HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

When we first saw the headline in the morning paper last week, "Dickens County To Have Rock Festival," the first emotion we experienced was a desire to be back in the old home county and participate in that event!

We figured that should be quite a celebration, because as boy and man, we roamed over a good deal of that country—and if Dickens County had nothing else (which it does, aplenty, of course) to entitle it to a "claim of fame," it would be rocks! Conglomerate, sandstone, red, gyp—you name it, and Dickens County had it! Big, little and in between... to scotch a wagon wheel or hold a Model T being cranked... to slip into a cotton sack before weighing at the wagon tongue. We could even show them a particular canyon where there exists a miniature "Petrified Forest"—if nature, man and mammal has not made it all disappear. Rock-strewn canyons, with red clay walls generously sprinkled with gyp and sandstone—natural habitat of coyotes, rattlesnakes, skunks, ground squirrels, and yes, even panthers.

So you can imagine the severe comedown we experienced when we read through the daydreams that the kind of "Rock Festival" being planned for Dickens County would not feature our kind of "rocks" but would center around a lot of noise which is passed off as music these days among the dope-filled hippies and neer-dowells who frequent such outlandish and disgusting celebrations. Then we felt right sorry for the good folk of Dickens County—if the "Festival" was allowed to proceed. But later news indicates that those Dickens County people had been underestimated! We certainly wouldn't want to be in the vicinity!

Was just discussing the situation with a man who has some property in that vicinity, and as a rancher he could figure out how many head of Hereford on an acre of Dickens County pasture will support, but he couldn't figure out how many head of hippies you could run to the acre.

The 1970 Census will be taken all over the U. S. starting next Wednesday, April 1. Everybody's going to be counted, and most sources say that we're going to find out we're much bigger than we thought. It will be several months before the computers get through digesting all the information gathered in the short Census time.

Everybody realizes, of course, that the rural population has been dwindling, and is expected to continue in that direction for some time to come. It is the towns and cities which have their eyes on this 1970 Census, though. Every place, from the smallest creek crossing to the largest city, is hoping for a marked increase in population—officially. All of the smaller cities, especially, put a great deal of emphasis on their size and use those official figures—plus the natural padding of immediately-connected areas in their promotions. An indicated growth, especially if there is substantial reason for it, is important to the economy and the future existence of all non-metropolitan cities and towns.

All indications are that Winters has grown—a sound growth—since the 1960 Census. The official count that year was 3266, not counting the adjoining additions, which were counted in the county population. With all the additional home building which has taken place during that 10-year period, it is reasonable to forecast that that 3266 figure is considerably under the actual county—for the City Limits area. This belief is pre-

Little League Assn. Plans Light Bulb Sale April 6

The Winters Little League Association will hold a light bulb sale during the week of April 6, James West, president of the association, announced this week.

Persons making donations to the Rehab Center during the current Easter Seal sales campaign, are asked to autograph the rabbit, which will be returned to the Center when it is covered with signatures.

Red Cross Fund Drive Monday

The annual drive to raise funds for the Red Cross will begin officially next Monday, March 30, according to Gayland Robinson, chairman of the drive.

Robinson will be assisted by J. W. Bahlman, H. M. Nichols, Woodrow Watts, Mrs. George R. Hill, Mrs. J. P. Dry and others. It was hoped that the drive could be completed within three days.

This is the first regular drive for the Red Cross in Winters in some time, it has been noted. A special drive was held last summer following the devastating hailstorm of June 12, which left many Winters residents in dire circumstances. About $800 was collected in that special drive.

Red Cross supporters have pointed out that the Red Cross has contributed much to the welfare of Winters in past years, mainly following disasters such as the hailstorm. Immediately after the storm last year, it was pointed out, the district director and a field worker for the Red Cross moved into Winters and began work in helping people whose homes were damaged by the hail. The field worker remained in Winters several days, and paid out more than $3,000 in Red Cross funds in helping those who could not help themselves. This immediate action on the part of the Red Cross, according to campaign personnel, "relieved Winters residents of a big responsibility."

Following the hailstorm of June 16, 1965, the Red Cross spent more than $2000 in helping local residents repair and repaint. It was pointed out. In the interim, the Red Cross has contributed much help in this area, it was stated.

Viewing past action on the part of the Red Cross in helping solve financial problems in this immediate area," campaign workers said, "leads us to believe that Winters residents will want to help in this worthy cause."

The pageant will be followed by a ball in the A & M Memorial Student Center.

The events, social highlights of the school year, are sponsored by the A & M Student Agronomy Society in honor of the State's main cash crop, cotton.

King Cotton Minzenmayer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrich O. Minzenmayer of Winters.

He graduated from Winters High School in 19. He has played an active role in all projects and activities of the Agronomy Society while he has been at A & M, and was chosen as King Cotton in recognition of his record of service to the society.

Absentee Voting On School Board Closes Tuesday

Absentee voting in the Winters Independent School District trustee election will close Tuesday, March 31, according to Johnny B. Smith, school business manager.

Voters desiring to cast absentee ballots before the deadline may do so by contacting the school business office, Smith said.

Two vacancies will be filled on the school board at the April 4 election. Willis Davis, incumbent, is a candidate for re-election, and J. P. Dry is a candidate for the other vacancy.

Last Series Polio Vaccine Will Be Given April 3rd

School children and pre-schoolers who received two doses of polio vaccine in the spring of 1969 will be given the third and final dose of the series at the Winters Primary School Friday, April 3, George Beard, principal, announced this week.

Beard, who is coordinating the project for the sponsoring Lions Club, said records and parental consent certificates are on file for those school children who received the first two doses last year. He emphasized, however, that parents of pre-schoolers and others who took the first doses last spring should bring their records when they come for the final dose.

The vaccine will be given in the School Nurse's office in the Primary School Friday afternoon. It was stressed that vaccine to be given Friday would be the final dosage, and no new series would be started.

This polio vaccine project, the second in about nine years sponsored by the Winters Lions Club, "fairly well immunizes this community," sponsors pointed out. There are probably a few children who need to receive the complete series, but the number would be so small that another immunization project would not be warranted at this time, it was stated. Parents of these children should contact their physicians.

1970 Census To Begin April 1st

Questionnaires for the 1970 Census of Population and Housing will be distributed by the Post Office beginning March 28 to all households in this area, District Manager Robert C. Ford has announced.

The house-to-house canvass will begin April 1.

Distribution of the questionnaires before the start of the house-to-house canvass will give each family a chance to assemble information about each member and about the house in advance of the census taker's visit. The district manager has urged all resident to fill out the forms and have them ready for the census takers when they start their rounds April 1.

The form contains seven questions about every person in the household and 13 questions about the dwelling. The personal information asked for is: name, address, sex, color or race, month and year of birth, whether married or single, and relationship to head of the household. The information required about the dwelling is: number of rooms, cooking facilities, plumbing, if rented or owned.

Most of the questions are answered by filling in the proper tiny circle with a common lead pencil, making a tiny black dot which can be "read" by Census Bureau machines. Residents should read the instruction sheet which will come with the questionnaire before filling it out.

Researchers To Study Nitrate Problem In County

The research department of Radian Corporation of Austin will begin within the next few days checking the nitrate problem in well water in this county, Rannels County Judge W. H. Rumpy said this week.

The study will be under the direction of the Texas Water Development Board, and will be financed by an appropriation of $25,000 granted by the last session of the State Legislature for this purpose.

The nitrate problem in well water within the county was brought to the surface several months ago following reports of livestock receiving lethal quantities of nitrates. Much livestock was lost before the cause of death had been determined—or suspected—according to county authorities.

The study to be made by the private corporation will attempt to pinpoint the source of the nitrates and possibly to suggest remedies, Judge Rumpy said.

Cong. Burlleson Announces For Re-Election

Congressman Omar Burlleson has formally announced his candidacy for re-election to Congress, subject to the Democratic Primary on May 2 and the General Election in November. The 17th Congressional District, which he represents, is composed of 31 Counties, covering approximately 30,000 square miles. Within this area live about 440,000 people.

Burlleson says, "During my tenure of office I have followed two guiding principles: First, to know the views of my constituents and reflect their sentiments to the greatest degree possible in my actions in the Halls of Congress. Second, to inform and advise as closely as I can on those issues which affect our District, our State and our Nation.

Burlleson termed his approach to Government as one of "common sense."

U. S. Center of Population Moves Toward West

Late in October 1970, when population totals from the 19th decennial census are firm, the Bureau of the Census and the Coast and Geodetic Survey—sister agencies of the U. S. Department of Commerce—will get together over complicated mathematics with terms like "ground triangulations" and "map coordinates" and come up with a new U. S. center of population.

The 1970 center of population will continue its westward march, but its pace is uncertain because migration rates won't be known until the census is complete.

In the previous 18 decades the center moved 701 miles west and 47 miles south of the first center established after the 1790 Census near Chestertown, Md., 23 miles east of Baltimore. The average move west each decade thereafter was about 39 miles.

The center of population as defined by the Census Bureau is that point upon which the United States would balance, if it were a rigid plane and its inhabitants were distributed where they live with each individual assumed to have equal weight. This should not be confused with the geographical center, the point on which the surface of the United States would balance if it were a plane of uniform weight per unit of area, is located in Butte County, S. D. (latitude 44 degrees 58 minutes North, longitude 103 degrees 46 minutes West).

In July 1, 1969, Bureau demographers issued estimates of the current population for each State. Based on these estimates, the center of population as of July 1, 1969, would be located in Looking Glass Township, Clinton County, Illinois, about 2½ miles southeast of the community of New Memphis and approximately 30 miles east-south-east of St. Louis, Mo. This point is about 35 miles east and 10 miles south of Centralia, Ill., 1960 center of population.

If the current estimates hold true, it would mean the 1970 Census center of population would be somewhere near the July 1 computed center in Looking Glass Township.

Estimates of the population however, are subject to error, so firm results from the 1970 count must be in before the exact location is announced. There have been wide deviations from the average westward movement of the center during the 18 decades. Between 1950 and 1960, for example, the center took a 57-mile leap. In 1910-1920, it moved west only 10 miles—its shortest move in census history. Earlier, in 1850-1860 it took an 80.6 mile giant step, the longest movement westward yet registered.

The next meeting will be March 31 in the Baptist Fellowship Hall with Mrs. Ed Kinard as hostess.

The 1890 census found the center of population in Indiana where it was to remain for six decennial censuses. The 1890 location was near Westport, 20 miles east of Columbus. A granite boulder on the Columbus-Ver-sailles highway marks the location. In 1910 the center reached Bloomington, Ind., and by 1920, it had shifted the 10 miles noted above, to a point on a beech-covered hillside near Whitehall in the western suburbs of Bloomington.

The year 1930 found the center located three miles northeast of Linton, Ind., and in 1940, for the last stop in Indiana, the center was 2 miles southeast of Carlisle, in Sullivan County. During World War II, the center crossed the Wabash River, marking the Indiana-Illinois boundary.

The north-south movement has been slight. During the 18 decades, the point farthest north was the 1790 location, and the point farthest south, the 1960 location, a difference of about 47 miles or 2.6 miles per decade.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Nothing in this world sounds better to the eager ears of an outdoorsman than the instant purr of an outboard motor. . . when it starts from the first push of the starter button, the first turn of the starter key, or the first pull of the starter cord.

Man, it's a great feeling, especially if you have company along. They think you're the greatest host, just to step in the boat, turn on the ignition, and "away we go."

Many a motorist has talked to his motor in rather unclear language, simply because the outfit didn't fire when he said "go."

But he should have talked to himself—not to the motor. More than likely the trouble dated back to when he last had the rig out.

No experienced boatman will merely drive in from an outing, tie down, and go home. If he does, he's asking for trouble. First thing the seasoned boatsman does when he comes to shore at the day's end is to drain the gas from the carburetor. This is done simply and easily. Merely disconnect the gas tank from the motor, then start up the motor again and keep it running until all the gas in the carburetor is used.

Experts in this field just disconnect the gas tank hose as they approach the dock and come on in under the power that is left in the carburetor and fuel lines is treated.

Unfortunately, many of us do not "get out to sea" every day or even every week. Some of us are lucky if we get away once a month. This means that the motor sits idly in the boat stall or on the trailer until you are able to "put in" again.

motor, the longer your gas supply lasts.

Thanks to inventive genius, there is another and simpler way to solve this "get-moving-quick" problem. On the market now is a liquid product called STA-BIL—short for "stabilizer."

This is a liquid additive for your gasoline volatile simply by preventing the "conglomeration" that takes place in the gas tank when the fluid (and worse yet, a gas and oil mix) sits for long periods of time.

For example, one ounce of STA-BIL (three squeezes from the little 8 oz. can) will stabilize one gallon of gas for 12 months, two gallons for five months, four gallons for two months.

It is suggested that, before storing, you run the motor for ten minutes to be sure that all gas in the carburetor and fuel lines is treated.

Experience will show you how far you can go with various size motors and avirous size boats before the carburetor runs dry. Naturally, the smaller the

Meanwhile, the gasoline does what comes naturally. . . particularly that to which oil has been added. . . conglomerates. This means that the tank as well as the carburetor becomes gummed up if the fluid is not used often. That's why most outboardmen, before they start up their outboard motor, will shake the little gas tank vigorously to distribute the oil evenly throughout the solution or at least get it off the bottom. Not to do so means that the gas being used will be lightly mixed with oil and, as the supply diminishes, the remaining fluid in the tank will be largely oil and, therefore, tend to gum up the motor rapidly.

STA-BIL prevents congealing. It keeps the fluid clean by preventing gum and resin forming in the fuel system. In other words, it prevents formation of the sticky, troublemaking mess.

Needless to say, a faulty, sputtering motor is going to suffer from wear more than a smoothly operating, easily starting, sweet running outfit. So if you are going to leave your outboard motor sitting idle for a while—add some STA-BIL. Same goes for your inboard. In fact, it is equally applicable for the lawnmower, tractor, etc.—especially where oil is mixed with gas.

It has been said that a tank with STA-BIL will fire faster than even brand new gasoline. Sounds great! And it is! More power to you.

April 13, with Mrs. Bill Millhorn.

HEALTH LETTER

Man is polluting his world with all kinds of contaminants, including noise.

Shrill sounds bombard us from all directions. From television and radio. From jet engines. From sidewalk drills.

And from rock music.

Recent research—into the effects of rock music on the ears is revealing. At the University of Tennessee, Professor David M. Lipscomb played rock music to guinea pigs. He turned up the volume to the same intensity as that measured in a nearby discotheque.

At the end of three months, the results were disconcerting. Twenty-five percent of the cells of the inner ear were completely destroyed.

Noise pollution is only the latest concern in a long list. Our lungs are damaged and our hearts are overtaxed, for example, by breathing man-made impurities in the air. Our waters are filled with waste. Our fish and birds are dying from DDT. Pollution is everywhere.

Keeping down the levels of all kinds of pollution is essential. Clean air, especially, is critical to our well-being. It's a matter of life and death.

Individual Facts Gathered During '70 Census Cannot Be Disclosed

When Uncle Sam takes his decennial census photograph of the Nation on April 1, every American household will contribute its own uniquely important details.

However, no individual household or any of its members can be singled out for viewing. That's because the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce, which clicks the camera shutter, also takes complete charge of the resulting snapshots. And these snapshots, used only for statistical purposes, cannot by law be disclosed to any person outside the Bureau for any reason whatsoever.

When you receive your official census form through the mail, shortly before April 1, you can rest assured that no single fact about you can ever be identified in any published or unpublished data compiled by the Bureau of the Census, says the department.

True, you will be counted as one of so many million males or as one of so many million females in Uncle Sam's counting project. You will be numbered among the so many college graduates or high-school dropouts, as the case may be. But no one can learn that you are 27 or 53, for example, or that you live in a house or apartment or at a particular address.

Robert Moore On Dean's List At Texas Tech

Robert Moore, a freshman student at Texas Tech University, Lubbock, was among other students who were honored during a Recognition Service in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium Sunday.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Z. Moore of Winters, and is a 1969 graduate of Winters High School.

The Recognition Service was the occasion on which the University paid tribute to those of its students who during the preceding two regular semesters had contributed with distinction to the University in the fields of scholarship and leadership. Moore had a 4.0 grade average for the period.

Moore also was initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, the scholastic honor society for men at Texas Tech who during their freshman year have distinguished themselves scholastically. A banquet was held Saturday evening in the Coronado Room of Tech Union, at which Dr. David W. Mullins, president of the University of Arkansas, was the speaker.

Requirements for membership in Phi Eta Sigma are high, an average of 3.50 or better. It is the highest scholastic distinction a freshman can attain at Texas Tech. Only about two and one-fourth percent of the men of the freshman class attain this honor each year.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Z. Moore, Mike and Marvin visited Robert in Lubbock during the past week end, and attended the banquet.

This complete anonymity is made possible because when your official census form is filled in and returned for processing, your name and address are withheld when the other items are fed into the computer. No person, no family, no household unit is identifiable in the resulting statistical output. Furthermore, no other Government agency may examine individual census records for any purpose whatsoever.

There is more to protect your privacy than the legal guarantee of anonymity. Each census employee, whether he is a permanent or temporary jobholder, takes a special oath as follows: "I will not disclose any information contained in the schedules, lists, or statements obtained or prepared by the Bureau of the Census." Violation of the oath carries a stiff penalty.

As a matter of fact, in 1970 chances are that some 60 percent of all American households will never see a census enumerator unless they need help in filling out their forms and request assistance or they are tardy in returning their forms. This is because for the first time persons living in most metropolitan areas will mail back their completed census forms in specially furnished envelopes.

As for Bureau statisticians, they are concerned only in the total of each category and its geographical location.

In short, although each member of your household, including the brand new baby, will be recorded as an important individual on your census form, each of you becomes, for census record purposes, an utterly anonymous segment of the statistical story of your city, your county, your State, and your Nation.

Triple Four Club In Billups Home

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Billups hosted the Triple Four Club Thursday night in their home. Easter rabbits and eggs on greenery decorated the party tables, and games of 84 were played.

A dessert plate was served to members, Messrs. and Mesdames Wilma Davis, Elmo Mayhew, J. E. Smith, Earl Dorsett, M. D. Johnson, J. D. Vinson, and W. T. Billups, and guests, the Rev. and Mrs. James Tierce.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank each one who sent cards, letters and flowers, and for their prayers while I was in the hospital and since I have returned home. Thanks also to those who donated blood. My family joins me in saying thank you. —Mrs. Nolan Cave. Itc

IN RIVES HOME

Kay Lynn Rives and Dianne Broadaway of Panhandle, both students at West Texas State University at Canyon, left Wednesday after spending a few days in the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Rives. They will spend the remaining days of the Easter holiday in the Broadway home in Panhandle before returning to school.

BILLOWING SMOKE from stacks on the east side of midtown Manhattan partially obscures the giant Empire State Building in background. A major health problem in the U.S. is pollution—air and water—from an ever-growing industrial complex.

WASHINGTON
"As it looks from here"
OMAR BURLESON
Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The first day of spring occurring last week supposedly heralds a more stormy season.

Texas has a sort of bad reputation with those who have not looked at statistics. Statistics dealing with tornados show our neighboring States, and some far to the north of those, are in what weather people call the "tornado corridor" and have more than Texas.

More destructive and often mystifying is lightning.

Old Ben Franklin, among his many contributions to our Nation, had a great invention in the lightning rod. Actually there has been little, if any, improvement since his day. A business house selling only lightning rods would probably not be very thriving. Many people would look on it something like chain harness. As a youngster, many of us looked at lightning rods, with the glass bulbs sometimes in color, as one of the most beautiful parts of any dwelling regardless of what the house looked like. Lightning is one of nature's most powerful phenomena and common sense is about the only way to deal with it. It has been known to do some strange things. It has taken many lives and destroyed untold amounts of property.

On the other hand, it is vital to the life of our Globe. The earth is like a battery which must be regenerated to keep going. The scientists say that lightning enriches the earth with 100 million tons of nitrogen every year, more than all the world's fertilizer plants could produce. Nitrogen is released through the action of thunderbolts as they streak through the atmosphere.

Knowledge of lightning is helpful to be more safe during a storm. When 1 million volts can accumulate in a cloud capable of producing 300 thousand amperes, it deserves the human being's greatest respect. A lack of a good healthy fear of this force has been the main reason for casualties. As far as a person is concerned the best thing is to know where to hide and where not to hide.

Study shows that while traveling, the safest place is in your car. A metal top is better since it seems for some reason lightning cannot enter a metal box but will dance around the outside. If you park a car in a storm, do not pull off near a tree. If on foot, just lie down, preferably in a ravine or in a ground depression. We are advised to stay out of small shacks and barns and avoid open fields, trees and the beaches. Stay off the highest point of anything.

It is not safe to swim although it has been thought that open water was not a conductor of lightning's static. Fishermen and golfers have probably been the greatest victims. Metallic clubs or rods of any kind and particularly shoes with metal plates or spikes, are an invitation to being struck by lightning.

A few other tips for indoors: Do not use the telephone, wash the dishes or take a bath. Avoid standing near stoves, water taps, refrigerators, open windows, radiators or other metal objects. The center of the room seems to be the best place.

If one wanted to get technical enough, he might learn to recognize the various forms of lightning. There is the streak, the bead, ribbon, fork, sheet and ball. A sort of funny one is called St. Elmo's Fire, which causes a halo around one's head, may encase a cow's horns in flame, dance around on tree tops or form streamers of light on an airplane from nose to tail. In olden days it made ships glow as it lit up mastsheads and yardarms.

It is not safe to assume that lightning strikes only once in the same place. The story goes of an Illinois farmer whose barn was struck and set afire. A week later it struck his haystack and a week after that it flicked along a metal fence and knocked the farmer unconscious. Just a little bit more than a month later, a lightning bolt followed him into the barn and killed him.

It is decided that Martin

Luther made his decision to become a monk as a result of being struck by lightning, which he regarded as a sign from Heaven. On and on go many stories of lightning's powerful destructiveness. Then to take the word of our scientists that it is essential to our planet to sustain us, should cause us to appreciate and fear this mighty force.

Mrs. Grover Davis Hosted Meeting Of Dorcas Class Tues.

Members of the Dorcas Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Davis for their regular monthly business and social on Tuesday of last week. Mrs. W. W. King was co-hostess.

The president, Mrs. Artie Smith, presided and Mrs. Velma Hart, teacher of the class, led the opening prayer. Roll was called and members responded with a Bible verse.

Mrs. Ella Phipps gave an interesting devotional taken from the 14th chapter of John.

The meeting closed with a prayer led by Mrs. W. W. King. During the social hour Mrs. Collins conducted a Bible quiz.

The hostesses served refreshments to Mesdames R. D. Collins, Lettie Davis, Oleta Elder, Dell Gardner, Velma Hart, Artie Smith, Betty Baldwin, Ella Phipps, Grace Waggoner, Myrtle Wilbanks, Victor White, Lora Coupland, and the hostesses, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. King.

Easter Theme Is Featured In Party At Davis Home

Mr. and Mrs. La Dell Davis hosted the regular meeting of the Sans Souci Dinner club in their home with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Herman as co-hosts.

Spring flowers decorated the party rooms and the Easter theme was used in table decorations. The buffet table, laid with cutwork cloth over pink, was centered with an Easter egg tree. Foursome tables were laid with pink linen and centered with Easter egg candles.

Following the dinner hours games of "42" were played by the guests, including Mr. and Mrs. Gattis Neely, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Minzenmayer, Mr. and Mrs. George Poe, Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Young, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lloyd and the co-hosts.

Brush Control Effects Wildlife

When we think of wildlife, we think of the animal that we are most concerned with at the time. A hunter thinks of deer, turkey, quail, dove, and etc.; while a rancher may think of predatory animals.

Harvey Kahlden, Soil Conservationist, with the local Soil Conservation Service, assisting the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District, said the kind and amount of brush on the ranch usually effects the kind and amount of wildlife on that ranch. Some of the predatory animals like dense brush. In this way they can get close to their prey before being exposed. Most of the game animals shun this type range and look for fairly open country.

Quail, for instance, like low growing native shrubs located near their food supply. Deer don't mind fairly open country with motts or strips of brush interspaced throughout the area. Kahlden said more and more concerned farmers and ranchers are considering their wildlife potential when they plan brush control. A pattern of strips and or motts of brush can be planned before the brush control is started. This type of planning will not only benefit the wildlife, but by replacing the dense brush with grass, will produce more beef, mohair or lamb. The strips of brush, when used in a planned pattern will provide cover for wildlife such as deer, as well as provide additional hunting stands. As a result more hunters can hunt on smaller acreage.

"One Hundred and One Dalmatians,"

"One Hundred and One Dalmatians," Walt Disney's feature-length cartoon comedy, is a refreshing, charming family affair starring two humans, two dogs and fifteen puppies.

The family is an old-fashioned one, actually, large and full of fun.

Mother is pretty Perdita. Father is Pongo. They are a loving pair of Dalmatians, who live in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Radcliff, a loving pair of humans.

The whole idea, though, is that Pongo is a four-footed, sure-footed lad living in London who grows tired of the bachelor life he and Roger are living at the outset of the story and goes about organizing a pair of marriages, one for himself and one for Roger—his human pet. A little-dog family soon arrives: Fifteen pups, all of whom are kidnapped in an excitingly wonderful story of love, laughter and canine courage such as is seldom seen on the screen.

"Topaz"

Alfred Hitchcock's production for Universal of "Topaz" based on the Leon Uris best-selling novel, is his 51st motion picture and perhaps the most eagerly awaited of all the films that have carried the Hitchcock imprimatur. A story of espionage in high European places, "Topaz" shows Sunday and Monday at the State theatre. The property was almost 2 years in preparation. The book itself was a national best-seller for 50 straight weeks.

To achieve authenticity Hitchcock took camera crews and players to distant locations. These ranged from Hollywood to Copenhagen, Wiesbaden Germany, Paris, New York and Washington. As a change in pace—again for the sake of authenticity—Hitchcock passed up familiar faces and familiar star names to cast virtual-unknowns in leading roles. The only exception is John Forsythe of "Bachelor Father" and "To Rome With Love" TV fame, who plays an American secret agent.

Filed in Technicolor, "Topaz" is a faintly fictionalized version of real-life espionage that rocked the Western governments. Its veiled truths particularly shocked French officialdom. It is the kind of cloak-and-dagger stuff that Hitchcock relishes. Says the master of suspense, "It lies between 'Suspicion' and 'North by Northwest.' It has the same elements, the same wide-spread action. What makes it all the more delicious is that it actually happened and despite French disapproval, the only thing we had to change was a reference to De Gualle. We took it out and that made every thing okay."

mon sense," gained through the years of public service. "I have tried to see that the people's tax money is spent as wisely and as judiciously as you would have it had you been in my place," he said.

"The record will show that a greater part of the time I have found myself in the minority in opposing the vast spending programs of doubtful value which have been put into effect in recent years. In every Session of the Congress the record will show my vote for expenditure below that recommended by the Executive Department and far less than actually appropriated, by the Congress, except in the field of National Defense," Burleson said. He continued, "With our meaning to appear boastful if the Congress had followed those of us who have voted consistently over the years for fiscal responsibility, our financial affairs would not be in the shape they are today."

"In areas providing for the defense of our Country, I have always supported those things to make our Nation stronger than any other in the world," he said.

Burleson stated that activities of State and local governments, in accordance with the Constitution, should not be infringed and encroached upon by the Federal Government.

"The Federal Government does have specific missions," he said. He gave as examples the conservation of our natural resources, the defense of the Country and its general welfare. "At the same time," he said, "the Federal Government cannot and should not try to take care of everything from Washington, either foreign or domestic. The Federal Government has grown to colossal proportions and centralized power in Washington has increased," Burleson pointed out. "To this, I am opposed and my record is clear in this respect."

Burleson is among the senior members of the U. S. House of Representatives in point of service. He was elected to the 80th

Larry G. Henrichs Interning At AL Church In Michigan

Helen S. Henrichs daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Simpson, of Winters, will live in Muskegon Heights, Michigan for one year where her husband will be interning at Bethlehem Lutheran Church beginning September, 1970. This was recently announced by Dr. Kent S. Knutson, President of Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa.

Larry G. Henrichs is one of twenty-six students at this Lutheran seminary assigned to congregations of The American Lutheran Church located throughout the United States to receive a year of experience in a parish under another pastor.

Following the year of internship, Mr. Henrichs will return to the seminary for his final year of study.

Wartburg Seminary is one of the three post-university institutions of higher education of the 2,700,000 member The American Lutheran Church.

Congress from the 17th District and has been re-elected to each succeeding Congress. He is a member of the Ways and Means Committee, considered to be the most powerful and prestigious in the House.

Burleson is a former County Attorney and County Judge of Jones County. He was appointed an FBI Agent, and served in a number of assignments over the U. S. He resigned from the FBI to join the Navy in World War II, and saw duty in both the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Burleson ended his formal announcement by saying, "Although not having opposition in this year's election, it is my hope to visit my constituency as opportunity affords. The Congress being in session at this time and expected to be long after the Primary Election, there will be little time to leave duties in Washington. I expect, however, to get back home at short intervals to do the best I can in seeing my friends and to make new ones. I believe it is incumbent upon a Congressman to know people and that they know him, to have the best representation. This is fundamental to our system."

Deborah Ann Hutto, Ronald D. Colburn Exchanged Wedding Vows At Del Rio

Marriage vows were recited in Del Rio, when Miss Deborah Ann Hutto became the bride of Ronald Douglas Colburn of Winters. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hutto, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Colburn of Winters.

The Rev. John W. Platt officiated for the ceremony in the First United Methodist Church in Del Rio. Floor candleabra decorated with white flowers and greenery and holding white tapers gave the setting for the wedding party.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory chiffon gown fashioned with double flowing Watteau train with fitted empire bodice wide cuffed bishop sleeves and A-line skirt detailed in Alencon lace. Her headpiece was of ivory Alencon lace petals trimmed with seed pearls and a cluster of organza rosebuds held the three-tiered imported nylon veil of illusion. 1970 Census Expected To Reflect Winters' Growth In Past Decade

Most sources are indicating that Winters has experienced substantial growth during the decade of the '60s, and final tabulation which will follow the 1970 Census are expected to bear them out.

The nationwide 1970 Census will begin April 1, but results will not be made known for some months, it was understood.

"Growth indicators," which include housing construction and water connections made during the 1960 decade, would suggest that the population of Winters, listed officially in the 1960 Census at 3266, has grown, even in the face of an expected drop expected in the county population.

Although an exact figure was not available at time of writing, Bufore Baldwin, City Secretary said that present water connections are at 1175; 1960 connection count was about 1000.

Another reliable "growth indicator" would be the amount of new and added housing in Winters during the decade. Baldwin said that in 1969 alone, seven new houses were built in Winters—all of them in the "above-$15,000" category and of brick. In addition, seven houses were moved inside the City Limits during 1969, and one home was annexed, he said. Also, the City Secretary said, permits for 34 additions to existing housing were issued during 1969. Figures were not immediately available for the other years of the '60s Decade, but two home building permits already have been issued in 1970, Baldwin said.

During the past 10 years, two substantial new additions have been annexed to the City of Winters, it was pointed out. These include the Skyline Addition on the north edge of town adjacent to Parkview Addition, and Winterhaven Addition on the Novice Highway. Considerable home construction has been noted in Winterhaven, with substantial construction in Skyline.

All figures concerning housing development in Winters take into consideration only that exclusively within the City Limits, and do not include additions which adjoin the City, such as the Hoppe Addition on the west side, nor the Reeves Addition on the south. Also, there has been considerable growth in housing on the fringes of the City Limits; developments which, for the most part, enjoy "city" association but are not included in Winters proper, but could be considered in the "metropolitan" limits of the city. Housing and population in these

Runnels Soil and Water District Will Compete In Goodyear Awards Program

Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District will compete in the 24th annual Goodyear Soil Conservation Awards Program to select the nation's top 53 conservation districts, according to Arthur Eggemeyer, Rt. 1, Miles, district chairman.

The district's activities and accomplishments will be measured against the performances of other districts in the state in determining the first and second place winners in the annual competition sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. An independent judging committee of agricultural leaders will select the state winners for the calendar year 1970.

Grand award for the first place district will be expense-paid, vacation study trips to Arizona for the outstanding landowner-cooperator and one member of the district's governing board. They will be guests, along with representatives of the winning districts in other states, at the 10,000 acre Goodyear Farms and the Wigwam, resort hotel in Litchfield Park, Ariz., in December, 1971.

Runnels district has participated in the awards program 10 times and was the state's first place district in 1962 and 1970.

The other directors are Kirby Robinson of Norton, Bill Minzenmayer and Jake Presley both of Winters and Grider Hays of Ballinger.

Eggemeyer said the district's outstanding cooperator for 1970 was selected from the more than 900 land owners enrolled in the district program. Nationally, more than 2,000,000 individuals and companies have signed cooperative agreements with the 3,000 local soil and water conservation districts, and he is Bennie Wilde of the Bethel Community.

capitated by the known and estimated number of housing units built during that 10 years, and the homes which have been enlarged to accommodate more people.

There are about 20 homes in the new Winterhaven Addition, which did not exist when the '60 Census was taken. Several homes have been built in the Skyline Addition, which did not exist in '60, several homes built in Parkview since the last county besides new homes all over town.

We're not taken to "guesstimating" to a big extent, but we're going to go out on a limb this once. It will be some time before we know how close we are to the actual and official count, but we're going to guess that "City Limit" count for this 1970 Census will hit 3500, give or take 25! This does not include the adjoining additions; we guess that figure would reach closer to 4500 if an actual count could be made of the "metropolitan" area.

We're out on a limb until the official figures are published.
