HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The Christmas season is a period of happiness and joyful happenings; of cheerful words and friendly deeds; of laughter and song.

That is, it is supposed to be. But many times it can turn into a period of unhappiness and disappointment and hurt. And all because of a moment of forgetfulness. For instance, this is one season when thieves—professional and amateur—are on the lookout for automobiles, laden with packages gay with Christmas wrappings, which are left unlocked and unattended. These autos are prime targets for the thieves, and they take a heavy toll each Christmas season.

We usually associate such thievery with the larger cities, but it can and does happen right here. Seldom does a holiday season pass without reports of loss of articles which have been left in unlocked cars. Some are recovered, but some are never found, which causes disappointment and expense.

It is so unnecessary, too. If we all would take greater pains to secure our autos when we leave them parked, there would be less thievery. The extent of the carelessness was indicated a few days ago when an important survey was made of autos parked on Main Street. In one block, in a string of eight parked cars, five of them had the keys in the ignition; and most of those had five packages of some type lying in the seat. Very inviting to a thief. It is natural for us to think that anyone pilfering a car in the middle of the day on Winters' Main Street would be noticed and apprehended. But try to remember the last time you walked down the Main Street sidewalk: Did you make a mental survey of everyone entering or leaving a car parked at the curb, or in one of the several parking lots? If you're average, you took little notice of anything, unless the person and the car were familiar to you.

The best protection against such thievery, if you have to put your packages in the car, is to lock them in the trunk, then lock the car doors and take the keys with you. No matter where you park and no matter how long you plan to leave the car unattended.

In the same vein is the ever-increasing rate of auto theft, which is becoming known as the "Crime of the Century." According to The Texas Police Journal, auto stealing has grown to mammoth proportions within the past few years. In one 10-year period (1955-1965) thefts increased 121 percent. This is one every 55 seconds, or 1,800 per day. In the last ten years, the theft rate has practically doubled—from one out of every 201 cars in 1958 to one out of 107 in 1968.

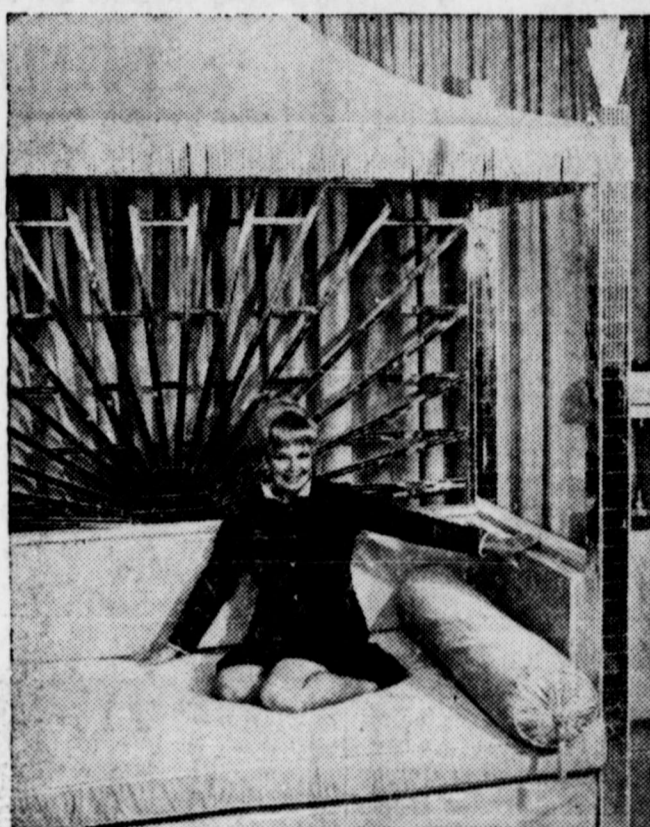

Also, according to the Journal, auto theft has become, by a great majority, a youth crime problem. Of arrested subjects 80 percent are under 21 years of age and 64 percent are under 18 years of age.

Auto theft is commercialized, also. Economic loss from the crime of auto theft in 1967 was estimated to have reached $265 million. The 1968 estimate is $315 million. The projection for 1969 is approximately one million vehicles, valued at more than $1 billion, according to the Journal.

The Journal presented some sad statistics: Thefts today involve more expensive cars than ever before; the amount of major stripping, dissection, burning and wanton destruction is accelerating rapidly; the percentage of youth currently involved in "commercial" thefts is much greater (commercial thefts meaning stealing for resale); lower percentage of recovery; lower percentage of apprehensions, clearances and convictions; the use of stolen vehicles in the commission of other crimes is largely the rule and not the exception.

Auto theft has often been referred to as "the cradle of crime" which accurately defines the fact that a large and very disproportionate number of youthful offenders incur their first serious felony charges through the theft of an automobile. Auto theft has also been referred to as "the wheels of crime" which likewise accurately describes the frequency with which the stolen automobile is

Winters Chapter Judging Team Tenth In Contest

More than five hundred members of the Texas Association of Future Farmers with their advisors converged on Huntsville to participate in the thirty-ninth annual State Leadership Contest held on the campus of Sam Houston State University on Saturday, December 13th.

The contestants made up sixty teams coming from the ten areas of Texas. These teams had first to win in their district and then in the area in order to participate in the state contest.

The contest was divided into two sections, the Green Hand division for students enrolled in Vocational Agriculture for the first time, and the Chapter Farmer division for members with previous FFA experience and membership.

Contests in the Green Hand division were Chapter Conducting, Farm Skill Demonstration, and FFA Quiz. The Chapter Farmer division included Chapter Conducting, Farm Skill Demonstration, and Farm Radio.

The Chapter Conducting team of the Winters Future Farmers placed 10th in their division.

Runnels Soil and Water District Makes '69 Report

The board of directors of Runnels Soil Water Conservation District, in a quarterly newsletter released last week, reported on the District's activities for 1969. The District received its Certificate of Organization from the Texas Secretary of State August 10, 1949, and has assisted farmers and ranchers in conservation plans and practices since that time.

During 1969 working agreements were signed with 57 landowners, according to the report. These 57 plans covered 17,788 acres. The board reports that to date, agreements have been made with 948 farmers and ranchers on 371,199 acres within the district.

During 1969, the report shows conservation plans for each acre of their land were developed by 75 landowners on 26,860 acres. Total acreage to date in the district is 296,390 under 729 plans.

Also during the present year, conservation plans were updated by 51 farmers and ranchers on 28,274 acres. Fourteen producers on 6,300 acres signed contracts with the Soil Conservation Service to speed up the application of their conservation program under the Great Plains Conservation Program. To date, 131 producers on 56,259 acres have signed contracts.

The Soil Conservation Service provided technical help 1,955 times to 475 cooperators in the district, and 355 of these applied one or more conservation practices applied on cropland included cropping systems which were crop rotation, on 26,260 acres this year for a total of 119,500 acres on the land; management of crop stubble on 17,330 acres for a total of 171,400 acres applied to date; and contour farming on 16,340 acres for a total of 239,800 acres to date.

During this year, 14,197 feet of diversion terraces were constructed to protect fields from outside water. Such practice to date has totaled 724,806 feet in the district. Forty-six acres of grassed waterway to safely convey heavy runoff water through farmland without erosion damage were established. There are 360 acres of such waterways on district land to date.

The report states that landowners constructed 964,634 feet of parallel terraces and 199,437 feet of level closed-end terraces. This gives a total of 1.9 million feet of parallel terraces and 24.3 million feet of level closed-end terraces to date for the district.

In other activities, the Runnels Soil Water Conservation District has worked closely with other organizations and districts in promoting soil and water conservation. The district has cooperated with and provided vital information to the Elm Creek Water Control District, which is situated in the eastern half of Runnels County, in that district's work toward planning flood retardation structures in the applicable area. RSCWCD also has worked with Willow Creek Water Control District in the southern part of Runnels County.

Max Lewis is chairman for this "Safety Lite-A-Bike" project, and will be assisted by J. A. Henderson Jr. and members of the Winters Police Department.

Six Blizzards On Second Team, 7AA All-District

Six members of the 1969 Winters High School Blizzard football team were picked for the 7-AA All-District second team. Haskell dominated the first team selections, with 10 Indians chosen. Haskell won the district championship this year.

Winters boys making the second all-district team were David Harrison, tackle; Wesley Crouch, guard; Mike Mathis, back, on the offensive team. On the defense second team were Tommy Jones, end; Hudson White, tackle; and Arion Barnes, halfback.

Free Parking During Holidays

Parking meters in Winters' downtown streets will be covered during the Christmas and New Year's holidays, the City Hall said this week.

The City Council approved a plan to allow free parking for the convenience of Christmas shoppers, from December 15 to January 4. No parking tickets will be issued during this period.

Governor Smith Appeals for Safe Holiday Driving

Governor Preston Smith this week expressed concern about the traffic accident potential of the coming Christmas-New Year Holiday season, and called upon everyone to exercise greater caution during the heavy traffic periods. He also called upon the news media to help get the safety message across to the people.

"As Governor," he said, "I deem it my responsibility to do everything within the prerogatives of my office to appeal to all the citizens of Texas to reduce the tragedy and the heartbreak of traffic crashes during this period and throughout the year. It is a responsibility that we are meeting with all our effort, all our energy, and all our dedication."

"Because of the severity of the traffic situation, I have declared a traffic safety emergency in Texas this holiday season. Our efforts will be of little avail unless the news media of Texas provide all the support and leadership in traffic safety that is possible."

With effort, the Governor said, "the needless loss of life of Texas citizens can be reduced to a minimum at this time of the year when the well-being of family and loved ones is so meaningful."

City Makes Counter-Offer To Gas Co. In Request For Increase In Rates

Winters' City Council Monday evening handed to Lone Star Gas Company a counter-proposal in answer to a request from the company for permission to increase gas rates within the City of Winters.

The gas company had requested what amounted to an 8 cent per thousand cubic feet increase in rates; the City Council countered with a proposal to allow an increase of 5 cents per MCF.

Marshall Wharton, Winters manager for Lone Star Gas Company, received the counter-proposal to forward to the company headquarters for consideration.

Under the proposal, the monthly minimum rate would be increased from $1.50 to $1.55.

The gas company recently had submitted a request for a rate increase to offset, they said, increasing prices of gas and increased cost of maintaining lines and equipment in Winters. The Council has been studying the proposal for some weeks.

Council and gas company representatives will meet again within a few days for further negotiations.

Senator David Ratliff Warns That Next Session May Be Repeat of 1969

"You can expect, probably, the same things to happen during the 1971 session of the Texas Legislature as happened during the 1969 session," State Senator David Ratliff of Stamford told members of the Winters Lions Club at the noon meeting Tuesday of this week. "Except," the Senator continued, "there's going to be, probably, a little more of it."

The Senator was talking about the extra sessions of the State Legislature in 1969, and the increases in taxes made necessary by the ever-increasing costs of everything.

This country, the Senator said, is "tracked by a strange situation—inflation and some recession. This inflation drives the cost of government up." Department heads within the State government are forced to go before the Legislature very often to seek more funds to run their departments, Senator Ratliff said, because inflation has forced their expenses up. They have to compete with private industry for qualified personnel with which to run their departments, he pointed out.

The problems in Washington, D. C., sometimes overshadow the problems in Austin, the Senator told the Lions Club, "but the problems at Austin are closer to home, and because of that closeness we (the State Legislators) feel that we represent your viewpoint a little better than the men in Washington."

Although, he added, our local representatives in Washington "are wonderful people."

The 24th District Senator told the Lions Club that there probably will be many changes in the geographical make-up of the senatorial and representative districts in Texas after the 1970 Census. He said that because of the U. S. Supreme ruling several years ago, urban representation will be heavier, and that the only chance rural area representatives will have to get favorable action of rural-oriented legislation will be for the urban-elected representatives to "fall out among themselves."

He pointed out that it is possible for some of the larger cities in the State of Texas to have as many as five Senators each, leaving the rural Senators to cover "large hunks of real estate."

Mayor's, Council's Salaries Set At Monday Meeting

To meet requirements of State law, the Winters City Council set salaries for the next year for the mayor and members of the council. Statute specifies that such salaries must be set prior to January 1 for the following year; no changes are permitted during the effective year.

Council set the salaries for the mayor and members of the council at $10 per regular meeting, and $5 for each additional called or special meeting. In addition, the mayor will receive $20 per month.

In other business, the council authorized the Street Department to provide drainage pipe and repair work in the 900-1000 block of West Parsonage Street. The street has been damaged by water from a running spring being fed from the cultivated farm lands north of the street.

The Senator was introduced by Runnels County Judge W. H. Rampy, who at one time was a member of the Texas House of Representatives and worked with Senator Ratliff, then in the House. Mayor Wade White introduced Judge Rampy. Wesley M. Hays was in charge of the program.

Jogging is just catching on in America. But it is kid stuff for the Tarahumara Indians in Mexico.

From childhood, the Tarahumaras, both male and female, are conditioned to run continuously for 100 miles. At a speed of 6 or 7 miles an hour. At an altitude of 8,000.

"These marathon demonstrations of really phenomenal endurance," says Dale Groom, M. D., "are convincing evidence that most of us, brought up in our comfortable and sedentary civilizations, actually develop and use only a fraction of our potential cardiac reserve." Dr. Groom teaches at the University of Oklahoma Medical Center.

There is another extraordinary fact about the Tarahumaras. Not one of the Indians could remember an instance when a runner ever dropped out of the race because of chest pains or shortness of breath.

Most sedentary Americans cannot run around the block without gasping for breath. Many people, in fact, feel shortness of breath with no exertion at all. For them, labored breathing—even if it lasts only a few minutes at a time—may mean trouble.

"The Vengeance of SHE"
The screen version of Rider Haggard's classic story of adventure and mystery, "SHE," rocketed lovely Ursula Andress to world stardom.

When the producing company, Seven Arts-Hammer Films, recently decided to make a further version of Rider Haggard's classic story titled "The Vengeance of SHE," it also found an exciting, dazzling and completely new star to play the role of SHE in the film. Twenty-one-year-old Olinka Berova, from Prague, Czechoslovakia, is the first actress from Eastern Europe to star in a major English-language picture. "The Vengeance of SHE" shows Fri., Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre.

"The Lost Continent"
A motion picture with fantastic action and adventure, "The Lost Continent," filmed in wide-screen and DeLuxe Color, will show Fri., Sat. and Sun at the State Theatre. The 20th Century release is a Seven Arts-Hammer film produced and directed by Michael Carreras, who produced "She" with Ursula Andress and "One Million Years B. C." with Raquel Welch.

The Michael Nash screenplay of "The Lost Continent" is based on "Uncharted Seas," a best-selling book by Dennis Wheatley. It stars Dric Porter, Hildegarde Knef, Suzanna Leigh and Tony Beckley.

"The Lost Continent" follows the hazardous course of a broken-down old cargo vessel which, forced off-route by mutiny and a hurricane, becomes trapped in an uncharted realm inhabited by a strange, lost people and menaced by giant creatures of the deep.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In recent years some more complicated and intriguing practices have grown up around foreign secret bank accounts.

Swiss banks use only a number and the individual depositor is not identified. Testimony from Justice Department and Treasury officials indicates that techniques in many instances are used for avoiding taxes, and supporting illicit activities. Crime, like many other aspects of modern living, is international.

The United States belongs to an international police organization known as Interpol. Modern and developed nations of the world belong to the International Criminal Police Organization which, to a high degree, is effective in detecting and reporting world-wide law violations. Originally it was conceived to detect against smuggling, particularly narcotics, stolen contraband and other law violations which have been a problem for many years. The secret bank account is a comparatively new innovation.

Legislation has been introduced to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to clarify the obligations of banks and other financial institutions to maintain certain practices to enable the identification of those in unlawful activities from being able to conceal secret accounts in foreign banks.

There are problems involved in framing legislation so as not to place burdens on our own financial agencies to report the movement of currency in and out of the country and the problem of not restricting legitimate transactions.

Officials of the Justice Department, Treasuries and the Securities and Exchange Commission have testified to widespread avoidance of U. S. laws by the use of foreign bank accounts. It is known that secret accounts in foreign banks, particularly in Switzerland, are used by the organized underworld as a repository for the fruits of their criminal activities. Foreign institutions cloaked with their secrecy laws serve as a clearing house for "hot money." Through a variety of means funds which have been "cleansed" in foreign deposits are transferred back into this country, sometimes in the form of a loan from the foreign bank, sometimes through phony corporations and in most all cases, in a manner unlikely to raise questions as to the source of income or whether taxes have been paid.

Secret foreign bank accounts are not used exclusively by criminals but also by ordinary legitimate Americans who wish to conceal transactions where the public interest requires disclosure; to avoid the payment of income taxes or to buy stock on the American market without following the rules imposed on the American businessman not dealing in secret accounts abroad.

These practices undermine basic law enforcement in the United States; shake the confidence of the taxpayer in our system; disturb the stability of the American stock market and raise a serious question over foreign based influence over American industry.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

TRUCKING—NEAR-TERM TROUBLES

By Babson's Reports, Inc. Wellesley Hills, Mass.—Excellent long-term growth has been enjoyed by the motor carrier industry. Meeting the demand from shippers for speed, convenience, and flexibility, motor carriers have achieved one of the best earnings records in the entire transportation field. As high borrowing costs have made large inventories almost prohibitive, trucks have become "warehouses on wheels" to many companies providing fast, dependable, and frequent service.

PROFITABLE LTL
Small shipments known as LTL (less-than-truckload) provide between 65 percent and 75 percent of revenues for most truckers, and this type of service brings freight rates in the top category. We expect that LTL shipments will continue their long-term expansion, meaning extensive future benefits for the trucking industry.

The interstate highway system has also contributed to this growth. Overnight deliveries and frequency of service are trucking's prime advantages for its customers, and the burgeoning highway system has greatly extended the geographical boundaries. Greater uniformity and liberalization of size and weight laws in the individual states have been beneficial. These revisions have permitted the motor carriers to achieve earnings gains through the use of more efficient equipment and cheaper operating procedures.

ECONOMICAL MERGERS
In recent years there has been a sharpening trend toward mergers. Trucking is a highly fractionalized industry involving more than 15,000 carriers, with only 50 publicly held. As more truckers follow the merger or acquisition route, they will be in a better position to achieve important economies. For example, Consolidated Freightways during one six-year period made a total of 52 acquisitions to become a nationwide carrier from coast to coast and border to border.

NEAR TERM CLOUDY
While long-range prospects are bright, the near-term outlook is cloudy. In 1970 the trucking industry will be facing a trio of difficult problems involving the possibility of an economic slowdown, sharply higher wage levels, and repeal of the investment tax credit. These could restrict the industry's progress, but there are probable compensations. During any economic slowdown, freight that had been ordered by the truckload during more prosperous times would doubtless be reduced to LTL shipments carrying more profitable rates. Also, the labor force of the truckers could be reduced.

The ICC has allowed truckers in New England and the Middle Atlantic states to up rates an average of 10 percent on shipments under 500 pounds to most other parts of the country. This is the first time large increases have been permitted on this type of shipment and may lead to a restructuring of the nation's freight rates. More importantly, this new rate will more realistically reflect the truckers' high cost of handling these smaller shipments. There may be some companies under pressure during 1970, but well-managed

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

When a person is given a lot of favorable publicity by the press, he is said to be "in the limelight." But few people living today know what limelight is.

The theater has been a popular place of entertainment for centuries, and lighting the theater was one of the chief problems.

In 1816, a British engineer named Thomas Drummond found that a powerful light could be produced by the incandescence of lime in a flame of one part hydrogen and two parts oxygen, but it also was likely to explode.

The bright light was called "limelight," or Drummond's light after its inventor, and later it was known as calcium light. It had a powerful beam that could be cast upon one player to the exclusion of the others on stage.

Today, the safe spotlight is used in the same way. People quit saying "Drummond's light" and "calcium light," but when the news light is focused upon someone, he is said to be in the "limelight."

TALK ABOUT GOATEES, this one's sharp—literally. One of the livestock at Blanchardville, Wis., poked into some burdocks and came away with a spiky souvenir.

Home Town Talk--

used by the active criminal offender in the commission of a great variety of criminal activities, according to the Police Journal.

Although auto manufacturers are cooperating in the fight against auto theft by introducing anti-theft devices in the later models, the police need the help and cooperation of the general public. The police ask that we lock our cars even if we plan to be away for only a few minutes—to prevent pilfering and outright theft of the auto—and to report suspicious actions.

Although the honeyed phrase "Don't help a young boy go wrong, lock your car," has a meaningful sound in this socially-sift age, the best slogan would be "Lock your car to prevent a thief-of whatever age—from making off with contents and car."

87 May Die In Traffic During Winter Holidays

The director of the Texas Department of Public Safety has estimated that traffic crashes in Texas over the Christmas and New Year holiday periods may claim as many as 87 lives.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir said 84 deaths are expected in the "Christmas period" beginning at 11 p. m. Christmas Eve to midnight Sunday, December 28. It also is estimated 33 traffic deaths will occur during the New Year holidays from 6 p. m. New Year's Eve to midnight Sunday, January 4.

"We urge each individual driver to accept the challenge of proving our estimates are too high," Speir said. "Many holiday accidents can be prevented if Texans will drive safely and realize that no one is immune to a traffic crash."

Speir also announced that the Department of Public Safety will place all available patrolmen on the highways during the holidays to enforce the law and aid motorists. He said special "Operation Motorcade" would be in effect over both holiday periods, during which periodic "ablations" of traffic fatalities will be made and given the widest possible dissemination in order to focus public attention to the added dangers involved in holiday travel.

Runnels Farmers Favor Marketing Quota Program

Total number of votes cast in the county was 939. Of these, 891 voted in favor of the program, while only 48 voted "No." Final decision would rest on results of the national election, it was pointed out by Gray.
