HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

We've been sitting here staring at the "illustrated" calendar on the wall—the one with all the information printed for each day—trying to figure out what everything is all about. We've discovered there's a lot to be learned from reading a calendar. . . there is information one can store away in the back of the mind against the day he'll be put on the spot in a quiz contest—such as happened to us at the Lions Club last week, when we went blank and goofed!

For instance: July 4th (of course); then July 21, First Battle of Bull Run, 1861; July 26, 1775, U. S. Postal Service began (and still trying to get started); July 28, 1914, World War I began; July 6, 1928, first "talking" motion picture shown in New York City (and see what a kettle that opened up); July 8, 1835, Liberty Bell cracked while tolling for Chief Justice John Marshall (we thought it cracked while tolling for Independence!); July 16, 1945, U. S. exploded the first atomic bomb in New Mexico.

Then slowly it begins to dawn—the real reason we can't get too inspirational these days—"Dog Days!" That's the reason for all the trouble; that's the reason nothing seems to come out right for us; that's the reason that since we fixed the clock the cuckoo backs out and asks, "What time is it?"

Somehow we were under the impression that Dog Days didn't start until later in the summer—say in August. But guess it all depends on who makes the calendar! Still can't find the date listed when this special season will end. . . guess it'll just simmer away. . .

Dog Days—according to one source—originated way back when it was supposed that because of the heat of summer, dogs were more likely to go "mad" than during any other season. Another source says it is when one gets to "feeling like a dog," what with all the heat and the lack of energy and ambition.

Come to think of it, why should we even refer to these days as Dog Days? The dogs haven't had anything to do with it! In fact, we should feel like dogs! Never heard of a dog having to have psychiatric treatment! Or pay taxes!

There will be a lot of kids—and adults—over the country lighting fireworks during this Fourth of July weekend. . . and there will be a lot of kids—and adults—who will show up on Monday morning after the Fourth weekend, minus a finger or two, a hand, an eye or two, or with dreadful burns, and many families standing in the street staring at piles of ashes which were, before the fireworks began, homes.

As has been said over and over the country, shooting fireworks is one of the most dangerous "fun" activities ever to become attached to a holiday. And, unsupervised shooting of fireworks by children is nothing more than groundwork for organized mayhem. Even the most carefully planned and organized shooting of fireworks many times backfires, maiming and killing and burning.

But we'll go ahead and light the fireworks, anyway, thinking that the news reports of lost lives, limbs and eyes, which will show up in Monday mornings' newspapers will always be about "someone else," and could not happen to us. Perhaps someday we'll all learn.

The hippie bride wore something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue, red, orange, green, pink and purple. . . and something swiped out of a shop window during a riot.

Husband answering phone:—"She's not home, Mrs. Brown. Would you like to leave a rumor?"

Grand Master To Install Masons

J. Guy Smith of Dallas, Grand Master of Masons in Texas, will install officers of six Masonic Lodges of District 105 in an open public installation ceremony here Thursday, July 10.

The ceremony, to which the public is invited, will be held in the Winters First United Methodist Church, at 8 p. m. Prior to the installation, which will be held in the church auditorium, the ladies of the Winters chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star will serve a "Dutch treat" dinner to local and visiting Masons, their wives and friends, in the dining hall of the church.

Officers from Masonic Lodges in Winters, Ballinger, Eden, Miles, Paint Rock and Norton will be installed by Grand Master Smith.

John J. Swatchesue, District Deputy Grand Master for District 105, will be master of ceremonies for the installation service.

New officers to be installed in the Winters Masonic Lodge will include Richard C. Thomas, worshipful master; Robert Carey, senior warden; Dennis Poe, junior warden; O. J. Murray, treasurer; George Garrett, treasurer; John J. Swatchesue, secretary.

City No Longer Picking Up Loose Leaves, Limbs

The "emergency" is over, and City employees have stopped picking up loose leaves and tree limbs piled in the streets in the clean up following the June 12 hailstorm.

The City administration said that employees who had been released from other departments during the emergency to help clean up the town following the storm have returned to their respective jobs.

Residents who still have large amounts of leaves and limbs are advised by the City that these will be picked up on the regular sanitation department runs, only if they are in boxes or sacks or otherwise prepared for easy disposal. Sanitation department workers will no longer fork loose leaves into the truck, it was announced.

Residents were cautioned also, not to burn leaves in the streets; the heat damages the asphalt paving, it was pointed out.

Plan To Present Hospital District Petition Monday

The Runnels County Commissioners Court will be petitioned next Monday to call an election in North Runnels County for formation of a hospital district.

The committee working on the project has been circulating the petitions, and a spokesman for the group said it is expected that at least 500 signatures will be on the documents by next Monday, when the request is made to the Commissioners Court.

Following receipt of the petition, the Court has a limited time in which to call an election to determine the wishes of the residents of North Runnels County regarding formation of a hospital.

Authorization to petition and call an election for the purpose of establishing a hospital district in North Runnels County was made through HB 145, passed by the last regular session of the Texas Legislature.

Fire which began and was more or less confined to the engine compartment damaged a car belonging to Mrs. Earl Dorsett about 8:30 Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Dorsett was driving to Winters when she discovered the fire. She stopped on the Drasco road, about three miles north of Winters, and hurried to the Vivian Colburn residence and called the Winters Volunteer Fire Department.

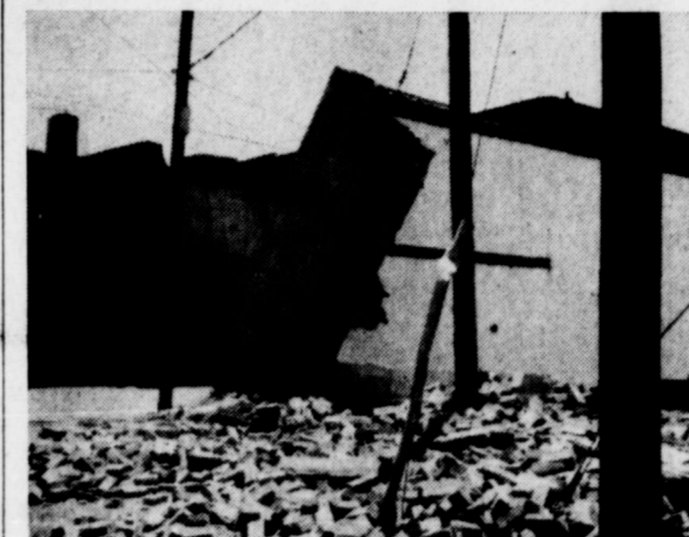

Firemen said the fire probably was caused by a broken fuel line under the hood. It was estimated that the car will be a complete loss.

Repairs on hail damage being made at school.

Broken windows have been replaced, some of the roofs have been recovered and other repair work is still underway on the several buildings of the Winters Independent School District system. All buildings were damaged during the heavy hailstorm of June 12.

Carroll Tatom, superintendent of schools, said work is still going on in cleaning up the rooms, doing some painting, and removing glass from floors and woodwork.

Supt. Tatom said the school plant was well-covered by insurance, but adjustments and settlements have not been completed.

GOING . . . Part of the wall of the old Stoll Building on West Dale Street collapses as a cable fastened around the wall and to a winch on a truck is tightened. The building is being torn down to make room for a parking lot for The Winters State Bank.

GOING . . . Even though the brick wall in this picture appears to be standing upright, about half of it—from the foreground to the door in the center—has started toppling to the ground, as cables tighten. The camera shutter clicked just as the near portion of the wall was actually leaning at an angle, more than a foot away from the background half, on the way to the ground. A close look at the photo will show a crack separating the two halves, at the old doorway in the center. This week, workmen were cleaning and stacking the brick from the old building, and the lot is expected to be completely cleared within a few days. (Staff photo)

Young Ladies May Now Enter County FB Queen Contest

Young ladies of the county may now enter the Runnels County Farm Bureau Queen Contest, according to an announcement from the county FB office.

The contest will be held August 14 in conjunction with the Farm Bureau annual barbecue, July 31, at 5 p. m., is the deadline for entering the contest.

To be eligible, an entry must be a daughter or sister of a Farm Bureau member actively engaged in agricultural production. The membership under which the girl qualifies must be in the county of participation.

Entry must be single and must have never been married, between the ages of 16 and 22 by Sept. 1, 1969.

Purpose of this contest, according to the Farm Bureau, is to give recognition to the farm and ranch girls of Texas. Basic principles of the contest are as follows: Young ladies are to be judged on grace, poise, charm, vivaciousness, and all the other qualities that go to make up winsome Texas future homemakers. Three main points on which entries will be judged include: (1) appearance, (2) poise and (3) personality.

The FB contest committee says it is "anticipated that through the institution of this contest that more farm and ranch girls and other young people may become better acquainted with the principles of the Farm Bureau organization."

Each contestant will be required to speak approximately one minute on "Why are you glad your family belongs to Farm Bureau."

Additional information may be obtained from the office of the Runnels County Farm Bureau.

Services will be held each week day at 8 p. m., and on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Special singing will be held at 2:30 p. m. July 6. The public is invited to attend these services.

Enough To Kill Livestock

Nitrates High In Water Wells

A high concentration of nitrates in well water in some sections of Runnels County is thought to be the cause of many livestock deaths during the past several months.

Nitrates in well water also could be harmful to humans, especially to infants, if the parts per million count should be high enough.

Persons who use well water for drinking and household purposes, and stock farmers who use well water for livestock, should have the water tested without delay.

This information was released by the Runnels County Agricultural Agent and members of the Texas Quality Water Board, the State Department of Health, and others, at a meeting in the courthouse Friday afternoon.

The purpose of the meeting, according to County Judge W. H. Rumpy, was to inform Runnels County citizens of the water problem, recommend testing of all water wells in the county, and to help seek a solution to nitrate intoxication. At the meeting were representatives of the Quality Water Board, the Department of Health, the County Agricultural Agent's office, the State Water Development Board, and representatives of the news media, who were asked to assist in warning residents of the county of the danger.

County Judge Rumpy said there was no reason for panic regarding the situation, but there was reason to be concerned about the danger which exists in using well water which has not been tested.

C. T. Parker, County Agent, said the investigation of the possible nitrate danger began by accident more than a year ago. Cattle losses reported were more than normal, and investigation revealed that there was a high nitrate content in the well water which had been given to the cattle. Within the past few days of this year, a big loss has been reported. Loss has been heaviest to the south of Ballinger, Parker said. In one report, 11 head of livestock were lost; a neighboring stockman reported five head, and another, four head. Other reports were checked out, and it was found that many cattle had been lost in the county.

Investigation showed that on one place where loss was exceptionally heavy, the nitrate concentration tested 2600 parts per million. Other tests showed 147 ppm, 11.5 ppm, 520 ppm, and 13.5 ppm. A well north of Winters lake tested 332 ppm, Parker said.

In the second flight, Bill Webb hit an 84 for first, while Johnny Cathey was runnerup with 92.

In the women's division, Fiona Robinson was first in the championship flight, with Petie Bean runner-up.

In the first flight, Lois West was first, with Marlene Wood runnerup.

Twenty-eight men and seven women took part in the golf tournament.

Herbert Gipson of Amarillo will be the speaker at a series of services during a gospel meeting at the Wingate Church of Christ, July 6 to July 13.

Services will be held each week day at 8 p. m., and on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Special singing will be held at 2:30 p. m. July 6. The public is invited to attend these services.

Gospel meeting at the Shep Church of Christ will begin Sunday, July 6th and continue through Sunday July 13, according to announcement by J. R. Watson, of Wingate.

Lloyd Ash of Abilene will do the preaching. The public is cordially invited to attend.

R. P. Harris, of the Water Quality Board, said his department had been asked by County Judge Rumpy to run tests on well water in the county. They found levels of from 10 to 2000 ppm, he said.

There is a definite connection between the high nitrate content of well water and cattle and livestock losses, it was stated at Friday's meeting, thus the warning to users to have water tested.

All wells in the county should be suspect until they are definitely cleared by testing, it was recommended. Well water users may have water tested through the County Agent's office, Parker said. They have containers, or clean containers may be provided by the residents themselves. Eight ounces of clean water will be needed for the tests, Parker said, and the cost per test will be $2.50. Testing will be made by a laboratory at Texas Technological College, Lubbock. (Continued on page 8)

WORLD-WIDE OIL

There is a growing awareness in the petroleum industry that demand for its products is outpacing the discovery of new oil reserves. Ideally, each year new petroleum finds should exceed consumption, assuring a predictable future supply. This is not the case today.

With thousands of additional cars coming on the road each year and increasing numbers of jumbo jetliners in the air, petroleum products are being gobled up at a tremendous rate. At the same time, anti-pollution restrictions eliminate certain grades of oil as fuel and foster demand for other grades low in pollutants. Babson's Reports does not by any means fear running out of oil, but substitution of new reserves must be constantly searched out to meet the growing needs of the future.

Virtually No Limits

To meet these requirements and maintain an orderly economic distribution pattern, the oil industry now explores in almost every corner of the globe. Only limits restraining the industry are the water depths offshore beyond the continental shelf, and these will doubtless be conquered. With today's advanced seismic techniques, the industry has been able to "map" potential oil-bearing acreage in places never before dreamed of. As such locations come into production, the entire economies of nations are altered.

The wealth of the Arab countries is well known. Libya—in arid North Africa—not only recently became a beneficiary of oil royalties, but is also utilizing a tremendous reservoir of underground water discovered by Occidental Petroleum. Nigeria, in West Africa, is another undeveloped country that could eventually prosper from huge oil production. Australia and New Zealand will become more self-sufficient in petroleum if promising onshore and offshore exploration proves productive. Lastly, there are indications of a sizable pool of oil beneath the China Sea between Japan and Taiwan. Development here could involve complex international political moves since Communist China could logically be a claimant to this oil.

At home, the Alaskan North Slope has been much in the news with a 5-to-10-billion-barrel pool of oil awaiting production. Even further to the north, the Canadian Arctic islands could be even more prolific. The problems of extraction and distribution from these regions will be massive and costly, but eventually this wealth of "black gold" will have a marked effect on world petroleum markets.

Political Climates

An important consideration in pursuing continuing world-wide exploration is the degree of economic and political stability a region possesses. This explains the current interest and activity in Indonesia, which—although

GOVERNMENT AND TAXES

This week is our Nation's birthday. If you are pessimistic, and look at the fraction of one percent of Americans who act like idiots on the college campuses instead of pursuing their education, or those who try to reason with us with riots over every imaginable cause, you will probably conclude that our country has had it. If, on the other hand, you remember our government's Astronaut's accuracy, if you remember the wide margin we have in education over every other nation (in spite of the present college ruckus) and if you remember our fabulous economic power, you will recognize that in spite of thousands of defects, we have national, state and local governments that have unequalled capability. (In spite of the over-emphasis of nonsense by loud-mouths, we are a people of unequalled ability.) However, the best proof that our Nation will be around for a few more birthdays is demonstrated by Internal Revenue Service's continuing to collect 97 percent of our Federal taxes through voluntary compliance. Our people have unequalled morality. The average American may gripe a great deal about the shortcomings of our governments and of our officials, and is sure we need to reform, but he is still willing to contribute his fair share of almost $200 billion in Federal taxes. Apparently he thinks more of the establishment and the results he gets from it than the annihilist minded students that belong to the SDS.

Trends For 1975 Supermarket

In the 1975 supermarket, homemakers will be able to buy portion-controlled sized meat cuts, predicts Dr. Frank Orts, Extension meats specialist at Texas A&M University.

The meat package also may have the calorie count on it, he says, and will be frozen to eliminate rewarming and freezing for the home freezer.

Portion-controlled size cuts now are used in restaurants and institutions.

Medium-sized food stores will disappear in a trend toward small neighborhood stores for quick shopping trips and convenience buying and large multi-department food stores within a one and one-half mile radius for weekly shopping, predicts Orts on other market trends.

He reports on a recent Supermarket Institute Convention.

Hay is something we must make between the time we get out of it and the time we hit it.

long a significant oil-producing country—has achieved political stability only in recent years. Prior to that, oil concerns either were not permitted to operate in the area or were reluctant to commit capital because of the unhealthy political climate. The Middle East and South America must also be considered somewhat unstable, with a never-present risk of expropriation or stringent royalty terms. However, Babson's Reports feels that the abundance of oil reserves in these areas tends to offset such risks.

Recommendations

Most of the major oil companies have diverse world-wide exploration and development programs. Investors looking at these companies should closely examine the potentials and pitfalls of foreign operations, as well as the basics of the firms involved.

34 Persons Will Be Fatally Injured On Fourth of July

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today the DPS Statistical Services Bureau estimates that 34 persons will be fatally injured in traffic accidents in Texas during the 78-hour July 4 holiday period.

The holiday period is considered to run from 6 p. m. Thursday, July 3, to midnight Sunday, July 6. During this time, the Department of Public Safety will activate a special "Operation Motorcade" and will place all available uniformed patrolmen on duty to enforce traffic laws in an effort to reduce accidents and assist motorists.

Speir urged all Texans to plan their holiday trips so as to allow ample time to drive without speeding or driving too fast for conditions. He also cautioned motorists to watch out for pedestrians, especially on the beaches and parks, during the holiday period.

The DPS director also warned that the department will vigorously enforce state laws relating to driving while intoxicated.

"Drinking drivers are involved in 40 to 50 percent of the fatal rural traffic accidents in Texas, and I urge all drivers to avoid the use of alcohol prior to operating a motor vehicle," Speir said.

Some Compensation For Parents From Generation Gap

The generation gap is influencing the type of furniture selected by boys especially, and sometimes girls, in their mid-teens. Miss Bonny Lay, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist, reports on the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers discovery.

"When a boy in his mid-teens has no younger brothers to fall heir to his room and its furnishings, he frequently elects to have his quarters furnished like a den. Realizing that boys seldom spend much time at home once they are in college, parents find this choice easy to accept. After all, a den is something they can use when their son's away," reports interior designer Joan Bartkowitz.

Designers are doing more and more double-purpose rooms that serve the boy while he's still at home and then double as his base and as a family room—guest room when he's away, Miss Lay says.

Usually, the room will have the casual lived-in look that boys like. That's compatible with den or family-room informality. Chief furnishings are the sofa bed, studio or day bed, stack units that include cabinets for storing records, etc., open bookcases, and a desk unit. Boys often choose the drapery and shutter combination for windows treatment, adds Miss Lay.

Boys just entering their teens are a gregarious lot! One room with a double or triple deck bed to sleep two or three boys, a big roomy chest, desks placed in opposite corners, lots of bookshelves and a pegboard stars—fills the bill for them.

Both boys and girls in their early teens like bold, brassy colors: Mexican decor is a favorite with them.

A bonnet or tester bed, selected for the girl when she outgrows her crib and intended to serve her for some 10 years, undergoes some changes when she reaches teen-age.

Soft pinks and blues are replaced by more exciting oranges and reds, adds the Texas A & M University specialist. When she reaches the mid-teens however, she very likely will prefer cooler, less exciting colors—such as lime green or ice blue. She may want a studio room, but it will be less tailored than her brother's—more feminine.

AUSTIN—Dusty old tax bills are being pulled out for discussion now that Gov. Preston Smith has vetoed the one-year spending bill and called the Legislature back into special session.

Governor Smith made it clear that he expects the special session to adopt spending proposals for a full two years starting Sept. 1, and to levy new taxes to finance whatever is spent.

Tax bills must originate in the House and Speaker Gus Mutscher says he believes the money can be found without raising the state sales tax. But, first he wants to hear what the Governor has to propose as a source for the money.

Smith has indicated that he will recommend a program substantially different from what he suggested last winter. But he said he will not propose a state income tax.

So far, legislative leaders have not shown any intention of passing another one-year spending bill and then going home without levying new taxes. Smith's contention that the tax bill will be smaller if it is passed now instead of waiting until 1970, apparently won some statewide support.

Smith has one ace up his sleeve. He vetoed a big stack of Senate bills because they were not properly passed and sent to him by adjournment of the legislative session. He said that he will allow the special session to consider re-passage of those bills, after the legislature passes the two-year appropriation bill.

Only the Governor can select the subjects to be considered in a special session. So authors of the bills he vetoed may be anxious to help put over his program in order to try to pass their bills again.

Among the vetoed bills, and of wide interest, is that by Sen.

Safety Tips For Swimmers Given

The first weekend of summer in Texas saw 20 persons die in beating and drowning accidents. The Independence Day holiday will undoubtedly add to the tragic and often avoidable death toll in the state. More than 450 Texans die each year from drowning.

"Many, if not most, of these drownings need not happen," states L. S. Thompson, M. D., of Dallas, chairman of the Texas Medical Association committee on public health.

Dr. Thompson offered the following basic safety rules that will help to avoid a tragic water accident for your family—

—Learn to swim and to relax in the water.
—Never swim alone.
—Do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold.

—Do not overestimate your ability and endurance.
—Swim at protected pools or beaches under the supervision of a trained lifeguard.

—If a boat overturns, stay with it and don't try to swim a long distance to shore.
—Never dive into waters of unknown depth.

—Try new activities, such as water skiing or SCUBA diving, only after learning the skills from qualified instructors.

The TMA committee chairman emphasized that good manners and common sense in boating will prevent most accidents. "We all know the rules: Don't overload the boat; have life preservers for each occupant; don't stand up or change seats in a small boat while under way; keep a watchful eye out for other boats, swimmers and fishermen; and give all a comfortably wide berth. We know the rules, but there still are drownings because someone ignored them," Dr. Thompson said.

Knowing about artificial respiration and how to apply it could save a life. The mouth-to-mouth method is not very difficult, but start immediately, even in the water; the victim can survive without oxygen to the brain for only a few minutes; with the victim's face up, pull the chin forward, make certain the windpipe is clear; put your mouth over the victim's mouth, pinch shut the nose and blow; repeat 12 or 15 times per minute; keep it up until medical help arrives.

Here is what Governor Smith will ask the legislators to do: —Enact a budget in the neighborhood of $5.6 billion for the 1970-71 fiscal period.

—Levy a balancing tax bill, which he estimates at around $300 million or slightly less.

—If there is time in a 30-day special session, then take up the bills he vetoed because they were not signed in the presence of the legislators.

There has been some speculation that lawmakers may just hand Smith another one-year budget and see what he does. However, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and House Speaker Mutscher pledged cooperation in supporting a biennial appropriations pattern this time.

WELFARE CHANGES NOTED

Major changes are going into effect in state welfare policies and organizational structure.

Welfare Commission - Burton G. Hackney announced elimination of the one-year residency requirement of all aid categories. This is in keeping with a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision and federal rules. Hackney predicted the change will not noticeably increase welfare rolls in Texas, but the nationwide increase in assistance casts is estimated at nearly $300 million a year.

Department of Public Welfare also realigned its statewide organization on the basis of regions, effective July 1. Department will merge Child Welfare services with the Aid to Families With Dependent Children program under a single administrative head along regional lines.

COURTS SPEAK

A U. S. Supreme Court decision in a recent Louisiana Case invalidated a Texas law which restricts voting in revenue bond elections to property owners, says Secretary of State Martin Dies. He spoke as chief election officer of the state, responsible for maintaining uniformity in application and interpretation of Texas election laws.

A firm providing mobile telephone service in the McAllen, Brownsville and Harlingen areas owns the state more than $10,000 in back telephone gross receipts taxes, says the Third Court of Civil Appeals.

State Supreme Court upheld the lower court's ruling that Morgan Express of Dallas has the right to charge less than competitors on its Dallas-Ballinger route.

High court found constitutional a law which prohibits synthetic milk including both vegetable oil and dry milk solids. Decision upheld the Court of Civil Appeals.

Gift Tea Saturday Honors Couple To Be Married Soon

Miss Diane Hickman and her fiancé, Bob Shoemaker, were honored at a gift tea Saturday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith, 200 Parklane.

Greeting guests were Mrs. Smith, the bride-elect, and her mother, Mrs. Frank Hickman of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. B. T. Shoemaker of Spearman, mother of the bridegroom-to-be.

Keyed to the colors for Miss Hickman's wedding August 2, a daisy theme marked party decorations and appointments. A white embroidered linen cloth was on the serving table, centered with an arrangement of white daisies. Mrs. Jimmy Johnson, sister of the bridegroom-to-be, served.

Mrs. Bill Shoemaker of Houston registered guests. Approximately 40 guests attended.

The house party included Mesdames W. L. England, M. D. Johnston, T. H. Worthington, V. E. Colburn, J. L. Johnson, Earl Dorsett, Wilma C. Davis, J. S. Tierce, Jack Pierce and B. T. Gardner.

VETS LAND RATES UP

Interest rates are going up to eight percent for non-veterans who take over contracts to buy land under the Texas Veterans Land Program. Board ordered the increase from six and a half percent.

Veterans are not affected by the new rate. Their new loan contracts bear five and one-half percent interest. Non-veterans enter the picture when veterans sell their land or transfer the contract, which they can do after three years.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler sees the money market as a "serious threat" to the entire land program unless the constitutional amendment is adopted August 5, to remove the current four and a half percent ceiling on interest rates on bonds sold for the veterans land fund. Bonds cannot be sold in the future unless the rate is raised, Sadler said.

WASHINGTON
"As it looks from here"
OMAR BURLESON
Congressman
17th District

Washington, D. C. —The Historian, Tacitus, described conditions of Rome 90 years after the death of Christ during the reign of Galba.

According to translation he said, "We now enter upon the history of a period rich in disaster, gloomy with wars, rent with sedition and savage in its very hours of peace."

Here in our country today, we can hardly successfully deny that we, too, are "rich in disaster," "gloomy with wars," "rent by sedition," and envied by behavior in our cities and on some college campuses that is savage beyond previous experience.

There is occasion enough for genuine concern. The gulf between the generations, we are told, is a great yawning chasm, unfathomable, also unbridgeable and irreducible. Across this abyss the generations speak to each other, sometimes in angry shouts and sometimes in barely audible sounds of steadily diminishing meaning.

Our great cities, in which are heaped about 70 percent of our population, seem suddenly determined to vindicate our prophecies in urban decay.

As we celebrate this July 4, 193 years after the Declaration of Independence, we are beset by some difficulties strange to us. But this Nation has been beset with difficulties before.

Traditionally, the Americans have not been given to despair—and there is a difference between despair and concern. The difference is faith and hope mixed with some optimism in the face of adversity.

The Americans of 1776 did not despair when haphazardly selected delegates of 13 quarreling colonies met to proclaim their independence in the luminous phrases of 33-year-old Thomas Jefferson.

Neither did they despair when their ragtail armies broke and ran in the face of British assaults.

They did not despair in 1812 when our Nation's Capitol was burned and the Government fled.

Discouragement did not develop into despair in 1860 when the Union fell into division and impoverished armies met with failure after failure in spite of the genius of a great leader.

There was no despair when that leader was destroyed in the senseless assassination that disfigured America's history.

Our people did not despair in the carnage of World War I. They did not despair when the great depression in the 30's paralyzed the National economy and dragged millions of citizens into want.

This Nation has time after time had its heart broken, its hopes frustrated, its expectations dimmed—but it has never despaired or resigned to defeat. It has never lost the faith, the courage and the confidence that attended its birth.

To say we have problems is to repeat what everyone knows. We are perplexed by the tumult on many campuses. People are confused by disorders in the cities. Many are disappointed by the failure of our system to produce the good things we would like to see all Americans enjoy. There is reason for concern by the militancy springing up all over the Country. Our feelings are hurt and we are annoyed by criticism of America at home and abroad.

The Declaration that was finally produced on July 4, 1776 promised freedom—but it did not promise freedom from the foil, anguish and ardor of democratic government in the turbulent world of the 18th century. It did not promise it then—it

HEALTH LETTER

Austin — Fear of snakes will keep many would-be campers at home this summer even though statistics show that in the United States more people are killed or seriously injured in their bathtubs than by snakebites, reports the Texas State Department of Health.

In the past 10 years in Texas, there have been just 31 deaths attributed to poisonous snakes. Snakebite deaths were most frequent among the young or old.

An unreasoning fear or ignorance may cause more harm than an actual snakebite. For example, a man who once trod on a rattler still wakes up screaming in the night. And a hunter, spiked by barbed wire, thought he had been bitten by a snake and very nearly died of shock.

True, these are extremes. But if you do regard the snake as a vicious and cunning creature with a deep-seated hatred of man, you are mistaken. Instead, it is timid and retiring. The earth-bound reptile will react to man as it would to any big and threatening creature, but it much prefers to slide unobtrusively away.

Poisonous snakes of the U. S. include the rattlesnake, copperhead, cottonmouth, moccasin and coral snake. One of the most prevalent in Texas is the rattlesnake.

Should you encounter a rattler the safest thing to do, usually, is to remain perfectly still or edge gingerly away. Don't run. You only excite the snake, making it more apt to strike in self-defense. On the other hand, don't assume that it will shake its rattle as a signal of attack or that it only strikes when coiled. A rattling tail indicates nervousness rather than a sign of aggression. And, a rattler may strike in any direction from any position.

In applying first aid for snakebite, make the victim lie down as soon as possible and apply a constricting bandage above the bite. The pulse in blood vessels below the bandage should not disappear, nor should the bandage produce a throbbing sensation. Loosen the bandage for a few seconds every 15 minutes. If possible, apply ice packs to the bite and get the victim to a physician or hospital.

If a lengthy interval seems likely until antivenin can be given, make cuts cautiously through the skin into and just above the presumed venom deposit site, avoiding tendons, and apply suction.

cannot promise it now. Our institutions promise us not the freedom from problems but the freedom to work at their solution. Thornton Wilder had this line in his play "The Skin of Our Teeth," "I know that every good and excellent thing in the world stands moment by moment on the razor edge of danger and must be fought for—whether it is a field, a house, or a country."

So it is with us if we maintain the spirit that has been the American tradition since 1776.

Anti-Cancer Agent Identified by USDA — An active ingredient having anti-cancer properties has been isolated from a plant extract and identified as lirinodene by U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists. The material comes from dried wood and bark of Annona glabra, a relative of the custard-apple family of shrubs and trees found in Florida. Experiments conducted by the scientists have shown significant inhibition of human cancer cells in cell cultures.

Peaches:
Can you imagine summer without peaches? Luckily, you don't have to—a bumper crop of that golden fruit is forecast for this year, so you and your family can look forward to peaches in everything from pies to salads to cobblers and short-cakes.

One of the best peach desserts ever concocted is this Old-Fashioned Peach Cream Pie. An un-baked pastry shell, made with four and solid all-vegetable shortening, is filled with a mixture of fresh peach slices, brown sugar, heavy cream and just a dash of cinnamon, then baked until the crust is crisp and golden brown. Mrs. O'Connor suggests serving this pie just slightly warm—about an hour and a half after it comes out of the oven. It's good served warmer, but it doesn't cut quite as well. Skinning peaches for desserts and salads is quite easy if the peaches are ripe enough. Just drop them in boiling water for a few minutes, then lift the fruit out and strip off the skin. If the peaches are under-ripe, you'll have to cut the skin away with a knife.

Another favorite peach dessert is a ginger cake with an upside-down peach topping. If you get a craving for either of these peach desserts when the fresh fruit is not available, substitute either canned or frozen.

Insecticide Resistance Is A Big Problem—Insect resistance to insecticides is one of the biggest problems facing cotton farmers today, according to John G. Thomas, Extension entomologist at Texas A&M University. At least 10 species of insects and mites have developed resistance to one or more organic insecticides since the early 1950's. Of these, the bollworm and tobacco budworm are causing the most concern. Present indications of organophosphate resistance in the tobacco budworm are particularly disturbing, Thomas said.

Boat Safety Tips Given By USCG

The United States Coast Guard recently urged boaters to leave "float plans" with their family or friends before going boating.

Such a plan, says the Coast Guard, could save your life if you run into trouble on the water. A float plan is a daily schedule of events planned by the boatman. It tells when and where you will depart, where you will be cruising, and when and where you will return. Should you not return in a reasonable length of time, the person holding your plan can notify the Coast Guard or other authorities.

The Coast Guard pointed out that the float plan should include a full description of your boat, such as color, length, type, number, and name. Further information should include the name, sex, and age of everyone on board. Addresses and telephone numbers are also useful.

Data about your marine radio, if any, are extremely valuable to rescuers. List the frequencies, or channels, you have available. Information about lifesaving devices, flares, and other emergency gear is helpful.

Don't forget a description of your car and trailer, if being left at the ramp.

Remember to check with whomever holds your float plan. If you have trouble or change your planned routine or schedule, leaving a permanent record of a description of your boat and its equipment with a reliable friend isn't a bad idea either.

Cottonseed substance stops calf scour—An inexpensive by-product of the cottonseed oil refining process has been found by Texas A & M University researchers to contain a factor which prevents common scours in calves. Dr. R. E. Leighton of the A&M Animal Science Department says excellent success has been obtained in the past two years with dairy calves fed a milk-replacer formula containing the substance.

"Hang Your Hat On the Wind" Fourteen-year-old Ric Natoli gets what every youngster thinks he should have—a day off from school on his birthday. That's because he shares the same birthdate as Abraham Lincoln.

Ric was born February 12, 1955, in Brooklyn. You might ask, then, what he is doing playing a Navajo Indian boy in Walt Disney Productions' new western adventure, "Hang Your Hat On the Wind," which was filmed in the wilds of Monument Valley and the Arizona desert.

Ric looks the part. That's why. His jet-black hair and eyes and olive complexion, mirroring his Italian-Spanish heritage, made him physically perfect for the part of Goyo, an Indian boy who finds a $75,000 thoroughbred in the desert and claims it as his own.

"The Savage Seven" A new Robert Walker, of and for an entirely new generation of movie-goers, has followed family tradition and attained Hollywood stardom.

The handsome son of the late film star Robert Walker and the equally famed actress Jennifer Jones, is the brilliant star of "The Savage Seven," a spectacular action drama released by American International on Sunday at the State Theatre. Portraying the role of an American Indian who becomes involved in a war to the finish with a band of vicious motorcycle outlaws, young Walker shares screen honors with such other film stalwarts in the color film as Adam Roarke, Joanna Frank, Larry Bishop, John Garwood, Max Julien and Richard Anders.

Phone Workers Of General Co. Get Pay Raise

Substantial wage increases and certain benefit improvements become effective this month for employees of General Telephone Company of the Southwest, under the terms of the three-year contract completed June 28, 1968, between the company and the Communications Workers of America.

This phase of the contract will cost the company about $1.2 million annually and is in addition to those parts of the agreement which became effective last year, increasing annual operating of the company by about $1.5 million, company spokesmen said.

Owen Rabourn, director of personnel, said all job classifications of the company's employees are affected by the 1968 wage increase. Average of the increases in various classifications is over 12 cents per hour, Rabourn said. This results in an average increase of about 5.6 percent.

Also effective June 22, the company began paying the total premium for basic health insurance for each employee. This amounts to $7.23 per month per employee. The company also contributes $0.42 each month toward the monthly premium cost for major medical expense in-

Water Wells--

Nitrate levels in many wells in the county exceed levels considered to be harmful to humans, it was stated. Water with nitrate content of 45 ppm could be harmful to pregnant women, infants and children up to 2 years old. Levels of more than 100 ppm should be considered harmful to livestock.

Source of the nitrates is not known, Parker said, and there is no well-depth pattern. There are no instances of heavy commercial fertilizer use in the areas where the heaviest nitrate concentration has been found. Also, there are no practical methods of removing the nitrates from the water, and the only solution would seem to be finding another source for water.

Charles Davis, of the State Department of Health, warned of the danger of high nitrate contents to humans. Although there are no known cases of death in the state from this source, well water users should be concerned and have their water tested, he said.

It was pointed out that surface water, such as livestock ponds, lakes and tanks, is not affected. Experts said that the algae and plant life in surface water consumed the nitrates.

County Agent Parker said there are upwards of 2,000 water wells in use in the county, and all should be tested. Water should be tested periodically—about once a month—and after heavy rains, it was said. Wells tested one month and found to have a high nitrate content may test out with a lower count the next month.

The nitrate problem is not confined to Runnels County, it was surmised, but probably exists in adjoining counties as well.
