HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Jerry Gibson, Winters High School Athletic Director and head football coach, would like to make a deal with local farmers and ranchers—and the rest of us who are always wishing it would rain during the middle of the summer.

Coach Gibson says if all will use their influence to get permission to start football practice about six weeks earlier, he'll almost guarantee at least dust-setting showers at the end of the first week of practice.

In each of the past three years, the coach has scheduled an intra-squad scrimmage for the WHS Blizzards, following the first week of dry-weather pre-school workouts... and three times the scheduled scrimmages have been showered out!

There's a story about an old-time plumber who worked back in the days when the coffee break was unheard of. He says, "When I was an apprentice, we'd lay two lengths of pipe. Then the boss would turn on the water and we'd have to stay ahead of it."

Temperatures of football fans run hot and cold. Take a good year, for instance, when things are running smooth and prospects are promising. Then enthusiasm begins to grow, the temperature builds up, and if results at the beginning are favorable, and if conditions are right, excitement continues to grow. As the season progresses, under these conditions, and things are still looking up, the attitude of "nothing is too good for our team" becomes prevalent.

However, a poor or hesitant beginning (and here the fan assumes the role of judge) operates a damper on the spirit of the average fan, and he becomes another "just came along for the ride" observer.

Your average football fan could be called a fraid-cat, too. (Cautious might be preferred in some circles). He is afraid of the unknown, or unproven. Given a few favorable statistics on past performances and present personnel, and he can piece together a cloak of enthusiasm which can provide him with protection for several games. Just let an unknown or unproven player crop up, though, and he'll tippy-toe cautiously into the season, uncommitted. He will "back" his team, certainly, but he refuses to go out on a limb. He doesn't realize that his attitude is infectious.

Winters is not "blessed" with many of this type, though. We're pretty much football minded around here, and usually end the season the way we went into it—loud and clear. Sometimes, though, we need a little shove to bring us out of our summer lethargy and lead us to the boxoffice to get our season tickets. We've been a bit slow in this department this year, though, probably due to the long, hot and dry summer, so there still are a good many choice seats to be had. This probably will change before the September 3 deadline, because there are few football fans who, knowing they will attend every home game anyway, would throw two and a half down the drain. That's the amount which can be saved if fans buy tickets by the book of five. That'll buy a lot of licorice!

INDIANS SAY THANKS

The Little Indians wish to thank the parents and other fans for their interest and cooperation during the Little League baseball season.—Louis Johnson, manager, R. L. Johnson, coach.

Blizzards Scrimmage Eldorado Here Friday

Still two weeks away from the regular 1970 football season, the Winters High School Blizzards will test their pre-season mettle in a scrimmage against Eldorado here Friday night, August 28.

The following week, the Blizzards will travel to Breckenridge for a scrimmage session. First game of the season will be with Hamlin here Friday, September 11, a non-conference tilt.

This season's Blue Bunch has a full week of two-day workouts behind them. Coach Jerry Gibson said, and he is "very pleased" with the way they are coming along. "We've picked up where we left off last year," the coach said, "full of fire and enthusiasm and ready to go. We have a fine bunch of hard-working, dedicated men on the string this year."

Positions have not been definitely assigned as yet, the coach said. The scheduled scrimmages will help determine positions and strategy for the season's jump-off September 11. Fourteen lettermen are returning to the Big Blue squad this year, and they are backed up by a number of determined first-comers to the varsity.

An intra-squad scrimmage had been planned for last Saturday evening, as a climax to the week of pre-season practice, but was rained out—for the third year in a row, Coach Gibson said.

House Speaker Names Committee To Help Save Texas' Small Hospitals

Speaker G. F. (Gus) Mutscher today made good his promise to appoint a Texas Health Care Committee to work with local citizens, federal administrators and the Congress to try to head off a medical crisis which threatens to close some 170 Texas hospitals.

"Present problems in handling the medicare program, especially in regard to hospitals and hospital care, are placing a tremendous burden on local facilities. The retroactive denial method of denying payments for services rendered is alarming hospital administrators throughout the state," Mutscher said.

"The Federal Government should find some better method of handling these problems than is used by the present administration. The very thought of the possibility of closing 170 hospitals is diametrically opposed to my plan of greater

Bulldozers Move First Dirt For Win-Tex Feed Lot

Bulldozers and other earth-moving equipment was moved onto the site of the new Win-Tex Cattle Feeders, Inc., feeding pens this week, and began moving dirt in preparation for construction of the feeding pens and facilities.

It is expected that construction of the cattle feeding complex will take four to five months, according to spokesmen for the company.

Wayne Henderson of Stratford has been awarded the contract for the project, it was said.

Mike Odum, formerly of Callahan County, who will manage the operation, has moved his family to Winters and will be on hand during the construction period.

The new feeding pens will be located about three miles northwest of Winters, and will be one of the first such operations in this type in Texas. It will be one of the most modern operations of this type in Texas. It will be one of the first such operations in this area to be approved by the Texas Water Quality Board under provisions of the Texas Water Quality Act of 1967, it has been pointed out.

The Texas Water Quality Board approved application for construction of facilities to handle a total of 15,000 head of feeder cattle, but plans are to build for only about 8,000 head at the present time.

Lions Club Will Move Meeting Place To Community Center In Future

The Winters Lions Club Tuesday voted to move the headquarters of the organization and the place of the weekly luncheon from the present site on College Street to the Winters Community Center. The move will be made in the near future.

There will be no change in preparation and serving of the Tuesday noon luncheon, Ted Meyer, president of the Lions Club, said. Ladies of the Winters Industrial Club have performed this duty for many years and will continue to do so at the Community Center, he said.

The Lions Club will purchase kitchen and dining room utensils and equipment for use at the Community Center, he said. During the meeting Tuesday, President Meyer appointed a special "hospital assistance" committee—T. A. Smith, Nelan Bahlan and Mike Zuniga. This committee will offer the services and help of the Winters Lions Club to the board of directors of North Runnels County Hospital in any project the official hospital board undertakes, Meyer said.

From "Runnels Is My County"

School Building Was First Public Structure In City of Winters

Winters is like Topsy, "she just grew." The hardy pioneers who first settled the area couldn't have envisioned our town as it is today, with large ranching and cattle holdings, farm production, industry and oil development. Charis Poe, Winters resident and author, has recorded the total history of the county, from the earliest pioneers to the latest happenings, in "Runnels Is My County," published by The Naylor Company of San Antonio. This work has the complete support and approval of the Runnels County Historical Survey Committee, for which Mrs. Poe serves as secretary.

Active in civic and church affairs, Charis also finds time to be a regular contributor to many newspapers and magazines. Her first book, "Angel To The Papagos (Naylor), is the story of Goldie Richmond, a remarkable woman the Poes met while on vacation in the Southwest. Goldie runs a trading post in a remote area of the desert and has become fast friends with the Papagos. Mrs. Richmond's courage and fortitude has been a great factor in replacing superstition and witchcraft among this tribe with more modern and hygienic practices.

Although it won't be long until Winters celebrates its centennial, the only anniversary to date has been the 75th, when a three-day celebration was held and Paul Harvey was the featured speaker at Blizard Field. The name Winters was suggested by a young cowboy, John Mackey, who came west from Georgia in 1889, with his railroad ticket and ten dollars in his pocket. He first worked on a ranch near Paint Rock and later broke thirty acres of sod land southwest of Winters with a team of oxen, taking a month to finish the job. With his wages he bought a span of mules and began hauling lumber to build the schoolhouse. He also sawed the lumber and helped with the construction. T. D. Bishop and sons, along with others, also assisted with the building. When it was completed, someone asked, "What shall we name the school?"

"Winters," replied Mackey. When townspeople met in the school, the only public building until 1899, they seemed in agreement that the town be named for Mr. Winters, but were given the choice of either Winters or Winterville. The name of Winters was chosen by ballot.

John Nicholas Winters was born near Rockport, Indiana, in 1858, a son of J. C. and Mary (Brown) Winters; his father being of German and his mother of Irish descent. John was the seventh of eight children. His German ancestry explains Winters' success in locating many German families on farms in the area.

Winters was eighteen when he came to Texas, first locating in Sulphur Springs. He taught school there and in Runnels County, at Waltham and Runnels City before becoming a member of a land and abstract company, organized in 1879. He was married in 1886 to Alice Bivins, whom he met through correspondence. He had made a trip to Farmington to meet her. On their second meeting, the couple had a double wedding with her brother, Lee Bivins of Amarillo. The family had one son and four daughters. One daughter, Dr. Jet C. Winters, was a professor at Texas University, until her retirement.

After moving to Fort Worth in 1894, Winters was elected president of the Fort Worth Public Schools in 1904. The same year he organized the J. N. Winters Realty Company. Later on, he organized the Tarrant County Building Loan Association. He was president and general manager of both companies. His specialty was selling ranches. He died in 1928.

Winters will celebrate the release of Mrs. Poe's book on September 19, when the High School Band will play a song especially written for the occasion by David Guion and Loyd Roberson of Winters. Copies of "Runnels Is My County" will be brought into the city from Blue Gap post office and presented to the Chamber of Commerce. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

Son of Maj. Gen. David Jones Was Wounded In Asia

Patrick AFB, Fla.—Medical authorities at Fort Gordon, Ga., report that First Lieutenant David M. Jones, Jr., son of Major General and Mrs. David M. Jones, is progressing satisfactorily from wounds received recently while on combat duty in South Vietnam. Mrs. Jones is the former Anita Maddox of Winters, Texas.

The young Army Ranger, 23, was on a patrol near Phu Cat, SVN when he stepped on an enemy booby trap. Lieutenant Jones received shrapnel wounds in both legs, his right arm, and face. He was evacuated by air to Japan for treatment of a nerve injury in his left foot, and further evacuated to Fort Gordon, Ga., for possible surgery on an ear drum damaged by the grenade explosion.

He hopes to have convalescent leave shortly with his family at Patrick Air Force Base, Florida, where Major General Jones commands the Air Force Eastern Test Range.

Lieutenant Jones is engaged to Jodi Dee Gibbs, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Asa Ben Gibbs of Satellite Beach, Florida.

Winters Schools Coaching Staff Now Complete

With the hiring of Winston Leifester as 8th grade football coach, the coaching staff of Winters Schools now is complete, and all faculty vacancies filled, Superintendent of Schools Carroll Tatom said Monday morning.

Leifester was employed to fill a vacancy in the staff. He will assist in coaching duties for the high school varsity squad.

The new coach, a January 1967 graduate of Sul Ross College, was 7th and 8th grade coach and physical education and social studies teacher at Needsville during the 1969-70 school year. Previously he had been at Carmine schools, and taught during the 1967 spring semester at Eagle Pass.

Leifester is a graduate of Killeen High School. He is married, and he and his wife, Geneva, have a 19-month-old child.

He will teach physical education and social studies in the 5th through 8th grades in Winters Public Schools.

Showers Stop Milo Harvest Over Weekend

Summer thundershowers tracked across North Runnels County Saturday afternoon, bringing to a halt most activity in the milo fields. Although some high winds preceded or accompanied the showers, no reports of great damage to the milo crop have been received. Some damage was bound to have occurred, but it was not known Monday to what extent.

Harvest of this year's milo crop was stopped, but was expected to begin again as this week progressed. The showers increased to a great extent the moisture content of the grain. Most sources estimate that the milo harvest is about 75 percent complete at this time, and given a few more days of favorable weather, the bulk should be in. Production has been "surprisingly" good on the whole it has been pointed out. Although there have been some very light cuttings, there also have been some as high as 4,000 pounds. About 2,000 pounds has been the average, a source estimated.

Although not a drought-breaker—the measurement reports are skimpy—Saturday's series of showers were nonetheless welcome, in spite of the momentary set-back in the milo fields. Pastures were beginning to turn to dry tinder-boxes, targets for destructive grass fires. This danger is not passed, it has been reminded, but has been lessened to some degree in the area.

Winters proper received only .78 inch Saturday afternoon, while other communities in North Runnels reported as much as "almost two inches" and traces.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Dorsett of Arlington, former residents of Winters, visited here Saturday.

Still Plenty of Good Seats For Home Grid Games

There still are plenty of good reserved seats for home football games this season, Johnny B. Smith, school business manager, has announced.

Last week was set aside as a period in which football fans who had reserved seats during the 1969 season were permitted to exercise options of obtaining the same seats this year.

This week—and until Thursday, September 3—has been set aside for sale of the remaining reserved seats. After that date, reserved seats will be sold on a game-to-game basis, Smith said.

There still are many good reserved seats in the Winters Bleachers, Smith said—inside the 40-yard line. Some even with a few feet of the 50! Fans can save $2.50 a seat by purchasing a book of tickets for all five home games. Cost of tickets, in three categories, will be:
Season reserved $1.25
Single reserved $1.75
General admission $1.50

Bids Accepted For Two More Dams On Valley Creek Control Project

Completion of the project designed to control floodwaters on Valley Creek, in Runnels, Taylor and Nolan counties, was in sight this week, following acceptance of bids for two more dam structures.

Hugo Vogelsang, chairman of the Valley Creek Water Control District, announced acceptance of bids by Lyles and Lyles Construction Co. of Ballinger for construction of the two dams. Apparent low bid of $311,777 was submitted by the Ballinger construction firm. Bids were opened at the District's office in Wingate at 2 p. m. August 20.

The two dams are known as sites 5, in Nolan County, and 15, in Taylor County. When these two dams are completed, there will be 17 of the proposed 20 dams completed on this project. The 20 dams will have a total floodwater capacity of more than 18,000 acre feet, which will be released automatically at a controlled rate through draw-down pipes in each of the floodwater holding lakes behind the dams.

Woodrow Hoffman, conservationist for the Runnels County Soil Conservation Service, said

Winters Public School started the 1970-71 school year Monday, August 24, and enrollment by Wednesday morning was 966. First day's enrollment last year was 1005.

Enrollment probably will increase slightly during the next several days, especially following the Labor Day holiday next week, it was indicated. Many students from some migrant families do not enroll until after the school year is underway.

This is the first year for public school kindergarten, and 25 pupils were registered the first of the week. George M. Beard, elementary school principal, said the figure was expected to be increased within the next few days, raising the total enrollment in the primary school.

Broken down for the two schools, enrollment by grade the first of the week was as follows:

Relief From Foreign Competition?

The rapidity and degree of the textile industry's revitalization depend on the outcome of the fight to impose some form of restraint on foreign goods. At this writing the issue is still in doubt, but of all the beleaguered domestic industries textiles seem best situated to gain at least temporary relief from low-cost foreign products. Such assistance would give our companies time to get out of lines most vulnerable to foreign rivalry, to upgrade and streamline productive facilities, and to move into more profitable markets.

Profitable Specialty Markets

The development of specialty products is a factor worth watching in textiles. Today textile manufacturers sample an average of 20-30 fabric structures each week. Emergence of better products from this research will be the best answer over the longer term to the grinding competition from foreign products. When considering this significant industry, one must not think only of new materials but also of other related growth fields, such as coated fabrics.

richness and beauty, and over the years it is less expensive to maintain than hard floors. Another expanding sales area is provision of modern and stylish interiors for autos, planes, buses, trains and other vehicles.

example, knitted, tufted, or woven textiles for the home are growing at the rate of 15-20 per cent a year. Most diversified textile firms are particularly aware of the value of sophisticated marketing techniques and seek steadily stronger consumer outlets for home-furnishing items such as sheets, pillowcases, bed spreads, towels, linens, decorative fabrics, and carpeting. The outlook for these lines is especially promising because of escalating new family formations and still high disposable incomes.

In industrial and commercial buildings, wall-to-wall carpeting is becoming a commonplace in new construction as well as being used to cover surfaces which had required frequent cleaning and buffing. Carpeting gives a look of greater aged to hit $6.67 billion, an increase of 7.1 per cent over the 1968 level. Net earnings, however, were cut into by capital improvement expenditures and widening import problems.

Textiles For Clothing
Recent studies indicate rapid changes in population, with the 25-30 age group expected to increase some 60 per cent or more over the next few years. This should be extremely stimulating for the fashion business since people in that age bracket are highly clothes-conscious. But, as the major mills enjoy an increasingly broad product mix, it should be noted that currently apparel comprises less than 50 per cent of all large mill production.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

Textile Stocks Due For New Interest

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 27, 1970. Certain groups of stocks traditionally tend to advance and fall ahead of the overall market. One of these is textile securities. Assuming this characteristic again asserts itself, textile stocks before too long may become good purchases for short-to-intermediate-term capital gains. Despite its current problems, the textile business still has attractive potential in many markets, such as wearing apparel, home furnishings, industrial products, commercial usage, and carpeting and upholstery for all types of transportation vehicles.

In 1969, the top fifteen U. S. publicly owned textile corporations experienced a record business year. Combined sales man-

ELEPHANT'S EAR could be nickname for this lustrous sea creature. Actually, it is a rare paper nautilus, an eight-legged mollusk related to the octopus. This beauty lives at Miami's Seaquarium.

Regardless of how many warning reports you get about the weather, there are times when a sudden, unexpected, unpredictable squall hits while you're on the water. And it can upset the best fishing plans.

Sudden storms strike whether you're on the Gulf, on a lake, on a stream, even on a pond. You're likely to be caught while fishing the Gulf, more frequently than anywhere... probably because you are farther from shore. Isn't that natural?

Anyway, sometime back a group of us went to Freeport. We had plans for going out to the snapper banks early the next morning. When we retired for the evening everything looked fine. We had listened to the weather reports and everything was "go." But when we stuck our head out the door at 2 a. m. there was a storm blowing. We went back to bed and tried again at 6 o'clock.

Despite the fact that the wind was still high, we got on one of Raymond Muchowich's boats and headed out. We hadn't gone five miles until practically every man on the boat was sick from bouncing on the high waves. So, we turned around headed back.

Another time four of us left Austin for Greer's Ferry lake near Little Rock, Arkansas. When we boarded the plane in Austin it was a beautiful spring day.

We drove the 70 miles from Little Rock, to our fishing area, under a star-filling heaven. But at 4 a. m. we were awakened by wind cracking through the tall pine trees and thunder and lightning that made us wonder if the world was coming to an end.

I could go on and on reporting dozens of such incidents. Each time conditions seemed fine, but turned out different. Sudden weather changes call for more than just having a weather eye out. You need to be prepared for such emergencies.

Always be sure to have good rain gear along, not just some flimsy something, but real gear that not only will keep you dry but warm.

Then have either a tarp or some plastic material to protect your fishing equipment and other paraphernalia aboard.

Jon Voight plays the title role in "Midnight Cowboy," which will show Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre in Color by DeLuxe. Starred with him in the Hellman-Schlesinger production is Dustin Hoffman. The picture is released through United Artists, an entertainment subsidiary of Transamerica Corporation.

"Midnight Cowboy" starring Dustin Hoffman and Jon Voight, shows in color at the State Theatre, thru United Artists, an entertainment subsidiary of Trans-America Corporation. Based on the controversial best seller by James Leo Herlihy, the unusual drama of a youthful drifter and a contemporary con man was produced by Jerome Hellman and directed by John Schlesinger.

Brenda Vaccaro, John McGiver, Ruth White, Sylvia Miles and Barnard Hughes are featured in the film showing Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

This especially if you're fishing salt water.

Those who carry cameras will do well to keep them in tightly closed plastic bags. In fact, every tackle box should have a few of these large-size plastic bags just for emergencies.

Naturally, life jackets or other safety equipment is a must. Under existing laws in most states, and certainly those covering boats that go out into the Gulf, there are legal requirements about life jackets. This is something every individual should carefully check for his own protection.

Coast-Guard approved safety cushions offer some security but they are far from adequate under certain conditions. If all go overboard who's left to toss you a cushion? Or even a life-saving ring. If you can't swim, wear a life jacket at all times. It's better to be called a sissy than a corpse.

There's another good idea, too. When you are on the water and see indications of an approaching storm, crank up that motor and head back to shore. Or, if you are too far away from camp, head into the nearest land and make your boat fast. Be sure all your gas tanks are closed well, and that your motor gets protection. Without either of them you may be grounded for quite a spell.

For boat equipment it is well to always have with you either a large tarp or several painter drop cloths made of plastic. They take up practically no space, yet they furnish good, one-time protection against the elements.

If you must fight out a storm, try to head into the waves and keep the passenger load weight low. The heavy rain may beat into your face, but it also tends to hold down the force of the waves.

Sudden squalls are very frequent during the hot summer months, especially on the Gulf. Most of them give only a short notice of their approach, so be ready and keep a weather eye out for signs of any disturbance of the elements.

—Strong court administration, including authority to ignore present district lines in assigning judges to duty where the action is.

—Giving 14 Courts of Civil Appeals power to handle intermediate appeals of criminal, as well as civil, cases to ease load on overworked Court of Criminal Appeals (which now receives appeals direct from district courts all over the state).

—Creation of a "unified" court system (a variety of plans have been suggested) to insure an even work load on courts, again by shifting judges to areas where dockets are overloaded.

—Automatic judicial redistricting by a five-member board if the Legislature refuses to do the job.

—Removing judges from politics.

—Stiffer fines and jail sentences for contempt of court to help prevent court disruptions like those which have shocked the nation in recent months.

—Simplification of the judicial article of the state constitution so the Legislature can make necessary changes without having to submit constitutional amendments.

"The climate for judicial reform was never so good," Supreme Court Associate Justice Jack Pope told the committee members. "But if reform is passed up this session of the Legislature, it may be too late."

OIL ALLOWABLE AT RECORD

Texas Railroad Commission boosted the oil allowable for September to 79.9 percent of potential—highest level since October 1951.

Order is seen as likely to boom production higher than during the Arab-Israeli war in 1967.

Chairman Ben Ramsey noted that the Commission's staff report warned the higher factor could cause pollution, wasting of gas and pipeline bottlenecks in some areas.

A major oil company spokesman said Texas crude oil stocks are down 4.5 million barrels from 1969. A rapid decline

WELFARE REGION ESTABLISHED

A new State Department of Public Welfare region serving six South Texas counties will go into operation on September 1 with headquarters in Laredo.

M. J. Raymond Jr. will serve as regional administrator for all department programs in Webb, Duval, Jim Wells, Jim Hogg, Zapata and Starr Counties. Counties previously were part of a larger region. Department now has a 17-region setup.

APPOINTMENTS

Gov. Preston Smith reappointed Dave Smith of Austin to the board of trustees of the Employment Retirement System of Texas.

Governor also reappointed Paul G. Veale of McAllen and W. M. Bell of Donnan to the Rio Grande Municipal Water Authority board of directors and Dr. Frank Lamont Jennings of Galveston and Thomas Frank Jenkins of Winnie to the Gulf Coast Waste Disposal Authority.

William Terry Bray of Austin is new assistant solicitor general.

Latter is just under the written nominations of major purchasers for 3,428,395 barrels of crude daily. Production in August at 70 percent factor was estimated at 3,310,000.

MERCURY RULES CHANGED

Texas Water Quality Board has been urged to adopt tougher mercury discharge limits or outlaw discharges outright.

A Federal Water Quality Administration official and a top Texas Parks and Wildlife Administrator recommended even tighter controls on mercury and other heavy metals than proposed by the Board.

Spokesmen for Diamond-Shamrock Chemical Company and American Smelting and Refining Company, on the other hand, argued that the proposed five parts per billion mercury discharge level is beyond their capacity. They called for a delay in adoption of the standards.

Federal officials took exception to the state Board's order which said there is no evidence of public health hazard from heavy metals contamination in Texas. He pointed to mercury found in industrial discharges, coastal waters and in certain species of salt water fish and shell fish. He noted, in particular, industrial waste along the Houston ship channel and in Lavaca Bay.

CELIA JOBLESS AID PAID

Texas Employment Commission will pay disaster unemployment assistance to persons unemployed as a result of Hurricane Celia in a dozen South Texas counties.

These are Atascosa, Aransas, Live Oak, McMullen, Bee, Jim Wells, Nueces, San Patricio, Refugio, Goliad, Karnes and Wilson Counties.

Those eligible include persons who worked or were scheduled to work in the areas but who no longer have jobs or places to work or could not reach their place of work because of storm damage.

Also eligible are those who lived in areas and could not get out to work elsewhere, those who could not go to work because of injury or illness due to the disaster, those who became heads of households and needed to work due to the death of the family breadwinner during the emergency period, or those who had completed work training and could not find work because of hurricane damage.

Breakdown of Home Freezer Can Present Problems. What To Do?

(Most housewives who have home freezers have been faced, at one time or another, with the problem of what to do when the freezer fails to operate properly, due to power failure or mechanical failure. Such a situation is frustrating not only because of the inconvenience presented, but there is a financial side to be taken into consideration—to say nothing of the many hours of work involved in preparing fruits, vegetables and meats for the freezer. This week Mrs. Juanita O'Connor offers some suggestions on what to do if the freezer fails.)

By Mrs. Juanita O'Connor Home Demonstration Agent
If your freezer stops, don't panic, but get into action. The first thing to remember is to keep your freezer closed. How long the food will stay frozen depends on the amount and type of food in the freezer. A full freezer will stay cold many hours longer than a freezer only a quarter full. Meat will stay frozen longer than will baked food. Also, the larger the free-er, the longer it will stay cold. Twenty-five pounds of dry ice should hold the temperature of a half-full, 10-cubic-foot freezer below freezing for two or three days. Put heavy cardboard directly on the packages of frozen food and then put the dry ice on top of the cardboard. For added protection, cover the freezer with blankets, quilts or some other covering. It will also help to put crumpled newspapers or excelsior between the cabinet and the blankets. Don't cover up the air vent openings because the power may come on unexpectedly and ventilation will be needed. If the freezer will be out of operation for more than three days, take frozen foods to a locker plant as soon as possible. Thoroughly wrap the food and make the trip from the freezer to the locker as quickly as possible. If the food has partially or completely thawed before you discover that the freezer is not operating, you may refreeze foods if they still contain ice crystals and are still 40 degrees F. or below. Meats and poultry

COUNTY AGENT'S WEEKLY NOTES

—Divide, transplant, and establish perennial beds including Bearded Iris, Cannas, Daylilies, Shasta Daisy, and Violets.
—Complete digging, drying and storing Gladiolus corms.
—Continue to water when needed.
—Spray roses at regular intervals for Blackspot and Mildew control.
—Mildew is especially prevalent this time of the year.
—Fertilize and water Chrythemums.

—Clean established garden beds. Cut back or pull out faded annuals.
—Purchase Tulip bulbs and chill in refrigerator at 35 degrees to 40 degree F. for 60 days.
—Make final selections of spring flowering bulbs.
—Consider a third application of insecticide for chinch-bug control if prevalent in the neighborhood.
Select Plant Early
Although the major planting season for setting out barerooted woody ornamentals is several months off, we should be making our planting plans and selecting the varieties we need to up date our landscape planting. Don't wait until the last minute to prepare tree holes and purchase plants for yard planting. The success of plant survival after transplanting of barerooted plants depends upon the production of the small root hair develop on the larger roots. Barerooted plants received by local nurserymen are in a dormant condition, but the development of small root hairs is continuous. We should make it a point to purchase barerooted stock as soon as good dormant stock is received by our favorite nurseryman. In Texas this is seldom before December 1. If these plants are planted immediately, the small root hair will develop very shortly after setting them in the prepared tree holes. This means that the root system of these plants will become well established before they leaf out in the spring and new growth will emerge rapidly.

Purchasing these plants late in the season means that the small root hairs will have developed while these plants were in the "sawdust bins" and many of these will either be broken, or lost through drying after removing from the temporary storage area. Plants handled in this manner will undoubtedly survive, but they seldom recover as rapidly as the ones planted out early in the season.
Plants that do not transplant well by the bareroot method are sold in containers of various sizes. Plants sold in containers should be handled carefully to prevent breakage of the ball of soil when they are being removed from the cans.
When the ball of soil breaks during removal from the container, it means that numerous small root hairs will be broken and the plant will show signs of wilting in a very short time. Always cut the can on both sides, pry the side of the can gently, and then grasp the bottom and lift out. The better nurseries will do the cutting before you leave the nursery. Always measure the depth of the hole and compare it with the plant in the container. Try to make the hole no deeper than the depth of the soil ball. If too deep, be sure to thoroughly pack the fresh soil placed under the ball to avoid settling. Avoid unnecessary removal of the plant from the tree hole to make adjustments in the depth of the plant, as this can cause breaking of the soil ball and loss of the plant.

Bulbs for Indoor Color
Bulbs can be used to add a bit of cheer and color to the indoors during the winter months. Purchase only flowering size bulbs for indoor bloom; avoid bargains in bulbs. Bulbs that are good for indoor forcing include crocus, grape hyacinths, daffodils, tulips and hyacinths.
Pot the bulbs as soon as they are available. Prepare the soil by mixing equal parts of the soil, peat and sand. Put a 1 inch layer of gravel in the bottom of the pot. Firm the soil around the bulbs, leaving the tips of large bulbs showing. Barely cover small bulbs and space them 1-2 inch apart.
Move the potted bulbs to cold storage at a temperature of 40- to 50 degree F. Success with forcing bulbs depends upon their developing roots during the cold storage period. Keep the soil moist, but not wet, leave the bulbs in cold storage for a period of six to ten weeks or until they have made good root growth.

After the cold storage period, bring the bulbs into the light and heat gradually. Then set them in a cool, semi-lighted location. Place in a sunny location after the shoots show a green color. Do not put them in a hot room or near heat. Most bulbs will be in flower by January. It is possible to have blooms for Christmas by buying pre-cooled bulbs.

WINGATE

Recent visitors in the Edwin Voss home were Mr. Reingold Voss and son, Gus Voss, Mr. and Mrs. Vanner Voss and their daughter and three children, Mrs. John Halley from El Paso. She visited two weeks with her parents and kinfolks and her school friends. Mr. and Mrs. Vanner Voss took her and the children back to El Paso and stayed a few days with them. Reingold Voss is sick in the North Runnels Hospital.

Mr. Burrow had to be carried back to Simmons hospital in Sweetwater after several days at home, but he may get to come home soon as he is recovering. Mrs. Bub Phillips and son, James H. Bryan were in Colorado City on business and went on to Midland to spend a night with her daughter, Melva Rogers.

The Runnels County Committee is intended to give both youth (up to age 24) and adults alike an opportunity to contribute their ideas on the problems of children and youth—and their suggestions for solving them.

These ideas on problems and proposed solutions may be expressed by County Committee delegates in writing to the Governor's Steering Committee in Austin, (Drawer P, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas (78711) or voiced in person at the Governor's Conference on Children and Youth Nov. 2-4 in Austin, Richter said.

With an expected attendance of some 600 persons equally divided between youths and adults, the Governor's Conference is intended to develop "input" of information and ideas from Texas into national conferences.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Smith were visiting in Midland and Odessa over the week-end. Mrs. Lena M. Wheat has returned from a visit to Richardson and Garland where she visited relatives and attended the Bryan reunion.

Dr. Dug Shaffer was buried in Wingate cemetery last Tuesday.

Grass Field Day Planned By SCS At Knox City

A public field day will be held on September 30 at the Soil Conservation Service plant materials center at Knox City. State Conservationist Clyde W. Graham announced this week. New grasses, forbs, legumes and other plants under evaluation at the center will be discussed during the day, Graham said. The center, known officially as the James E. "Bud" Smith Plant Materials Center, serves both Texas and Oklahoma.

Some 675 strains of 164 different plants are being grown at Knox City to try to find superior strains that will solve specific soil and water conservation problems. The more promising ones are then grown and evaluated under field conditions on farms of soil and water conservation district cooperators under a wide variety of conditions. Selections that prove superior to other strains available are then released by conservation districts to commercial seed growers. These producers then grow seed and sell it to the public.

A new grass variety, Selection 75 Kleingrass, was certified and released last year as a result of work done at the center in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Other grass strains proven and put into use by SCS include El Reno, Uvalde, and Vaughn side-outs grama; King Ranch blue-stem; green sprangletop; and Greenville switchgrass.

Some of the groups who cooperate with SCS in its plant materials work in Texas include Agricultural Research Service, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas A & M University, Texas Tech University, Prairie View A & M, Abilene Christian College, U. S. Air Force, U. S. Corps of Engineers, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, and soil and water conservation districts.

Scotland and England united as Great Britain in 1707.

The Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock Dec. 21, 1620.

United States mint was established in Philadelphia in 1792.

THIS MAN DRAWS SOCIAL SECURITY — Young Felipe Lugo II receives a monthly social security check, and he is not even age 65. In fact, he is only two years of age!

All you have to do is mention in a conversation that you know someone who receives a monthly social security check and the other party immediately forms an impression something along these lines — he or she sees a picture of some old maiden aunt, somewhere along about 85 years old, who is sitting in a rocking chair on the front porch of an old rustic house with a shawl draped around her shoulders. The old aunt is rocking slowly and knitting a scarf for some young niece and wondering all the time if it is about time for her monthly social security "pension" check, as she calls it, to come in the mail. This would about sum up the average person's mental picture of the typical social security recipient. Imagine the surprise of the person you are talking with if you should mention that the social security beneficiary you are talking about is a two-year-old boy.

All too often people think of social security as being something for the older people, and they forget completely that people of all ages have the protection of social security survivor's insurance. And, survivor's insurance is the basis of young Felipe's monthly check.

Felipe lives with his mother and younger sister at 612 West Alexander in Winters, Texas. Young Felipe receives a monthly social security check for two reasons. First of all, he lost his father in an auto crash on June 13 of this year. However, the death of his father would not alone qualify young Felipe for a monthly check. Equally as important, his father must have worked and paid into social security for a certain length of time. Since in this case his father had worked long enough under social security, young Felipe became entitled to a monthly check beginning with the month of his father's death and continuing until he is age 18. This means that over the next 16 years, Felipe will receive about $19,000.00 in benefits at the current benefit rate. His sister, who is about one year younger than Felipe, will receive even more as she will receive benefits over a longer period of time.

However, the social security benefits do not always stop at age 18. Should Felipe and his sister decide to further their education, their benefits will continue until they are age 22 as long as they are in full-time school attendance and unmarried.

A monthly social security check will never be able to replace the father young Felipe has lost, but maybe it can help replace some of the financial security his father was able to provide.

Social security records are confidential but young Felipe Lugo's mother, Carmen Lugo, has agreed to let the Social Security Administration release information about him in order to better acquaint the people of this area with the provisions of social security survivor's insurance.
