal Flour, 83 cents; dressed fryers, 52 cents a pound; 12 ounce jar of peanut butter, 19 cents; Kraft Miracle Whip, 29 cents; and beef short rib roast, 39 cents a pound.

Compliance by farmers with the new feed grain law ran 77 percent, the ASC office here reports. Involved in the sign up was about 48,000 acres which will be diverted to other crops from feed grain in this county.

ASC officials said to date checks totaling $425,000.00 have been written payable to those farmers who will divert feed grain acres. This represents 50 percent advance payment on the diversion agreements.

Muleshoe was almost isolated for two days last week due to flood waters which surrounded the town and cut off highway and rail traffic. On Highway 214 South, water poured over the pavement for better than half a mile and for a few hours was between two and three feet deep. The water came from West Camp and Progress section and Blackwater Draw looked pretty much like the old Mississippi. Bridges on Highway 70 were unable to carry the flood and the water carried out a Santa Fe bridge at this point, holding up through rail traffic for three days. Passengers and mail were transferred here.

Highway 28 to Plainview is still under water for about a half a mile and traffic is being detoured.

To the north of Muleshoe, the country resembled a high lake last Friday, where flood waters from the north part of the county tumbled in on fields, washing out crops, drowning poultry and livestock and damaging farm buildings. The weather station announces a total rainfall of 21.18 inches for the year here, but in the West Camp and Bailey-boro communities it was said to be far greater. There has been no rain for the past two days and Wednesday afternoon, tractors were beginning to roll again, putting in new seed and killing weeds in fields where crops were not washed out.

Local draft board officials announced that all questionnaires are being made for the registration of all male citizens on July 1, who have reached the age of 21 before that date.

A THIRSTY LAND

Men have a thirst and a longing for goodness and righteousness. Even the most parched soul is touched by acts of kindness, forgiveness, and love. Jesus said, "Whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst: but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

May all who are thirsty for a oneness with man and with God find satisfaction and fulfillment by attending church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

John Tower United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

One of the prime reasons that the cost of government has risen so dramatically over the past several years is the growth of public welfare programs.

It is appropriate that we should provide a minimum degree of security and a minimum standard of living for those who are unable to provide for themselves. This is a responsibility of civilized society which we stand ready to fulfill. Over the past several years, however, requirements placed upon our state governments, which have traditionally carried the major burden of responsibility in this area, have forced great increases in the costs of our welfare programs. Some of these requirements have been forced by the executive branch and some by the courts. Some have been forced by greater demands of the public. Many of the increased benefits and broader application of benefits have, in themselves, appeared laudable. But the end result has proved to be too great a financial burden upon our state governments, and most of us agree that a solution is urgently required.

I have discussed earlier my views regarding revenue sharing. This is a concept worthy of enactment by the Congress. Under this program, the federal government would share with state and local governments a portion of its revenues in order to assist them in carrying on the public services which these governments must provide. In fact, I believe that we must prepare for a solution beyond revenue sharing in which a portion of the federal tax base would be returned to taxing authorities closer to the people. Most agree that one of the main burdens upon state governments is the welfare program. In fact, it has been proposed, as an alternative to revenue sharing, that state welfare programs simply be federalized. I am strongly opposed to this proposal. A federalized welfare program would not be an improved one. It would remain costly. It seems to me that the cost of welfare programs can be most easily controlled by enabling the state governments to tailor their own programs to fit their own specific needs, and by enabling the state governments to embark upon programs designed to help welfare recipients move off the welfare rolls and into the dignity of self sufficiency. Unfortunately, the present situation seems to work against such efforts because too many federal guidelines established to serve some states work to the detriment of other states. It would be far better to allow each state to follow the course best suited to its own welfare situation. For this reason, I am supporting legislation designed not to federalize the welfare system, but to return to the states the full authority required to enable them to run an efficient welfare program tailored to meet their own needs and the wishes of their own citizens. This bill, S. 2037, has been described as a "revenue sharing bill for welfare." It would return to the states the complete administration of their own welfare programs. At the same time, it would provide federal assistance, in the form of bloc grants allocated under a formula consistent with the state's present level of federal support, its per capita income and its per capita welfare caseload.

The states would pay a fixed percentage of the cost of each and any program it establishes. In this way, a measure of guarantee would be provided that no state would ask the federal government to share in providing for a federal welfare program which its own taxpayers were not also willing to support. The bill permits increased federal participation where local economic or migration patterns add to a state's welfare caseload. It also includes specific language designed to show Congressional intent that the states shall have the right to establish residency requirements and to make reasonable investigations as to the eligibility of applicants. This is important because additional welfare costs have been forced upon many states by Supreme Court rulings against residency requirements and certain investigatory procedures.

It is urgent that our costly and inefficient welfare system be improved. I believe improvement can best be achieved, by returning to a state the authority it needs to provide a welfare program specifically designed to serve its own citizens.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm comes to the defense of the big cities this week, more or less.

Dear editor:

As I understand it, the country's biggest cities, biggest railroad, biggest plane manufacturer and smallest farmers are all in the same boat -- they're busted.

Take the cities, for example, since there are so many of them and only one busted railroad and one busted plane maker and as for the farmers, that's nothing new, they've been hard up for the last 50 years.

But cities, why three-fourths of the entire population live in the big cities and if they're facing financial disaster you can't push them under the rug as though they were marginal

Researcher Says Use Sidress On Sandy Soil

LUBBOCK--Research over the years has shown definite yield increases can result from sidedressing nitrogen on cotton and grain sorghum on sandy soils.

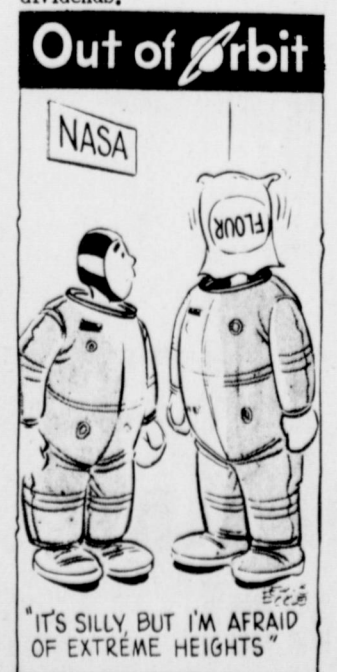

Later applications of nitrogen are effective on such soils in instances where the previously applied fertilizer has leached below the root zone, points out Dr. Art Onken, associate professor in soil fertility at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock.

All nitrogen is converted to the nitrate from in the soil, explains Onken, and it then moves freely with soil water in the sandier soils. Leaching is not as serious a problem in sandy areas when controlled amounts of water are applied by sprinkler irrigation. However, under furrow irrigation, leaching must be considered. Heavy rains will also leach nitrogen through the root zone of plants, adds the researcher. Since most rains on the High Plains occur in late spring and early summer, producers should consider preplant application of about one-third of the recommended amount of nitrogen, plus phosphorus where needed. The remaining nitrogen can then be applied as a sidedress later in the season.

For cotton, the remainder of the nitrogen should be applied before the square stage, contends Onken. At this time the cotton begins its peak nutrient use period and must have an adequate supply of nutrients available to reach full production potential. Nitrogen can be chiseled into the soil not closer than 10 inches to the plants. The chisels should be moved into the middles if the nitrogen is applied as late as squaring. Closer chisel placement can cause serious root pruning.

Grain sorghum should be sidedressed by the time the crop is 30 to 35 days old. At this time the seed head is initiated and the plant is entering an active growth stage. Thus, nutrient use will be high. As with cotton, care should be used to keep root pruning to a minimum, reminds Onken.

Sidedressing of nitrogen can also be effective on crops grown on clay loam and silty clay loam soils, adds the researcher. However, fertilizer may be applied on these soils any time after the previous crop has been harvested since nitrogen will not be lost through leaching. Sidedressing on these soils is important if inadequate amounts of fertilizer were applied prior to planting this season's crop. After all, fertilizer is an investment that can pay big dividends.

"IT'S SILLY BUT I'M AFRAID OF EXTREME HEIGHTS"

called revenue-sharing. The Federal government would distribute five or six billion dollars to the cities to use as they please, patching up their streets, unclogging their sewers, replacing the broken window panes in their school buildings, re-arranging their slums, paying off the second lien on their transportation system, fighting crime, etc.; then when that played out, well, no use getting too far ahead, they'd cross that bridge when they came to it, provided Congress furnished the money to make the bridge cross-able.

The problem is far too big for me to handle. In fact I'm no better able to handle it than the average big city mayor. But I do agree with one Congressman who was wrestling hard with the problem. He said he didn't know what the answer was either but, and I quote, "we can't let the cities go down the drain."

He's absolutely right about that. The lakes and streams of this country are already in such bad shape and the cities' sewer systems are already so over-burdened that if you let the cities wash down into them the pollution problem would be so big it staggers the imagination. Where's the river that could handle even Lubbock, not to mention New York or Los Angeles? It'd take a thousand years to get the rivers and lakes back in fishing condition. I don't care what it costs, let's hold the cities together where they are. We can worry about the railroad and the airplanes later.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Mae Provence Visits Family In California

Mrs. Mae Provence returned by bus to Muleshoe Sunday night after a two weeks visit with relatives and friends in California. Her sister, Mrs. Jessie Friesen had been visiting in Muleshoe for two weeks with her mother, Mrs. Fannie Sain in the Muleshoe Nursing home and with other brothers and sisters. The two returned to California together.

After visiting in Palo Alto, Sunnyvale, San Jose, Richmond, Mountain View, and Santa Cruz, the group of about 100 relatives met at Fresno for a Saturday night cook out and all day picnic at Portuguese Hall in Fresno. Relatives came from Gardena, Tanglewood, Santa Cruz, San Jose, Sunnyvale, Albany, Arieta, Fremont, Oroville, Anaheim, Monterey Park, Kingsburg, Oxnard, Lakewood, Carson, Hawthorn, California and of course Muleshoe, Texas. Mrs. Provence reported a wonderful time with the weather being good with no rain or sand. This is an annual get together for the family.

Thoughts may be bandits. Thoughts may be raiders. Thoughts may be invaders. Thoughts may be disturbers of the international peace.
