HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Well, we finally got that little rain, didn't we? . . . or shower, or sprinkle, or near miss . . . depending on what 10-acre spread in North Runnels we happen to live on. It's been that kind of rain weather hereabouts since it started a few days ago. A "double-barrel shotgun" type of rain—one barrel running over and the other powder-dry.

Some sections of North Runnels have received upwards of 8 inches, according to reports, while others have been lucky to get the dust settled. One farmer in a saturated section was reported to have said he wished it'd stop raining so he could get in the fields again!

In Winters proper, it has been the same story: Last Friday afternoon a fair shower fell downtown and on the west side; then in the evening, another shower—or hard rain, at least on the west side. The official gauge in the northeast section near the school showed only half an inch for afternoon and evening; in Sunlawn addition, on the west side, one neighbor reported almost two inches of rain in a coffee can, during the evening rain. Across the street from the coffee-can measurer, we installed a rain gauge on the back fence just before the evening rain hit. . . and had to run to the house to keep from getting wet. After the rain stopped, we waded out to see how much. There was only .60 of an inch of water in the glass vial. All indications were that we had received much more than that—we KNEW it had rained more! Then it dawned on us: The gauge was one of those advertising devices put out by a bank. Naturally, we finally realized, we HAD received more, but the INTEREST had been DEDUCTED before we read the gauge!

As the days of summer wane and the sun dips below the horizon a little earlier each evening, we know that nature is sending its gentle announcement that a new season is here. On September 23, the sun crossed an imaginary line and Autumn began. For many parts of the world, Autumn is a season of high color. The leaves of the trees, as they don their most brilliant hues, seem to consciously strive to outdo each other in attracting the attention of passers-by. . . . Legendary visions of a harvest moon and corn shocks usher in the spirit of Autumn . . .

Here in North Runnels, Autumn treads in softly and subtly. The changes come slowly, so slowly we scarcely notice them . . . until one brisk morning we wake to find that the leaves have changed overnight, football nights are cooler, cotton fields are getting whiter . . . and we suddenly wonder where the summer, which usually hangs around for a couple of moons after the official beginning of Autumn, has gone.

Each section of the country claims the most enchanting Autumn. . . and each section is right!

According to an article in The Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Sen. John Tower and several other Texans have won the "Golden Bulldog Award," presented annually by National Associated Businessmen, Inc., to members of Congress on their economy voting record. Officially, the prize is called "Watchdog of the Treasury Award."

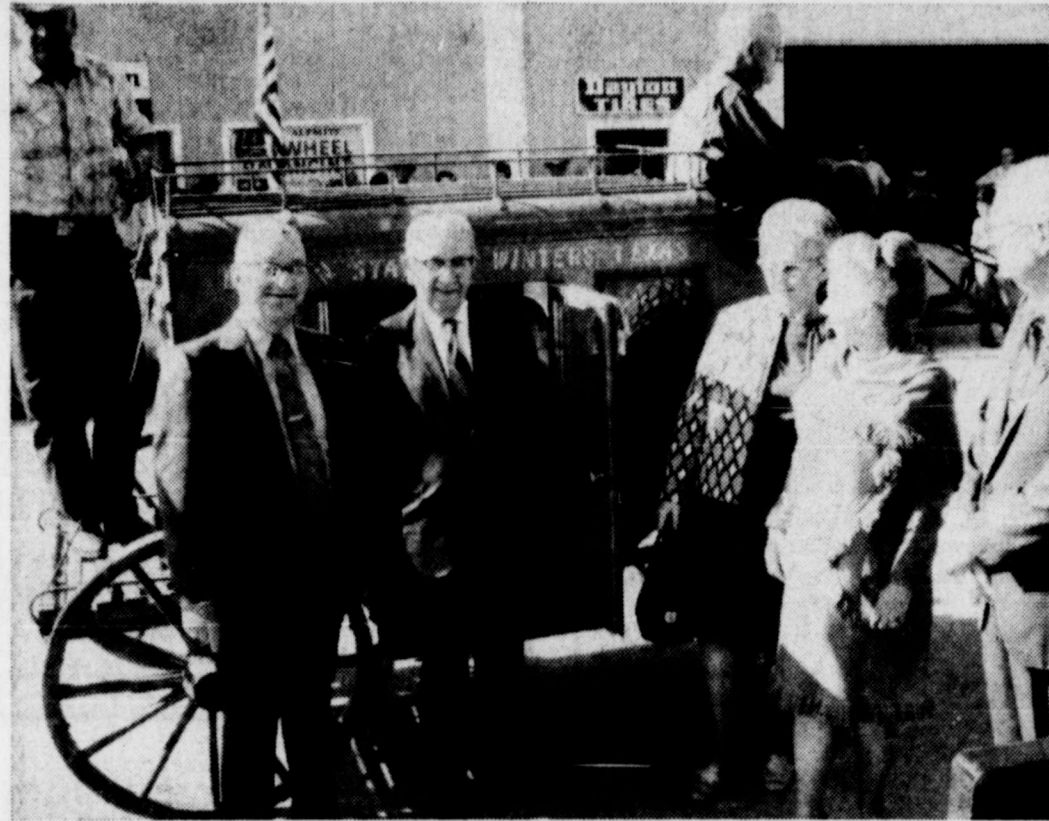

The golden bulldog, on a small standard, "obviously is meant to represent tenacity in defending taxpayers' dollars."

Sen. Tower (R) got a 90.0 rating, Rep. Omar Burlison (D) was rated 83.3 and Rep. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo 80.0. Many in the nation and state didn't even score.

Crowds Turn Out For Celebration On "Runnels Day" In Winters Saturday

A fairly large crowd turned out Saturday morning in Winters for the first program of the countywide day-long celebration of "Runnels Day," noting the 90th anniversary of the organization of the county. Other programs were held in the afternoon at Ballinger, Miles and Rowena.

The stagecoach and horses were provided by John W. Norman's Lazy "N" Stables of Winters.

Highlight of the celebration was the release of the new book, "Runnels Is My County," a complete history of Runnels County, written by Charlsie (Mrs. George) Poe of Winters. The books, stamped with a postmark of Blue Gap, Texas, were brought in by stagecoach. Blue Gap, 16 miles east of Winters, was the first post office in the county.

Winters High School Band, under the direction of Kirke McKenzie, paraded downtown, and played a concert of early day music during the program. A song, with music composed especially for the occasion by David Guion, a Runnels native and nationally-known composer was sung publicly for the first time by Mrs. Kathrine Freiburger of Dallas, niece of Guion. Lyrics of the song were written by Loyd Roberson of Winters.

Rankin Pace of Winters, chairman of the Runnels County Historical Survey Committee, sponsors of the celebration, was master of ceremonies for the program, and introduced Mrs. Poe, and Mrs. Loretta Hall Naylor, of the Naylor Company of San Antonio, publishers of the new book. Mrs. Naylor is a native of Winters and attended school here.

The display in the window of Spill Bros. Co. was judged first in the antique display, and Mrs. Poe presented Mrs. John Gardner, manager of the company, with a copy of her new book.

Following the program, Mrs. Poe held an autograph party in the office of the Winters Chamber of Commerce.

In the afternoon, programs and autograph parties were

Blizzards Won Second Game Of 1970 Season

The Blizzards were in the winning column for the second week in a row last Friday as they defeated the Merkel Badgers, 20-7.

After receiving the kickoff, the Badgers were successful in keeping the ball most of the first quarter. They made their only points during this period as back Tommy Anderson went over the goal for a TD. Their extra point try was good and gave them a 7-0 lead.

Winters' first score came in the second period after gaining ownership of the ball by covering a fumbled punt. Ronnie Wilson went over for the last 2 yards and 6 points. An attempt for 2 extra points failed.

An intercepted pass set up the second score as Blizzard Von Byrd grabbed a Badger pass and ran 65 yards to score. Wilson successfully picked up 2 points on the conversion run.

Returning the second half with a 14-7 lead, the Blizzards completed their scoring after Mickey Smith snared another Badger pass. Byrd went in from 8 yards out to score. As the kick for an extra point failed, the final score was 20-7.

The Blizzards face their third 7-AA foe this season as they meet the Anson Tigers at Blizzard Stadium Friday night at 8:00.

Blizzards Meet Anson Friday

After downing two old District 7-AA foes in as many outings, the Winters Blizzards, now in District 8-AA, meet another erstwhile conference mate Friday night when Anson comes to Blizzardland. Kickoff at 8 p. m.

This week's game will be the third and last non-conference game for the Blizzards before going into District play next week against Clyde.

The Blizzard lineup for the Anson game may be changed a bit from the previous two games. Mike Smith has been assigned to the tight end spot, and Billy Ray Grant to the split end position.

QB Ronnie Wilson is recovering from a slight injury, and it was not known at the first of the week if he would start Friday night. Steve Tatom is the probable starter at quarterback.

Coach Jerry Gibson said that after viewing the film of last week's Winters-Merkel game, he is pleased with his Blizzards' actions. Mistakes were made, and Merkel was "high" in their attempt to stop the Big Blue last week. Gibson said it pleased him the Blizzards were able to take Merkel without "a flashy effort." He was overly pleased with the defensive secondary, he indicated; pass interceptions made a big difference in the outcome.

Runnels County One Of Important Oil Producers, 96,449,100 Barrels Total

Texas oil fields have produced more than 32 million barrels of oil during the past 80 years of recorded production, according to the latest compilation of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Last year's production of 1,151,775,000 barrels produced an income of $3.6 billion for Texas which was distributed widely as 198 of the state's 254 counties produce oil.

Runnels County, which has had recorded production since 1927, has had a total crude oil output of 96,449,100 barrels up to the beginning of 1970. Runnels yards rushing in the Merkel game, bringing his total rushing yardage to 199 for two games.

Anson has a 1-1 record in pre-district play. The Tigers took Aspermont 24-0 in the opener, and then dropped their game last Friday night to Coleman 0-28.

The Tigers are a sound, well-coached squad. In their second game, they looked "ten times better" than they looked in their opener, according to observers. Some personnel changes probably will be made when they come to Winters. Anson is sporting four or five returning starters. They work pro-style on offense and defense.

The Blizzards will be keying toward an outstanding back, Sid Middlebrook, a returning senior on the Anson lineup. The Tigers' line is anchored by 6-1, 190-pound Center Randy Lepard, who has exhibited some real fine blocking in previous outings. Middle linebacker Charles Dalbert, who has sported well in two games, will draw some Blizzard attention Friday night, also.

Pat Vaughan With Company Making Rapid Transit Cars

Pat Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Vaughan of Winters, is employed by Rohr Corporation, manufacturers of special rail cars for San Francisco's Bay Area Rapid Transit System (BART).

Vaughan, a graduate of Winters High School, is an inspector for the company.

The rapid transit cars will be used to make up trains for the system, with from two to ten cars in each train. When the transit system goes into operation in the Bay Area, BART trains will run as often as every 90 seconds during peak traffic hours. Two prototype cars already have been built, according to Vaughan. New concepts of design have been used in the cars. Each will be supported on eight air cushion bellows which will provide a smooth ride even at top speeds. Foam-padded seats will be cantilevered, suspended from the cars' side walls without standard pedestal, to increase legroom.

The rapid transit system is the Bay Area's answer to congested highways, it has been noted.

Gregg County, the only county to produce more than two billion barrels of oil, remained the all-time champ with a cumulative production of 2,195,668,052 followed by Ector with 1,585,815,280, and Rusk with 1,437,128,523.

Council Sets Tax Rate For 1970, No Change From Previous Year

Winters City Council Monday night adopted a resolution setting the tax rate for 1970. Notices will be sent to property owners in the near future.

Tax rate was set at $1.50 per $100 at 50 percent valuation, City Secretary Buford Baldwin said. 94 cents of the $1.50 is earmarked for the general fund for operation and maintenance, with the remaining 56 cents for debt service.

There is no change in the tax rate over the previous year. This rate has been in effect for several years, it was pointed out. In 1969, 92 cents was earmarked for the general fund, with 58 cents for debt service. In other business, the Council officially employed a certified sewer operator, to meet requirements of the State Department of Health. Wilbur Waggoner, superintendent of the water department, was assigned the extra responsibility of a certified sewer operator. He recently completed a Department of Health sponsored special sewer operator's course in Abilene, and recently was certificated.

The Council also employed two custodians for the City Hall and the Community Center. Billy Randall Stevens, a high school student, was employed as custodian of the City Hall, and Arnold Wayne Norman, also a student in Winters High School, was hired as custodian of the Community Center.

The Council also authorized forwarding of final letters to property owners regarding purchase of additional footage which will be required in the project to widen Winters' Main Street (US 83).

Aoudad Sheep Permits Total 129 This Year

Wheeler — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will issue a total of 129 permits, four more than last year, to harvest aoudad or Barbary sheep in the four counties of the Palo Duro Canyon area of the Texas Panhandle, according to Area Wildlife Supervisor Jack Parsons.

Last year landowners had 125 permits for hunters in Armstrong, Randall, Briscoe and Floyd counties. Hunters from Texas and several other states stalked the wily animals in the rugged ravines and canyons, enduring foul weather and rough terrain to bring in 28 rams and eight ewes. In aoudad hunting the sheep always seem to have the odds in their favor.

The Palo Duro herd of about 600 animals is the result of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's stocking of 44 sheep in 1957.

Don't Quit Fishing When Fall Comes

Austin—Don't put away your fishing gear just because hunting time has arrived.

Some of the best fishing of the year may be just ahead, although thousands of Texas sportsmen will be lured away from fishing holes and into the fields in quest of quail, deer or dove.

Biologists point out that fish, like humans, seem to feel more energetic when fall brings cooler weather.

But while humans may feel invigorated by a bracing breeze against their cheeks, fish are spurred to this increased activity for another reason—hunger.

Fresh water fishes, including popular species such as bass and catfish, lose their appetites during periods in which the water is too cold or too warm. Their metabolism is affected greatly by water temperature, so the best fishing obviously occurs when the temperature is at a happy medium. This ideal temperature varies with each fish species.

Marion Toole, inland fisheries coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said there are several reasons why autumn is a good time to break out the fishing tackle for the "cooling off" months of October and November.

During the summer, Toole said, the temperature rises until it surpasses the ideal temperature range for the fishes' metabolism, and much of the cooler water in the depths is short of dissolved oxygen.

In addition, the young fry hatched earlier in the spring still are providing the larger fish with forage, and forage fish such as shad generally are in good supply. This reduces the chances a whopper bass will strike a fisherman's offerings.

With the advent of fall, however, the surviving fry which had been hatched in the spring have gotten large enough to effect some predation on their own. The shad and forage fish begin to be thinned out as the water cools and as the larger fishes' appetites improve.

Gold Sunfish Really Green

Austin—All that glitters is not gold—it's a green sunfish, at least at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Jasper Fish Hatchery.

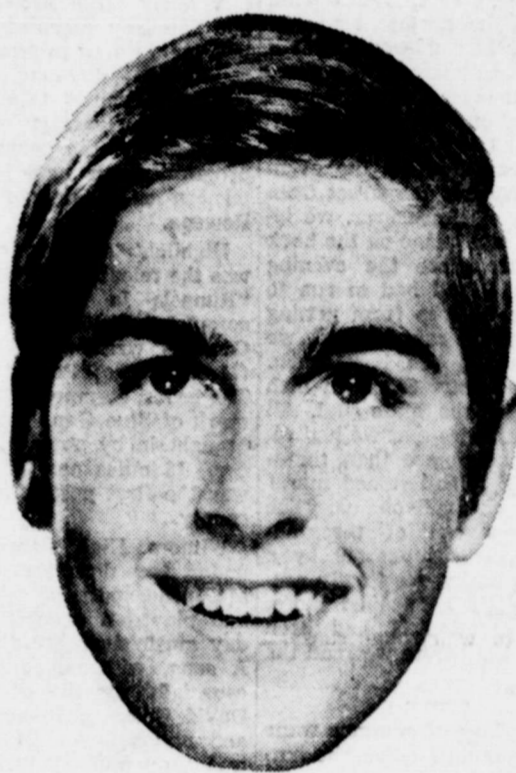

Hatchery Supt. George White decided to investigate when he noticed some flashing gold in the channel catfish ponds. What he found was later verified as green sunfish, placed in the ponds as feed for the catfish.

SEVERAL TIMES I HAVE HEARD

THE STATEMENT:

"Why Would Elliott Kemp Want the Office Of County Judge?"

Actually Elliott Kemp didn't seek the job, and backed away until people interested enough in better government and better communities, persuaded him that more lay people need to give some time to community governing bodies. We believe that competition in politics, as in business, is healthy and provides incentive to do a better job.

I believe Rannels County is one of the superior counties of Texas with some of the finest young people in the world who provide us with a wonderful potential.

If I can give any encouragement, any strength, or be instrumental in any way in making our county more livable, I am ready and willing to serve and will do my best to fill the office with energy it requires.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A news item in The Washington Post a few days ago reported that a New York woman ordered from a Dallas firm a guaranteed method of killing roaches. For her $2.98 she received two blocks of wood.

There is always a gyp of some kind and most of us at some time or other in our quest for a bargain have been a victim.

On the other hand, with the development of hundreds of thousands of new products, used daily by everyone, we often find that even in necessities we may not be getting our money's worth. Most communities have a Better Business Bureau, a Retail Merchants Association or some other self-policing organization to which the consumer may go with his complaints. But the retailer also has his problems since he largely deals with faraway suppliers. The retailer can be totally unaware of the deficiencies of a product he sells whether it be toothpaste or an automobile.

Numerous organizations have been in existence for years to protect the consumer—one of the oldest, the Consumer's Union. Another is the Consumer Federation of America. Reportedly some perform a very fine and needed service. There has now developed a great sentiment in the Federal Government and the Congress to enact consumer legislation and set up, within the White House itself, a Consumer Affairs Department. At present, Mrs. Virginia Knauer, Special Assistant to the President, heads an office of Consumer Affairs but who advocates the creation of a government agency to police all other regulatory agencies to see that they do the job in the interest of consumers.

It is a popular thing to be for the "consumer," as if we are not all consumers, but at the same time some of the strongest advocates of consumer protection legislation seem to have an attitude that Washington knows best and that the consumer is not qualified to exercise good judgment.

A bill voted out of committee and now awaiting a rule to bring it up for debate provides that a super consumer agency have power over all other regulatory bodies to determine if they are doing the job of protecting the consumer. The bill provides that the consumer agency may look into and make public all records, including income tax returns of any individual in the country. It is not clear what this has to do with protecting the consumer but, at the same time, it is a provision in the proposal.

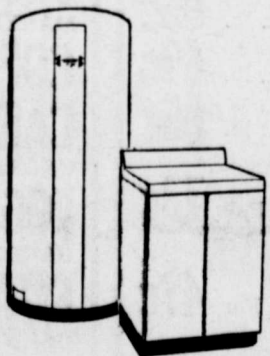

There are some 150-odd bills in the Congressional hopper relating to this subject, some of which suggest that the emphasis shift from protecting the purchaser of products to destroying his "exploiters."

The bill provides that under the new agency to be created, suits may be brought in Federal Court for groups of consumers referred to as "class action suits." At this point the courts would decide what is good and what is bad for the consumer.

An agency created to do this sort of job would obviously require an army of Federal employees to decide what complaints should be instituted in the Federal Courts. The advocates have not explained how it would be possible to keep current reported deficiencies. If a product were found to be less than represented, it could be taken off the market immediately. If the deficiency was corrected the next day, it could be months before another investigation would reveal the correction. Likewise an approved product could become deficient the next day.

In short, what appears an inexpensive sort of way to gain political favor with the consumer could become one of the most expensive agencies of the entire Federal Government and, as a matter of fact, under some of the proposals could virtually paralyze some segments of the business community.

STATE Capital NEWS

By VERN SANFORD

Austin, Tex.—State Republican and Democratic parties have put their appeals to Texas voters in writing—via the platforms drafted at their separate conventions last week.

Democrats, party veterans said repeatedly, "wrote the most progressive planks ever."

Republicans put the emphasis on attacking crime, campus disorders and drug use.

Highlights of the Democratic statement of party goals include:

"A far-reaching vocational-technical education program, repeal of annual voter registration requirements and substitution of 'registration by voting' every four years, opposition to a tax on groceries, a minimum foundation program for police with state standards of qualification and pay, state civil service, expansion of unemployment insurance benefits."

"Increase in workmen's compensation benefits, creation of a public utilities regulatory commission, establishment of an office of consumer protection, elimination of the $80 million a year welfare outlay ceiling, an increase in minimum wage, sweeping insurance reforms and creation of a state management research commission to promote governmental efficiency."

Republican platform highlights are:

"Legislation to end discrimination in state governmental employment and to insure equal pay for equal work, creation of single-member legislative districts, realistic technical and vocational courses commencing at junior high school level and offered in nearly all high schools, condemnation of forced busing of students to achieve racial balance;

"Opposition to a tax on groceries, later voter registration deadlines, inclusion of all insurance company income in calculating a u t o insurance rates, admission of oral confessions in trials, and life sentence without parole for murdering a policeman."

AFL-CIO "BACKS" DEMOS Following the conventions, Texas AFL-CIO leaders "urged" support by labor of all statewide candidates of the Democratic party in the general election.

Decision, AFL-CIO President U. S. (Hank) Brown explained, left union members free to do as they pleased, since there was no f o r m a l "endorsement" carrying monetary support or mandatory vote.

Big labor's hang-up was in the U. S. Senate race. Some union spokesmen were reluctant to back Democrat Lloyd Bentsen but were likewise unenthusiastic about Republican candidate George Bush.

Committee of Political Education (COPE) gave "special recognition" to Gov. Preston Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Agriculture Commissioner J. C. White and Land Commissioner nominee Bob Armstrong.

MIXED DRINK STUDY URGED Alcoholic Beverage Commission directed its staff to study liquor-by-the-drink laws before the mixed drink constitutional amendment is voted on November 3.

ABC officials expressed concern that the liquor-by-the-drink law, if approved by the voters and Legislature, be tightly enforced.

Meanwhile, "Texans for Enforceable Liquor Laws," sponsors of the liquor-by-the-drink amendment, announced a statewide publicity and advertising campaign to put over its amendment.

"Texans Who Care" organization will conduct an opposition campaign.

OIL ALLOWABLE UP Texas Railroad Commission bumped the state oil allowable for October to 87 per cent of potential.

This would be the highest since January, 1949. Increase was granted on the understanding of strict compliance with the order directing record allowable.

Order provides for no violation of the no-flare regulations, no gasoline plant processing casinghead gas to flare gas in October, and a curb on excessive brine production.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROGRAM CHANGED Texas Employment Commission has called attention to a new federal law which will result in the biggest single increase in worker coverage since the federal-state program began.

An estimated 400,000 Texas workers will be covered, and 100,000 more employers will be liable for unemployment insurance tax beginning Jan. 1, 1972.

Federal law provides for payment of extended unemployment insurance up to a maximum of 13 weeks in times of Juan Manuel Boquez of Sinton is new community action specialist in the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity technical aid branch.

Railroad Commission's hearing on Mobil Oil's request to raise most efficient rate in the East Texas oil field resumed after a delay caused by Hurricane Elma.

Mrs. Phyllis Burson of Corpus Christi, Richard O'Keefe of Houston and Dr. Glenn Sparks of Denton were named by Texas Library and Historical Commission to serve on Texas Library Systems Act advisory board.

Naomi Circle of WSCS Met With Mrs. Dobbins Naomi Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, First United Methodist Church, met in the home of Mrs. M. L. Dobbins Tuesday, September 22. The circle chairman, Mrs. Thad Traylor, presided, and Mrs. Elmo Mayhew gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Parramore read the scripture.

Title of the program was "How the Word Gets Around," with Mrs. Eva Kelly and Mrs. Dobbins having parts. Others present were Mrs. E. L. Marks and Mrs. H. O. Abbott.

AROUND THE 8-AA FOOTBALL LOOP

Having been associated conference-wise for so many years with the other AA teams in the near-Abilene area, the three teams in the western reaches of District 8-AA —Winters, Coleman and Ballinger—may feel they've been thrown into the ring with a bunch of strangers by the reshuffling of districts for this year, even though all three probably have played most of the other teams in the new district at some time in the past . . . some of those meetings may have been in the dim past, however. These three teams have been such natural opponents, however, because of proximity and common ground, they've become a sort of clique among themselves, whatever district they happen to be in and whatever opponents. They've been in separate districts at given times during the past few years, but the rivalry binds them together whatever happens in district assignments.

The three have so closely tied to the other AA teams surrounding Abilene for so long it is difficult to re-orient to the makeup of the new district. Opposing the same teams year after year, there is a tendency to know what to expect and to expect anything; the reshuffling has caused the emergence of an unknown factor, in many instances. So the teams, and in no less manner the fans, will be watching the progress of their new district mates with much interest.

Around the Loop, member teams have only started shaking out the kinks before total commitment to conference play. Each team has only two games under belt, and there is little way to judge position, except to compare action against common opponents. And only four 8-AA members have met common opponents. At this stage everybody better watch everybody! There may be a little more light shed on the subject after this week's games—the last "free" games for all members.

Going down the roster, four of the teams have two wins each, with no loss; three teams have split 1-1, and one has a 0-2 count thus far. In looking at some of the reports of these 16 games, final scores don't bear out game statistics. But that's the way the ball wobbles (just ask the New York Jets?).

Eastland leads the field in points scored, but Coleman is the only squad to hold opponents to zero crossings. Winters' line has been crossed only one time. Ballinger has the lowest number of points scored, with a 1-1 split ticket, lower than two-time loser Cisco. But this isn't a numbers game . . . who gets to ring the victory bell?

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

CROP PROSPECTS AT MIDSUMMER

By Babson's Reports, Inc. Wellesley Hills, Mass., Aug. 6. —Although dry weather has seriously disrupted planting and growing timetables across the South, crop prospects as a whole are generally good. Total land seeded to crops is up about 1 million acres from 1969 despite a 9 percent decline in acreage planted to food grains.

While weather vagaries make for differing situations in specific localities, prospects for "all crops" for the nation as a whole are rated about the same as a year ago. A record out-turn of corn is probable, topping grain output slated to trail 1969 by approximately 7 percent while feed grain production increases 4 percent—and with reasonably well balanced total supplies of livestock and poultry — supply demand ratios augur well for farm income as a whole.

WHEAT SITUATION

Our Babson-survey of the wheat outlook suggests that the official estimate of a total out-turn of 1,349 million bushels may prove to be a little on the low side. However, we agree that it will be substantially below 1968's record 1,576 million bushels.

Signs point to a record yield of 31 bushels per acre for all wheat. Noteworthy, too, is the fact that output of durum wheat — used principally in the making of macaroni and alimentary pastes — is slated at only 50 million bushels or about half the record production of last year. The wet spring which delayed planting of this wheat variety in the Red River valley — and cut out some intended acreage — points to higher macaroni prices this fall and winter.

CORN AND SOYBEANS

Chances are good for the biggest corn crop ever, but we're still a long way from the harvest and the possibility of damaging early autumn frost can't be lightly dismissed. The 4.8 billion-bushel crop projected looks a mite high to us; in any event the out-turn may not prove so large—versus demand — as some now fear.

Bulk of the factors suggest that actual soybean plantings have been smaller than USDA's estimate of 42.4 million acres, making it doubtful the out-turn will reach the 1.1 billion bushels forecast. This means that demand in the upcoming season will out-pace the harvest—possibly by a fairly wide margin if foreign crop prospects don't improve.

COTTON OUTLOOK

The 12.1 million acres of cotton reported in cultivation top 1969 plantings by 2 percent. Though small by standards of the early '60s, seedings are appreciably above the 1965-69 average of 10.7 million acres. Crop conditions are rated good in most important growing areas, but progress has been slow in some places because of heat and insufficient moisture.

There is more than normal interest in the size and quality of the 1970 cotton out-turn because of currently small market offerings of the white staple and expectation that the carryover into the season just begun will be the smallest in many years.

LIVESTOCK AND POULTRY

Cattle numbers in the U. S. appear to be in basically good balance with requirements. Cattle on feed are only slightly above year-ago levels, but we expect August-September marketings to show a good increase over June-July. On the whole, hog slaughter has been lagging year-earlier totals this past spring and early summer.

In recent weeks the trend has been up and output should be well sustained in the period ahead. Even so, there'll be no plethora.

Broiler output has been expanding and promises to be seasonally heavy over the near term, with total production topping 1969 levels by a substantial margin. Turkey marketings from now through year's end should rule higher than in '69, but storage stocks are abnormally small. Hence, extreme oversupply will be avoided.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

Daylight Ahead For Cement Stocks

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass. September, 1970. The faltering pace of the construction market and rising costs have put a severe pinch on cement makers' profits. Thus, lower sales and earnings are the rule rather than the exception. Reflecting the current profits squeeze and the limited chance of immediate improvement, a number of cement producers have reduced dividend payouts this year. For example, American Cement, Lehigh Portland Cement, Giant Portland Cement, and Ideal Basic Industries have all axed their quarterly payments to stockholders.

Profit Pinch

Working against the cement producers in their efforts to maintain a fair degree of profitability has been the sizable amount of excess productive capacity that was added during the 1950s and 1960s. With capacity well in excess of demand, the industry has been unable to realize worthwhile price increases which could help to offset the impact of recent substantial hikes in wage, fuel, and transportation costs. A high rate of earnings is possible if the industry operates at 85 per cent of capacity; operation at approximately 90 per cent would be a nearly ideal situation. Yet, since 1962 the cement manufacturers have operated, on average, at only about 77 per cent of capacity.

Better Supply-Demand Balance

On the bright side, however: The rate of new capacity additions has slowed, and indications are that over the next few years there will be only a reasonably modest scale of additions. On the demand side of the cement picture, the outlook for the next few years is generally encouraging. Current shipments of this key commodity show a 30 per cent increase over the 315 million barrels in 1960. Looking ahead, however, it is estimated that cement shipments will advance 46 per cent by 1980, to approximately 600 million barrels per year.

Markets For Cement

The housing market will, of course, play a significant role in the projected climb in cement shipments. In an average year, some 20 per cent—25 per cent of the total winds up in the housing market. This percentage is expected to grow as the trend toward concrete housing systems gains strength in order to meet the needs of low- and medium-income families.

Industry spokesmen also see more cement going into the high-rise structural market—schools, hospitals, office buildings—over the next couple of years. Airports are expected to play an outstanding role in the demand for cement during the 1970s. The Administration's Airport Trust Fund proposal calls for about $5 billion to be spent on construction or extension of airport aprons and taxiways over the next ten years. The program for federal aid to highway construction, although presently suffering from government anti-inflation restraints, will ultimately add to demands for cement in the years ahead. Growing pressures for mass transit will mean still another market. Exclusive bus lanes are being tested in some states, and cities attempting to induce use of buses by motorists will have to build fringe parking lots and the requisite facilities for them.

Depressed Stock Group

In view of the improved supply-demand relationship that appears to be approaching for the cement producers, it is certainly merely a matter of time before a more favorable price structure develops to stimulate the industry. Therefore, although the fortunes of the cement manufacturers as well as the group of stocks in this field seem close to low ebb at this time, a rebound is in the making.

As of now, the Research Staff of Babson's Reports advises investors to hang onto any cement stocks they may have for anticipated price betterment. For those who may wish to make new commitments in this industry, the Staff suggests purchase of the average-grade common stock of Medusa Portland Cement.

Back To First Principles

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass. In turbulent stock market periods, many investors tend to lose their perspective. As a result, deflated growth stocks and asset-laden mature or cyclical stocks are likely to be tossed overboard because of pessimism resulting from temporary paper losses, and good buys tend to be ignored. At such times, management of one's portfolio requires careful adherence to a sound investment program.

Choose Your Objective Wisely

The main function of portfolio management is to guide an investor toward a desired objective. A prerequisite, therefore, is selection of a goal best suited to the investor's personal situation. Choice must be predicated upon many factors, such as age, family circumstances, health, income, and personal temperament.

A person who is retired and must have some investment income to supplement social security, annuity and pension payments, should seek the highest current yield commensurate with the continuity of such income and the safety of investment capital. But for the investor whose earning power is still rising, emphasis should be on capital growth since the income is not needed for normal living requirements. With the aid of a sensible family budget, investors in this category can generate some new investment capital each year.

Follow Your Investment Policy Having selected one of the two forementioned goals — or one somewhere in between—make your investment commitments in line with your objective. It is always well, however, to remain flexible enough to contend with changes in business and financial conditions, and to weather unexpected domestic or international reverses. One aspect of this flexibility is maintenance of a backlog of investment reserves, including bank deposits and good-quality bonds. These can be used to make new commitments in depressed or undervalued securities, and they serve as a tranquilizer for jangled nerves in times of stress.

The balance of one's investment portfolio may be devoted to convertible securities and common stocks. This segment should be protected by diversification, as to industry and geographical region.

Current Investment Opportunity

With both the bond market and the stock market still not too far from their recent cyclical lows, the investor can advantageously implement his investment policy. The reserve sections of an investment account may still reap generous current investment returns—from high-quality bonds and preferred stocks.

And, despite the stockmarket's advance since late May, there are still many attractively priced convertible securities and common stocks of well-established and financially sound industry leaders. The frightful pummeling suffered by the glamor issues of the past bull market has also uncovered attractive buys for investors who can undertake the risk of possible further temporary slippage.

Buy Candidates

For the income-oriented, the Tennessee Valley Authority 8 3-4s of 1975, the Texaco 5 3-4s of 1997, and the Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 8 5-8s of 2006 are buys among bonds. Aluminum Company of America $3.75 Cumulative Preferred and General Motors $5 Cumulative Preferred are also suitable for safety and continuity of income, with a measure of capital appreciation potential when money rates ease further.

In the realm of convertible securities, the Florida Gas debentures 4 3-4s of 1987, the Ralston Purina debentures 4 7-8s of 1992, and the Tenneco Inc. $5.50 Convertible Preference stock are worth considering. Among common stocks, the Research Staff of Babson's Reports currently favors issues such as Standard Oil of Indiana and R. J. Reynolds Industries for income accounts. For capital appreciation and growth-oriented portfolios, Heublein, American Sterilizer, Morton-Norwich, Dresser Industries, and Rollins Inc. are attractive.

Worth seeing. Worth owning. Worth waiting for.

Vega. Not just another little car, but one little car that does everything well. You get more room, more weight and more power than most little cars give you, yet the gas mileage is right in the same neighborhood with the best of them. Vegas come dressed up, too, not stripped to the bone so you have to add a lot to make them liveable. Drive one. You'll see.

Caprice. There's a double layer of steel in the roof, a steel guard beam in each door, power disc brakes up front, a new power ventilation system inside, a wheelbase two and one-half inches longer. You get the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, but at Chevrolet prices. And that's the kind of change during these tight-money times that all of us can appreciate.

Vanishing tailgate. A big change in our big wagon. The window goes up into the roof, the Glide-Away tailgate vanishes beneath the floor. Out of sight. Out of your way for easy loading even in a closed garage or when you have a trailer hooked on.

See what we mean by putting you first? September 29 at your Chevrolet dealer's.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

NO QUESTIONS ASKED

Many a conscientious husband seeks peace of mind by buying life insurance to protect his family in case he dies.

But he may also have a nagging worry: will the insurance company really pay off when the time comes, or will it find some flaw making the policy null and void?

To cut this worry to a minimum, most policies now contain what is known as an "incontestable clause." Under this clause, after a stated period (usually two years), the insurance company can no longer raise technical objections about the validity of the policy. It must generally pay off "with no questions asked."

Suppose, for example, that a man applying for insurance fails to mention the fact that he has a drinking problem. And suppose, after his death, the insurance company finds out about it. Under the incontestable clause, the company could not raise this point to escape paying the insurance to the widow.

In fact, the incontestable clause applies in most states even if the applicant told a deliberate lie. Take this case: A man filling out an insurance application was asked if he was in good health. He said he was—even though he knew he had serious heart trouble.

After his death, the insurance company tried to cancel the policy on grounds of fraud. But a court ruled that, despite the fraud, the company would still have to pay off—because more than two years had gone by. As one judge explained:

"Even though dishonest people are given advantages under incontestable clauses, still the sense of security given to the great majority of honest policyholders makes it worth the cost."

But not even an incontestable clause will help if the fraud involves the very existence of the policy. Thus:

A man suffering from tuberculosis managed to get life insurance by sending a healthy friend to take the medical examination for him. After the man died, the insurance company found out about the trick and denied liability.

The widow tried to rely on the incontestable clause, but a court ruled that there had never been an insurance contract in the first place. The court said that on one basic fact, the identity of the insured person, there never was a "meeting of the minds."

COUNTY AGENT'S WEEKLY NOTES

TWIG GIRDLERS

Insects normally are not known as being particularly good parents to their offspring. However, female twig girdler beetles take great care to see that the young beetle larvae have a proper environment during their development.

The beetles are called twig girdlers because of the type of damage they do. The females laboriously make a notch-like incision through the bark and into the wood of twig after twig. She then deposits her eggs in small niches on the severed portions. The girdling is done so that the larvae that hatch from the eggs will have wood in a suitable condition of moisture and decay.

The adult beetles are 3-4th to 1 inch long and colored brown to grayish. Their most noticeable characteristic are the very long antennae that are longer than the beetle's body.

Although the beetles are only trying to make a proper home for their offspring, they do cause considerable damage to shade, fruit, and nut trees. The girdled twigs die and either hang on the tree or fall to the ground. In young trees, there may be appreciable injury. The hickory, pecan, oak, persimmon, poplar, and honey locust are among the trees attacked by the beetles. Pecan may be deformed and the nut crop reduced. In persimmon, the beetle wounds afford entrance for a deadly wilt fungus disease.

Girdling begins during late summer and the damage at this time may go unnoticed. Close inspection of wilted twigs is necessary to see whether they have been notched. In the fall, girdling damage becomes more apparent as the twigs begin to drop to the ground.

Chemical controls are effective when they are timed to coincide with the beetles' girdling and egg laying activities. Sprays containing malathion or carbaryl should be applied to the trees when the first girdled twigs are noticed. This is usually in late August or early September. Three applications at 2-week intervals are usually necessary.

Infestations may also be reduced by gathering and burning all severed twigs since the larvae remain in them until spring.

Fall Gardens:

It's not too early for home gardeners to get things in readiness for the fall compost pile. Compost, explains County Agent Parker is very valuable as a soil conditioner for it improves the water holding capacity of soil temperature at desirable levels.

A compost bed may be constructed out of scrap or rough lumber or with net wire. The enclosure should be large enough to hold the raw material needed to supply next year's compost needs, advises the county agent.

Tree leaves will soon be falling, cluttering up the lawn and flower beds and creating a disposal problem. You can improve environmental conditions by using them for compost. When placing leaves, healthy plant material from the flower or vegetable garden or grass clippings in the compost heap, Parker suggests you put down a layer of material then sprinkle it with a complete fertilizer before adding another layer. The fertilizer will add plant food to the mixture and will also speed up decomposition.

Since moisture is needed for the decomposition process, the heap should be sprinkled with water to keep it moist when rainfall is not sufficient to do the job. By next spring you can have the needed material for mulching the flower beds, the vegetable and home shrubbery.

Commission Will Set 1970-71 Season For Quail Hunting

Austin—The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission will act on proposed regulations for the '70-'71 quail season and set seasons and bag limits for hunts on wildlife management areas when it meets Tuesday, Sept. 29, in the old Supreme Court Room on the third floor of the State Capitol.

Most of the hunting seasons and bag limits for 1970-71 already have been set by the Commission, but a decision on the quail season was delayed so that late quail census figures could be studied.

Other items to appear on the agenda will be announced later.

HEIDENHEIMER'S

"RUNNELS IS MY COUNTY"

BY CHARLSIE POE

An authentic history of Runnels County and the people who built the county. Filled with known and little-known stories of the early days. Gathering material on the many facets of the development of the county, the author searched old records for historic fact; she talked with old-timers who remembered life as it used to be; she combed the county for an amazing collection of treasured photographs. And she presents it all within the covers of a single volume. Town by town, and community by community, Charlsie Poe reports in detail the county's marked progress in cultural, educational and religious endeavors — the introduction of civic improvements as time went on.

She looks back on a way of life that now seems quaint to this fast-paced generation. She tells of the tent shows and carnivals which drew country-wide audiences.

Collectors of Texana will welcome this book as a missing tile in the mosaic of county histories. The student of social history will find it an unimpeachable source of information.
