HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

There are some pretty hefty guys who frequent the golf course at the Winters Country Club — some long ball hitters and some pretty good golfers. They usually keep their matches within their own group, though, and each gets his moment in the winner's circle.

But three of them dropped their guard a few days ago, and allowed a lady golfer to join them in a round. But it was not a time to relax, as it turned out. When scores were tallied, it was found that Mrs. John Edward (Joannie) McAdoo had outshot them all.

The news was kept a fairly low key until sometime early Monday morning, when the accompanying photo of the City's "Welcome" sign was taken.

There has been much discussion lately of the mental health needs, not only of our adult population, but of our so-called teenagers.

The theory is advanced that the teenagers do not exist in nature; that they are physically mature but economically and socially immature; that in the old days, they were turned out on their own and did not feel subject to family regimentation.

Whether this feeling of lack of self-identification or responsibility today leads youngsters to show resentment in order to build status and independence is now a question. Whether mental hospital and psychiatric treatment are the answer is another question.

Somewhere along the line, parents, the church, the schools and colleges—preferably in that order—should shoulder the job of showing young people that they have very definite responsibilities and are identified with every phase of family life and government and social morality. They can be shown that on them rests the responsibility for their own and the nation's future.

SMU Barber, Formerly of Wingate, Tells of City-Country Experiences

(Ed. Note: The following article was taken from The SMU Campus, newspaper of Southern Methodist University. It is being reproduced because of local interest.)

BY JEAN FREDERICK
E. E. Whitfield is the man who razors the roof for many SMU students. Whitfield is the proprietor and head shaver (pun intended) of the Student Center barber shop.

His customers come largely from the male populus of the campus. "We don't cut women's hair unless they know exactly what they want."

The big question in barbering these days is: Has business gone down in the last two years with the longer hair styles?

"You bet it has," Whitfield answers. "But it goes way up just before holidays because kids are going home."

The shop is a six-day-a-week, four-chair, three-barber affair. It is complete with all the latest barbering devices along with several traditional ones—such as hat rack and magazine shelf.

Whitfield noted that "Playboy" is by far his most read magazine. "We might as well have forgotten the whole business without it," he said.

Another part of the business, the shoeshine bench, has come to almost a complete standstill. It seems that traditions must die everywhere (there were no visible spittoons in the establishment either), but one wonders about the shoes on campus. Do students even know there is a shoeshine bench in the barber shop? Do the barbers know how to shine shoes?

When asked what his favorite part of his job was, Whitfield explained that he liked contact with people. "Ninety-five percent of the people here are great," he said.

He went on to say that he would much rather have his shop in Dallas than work his farm in his hometown of Wingate, Texas. He owns the farm and several head of cattle there, but he said he would not enjoy trying to make a living there.

Whitfield said that Wingate, once boasting a population of over 700, now has only about 250 people. He surmised the decrease was due to farming improvements.

He said he didn't talk to his customers much about events on campus, that is, except for SMU football and basketball.

Himself a high school athlete, Whitfield is an avid fan of SMU as well as the Dallas Chaparrals. He displays several Chaparral stickers at strategic points around the shop—on the mirror, the radio, etc.

The SMU barber pointed out that he knew most of his customers fairly well. "I should," he said, "after having some for four years or there like the lawyers who are here sometimes as long as eight."

Whitfield worked his way up in the barber profession through an apprenticeship which he began at age 16 before he had even graduated from high school.

He has owned the Student Center shop for over 13 years and says that the competition with the other barber shop across the street has been good for them both.

Engineers Advise Against Moving City Water Tower

Engineers, after inspecting the city's north water tower, have advised the City Council that the tower cannot be safely and economically moved and re-erected on another site, according to word from the City Hall this week.

The City had been informed by the State Highway Department that the water tower must be moved when rebuilding of US Highway 83 (Main Street through the city) is started. The City employed an engineering firm to draw up plans for moving the tower, perhaps a few feet to the east of the present location. Engineers reported, however, that the condition of the tower makes it impractical to attempt to move it.

Winters Superintendent and Student On Heritage Project Program, Abilene

Carroll Tatom, superintendent of Winters Independent School District, and Bob Colburn, student in Winters High School, will participate on the program at a dinner meeting of West Texas Schools American Heritage Project, next Thursday. Dr. Stukenbroeker entered the FBI as a Special Agent in 1942, and is now on the headquarters staff, primarily in the field of internal security, involving investigation of the Community Party, USA, and Soviet espionage. He has spoken before a large number of law enforcement, civic, religious, educational, fraternal and other organizations on the strategy and tactics of communism.

The West Texas Schools American Heritage Project, organized a few years ago, by educators in ten counties including Callahan, Eastland, Fisher, Haskell, Jones, Nolan, Runnels, Taylor and Throckmorton.

Purpose of the organization: "The Heritage Project, aware of the necessity of preserving the blessings of liberty to ourselves and to our posterity against all threatening "isms" and ideologies, reaffirms as the collective purpose of the educators who participate in the Project: to encourage and stimulate, in their classrooms, the enhancement and expansion of instruction, understanding, and appreciation of the great ideals that gave rise to America and still provide its ideological foundations, the great documents that record these ideals, and the great men who selected them from the accumulated wisdom of the ages as the foundations of the societal structure that would best secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity."

The Project encourages all participating schools to submit entries to such national programs as Freedom's Foundation at Valley Forge, and offers modest financial assistance to each school in the Project as well as the need of assistance, in the way of providing service, literature, tapes, films, and other educational materials "as will expedite the teaching of the American Heritage."

The Project is financed through private foundations and gifts.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

The Pros And Cons Of Convertibles

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Walledale Hills, Mass. An increasing number of convertible securities have been issued by corporations in recent years. In a great extent, this has reflected the fast pace of merger activity and the tight money situation. Thus, many companies have used convertibles in making acquisitions. While others have issued convertible securities as a means of raising capital at a cost below prevailing money rates.

Convertibles Have Dual Characteristics

Convertible securities possess some of the characteristics of both a senior security and a common stock. Generally, they offer a certain degree of safety, a dependable yield and, through the conversion feature, an opportunity for capital appreciation. Although convertible bonds and the convertible preferred stocks represent two different types of senior securities with different features, they are usually viewed as a homogeneous group. This is because their differences tend to be overshadowed by their common characteristic of convertibility.

Convertibles Do Not Offer "Something For Nothing"

At first glance, it might appear that all convertibles are identical investments which offer "something for nothing" through their convertibility feature. Such, however, is not usually the case. Generally, the investor must make some concessions in terms of quality and/or yield (in comparison to other fixed-income securities) as the price for the convertibility feature.

If one's investment objectives are safety and stability, then the investor will usually do better in non-convertible bonds or preferreds. The investor who sacrifices quality for convertibility could be making a costly mistake. From a yield standpoint, a convertible holder may also be at a disadvantage. This is because the convertible feature does not automatically guarantee appreciation. If none occurs in the common stock, then the investor has given up the higher return he might have had from a non-convertible fixed-income security.

A Matter Of Selectivity

Perhaps the best opportunities in convertibles arise when they are viewed as an alternative to the purchase of a common stock. In this respect, the investor must look first at the common. If the common stock of a company offers a worthwhile opportunity for capital appreciation and/or growth, then the company's convertible issue (assuming one is available) could be even more attractive. When considering which issue to purchase (the common or the convertible), the investor should look at the price of the convertible in relation to its conversion value, and at the yield. If the market price of the convertible security is too far above its conversion value, it will have lost any possible advantage. Also, the yield on the convertible issue should be at least equal to, and preferably greater than, that available on the common.

Generally speaking, a convertible should be purchased as an alternative to a company's common stock... when the convertible is selling at or near its conversion value; and when it has a yield equal to or higher than the common.

Some Selective Opportunities

Every convertible issue is not an attractive investment commitment. Often, the advantages of a convertible exist in form only and prove quite illusory. Nevertheless, many opportunities do arise for the watchful investor. It is the opinion of the Babson's Reports staff that convertible securities certainly warrant investor consideration in today's investment climate.

Convertible debentures which currently appear attractive include Armstrong Rubber 4 1/2s of 1987, Greyhound Computer 8s of 1986, and The Offshore Company 5s of 1992.

Investors should also consider the following convertible preferred stocks: Amerace 6 1/2s of 1986, Benefield Finance 5 1/2s, and the Cooper Tire & Rubber 5 percent.

The best thing to take when you're run down is the license number of the car that hit you.

Some Local Taxes Not Deductible For Income Taxes

Some state and local taxes cannot be listed on Federal income tax returns, Ellis Campbell Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue, has warned.

Deductible taxes include real estate and personal property taxes, state and local income taxes, state and local gasoline taxes, and general sales taxes. Campbell said certain state and local taxes and fees are not deductible; for example, liquor and cigarette taxes, auto license fees in most cases, and other items such as water service charges, hunting and fishing licenses, and dog licenses.

Federal taxes are not deductible on individual income tax returns.

Once upon a time, people saved their money, thinking it would be worth more later.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

There is a place for light tackle, but a fisherman should be certain he is in the right place before using it.

For instance, I've been reading about fishermen taking cobia (ling) off the Florida coast with light tackle.

Oh boy! In Texas you can figure on the average ling running 15 pounds or better. Some go up to 60 pounds. And every once a fighter!

You can get plenty tired boating them with 50-pound-test line. So why fool around with six-pound line on a light-weight rod, and perhaps lose the fish with a hook in its jaws?

Austin Angier Glen Hayden, fishing in the Texoma tournament a year or so ago, (in which he won the top prize of a little more than $2,000), used 17-pound-test line to land his bass. He wasn't fooling with them!

Several irate fishermen from other parts of the world chided him about the weight of his line. One man wrote that he used only two-pound line and that large only because he couldn't buy 1-pound line.

A friend down at Falcon Lake recently said he wanted nothing less than 20-pound-test line for fishing in that wonderful body of water that straddles the Rio Grande between Texas and Mexico.

Fishermen now working the lakes around Texas, where there is considerable brush left on the bottom, like line 14 to 17-pound test.

I learned a good lesson about this last fall, on a ranch tank in Southwest Texas, while using a rig that had 8-pound line.

It cast well and I cast far out to the edge of a creek channel that ran into the tank. A four-pound bass took that side-shad plug, jumped a couple of times, then headed straight for brush protruding about half-way to the bank.

With that light line I couldn't hold him. He managed to get to the brush, and I managed to tangle the line in the brush. I then waded out into the chilly water and took him off. Right then I decided it was safer, in more ways than one, to use a line that will handle a fish.

You can get just about all the Afters and fun you want, with 12, 14 or 17-pound monoline. And you are much more certain of getting the fish. After all that's what most of us are after. We might turn him loose when we get him in, but don't like to lose him before he reaches the boat or the bank.

One thing can be said about today's monofilament line... it usually carries its correctly rated strength. There was a time

Mrs. F. Cardenas Died In Winters Hospital April 2

Funeral was held at 10:30 a. m. Friday in Spill Memorial Chapel with the Rev. Patrick Ryan, pastor of St. Carmel Catholic Church in Winters, officiating. Burial was in Wingate Cemetery.

Born Antonia Gonzales May 10, 1916 at Nixon, she married Flavio Cardenas in September, 1936 in Mathis. They came to Wingate in 1949 and moved to Winters in 1959. Her husband is an employee of the City of Winters. She was a member of the Catholic Church.

Surviving her are her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Stephania Soto of Wingate; three brothers, Paul Gonzales of Mathis, Ray and Cecil, both of Winters; two sisters, Mrs. Adelia Gustamanda of Vernon and Mrs. Gracela Gustamanda of Nixon; and four grandchildren.

when you bought a 15-pound line that probably wouldn't test over 10 pounds.

Most bait fishermen learned long ago to use a good heavy line. When they drop a minnow down in the brush bed they want something that will pull the fish out of that brush.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

By Ann Sanford

Great strides have been made by the fishing tackle industry during the past 30 years, one of the greatest being development and perfection of the fiber glass rod.

Despite the fact that exceptionally good rods have been produced by all the major manufacturers — better ones seem to hit the market every season.

Reel manufacturers, however, have kept pace with the rod makers in improving their models. For years we have had the conventional, spool type casting reel. But, year after year it too is being constantly improved.

That old Model 25 Cox reel was a wonderful free-spooler. Finally, along came the bail-type spinning reels. Most of these early models also were imports, and excellent ones.

Although the spinning reel dated far back in Europe, it didn't hit the United States until some 15 years ago. Since that time no well-dressed fisherman would be without at least one. Many anglers use them exclusively today.

Then, boom, came the momentous break-through with the spin-cast reel. It was an enclosed model. Generally it was used in the reel-seat of the conventional casting reel—the old spool type bait-casting standby. But it was quite an innovation. Zebco gave it the impetus it needed.

For several years many old-time fishermen ridiculed these closed-faced reels, calling them "the bung-hole reel." This was true especially among manufacturers who weren't making them.

Then some of the old-line reel-makers started importing these reels under their own brand names.

Without a doubt the spin-cast reel did more for the novice fisherman than anything that has ever happened in the industry. This reel, with monofilament line, revolutionized fishing. Anyone, young or old, could fish with the spin-cast reel. It was "backlash free" and capable of long casts even in the hands of beginners. Although such a rig was just the first step up from a cane pole, right away it became the one piece of equipment ideally suited to the new angler — man, woman or child. It really popularized fishing!

Today, many Izaak Walton Leaguers who learned to fish with spin-casts are better fishermen, with conventional equipment, but they still like to have a bung-hole reel handy.

It was natural that, before long, many manufacturers began making both rods and reels (or at least marketing them) under their own name. Little attention, however, was paid to balanced equipment.

Today, nearly all manufacturers advocate balanced equipment — a rod and a reel built for each other. Basically it's the most efficient and effective arrangement.

Next came the Bronson Reel Co., with a balanced outfit built in one piece, so to speak. Bronson designed a reel that combined both the conventional and the spinning features, and made the reel part of the rod handle. Thus fishermen got a rod especially designed for the reel, thus making an efficient combination. So far it's the only one of this particular type.

Nearly all the tackle manufacturers now sell balanced outfits of one type or another. And that's good! It gives you a feeling of teamwork, of united effort, of handling gear that is designed for a single purpose — graceful, accurate, effortless casting and retrieval.

At Pfleger's Fishing Party for outdoor writers during the National Sporting Goods Association show at the Astorhall in January, Pfleger exhibited its newest, it's a balanced spinning rod and reel combo. Rod is a black and white beauty with a "Slide-Matic" seat. Spinning reel is a new design concept made of space age materials and construction. It's ideal for fishing the salt water bays or for medium fresh water fishing. As a special feature the crank can be switched to either side of the reel in seconds — for either right or left-hand retrieve.

So the trend goes!

Abilene State Park To Be Surveyed

A $425 contract has been negotiated between the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and William Stackhouse and Associates of San Antonio for an aerial survey of 496-acre Abilene State Park in Taylor County.

Topographic and planimetric information gained from the survey will be used in drafting a master plan for development of the park.

The survey is to include overall photographs and individual site photos to determine the location of roads and existing facilities.

Existing facilities include 59 picnic sites, 26 camping sites, eight screen shelters, a snack bar, a swimming pool, a bathhouse, a children's play area, and a nature trail.

Trailer camping and hiking are permitted in the park. Abilene State Park is near the town of Buffalo Gap, the original Taylor County seat and one of the early frontier settlements through which passed the famous Butterfield Stage Route.

Warlike Comanches frequented the Park area, using the groves of tall native pecan trees as camp grounds.

All the strength and force of man comes from his faith in things unseen. He who believes is strong; he who doubts is weak. Strong convictions precede great actions.

Archery Assn. To Have Miss Archery Contest In May

Runnels County Archers Association of Winters will hold a "Miss Archery" contest in May, preceding the state contest to be held May 30. It has been announced.

All young ladies of the community between the ages of 16 and 25 are being invited to participate in this contest. The winner will receive an attractive trophy and will represent Winters at the Miss Archery of Texas contest.

Mrs. John Patterson, the former Miss Theresa Meyer, was Winters' Miss Archery in 1968.

Contest rules state that entries must be between the ages of 16 and 25 and have never been married. Contestants must design a "Robin Hood" costume, and write a biographical sketch. Judges will select the winner on the basis of originality and design of costume, personality, poise and appearance, and a talent number performance.

Additional information may be obtained from Mrs. Marvin Clark, chairman of the State contest, or from Mrs. Jerry Whitlow.

Grandson of Mrs. Lora Coupland Married In Temple

Mrs. Lora Coupland attended the wedding of her grandson, Andy Scott at Temple Friday of last week. He married Miss Carol McQueen of Temple in the chapel of the Baptist Memorial Church.

He is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Scott of San Angelo. His brother, Robby Scott and wife were the only attendants of the couple. Clancy Scott, another brother, was one of the ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the reception hall at the church and the couple left for a short wedding trip.

The bride is a graduate of Baylor College at Belton.

The bridegroom is a graduate of San Angelo High School and Texas Tech at Lubbock. He served in the U. S. Army after graduation from Tech. He is teaching Latin and English in Temple School system.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott will be at home in Temple.

Southside RA's Held Open House Last Saturday

Tom McMillan Royal Ambassador chapter of the Southside Baptist Church held open house Saturday afternoon in the Fellowship Hall. Hobbies were put on display by each boy, and the Page manuals and RA T-shirts were presented to all the boys present.

For the program, Marvin Moore read a passage from scripture, and RA Counselor, Edwin Hart, told the story, "Help Is a Crooked Stick." The aim for this program was to emphasize the importance of hard work and team spirit. The program closed with The Lord's Prayer repeated in unison.

Following the chapter program, the open house program was held. David Hendrix read about the crucifixion and the resurrection of Jesus, and events of that day, as RA Counselor Roy Rice showed colored slides of the story.

Refreshments were served to Marvin Moore, Greg Black, David Hendrix, Kenny Reel, Mike Moore, Darren Fisher, Dale Whitecotton, and RA Counselors Hart and Rice. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher, Mrs. Jimmy Black and Mrs. Winford Reel.

Southside Church Members Had "Barn Supper" Tuesday

Members of the Southside Baptist Church had hot dogs and chili at an old fashioned "barn supper" at the home of the pastor, the Rev. and Mrs. Virgil James. The supper was served in the loft of a recently-built barn.

Ronnie Reel, a student at Hardin — Simmons University, brought a devotional and related some highlights of a trip he made with 64 other H-SU students on a preaching crusade in Indiana recently.

Darrell Hill was in charge of the entertainment. Group singing was enjoyed. The program was closed with prayer by Johnny Mansell, also a student at H-SU and a member of the Indiana Crusade.

Fifty-eight attended.

Austin, Tex. — Gov. Preston Smith's first-state tax program fared unexpectedly well in its initial legislative test.

Anguished cries were raised at a House Revenue and Tax Committee hearing by beer, cigarette, coin-operated laundry and cable television interests at sections of a $175 million revenue bill directly affecting them. Of the four, however, the coin laundries appeared to make the most impression on the Committee.

Surprisingly, not a witness appeared against Smith's proposal, contained in a separate bill, to place a $10 state sur-tax on moving traffic violations. He estimated that would raise $38.5 million.

Also, it was a surprise that regular laundry, cleaning, dyeing, parking, repair and machinery rental concerns remained silent. Since they, too, would go under the three percent state sales tax if Smith has his way. Naturally, this may or may not indicate consent. Extending the sales tax to include them would raise an additional $57.8 million during the next two years.

Cigarette distributors claimed that the $71 million bite they would suffer, if the per-pack is raised another four cents to a total of 15 cents, would drive away smokers and might result in a loss of state revenue. They also claimed that Smith's $6 million tax addition for cigars and other tobacco products would lower consumption and virtually kill the Texas cigar business.

Beer industry spokesmen centered their attack on the fact that they already pay $4.30 a barrel in state taxes, which is far more than most big beer-producing states charge.

Coin laundries argued they had no way to collect a sales tax in their washing machines' nickel, dime and quarter slots and therefore would have to have their machines revamped, at great cost, to take in pennies. Cable TV spokesmen made no impression at all with their argument of discrimination.

Smith's proposed one-half of one percent chemical products tax is expected to draw heavy fire from that industry in an April 16 hearing.

Floor vote on the tax bill is expected to be delayed about three weeks.

WELFARE DEMANDS GROW
Texans will be asked again—and again, if necessary—to increase or do away with the constitutional ceiling on state public-assistance grants to the needy, commonly called "welfare."

And they'll get their chance sooner than they think. Speaker Gus Mutscher and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes have agreed to ask the Legislature to call a special election for August 5 to vote on at least five proposed constitutional amendments... and possibly eight.

In addition to expressing their views on increasing welfare funds, voters would give their views on providing death and disability benefits to volunteer firemen; the 3.5 billion Texas Water Plan; removing the constitutional interest-rate maximum on five types of bonds; and authorizing $200 million more in bonds to finance the Texas Opportunity Plan of college-student loans.

Prime emergency is in the "welfare" situation. Texas' program of minimal assistance to families with dependent children is growing thinner and thinner because of the constitutional spending limit of $60 million.

Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) now gets $6.15 million of that $60 million. But grants to individual families are going down because of increases in the number of families applying.

These increases are due to court decisions broadening the program; a Medicaid requirement that applicants for that program be on welfare; and poverty workers informing poor people of their right to AFDC.

First Baptist Mission Study Group Met Tuesday

Worthington spoke on "The Prayer of Faith." Mrs. Gayland Robinson presented the topic, "If it be Thy Will," saying that "It" was a very weak word and to pray "if it be thy will," is quite different from "Thy Will be Done."

WASHINGTON
"As it looks from here"
OMAR BURLISON
Congressman
17th District

Washington, D. C.—The National Park Service, a part of the Department of Interior, calls attention to "Spring in the Nation's Capital." In part it says:

History Walks with you when you visit Washington, D. C. At this time of the year our Nation's Capital has a special attraction to visitors. Although it has its seamy side, Washington is considered one of the World's most beautiful cities and in the springtime takes on an extra dimension of beauty.

Blooming trees along the broad avenues seem to leap into bloom almost overnight; magnolia and dogwood trees add vivid splashes of color to the small city parks; grass turns green on the Mall and Ellipse, and the marble and brick of stately memorials and monuments are softened by the famous cherry blossom trees.

The Cherry Blossom Festival now in progress (April 8 through 13th) is timed to coincide with the blooming of the delicate blossoms of the famous cherry trees which ring the Tidal Basin and frame the gleaming marble of the Jefferson Memorial.

The celebration begins with the traditional lighting of a 300-year old Japanese stone lantern, a gift from the Government of Japan.

Our Nation's Capital is more than cherry blossoms and pretty girls chosen as princesses from the 50 States. It is our Nation's history which encompasses all the facets of our growth as a Nation.

Our origins as a Democracy come alive when you see the original Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and Bill of Rights, displayed in the National Archives and then visit the Capitol to see a Session of Congress.

All of America's Architectural styles are visible in Washington and the surrounding area, ranging from the serene Colonial pillars of Mount Vernon through the rococo Victorian of the early Smithsonian buildings, to modern glass and steel of Government buildings.

The many Art galleries trace taste in art from Stuart's portraits of Washington and Jefferson through the outstanding collection of French paintings at the National Gallery.

History is reflected in the cobblestoned streets of Georgetown and Alexandria and in the winding panoramic vistas of the George Washington Memorial Parkway.

America's most famous home—commonly known as the White House but correctly and officially designated as the "President's House," at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, is open to visitors between 10 and 12 every morning except Sunday, Monday and holidays. History seems to leap out when you walk through the meticulously restored rooms containing furniture, pictures and mementoes of all our Presidents.

History seems more real, too, with a visit to the authentically recreated Ford's Theatre in downtown Washington. Guided tours are conducted during the morning hours by the National Park Service and live drama presented during the evening hours. Time should be reserved to visit the Lincoln Museum in the Theatre's basement and the house where Lincoln died just across the street.

The suggested way to sight-see in Washington is to walk as much as possible but sight-seeing busses are available. The newest service is the Tourmobile recently inaugurated by the National Park Service. The 77-passenger open-air busses tour the Mall from which many of the buildings and monuments can be visited. The Tourmobile is manned by a driver and the narrator who provide a running commentary of points of interest along the way. Our Nation's Capital is where past and present mingle constantly. In historic halls a speech might be heard which will be printed in text books of tomorrow. A sense of past history and history in the making surrounds you in this City unlike any other in the World. Finally your Congressman would welcome a visit from you and would take pleasure in trying to make your tour of Washington as pleasant and profitable as possible.

The U. S. Army Reserve will celebrate its 60th anniversary on April 23, 1968. The week of April 21-27 has been designated Army Reserve Week.

Some People On SS Must Pay Income Taxes

Most social security beneficiaries must make an annual report of their earnings if they were more than $1680 in 1968, according to Ted F. Moellering of the Social Security Administration.

"This requirement applies only to earned income," Mr. Moellering said. "Other income such as rent, interest, dividends and royalties are not considered."

Beneficiaries who were age 72 before February, 1968 need not file the report.

If a beneficiary worked for wages in 1968, his earnings will be shown on his withholding slip, Form W-2, which he should have received by now. A self-employed beneficiary will have his net earnings from self-employment computed on his income tax return. If wages and self-employment profit total more than $1680, he must complete this special report with social security.

"The annual report of earnings is made to the Social Security Administration and is in addition to any income tax return that may be required," Mr. Moellering pointed out. "The deadline for reporting is April 15, 1969."

of fourteen million dollars worth of assets was donated to the State to make this school possible.

The House also passed a bill (House Bill 299) granting municipalities the power to make the services of law enforcement officers available to other municipalities when the need arises. This could only be done by an order from the governing body of a city when they feel such action is justified. The transferred law enforcement officers would be under the command of the law enforcement agency they were assisting and entitled to all powers and privileges therein.

The State Affairs Committee heard six bills dealing with air and water pollution this week. Each bill differed slightly in procedure or enforcement but all attempted to assure maximum protection from air and water pollution. All six bills were concerned with bringing corporations under the jurisdiction of our courts for violations of polluting air and water. Presently, there is no criminal liability for corporations in this area. These bills would levy stiff penalties and fines. All six bills have been referred to subcommittees.

Hearings will continue on the Teacher Pay Raise Bill. However, it is noteworthy to point out that the controversial taxing provision which I discussed recently in this column has now been deleted from the bill.

It is expected that the House Appropriations Bill will come out this week. The Senate Appropriations Bill came out last week. After both have been passed, a committee composed of members from both branches of government will begin work on a compromise bill.

Alan Alda looks professional but he's not even a legitimate rookie in "Paper Lion," showing in Technicolor Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre, through United Artists, an entertainment subsidiary of Transamerica Corporation.

The comedy of this movie is based on George Plimpton's best-selling novel about his adventures as a last-string quarterback with the Detroit Lions.

"Paper Lion"

"Paper Lion," George Plimpton's hilarious best-selling book about his own experiences as a rookie quarterback with the Detroit Lions, has been made into a movie showing in Technicolor at the State Theatre, through United Artists, an entertainment subsidiary of Transamerica Corporation.

Starring Alan Alda as Plimpton, the film introduces Lauren Hutton and also stars the real Detroit Lions.

On the best-seller list for 26 weeks, "Paper Lion" is a factual account of Plimpton's almost suicidal exploits, faithfully transposed to the screen in a warm and witty screenplay by Lawrence Roman. Alex March directed for producer Stuart Millar.

"Paper Lion," shows at the State Theatre, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

PARK DEVELOPMENT

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department signed a sales contract to buy an additional 892 acres for Dinosaur Valley State Park, west of Glen Rose in Somervell County.

Purchase will bring the park to 1,274 acres. Total cost is $281,925. Park will be the first site purchased with funds from the $75 million park bond issue approved by voters in November of 1967.

Dinosaur tracks made in the area 100 million years ago and fossil evidence of life on earth as far back as the Cretaceous period are contained in the area. National Registry of Natural Landmarks of the Department of Interior includes the listing of Dinosaur Valley Park.

Onion Knowledge:

Do you know your onions? Then you know that the many varieties of onions grown commercially fall into three general classes.

Globe onions are the most common group, and are considered primarily as cooking onions. There are many varieties, mostly with yellow skins, but also some white and red-skinned types.

Globe onions are predominantly round to oval and have rather pungent flavor. They are available in quantity during the late summer, fall and winter. Most fall in the medium-size range, but in some cases the smaller ones are packed and sold separately.

Granex-Grano onions are available during the spring and summer, coming from the warmer growing areas. Most are yellow-skinned, but a few are white. The shape tends to be less round and less symmetrical than the globes, ranging from somewhat flattened to top shaped. Rather mild in flavor, they are considered ideal for slicing and eating raw—and good for cooking. Size ranges from medium to large.

Spanish onions resemble the globe onions in shape, but they are generally much larger. Most varieties are yellow, but you will find a few white-skinned Spanish. They are mild in flavor, often called "sweet Spanish," and are ideal for slices or for salads.

Spanish type onions are available in moderate supply during fall and winter.

April 15 Deadline For Inspection of Motor Vehicles

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, has reminded Texas motorists that only a few days remain until the state motor vehicle inspection deadline.

State law requires that cars, trucks, and certain trailers be inspected at a station and that a current inspection sticker be displayed in the lower right-hand corner of the windshield by midnight, April 15. The fee for the inspection is $1.75, plus charges made by the inspection station for mechanical adjustments, if any.

The required inspection procedure requires that mechanics check a vehicle's brakes, lights, rims and wheels, horns and warning devices, windshield wipers, mirrors, steering, and front seat belts in vehicles where seat belt anchorages were part of the manufacturer's original equipment.

There are 5,466 licensed inspection stations located throughout the state.
