Texas' Community Property Laws Affect Taxpayers

Helpful information for married taxpayers affected by Texas' community property laws can be obtained at local IRS offices, Ellis Campbell Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue, says.

Campbell pointed out that Publication 555, "Community

Property and the Federal Income Tax," explains the additional problems married taxpayers may encounter if they decide to file separate tax returns in a community property state such as Texas.

A special feature of the booklet is an illustrated worksheet which shows the different treatment of income and deductions for a husband and wife filing a joint return compared to separate returns.

HEALTH COLUMN

The coming of cold weather may pose a potential hazard for your child that you haven't even thought about.

As your toddler stays indoors during winter, he'll be exploring—tasting, chewing, nibbling—on most anything in sight, even the woodwork and window sills. It is this "curiosity appetite" that causes hundreds of children to be poisoned each month.

Perhaps the most insidious poison of all is lead poisoning. It results from toddlers eating small chips of old paint, chewing on windowsills or nibbling on crumbs of chipped plaster containing bits of lead paint.

Paint on older houses is more apt to be deadly. Much more lead was formerly put in interior paints than is used today. Often exterior paint—containing considerable lead—was also used indoors.

Toddlers eating flakes of this old paint or chewing it off painted woodwork or furniture are not made ill immediately. Lead poisoning is accumulative, that is, it builds to a toxic level over a period of time.

Since toddlers are usually confined indoors during the winter months, eating of lead usually takes place then. Later, during the hot summer months, acute symptoms may develop as the stored lead is mobilized and distributed to sensitive organs of the body. Nerve cells are particularly vulnerable so that brain damage results in about one-fourth of the cases.

Lead poisoning can be fatal or cause severe brain damage and mental retardation in children. It is an entirely "man-made disease" and should be completely preventable. Parents should make sure that all toys, cribs, etc., are painted with non-toxic paint containing less than one percent lead. All peeling or blistered paint should be removed from inside the house, and any falling plaster should be cleaned up immediately. Keep an eye out for munching children, especially if the kind of paint on the object is unknown. Also avoid letting small children breathe fumes of fresh paint in confined areas. You can't and don't want to stop your toddler from exploring, tasting and chewing, but you can eliminate as much opportunity for lead poisoning as possible.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

Washington, D. C.—Numerous letters and samples of smut thru the mails continue to be received. There is considerable encouragement that there will be less of this offensive, unsolicited type of stuff in the future.

From the Supreme Court to local police, peddlers of filth are beginning to have a tougher time.

The new chief inspector of the post office department, William J. Cotter, a former FBI agent, calls attention to these recent developments.

(1) Two Supreme Court decisions—one refusing to disturb the conviction of eight Boston sellers of pornography and the other voiding a Federal Court order which would have allowed the movie "I Am Curious (Yellow)" to be shown in Boston theatres despite a State Court ban.

(2) Two Federal convictions of mail order dealers in obscenity.

(3) Several recent indictments of other smut dealers, making a total of 17 defendants awaiting trial on charges of sending offensive materials through the mail.

(4) The cases of five more dealers pending before Federal Grand Juries.

In city after city, local police are reacting to court actions and changes in local laws to crack down on newsstands handling objectionable reading matter and pictures.

In one city, police found the city's "adult" bookstores got the word that the Supreme Court

THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE
Winters, Texas
Page 5
Friday, February 6, 1970

refused to overturn convictions of eight sellers of obscenity.

Immediately after the decision detectives were dispatched to 14 stores only to find them all closed. Those open cleared their shelves of books and material which might fall under the Court's ruling.

In Los Angeles, one of the main centers, trash producers were getting a double whammy. Both Federal prosecutors and Los Angeles police made numerous arrests and three convictions of fifteen months in prison have already been had.

Los Angeles police have launched a city-wide drive that is calculated to dry up a main source of objectionable mail coming into our State of Texas. More than 80 arrests have already been made.

In view of some tougher actions by the higher courts, most of those convicted in lower courts are not even appealing. Inspector Cotter said a few days ago "We feel that the Federal Government has now moved into the second phase in its fight against the intrusiveness that brings unwanted and unsolicited material into the mail box."

The fact remains that the authority of the Federal Government begins when the mails are used to transmit and advertise films, pictures and materials of pornography or when they are placed in shipment across State lines. The sellers of dirty material from local bookstores and newsstands must still be handled by local authorities but they are now encouraged to believe that the courts have gotten the word that the people of this country will no longer tolerate the invasion of decency.

Long Distance
Phone Rates Have Been Lowered

The latest of several reductions in long distance telephone calling costs — effective February 1—provides a real bargain for customers who dial their own out-of-state station-to-station calls, according to L. L. Porter, traffic director for General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

The primary overall effect of the recent changes is that customers who utilize self-dialed facilities are charged less than those customers who utilize the services of an operator in making out of state long distance calls.

"The new rates more accurately reflect the added and increasing costs incurred for operator service and the reduction in costs when customers dial their own long distance calls," Porter said. "Customers who do not yet have access to equipment which permits dialing their own long distance calls, still benefit from the new rates—provided the customer gives operators all of the calling information."

"The rate structure for long distance calls are very complex, involving times, days, holidays, distances, initial rate periods, overtime rates, and types of calls such as station-to-station, person-to-person, coin, collect, credit cards, etc.," Porter stated.

"But I feel certain key points about the new rates might be helpful to the calling public. These are outlined below:"

Weekend calling represents a major saving. Customer dialed station-to-station calls outside the state made between 8 a. m. and 11 p. m. on Saturday and between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. on Sunday have been reduced to 70c for a coast-to-coast call. Cost is even less for intervening distances.

The lowest rates for customer dialed station-to-station calls outside the state remain at 35c for a one minute coast-to-coast call, but the time period has been extended one hour, beginning now at 11 p. m. and extending to 8 a. m. seven nights per week.

To illustrate the savings involved in dialing your own out of state station-to-station calls on weekdays, Porter pointed out that a coast-to-coast self dialed call costs 70c for three minutes while an operator handled station-to-station call costs $1.10 during the weekend time period of 8 a. m. to 11 p. m. Saturday and 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Sunday. A person-to-person call during the same time would cost $3.30.

"While this example covers the lower weekend rates, similar savings apply on daytime and evening customer-dialed station-to-station calls. The easiest way to explain the rate structure effective February 1 is to say money can be saved on out-of-state long distance calls of more than 197 miles—regardless of the time of day the call is made—if you dial it yourself without the assistance of an operator," Porter said. "Person-to-person calls or any call requiring an operator just costs more to handle and therefore it costs the customer more."

Brother of Local Woman Died In Ballinger Tuesday

Andrew Jackson (Jack) Nixon of Ballinger, brother of Mrs. E. C. Collinsworth of Winters, died Tuesday in the Ballinger Memorial Hospital following a five-day illness.

Native of Alabama, Mr. Nixon was born at Anniston, April 6, 1885, and moved to Ballinger in 1932 from Brownwood where he had lived since 1919. He married Miss Ethel Baker, Dec. 2, 1966, at Waggoner.

He had been a representative of Southwestern Life Insurance Company for 40 years. He was a member of the National Association of Life Underwriters for many years, and a member of the Texas Roundtable, a 30-year member of the Lions Club, a trustee of the Methodist Church and active member of the Doss Bible Class in Ballinger.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in the First United Methodist Church at Ballinger with the Rev. Plez Todd, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in the Evergreen Cemetery under the direction of Allen Davis Funeral Home. Survivors are his wife; five sons, the Rev. Lloyd W. Nixon of El Campo, Jack Jr. of Abilene, Miles of Denton, Rex of Bedford and Maurice of Mineral Wells; one brother and two sisters; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The best rose bush, after all, is not that which has the fewest thorns, but that which bears the finest roses.

★ MOVIES ★

"Darby O'Gill and the Little People"

Sean Connery, who in recent years has achieved immense popularity for his James Bond motion pictures and other films, is the star of and male romantic lead in Walt Disney Productions' live action feature, "Darby O'Gill and the Little People," a story of love, laughter and the equally famous Le-prechauns.

In the Disney picture Connery plays opposite the British actress, Janet Munro, a Disney discovery at the time "Darby O'Gill" was made. Connery aspires to the girl's hand but his suit is somewhat hampered by the fact that he is the candidate for the caretaker job her father holds.

The role is action-packed and at times quite merry, with Connery doing a bit of singing, a bit of love-making and some fighting toward the end of the story. At the time he was on loan-out from 20th Century-Fox and virtually an unknown in this country.

"The Good Guys and the Bad Guys,"

"The Good Guys and the Bad Guys," a western from Warner Bros.-Seven Arts shows in Technicolor and Panavision Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre, takes place at the turn of the century when horseless carriages were beginning to replace the horses, but both the authentic western hero and bad guy were as plentiful as ever.

Popular Robert Mitchum and Oscar winners George Kennedy and Martin Balsam star in the action drama directed by Burt Kennedy and produced by the film's scriptwriters, Ronald M. Cohen and Dennis Shryack. Robert Goldstein was the executive producer and Harry Stradling, Jr. was the cinematographer. Stan Jolley doubled as art director and associate producer. Sonny Burke was the music supervisor of William Lava's musical score.

Robert Mitchum plays Marshal Flag, who, in times past, was a heroic figure, but now is retired against his will by Mayor Wilker (Martin Balsam). He is joined by useless and forgotten outlaw (George Kennedy) to bring down a group of young outlaws bent on robbing a train.

Interns Help P&W
During Summer

An intern program in Texas to help college students get practical experience while being paid is being sponsored by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The Department benefits by having more personnel on hand in the summer when much of the biological sampling and field work is done and when there is the most park activity. Students gain doubly by getting some practical experience which will serve them in their biological and park careers while getting paid for it.

The summer employment program is essentially an internship program for college students who are majoring in wildlife or fisheries science, landscape architecture, park administration or other resource-directed degree programs.

Most of the students have completed at least two years of college, and are chosen from colleges and universities from throughout the nation.

The students work in the wildlife restoration, inland fisheries, coastal fisheries, park operations or administrative divisions.

A typical program employs students in the Coastal Fisheries Division where they work directly with marine biologists in research laboratories and field stations along the coast.

Coeds get their chance at intern work in the laboratories. In Rockport for example, two young ladies spent the last two summers identifying and counting larval shrimp, fish and crabs collected during the study of Cedar Bayou, a natural fish pass maintained by the Department.

Interns working with the wildlife function of the Department are usually involved with regulatory projects, and this involves running summer census lines for various game species such as deer and squirrels. On the Department's management areas, students help biologists with research projects and learn the practical side of biological research and game management.

Summer employes in the parks are exposed to all aspects of park management and duties. One day they may be on the garbage run, and the next they may be doing paperwork at park headquarters. In some parks, a student's special talents may be put to use in such areas as horticulture and landscape architecture.

WTU Employees Set All-Time Safety Record

A new all-time safety record was set on December 31 when the employees of West Texas Utilities Company completed the year without a lost-time accident.

During the twelve-month period WTU's 1040 employees worked a total of 2,221,674 man hours.

During its long history of providing electric service to customers in West Texas, never before has such a record been achieved. Several times during the past 10 years the perfect record was almost reached. In 1960 only two lost-time accidents were recorded. Three were charged to the Company's record in 1963; four in 1964; and only two in 1967. Since 1957 only 57 lost-time accidents have been recorded in the 10-year period.

Last September the WTU employees received special recognition when they were presented the Safety Achievement Award by the Bureau of Safety. This came after they had worked more than 2,000,000 man-hours without a lost-time accident. The last recorded was in October, 1968. The record now reads: fourteen months without a lost-time accident.
