HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

This past week will go down as one of those "I remember back in . . . times. It hasn't rained this much since the last time. The ground already was pretty well soaked and seasoned and then to get from 2 to 6 and 7 inches on top of that . . . Everything's full to running over. There is doubt that there is a single stock tank in the country which has not overflowed during the past week. All the creeks in the area have been out of bounds, fences washed out, and water gaps sent a little closer to the Colorado River. In some sections where normally the water soaks into the ground or drains off immediately, there is water standing, because there is no other place for it to go—the dirt to the hard pan already is saturated, and run off is slow.

There have been reports of various amounts of rainfall come in from all over the area. Some say a couple of inches, and then others less than a mile away report rain gauges running over two or three times. We saw one two-gallon milk bucket hanging on a picket fence with the water within an inch of the top. Many cellars are brimful. Bo Williams, on the west edge of Winters, reports his dug well in the back yard would already have run over if he hadn't had a big well casing sticking about two feet above the surface of the ground. There'll be plenty of water in the Winters lake for some time to come—and it won't be pumped out for a long time either, because there'll be little lawn watering until up in the summer.

Our old friend who is in the "not-raising-hog-business" out on Bluff Creek has had to move back from the banks of the creek two or three times. Says the water keeps following him. He also swears that it has rained so much lately there is no more room in the Colorado River, so the water has started running up creek. He uses a small-mouth jug to measure the rainfall; says he's filled two jugs during this wet season. . . and emptied three.

They keep changing terms so often it keeps a person on his toes to find out what is going on. News dispatches regarding the UIL track and field contests in Austin this past weekend referred to what we have always called the "broadjump" as the "long jump." Guess they figured it's as long as it is broad.

Blizzard Band To Six Flags Band Festival

The Winters High School Blizzard Band left Thursday for Six Flags Over Texas, where they will participate in the annual School Band Festival. Many other bands from over the state take part in his event.

The Winters band will play early Friday morning, and will be judged on concert playing and sight reading. The Festival is an invitational meet, and is not connected with the UIL.

Following their performance, band members will tour Six Flags, and will return to Winters late Saturday.

Soil Stewardship Week May 11-18 In Runnels District

Grider Hays, chairman of the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District, says Soil Stewardship Week, "provides us with an occasion to set aside a week so we can express unto God our gratitude for His blessings upon our land and out willingness to be faithful to our stewardship."

Runnels County Judge W. H. Rampy has proclaimed the week of May 11-18 as Soil Stewardship Week in Runnels County, and has urged observance.

Life, Hays said, is a series of challenges. "From the first uncertain steps of a small child to the last few faltering steps of the old, life is one challenge after the other. Many of these cannot be avoided. Some must be met individually, while others will have to be met by groups or by the nation." But many of these challenges may be reduced to responsible stewardship, he said.

Hays added that, "For the people of God, stewardship of natural resources is based upon the word of God. The Bible plainly sets out that ownership of the resources is God's. The stewardship, including use and conservation is man's responsibility."

"Let us remember," Hays continued, "that as a people committed to the idea of conservation, although we are confronted with challenges such as lack of understanding, desire for profit at the risk of destruction, and distorted values that overlook the worth of the individual, we do not have to face these challenges alone because it is written that God will help those who try to help themselves."

Humble's Gift To Winters: Building, Lots

A gift to the City of Winters of a building and two lots by Humble Oil & Refining Company has been announced by Mayor Wade W. White.

The property, valued at approximately $12,000, will be used by the city as a civic activities center. It is located at the corner of Wood and Cryer Streets in the southeast part of the city.

The one story building, a former Humble district office, has 2,100 square feet of floor space that will be readily adaptable to a broad variety of community activities.

Commending on the donation, Mayor White said, "Humble's gift of this property will enable our city to provide an invaluable service to the people of the community and it is our intent to put it to maximum use immediately."

The deed to the property was presented Thursday at a luncheon gathering of community leaders by George C. Edgerton, Humble's Abilene production district superintendent.

Tie In Partner Tourney Broken During Rainfall

A three-way tie for the championship of the Partnership Golf Tournament at the Winters Country Club went the sudden-death route Sunday afternoon, with the winners being decided on the first overtime hole in a heavy rainfall.

Herman Baker and Waymon Burns of San Angelo won the overtime decision for the championship. Paul Langford and Steve Langford, also of San Angelo, were second, and Charles Tharp and George Edgerton of Abilene placing third.

The three partnerships had completed the regulation 27-hole contest with 107 for each team, for a three-way tie in the Championship Flight in the tournament.

In First Flight competition, Aldreide and Scotty Higgins, of Abilene, were leaders with 108 for 27. Mike Bonham and Timmy Little, of San Angelo, scored 111 for 27 for second place, and Allen Fudge and Danny Doan of Merkel, 114 for third place.

In the Second Flight, Jerry Neely of Winters and Craig Smith of Abilene were partners to win first place with 115 for 27. Roger Graham and Owen Helms of Rotan, were second with 117, and Jimmy Simson and Gary Young, of Winters, were third with 120 for 27.

Trophies were presented to first and second-place winners, with golf balls for third place winners of each flight.

Alderman-Cave Will Establish New Division

A new business—ACJ Enterprises—which will buy and sell grain and livestock feed ingredients in carload lots and up, will open for business in Winters May 15.

The merchandising office, which will be managed by M. D. (Doc) Johnston, formerly of Kimbell Mills of Fort Worth, is a division of Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain Company, and will be located in part of the old Abilene Southern Railroad depot on West Dale Street.

The office will be equipped with a teletype receiver for an instant and constant flow of commodity market news, and will be in constant telephone contact with commodity markets all over the country.

The Winters office will be the only such office in this part of the State; the nearest is at Lubbock, on the South Plains.

ACJ Enterprises will be in the grain and ingredient buying and selling business as merchandisers and not for speculative purposes, it was stated by spokesmen for Alderman-Cave. Operations will not be confined to Texas or the immediate area, but will cover an area of several states. Presence of the company will not necessarily mean an increase in railway or truck freight traffic here, it was stated because most of the grain commodities bought and sold will not be brought to Winters. Johnston, who is retiring after several years as a merchandiser of grain and related products for Kimbell Mills, will not be a broker, but a trader or merchandiser, it was pointed out.

Heavy Weekend Rains Cause Damage To Crops, Roads and Fences In Area

Heavy rains—which measured up to six inches in some parts of the North Runnels County area—fell during the past weekend, causing considerable damage to roads and fences, and in many instances, to crops.

Reports indicate that the western section of the area received the heaviest rainfall. Up to and above six inches was gauged at Wingeat, while the Drasco Community received an almost like amount.

East of Winters the rainfall was lightest, with less than two inches reported in many instances. Winters itself was divided in amount received. Reports indicated that while almost two inches was received on the east side of town, more than four inches was measured on the west side. The small creek on the west side was full Sunday evening following the heavy rains.

Crops in some areas were reported hard hit by the heavy rains. Although there was some pea-size hail in the immediate Winters area Sunday afternoon, most of the damage being reported is caused by rainfall alone—with some wind damage. Many fields were completely inundated—remaining in that condition to midweek—with water completely covering the small milo. Wheat and oat fields received damage, too, although to what extent it is not known.

Variable-directioned winds caused considerable damage in the wheat fields, too, which already were beginning to suffer from rust.

Bluff Creek, on the eastern edge of Winters, was out of banks Monday morning, fed by the heavy rainfall in the watershed to the north. Many fences

Thursday the Big Day!

Clean-Up Slated For Next Week

Next week—May 12-17—has been designated Clean-Up Week in Winters, with a concentrated effort to be made Thursday afternoon, May 15, beginning at 4.

Clean-Up Week is being jointly sponsored by the Winters Chamber of Commerce and the City of Winters.

Although everyone is being asked to begin the Clean-Up Week next Monday, Thursday will be the big day, when special attempts will be made to cut grass and weeds, and to clean up vacant lots along the approaches to town. Several businesses will close early on that day, on a voluntarily basis, and a "kick-off" will be held at the corner of Main and Dale Streets at 4 p. m. From that point, teams will spread to separate sections of the city to begin work on vacant lots, etc.

Thursday's effort will be in a carnival atmosphere, also with teams competing against one another. A pickup or truck with large cans of lemonade will cruise the city and serve refreshments to crews working on the cleanup project.

Carroll Tatom, superintendent of the Winters Schools, said the high school students are being notified of the clean-up drive, and will be invited to take part.

Regular runs will be made by the City's Sanitation Department truck during the week, with other City trucks to join in picking up trash the following week. Melvin Mapes, County Commissioner, also has indicated his equipment will be available to lend a hand in the clean-up.

Residents are being asked to put trash and debris in regular pickup spots. The sanitation truck will make regular runs, and if the loads are too great to be picked up by the regular crew, another truck will be available to haul away the trash.

The Civic and Public Affairs committee of the Winters Chamber of Commerce, and the City Council are asking that everyone cooperate and pitch in to help in this clean-up effort. They point out the importance of the appearance of the town. They also point out the dangers of letting grass and weeds grow on vacant lots, and of piling up trash and debris, which make perfect breeding sites for mosquitoes, flies and rodents. Recent heavy rains will make this bad situation even worse, it was stated.

Winters' James Greer Won Long Jump Event In State UIL Contests Friday

James Greer, junior student in Winters High School, won first place in the long jump event at the State University Interscholastic League contests in Austin last Friday.

Greer, who took first in Regional contests two weeks ago, cleared 22 feet, 7-1/2 inches in the long jump contest at Lubbock, to take first place in Class AA competition. He jumped 22 feet 5 inches at State.

Greer, who has played football three years in high school, and been on the track team three years, was honored this week as Winters Mayor Wade W. White proclaimed the week of May 5-9 as "James Greer Week In Winters."

Popularly known as "Jack-rabbit" among his schoolmates, Greer played freshman football, then lettered as an offensive wingback and defensive halfback on the Blizzard varsity football squad. In 1967, he received honorable mention for the District 5-AA All-District football team. On the track squad, he runs the 100- and 220-yard dash.

Greer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Greer, began his athletic career in Little League baseball. It was during his Little League years he was given the sobriquet of "Jack-rabbit," in recognition of his ability and enthusiastic play on the baseball diamond.

Examples of Texas' Earlier Culture To Be Preserved Photographically

How long has it been since you saw a mule-drawn plow? A sunbonneted cotton picker trailing a long white sack? A general store in a little country town? Many Texans can conjure up such nostalgic scenes in their mind's eye. Others are too young to remember. As Texas more and more becomes a state of urban dwellers, numerous aspects of the state's once rural-oriented society are fast fading from the scene. In order to preserve for posterity examples that still exist today of a life style that was common to earlier generations, the Texas State Historical Association will soon embark on a project to document photographically the remnants of Texas' past that may become extinct within 10 years. The resulting pictures are to be housed in the permanent archival collection of the TSHA and the University of Texas (where the TSHA has its offices) for use in historical research, exhibitions, publications and educational television screening. TSHA has received a $16,750 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to support the project. Directing the effort will be a young UT history graduate of Austin, James E. Alvis, who for the past two years has been a photographer, research associate and writer on the TSHA staff. Beginning June 1 and continuing for a year, Alvis will roam through all parts of Texas in a pickup truck-camper, photographing the land and the people that helped shape the life and culture of the state.

Alvis says the principal theme of the documentary effort will be to show "the interrelationship between man and his environment and how each has affected the other."

Using color and black-and-white film, he plans to shoot some 30,000 exposures, most of them still photographs.

Alvis' itinerary will take him to the deepest backwoods of the Big Thicket where some hardy residents live much as they did 100 years ago—hunting and fishing at will and dining on squirrels, deer, opossum and catfish; to the larger ranches in the southern and western areas of Texas where "true working cowboys" preserve through daily use, tools and language of a bygone era; and to the endless variety of farms which are "home" to tenant and homestead farmers and to sharecroppers.

He also plans to photograph abandoned mills and cotton gins, general stores, railroad work crews, the hybrid architecture of county courthouses, country churches and congregations, religious revivals, blacksmith shops, windmills, historic bridges and aqueducts, old railway stations, dead or dying townsites, oilfield roustabouts, old schools and banks and post offices, ethnic festivals, wagon makers and wheelwrights.

Alvis explains that "significant gaps" exist in the photographic record of Texas. "It has not been unusual for

QUALITY STILL IMPORTANT

Wellesley Hill, Mass. — Those who have followed the market closely over the past year or so are no doubt aware of the increasing popularity of the less-than-Blue-Chip stocks. The higher quality stocks have — to a large degree — taken a back seat, much to the chagrin of many investors who are holding a preponderance of good-grade securities in their accounts. Does this mean that the majority of high-grade issues have run their course and henceforth will be on the descendancy? Is this the time to shift out of them in favor of lower quality stocks? Our answer to both of these questions is "No." In our judgment, this is definitely not the time to forsake quality.

Naturally, we do not propose that an investor hold only the best-quality stocks to the exclusion of all others. We believe a well-balanced portfolio should also contain some attractive stocks of average grade, as well as a few well-chosen speculations. Over the past year or so, we have suggested many secondary issues that must be classed well below the Blue-Chip category.

Although all of the (secondaries) are attractive for purchase, in our opinion, we certainly do not suggest that investors "load up" on them, or sell high-quality stocks to buy them.

Investors who have been active in the market for any length of time realize that practically all stocks, including most high-quality growth issues, have temporary periods of market price inactivity. For instance, the stock of Union Carbide, an acknowledged growth company, has made no basic gain marketwise for several years, nor have Corn Products (now CPC Int'l.), General Electric, and American Tel. & Tel. Nevertheless, we do not consider that the investor who owns such issues is losing out and should replace them with a group of secondary lower-quality stocks that may currently be popular. In our opinion, the stocks of the firms that set the pace in their respective industries will continue to provide the patient holder with the long-term growth that most investors desire. In addition, these issues are the ones that provide the steady and usually increasing income and a degree of defensiveness in periods of stress.

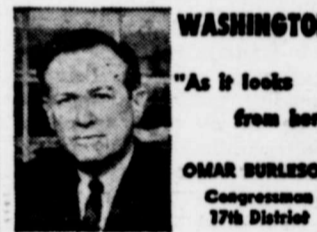

It is true that many of the Blue-Chip and Pale-Blue-Chip stocks are selling at relatively high price-earnings multiples. This has almost always been true. Fortunately, the well-established, strongly managed companies appear able to increase their earnings continuously over a period of years. Hence, if the price of the stock remains stable for any length of time, the price-earnings relationship eventually improves. There is no denying that a nimble trader can often make important aspects of our everyday life and culture that change only slowly to pass almost unnoticed from the scene without the benefit of photographic documentation," he says.

Dr. Joe B. Frantz, UT history professor and director of the Texas Historical Association, points out that "the world is in a spasm of change, and only in the recesses and isolated pockets of an anachronism like parts of Texas can you still capture what soon will be gone forever."

Dr. Frantz adds, "These remote recesses retain their integrity and resist encroachment, but they cannot hold out much longer against asphalt and antennae. They need to be gotten and gotten now."

money by "playing" the market favorites—switching from one to another on a short-run basis after a few points of profit. Here, the quality of the stock is of little or no importance. But trading in this manner takes a good deal of agility; one has to be in very close touch with the market at all times. And most investors are not in a position to do this. Hence, a longer-range investment program, with emphasis on good-quality stocks, seems the best means of protecting and building up one's capital and investment income.

WASHINGTON
"As it looks from here"
OMAR BURLESON
Congressman
17th District

Washington, D. C. — A significant event recently occurred in Austin. It was not a national headline but deserves broad interest and attention. A group of young people discovered that on a particular weekend not one theater in the City was showing a picture which was not labeled "adult" entertainment. After a period of time these interested young people further determined that such was not the exception but rather the rule. They decided to do something about it.

Enlisting the support of some adults, but mainly boys and girls from church organizations, they mounted a campaign which became known as "Up-surge for Decency."

These efforts finally resulted in a mass meeting in the City Auditorium which, according to estimates, drew more than 3,000 people. Officials of the City, members of the State Legislature, divic, social and religious organizations in Austin joined the youngsters in demands that something be done about the smut on newsstands and in the theaters of the City and State.

To the credit of the State Legislature, bills are now being considered for the purpose of cleaning up the movies and getting at unfit and indecent publications on the newsstands. It is understood that our State Legislators are now working on plugging up loopholes through which obscenity is flooding the State.

To reach this most pressing problem is not simple. What-ever is done by legislation must meet the legal test of censorship or it will be thrown out by the courts. A number of cases coming before the Supreme Court have already been dismissed for not meeting the test of freedom of the press. There is, however, some encouragement in the fact that the Court has just upheld the conviction in Boston of eight smut peddlers.

Law was enacted in 1968, giving each mail patron the means to prevent the repeated mailing to him of advertisements which he considers offensive. By submitting the advertising material and mailing envelope to his local postmaster with a statement that it is considered offensive, the sender is ordered to refrain from making further mailings. This, however, is somewhat ineffective since many of these mailings are "one-shot." In addition, the companies can change their names overnight and continue to use their original mailing lists.

During the last session of the congress, a Commission on Obscenity and Pornography was established whose primary duty is to analyze laws pertaining to these matters. Not later than July 31, 1970, they are to report to the Congress on what they

YOUR REPRESENTATIVE IN AUSTIN

By REPRESENTATIVE LYNN NABERS

The Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, of which I am a member, had before it for consideration and public hearings House Bill No. 1006 this week. This bill is designed to clarify the law relating to the misuse of credit cards by unauthorized persons.

The increased use of such cards has brought about a need for more modern and specific laws in this area. Evidence was presented to show that there is presently a black market for stolen cards and widespread counterfeiting.

Under the bill penalties will vary but can be as severe as a fine of $1,000 and seven years imprisonment. House Bill No. 1006 was referred to subcommittee and I was named the chairman.

The State Affairs Committee heard a bill which I have received much correspondence about lately. House Bill No. 700 deals with prohibiting corporations from getting into the farming and ranching industries. During public hearings it was brought out that many large corporations and conglomerates were trying to get into the farming and ranching industry strictly for the tax benefits. The corporations were not interested in actual production or even in making any profit in this area. They were interested only in the tax breaks.

If this were allowed to continue indefinitely eventually all the smaller farming and ranching operations would be swallowed up and the end result would be that there would be no one left to produce in one of the states most vital industries.

There are provisions set out in the bill that would allow corporations to continue in the farming and ranching business if they could qualify. One such provision is that a corporation must derive at least 80 percent of its gross income from this area. The bill has now gone to sub-committee for further study.

There is much speculation over the possibility of a one-year or two year appropriation bill for the state. Proponents of the one year bill theory contend that the legislature can pass an appropriation bill for one year beginning September 1, 1970, with only a very small tax increase. (The one year plan would include a teacher pay raise.)

appropriation plan argue that by next year the economy will have grown and the sales tax revenue will have increased and more money will thereby be available later. They also speculate that the sur tax will have been removed by the federal government in another year and thereby taxpayers would be more able to bear the expense of higher state taxes if there is still a need.

Those who contend that a two year bill is still best believe that the legislature should appraise the needs of the state, set priorities, determine the cost, and follow through with the necessary taxation.

Presently a Conference Committee composed of members of both the House and Senate is working on the problem.

SPILL BROS. CO.
Winters, Texas

Austin, Tex. — Strong determination to hold out for a two-year spending bill with new taxes now was voiced by Gov. Preston Smith after a week of conferences on the subject.

Smith took the line that he and legislators have a commitment for teacher pay raises, and that it cannot be done without a tax bill to raise about $100 million a year.

But Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Speaker Gus Mutscher, as leaders of the two houses of the Legislature, will make the decision on whether a one-year or two-year spending bill will be passed.

"We are considering all factors, and the governor's opposition to a one-year bill is, of course, one factor," Barnes said.

Smith declared, "the House-Senate conference committee is working on a two-year bill. That would indicate to me that it has been pretty well determined."

Conferees did go to work on a biennial bill. House Revenue and Tax Committee has yet to come up with a tax package, although Mutscher privately has sketched out a $275 million revenue bill which includes a $90 million corporate gains tax and increased cigarette levies.

Although rumors increased concerning possible summer special sessions of the Legislature after Smith took his stand against delayed taxation, Governor insists that will be unnecessary. He thinks lawmakers "if they apply themselves" can get through with all mandatory duties by the June 2 regular session deadline.

BILLS PASSED

With less than a month of the regular session to go, the House began to out-distance the filibuster-slowed Senate in churning out major bills.

House finally approved measures boosting drinking curfew to 2 a. m. and increasing maximum interest rates on $300 to $1,000 loans from 8% to 12% per $100.

Another House proposal passed and sent to the Senate is a constitutional amendment to permit local governments to contract with each other for Both Houses completed action on a bill to strengthen the law requiring open meetings and advance notice of government agencies. Legislative investigating committee sessions and consultations with attorneys will no longer be exempt. Both Houses also approved a bill adding four more "Monday holidays"—Columbus, Veterans' and Memorial Days and Washington's Birthday—for state employees effective in 1971.

Legislators also voted themselves a substantial boost in retirement benefits.

House gave final approval to a bill that allows children to transfer from one district to another without the permission of the home district, taking State money with them.

House sent to the Senate bills to permit persons 18 or older to teach driver education, provide for occupational drivers licenses for persons aged 15 to 18, toughen the 1967 Consumer Credit Code restrictions on misleading advertising, and bring the state law closer to conformance with the Federal Truth in Lending Law. (It gives the State Consumer Credit Commissioner broader powers in enforcing the code.)

House voted to create a six-member committee to promote mass transportation and to make eight changes in the 1943 banking code.

Senators, braving an all-night filibuster, passed a resolution to knock the annual voter registration requirement out of the constitution.

Each individual is dependent upon the soil, whether he dwells in the country, town, or city, or whatever his vocation may be; its blessings and its demands touches all alike; and

Conservation is the preservation of our natural resources for food, fiber, economical use and for the preservation of the American way of life; and

These God-given resources of soil, water, plant and wildlife must not only be conserved and replenished but improved; and

The worthy obligation that confronts us as stewards today is to leave this country unpolluted in nature and undepleted in resources; and

The responsibilities for the conservation of these resources is by law given to the Soil and Water Conservation Districts and their Supervisors in Texas, thus they are sponsoring Soil Stewardship Week.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, W. H. RAMPY, County Judge of Runnels County, do hereby designate the week of May 11-18, 1969 as SOIL STEWARDSHIP WEEK, Runnels County, Texas.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 29th day of April 1969.

W. H. RAMPY
County Judge of Runnels County.

Lone Star Gas Files for Increase In Gate Charge

AUSTIN — Lone Star Gas Company filed Friday with the Texas Railroad Commission an application for an increase in the intracompany gate charge for residential, commercial and distribution unaccounted-for gas.

The company asked an increase from the present gate charge of 35.4 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas to 44.8 cents per thousand cubic feet.

When the Railroad Commission establishes the new intracompany gate charge, specific computations will be made for each Texas town. In those towns where earnings are deemed inadequate, individual rate action will be pursued with each town's ruling body.

Implement Shed On Mitchell Place Hit By Twister

A small twister hit an implement shed on the Audra L. Mitchell place, about a mile east of Pumphrey, Tuesday, taking an end of the shed off and depositing it in a nearby field.

Mitchell and his wife had been out in the yard shortly before, and had seen a small funnel cloud to the west. It began to rain, and they went into the house shortly before the little twister hit the shed.

It was not known if there was any damage in addition to that of the implement shed.

Art Show Here Termed Success, 'One of Biggest'

The Art Show last Saturday in the Winters Public Library was termed "one of the best," by visitors and judges, not only in terms of number of entries but in terms of numbers of people who visited it.

There were 189 entries in the show, which was sponsored jointly by the Library Association and the Winters Chamber of Commerce. About 200 people who visited the show registered, with many who attended the showing failing to register.

Frank Walker of San Angelo, who judged the show, said the Winters Art Show was one of the biggest and had created more interest that most shows he had been associated with, even in the larger cities. There were many paintings on show which were done by Winters area amateur artists; however, there were entries from Brownwood, Menard, Ballinger, San Angelo, Big Spring, Bronte, and other places.

Mrs. Douglas Cole, librarian at the Winters Public Library, was hostess for the show. She was assisted by other members of the Library Association and women's clubs. Royce Phillips of the Wilmeth Community, also an amateur artist, worked in the production of the show. He had many of his own paintings on display, although he did not enter the competition.

Woodrow Watts, president of the Winters Chamber of Commerce, George Garrett, president of the Library Association, and Nolan Bahlman, chairman of the Civic and Public Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, all expressed great satisfaction at the art show. It is anticipated that the show will become an annual affair.

Visitors who registered were asked to vote for their favorite painting, with the artist receiving the highest number of votes to receive an original oil landscape by Frank Walker. A painting by Cynthia Brown of Winters was the winner, and Miss Brown was awarded the prize painting.

Results of the judging in the show are as follows:

"Barbarella"

Paramount Pictures "Barbarella" showing Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre, recaptures the spirit of the American comic strips of the early days, a time when even the impossible was possible. The film is marked by the same audacity and originality, the same mixture of fantasy, humour, beauty (and) horror, cruelty and eroticism which made the comic book a wide reading favorite. The physical heroine and the themes of "Barbarella" reflect not only film and literary techniques, but also certain conflicting ideas of our times.

"Barbarella," played by star Jane Fonda, is a beautiful girl with long hair, golden skin and a strange, sweet name. Clothes cramp her style, and so she appears in a bare minimum of apparel. Yet she remains mysterious, fragile and invincible and, above all, maintains a sense of innocence. She is a wild creature, realistic and crafty and the archetype of the modern female. She is the modern vamp, the very incarnation of eroticism today; she is the liberated woman, who constantly controls her own destiny rather than submitting to the dictates of men and, since she is the mistress of her own fate, she can pick and choose the men she desires. She's something that the "armchair psychologists" would look at with arched eyebrows.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

When is the best time to go fishing?

Answer: Anytime you can get away! There are many gadgets, tables and even devices that purport to tell you when there is a major biting period. And maybe they work.

However, with most of us, we go fishing whenever we can. And that's not enough! Some fishermen go only when there is a run on. For instance, we have runs of white bass (sandies) at certain periods of the year in Texas. This is especially true during the spawning season in the early spring.

There also is a crappie run, usually about mid-March. Some fishermen are always ready for these runs, fair weather or foul. But again most of us just go when we can.

Our fishing must fit into a schedule of work or family obligations. Perhaps the best answer is to keep some tackle in your automobile at all times.

Several tackle companies... Shakespeare in particular—issue little pocket-size calendars which tell you that certain days and weeks are "best, good or poor." You can find almanacs which show good fishing days, or tell you when the moon is right.

But, none of these can arrange your work so you can get away at just the precise time the biting is supposed to be best. Unless you are like the man who never lets business interfere with his fishing. Only a few can be so lucky.

Besides the fishing calendars and almanacs that tell you when it is the best time to fish, there are mechanical and electronic gadgets which tell you the best place to fish. They are supposed to locate fish, or if not fish, the reefs and holes where fish may be found.

Coastal and offshore fishermen have been using this equipment and depth finders for years. But smaller and less expensive devices now have been developed for the inland fishermen. One by Lorance, Tulsa, called the Fish Locator, fits over the outside of the boat like an electric trolling motor. It costs considerably less than a motor. However, some do run as high as $200. Smaller and less complicated measuring and temperature devices can be had for just a few dollars.

There are times of the year when it is interesting to study water temperature. Also, water temperature levels can have a great deal to do with the fishing level. This is all interesting to know.

Most fishermen try to learn to read the water. They watch for points indicating rocky ledges extending out from the bank, or fish alongside banks. In both instances, it is necessary to use your head. There are of course periods of the day and times of the year when it is a waste of time to fish the flats. At other times, the fish are feeding there and will fight topwater lures.

There are also times when topwater lures will work against high cliffs, especially where the water of ages has eroded away

Brenda Sue Awalt, John Dale Craven Recite Marriage Vows Saturday Night

Wedding vows were solemnized Saturday evening at 7:00 o'clock in the First Methodist Church uniting Brenda Sue Awalt daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deward Awalt, and John Dale Craven, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Craven, Jr.

Randy Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stevens, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Kay Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Orr of Bradshaw, soloist, who sang "More" and "A Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a fitted wedding gown of bridal satin accented with a scalloped yoke of white nylon lace and long sleeves extending to a point at the wrist. Matching lace attached at the yoke of the gown formed a Chapel Train and her veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white Bibbie topped with a white Orchid surrounded with Gladiolus, and wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Gayla Beall of Iowa Park, student of McMurry College, and former resident of Winters, was maid of honor. Bride's maids were Marlene Brown, student of Cisco Junior College, Donna Benson, student of Abilene Christian College, both of Winters, and Belinda Britton, student of Commercial Business College, of Brady.

They wore identical full length sheath gowns of pale yellow crepe fashioned with scalloped white lace yokes and short sleeves. Bandeau, covered with matching material, entwined with white horsehair braid and seed pearls, held their short veils of yellow net. They carried nosegays of talisman rosebuds.

Rickey Robinson, student at Texas Tech, served as best man and groomsmen were Jerry Awalt of Wingate, cousin of the bride, George Mostad of Texas Tech, Gary Wilson of Abilene, Lanny Bahlman, Phil Harrison, Terry Awalt, brother of the bride, and Ronny Wilson seated guests.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the parlor of the church. The bride's table laid with white net over satin featured a three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom was decorated with tiny white and yellow rosebuds, butterflies, wedding bells, and slippers of confection. An arrangement of peace rose buds in crystal containers flanked with white candles in crystal holders completed the table decorations.

Miss Joy Awalt presided at the register and other members of the house party were Mesdames Virgil Awalt, Charlie Awalt and Miss Phyllis Awalt. Mrs. Larry Awalt of Abilene, served the wedding cake. Mrs. Roger Stamford of Wingate, and Mrs. Gene Baldwin of Kermit, alternated at serving punch from a crystal bowl. Other table appointments were of crystal and silver.

An arrangement of fruit in a milk glass bowl and white candles in silver holders, centered the groom's table which was laid with white cutwork linens over yellow. Mrs. Roger Robinson served coffee from a silver service and Mrs. G. K. Beall Iowa Park, served chocolate cake squares.

For traveling the bride changed to a yellow sheath dress with matching cape. She wore the orchid from her bouquet and her accessories were white.

The bride is a graduate of Winters High School and Commercial Business College in Abilene. The bridegroom also a graduate of Winters High School, is attending Durham Business College in Austin and is employed with H E B Grocery.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday night at the Fireside Restaurant. Following a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home at 5609 Jeff Davis in Austin.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Britton, and Patricia, Camp San Saba; Mrs. Dean Cooper, Sherrill and Lisa Post; Mrs. Robert Robinson Laurie and Lisa San Angelo; Janice Smith, Roscoe; Zelma Dunn, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Baldwin, Kermit; Mrs. Lois Jones, Ovalo; Mrs. Macey Miller, San Saba; Cindy Antilev and Bill Cathey, Wingate; Mr. and Mrs. E. Medical Ministry Topic For Program At WMS Meeting

"Medical Ministry At Ogbomoso" was the subject for study when the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church met in the educational building Tuesday morning for the monthly program and business meeting.

Mrs. H. P. Witkowski gave the call to prayer and Mrs. Joel Butts was leader for the program.

A panel of four members discussed Baptist medical ministry in Nigeria. Mrs. Elmer Phillips told of the modern 110-bed hospital, built in 1923, where six thousand patients are treated annually.

The Kersey Children's Home was described by Mrs. Gayland Robinson. Located a mile from the hospital, the home is named for Ruth Kersey, missionary nurse, who served in Nigeria for 35 years.

Mrs. Butts concluded the discussion and said that Nigerians are grateful for these medical services, but are asking that more responsibility be given the Nigerian Convention. For some time Nationals have been filling key positions.

Mrs. T. H. Worthington presided for the business meeting. Jim Cowlshaw met with the group and asked that the women assist the Brotherhood with the project of financing a trip to India in November for the Rev. Harry Grantz who will participate in the All India New Life Crusade this fall.

A committee was appointed with Mrs. George Poe as chairman, Mrs. Doyle Newcomb, publicity, and Mrs. Joe Irvin, finance. The WMS voted to give $50 to the campaign.
