Good Weather Meant Good Crowds, Good Show At Livestock Event

For the first time in several years, the weatherman cooperated and provided favorable weather for the annual Junior Livestock Show, which was held here Saturday. Although the temperature may have been lower than that experienced during shows of some previous years, there was little wind, and there was no rain.

The favorable weather was cause for some of the largest crowds in the history of the annual event, observers said. Although there was a constant turnover in the crowds, it was estimated that from 150 to 200 people were present at all times during the show.

In the judging, a shorthorn steer shown by Gary and Tommy Antilley, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Antilley of Wingoate, was named champion of the cattle division. Reserve champion steer of the show was a Hereford shown by Bobbie Jean Thompson, 15, niece of Mr. and Mrs. John Grohman.

Judging for the steer show was Cecil Sellers, with Larry Osborn judging the swine classes and Fred Igo judging lambs.

The annual show is sponsored by the Winters Livestock & Agricultural Association. Frank Antilley is president of the organization.

Judging results were:

"The Odd Couple"

Four of the Pittsburgh Pirates leading stars were the "victims" of a triple play by the New York Mets on June 27 at Shea Stadium. The fielding feat was staged for Paramount Pictures' "The Odd Couple," showing Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre.

The four Pirates selected for the dubious distinction were Roberto Clemente, the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1966, Matty Alou, last year's batting champion; Maury Wills, one of the leading basemen of all time, and pitcher Vernon Law, 1966 Comeback Player of the Year.

Executing the rare fielding play for the Mets were the team's regular infielders—Ken Boyer, Bud Harrelson, Jerry Buchek and Ed Kranepool. The regularly scheduled umpires for the day's game also appeared in "The Odd Couple."

Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau, who star in the motion picture, were in attendance at the Stadium for the filming. Matthau plays a sportswriter in "The Odd Couple" and Lemmon is cast as a TV news writer.

Additional scenes for "The Odd Couple" were shot in the Shea pressbox and featured Matthau with well-known baseball writers.

"The Odd Couple," based on Neil Simon's smash Broadway comedy, was filmed on New York City locations. The motion picture is directed by Gene Saks and produced by Kodak in Panavision and Technicolor from screenplay by Simon.

Dr. Z. I. Hale Attended Abilene Fitting Seminar

Dr. Z. I. Hale, Winters optometrist, attended a participating fitting seminar for contact lenses at Abilene Thursday, January 9. The seminar was sponsored by Wesley-Tessen contact lens educational center of Chicago.

Instructor for the seminar was Dr. Marion Sebeck, director of Clinical Research and Education. The seminar included actual participating in the examination, indoctrinations—and fitting of problem patients.

Films were shown on blinking and its relationship to successful contact lens wear, relationship of lens edge design to the lid, and fitting of infants and children with contact lenses.

Doctors attended from San Angelo, Abilene, Colorado City, Sweetwater and Winters.

love. "My, my - isn't he fine looking in his top hat and morning coat," they say. And they go on in a glow of admiration, to say loving things about his mate and off-springs.

Bands play, prayers are offered and the central figure repeats an incantation designed to ward off enemies, both foreign and domestic.

Next comes a speech by the central character, which naturally is about love—"Bring us together," he says—"Forward together," he implores. He urges the natives to love one another and envisions that day when everyone will live at peace with everybody else.

The Natives respond to all this by clapping their hands which are now numb with cold by trying to keep them over their ears.

When the speech is over the tribal leaders take him to a room, feed him and tell him how great he is and how much they love him.

Afterwards he is borne away at the head of a tremendous parade down Pennsylvania Avenue and installed in the White House where he is to live and work for at least the next four years.

Now things begin to change. This is the point when the natives begin to chop him up into little pieces.

The researcher compares the difference in this ritual and that practiced by the East Rombahogans. He had been privileged to observe the Vestal Virgin Festival of the East Rombahogans in which the Virgins are fattened up, admired and then sacrificed to the gods of fear-of-war-of poverty. However, the East Rombahogans, being more advanced, dispatch the central figure of the rites with one blow.

Very likely the stranger will conclude in his account of the Inaugural, that because Washington's primitive natives take four years to carve up their sacrificial victim, it indicates their fear and dread of such a mysterious force as love.

Handy Light-Reflector—If you don't have a large white cardboard that will reflect the sun's rays to provide "fill-in" light for a photo of your trophy fish or game, try using aluminum foil. Carry along a roll of foil for this purpose. Have your partner hold the foil so that light reflected from it will brighten the subject of your photo. The same foil that mama uses to wrap fish will do the job fine.

were the least expensive. As in schools in the United States, teachers are given extra duties, in addition to classroom teaching. Miss Joyce was sponsor of a girls' club. Each day, the girls in the club served tea and cookies to the teaching staff, and used her kitchen each Saturday to prepare for the next week. She also was sponsor of a soccer team.

In the summer, Miss Joyce worked in a YWCA in Addis Ababa, and did some traveling in the area.

One of the most unusual experiences she had while in Ethiopia was the purchase of food especially meat. The meat vendor would come around with a whole carcass and several residents of the village would go together and buy the whole animal. The vendor would then cut the animal up into small pieces and divide the pieces among the buyers.

In preparing for her work in Ethiopia, Miss Joyce gained a "working knowledge" of the language of the country. However, all her teaching was in English, she said.

Miss Joyce is now doing graduate work at the University of Oklahoma.

County and City Districts Remain In Abilene COG

Runnels County commissioners voted Monday to remain in the West Central Texas Council of Government, headquartered in Abilene. The move re-establishes membership of the county, cities and separate political districts of the county in the WCTCOG.

Reports a few days ago indicated that Runnels County had been transferred to the COG district at San Angelo. Such action would have meant that all city and district memberships in the county would have been transferred to the San Angelo district.

Wendell Bedichek, with the WCTCOG at Abilene, met with the Runnels commissioners Monday.

County commissioners, commenting on the decision to remain with the Abilene group, said that it would be best for the county to have membership in the original COG organization because at least three political districts included areas located in Taylor County. They also pointed out that the county originally had joined the Abilene-headquartered council, and it would be in the best interests of all concerned to remain in that council.

Area Represented In Big Country Area TB Ass'n.

Winters and Runnels County will be represented in the recently formed Big Country Area Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, which was formed recently in San Angelo.

Mrs. Raymon Lloyd and Mrs. Fred Young of Winters, and Mrs. Doyle Condra and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Freirich will represent the county in the organization.

The new organization, which has been designated as Area 7 of the Texas Tuberculosis Association, was organized at a meeting in San Angelo Saturday, attended by representatives of 25 of the 32 counties to be in the association.

Mrs. Lloyd said "For many years county associations have been the States tuberculosis control agencies and accepted major responsibility for education and case-finding activities. The work of these county associations in the eradication of tuberculosis has been good." However, she said, all of the state was not covered since all counties were not organized and the disease remained a hazard. The goal to build a statewide system of control and prevention is being accomplished and is nearing completion, she stated. The State of Texas is now divided into 13 areas which consolidate former single county associations into one general unit under the State Health Department.

San Angelo was chosen by those attending last Saturday's meeting to be the central headquarters for the Big Country Area Association. In the selection of an area office, each county had one vote. Seven communities were nominated, and San Angelo was selected by 15 out of 25 votes.

and the achiever. A refreshing reminder of the kind of people this country can produce can be found in an autobiography of Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, World War I Ace, race car driver, businessman and great American citizen, who has never ceased to be proud of his country.

The book is entitled simply "Rickenbacker" and recounts the life and times of this authentic national hero who worked with unlimited confidence in himself and his country. His career is a staggering record of achievement from the birth of the automobile and the airplane through two world wars and into the jet age. Within the pages of his book may be found the sense of purpose of a man and of a nation. It carries a most timely message.

WEAR-TESTED TO GIVE YOU MORE COMFORT!

Yes, before being offered for sale, every Jarman style is first "wear-tested." This means that the original model is worn under everyday conditions, is altered and adjusted until, when finally approved for production, it has a "friendliness of fit" you just don't get in other shoes. The Jarman blucher shown here is a case in point. And it is handsome to boot, with "sideline" seams for that hand-sewn look. Come in and try a pair.
