HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Picked up a copy of last week's Friona Star, and staring at us from a prominent position on the front page was a headline over a story of an upcoming football game. Reading the headline, we came to a quick conclusion that here was a head writer who had complete confidence in his hometown team, or else he had inside information available to no one else. The headline read, "Chiefs Bound to Win On Friday." That head said, in effect, that the die was cast and that the Chiefs had it in the bag.

We got curious about what the writer had to say in the story, and read the article—the thing we should have done before we jumped to any conclusions. The head writer was right—except for the possibilities of a tie, the Chiefs were bound to win. The Friona Chiefs were playing the Crosbyton Chiefs!

Which all goes to re-emphasize the danger of reading or quoting anything out of context, which happens so many times. An act which more times than not will present a situation in an exact opposite light than intended.

Next Tuesday, November 11, is Veterans Day, or as many of us still are inclined to think, Armistice Day. The day was first observed as Armistice Day. Silence had fallen across Europe at 11 a. m. November 11, 1918, ending World War I.

This is still a day of hope, although 51 years have passed since that eventful day. Over four and one-half million represented the United States during that great conflict. Over 126,000 men would not be coming home, having paid the supreme sacrifice for their country. They were remembered in services beginning on November 11, 1921. In 1926, Armistice Day was the official name given this day of observation. In 1938 Congress proclaimed the date a legal public holiday.

The hopes and dreams of mankind were shattered just one year later, in 1939, when World War II began. America again responded to the challenge. Over 16 million men were called to forsake peaceful pursuits and bear arms for the protection of our allies, and the ultimate protection of their own lands and loved ones.

Twice since that date, Americans have come to the aid of oppressed peoples, once in Korea, and now in Vietnam. When communist forces invaded Korea and South Vietnam, we came to the aid of those suffering people who had visions of living in a land that was free.

We Americans still maintain hope for peace in the world today, even though battles continue to rage in the jungles of Vietnam. We will not accept a peace of slavery, but a peace of honor and dignity, in spite of the outcry of the small minority who insist that we must quit and allow communism to swallow up an entire country and slaughter the populace, and endanger the safety of untold millions of others in other lands.

As we observe Veterans Day 1969, we pause to remember the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, a symbol of all American fighting men who paid with their lives, that the living might enjoy enduring freedom. More than one million men have given their lives in this endeavor.

We have a tremendous responsibility and owe a great debt to those who have given us our dearly cherished freedom, and to the memory of those who did not return. We owe a pledge of assurance that we are worthy of the many sacrifices they have made in order that we may remain a free nation.

We face the future with confidence and hope that world peace will come because of the actions and deeds of our fighting men of the past, and for our men who fight today on the battlefields of Vietnam.

On Veterans Day 1969, we salute those heroes of past wars and our fighting men of today, who are preserving our democracy. We shall honor those who died for freedom's sake, and we pledge to those who live that we will remember with reverence their contributions to our freedom.

Lone Star Gas Asks Rate Hike

Lone Star Gas Company Monday night requested the City of Winters for authority to increase residential and commercial natural gas rates.

Marshall Wharton, manager of the Winters office of Lone Star Gas, met with the City Council and formally presented the gas company's request.

The City Council took no action on the request at the Monday night meeting, but agreed to study the request.

The gas company asked that rates be fixed at $1.756 gross, $1.58 net, for the first 1,000 cubic feet of gas used. All gas consumed over 1,000 cubic feet would be billed at $.9322 per thousand cubic feet, gross, or $.839 per thousand cubic feet, net. Present rate is 1.50 for the first 1,000 cubic feet, the City said.

Net rate would apply to all bills paid within ten days after monthly billing date; gross rate would be applicable thereafter. Also, the gas company specified that no gas bill would be rendered to any residential or commercial consumer served under the above rate not consuming any gas during any monthly billing period.

In making their request for the rate increase, the gas company said that this was the "first request for a rate increase based on revenue deficiencies in our distribution system since 1953." The company said that the cost of gas in the field has increased 41 percent in 10 years from about 11.40 cents per thousand cubic feet in 1958 to 16.07 cents per thousand in 1968. They said this was a principal factor in our recent application to the Railroad Commission of Texas for a gas rate increase. The gas company representative also said that distribution property and equipment costs have increased about 30 percent in the last 10 years, so that the investment per customer in plant property

Chamber of Commerce Directors Are Elected, Officers To Be Named Dec. 2

Members of the Winters Chamber of Commerce have elected five new directors, to take office January 1, and a committee has been named to nominate candidates for the offices of president, vice president and treasurer for 1970.

The directors of the chamber met Tuesday evening and counted the postcard ballots which had been used in the election of the five new directors. A high percentage of the postcard ballots in the director election were returned by the membership, according to Mrs. Emma Marks, secretary-manager of the chamber.

New directors elected by the membership are Carroll Tatom, superintendent of schools; M. D. (Doc) Johnston, of ACJ Enterprises; Mrs. J. W. Bahlman, of Bahlman Jewelers; George R. Hill, publisher of The Winters Enterprise; and H. M. (Jiggs) Nichols, Winters postmaster. These directors will serve for two years, taking office Jan. 1.

Woodrow Watts, chamber president, appointed a committee to nominate candidates for offices on the board of directors for 1970. They will select candidates for president, vice president and treasurer, and the new board will elect officers at the next meeting, December 2. Election of officers has been moved up one month, Watts said, to enable the new officers to become familiar with duties of the offices before taking over Jan. 1.

The Retail Trades Committee will report to the board within

Only 270 Bales To Warehouse

Gathering of the open 1969 cotton crop in the Winters area has been stymied by wet weather during the past several days, and only 270 bales have been received by the Winters Warehouse from the gins at Winters and Wingate.

Following rains over a wide area Sunday, there was promise of clearing weather. A moderate frost was received Sunday night and again Monday night, and along with hoped-for clear weather during the next several days will relieve the situation so that farmers will be able to begin gathering soon.

Agricultural Provisions of Texas Minimum Wage Law Explained

The first Texas minimum wage law will go into effect the first of next February, according to James I. Mallett, Extension farm management specialist at Texas A&M University.

The new law will cover those employees not covered by the federal minimum wage law but not supersede the federal statute. The agriculture section of the state law is designed to keep pace with future federal wage standards with the provision that the state minimum wage will not be less than 20 cents below the federal level. At the 1970 federal level of $1.30 per hour, the Texas minimum wage for certain farm workers will be $1.10 per hour. Non-agricultural employees will receive $1.25 per hour until Feb. 1, 1971. At that time, the minimum wage will be increased to $1.40 per hour.

Wage rates for piece work will be effective on Feb. 1, 1971, and will be established by the end of 1970 by the Commissioner of Agriculture. The new law provides that the piece rate will be equivalent to the hourly minimum wage for workers of average ability and diligence in harvesting. Mallett added that the piece rate workers will be covered by the hourly wage scale until the Commissioner of Agriculture establishes the regulations and procedures for administration of the piece rate work some time next year. Piece rates will also apply to contract labor.

He pointed out that non-agricultural businesses, regardless of size, will be affected by the state law if they are not currently subject to the federal statute. According to Mallett, the agriculture portion of the state law differs from the federal statute in three basic ways. First, the state law says that the new minimum wage will not apply to employers who did not use more than 300 man days of labor during any calendar quarter of the preceding calendar year. This figure of 300 man days becomes significant when the second basic difference is considered. Under the federal law, a man-day is defined as a person working at least one hour a day. The state law says that a man-day is any day during which an employee performs agricultural labor for at least four hours for wages.

The third difference is the exemptions for persons working with livestock. Under the new law, employees working with dairy operations and production of livestock are exempt from the law. A notable exception, however, is that workers in feedlots are not exempt. The federal law exempts workers in range production of livestock where hours are hard to calculate. Agricultural employees living on the premises in quarters furnished by the employer must receive at least $30 weekly in cash. The new law also says that any person whose earnings or productive capacity are impaired by age, injury or mental or physical deficiency may work at wages not less than 60 percent of the minimum wage. In the case of this reduced pay rate, the employer must secure a medical certificate from a physician. However, this provision does not apply to persons employed in agriculture as piece rate workers. Issuing false earnings statements by employers is a misdemeanor and can draw a fine of not less than $100 or more than $500 or between five and 30 days in county jail or both. Failure to pay the applicable minimum wage will make the employer liable for twice the unpaid wages plus attorneys' fees and costs of action. Mallett emphasized that the new state law does not interfere with the right of employees to bargain collectively for wages that are higher than the minimum established in the law. The state law lists several exemptions that differ from the federal statute. Information on the state law can be obtained from the local county agent or from the Texas Department of Agriculture in Austin.

LIONS CAMP MONTH—Governor Preston Smith proclaims November "Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children Month" as Lions League President E. J. Grindstaff of Ballinger and Executive Director Frank Robertson of Kerrville watch in ceremonies in Austin.

The highlight game of the 1969 football season will be the Blizzards-Bearcats tilt to be played in Winters Friday night, November 7. Kickoff time, 8 p. m.

This annual confrontation between the football teams of Winters High School and Ballinger High School has for many years been the seasonal classic, regardless of the records of either team against other rivals. This has been the situation throughout the past three or four decades, and this week's meeting promises to be no exception. Most of the time these teams play before capacity crowds, whether played in Winters or Ballinger, and the stands are expected to be full this week, as all Runnels County turns out for the contest.

This will be the last home game for the Blizzards; the Bearcats played their last home game last Friday night. Both teams will be on the road for their last games of the season next week.

The Winters Blizzards, because of their 1-4 district record, will be going into this game slightly the underdogs. But their performance against Stamford last Friday night indicates that anything can happen, as they grow in experience.

Ballinger, classified as a power in 7-AA at the start of the season, took their first two district games, then fell on evil days as Hamlin and Haskell bounced them 25-7 and 37-21. Last week they defeated Merkel 38-12. The Bearcats played only two pre-conference games, while others of District 7-AA had three non-conference contests before district competition.

Winters and Ballinger have played five common opponents thus far in the season.

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—High borrowing costs, tight credit, impaired vigor of consumer spending, and anti-inflation policies of the federal government have all been well publicized in the past year as factors which can cause a period of business hesitancy. Indeed, at long last, the seemingly unstoppable upward climb in business has been checked, at least temporarily. After reaching a peak at mid-summer, industrial activity has crested over. Thus, attention is now swinging more toward concern that these measures which were instituted to cool down a superheated economy may precipitate a downward slide in business greater than expected.

Causes of Changes in Inventory Policies

Many factors affect business inventory policies, including the business climate itself. However, expectations for near-term business are by far the most important determinant of business inventory policy. In a sense, this represents the elusive force of business confidence. Anticipation of higher levels of business can prompt businessmen to lay aside more inventories than current demand warrants. By the same token, rising prices or expectations of labor disruptions can prompt forward buying to assure adequate supplies of inventory to meet future needs.

On the other hand, apprehension concerning a possible drop-off, or even a leveling off, in business fosters more cautious inventory policies. Then, when the business dip does occur, the usual tendency is to feed on existing inventory stockpiles rather than new output, which in turn can aggravate the business letdown.

Losing Control

It is not easy for businessmen accurately to determine future inventory requirements. Seemingly unstoppable business advances have a nasty habit of terminating sooner than expected, or oft-times can run longer and stronger than anticipated. But this type of deficiency can be remedied quite readily, although perhaps on a costly basis.

A far greater danger is the unintended building up of inventories. This can result from overly optimistic projections of future demand, or the resolution of a labor conflict either short of a walk-out or with a brief tie-up. In either case, businessmen are left with greater-than-desired inventory holdings which must be reduced. Moreover, sometimes inventories can continue to build up even after cutbacks in orders are instituted, as deliveries are received on orders previously placed. This situation is especially onerous when demand also slumps.

Current Inventories Pose A Danger

During the long business upturn which now appears to have been checked, inventory holdings seemed inadequate in most instances. Moreover, with the inflationary spiral in commodity prices, the businessman who kept his shelves heavily stocked fared very well. But now that demand has tapered off and the upturn in industrial activity has crested over, inventory holdings could suddenly become burdensome.

Thus far, the ratio of inventory to sales has not been out of line with normal benchmarks. However, if sales should falter, adequate stockpiles could become excessive, particularly as manufacturers deliver goods which were previously ordered.

Changes in Electric Motor Nameplates Should Be Noted

Electric motor manufacturers have made a change in markings of motor nameplates and knowing this can help buyers select a motor that's right for the job.

W. S. Allen, Extension agricultural engineer, says the older-type motor marking indicated the "degrees rise" which showed how much warmer the motor would be than the surrounding air temperature.

For instance, a motor marked "40 deg. C. Rise," was designed to operate 40 degrees centigrade (72 degrees F.) warmer than the surrounding air.

The nameplate did not say so, but most motors were meant to operate safely with an air temperature of 104 degrees F.

The new markings, says Allen, state that the maximum (surrounding air) temperature in which the motor is meant to operate, and the type of insulation, such as Class A, Class B, etc.

A motor marker "40 degrees C. ambient, Class A," should operate in an air temperature of 40 degrees centigrade which is about 104 degrees F. Class A insulation can have a maximum internal hot-spot temperature of 221 degrees F., and Class B insulation, a hot-spot temperature of 226 degrees F., explains the engineer.

Because of the higher temperature with Class B insulation, the old practice of holding your hand on a motor to see if it is too hot is now meaningless, says Allen.

A motor with Class B insulation can be uncomfortably hot and still be running safely.

Selecting a motor with adequate horsepower to do the specific job is still a must, and the new types are not designed to be overloaded any more than the old type, Allen cautions.

The recommended method of protecting motors from overheating due to overload is to use a fustat, circuit breaker, or other overcurrent device rated at the same amperage as that stamped on the motor nameplate.

Mrs. Carrie Seitz, Former Resident, Died In Angelo

Funeral for Mrs. Carrie Smith Seitz, 83, of San Angelo, former Winters resident, was at 3 p. m. Friday in Main Street Church of Christ in Winters, with Mr. Glenn Gray, minister, officiating.

Burial was in Fairview Cemetery under direction of Massie Funeral Home of San Angelo.

Mrs. Seitz died in a San Angelo nursing home at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday after an illness of several months.

Born Feb. 22, 1886, in Alabama, the former Winters woman married George Seitz in Belton in 1904. The couple moved to Runnels County, settling in the Wingeate community where they lived until 1949 when they retired from farming and moved to Winters.

In the early 1950s, the Seitz family moved to San Angelo where Mr. Seitz died in 1953.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Bernice Dean of Ft. Worth; two sons, G. L. Seitz of Bakersfield, Calif., and Russell T. Seitz of San Angelo; a sister, Mrs. J. W. Lindsey of Wingeate; six grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Russel Seitz and Rodney Seitz, both of San Angelo, Lloyd Carter of Buchanan Dam, and Roy Young, T. A. Smith, and Milton Patterson, all of Winters.

New Clothing Tag Lists Guarantees

Something new has been added to the hang tags of some clothing: guarantee that a garment will wear for a specified length of time.

If the garment doesn't live up to its guarantee, the manufacturer says he will return the purchase price or replace the garment. Fannie Brown Eaton, Extension clothing specialist, says.

She urges consumers to read garment labels, save the labels or hang tags and the dated sales slips. This proves how long a consumer had had the guaranteed garments.

Be sure the sales slip is dated when a guaranteed garment is purchased, the specialist cautions. Store clerks may not mention that garments carry a guarantee because so few clothing have one as yet.

Americans Buy More Spices Than Any Other Group

Americans buy more spices than any other group, both in quantity and variety. Extension Foods specialist Sally Springer says this is probably due to the many ethnic groups who use spices for their native dishes and to expanding tastes which come with expanding income.

Most spices in the United States are imported; last year about $37 million worth was shipped.

All spices are derived from aromatic parts of tropical plants the specialist explains. Those imported in quantity to the United States are allspice, cardamom seed, cassia which is marketed as cinnamon, cloves, ginger, nutmeg, mace, pepper, turmeric and vanilla beans.

Cardamom costs from $2 to $5 a pound unprocessed making it a costly spice.

Zanzibar had a poor crop of cloves this year so prices sprang from 38 cents a pound to $1.75. Cloves help pickle and preserve, make catsup, chocolate and baked goods. Clove oil, adds Miss Springer, is used to flavor chewing gum and candy, in soap and perfume and in pharmaceutical preparations.

Students Should Notify SS If Changing Schools

Students between the ages of 18 and 22 who receive social security benefits should notify their social security office if they change schools.

"Unless we are promptly informed of a change to a different school," says Ted F. Moellering, social security district manager, "a student's checks may be stopped and there might be a delay before the checks could be started again." This happens when a student leaves high school and starts to college, and when students change from one college to another.

To avoid delay in a student's checks, he should notify his local social security office just as soon as he knows he will change schools. A card form, "Notice of Change in School Attendance," is available for this purpose. If a student does not have this card, he can request one to keep on hand in case he needs to make a report by mail.

The report can also be telephoned. The telephone number at the San Angelo Office is 949-4608. The mailing address is 3000 West Harris Avenue.

"The important thing to remember," emphasized Moellering, "is that a report should be made promptly."

Mr. Page died of an apparent heart attack suffered at his home Wednesday.

Born Aug. 6, 1915, at Birthright, Mr. Page married Minnie Whitley April 13, 1952 at Clovis, N. M. The couple operated a cafe in Winters before moving to Killeen five years ago.

AROUND THE 7-AA FOOTBALL LOOP

The beginning of November means the beginning of the end for high school 7-AA football, with only two more games scheduled for seven of the membership schools — at least three more for the district champs.

The Haskell Indians are still holding strong, with perfect season and district records, as they round the near turn toward the home stretch. They kept their record intact by blasting Coleman 40-14 last Friday night at Coleman, scoring twice in each of the first three periods. Coleman got a safety for 2 in the second, and scored twice in the last quarter, without PAT-ing.

There is no disputing Haskell's leadership thus far—but they still have to meet Hamlin next week... Hamlin has remained undefeated in district until they were upset by Anson last week... (And, Haskell has to meet Anson this week.) So the Top Spot is not a bed of clover, by any means.

Hamlin, in their 7-26 loss to Anson Friday night, suffered four fumbles, two of them inside the Anson 12-yard line, and stats indicated that the Tigers out-downed them 19-14. Anson was strong on the ground, with 226 to the Pipers' 146; Hamlin led in the air, 120-56. Hamlin meets Stamford this week, and Anson goes to Haskell.

The Ballinger Bearcats did the expected Friday night, whumping winless Merkel 38-12 at Ballinger. The 'Cats showed muscle in every quarter 14-2-15-7—and went 174 yards on the ground and 190 in the air. The Badgers managed only 158 total. Ballinger comes to Winters for the annual classic this week, and Merkel hosts Coleman.

The Winters-Stamford annual event has always been a thriller, and Friday night's contest was no exception. The Bulldogs got on the board with their only TD and PAT in the first quarter, and from then on it was a head-knocker. The Blizzards passed on a four and 12 situation to post their 6 in the third quarter, but failed to PAT. Stamford rolled up 203 on the ground and 9 in the air, while Winters ran for 74 and 90 in the air. This was the last meeting between Winters and Stamford as the two schools go their separate ways according to the new UIL assignments for the next two years.

McMurry's Puckett Nearing 1,000-Yard Mark In Passing

McMurry College Indian quarterback Richard Puckett is expected to clear the 1000-yard mark for season passing when the Abilene college football team meets Sul Ross this week. Puckett, a graduate of Winters High School, has 981 yards to his credit in the passing department this season, and still has a chance to smash the school record of 1,343 set by Larry Etheridge in 1964.

He has a total of 103 yards rushing, and a game average of 154.9 yards, on the ground and in the air. He has attempted 166 and completed 76, six for touchdowns, and has a game average of 140.1 passing, and has had nine interceptions.

Blizzards Lose Close Game To Stamford, 7-6

If a team ever felt almost victorious after a defeat it was last Friday at Stamford. The Winters Blizzards narrowly missed a victory against 7-AA's defending champion as they fell 7-6 to the Bulldogs.

Although the Blizzards gave a tremendous effort to win, their only lost fumble gave Stamford its seven winning points. This recovery on the Blizzards' 12-yard line came as quarterback Ronnie Wilson fumbled the ball. Bulldog fullback Raul Vasques went over 12 yards on the next play for the touchdown and Andy McKeever added the winning PAT.

It was in the third quarter and on a fourth down when the Blizzards scored their touchdown. After a handoff from Wilson, Mike Mathis successfully passed to Alton Pierce for the touchdown. But a Bulldog named Greg Pritchard held the Blizzards in their try for two points and a win.

In great defensive form the Blizzards held the Bulldogs as they threatened near the end of the first half and again at the end of the game. The ball was in Winters' possession as the clock stopped but the Blizzards once again lacked only one point for victory.

Whooping Cranes On Way To Texas Winter Grounds

The world's only flock of wild whooping cranes is on the way from breeding grounds in northern Canada to their winter home on the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge on the Texas Gulf Coast, according to Regional Director William T. Krummes of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

Five adult whoopers have arrived on the Aransas Refuge, and two adults and one juvenile bird were seen on the Salt Plains National Wildlife Refuge in Oklahoma, Krummes said.

Every year, conservationists across the nation eagerly await news of the big white birds, who are waging a gallant fight for survival. In the fall of 1941, only 15 cranes arrived at Aransas. Under strict protection, their numbers have gradually increased until they reached a high point of 51 birds in 1968, Krummes stated.

Whoopers are about five feet tall, with red-crowned heads and black wing tips. Juvenile birds have an orange or buff coloring.

Emmert, Mrs. Ola Yates, Mrs. Ida Bates, Mrs. Robert Kraatz, Mrs. Mary McKiel, Mrs. Olga Minzenmayer, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Easterly, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Emmert, Mr. and Mrs. Rankin Pace, Dr. and Mrs. Z. until their second year. The 20-pound birds fly with their long necks and feet extended.

"Again this year, the Department of the Interior will try to keep the public informed as to the progress of the dangerous 2,000 mile migration, and the birds need the cooperation of all people if they are to win their fight against extinction," Krummes said.

speeches and skits, the young people comported themselves with much more dignity than was seen at the last national conventions.

"The well-dressed, well-mannered young people representing the 12 school chapters knew what they were doing and acted accordingly.

"If these teenagers are representative of most of those in our schools today, one wonders why the minority, those who are continually raising a ruckus, are featured in the news media as the typical teenager. It would be well if more such gatherings were given the news exposure to help offset the bad publicity given the few who disrupt the schools.

"The so-called generation gap failed to present itself as teachers and sponsors sat back and let the young people operate smoothly on their own.

"If this is an example of our future rulers and representatives of the people, this reporter, for one, says 'more power to them.'"

STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Austin, Texas.—State Bar of Texas directors have agreed on guidelines for release of news in criminal proceedings, as drawn by judges, lawyers and newsmen after a nine-month study. Texas Press Association, Texas Daily Newspaper Association, Texas Association of Broadcasters and the Bar sponsored the study.

News organizations will review the guidelines early next year. Highlights of the proposal include:

"The press has the right and the responsibility to report the truth. A free and responsible press enhances the administration of justice. Parties to litigation have the right to have their causes tried fairly by an impartial tribunal. No trial should be influenced by pressures from the press or from public clamor, and the Bar and the press share the responsibility to prevent the creation of such pressures. All members of the press should strive for objectivity, accuracy and fair play. The public has a right to be informed. The accused has a right to be judged in an atmosphere free from prejudice."

SMALL BUSINESS
Texas Industrial Commission, whose main job is to try to attract new businesses into the state, may be branching into other areas.

Rep. David Finney of Fort Worth asked the TIC to set up a new division to help smaller industries with their development and managerial problems. Under the plan, TIC would work with local chambers of commerce and trade associations to assist businesses with difficulties—either by providing counseling services or by directing them to professional business counselors.

TIC has taken the proposal under consideration.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL
Texas Legislative Council, which meets between sessions to study proposals to better organize state government, has agreed to make a series of studies including one on the "Caviness Plan" which raised so much controversy during the last session.

This plan, ruled unconstitutional by the attorney general would allow the Legislature to tap some of the permanent school fund. It is estimated by the author that it would have cut the need for taxes by $71 million if it had been approved.

Rep. Don Caviness of Austin, originator of the plan, tried to get a constitutional amendment through that would have legalized the process but was unsuccessful in the Senate. He asked for the study.

Other proposed studies that were adopted include: Study of assistance programs for the handicapped, safeguards for building where a large number of persons congregate, a study of the chain store tax, study of service for the deaf, the feasibility of giving schools three day weekends for holidays like the state has, and a study of effectively anticipating population bracket laws.

SHORT SNORTS
Texas hospitals, institutions and consumers will receive settlements of more than $4.6 million as a consequence of Attorney General Martin's anti-trust suits against five drug manufacturers for price fixing on antibiotics.

Under a brand new Work Incentive Program to train and find jobs for family welfare recipients, State Department of Public Welfare will refer those eligible to the Texas Employment Commission to arrange basic education, and vocational training through the Texas Education Agency.

Peaches: Spanish explorers brought the peach with them when they came to America.

But peaches actually are thought to have originated in China. The Chinese grew peaches more than 4,000 years ago. From China they traveled to southwest Asia. Later travelers carried peaches to the Mediterranean.

In the 18th and 19th centuries, peaches were grown in this country mainly for making peach brandy. However, as transportation facilities improved, other varieties were cultivated in larger quantities for fresh eating.

Peaches are found in almost every state in the Union. They need a slight, short freeze in the winter, but they cannot withstand a constant low temperature.

California has the highest production of clingstone peaches, which are grown mainly for canning. Current stocks of canned cling peaches are record large, according to the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Try a Peachy Turkey Platter. It's a good way to make use of leftover turkey. Drizzle canned cling peach halves with honey and broil until ripped with cronze. Garnish with watercress. Serve alongside a hot giblet gravy-topped roast turkey sandwich.

Favorite Peach Salad: This peach and turkey duo is company-perfect and truly family satisfying. Place canned peach halves on fresh salad greens. Add a scoop of turkey salad, a topknot of mayonnaise—and it's ready to serve.

Keep peaches in mind for a variety of luncheon salads. They add luster to eating enjoyment.

Peaches and Sherbet are a "natural" salad team. Nestle a drained peach half into a bed of shredded lettuce, with the cut side up. Then add a generous scoop of pineapple, raspberry, orange or lime sherbet. This makes a refreshingly tasty salad you will want to serve often.

Fruited Roast Chicken: Add 1-2 cup raisins to every 1 cup of your favorite bread stuffing. Stuff and roast the chicken as usual. Twenty minutes before serving time, place drained, canned peach halves on a piece of aluminum foil and put into the roasting pan. Serve chicken on a warmed platter garnished with the heated peaches.

Deep Dish Pie: Fill a well-buttered one-quart casserole about 3-4 full of drained canned peach slices, stir cornstarch into 1-2 of the syrup and pour over peach slices. Sprinkle generously with cinnamon. Sift together 1-2 cup flour, 1-2 cup sugar and a pinch of salt. Cut 1-2 cup butter or margarine into dry ingredients until mixture is mealy. Sprinkle mixture over peaches and use back of spoon to smooth. Cut four air holes in dough. Bake 15 minutes at 450 degrees F. then reduce temperature to 375 degrees and continue baking 20 to 25 minutes longer—or until top is crisp. Serve warm or cold.

Pie-Perfect: Prepare 1 pkg. of coconut cream pudding and pie filling mix according to pkg. instructions and pour into prepared graham cracker pie shell. Chill. Press canned peach slices into pudding mixture so they form a spiral effect. Sprinkle with flaked coconut. Cut into wedges and serve.

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

"If a hot dog is not made out of dog meat, then why do you call it a hot dog?" a foreign exchange student from Indonesia asked me when we were both attending the University of Oklahoma.

I couldn't answer his question when he asked it but, since then, I've picked up a few clues.

Europeans came flocking to the United States about the turn of the century to work in various industries. They brought food from their homelands with them and firmly imbedded some of their eating habits in American culture.

Some of these favorite foods included fancy sausages, especially frankfurters. These sausages were seasoned with spices and hot pepper and were served hot. Street vendors sold them out of little carts, yelling, "Hot! Hot! Hot!" on street corners.

About the same time, the slang word "doggy" was having its heyday on college campuses. "Doggy" was a term applied to anything stylish, garish, or conspicuous. A young man "put on the dog" if he was extremely mannerly. The same character who is called a "swinger" today would have been called "a going doggy" then.

"Hot" and "doggy" somehow came together as the ideal name for a frankfurter grilled and served with mustard or relishes between a long roll.

This food item became so popular with people of all ages that the exclamation, "Hot dog!" came to mean something delightful.

Failures are divided into two classes—those who thought and never did, and those who did and never thought.

In ancient India, sheer cotton muslin was so fine that 73 yards weighed only one pound.

Mrs. Herbert Jacob Hosted Dale Sewing Club In Her Home

ford Lehman, Miss Emma Henniger, two visitors, Janet Jacob and Mrs. Andrew Michaelowitz.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Ernest Smith on November 11.

Landscaping Is A Long-Term Investment

Are you interested in realizing a return of $1000 on a $200 investment within ten years? You can do it by using trees and shrubs adapted to the area in a correctly planned home landscape.

To make sure trees and shrubs are properly placed, it is essential that a landscape plan be developed before planting. If you are building a new home, it's best to design the landscaping before the new house is constructed. Funds for landscaping should be allocated in the budget.

It is not too late to develop a plan even after the house is several years old. Renovation of the existing plan can be done anytime the need arises. Consider the various use areas of the yard. Are these areas being used to their fullest potential?

The approach or public area is usually considered first as it provides the setting for the home. Don't hide the house by planting a forest in the front yard. Remember a tree or shrub must have room to grow and develop in order to attain its full potential in beauty and usefulness. Simplicity should be the keynote of your design.

The major emphasis should be on the development of the outdoor living area. When designing this area, keep in mind the special needs and interests of the various members of the family. It should be designed so that the homeowner will have time for relaxation and enjoyment instead of using all his spare time for maintenance. Generally, the outdoor living area will be in the back yard and screened with a fence, wall or shrubs to provide privacy.

An outdoor work area is also a necessity for most homes. It should be convenient to the work area of the house, that is near the kitchen, utility room and garage. It is usually screened from public view. Depending upon the requirements of the owners, it may include space for a garbage can rack, tool storage facilities and compost box.

For maximum returns on your investment, it is best to consult a professional landscape architect. If this is inconvenient or you enjoy doing the planning and planting, there are many excellent references on home landscaping available in the garden section of your favorite book store or library.

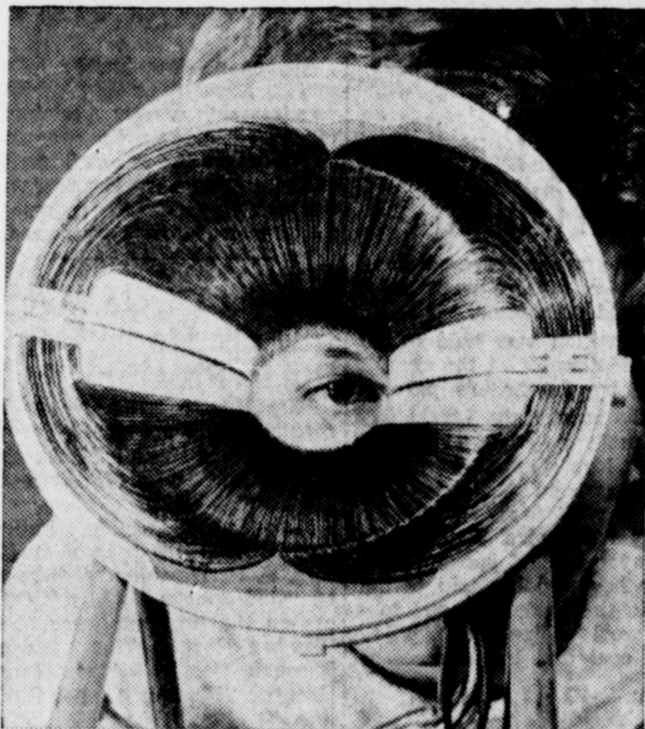

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my relatives, friends and neighbors for the nice gifts sent to me while I was sick and to those who sent cards and letters while I was at my daughter, Neta's, home in Roswell, New Mexico, after I was released from the hospital. Also I wish to express my appreciation and thanks for the food and all the many things done for me since I have returned home.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

Washington, D. C. — There seems to be good reason to distinguish between critics and apologists. Our system of Government would not be what it is if the right of criticism on issues and policy, and of those who make them, were limited in the least.

Apologists are all critics but not all critics are apologists.

There are those in prominent positions, in all walks of life, including some members of Congress, publications and organizations, acting as apologists to the world for just about everything our Country does, even to the extent of appearing ashamed of its very existence.

We are a divided people on our position in Vietnam. Every opinion carries its legitimacy and respect. It is our right to oppose or support the whole mess in part, or in its entirety, but hardly a right to apologize to the enemies of our fighting men who are there.

It is our right to question our activities in Laos but to have an apologetic attitude toward Red China because of our secrets there is no right at all.

We joined the radicals in the United Nations in condemning Rhodesia for her struggle to run her own affairs. There are the apologists to Russia for our defense preparations.

The apologists were on the stump ready to support a recent story in a Copenhagen newspaper that the United States and England at the end of World War II, dumped mustard gas in the water off the coast of Denmark and that the leakage had seriously injured six fishermen and had killed thousands of tons of fish. The story described the panic at the vacation resorts of Sweden and Denmark, all the while blaming Great Britain and the United States.

The documented proof shows it was German gas captured by the Russians and dumped by them. When this became known, the story and the apologists were hushed. It is further proved that there was no panic and that the resorts in the area thrived beyond anything ever experienced.

Someone said a long time ago, in effect, that every man is entitled to his own judgement but no man is entitled to be wrong in his facts.

It is notable, too, that by and large present-day apologists had nothing to say when Russia crushed Hungary in 1956 and more recently when the cries of Czechoslovakia were heard beneath her Soviet oppressor.

Seemingly some of our apologists have a guilt complex because of the strength and power of our Nation. Maybe they are somewhat like a great many wealthy liberals who appear to feel guilty because of their plenty in the midst of want. There are cases of those doing what the rich young ruler declined to do but mostly they are for the Government doing it for them.

Perhaps the meek will eventually inherit the earth but a comparison of events in the world could leave one to conclude that only a brutal hardness of power guarantees safety under prevailing conditions. It was not meant that the meek be vassals and slaves. Neither does it mean that we as a people should, or can be, oblivious to the opinions

Here are some facts of interest to outdoorsmen.

—There are some 2,500 dealers selling hunting and fishing licenses in Texas.

—All hunting and fishing licenses in Texas expire on August 31 each year.

—Some 175,000 hunting licenses carried by Texans are "exempt" licenses. They are given to persons over 65 years of age or under 17.

—Income from hunting and fishing licenses represents more than half the revenue needed to finance the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and its experimental projects.

—Even though you are outside the licensing age for hunters (under 17 or over 65), you must obtain deer tags to attach to the antlers of any deer you kill in Texas.

—Accidental deaths last year reached the highest level in 18 years. But firearms fatalities decreased 11 percent.

—Firearms ranked last in the eight major causes of accidental deaths in the USA last year.

—Improper use of firearms accounted for 2,400 of the nation's 105,000 accidental deaths last year. Other causes were motor vehicle accidents (47,700), falls (19,100), fires (7,700), drownings (6,700), poisoning (3,600), railroad accidents (2,600) and all other types (16,800).

—Only one death per 100,000 people in the nation is due to improper use of firearms. Automobiles account for 24.5; falls, 10; fires, 4; drownings, 3.5; railroad accidents, 1.4; poisoning 1.8; and all other types, 8.8.

—Most firearms accidents (55 percent) occur in the home, not on the range or in the field.

—Despite a 50 percent increase in the number of hunters and shooters since 1950, hunting and shooting accidents have decreased 13 percent.

—More than half of the home accidents with firearms were the result of young children playing with guns.

—You should store firearms and ammunition in widely separated areas of the home and out of reach of children.

Deer Hunt Begins Saturday In Most Counties In Texas

The deer hunting season will open Saturday, November 8, in most Texas counties, and hunters are expected to be out in great numbers on this first weekend of the 1969 season.

Quail and turkey season also opens in many counties. Hunters, however, have been advised to check with game wardens and the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department to determine regulations pertaining to specific counties in which they plan to hunt. Regulations covering bag limits and legal game differ from area to area.

Runnels County is listed in the Permian Basin District, and according to the chart provided by the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department, deer season opens November 8 and closes January 1. Bag limit is three, with no more than two bucks. Turkey season also is from November 8 to January 1. Bag limit two turkeys of either sex, according to the chart.

Winters Lions Club Working For Children's Camp

Members of Winters Lions Club are joining the thousands of members of other Lions Clubs throughout Texas this month in pausing to pay recognition to the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children, which has given over 11,000 handicapped youngsters a new dimension of freedom since it was opened in 1953.

The Winters club will make special efforts to contribute to the promotion and maintenance of the camp.

The camp, located at Kerrville in the Hill Country of Central Texas, is free to crippled, blind, deaf, or mute children of Texas from the ages of seven through sixteen. The 17 permanent buildings and other improvements dotting the 504 hillside acres represent an investment of more than 700,000.

At the camp, these youngsters who have been denied a normal childhood through no fault of their own learn to shed their shyness imposed by their handicaps. By mutual association with other handicapped children and by skillful and gentle counseling, these youngsters have found the freedom to grow, mentally and spiritually, into useful citizens of tomorrow.

Disabled Workers May Also Get Social Security

"Most people think of elderly people and retirement benefits when social security is mentioned," commented Ted F. Moellering, San Angelo social security district manager, today.

Social security does provide retirement benefits, but it also means financial security to the younger worker by providing monthly benefits to survivors of deceased workers and also to disabled workers and their families.

Many changes have been made in the social security disability program since it began. Now if a person has a disability which is expected to last 12 months or more, he may qualify for monthly benefits.

Amendments signed into law in 1968 reduced the work requirements for persons disabled before age 31. Although those disabled at age 31 or later must have worked under social security at least 5 out of 10 years ending with the date the disability began, a young person can now qualify for disability benefits with less work, and those disabled before age 24 with as little as 1 1/2 years work in the 3 years before you became disabled.

Anyone needing further information about the new disability requirements or any other part of the social security program may contact the Social Security Office at 3000 West Harris Ave., San Angelo, or see the representative when he is in your area.
